SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON QUESTIONS

Suggestive questions on the Sunday School Lesson for Sunday, October 6th. "David brings the Ark to Jerusalem" —II Samuel vi.

Verses 1-4—Which should always be the greater living issue to an intelligent people, education, legislation, business or religion?

If the people give the church of God and personal religion, the first place in their affections and practical plans, does that necessarily imply that no other interests will be neglected?

If a man is highly educated, successful and popular, but neglects the church of God, and personal religion; what does he gain, or lose, as a result?

Verse 5—Is it comely and is it profitable to worship God with the aid of a brass or string band?

What has been the result upon the moral and spiritual life of the community, of the band music of the Salvation Army?

Judging from actual experience, are our up-to-date and musically splendid choirs a help or a hindrance to making converts to Christianity?

Verses 6-7 — The Lord slew Uzzah after he put up his hand to steady the Ark; now in what did the sin of Uzzah consist to deserve a death penalty?

(This question must be answered in writing by the members of the Club. Consult a commentary or some well-informed clergyman, if not able to answer to your own satisfaction.)

When a man wants to improve upon God's method of running the world, and is afraid that everything is heading for destruction, what difference is there between his folly and that of Uzzah?

Verses 8-10 — Sometimes with one single act a man contracts an incurable disease, and it results in his death; is there anything in such a circumstance to make a wise onlooker angry with God?

Did David act with wisdom or otherwise in being displeased with God for his destruction of Uzzah?

When we see or hear of great natural calamities such as earthquakes, tornadoes, fires, etc., with great destruction of life and property, what should our attitude be toward God?

Verse 11 — Takes a town rich in its manufactures, in its general trade, in its shipping advantages, with no churches; and a similar town with churches added. Compare the two in all that goes to make life worth living, and state the results of your comparison.

Does God invariably bless the home and the community in which are to be found "the Ark of the Lord?"

Verses 12-16 — What is invariably the result of building a church, starting a Sunday School, or organizing a Bible Class where there are none?

Which is the better and more natural way to conduct public worship; with the old-time enthusiasm of shoutings, with bodily motions to match, or with our present sedate silence and outward imperturbability?

Verses 17-19 — Is God pleased with any public worship where the chief desire is for personal blessing, and with but little thought to help the poor and needy, and to save the lost shown by giving our money for that purpose?

Verses 20-23 — Did you ever know any person to have spiritual children, who made fun of or despised religious enthusiasm in others?

To Cure That Pain in the Back

Be warned in time. Don't neglect that biting backache—those sudden twinges of pain in the back—dizzy spells—and trouble with the bladder and urine. They all tell their own story—of weak, irritated or diseased kidneys. Surely you know the danger of neglecting the kidneys.

Diabetes, Dropsy and Bright's Disease usually follow neglected kidney trouble. That pain in the back proves that your kidneys are affected. Now—right now—is the time to take Gin Pills.

34 John St., Hamilton, May 4th.

Being a sufferer from my kidneys and subject to fits of dizziness in my head for some time, I did not seem able to get anything that would do me any good. I saw in the paper something relating to Gin Pills so I got a sample box and they benefited me so much that I bought some and am taking them regularly. They have worked wonders in my case and I can conscientiously recommend them to any sufferer from kidney trouble. Yours truly,

Sgd. GEO. A. BROWN.

Remember there is no trick in buying Gin Pills. If, after taking one box you do not feel that you have gotten your money's worth in better health, or if after taking 6 boxes you are not completely cured, take the empty boxes to your dealer and he will promptly refund the money. No affidavit is required. We will rely on your honesty and take your word for it.

Now—for your own peace and comfort, won't you give Gin Pills a chance to cure you? Sold by all druggists and medicine dealers at 50c. a box—6 for $2.50 or sent direct on receipt of price.

We give you a chance to test Gin Pills at our expense. Sample Box sent, free of charge, if you mention this paper.

THE ROAD TO A MAN'S HEART.

By JENNIE LEE.

Copyrighted, 1903, by Associated Literary Press.

Elisabeth Hardcastle Yorke of Richmond, Va., has moved to the exclusive town of Middleville. She was a widow of twenty-seven and was a descendant of the first families of Virginia, and never for a minute did she let you forget the deep blue of her blood, the devotion of her late lamented husband nor the amount of money she once had.

Middleville turned up its nose figuratively when she settled in its midst, while the inhabitants did the same thing literally. Elisabeth's manner was too imperious for their northern independence; she laughed too much for a widow bowed in grief, and the fact that her old colored mammy called her "Miss Lisbeth" made them almost doubt whether a Mr. Yorke had ever existed.

The only thing which could be said in her favor was that she attended church regularly and contributed liberally to all the festivals. Such was the tolerant situation when the Rev. Dr. Botcher called to make his parochial visit.

"I'm so glad you came to see me," Elisabeth was saying. "I always did love ministers. They're so old fashioned and queer."

The Rev. Dr. Botcher had been twirling his cane as an inspiration to starting an agreeable bit of conversation. At this speech he stopped twirling it and grasped its handle somewhat firmly.

"Really, do you?" was the sum total of his answer.

"Supper is just this minute ready, doctor," continued Elisabeth. "Lay down that foolish old cane and come in and have some of mammy's blueberry cakes. They'll just make you wish you never had to go home."

The man made some weak comment about not expecting to stay, but he was swept into the cool dining room and was eating cake and sipping iced tea before he could remonstrate.

"I really came to see about those flowers planted along the line of your lawn," began the doctor.

"Aren't they just too lovely?" chimed in Elisabeth. "My husband used to say I had a most artistic eye for color"—

"Yes, they are pretty; but, you see, they are planted on the lawn that belongs to Mrs. Murray—over your line, you see."

"Yes, I believe she has been saying something to that effect," said the charming widow. "But I thought it was awfully nice of me to fix up her place so prettily even if it was encroachment. Don't you?"

"Well, I hadn't looked at it that way," agreed her divine company. "But really I must be going home, as we have prayer meeting tonight."

Mrs. Yorke bade her visitor good night and urged him to drop in again any time he was hungry for cakes. Elisabeth was smiling to herself with something of satisfaction when she heard footsteps on her porch. She went to the open door and met Mr. Murray, husband, and evidently the much fresher half of Mrs. Murray, her next door neighbor.

"How perfectly lovely of you to call, Mr. Murray!" exclaimed Elisabeth as she extended her hand to add to her cordial welcome.

"Er—yes—that is, I came over about that row of dahlias you planted over there on our"—

"Oh, that's all right," interrupted Elisabeth. "You're quite welcome to them. You see, I have so many, and I want my neighbors to enjoy some of them. But, dear me, do sit down and I'll call mammy to give us something to eat." And she disappeared, to return in a few minutes.

At her heels came the dear old mammy laden with a tray of raspberry shrub and a huge cocoanut cake that looked like a ball of snow.

Mr. Murray found himself seated before an old hickory table in an armchair eating cake and drinking the shrub. "Finding himself" may seem an inadequate explanation of how he got there, but that is what he told Mrs. Murray on his return home.

Mrs. Murray was watching the couple from the corner of her own veranda, and when Mr. Murray returned smacking his lips and Mrs. Murray noticed a flake of cocoanut on his vest she called him to account for his fruitless call.

Saturday noon found Elisabeth digging among her flowers. Her sweet voice was humming "Way Down In Carolina," and as she flitted from one rosebush to another she looked almost like some white spirit among the gardens of earth. Her task was interrupted by mammy.

"Miss Lisbeth, de town mayor done call. Come right in, honey, and see what he want."

Elisabeth gathered up in her arms the roses she had been cutting for the house and walked around to the front of the cottage. The town mayor was good to look upon. The greatest compliment that Elisabeth could pay him was the silent comment she made to herself—that he did not look like the rest of Middleville.

"Is this Mrs. Yorke?" asked the man as she approached.

"It certainly is," acknowledged Elisabeth as she bowed before him. "And this is Mr.—Mayor—shall I call you?"

"My name is Waring," announced the mayor as he met the piercing gaze of the widow. "I come on a rather unpleasant errand. You see, I receive all the complaints of the townspeople, and Mrs. Murray, your neighbor, you know"—

"Isn't she a dear!" exclaimed Elisabeth. "Such a nice neighbor! But come along in to luncheon, for mammy's popovers will be spoiled if we stand here much longer."

Waring said he wasn't hungry.

"That's just the point," cried Elisabeth, with enthusiasm. "You will be if you come into the house the smell mammy's popovers, corn pudding and, best of all, ice cold mint juleps! Come right along and tell me your complaints at the table."

"But, Mrs. Yorke," interrupted Waring, "I couldn't think of imposing on a stranger in this way."

"Imposing!" echoed Elisabeth. "Lawdy me! If you knew how glad I am to have some one to eat with me!" She dropped into one chair at the table and motioned him to the other.

As a boy Waring had visited in the south and had never ceased talking about the corn pudding which even his mother could never make with any degree of success.

Mammy's corn pudding was the same kind as that which he had eaten in years gone by, and instead of the complaints of his townspeople the mayor told most interesting tales of his boyhood—how he had roamed from one state to another, how he loved the south and its people, how he had settled in Middleville and taken up polite farming to kill time and how the people had made him mayor.

Not until after luncheon, when the mayor and the widow were seated on the shady porch and Waring caught sight of Mrs. Murray leaning over the hedge of dahlias, did he remember why he was a guest of Mrs. Yorke. Believing in the eternal fitness of things, Waring realized that this was not the time to push his complaint, and he left after many hearty thanks and more complimentary speeches.

Sunday morning found the altar in the little church laden with dahlias—gorgeous red and white blossoms, hinging their heads in reverence to the text, taken from the twenty-third chapter of the Proverbs and the third verse, "Be not desirous of his dainties, seeing they are deceitful meat."

Waring attended church as part of the duties of his office, and this Monday he walked home with his hostess of yesterday. He wanted to leave her at the gate, but Elisabeth protested.

"Do come in as an act of charity. You see, I've not been well, and our old home doctor ordered me to some quiet country place to rest up. So mammy and I landed here. But, oh, I'm just nearly dead with lonesomeness, although I do feel the change has done me good. Come along and have a bit of our fried chicken, won't you?"

He came that day, and he came again.

The women of Middleville were still skeptical of Mrs. Yorke, but in mixed debates the men stood up for her, and some of the married men went so far as to say disagreeable things to their wives.

The mayor was seldom at his office, he was seldom found at home, and the day came when he must be seen at once. Mr. Murray knew where to find him and hurried down the street toward Mrs. Yorke's little cottage. Just at the gate he met the Rev. Dr. Botcher, about to make his second call on the new parishioner. Together they walked down the broad lane. They were not disappointed. The widow and the mayor were on the porch together.

"We were just talking about you," exclaimed Elisabeth as she greeted the minister.

"Just in time," called out Waring, and the newcomers noted the blush that overspread the already pink cheeks of Elisabeth.

Mr. Murray lost no time in telling Waring what he wanted.

"But you know I resigned my office last week. You see, I'm going on a long trip," announced Waring.

"Trip!" echoed Dr. Botcher. "Surely you're not starting on another one of those lonely globe trotting trips of yours, Jack?"

"This one won't be lonesome, 'cause I'm going to take a wife along to cheer me up. That's what we were talking about when you came along. How about a little wedding in the church, eh?"

They could not see the beaming face of Elisabeth, for her back was turned to them. She was busily engaged in spreading a white cloth over the hickory table in the corner of the porch, and mammy was making various trips back and forth in her own mysterious storehouse.

Origin of the Postal System.

The wonderful postal system, which has reached out until it includes every country on the face of the earth, had its beginning in the mind of an ingenious Frenchman.

In 1653, early in the reign of Louis XIV., M. de Velayer established a private penny post. Boxes were set up at the street corners for the reception of letters, and offices were opened in various quarters of Paris. Collections were made once a day from the street boxes, followed many hours later by a single delivery, and thus the first post-office in the world was established.

M. de Velayer was so greatly encouraged by the success of his enterprise that in order to develop it still further he printed certain forms of billets or notes which were intended to cover all the ordinary requirements of business in great towns. These forms contained blanks which were intended to be filled up by the pen with such special matter as might be necessary to complete the writer's object. The idea at once became popular, and the printed forms accompanied the expansion of the postal service throughout the larger cities of France, and it was many years before they fell into disuse.

She Drew the Line.

Seeking redress for domestic troubles, a negro woman who resembled nothing so much as she did the "before taking" half of an antifat remedy appeared at court.

"I's a wronged woman," she hissed in a give-me-back-dem-papers voice. "Ah want redress."

"What's the trouble?" inquired the sympathetic judge.

"It's 'bout mah ole man. He's done been cayin' on high wif a lot uv deese niggah gals, an' it's got so baad twill Ah don' see him more'n once a week. Somephin's got t' be done."

The judge's eye held a crafty gleam. "You are seeking a divorce—a legal separation?" he questioned.

"Go 'long, man! Divo'ce nothin'! Think I'm gwine t' gin him what he wants and 'low dat man who dispots all his compinin' in de handsomest nigsh in Kansas City t' go skyhootin' roun' 'mong dem gals? No, sah. Ah don' want no divo'ce nor dat legal septication you's talkin' 'bout. What Ah wants is an injunction!"—Kansas City Independent.

Mary Was Spoiled.

A doctor in one of the West Philadelphia gentlemen's homes tells the story of a woman who came to him one day in a most perturbed state of mind. She had taken home her daughter of five years the week previous, after a stay of a year in the home, and found she had an elephant on her hands. "Oh, sir," she said to the doctor, "whatever can I do with Mary? You have made her far too grand for her own home. Why, the first day she was back she refused to be dressed in the morning till she had a bath; then she would eat no breakfast whatever because she wanted fruit and some 'serious food' first, and, last of all, she put a saucer of water at her place at the table and she dips her fingers in that every few minutes. Sure, doctor, I don't know what I'll do," and the woman passed out, shaking her head as if the problem was certainly too much for her.—Philadelphia Record.

The Poor Member.

"Brother Lastly," said the spokesman, "I have an unpleasant duty to perform. There is a report that you have said that one of the best and most worthy members of our congregation is unable to attend service often on account of not having good enough clothes. We have come to ask the name of that member. We don't know of any such person, and a report of that kind is likely to reflect upon us as a congregation that does not look after its poor but worthy members. Will you tell me who it is?"

Playing Goethe Three Ways.

"I made a bad break today."

"How was that?"

"There is a Chicago woman visiting Julia Dean, and while I was there she insisted upon talking about Gerty. Pretty soon I asked her if Gerty was her daughter. You should have seen her flare up! And then I somehow found out she meant Goaty."

"Who?"

Our First Duel.

The first duel known to have taken place upon American soil occurred in 1630, when Edward Doty and Edward Leister, servants of a New England colonist named Hopkins, fought over some trifling matter with swords. Neither was seriously injured, but both were severely punished by the provincial authorities.

Malta is only seventeen miles in length and nine in breadth.

EXPENSIVE TEA.

The Famous Golden Tip and the Way It Is Obtained.

The tea looked like golden floss silk, like shredded golden satin, like the fluff of dandelions dyed gold. "And is this tea?" said the reporter.

"This," the tea merchant answered, "is the best tea in the world, and it is worth $90 or more a pound, for this, sir, is the famous Golden Tip. I'll tell you why it is so costly.

"Every chest of the best dollar and a half tea contains some handfuls of undeveloped leaves of small, gold tipped leaves called Flowery Pekoe. Sort out from a chest these leaves; wrap them, a handful at a time, in a square of satin; shake the satin lightly; empty the leaves back into the chest. Clinging to the satin remain a few golden shreds, a golden fluff, a golden light. You brush it off carefully into a jar. You cull more handfuls of undeveloped leaves from another chest, and, shaking them up in the satin, you are again rewarded with some more golden fluff.

"That is Golden Tip, and by the time you have obtained in this tedious manner a pound of it it is no wonder that the exquisite product is worth $90, or $100, is it?" He shook the tea about in its Satsuma jar. The fluffy golden stuff shimmered like satin. "Only emperors drink it," he said. "A cup costs more than a bottle of champagne."

CAPE COD.

A Nomadic Piece of Land That Is Constantly Changing.

Cape Cod itself is sand and, like everything of a desert nature, is nomadic. Like the Arab, it is always silently stealing away, so that the appearance of the peninsula constantly changes. The prevailing winds in the winter bring from the north, the sand is blown south; in summer it is blown t'other way. But, the winter winds being stronger, the land is gradually working south. Monomoy, at the lower end, used to be an island, its extremity being called Cape Malabar, a name not used now—why I cannot say. This island of Monomoy is rapidly growing toward Nantucket, it having advanced some five miles in the last fifty years. One of the Rubes told me that his father used to fish where the light is now. Of course you can always strain Rube talk and pick out about 50 per cent sediment, but the old charts show that the point is working south fast.—From "Knocking About Cape Cod," by T. F. Daly, in Outing Magazine.

Sarsaparilla.

"Did you ever stop to think where this delicious stuff comes from?" he asked.

"Sarsaparilla, isn't it?" they answered.

"Sarsaparilla nothing," said the druggist. "Sarsaparilla is made of sarsa roots, and sarsa roots come from the Amazonas swamps of Brazil.

"Fearful swamps they are—smelly black mud, mosquitoes in millions, snakes and crabs, heat, python, oreosis, fever. And here the natives gather for weeks at a time gathering sarsa roots for the sarsaparilla trade. The vine runs along the ground, the roots are located, and half of them are taken, the remaining half being carefully covered with soil again, so that they will sprout for next year.

"It is because sarsaparilla, like quinine, grows in fever soil that it is good for fever."

Progress.

"Yes," said Mrs. Malaprop, "my boy is doing first rate at school. I sent him to one o' them alimentary schools, and his teacher says he's doing fine. He's a first class sculler, they tell me, and is head of his class in gastronomy, knows his letters by sight and can spell like one o' these deformed spellers down to Washington."

"What's he going to be when he grows up?"

"He wants to be an undertaker, and I'm inclined to humor him, so I've told the confessor to pay special attention to the dead languages," said the proud mother.

Not a Flier.

"What bird is it," asked the school teacher, "that is found in Africa and, although it has wings, cannot fly?"

The class was unable to answer this very puzzling question. Thinking to encourage them, the inspector offered a sixpence to the little boy or girl who could tell him. After a brief hesitation a little girl of five years put up her hand.

"Well, my little dear," said the inspector, "what is it?"

"Please, sir, a dead un."—London Fun.

Alarming.

"Now, don't tell me any story about misfortune an' wantin' to be a hard worker an' all that," said the hard faced lady. "I can see right through you."

"Gracious!" said Dismal Dawson. "I know I ain't had nothin' to eat for three days, but I didn't know it had thinned me down like that."

Tender Touch.

A man who is rough and awkward at everything else will show a delicacy and skill greater than any woman's when he has to patch a ten dollar bill.

More Than Equal.

Lady—You look robust. Are you equal to the task of sawing wood? Tramp—Equal isn't the word, mum. I'm superior to it. Good mornin'!

"Hecla" Furnace

There are four grate bars in the "Hecla"

Each one can be shaken separately.

You don't have to shake the whole fire to get out the ashes around the edges of the firepot.

You don't shake down a lot of good coal with the ashes.

You don't have to use a poker at all.

The "Hecla" Triangular Bar Grate allows you to shake just the part of the fire where the ashes are, without disturbing the rest of the coals.

Naturally, one grate is easier to shake, than four all geared together. That is why people find the HECLA "no trouble to look after."

Our Greatest Year

In spite of industrial storms and financial depression, this Company has steadily marched forward.

Instead of losing ground, or even standing still, The Mutual Life of Canada wrote MORE business last year than in any other one year in the Company's history.

The total new insurance amounted to $7,081,402—a gain of $1,577,855 over 1906. And all but $78,000 of this was written right here in Canada.

The Mutual Life of Canada is the people's Company—conducted in the interests of its policy-holders who get all the profits.

A Boon to the Bilious

Are you compelled to deny yourself many wholesome foods because you think they make you bilious? Do you know that your condition is more to blame than the foods? Your liver and stomach need attention more than the diet. When you find yourself suffering with a bilious attack, take and all annoying symptoms will soon disappear. They settle the stomach, regulate the liver and exercise the bowels. Their good effects are felt immediately.

Beecham's Pills mingle with the contents of the stomach and make easy work of digestion. The nourishing properties of the food are then readily assimilated and the residue carried off without irritating the intestines or clogging the bowels.

Beecham's Pills should be taken whenever there is sick headache, furred tongue, constipation, sallow skin or any symptoms that indicate an inactive liver.

THE CHARACTERISTICS OF THE FAMOUS PARISIAN APACHES THE ORIGIN OF THEIR COGNOMEN

They Kill When They Feel Like It But do not Consider Themselves Assassins—Are Decidedly Vain.

SHOOT WITHOUT ANY NOTICE

The word "Apache" has been frequently occurring in the papers of late, and although the deeds of those young Paris hooligans are daily reported, their character and ways are little known abroad. The real Apache is seldom younger than fifteen and never older than twenty-one or twenty-two. Apache is a title among the ruffians who infest the "eccentric" districts of Paris.

The young man must be known for his courage, his fiendishness, and his ability in playing with the knife to be recognized as an Apache among his peers. Generally he has had some kind of education, but being wanted by his parents to assist them by working in some factory or trade, and being born lazy, immoral, and often vicious, he runs away from home and lives among the criminals by stealing and other shameful means.

His gymnastic abilities, his nimbleness, and the fact that he is most of the time warned by his comrades usually allow him to escape the police. Besides, he calls himself an artist and a hero. He is not a burglar, he is not an assassin, he will say; he kills when he feels like it, and generally out of conceit, to show the boys and his sweetheart or sweethearts what he can do.

For the same reason he will shoot in the middle of the day at a passerby, or smash a shop window with the bullet of the revolver which never leaves him.

Famous Nicknames.

Some of these Apaches have an extraordinary reputation among the dregs of the people from which they are recruited.

As soon as he has become unusually "heroic," treacherous, or revengeful, the Apache adopts a name, and his life henceforth is spent in trying to make that name more famous and more dreaded. "The Terror of Pantin," "The Panther of Montparnasse" have almost become classical names.

The Apaches form themselves into gangs, each gang obeying a chief and giving itself such characteristic titles as "The Redskins of Belleville," or "The Mohawks of Montrouge."

These gangs fight desperate battles among themselves, generally over some woman. Casualties, many of them fatal, of course, occur during these fights. One still remembers the famous case of the two chiefs Lecca and Manda, and the desperate street encounters they fought over the beautiful "Casque d'Or" (Golden Helmet), their red-haired sweetheart, until all were caught and sent to penal servitude.

The Apache lives in some secret den and gets up very late. He skulks most of the day in his out-of-the-way resorts, to appear only after dusk. He wears, generally, a cap on the side of his head. His hair is well kept, usually long, and made glossy by the use of cosmetics. In the pocket is his revolver, in another his surin—a clasp knife—a most dangerous weapon in his hands.

When he is on parade, or when he appears in a public square during the day on rare occasions, he wears most elegant yellow boots.

When he "works" he wears espadrilles, a kind of sandal made of white canvas with plaited rope soles, or indiarubber soles. He does not care how he is dressed (though he has often a good deal of money to spend) so long as he has neatly dressed hair, luxurious boots, and good cigarettes.

Apaches never smoke cigars or the pipe. They have a language of signs between themselves and have a particular way of walking noiselessly, with the balancing gait of a woman. Their greatest recreation is dancing. They dance well and for any length of time.

Prior to 1906 the Apaches were known as "Vauriens," or "No Goods." In that year, however, a French newspaper reporter walked into the Belleville police station to hear what had happened during the last twenty-four hours, and learnt that on the previous night, in the Faubourg du Temple, a man had been discovered by the police gagged and bound, with a woman's hat-pin pierced clean through his nose, while his face and neck had been outrageously tattooed.

The novelty of such a crime struck the reporter, who, having read the Red Indian stories of Mayne Reid and Gustave Aimand, exclaimed: "This must be the work of Apaches."

Flattery and Its Result.

"That is a good name," replied the police official. Next morning the reporter's account of the crime was published, with the heading "Crime Committed by the Apaches of Belleville." It was the first time the word had been used in connection with the hooligan class, and it became at once popular.

Soon the word was on every lip. The "Vauriens," flattered, unfortunately, at receiving so much attention began to live up to the reputation of the new name which had been given to them.

In December, 1886, a cafe on the Place du Palais Royal was broken into and robbed, and on one of the mirrors the thieves had traced with a piece of soap the words, "this has been done by the Apaches." During the whole of that winter outrages abounded.

In the course of six months no fewer than 370 highway robberies, night assaults, free fights with knives and revolvers, and murders were committed in the streets of those parts of Paris which are away from the central districts.

The police by persistent raid and continual arrests have succeeded in clearing the central districts, thanks to the efforts of the "Brigade Volante" or "flying brigade," a force of cycling policemen specially created to deal with the Apaches.

As a consequence they have now been driven to seek refuge in many of the suburbs immediately outside the walls of Paris, where the police organisation is much less efficient.

Unfortunately, if caught the young Apache at the outset runs little risk unless he has a previous conviction.

Regiment of Criminals.

He can generally produce a "certificate of employment" showing that he is earning his living somewhere or other, and the police, after arresting him for "loitering," have to stand by and watch the magistrate discharge him again.

Curiously enough, these young ruffians make excellent soldiers, for it has long been the custom in the French Army to send all the Apaches against whom one or more convictions have been recorded for robbery or stabbing, or street outrages, to the disciplinary battalions of riflemen in Africa when the time comes for them to undergo military service.

Here they are ruled with a rod of iron, but on the few occasions which these regiments of criminals have been under fire they have shown a dash and savage daring against the Arabs which has aroused the admiration of their foes.—R. de C. in London Daily Mail.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE BRITISH ASSOCIATION WAS GREAT SUCCESS

THREE NOTABLE LECTURES

Dublin, Oct. 3.—Special.—The British Association has closed its meeting here and it has been a great success. The attendance was large, there having been present of life, annual and associate members 2,207. The society is a splendid organised body and the arrangements over which the London executive, through its assistant secretary, Mr. A. Silva White, exercises a close supervision, have been well carried out. The supply of printing for the whole society and its eleven sections is large the preparation and accommodation for reading a vast body of papers need to be exact, and the seal and interest of the members is striking. At one of the meetings President Darwin read an amusing extract from a Dublin newspaper at the time of the first meeting in that city more than half a century ago, saying that "the meetings were an excellent amusement for the members—indeed quite a picnic." Anyone who visits a British Association meeting to-day will be convinced that it is a real—a most important thing.

Dublin.

This is the fourth meeting of the B. A. A. S. in Dublin, and much the most successful of the four. Dublin is a city of some 350,000—about three-fourths of whom are Roman Catholics and one-fourth Protestants. In politics it has probably five-sixths Nationalists and one-sixth Liberals or Unionists. It has, I believe, eight members in the imperial parliament, one of whom is a sort of Liberal. The minority, chiefly Unionist, is, however, remarkable influential. This cleavage you feel at every turn. One of the freaks of the Dublin council is seen in the placing of signs on the corners of the streets with the street names in Irish Gaelic and English below. The name British serves as an irritant to the Nationalist, which may perhaps account for the great sheet placard of "British Association" on the front of the Trinity college building being curtailed in the night so as to appear in the morning as "British Ass." The "National" plan to revive the decadent Irish language is at present persistent, and it is proposed in some quarters to make the Irish language a compulsory subject in the matriculation in the new Catholic university. The effort is, however, likely to be a fizzle. The British government has apparently for the meantime settled the university question. It was amusing at a public meeting of the British Association to hear the provost of Trinity College eulogizing Mr. Birrell for leaving Trinity College alone, and Mr. Magrath, the registrar of the new Catholic university singing Mr. Birrell's praises for the new foundation. Of course Lord Aberdeen, the lord lieutenant of Ireland, and Lady Aberdeen are very popular with all classes of the Dublin people. Notwithstanding all this, a conversation with a shrewd and determined Nationalist leads me to think that Nationalism will remain a very real and living issue. It made my heart burn one day to pass the spot in Phoenix park where Lord Cavendish and Secretary Burke were killed by Nationalist assassins while I was paying a former visit to Ireland in 1882.

Great Scientists.

Of course we missed at the meeting of the association the late Lord Kelvin and Lord Rosse, the deans of physics and astronomy, but Professor J. J. Thomson, who is the greatest living physicist since Kelvin died, remains and he is to be president at the meeting of next year in Winnipeg. The president in Dublin was Professor Francis Darwin. He is one of the four distinguished sons of the late Charles Darwin, who sleeps in Westminster Abbey.

Sir Oliver Lodge, Sir William Ramsey, and Professor Rutherford were present to give the results of the latest radium and atomic investigations. Sir Robert Ball, of Cambridge, Sir David Gill, the last president, and Professor H. H. Turner, of Oxford, the great representatives of astronomy, took an active part in their section.

In the other sections of geology, chemistry, geography and zoology such prominent men were present as Sir Archibald Geikie, Sir Charles Cameron, Professor Gregory, Professor Cole, of Trinity College, Dublin; Professor Herdman, Dr. Woodward, Professor Myers, of Liverpool Professor Woodward and Mr. Glazebrook.

The anthropological section, in which I had the privilege of reading a paper, is a very strong section with an especially brilliant band of professors and excavators who have done splendid work in Rome, Greece (Sparta and Thessaly), and Egypt. Among those present were Commendatore Boni, of Rome, the veteran Boyd Dawkins, of Manchester; Professor Ridgeway, of Cambridge; the celebrated Professor Sayce, Professor Elliot Smith, of Cairo; Dr. Mahaffy, of Dublin; D. Hogarth, of Chapel Meadow, Sussex, and C. T. Currelly, of Toronto and Egypt.

Three Notable Lectures.

Three very notable public lectures were given on separate evenings of the association meetings. These lectures were held in the capacious hall of the Royal university, which holds from 1,500 to 2,000 people. On the large ascending platform was the general committee a hundred strong. Sitting room was at a premium at all these lectures. The first lecture was given by Dr. Francis Darwin, the new president Being the son of his father his lecture was looked forward to with great interest. His subject was "The Movement of Plants." It was an ingenious argument for his father's doctrine of natural selection. It was really a contest between the Darwinian theory and Weismann's theory depending on the doctrine of heredity. Dr. Darwin brought forth his mnemonic Hypothesis, which was interesting, as having in germ in plant the basis of memory in the animal kingdom. The general opinion was that the intellectual skirmish between the Darwinian and Weissmann theories was a drawn battle.

The second lecture was by Prof. H. H. Turner, Savilian professor of astronomy at Oxford. His subject was "Halley's Comet," which after an absence of seventy-five years will, come to its greatest brilliancy, especially in the earth's southern hemisphere, in May, 1910. The fact that this comet appeared about the time of the fall of Jerusalem, A.D. 69, and again at the conquest of England by William the Conqueror in 1066, gave it a bad reputation among the superstitious people of those times. Its reappearance will, no doubt, give rise to much discussion and many speculations. The lecture was beautifully illustrated and would be very suitable for Winnipeg at the meeting next year.

The third lecture was a splendid discourse by Professor Davis, of Harvard university, on "The Grand Canyon" of the Colorado river in the southwestern United States. It was really a union of geography and geology. It was entirely worthy of Professor Davis' reputation as a scientist.

Science and Religion.

As a Sunday came in the middle of the meetings it was natural that the services in the various churches should have a colour of the British Association about them. A special sermon for the B.A.A.S., led me with my hosts to the St. Patrick's Episcopal Cathedral, where the brilliant Dean Bernard preached a most suitable sermon on the "Unity of Truth." He referred to the rapprochement of science and theology. Prejudice on both sides is fading away and that there is truth in both all must agree. The sermon was fair, conciliatory and well delivered. In the well known Rutland Square Presbyterian church a leading preacher gave a discourse on "Immortality," dealing with the remarkable trend that physical and biological science are giving to a continuity of being and a firm support to the doctrine of human immortality. A prominent Roman Catholic divine, Father Kronin, took up in a fine sermon, published in the "Irish Times" the relation of science and religion, and while in no way controverting the papal bull on "Modernism," yet gave his view in favour of true and progressive science. The various utterances of the day showed plainly a welcome spirit to the scientists and gave evidence of an "eirenicon," which would have been impossible twenty years ago.

The Various Sections.

Some sections of the association were more popular than others. The section on anthropology held its meetings in the large hall of the Royal College of Physicians, which was constantly crowded. Almost every paper was illustrated by limelight views, and this is a matter for which we must make full preparation in Winnipeg next year. Prof. Elliott Smith, of Cairo, gave a splendid and instructive lecture on "Mummification." Commendatore Boni's lecture on "Trajan's Pillar" was unexcelled. Two Cambridge explorers of Sparta and Thessaly gave excellent accounts of their excavations, which reminded us somewhat of our mounds and of the occurrence in them of nottery and other remains. The two departments of education and economics, including agriculture, were especially lively. The questions of education, landtenure, and statistics were interesting to the Irish people, and both parties were well represented. From all accounts there were ample opportunities for the metaphorical use of the shillolagh and an invitation to "tread on the tail of my coat." This pleasing feature of Irish life was every day brought to my mind in my journey from Trinity College, where the meetings were held, to the house of my host, Sir Andrew Reed, by my having to use the "Donnybrook" tram cars. In all the sections—eleven in number, with the extra sub-section of agriculture—taken together, an enormous number of papers were read and the testimony was universal to the value of the subjects discussed, and to the ability and scholarship of the authors.

Hospitality.

Dublin is proverbial for its hospitality. As one speaker said at the closing meeting, "so much was hospitality delighted in by Dublin people that it had almost now become a species of refined selfishness among them." I trust this good example will be emulated by the people of Winnipeg next year. The entertainments were in a number of cases really magnificent. The Lord Mayor of Dublin led off with a reception, and as he is, of course, a nationalist his welcome was well taken by us all. Lord Iveagh—head of the well-known Guinness family—entertained several hundreds of the scientists in his town house, which is a veritable palace in its furniture, pictures, gold plate and articles of vertu. His brother, Lord Ardilaun, took the whole association to his beautiful seat, four miles out of Dublin on the Clontarf road, and his two magnificent gardens, with the additional Alpine garden made the botanists feel in clover. The evening entertainment of the "Dublin society" in the great building formerly the residence of the Earl of Leinster, and the museum, was the greatest jam of the meeting, though otherwise very enjoyable. The afternoon gathering of the association held in the Zoo was interesting and well attended, the chief centre of visit being the monkey house frequented by the ardent Darwinians. The culmination of all entertainments, however, was reached in the garden party of the lord lieutenant. In the winter the lord lieutenant lives in Dublin castle in the city, but in the summer in the fine residence in Phoenix park. The grounds and buildings are spacious and to please Ireland—whose gentry and nobility are the proudest in Europe—the greatest state must be maintained. The splendid Irish constabulary were every where in evidence, the bands were the best and for fully two hours Lord and Lady Aberdeen received scientists and Dublinites galore.

The British Association is looking forwafd with much interest to the meeting in Winnipeg. Our Winnipeg deputation had a very kind reception. I had the opportunity in the general committee of moving the final resolution that the next meeting be held in Winnipeg, from Aug. 25 to Sept. 2, 1909, and of addressing the committee on transportation arrangements for the journey from Liverpool to Winnipeg and return, and for the excursion beyond Winnipeg. It is unfortunate that on account of an agreement between all American and Canadian steamship lines there can be no reduction of rates across the Atlantic below the minimum published rates; but the Canadian lines are prepared to make arrangements for giving good berths at the minimum rate. It is important that members make arrangements for the transatlantic journey three months before the time of the meeting in August. The announcement of an excursion on the Canadian Pacific railway of 200 selected members, from Winnipeg to Victoria and return via Edmonton and the Canadian Northern railway, was received with much applause. It is regarded as a generous action on the part of the three western provinces of Saskatchewan, Alberta, British Columbia and their chief cities. The interest shown by the British Association in our meeting has been greater than I anticipated. The enquiries made by members would lead me to think that our estimate of 400 coming from Britain may be considerably exceeded.

As to arrangements for premises for holding the meetings of the association in Winnipeg, I think we shall have no difficulty in doing as well, if not better than Dublin. The recent origin of our city, and the opportunities for reunions of old friends—for nearly every one I meet in Great Britain and Ireland has friends in the Canadian west—will make our meeting notable. It is not unlikely also that a considerable number of members of the American Association for the Advancement of Science may visit us and add interest. In regard to entertainments and hospitality, I am not sure that we can equal Dublin. Papers in my possession show exactly the numbers of those entertained by the Dublin people. We shall have to exert ourselves to the fullest.

The Benefits.

After being present at the meeting of the association I am more convinced than ever that we did a wise thing in inviting the B. A. A. S. to come to Canada. It is a large undertaking, but the benefits will be great. Canada is holding a high place in the eyes of the British people just now. I was present a few weeks ago at the Franco-British exhibition in London, and the crowds visiting the Canadian building and their viewing our remarkable showing there was a constant testimony to the public interest in the premier colony of the empire. I found the same interest in the smaller but yet attractive exhibition of Edinburgh. I met a number of Oxford professors and residents, and heard of the interest created in Canada by the presence there of our fine band of Rhodes scholars. Sir James Murray, the learned author of the great new English dictionary, and Lady Murray were both well acquainted with our little band of Manitobans taken to Oxford by the Rhodes foundation. The coming to Canada of the British Association in 1909 will further emphasize this interest. The men coming are of high standing in Britain. More than a score of those present at the association meeting had received knighthood as the recognition of their attainments. Such visitors will understand our conditions, and will return from Canada to Britain to give accurate information to manufacturers, investors, legislators, government officials in Britain, and to the various large classes of proprietors, tenant farmers and general settlers who can at present find no place in the world so attractive to them as western Canada.

THE GOLDEN DAYS OF THE KLONDIKE OF THE FUTURE

Vancouver, Oct. 3.—Special.—"The gold production of the Canadian Yukon this season will be larger than for many years past. The figures will really prove surprising although it is too early to make an estimate. Owing to the new method of hydraulic mining by the utilization of electric lifts adopted by the Guggenheims the big clean-up will not take place until a few days before operations are suspended this fall. The metal is caught in huge sumps or excavations. This is exclusive of the dredging work also being carried out by the same people," said Mr. E. M. Stockton of the auditor-general's department, Ottawa, who has just returned from Dawson, where he spent four months auditing the books in the various departments.

"For the first time in the history of the country the dredges will be busy until the ice arrives late in October. These operations will greatly increase the gold production. Individual claim-owners have also had a busy season, resulting in prosperous times throughout the district.

"The big ditch of the Guggenheim company is nearing completion. It gave employment all season to an army of over two thousand men. These big camps are being gradually laid off and the rush to the outside for the winter will soon set in. From Tombstone Creek, a tributary of Twelve-mile river, the water is to be carried through a ditch, pipe and flume a distance of seventy miles to the head of Trail Gulch, at a sufficient elevation to command all the workable gravels of Bonanza basin. At the mouth of Twelve-mile the ditch has an elevation eight hundred feet above the bed of the river. It is here carried across the Little Twelve-by means of a steel syphon 7,500 feet in length and dropped into the power flume of Little Twelve-mile above the point where the water is taken from the flume to operate the power plant.

"Of the 70 miles that this water is carried, only about forty miles is by ditch, the balance being by flume and pipe.

"The greatest depression is at the Klondike river. The water is delivered at the top of Thomas Dome, 1,100 feet above the bed of the stream, so that the pipe will be subjected to a head of 1,100 feet, or a lateral pressure of 500 pounds to the square inch. The total length of this syphon is 12,000 feet and its weight 1,700 tons. This huge syphon is carried across the Klondike river on a steel bridge erected on concrete piers. Over the lesser depressions the water is carried through California redwood pipes of the same dimensions. In places the ditch is fifteen feet wide at the bottom, with sloping sides. Before commencing operations it was necessary to strip the surface of the right-of-way for a width of forty feet, in order that the ground might thaw out. When this plant goes into commission next year the phenomenal gold production of the early days will be enormously surpassed."

Mr. Stockton added that many valuable discoveries of quartz have been made this summer, giving promise that lode mining will soon be an important industry. He heard reports that the Ogilvie dredge on Stewart river, although in operation only a month, had surpassed all expectations. Indeed the management purpose building a dozen dredges to be ready for next year's work.

Little work is in progress in the White Horse Copper district owing to the low price of copper. The White Pass & Yukon railway suspended operations on the new branch line to the mines because the mineowners, it is said, declined to guarantee a certain monthly tonnage.

General Condition Of Crops In Ontario And Manitoba

What is Recorded in Census and Statistics Monthly—August a Poor Month For Growth

LITTLE DAMAGE BY FROST

The Census and Statistics Monthly for August gives the following report of the Ontario and Manitoba crops:

Ontario

All crops are reported as being lower in condition than they were a month ago. Taking the province as a whole wheat is expected to yield about the same as last year. In Eastern Ontario this crop is reported as poor, and worse than last year; but it was well harvested. In the central counties fall wheat is good, but spring wheat is poor. In the northwestern and southwestern divisions the wheat crop is good on the whole. The harvesting season, however, was a wet one, especially in the southwest, and damage was caused by sprouting. A correspondent in the northwest division states that a larger acreage of fall wheat is being sown every year and that many are going back to summer fallowing. The reports as to oats are variable. Some of the early sown crops are turning out well, but a great deal of rust is reported, especially amongst late sown oats. Rain storms during harvest caused considerable damage, and early harvested grain which escaped these rains will yield much better than later cut crops. On the whole the estimated yield of oats, viz. 35 bushels per acre, is better than last year's actual result of 33 1-2 bushels per acre. There are some good barley crops in Eastern and Western Ontario. In the central counties the straw is short and the sample light and poor. At Frontenac farmer reports that the prospect of a good yield of cereals in his district is immense. He estimates the yield of spring wheat at 25, oat oats at 75 and of rye at 40 bushels per acre, and states that he has just threshed 70 bushels per acre of oats and 40 bushels per acre of rye. Corn for husking is poor in Eastern and Central Ontario, the weather having been too dry; in the western counties it is reported as exceptionally good. Fodder corn is good everywhere. Buckwheat, especially in central and southwestern Ontario, looks well and promises good crops, provided they escape injury from frost. There have been too much heat and drouth for this crop on Eastern Ontario. Roots on the whole promise well, but in many parts rain is badly needed. Potatoes are poor and will yield under the average, and even worse than last year. There are however, indications that some crops of late varieties will not turn out so badly, having benefitted from the recent rains. The best crops are reported from the northwestern counties. Mixed grains are turning out well, except, perhaps, in Northern Ontario. They are especially good in the southwest division. All kinds of live stock show practically the same standard of condition as at the end of July. Horses are in good condition, except in Eastern Ontario where they are poor and thin owing to dry pastures. Milch cattle very a good deal, the western counties showing best. The rains in the southwest have restored the pastures and the flow of milk has improved in consequence. Grazing cattle have done well considering the dry weather. In some districts they are reported as poor and thin. In the Northwest counties complaint is made that young cattle have not fattened as well as usual. Sheep are hardly up to the average, the heat and flies having affected them. In Eastern Ontario lambs are reported as fetching good prices. Swine in some parts have suffered from scarcity of grain and green food. Their numbers have decreased. The pastures, except in Eastern Ontario, where the drouth appears to have had the most effect, are reported as good, and rains in the southwest have been very beneficial. In some localities pastures have become very dry.

Manitoba

The general condition of the principal cereals have not greatly changed from what it was a month ago. In most districts wheat is all or nearly all cut, and in some places threshing has begun. Very little damage from frost is reported, the worst cases being in Marquette. Two degrees of frost were noted in Dauphin as early as August 18. The highest average yields of wheat are in the districts of Brandon, Dauphin and Souris. Oats are late, and a good deal of this grain has still to be cut. In parts of the province late rains have helped the crops, whilst tending to retard ripening. The straw is mostly short, and some amount of rust has appeared. The highest estimates of yield are reported from Brandon and Souris. Barley is variable as to yield, the extremes of very good and very poor being represented by the estimates; but on the whole the quality of the grain is good. Rye, where grown, has turned out well. Early potatoes are of good size and quality, but the tubers are not very numerous. Some of the late potatoes have had their tops frosted, and there are crops which may not repay the cost of digging. Good crops of hay have been harvested in excellent condition. Pasture has been very dry, but in many districts rains have improved their appearance during the past month. Horses are generally in good condition and have come well through the work of harvest. Cattle, including milch cows, have done well, and flies have not been over-troublesome. The few sheep kept are reported as in good condition. Wolves and coyotes are numerous. The movement in the direction of unloading swine is reported as continuing.

SOME YANKEE FIRMS SELL STOCK

By False Pretences in Canada—Especially in the Nursery Business

IT SHOULD BE PREVENTED

From The Canadian Dairyman.

The practice of some United States nursery firms operating in Canada and trying to sell stock by false representation is becoming altogether too common. References to schemes of this kind have appeared in these columns many times. Recently the attention of The Canadian Dairyman and Farming World was drawn to a troop of agents operating around Aylmer and St. Thomas, Ontario, who claim to be connected with a Michigan firm, which we fail to trace in the National Nurseryman's Directory. They are offering all kinds of absurd inducements, which include a four-year guarantee and a verbal agreement to trim the trees every year for four years. They are approaching farmers with bottles of prepared fruit, and also a bunch of root-grafts, which they use to demonstrate the inferior practices of the Canadian nurserymen. If they drop across a farmer who knows nothing about root grafting, (and there are many of them) they try to convince him, that they have a method in Michigan, of grafting apple trees and other stock, that is known only to themselves, and which cannot fail to result in strong thrifty trees, which will grow ahead of any stock, propagated under Canadian systems.

Canadian nurserymen, who propagate their apple trees by grafting, use exactly the same methods as these Yankee people, only perhaps it is done a little bit better. It may not be amiss to point out to our readers, who do not know, the method followed by Canadian concerns. The strongest of the young stocks, that have either been grown at home or imported, are kept in cool cellars during the winter, until about the beginning of January, when the grafting takes place in these cool cellars. Whip or tongue-grafting is the method usually employed. The only advantage one nurseryman may have over another is;—that he uses a whole root for his graft, and discards the first and second cuts. By the first and second cuts, we mean, long tap or finger roots, that are cut from the stock, when the grafter is trimming his roots, and these same roots that are cut off are sometimes used by nurseryman and sometimes discarded. There is but little advantage in using the whole root, and this is no reason why the strong root trimmings should not be used, if they are thrifty enough to take a scion. Our leading nurserymen make a practice of grafting entirely on the whole root.

It is plain to anyone who knows the first thing about grafting, that the United States agents referred to are inventing some new scheme, to gull the poor farmers again, and we take the opportunity of warning our readers against them and their methods.

PETERBOROUGH SATURDAY OCTOBER 3 1908

4,000 PEOPLE IN ATTENDANCE AT MILLBROOK CENTRAL EXHIBITION YESTERDAY AND EVENT WAS GREAT SUCCESS; PETERBORO HORSES CLEANED UP THE SPEEDING CONTESTS

Many Peterboro People Took in the Fair and Had a Good Time —Entries Were Well in Advance of Last Year

SOME SPLENDID HORSES

Ideal October weather was what the weather man had provided for the Millbrook Central Exhibition held yesterday afternoon and that was all that was needed to give the event its usual great success. They seem to have a happy faculty in Millbrook in striking upon good weather and in providing an attractive performance with the result that the fair is most popular with the people of the district. Yesterday was no exception to the rule in point of attendance. The good farmers of Cavan, South Monaghan, Hope Manvers and Emily, were on hand in large numbers and in every variety of vehicle while the G. T. R. carried many more. The noon train brought a big crowd which included some 300 Peterborough people and a large representation from Lindsay, while dozens came from Port Hope and other Eastern points. It is conservatively estimated that there were some 4,000 people on the grounds in the afternoon, slightly behind last year's figure but a big crowd nevertheless.

The weather conditions were perfect. It was bright and sunny, and while a cold wind blew across the grounds from the northwest it did not seem to have any effect upon the crowd who were out for a good time and had no difficulty in attaining their object.

In point of entries the exhibition was far in advance of last year. This was especially true of horses in which the showing made was a grand one. There were so many entries and the horses were of such a uniform degree of quality that the judges had their work cut out for them in making their awards. Nowhere is there such interest taken in the judging as at Millbrook and the judging ring was surrounded by hundreds of people during the afternoon. In the main building there was a grand display of flowers, one of the finest shown in the district according to Mr. Jordan, of Peterborough, who acted as judge in this line. The ladies' work display in the main building was also above the average and the housewives found that department of special interest.

One of the chief features of the Millbrook Exhibition is the horse racing and yesterday was no exception to the rule. The directors have realized that nothing pleases a crowd so much as good races and accordingly they have adopted a policy of giving big purses and cutting the race down to fast classes. There was no green race or .50 trot for the Millbrook people and on the other hand yesterday's card called for the 2:19 class and the free-for-all. The result was two grand races and the crowd thoroughly enjoyed the sport.

The 2:19 class brought together Patterson, owned by Jas. A. Storey, Peterborough; Muriel Wilkes, French, Colborne; Holland Boy, Dr. J. Leach, Peterborough, and Lou Keswick, A. J. Ashmore, Lindsay.

Mr. Storey's speedy horse, Patterson, which is rapidly coming to the front, repeated its feat done at the Lakefield Fair and cleaned up the event after a fine race. Patterson had a little too much speed for his field, although the little Colborne mare pressed him hard all the way and the finishes were close.

The first heat was especially close, Patterson winning out by a nose in the stretch. While not so close in the other heats, yet there was always excitement. Patterson was teamed by Eddie Janes, of Peterborough. Following was the summary:

2:19 Class.

Patterson, J. A. Storey, Peterborough,	1	1	1
Muriel Wilkes, French, Colborne,	2	2	2
Lou Keswick, A. J. Ashmore, Lindsay,	4	3	3
Holland Boy, Dr. Leach, Peterborough,	3	4	4

Time 2:28, 2:31, 2:29.

There were four entries in the free-for-all. Harry Direct, owned by J. J. Cottingham, Peterborough, and driven by "Doc" Gibson, Queen's Baron, Dr. Johnston, Peterborough; White Broncho, Bowen, Orono, and Idolf, Ira Nattrass, Millbrook. Harry Direct won the event after a splendid race in which all the horses were contenders at one stage or another. In the first heat Harry Direct and Queen's Baron had a great race, the horse winning in a driving finish by a head. The second was equally close, White Broncho, a big raw-boned trotter, made things interesting. He led for two laps but on the third Harry Direct went to the front and won handily. The third heat was the source of much excitement. For the first lap the race was between Harry Direct and Broncho. Then Idolf which had been breaking badly in the previous heats went to the front and made things interesting until the stretch when Harry came strong and won out.

The judges, however, decided that the driver of Harry Direct had interfered with Idolf on the stretch and although the owner of the latter made no complaint Harry was set back to fourth place and the others moved up one, making another heat necessary. This was won by Harry Direct with-

MEETING AT ZION

To Discuss the Independent Telephone System For That Section of Otonabee---Committee Was Appointed to Work

SUBSCRIBERS WANTED TO UNDERTAKE PRELIMINARY

Last night a very interesting meeting was held at Zion, Foresters' Hall, Otonabee, with a view to establishing an independent telephone line. Representative citizens of the community were present. Rev. Dr. Langfeldt was in the chair and introduced to the audience Mr. F. W. Doan and Mr. Hill, of the Bell Telephone Company. After the case had been ably presented by Mr. Hill and a committee was formed to take immediate steps to secure stockholders and subscribers. The committee consists of Messrs. Joshua Smithson, Walter Dixon, Thos. Graystock, Robt. Scully, and Roland Jackson. This committee is to undertake the necessary preliminaries and is to call a meeting as soon as the subscribers and capital are to be depended upon.

A SCARCITY OF WINTER APPLES BUT THE EARLY VARIETIES ARE PLENTIFUL

Apples are not as scarce as was predicted some time ago. All through the country there is a heavy crop of fall apples. The winter varieties are found in very small numbers and the supply for the long cold months will be a small one. The apples that are now quite plentiful are the St. Lawrence, Wealthy, Bell Flower, Tallman Sweet and others which are bearing the trees to the ground so heavily laden are they. Mr. Joe Duffus, who has been recently through the township of Smith, states that the orchards are rich in fruit. This township at least is well off in its supply of apples and through the other parts of the country the same report is spread.

AUTO SERVICE BETWEEN LAKEFIELD AND PETERBORO IS VERY POPULAR

A daily automobile service between Peterborough and Lakefield has been opened by Mr. Fred Darcy, of the latter place, and from all reports it is being well patronized. The auto leaves Lakefield at 7 a.m. and returning leaves this city at 4 p.m., starting from the post office at each terminal. While the service is much appreciated the suggestion has been made by some Lakefield people that it should not make the return trip until after the trains from Port Hope and Montreal arrived in the city. This would give the people of Lakefield an opportunity of going to Toronto in the morning and returning home the same day.

WORK ON THE FARM FOR MEN BUT NONE MAKE APPLICATION

It seems strange but it is nevertheless a fact that there are many applications at the local immigration office but there are no men to fill them. The farmers want men who can plough or who are willing to do the other work around the farm. The busy season is at its height and men are badly wanted in some instances, but there are few men now around the towns who care to go on the farms.

THE MARKET CEMENT WALK LAID WITH UNUSUAL DESPATCH

The cement walk around the market was thrown open to the public this morning after being rushed to completion by Mr. John Thirnbeck's gang of men who began the work just a week ago. It is 13 feet wide and is slightly rounded on the surface to drain the water. The men now go to George street where they will work on the east side below King street.

MR. J. DORIS WINNER

LANDED THE FISH AT CAMPBELLTOWN

Wednesday, September 30, was the last day upon which entries in the Examiner big-'lunge contest could be made. The competition has been a most successful one in every respect and has served the purpose for which it was intended—it has produced a keener interest in the grand old sport of "trawling."

Many entries have been made in the competition which has shown that the younger generation do not have the same fascination or perhaps patience in fishing, common to the men of more advanced years.

The winner of the trawling outfit is Mr. John Doris, of Otonabee, a man who has in years passed the three score and ten mark. He is nevertheless agile and hearty considering his age and he enjoys fishing purely for the sport of it. The 'lunge he captured was taken from the Otonabee River, near Campbelltown and it weighed 26 pounds. His vouchers were Messrs. J. J. Howden, Donald Cameron and Chas. James, all of whom were on the spot soon after Mr. Doris landed the lucky prize.

Mr. Doris may therefore be styled the champion fisherman of the county for 1908, and he is entitled to the Examiner prize which is awaiting him at Bank's sporting goods store and which he may receive by calling at the Examiner office and getting the necessary order.

Mr. J. S. Coon of Peterborough was second in the contest with a 'lunge that weighed 24¼ pounds which was also caught in the Otonabee River. The third largest fish in the contest weighed 19 lbs. 4 ounces. It was caught by Mr. Wm. Hamilton, near Gilchrist Bay, Stoney Lake.

A DEPUTATION FROM LINDSAY TO VISIT THE CITY OF THE DEAD

Yesterday a deputation from the Cemetery Board of the Lindsay Cemetery was in the city, and with Mr. Frank Wise, the superintendent of the Little Lake Cemetery, they inspected the vault with a view to obtaining suggestions for the erection of one in the Lindsay cemetery. The deputation consisted of Messrs. Wm. Flavelle, Gregory, who was accompanied by Contractor Coombes. In addition to obtaining the required information from Mr. Wise, they drove around the city to see some of Peterborough's new buildings and left for home in the evening.

MRS. R. T. HOUNSELL HAS CAPTURED TWENTY-FIVE FIRSTS AT FAIRS

Mrs. R. T. Hounsell, Edinburgh street, was very successful in winning prizes at the Millbrook fair yesterday, her total winnings at the Millbrook and Peterborough Exhibitions amounting to 25 first prizes and two seconds. She took prizes in oil paintings, water-colours, pencil work, crayon work, pen and ink drawing, commercial and ornamental penmanship, and in flowers. She is being warmly congratulated by her many friends on her great success and is to be complimented upon her clever work.

CONTRACTOR PROCTOR SAYS THE COMPLETION OF NEW PETERBOROUGH ARMOURIES WILL BE REACHED DURING THE MONTH OF MARCH, 1909

Visited Peterborough This Week and is Greatly Satisfied With Progress of the Work—More Than Thirty Men Working All Year

WHO GET SUB-CONTRACTS

With the completion of the Peterborough Armouries, which Contractor George Proctor of Sarnia expects will be witnessed in the month of March next, the city will have a building of a handsome and stately character that can be looked upon with pride by all the peace-loving as well as the military-spirited citizens of Peterborough. The work has been rapidly advanced from the time the first sod was turned. It has risen rapidly during the spring and summer months until now the stone and brick work has been practically completed and the main roof is almost in place.

Mr. Proctor has been in the city during the past three days inspecting the work, and he reports very satisfactory progress. Mr. Simpson has charge of the cut stone and brick work, and this will be completed this month. He is now superintending the laying of the concrete floor in the main hall. During the progress of the work so far, between thirty and forty men have been steadily employed, and almost all of these are, of course, Peterborough men.

The Sub-contractors

The plastering is now being done under the contractorship of Mr. Saxby of Peterborough, who is now working on the second coat in the east end of the building. The contract for the painting was sub-let to Messrs. Duncan & Deane of Peterborough, and they are busily engaged at present in priming the window frames. Mr. F. J. R. MacPherson, also of Peterborough, is doing the plumbing and lighting work, while the furnaces are being installed by Gurney of Toronto. The contract for the roof was sub-let to Messrs. Maitland & Moore of Peterborough and, as intimated above, they soon will have completed their work. Mr. Proctor, who has been in the city since the commencement of the work, is personally looking after the carpentering work. The erection and finishing touches of the building therefore go merrily on—the various separate sub-contracts being pushed towards completion concurrently.

Contractor Proctor owns the old drill hall, which is intended to pull down at the beginning of the contract to be used for scaffolding. But as the regiment needed headquarters during the summer, the old building stood. It will not now be torn down until the new Armouries have been completed and a place is secured for the stores.

OCTAGON CLUB OPENS THE SOCIAL SEASON WITH A DELIGHTFUL DANCE LAST EVENING

The first important social event of the autumn social calendar was held last night in the Conservatory of Music Hall, and it was a forerunner of the functions of a similar character to come there will be some pleasant times spent by the young folk. It was the Octagon Club dance and attracted some ninety or one hundred of the young people who enjoyed the evening's pleasantry. A dainty supper was served about midnight, Hooper doing the catering. Splendid music was provided by Mr. Bennet and the committee in charge deserve credit for the manner in which they conducted the affair. The committee consisted of Messrs. N Brown, C Barber, G Ferguson, Ross Cameron, M Moore, B Gallagher, W. K. Hillhouse and Dr. W A MacPherson.

ARM IS CUT WITH A SAW

Accident To An East City Woman Yesterday Afternoon---A Doctor Required To Stop Flow of Blood

INJURY NOT SO SERIOUS AS AT FIRST EXPECTED

While using an ordinary saw yesterday afternoon for the purpose of making a small shelf, Mrs. Gerald Graham, East City, cut her arm and required a doctor's attention to stop the flow of blood. The accident was a very simple one and was probably the result of inexperience in the use of the saw. Dr. Neal was called and dressed the injury which was not as serious as at first believed.

WHEEL AROUND THE RUDDER

Peculiar Accident to Steamer Stoney Lake---Regular Trip Taken by the Majestic to Kawartha Lakes

STEEL TIRE BECAME TANGLED WITH RUDDER

By the propellor of the Steamer Stoney Lake becoming entangled with an ordinary buggy wheel yesterday morning, the Majestic took the regular trip, while the Stoney Lake proceeded to Young's Point, where the obstacle was removed. It was a trivial, though peculiar happening and while the propellor could perform its duty the captain did not wish to endanger the rudder by leaving the steel tire to remain twisted among the blades.

CORNER STONE OF THE NEW ST. JAMES METHODIST CHURCH IS TO BE LAID ON SATURDAY NEXT BY HON. GEO. A. COX

Next Saturday afternoon a new era will be opened for the new St. James' Methodist church in the course of erection in the south end of the city. On that day, Oct. 10th, at 2 o'clock, the corner stone will be laid. This important ceremony will be performed by the Hon. Geo. A Cox, of Toronto and Peterborough. Rev. R McCulloch, president of the Bay of Quinte Conference of the Methodist Church, will be present to preside over the ritual portion of the service.

BILLY NAUGAN, THE HIAWATHA WALKER, WANDERS INTO SOME FRESH CONCRETE AND HE LANDS IN THE POLICE STATION

"Billy" Naugan, the Hiawatha Indian, who won imperishable fame, locally, at least, in the six-day walking match last spring, this afternoon got into trouble by reason of his pedestrian qualities. "Billy" attempted to show his ability as a walker by sprinting across a section of newly laid concrete pavement which had not had time to harden, and as a result left a trail of No. eleven footprints. Naugan fell into the hands of P. C. McGinty, who hauled him over to the police station. He was found to have a quart bottle of whisky in his pocket and will be held for investigation.

A despatch from Haliburton states that a sad drowning occurred in that village on Tuesday evening.

Miss Bain, a well known resident of the village, was the victim. She left her home on Tuesday evening, and failing to return, her relatives became somewhat alarmed, and a diligent search was instituted, but without success.

Wednesday morning, however, her lifeless body was found in the river. An inquest will likely be held.

INDIAN RIVER STORE AND GRAIN ELEVATOR BUSINESS CHANGES

Mr. John Duff, for many years proprietor of a general store at Indian River, has disposed of his business and will come to Peterborough to reside. Mr. Duff was also owner of the grain elevator for several years. The latter business has been bought by Mr. F. A. Kidd, of Dunsford, and his brother, Mr. Walter Kidd, has purchased the general store business, which he took over on October 1st.

CAVAN MAN HAS TO "BEAT IT" OR TAKE THE CHANCES

Wm. Trotter, charged with vagrancy at police court this morning, informed the magistrate that he had come into the city after the harvesting operations were over in order to get a job and had proved unsuccessful, while the $30 which he had brought with him had melted away rapidly.

"My home's in Cavan," he informed the court. "I was born and brought up there."

"How long will it take you to get out of the city?" he was asked.

"Not long," he replied.

"Well you are taking the chances of Central prison if you stay in Peterborough. You had better get out at once."

Trotter promised to be as good as his name and was allowed to go.

IMMIGRATION AND TRANSPORTATION.

A leading Toronto business man recently returned from the Pacific Coast remarks:

"When I went over the C.P.R. a dozen years ago, I said on my return that I couldn't see how that railway would ever drum up enough business to make it a paying proposition. On my return this time my remark was that I couldn't see how the C. P. R. would ever be able to handle the business pouring in upon it."

This is a compact expression of a great truth and there are two causes behind it—one, that the West is a land of infinite resources and possibilities; the other is that the Liberal Government came into power a dozen years ago. The C.P.R. and its business are not the only things that have been revolutionised and stimulated from the hopeless stage to the stage of prosperity.

Twelve years ago the pessimist was a busy and happy man from his blue point of view. Now the optimist "holds down his job" with a smile 3,000 miles broad.

Two of the main factors in working this great revolution in the condition of Canada have been immigration and transportation—two of the chief things opposed by the Conservative candidate in West Peterborough, who has more use for the "prairie schooner" than for the "Transcontinental Limited;" more use for the tepee-tufted plains than happy homesteads and fields of waving grain—they appeal to his stationary style of statesmanship.

Dr. William Saunders, Dominion Director of Experimental Farms, estimated a few years ago that the stretch of territory now composing Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan contained 171 million acres of wheat land. Great Britain consumes breadstuffs equivalent to about two hundred million bushels of wheat per year. If one-tenth of these wheat lands were put under crop they would at only 12 bushels per acre, yield enough wheat to feed Great Britain a year and leave enough to feed Canada to boot.

Faced with the responsibility of dealing with such tremendous possibilities, the Liberal Government on taking office, took action with the result that magnificent progress has been made in merging possibility into realization.

When the Liberal Government took office a dozen years ago—when the Toronto gentleman quoted above couldn't see how the C.P.R. could find paying traffic, these western provinces had a population of 420,000. To-day these provinces have a population of a million; thirty-five and one-half millions of acres have been converted into farms in the past 12 years, in contrast to fifty-six millions tied up by the Conservatives in railway grants—gifts—held for advance. Among the results are that millions of acres of unbroken prairie have blossomed into farms; farms into villages; villages into towns; towns into cities, with all the appurtenances and improvements of the most advanced civilization. The business developed by these conditions and the wheat crop this year of one hundred and twenty million bushels has given the C.P.R. more business than it can handle. This great railway which a dozen years ago did not see its way to paying expenses, has, through the development brought about by the Liberal Government, through immigration and transportation provided, reached a business revenue nearly equal to the enormous revenue of Canada under Liberal rule, and double the total revenue of Canada in the last year of Conservative administration.

The west, which was comparatively a wilderness twelve years ago, has been transformed into a blossoming garden by an intelligent and well-administered policy. Settlement so grew that two new provinces have been created, peopled by a progressive, enterprising and contented people; one great transcontinental railway is glutted with traffic and two other great transcontinental lines are racing across the continent to capture the demand for the moving of the increasing crops of the west—a profitless competition because there will be business enough and more for both as settlement and cropping progresses.

This is the raison d'etre of the Grand Trunk Pacific which in ten years will be choked with traffic as the C.P.R. is to-day.

And yet the Conservative candidate has no use for the Grand Trunk Pacific, no use for immigration to fill up the boundless west and people into profitable production the millions of acres of fertile lands.

Immigration and transportation go hand in hand in creating a new nation within a nation, an empire within the empire, and making our great western heritage the granary of the Empire in fact as well as potentiality.

The Little Canadian will have to keep out of the way of the procession or he will get stepped upon.

PA AND HIS BOY.

"Pa, what's a member of parliament?"

"It's a man, my son, of the same politics as the majority of the electors of his riding."

"What does a member of parliament do, Pa?"

"He goes to Ottawa."

"Nothing else?"

"Yes; he draws his indemnity."

"That all?"

"He also draws his breath."

"Anything else?"

"Nothing to speak of."

"What becomes of him?"

"He is generally turned down at the next election."

"Did we ever have a member in West Peterborough, Pa?"

"Yes, my son."

"What was he like?"

"He took good care of himself, kept himself wrapped up in wool and hardly ever showed his nose in parliament."

"What then?"

"Why, we turned him down good and hard."

"Pa, what is a representative?"

"He is a member of parliament who represents somebody besides himself—represents his constituents; looks after their interests—does things for them."

"Did we ever have a representative of West Peterborough?"

"Yes; we had Stratton, who did the riding splendid service for about twenty years. He did lots of things for Peterborough and West Peterborough—things that tended to build up the town and county both. Then we had Bob Hall, he also did a lot for Peterborough."

"They were not simply members, they were representatives who fought the people's battles and looked after their interests."

"Then they will elect Mr. Stratton again?"

"Yes, my son; you bet we will. Peterborough is a live city and wants a live representative, a man who has shown what he can do, a man with the business ability, the capacity and the influence to look after the interests of a great industrial centre like Peterborough, a man who is a worker; who has succeeded. Remember, my boy, a man who succeeds does two things—he makes friends for himself and he makes enemies, who if they can't meet him in fair fight, will play foul and sling mud."

"Yes, Pa, but—spose'n' that's all they can do—"

"All right; but what you've got to do is get ready for school or you'll be late—get along now, and let me finish my breakfast."

MUD SLINGING CONDEMNED.

Rev. Dr. Shearer, president of the Dominion Lord's Day Alliance, addressed a meeting at Canning at the invitation of the Temperance Alliance of King's County, in the Province of Nova Scotia, and his remarks rather disconcerted the Temperance Alliance people. He disclaimed connection with any party or candidate, boldly condemning the press for abusing public men without grounds, and making sweeping insinuations of graft. He also said that government by party was the only feasible method. In dealing with the temperance question, Dr. Shearer announced that national prohibition is not in practical politics. He gave the Liberal Government great praise for their work in connection with the Lord's Day Act, which he characterized as the best of its kind in the world. Constant association with members of Parliament in the past had, he said, greatly increased his esteem for the character and ability of public men.

MARVELLOUS GROWTH OF CANADA'S TRADE.

One of the great tests of successful administration is the growth of the country's foreign trade, and, judged by this test, the Liberal Government has not merely done well, but has beaten all records.

When the Conservative party came back to power in 1878 the total trade of Canada was $172,405,454. In 1896 after eighteen years of their management of the country's affairs, under the much-lauded National Policy, the foreign trade of the country had grown to $239,025,260. In other words, the total export and import trade of Canada had increased during the Conservative term $66,619,806.

The very year the Liberals assumed control of the Government there was a revival of confidence in business circles, and a consequent increase in trade. The Fielding tariff went into force in 1897, and Canada entered upon an era of commercial activity that has been the marvel of the past decade. The following table shows the steady growth in foreign trade each year to the banner year ending on March 31st, 1908, when the grand total and record-breaker of $650,793,131 was reached, an increase of $411,768,000 over the last year of Tory rule:—

1898	304,475,736
1899	321,661,213
1900	286,903,157
1901	386,903,157
1902	423,916,444
1903	475,005,477
1904	472,733,038
1905	470,151,289
1906	550,872 845
1907 (9 months)	465,063 204
1908	650,793,131
Grand total	$5,166,255,432

The grand total of Canada's foreign trade during the last twelve years of the Conservative regime was $2,537,470,972. So the twelve years of Liberal rule show the huge gain in foreign trade, as compared with the last twelve years of Conservative rule of $2,622,784,460.

In the light of this magnificent showing during the twelve years of Laurier, it is small wonder that the Opposition are devoting their campaign to-day to the exploitation of slander and falsehood, in the vain hope of distracting public attention from the splendid record of the Government.

Vote for Stratton, a live and progressive supporter of a live and progressive Government.

NOT QUITE FAIR.

It was no answer to the people of Canada to say that the Opposition were muck rakers. Describing his own efforts to have the Marine Department investigated and Sir Wilfrid's characterization of his allegations as "froth and wild talk." Mr. Borden exclaimed "that is the men who is the guardian of the public honour of Canada and of the public treasury as well."

Mr. Borden, who desires to be made "the guardian of the people's honour," should take his admonition to himself and not unfairly wrest or misapply words from their connection in order to injure a political opponent, and generally apply an expression that had specific and justified application. The "froth and wild talk" phrase of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, which Mr. Borden unfairly applies to Mr. Borden's charges were made specifically on one charge—in respect of the "Arctic" expedition charge. On May 15th, in the discussion in the House of Commons of the estimates of the Marine Department, the Opposition claimed that the equipment of the steamer "Arctic," sent out to claim Canada's sovereignty and plant the British flag on the northern part of this continent, was extravagant. It was specifically charged by the Opposition that (1) more goods had been purchased than were necessary for the expedition; (2) that these goods had been purchased at extravagant prices; (3) that more goods had been purchased than would go aboard the vessel. Sir Wilfrid Laurier promptly accepted the challenge and offered a committee of investigation if the Conservatives wanted the charges they had made looked into. This offer was not accepted, and after two days' vain waiting for the Opposition to take up the challenge and demand a committee, Sir Wilfrid moved for a special committee. This motion was opposed by the Conservatives, for no other apparent reason than this. For months previous, the Opposition, the man who had been so loud mouthed in demanding inquiry into the "Arctic" matter, had been indulging in innuendo, insinuation and suggestion of wrongdoing, but when invited to make specific charges they had not dared to do so. In the "Arctic" case they were less discreet than usual. Commenting on this refusal to accept a committee of investigation, Sir Wilfrid, speaking in the House on May 18th, said:

"I am a little better informed than I was when I proposed this motion—I had a suspicion, it is true, but only a suspicion. Now it is absolute knowledge THAT WHEN HON. GENTLEMEN ON THE OTHER SIDE OF THE HOUSE MAKE CHARGES, THEY ARE ASSUMED TO BE NOTHING ELSE THAN FROTH AND WILD TALK."

Reasoning from the attitude of the Conservative Opposition, Sir Wilfrid was quite justified in thus speaking, for from first to last the wild, random at large charges of graft and crookedness have not been reduced to specific charges capable of investigation.

However, the Conservatives were not permitted to crawfish out of the "Arctic" charges. Their specific charges were investigated by a special committee on which were four Conservatives, and the finding of the committee was that all of the charges specified above, were utterly unfounded. It is, therefore, not surprising that the Conservatives opposed an investigation, preferring to indulge in "froth and wild talk." The Conservatives in all their programme of slander in the House have not ventured to make specific charges, or demand investigation, and in every instance, as in the "Arctic" matter, in which they have been coerced into investigation, their insinuations have been disproved, and in other cases shown to be baseless by recorded facts.

Still the slang-whanging and slanders go on without proof, and even repeatedly disproved, statements are reiterated. Statesmanship is combatted with slander.

ONE SIDED.

The Mail and Empire can't, or at least, won't play fair. In its heading to a report of Mr. Fielding's address in Massey Hall, Toronto, it says Mr. Fielding "admits maladministration." That's a most misleading presentation of the facts. In the text of its report no such charge is sustained, for no language of Mr. Fielding's to sustain such a statement can be found in the report of his speech. Mr. Fielding's remarks on the point distorted by the Mail were as follows:

Speaking of the talk by Conservatives of scandal and graft, Mr. Fielding said that no charge of corruption was ever yet laid against any member of the Laurier Administration. (Applause). The Conservatives had only succeeded in casting suspicion upon a number of officials of the Government of Canada, most of them appointees of a Conservative Government. "We don't subscribe to the doctrine of turning out Conservative officials," said Mr. Fielding, amid cheers. "Certain matters of advantage and patronage may belong as 'spoils' to the victors, but not to the public service of the country." No man would be deprived of office because of errors of judgment, but they had the utmost confidence in leaving to the hand of Sir Wilfrid Laurier the punishment of any act of corruption. (Applause.)

CANADA'S MARVELLOUS INDUSTRIAL PROGRESS.

According to statistics published by the census and statistical department of the Government in 1907, based upon the census taken early in 1901, and an intercensal inquiry made in 1906, it would appear that astonishingly great progress has been made in manufacturing in Canada. The record is as follows:

	1900	1905
Capital invested in manufacturing establishments	$446,916,487	$833,916,155
Wages paid to labour in factories	113,249,350	164,155,578
Value of products of factories	481,053,375	706,446,578

According to the census taken early in 1901, the population of the Northwest Provinces, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, amounted to 419,512

By a special census taken in 1906, it appeared that such population had increased to 808,863

The number of farms in the said Northwest Provinces in 1900 was 54,625

And in 1906 120,439

The immigrants that came into the country between the 1st of January, 1897, and the 31st of March, 1908, numbered 1,219,943.

During the last twelve years of Conservative rule, the homestead entries made in the West amounted to only 36,926. Compare this with 233,064 for the twelve years the Liberals have been in power!

EDITORIAL NOTES.

If Mr. Mackenzie King defeats his Conservative opponent in North Waterloo he will have accomplished what many a schoolboy has threatened to do under the smart of a sound flogging —"licked the schoolmaster." Mr. King, Liberal candidate, went to school under Mr. Reid, the Conservative candidate.

Bryan, the Democratic candidate for the United States Presidency, is described as "being more a doctrinaire than a man of affairs." His critics complain that he "is more like a parson or a college professor than a statesman." Bunching three great men with these common characteristics, we have the three B's—Bryan, Borden, Burnham—speaking politically of course.

If Alexander Mackenzie and Sir Wilfrid Laurier had their troubles with people looking for a rake-off, Mr. Borden, the Montreal Herald suggests, had better be saved from the misery that would flow from his dependence on the Foster-Fowler-Pope-Barnett - (dear) - Lefurgey - Robin-Rogers - McGillivray - Wilson-Montague - Zandray - Zandring-Zandrank-Bayne-boose outfit.

"Saturday Night" which is not these times sitting up nights loving the Liberal party, thus refers to Hon. R. P. Roblin:

It is pretty hot stuff that Mr. Roblin ladies out. It is rather too hot to be handled. It is too violent to be convincing. He uses the language of an angry man; not the language of one who reflects and knows the weight and worth of his words, and judges nicely the influence of his utterances on the popular mind. He seems to be a rough and tumble fighter who goes into a fray with a generous supply of noise.

A Mr. Harold D. Richardson, calling himself a Canadian, is in London, England, preaching the annexation of Canada to the United States. He is slow; he is only preaching annexation; the Conservative Government — 1878 to 1896—practised annexation. Under the conditions attending their reign, hard times and difficulty of making a decent living, scores of thousands of Canadians were annexed to the United States, and the Liberal Government has been kept busy bringing them or their equivalent back to Canada. They have brought back, by immigration, a number of citizens equal to nearly half of our young men driven to the United States during the Conservative regime.

THE NEW RURAL MAIL DELIVERY QUESTION

In England, where the fringe of the city suburbs touches the fringe of the suburbs of its neighbour, and where most of the villages straggle closely at least fifty per cent. of the main highways, rural delivery of mail matter is not a pressing problem. In America where distances are great, where villages are ten miles apart and cities a hundred miles from each other, the problem is important. The United States made an experiment and has gone deeper and deeper into postal extension.

Canada has started in on rural mail delivery. The Conservative politicians have been agitating for it and taunting the Government for not being enterprising and considerate of the dweller in rural districts. The Government were steadily though quietly investigating the subject. They were preparing schemes and plans and estimates and possibilities. Apparently it suited their ideas to keep the Conservative Opposition agitating and talking until it would be thoroughly pledged to this extension of public service. Then when the plans are all ready, the Postmaster-General announces that Canada will inaugurate a new system of rural mail delivery. The plans are brought down, all perfected. The officials commence to talk and it is seen that they know all about costs and routes and rate of establishments and a score of other details. And the Postmaster-General gets the credit.

The Hon. Mr. Lemieux has received much credit for reforms during his short period in office. The British-Canadian magazine post, the new international regulations which prevent "dumping" by United States publications which are not newspapers, the lower postal rates for Canadian publishers, and a considerable extension of the house-delivery system—all stand in his name. Many of these reforms are due to his predecessor in office and to the able assistants in his department—Dr. Coulter, the deputy, Mr. Ross, chief inspector, and others. That Mr. Lemieux should have encouraged these officials is to his own credit exclusively. He has apparently bade them to go on with the work upon which they have been dreaming and planning. The head of a great department such as the post office can but indicate what his general desires may be—the rest must be left to the permanent officials. No doubt Mr. Lemieux has said: "I am in favour of rural mail delivery, if it can be arranged economically. Show me an economical plan and I shall approve it." His officials did so and the order went forth. Canada is to have rural mail delivery.

The plan is a shrewd one. Every farmer who gets the service must assist. He is made a partner. He must purchase the box and erect it. It is his property, it bears his name, and he must keep it in repair. This seems excellent. The rural dweller will not allow boys to throw stones at it, nor fill it with chips. He will keep his hinges oiled and its machinery in good working order.

Again, not every farmer will have this opportunity, therefore those who get it will prize it highly. In the first place, it would cost too much to establish a rural mail delivery for all the agricultural population. The Department could not afford it. Therefore, at first, rural delivery is to be established on only such routes as are now traversed by a mail carrier. This will enable fifty per cent. of the rural population to get [illegible] service. At first glance, it would seem that less than fifty per cent. would be served, but by placing boxes at cross-roads to serve contiguous districts the percentage is considerably increased.

In the boxes are simple mechanical devices used to signify the presence or absence of mail. The courier is not required to leave his horse or vehicle. He carries a hook in his hand and draws the box toward him. He can do this, remove and insert mail, in about one half minute. This is important because it will minimize the extra service for which the Government must pay. One hundred boxes on a twenty-five mile route can be examined in less than an hour. An additional box on a twenty-five mile trip should not greatly increase the yearly cost of the courier service. If higher-class couriers are required on account of the more responsible work demanded of them, this will be a more serious item of expense.

Just how the rural postmasters will be affected remains to be seen. They must send their mail out instead of having it called for. They must route it as it is routed under a delivery system. This may increase their work in most distributing offices and thus increase the cost to the Government. Other offices which are not distributing centres may be closed or have their pay lessened. Just how this will work out is a question for the future.

The great feature is that the farmer will be able to get a daily paper delivered at his gate with some degree of celerity and regularity. It will be a boon for the daily paper publishers and a greater boon for the rural resident. The man with beef, hogs, wool, dairy products or grain to sell, will be in daily contact with his nearest city market. This will be economically advantageous. Moreover, it will add to the attractiveness of life in the country and tend to make residence there more inviting. Its effect on this feature of our national life should be extremely beneficial.

It is a great reform. The honours may be divided between the members of Parliament who advocated it and the Postmaster-General who has had the courage to add a new and costly feature to the public service under his control.—Canadian Courier.

WORSE THAN ONIONS

Bad Breath From Indigestion Cannot be Overcome With Perfumes.

Nine-tenths of the offensive breath is a result of stomach trouble. It cannot be overcome by breath perfumes or any other palliative measures.

If you have a bad breath; if there is heartburn, flatulence and gulpings of undigested food; if the stomach burns or smarts; if there is sleeplessness, nervousness, headaches or any other symptoms of indigestion, use Mi-o-na stomach tablets and get well.

A 50 cent box of Mi-o-na stomach tablets lasts for a couple of weeks and will ward off a dozen mild attacks of indigestion, while its continued use will give an absolute and complete cure.

Wm. Madill has seen so many cures made by Mi-o-na stomach tablets that he gives a guarantee with every box to refund the money if it fails.

SPECIAL EXHIBITS

The number of exhibits of a mercantile and manufacturing character, worthy of special mention, was not so large as usual, but of these a number were of special mention.

THE CARRIAGE AND WAGGON DISPLAY

Mr. George Look, of Millbrook, made a very creditable display of rubber tired buggies, light road traps and farm waggons of his own manufacture. The display was much admired, and resulted in several of the outfits being sold. Two handsome tay buggies were shown, prettily upholstered, with bodies and gear finished in black. They were built standard size, with durability and comfort in every outline. The strong farm waggon and stock and hay racks were substantial and commodious looking samples of the waggon maker's good workmanship. Mr. Look has no trouble in selling all the rigs he can manufacture.

THE MAGNET CREAM SEPARATOR

The purely Canadian made cream separator made an effective show-ing of this fair. It was strongly represented by three practical demonstrators, Messrs. Jas. McMillan, the Peterborough agent; Mr. A. E. Wilson, of Perrytown, and Mr. Bunnett, of Belleville, the district agent. The Magnet is entirely manufactured in Hamilton, where its factory has a capacity of fifty machines a day. The fact that it is a purely Canadian-made machine is one of its strongest recommendations. To-day the Magnet has nearly 60,000 users, reaching to all parts of Canada. Some of the highest dairy authorities testify to its superiority. Even Prof. Dean, of the Ontario Agricultural College, testifies to the value of the Magnet. He says: "We are using this cream separator in the College dairy and find that it gives general satisfaction. Its chief points are: Its minimum need of power, its general close skimming, steadiness of motion, ease in cleaning and general convenience." Prof. Logan also, the dairy inspector for British Columbia, says: "I am pleased to state that, to my mind, the Magnet combines the four essential points of easy cleaning, ease in turning, durability in its construction, and perfect skimming to a greater degree than any separator I have examined."

This is bold praise from such high authorities, and ought to carry weight in the minds of farmers and dairymen.

FANNING MILL, CABINETS AND SCALES

Mr. Chas. McDenel, of Downer's Corners, Otonabee, is the well known agent for the Chatham Fanning Mill, the Chatham Handy Household Cabinets, the Chatham Platform Farmers' Scales and the Chatham Incubator. His exhibit of these useful articles was much admired, and must have resulted satisfactorily to the pushing agent.

THE EMPIRE CREAM SEPARATOR

"A gold mine for butter makers," is what the Empire Cream Separator agent claimed for his machine. It's the easy-to-turn separater, and you can use it twice a day without laying yourself out of a job. Simplicity of construction is another of the Empire's best points, as it can be taken to pieces in five minutes by any man or woman. It has been endorsed by leading dairy colleges and students, and the company guarantees every machine to skim at its rated capacity and produce as fine quality of cream and as great a quantity of butter as any cream separator. The Improved Frictionless Empire Separator is built for farmers who want the best. The Empire Star Separator does not cost as much as the Frictionless Empire, because it does not cost so much to build. But, regardless of price, the Empire Star is the next most efficient and economical cream separator. The Empire Disc is preferred by many, because of its disc method of separation. Whatever the farmer wants in cream separators, the Empire Company are prepared to supply—the style, the size, the price, to suit the individual. Mr. W. E. Parton, one of the most successful separator agents in the county of Durham, was in charge of this exhibit, and showed two of these machines. He was assisted by Mr. Fred J. Doughty of Peterborough, the travelling representative.

LANG & MAHER "THE DAY-LIGHT CLOTHERS

It was a little disappointing to the many Millbrook friends of this Peterborough firm of clothiers that they did not put up their usual attractive exhibit on the show grounds. The establishment of their new branch store in Lindsay, in charge of Mr. Maher, required extra attention this fall and left more for Mr. Maher to attend to in Peterborough. However, Mr. Lang found time to come out to the Fair in the afternoon, and enjoyed the pleasure of renewing old acquaintances. The firm had spread broadcast throughout the grounds thousands of business cards, extolling the Daylight Clothing and quoting some very moderate prices for their new suits, overcoats, raincoats, and toggery at their stores in Peterborough and Lindsay.

A MILLBROOK "OLD BOY"

The familiar figure of Mr. G. Walter Green, proprietor of Green's Ontario Foundry and Machine Works, Peterborough, was also to be seen shaking hands with his Millbrook friends. He appeared to be on good speaking terms with everybody. Mr Green had an eye to business and made his visit to the Fair a profitable one in this respect. He was frequently complimented on the excellent exhibit of machinery at the Peterborough Industrial Fair.

Music and Drama

THREE LITTLE MAIDS

"Three Little Maids," the delightful English musical comedy production that Mr. Wm. G. Colvin presents at the Grand next Thursday, October 8, has been declared by critics of discernment to be the only legitimate successor of "The Geisha," upon the great vogue of which recent light opera successes have been founded. Its music sparkles with charm, and the lines fairly bristle with merit from the rise to the fall of the curtain. The story is that of three pretty daughters of a country clergyman, who are taken up by Lady St. Mallory, a woman of fashion, and installed as waitresses in her tea-shop, Bond street, London. They have, meantime, awakened a warm interest in the respective attentions of a son of the English nobility, a French diplomat, and a young commoner, who fail to recognize their country acquaintances in the tea-shop environments. The usual complications ensue, and are made straight at the ball which forms the last act. The large cast of principals is augmented by a chorus which is notable not only for its vocal ability but for the physical beauty of its personnel.

A notable cast will be headed by the favourite English comedian, Douglas A. Patterson, who will be supported by the following artists: Miss Birdie Luttefell, late prima donna of the "Prince of Pilsen Company," Miss Company; Miss Maud Proctor, sainClara Lloyd, late of the Rogers Bros. ing light in the world of light opera; Messrs. Clifford Robertson and Morgan Williams, late of the George Edwards and D'Oyly Carte Opera Companies, who will make their first American appearance in this production, Miss Marion Macdonald, an actress of great physical beauty and histrionic ability, will be seen in a congenial role, and the Misses Haines, Burrows, Draper, Howard, Austin, Draper, Defoe and Foy, and the Messrs. Murray, Davies, Duracq, and Weaver round out a notable cast.

The beautiful results of the scenic artists are best exemplified in the three acts, the first being the golf links on the heath, just outside of London; the second, a Dutch tea-room in London, and the third, the lovely conservatory and ball-room of the titled Lady St. Mallory.

THE THANK OFFERING SERVICE AT MARK ST.

Anniversary Services to be Held—Church Suitably Decorated

To-morrow will be the anniversary and thankoffering Sunday in Mark street Methodist church. Rev. H. W. Manning, Chairman of the District, will preach in the morning, and the evening service will be conducted by the pastor.

Special offerings are being asked at both services for the purpose of meeting current expenses of the year.

The church will be suitably decorated with fruits and flowers, and special music will be contributed by the choir.

Pe-ru-na Made a Well Man of Me.

I Cannot Speak Too Highly of It.

MR. GEORGE KING

Mr. George King, 466 St. Denis St., Montreal, Canada, a well-known business man of that city, writes:

"Peruna cured me from what the doctors were afraid would turn into Bright's disease, and after you have gone through the suffering that I have with catarrh of the bladder and kidney trouble, and have been cured you are pretty apt to remember the medicine that did the work.

"Peruna is a blessing to a sick man. Right better made me well and were worth more than a thousand dollars to me. I cannot speak too highly of it. It is now four years since I was troubled, and I have enjoyed perfect health since. Every spring and fall I take a bottle of it and it keeps me well."

It is not until the disease has a firm hold upon the kidneys that the patient begins to realize that there is some derangement of these organs.

The slight backaches, the feelings of lassitude, and other warning symptoms of kidney disease are overlooked.

They are not serious enough to detain the patient from his regular work.

Even when he discovers that the kidneys are affected, he does not recognise the difficulty as being caused by catarrh.

INTERNAL CATARRH REACHES THE KIDNEYS.

PE-RU-NA AN INTERNAL CATARRH REMEDY.

Catarrh is sometimes so very gradual in its approach and its earlier symptoms cause such slight discomfort that it is not noticed.

However, when it is once firmly seated in the kidneys it becomes a difficult disease to exterminate.

Indeed, catarrh of the kidneys is more serious than catarrh affecting some of the other organs of the body.

In the kidneys it is liable to terminate in Bright's disease or diabetes, both of which are recognised as very serious ailments, if not fatal.

The thing to be done, when catarrh of the kidneys is discovered, is to take some internal, systemic catarrh remedy, one that reaches the very source of the catarrh and removes the cause of the difficulty.

Such a remedy has been found in Peruna. It reaches catarrh, no matter where it may be located in the body—whether in the more exposed membrances of the nose and throat, or whether in the remotest part of the kidneys.

That Peruna is at once the safest and most reliable remedy for catarrh of the kidneys is proven by the many testimonials written by those who have experienced its benefits.

The testimonials given here are only specimens of the many testimonials on our records, pertaining to the relief afforded by Peruna in severe cases of kidney trouble.

Kidney Disease of Long Standing.

Mr. Samuel A. Paxton, 1115 Troost Ave., Kansas City, Mo., member I. O. O. F. and National Annuity Association, writes:

"I am a well man to-day, thanks to your splendid medicine, Peruna. I was troubled with catarrh and kidney disease of long standing when I first began using Peruna. I soon found I was getting better and continued taking it for four months. It cleansed out the system, leaving me well and strong and feeling better than I have in years."

CHATS ABOUT BOOKS

By F. M. DELA FOSSE

I knew a backwoodsman once, who could neither read nor write, and whose command of the English language might possibly have extended to three hundred words. He was a hard worker, happy in his own way, but it was often a source of wonderment to me, when I passed the night with him at his cabin, how a man of healthy brain and active temperament could settle down for a whole evening on his rough, home-made bench, to smoke his pipe and do absolutely NOTHING.

He very rarely spoke, save when spoken to, and then usually in monosyllables; sometimes going to the length of such an exclamation as By Crickey! or By Crackey! which he varied, under stress of extraordinary emotion, with a slap of the leg and a hoarsely vociferated Holly Gee!

The case above referred to comes to my mind as I sit in my easy chair, smoking the pipe of peace and gazing at the books which rest on the shelves before me. Moralising I look on as a bad habit, indicative either of a diseased mind or a diseased liver, and as indulged in chiefly by those, who having led questionable lives, hope by making lugubrious reflections on the wickedness of the world to square their accounts with the Almighty. Yet I cannot help feeling as I sit here, how much those of us have been blessed, who can indulge in the pleasures that literature opens up to us. How much to our debit to be envied, when compared with that of the benighted being already referred to, whose soul, like that of Pope's poor Indian—

"Proud science never taught to stray, Along the solar path or milky way."

Whatever books may be to you, dear reader, I can honestly affirm that my books have been the grandest companions to me. Though they are not much to look at, having, like their owner, suffered somewhat from the storm and stress of time, yet there they stand, staunch friends and true, never borrowing money, never opposing my opinions in politics and always ready to open out the treasury of their resources at my will. I cannot help smiling as I look at them. Some of them are in such ridiculous positions. Mrs. Eddy's Science and Health stands cheek by jowl with Grimm's Fairy Tales, and Bourgeau's Confessions alongside Lord Adam Gordon's Commentary on the Gospel Narrative.

Literature, which of all mental work is probably the most laborious and always has been, save in isolated instances, the worst paid. Buchan's "Domestic medicine" and Burns' "Justice" were both sold for a small sum. "The Vicar of Wakefield" produced only a few pounds, and Miss Burney's "Evelina" five guineas. Dr. Johnson got two hundred guineas for his "Lives of the Poets," and the booksellers cleared from it upwards of £25,000. Tonson, the celebrated bookseller, realised a fortune by the sale of Milton's "Paradise Lost," for which its creator received, if tradition tells truth, £10. Hood was not far from the truth when he jokingly said that it was easy to understand why the phrase, "republic of letters," was hit upon, seeing that the whole lot of authors, taken together, had not got a sovereign between them.

And here, another thought enters my mind. It is a common belief that the writer shows his mental and moral calibre in his works. Is this true? Some one has said that an author's work is not the mirror of his mind, and that, "if the devil himself were to write a book, it would be in praise of virtue, because the good would purchase it for use, and the bad for ostentation." Let us, in this and in some future talks, discuss these points. It will probably be seen that in literature, as in other departments of human endeavour, there is a preponderance in favour of the good over the bad. To begin, I will take a book haphazard from the shelf—Cruden's Concordance—a work of inestimable benefit to every Biblical student and preacher of the gospel. Who was Cruden, and what was his character?

Alexander Cruden was born at Aberdeen, Scotland, in 1701. He studied at Marischal College with the intention of entering the church. He did not enter it, however, having developed insanity owing to a disappointment in love. On three separate occasions he was placed under restraint, and treated according to the custom of those days, most harshly, being on one occasion chained to a bedstead. These attacks, however, did not hinder his being appointed bookseller to the Queen of George II., and being employed as a corrector of the press. Even in his lucid moments he was highly eccentric. He would stop people in the streets, and in public places on Sundays, and advise them to go home and keep the Sabbath day holy. So much was he imbued with the idea of enforcing his ideas that he applied to the King for a position as Corrector of Morals, which he did not obtain. He was a frequent visitor at Newgate, where he dispensed gifts of money to the prisoners. This he gave up, however, on learning that as soon as his back was turned they sent the turnkeys out to expend the money for them in intoxicating liquors. He applied also for the honour of Knighthood, in order to gain additional prestige in his warfare against bad morals. This he was also unsuccessful in obtaining. He importuned the noblemen and others at court so constantly that they frequently sought refuge in flight, all but Earl Paulett, who, as Cruden naively remarks, "being stout-ish on his feet, could not run away from the Corrector, as others were apt to do." He tried also to run as member for Parliament. Needless to say, in this he likewise failed. He was a most prolific pamphleteer, and, possibly, the most singular of his many productions in this line related to his love-making. The lady of his choice was a Miss Elizabeth Abney, daughter of Sir Thomas Abney, with whom the famous Dr. Watts used to reside. He pestered the poor lady with calls, letters, memorials and remonstrances. When she left home, he caused praying bills to be distributed in various churches, requesting the congregations to pray for her safe return. He drew up at last a long paper to her, which he vowed he would compel her surrender by "shooting off great numbers of bullets from his camp," namely, by earnest prayer to Heaven day and night, that her mind might be enlightened and her heart softened," but the lady never relented. Cruden, notwithstanding his vagaries, was a most lovable man, and held in the highest esteem by all who knew him. Chalmers said of him, that he was a man "whose character, notwithstanding his mental infirmities, we cannot but venerate, whom neither infirmity nor neglect could debase; who sought consolation where only it could be found; whose sorrows served to instruct him in the distresses of others, and who employed his prosperity to relieve those who, in every sense, were ready to perish."

Alexander Cruden was found dead in the attitude of prayer on the 1st of November, 1770. Surely his was a life that counts for nobility of character in literature.

"Working Man" Writes
Another Interesting Letter

He Condemns The Policy of Slander
AND ADVOCATES FAIR PLAY

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—A short time ago I undertook to express my views upon some of the political questions of the day, and when I heard my efforts discussed by my fellow workmen and was given to understand that it was their candid opinion that the article was got together in your office and by one of your editorial staff, I felt flattered and amused.

These remarks have encouraged me to take up the matter once again, and try to show why we should not believe the scandalous reports that are circulated in order to satisfy the the spiteful envy of both the present and the defeated Conservative candidate of four years ago.

At the last Dominion election after the ballots were counted the Conservative party acted the poor loser to perfection, and showed the people of Peterborough that they had not back-bone enough to stand by what they tried to make us believe, that they had a good case against Messrs. Hall and Stratton, so good that it was declared that the former would "never take his seat at Ottawa," but would be landed in gaol with "his partner in crime." Some of the faithful Conservatives who believed them and still try to believe them are waiting for those promises to be fulfilled. My experience in this world has taught me that if you would wish to get the true character of a man, catch him under adverse circumstances; you can then tell how much sincerity there is in his make-up. What will we say of those hot air dispensers upon that occasion? Some of them are with us to-day and I fail to make out why some of my sober, sensible and intelligent fellow-workmen can and will be taken in by such cant and nonsense.

They will tell us that those charges are substantiated by a former prominent worker in the Liberal party of the county. Let us get after him and see how much sincerity there is in his make-up. If this individual believed our friend, the Hon. J R Stratton to be the character he represented him to be on nomination day, he knew and believed as much when he was a candidate himself for parliamentary honours, when the people could not see that he was a modern Moses, and they left him at home in no uncertain manner. The point is this, if he is as honourable as he would wish us to believe, why would he accept the assistance of such a character as he now claims him to be? And why would he raise such a howl when he thought he was not warmly enough assisted? If we examine this matter we will find that each and every one of those that are attacking the Liberal candidate publicly have a personal grudge against him. What have we to do with whether they like him or not; let us treat the man as we have found him, a friend to the city and to every citizen.

The chairman of the Borden meeting, Mr. Kendry, is greatly concerned Mr. Kendry, is greatly concerned about the welfare of the country and city at present. He is the man who, when placed in a position where he could do something more beneficial than abusing his neighbour, only made himself heard from when he was trying to get some legislation for his own advantage. If Mr. Stratton, according to Mr. Kendry, thought the Gillespie campaign was run cheaply, I can see no harm, and I cannot see why Mr. Kendry, believing Mr. Stratton as bad as he pictured him, would have any conversation with him. We all know that election campaigns are not conducted without the spending of some money. For instance no one can tell me that the great, grand and glorious torch-light procession for Mr. Borden did not cost more than 29 cents.

Let me call my fellow workmen's attention to a fact that will show how easy it is to be caught if they are not on their guard; you will remember that four years ago, according to the Review, Mr. R R Hall was anything but a gentleman; the Conservative party called him the "King of the Dagos," and the "robber of the widow and orphans," but now when they are trying, without a little success, to make out that he got a cold deal from his party he is everything that is good. A short time ago this same paper published a statement, showing that they had wronged him in regard to the then famous King case.

Now it seems easy for our city Conservatives to believe how fair and above board one Royal Commission which Mr. Burnham is making so much use of is and how dishonourable another Royal Commission is, which gave a judgment that disappointed those Conservatives who wanted to see Mr. Stratton's influence destroyed.

Why should we believe what we hear against Mr. Stratton any more than what we hear against Mr. Burnham? But the latter's supporters will say that nothing can be said against their candidate. I don't know whether there can or not, but I do know that there is, and there have been, things said about him that are not of a very complimentary character. I can remember of hearing Conservatives who are now his bosom friends, call him the vilest of names and among them the charge was that he was a traitor of the meanest kind and a dangerous man in any community. I felt at the time that this abuse was undeserved and defended him and will do so in the future in this matter.

My reason for bringing this to public notice is to show to the faithful Conservatives that even their little tin god may be belied. The cause of the abuse and slander was the stand he took in regard to the South African war. Mr. Burnham's speech must have been coals of fire for Mr. Borden last Friday evening, for upon Wednesday evening in Toronto he (Mr. Borden) gave the Hon. G. E. Foster a coat of whitewash after the Royal Commission had condemned him for doing much worse than ever the Hon. Mr. Stratton was accused of doing. What I would like to impress upon my fellow workmen is the necessity of looking out for their own interests independent of the revengeful tactics of the Opposition.

It is now we feel the loss of Mr. R M Dennistoun, a man whom everybody honoured and respected in the highest manner. The principle that endeared him to the people of our own city must cause him to thank God that he is no longer connected with his old political party in Peterborough. Let me recall an extract from his last speech in Peterborough at the citizen's banquet in his honour. Referring to the chairman of the evening (Hon. J R Stratton) he said that he should not have desired to see any other man but him in the chair. He and Mr. Stratton had fought against each other in clean, fair political fights and when the smoke had blown away after the campaign they were the same old friends. Mr. Burnham tells us that he would only be too glad to help Mr. Stratton "clear his name." This is, I would think, an insult to the intelligence of the elector, for it does not take a very fine sense of honour to see that if a man wished to do another a good turn he would not keep trying to drag his name down for personal gain.

Before concluding let me say that the meanest and most cowardly of mankind is the man with the whispered argument. You will find him on both sides, and I hope that the honest politicians of both parties will cry him down for he is the one in the most of cases that causes the lasting enmity.

Yours truly,
"WORKINGMAN."

OFFICERS OF CAMERA CLUB

Enthusiastic Meeting Held Last Night—The Business Accomplished

At a meeting of the Peterborough Camera Club held last night in the Tate-Taylor Optical parlours complete organization was effected, with the election of officers. There was a large attendance and all were enthusiastic over the prospects. The dealers, the photographers and the photographers' employees were made honorary members of the club.

The officers elected were:
Hon. Pres.—Mayor H. Rush.
Hon. Vice-Pres.—The City Photographers.
Pres.—Dr. J. A. Morgan.
1st Vice-Pres.—Mr. R. S. Rose.
2nd Vice-Pres.—Mr. E. L. Goodwill.
3rd Vice-Pres.—Mrs. A. McCarthy.
Sec.-Treas.—Mr. N. A. Howard-Moore.

A committee was appointed to draw up a code of by-laws, consisting of Messrs. E. L. Goodwill, Arthur Rogers and N. A. Howard-Moore. Mr. Louis Mandel acted as critic for the meeting and criticised several prints brought in by the members. It was decided to have each of the members bring a print to each meeting and that the best be retained as the property of the club for reference and study. The membership of the club is already about twenty-five. The next meeting will be held on Oct. 16 at Mandel's Studio.

Dr. Marsh, of Springville, has given the members an invitation to visit him for their first outing on the afternoon of Thanksgiving Day, when he will give exhibitions and explanations of photography.

Thanks due to Rev. J. R. Webb.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir, — Kindly accord me a portion of your valued columns in which to express my gratification for a gracious act on the part of Rev. J. R. Webb, pastor of Murray Street Baptist Church, and President of the Ministerial Association, at the reception tendered to Canon Davidson, of St. John's, on Wednesday evening. Notwithstanding the fact that the evening in question was prayer meeting night, Rev. J. R. Webb left his congregation in charge of a church official and hastened to St. John's School-house to offer in a broad-minded Christian address, his quota of welcome to a clerical colleague and a highly-respected citizen. And of the several addresses delivered that evening, none breathed so fully of Christian fellowship and the principles of a brotherhood of man as did that of the esteemed Pastor of the Murray Street Church. It is truly gratifying indeed to see denominational differences fast to the four winds of heaven by one of Peterborough's clergy, and a practical invitation extended our community to closer Christian fellowship. Mr. Webb's earnest words of welcome, his warm congratulations to the congregation on the safe return of their Rector, together with his unalloyed appreciation of the affectionate sentiments entertained by St. John's congregation for Canon Davidson, as exemplified in the splendid reception tendered him, will long be remembered by those present; and I am sure I am voicing the wishes of St. John's congregation in publicly offering Mr. Webb my heartfelt thanks for his gracious Christian act. Amongst other kind expressions, Mr. Webb alluded to Canon Davidson as a "man" who has the courage of his convictions, and of whom his congregation might well be proud. Well, if ever a man proved the courage of his convictions that man was the Pastor of Murray Street Baptist Church, by his action on Wednesday night, when he cast aside all sectarian restraints in the interest of and in regard for an Anglican congregation and their minister. A few years back such a course would not have been permissible, while even to-day there are but few communities in which men of Mr. Webb's calibre are to be found. Talk of Christian Unionl if ever such an ideal condition is brought to maturity, it will be by the efforts and example of such Christian gentlemen as Rev. J. R. Webb, of Murray Street Baptist Church.

Gas Company And Board Of Works Make An Agreement

In Reference to Connections Being Made — Ald. Morgan Scores Again For East City

THE DEPUTATIONS PRESENT

The Board of Works held a meeting last night, called principally for the purpose of considering a couple of proposed changes in the agreement between the City and the Peterborough Gas Co., in reference to making connection between residences and the company's mains. The original agreement gave the engineer or the chairman of the Board of Works power to allow or disallow any request to make a connection. What the company asked was that they be only required to give the engineer three days' notice and that the work be done under the engineer's approval.

The matter was discussed at great length. Each alderman gave his view of the matter when it was decided to allow the change to be made—the company to send a plan to the city engineer of the proposed connection, and if the engineer does not object within three days, then the company shall be allowed to consider it is carried.

The Gas Company was represented by Mr. J. H. Larmonth and Mr. E. A. Peck.

Those present were Chairman Phelan, Mayor Rush, Aldermen Bradburn, Buller, Elliott and Morgan, City Engineer Hay and City Solicitor Hall.

Residents were present asking for a granolithic walk on the east side of Maitland avenue. It has been petitioned for a year and a half ago, and as there are now three houses on that side of the street, and the walk is very rough, they would like something done for them.

The board decided to fill the hollow up with gravel to do for this fall and winter.

Another deputation was present in reference to the drain in Victoria ave. This is the same creek which has caused so much trouble between the residents of the north end and the city.

Mr. Morris wanted the city to place a tile pipe through his property to protect his foundation. Mr. Bradburn said the town had no right to go to private property to do this work, and that he would have to do it himself. The board will, however, look into the matter next week, and endeavour to settle the whole question at an early date.

ASHBURNHAM WALKS

Ald. Morgan said that the Board of Works was neglecting Ashburnham, and he did not propose to stand for it any longer. He would move a motion to the effect that the sidewalk be built in Ashburnham as soon as the market square is completed, and that the George street walk be started after that.

The Board of Works, however, stuck to their decision to first build the walk past Peter Hamilton Co.'s to the C.P.R. station.

It will only take a week to complete the George street walk, and then the gang will be removed to Ashburnham and remain there until the season closes. This will save the expense of moving the apparatus over to Ashburnham and back again, and the Ashburnham walks will have all been built.

Ald. Morgan insisted on his motion being put, and Ald. Elliott seconded it, but it was lost.

Moved by Ald. Elliott and seconded by Ald. Morgan, that notice be given of the city's intention to pass a by-law to expropriate a portion of Mrs. H. Best's property for the extension of Aylmer street. — Carried.

Mr. Stratton's Meeting At Hall's School House, Smith

Convincing Addresses by Messrs. F. D. Kerr, R. R. Hall, Ex M. P., and Hon. J. R. Stratton---Strong Reasons Presented in Favour Of Government's Return

A meeting in the interests of Mr. Stratton was held at Hall's School-house, on the fourth concession of the township of Smith, on Friday evening. The meeting was addressed by Mr. F D Kerr, Mr. R R Hall, ex-M.P., and Mr. Stratton. Mr. J H Garbutt occupied the chair. He expressed his pleasure at seeing the present and the future member for West Peterborough present. Mr. Hall had made a capable representative, and the return of the Liberal Government to power at the last election had certainly been in the interests of the constituency. He had no doubt Mr. Stratton would be equally progressive and active in looking after the needs of the district as when he was member in the Local Legislature, and energetic in promoting the welfare of the whole of Canada as well. He was sure that Mr. Stratton would be elected by a handsome majority. (Applause.)

Mr. F. D. Kerr

Mr. Kerr gave a short but pithy address. From what he had observed he was certain that the people were satisfied with the way the country had been governed during the past twelve years. Everyone who knew Mr. Stratton appreciated the fact that his return and the return of the Government meant a continuation of prosperity. Instead of an era of debt, as we had had under the Conservative Government, the financial records for the past twelve years had shown a long series of surpluses. A great indication of a country's advance was to see the amounts that they were enabled to expend in the country's good, just so long as the revenues of the country permitted the expenditures. The revenues had enormously increased, but the Government had expended the money wisely and well. He closed by hoping that the electors of Smith would vote for the continuation of such prosperity as had always been experienced under Liberal administration. (Applause.)

Mr. R. R. Hall

who was cordially received, said that the only way a district could properly appreciate its growth and progress under Liberal rule was to contrast its condition now with what it had been in 1896. Every elector could see with his own eyes how the country had advanced. In 1896 many of the farms had been carrying chattel mortgages, which, he believed, the occupants had since been able to pay off. There must have been some influence to cause the prosperity, to bring about the great general trade increase, and the increase in exports of farm products to all parts of the world. The improvement in the transportation system had greatly increased the facilities for bringing the grain from the Northwest. Canada now sent six times as much butter to Great Britain as the United States did, and five times as much as Denmark. The reason for the Opposition policy of slander was to blind the eyes of the people to the real issues. The Government had been so successful in administering the affairs of the country that the Opposition wished to make the electors forget what had been done in their best interests. There never was a Government in the Dominion of Canada which had been more earnest and capable in administration, and he was satisfied that the people appreciated that it would be a mistake not to give them an opportunity of carrying the work, and the only way to do was to make sure of Mr. Stratton's return on October 26th.

Mr. Stratton

on rising to speak was greeted very heartily. He said he was pleased to meet his friends of the township of Smith. The township had always given him a splendid vote when he had been a member of the Provincial House, and he believed that on the 26th of October they would again show their confidence in him. He showed what had been accomplished and the progress that the country and the riding of West Peterborough had made in the last twelve years. Peterborough had become a great centre, a great distributing point, and its manufactures had increased wonderfully. In 1896 the population of Peterborough, including Ashburnham, amounted to about 12,500. It had grown to 16,000 in 1907, and this year it had increased by nearly 500, and he hoped to see it 25,000 within the next ten years. The assessment had increased from four and three-quarter millions in 1896 to ten and three-quarter millions in 1907. The customs returns in 1896 had been only $52,355, but in the twelve years they had increased $255,463, until last year they amounted to nearly $308,000. The value of rural property in 1896 was also very low. Farmers found it difficult to dispose of their farms. The profits of farming were almost nothing, the attraction of the cities was great, and the best blood of the country was going to build up the neighbouring nations. The exports of the United States largely dominated the English market because they had better methods of transportation. Now Canadian butter, cheese, fruits and meats were being properly handled. In 1896 sales of Canadian cattle were almost impossible. The quarantine regulations prevented our cattle and dairy stock being admitted to the United States. In the depressed condition of our market there was no sale for these in Canada. Now the contrast was very great. In ten years under Liberal Government, the butter exports amounted to a very considerable sum. A revolution in the curing of cheese had been caused by a change in the system of cool-curing. The profits of the various factories were now enabling them to make the necessary changes everywhere. If all the factories in Canada adopted this method there was, no doubt, that there would be an increase in the English market in the sale of Canadian cheese. The exports of butter for the twelve years of Liberal Administration were 259,555,811 lbs., a marked contrast with the 57,247,699 lbs. shipped in the prior twelve years under Conservative rule. There was no doubt that the cold storage method of transportation was the reason that this splendid increase had come about. He showed how the Liberal party in the expenditure of public moneys had been always in the public interest. The great improvements that had been made in the Postoffice Department had resulted in a surplus of over one million dollars in 1908, as against a series of deficits prior to 1896. The increase in the general trade of Canada amounted to 411 millions, or 34 millions per year for the same period. Labour conditions had also improved, by the establishment of a fair wage system. Mr. Stratton closed an excellent address by asking the people of Smith to stand by the Government on the day of election, and he assured the electors that if returned he would do his utmost to see that the prosperity of the riding and country was continued. (Applause.)

The meeting closed with cheers for the King, the Government, the chairman and the candidate.

TRENT CANAL

ONTARIO-RICE LAKE DIVISION

SECTION No. 7

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Trent Canal", will be received until 16 o'clock on Tuesday, the 20th day of October, 1908, for the works connected with the construction of Section No. 7, Ontario-Rice Lake Division of the Canal.

Plans, Specifications and the form of the contract to be entered into, can be seen on and after September 26th, 1908, at the office of the Chief Engineer, of the Department of Railways and Canals, Ottawa, and at the office of the superintending Engineer, Trent Canal, Peterborough, Ont., at which places forms of tender may be obtained.

Parties tendering will be required to accept the fair wages Schedule prepared or to be prepared by the Department of Labour, which Schedule will form part of the contract.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and in the case of firms, unless there are attached the actual signatures, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm.

An accepted bank cheque for the sum of $16,000.00 must accompany each tender, which sum will be forfeited, if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work, at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The cheques thus sent in will be returned to the respective contractors whose tenders are not accepted.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
L. K. JONES,
Secretary

Department of Railways and Canals,
Ottawa, September 25th, 1908.

Newspapers will not be paid for this advertisement if they insert it without proper authority.

TENDERS FOR DREDGING

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tenders for Dredging at Port Arthur, Ont.," will be received until Friday, October 9th, 1908, at 4.00 p.m. for dredging required at Port Arthur, in the Province of Ontario.

Tenders will not be considered unless made on the form supplied, and signed with the actual signatures of tenderers.

Combined specification and form of tender can be obtained at the Department of Public Works, Ottawa. Tenders must include the towing of the plant to and from the works. Only dredges can be employed which are registered in Canada at the time of the filing of tenders. Contractors must be ready to begin work within twenty days after the date they have been notified of the acceptance of their tender.

An accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, for six thousand dollars, ($6,000.00), must be deposited as security. The cheque will be returned in case of non-acceptance of tender.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
NAP. TESSIER,
Secretary.

Department of Public Works.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS

ANY PERSON who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother, or sister of intending homesteader.

DUTIES—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

CITY HAS BECOME A VAST GRAVE

Correspondent Says State of Hyderabad Is Appalling.

DAMAGE WILL BE $64,000,000

Six Hundred Bodies Are Taken From One Spot and Total Death List Is Estimated at Fifty Thousand Persons—Funeral Pyres Are Going Day and Night—Maps of Mud and Decomposed Flesh.

Bombay, Oct. 3.—The correspondent of a local newspaper who has reached Hyderabad, the capital of the flooded district, describes that city as a vast grave.

The streets and bazaars have been transformed into a gruesome mass of stone and mud and decomposed flesh.

It is impossible accurately to estimate the death roll in the stricken region, the correspondent declares, but some natives put it as high as fifty thousand.

Six hundred corpses were taken out of the mud at one spot Thursday. The funeral pyres are burning day and night.

The damage is estimated at two hundred million rupees.

Big Diamond Robbery.

New York, Oct. 3.—An investigation which followed the discovery that a diamond sunburst was missing from the warerooms of Oliver M. Ferrand, a Maiden Lane diamond importer, has disclosed what may prove to be one of the biggest robberies in the diamond district. Already, it is said, jewels valued at $50,000 are known to have disappeared and the inventory of stock has not yet been completed.

While the investigation has been in progress Mr. Ferrand has been endeavoring to find out what his oldest and most trusted employe, who has been away for several months, is doing.

Turned Back at Line.

Windsor, Oct. 3.—Barred from Canada and refused an opportunity to make a brief visit to his brother in Montreal is the experience which befell Harry Cook of Youngstown, Ohio. When he tried to cross the river here an emigration officer to whom Mr. Cook explained the purpose of his trip, asked him how much money he had. Mr. Cook found that he had a trifle more than $17. The official directed Mr. Cook to hasten back to the States, explaining that the Canadian regulations require aliens entering the country to have at least $25 in cash.

Burglars at Grand Valley.

Orangeville, Oct. 3.—Burglars broke into the postoffice at Grand Valley, rifling a large number of letters, and scattering the contents on the floor.

A large registered box was also stolen, addressed to Mrs. W. J. Taylor.

The jewelry store of J. Gilders was visited, presumably by the same gang, and a case containing some 25 customers' gold and silver watches was stolen. They are valued at about $900.

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Port Burwell Breakwater Extension and Dredging," will be received at this office until 4.30 P.M. on Tuesday November 3, 1908, for the construction of an Extension to the Breakwater, and Dredging at Port Burwell, Elgin County, Ontario, according to a plan and specification to be seen at the offices of J. G. Sing, Esq., Engineer in charge, Confederation Life Building, Toronto, H. J. Lamb, Esq., Engineer in charge, London, Ont., on application to the postmaster of Port Burwell, Ont., and at the Department of Public Works, Ottawa.

Tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed form supplied, and signed with the actual signatures of the tenderers.

An accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, for ten thousand dollars ($10,000.00), must accompany each tender. The cheque will be forfeited if the party tendering decline the contract or fail to complete the work contracted for, and will be returned in case of non-acceptance of tender.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

LOOKING FOR AN ABSENT AGENT

Warrant Is Out For Author of Mimico Disaster.

MAY HAVE SLAIN HIMSELF

Fear Is Expressed That Lorne McTaggart Has Committed Suicide—Uncle Is Searching For Him—Was 19 Years Old and an Orphan—Engineer Quinn's Heroism Saved Passengers' Lives.

Toronto, Oct. 3.—A warrant has been sworn out for the arrest of young McTaggart, the operator who neglected to close the switch at Mimico, which let the C.P.R. express crash into a Grand Trunk transfer engine on a siding night before last, resulting in the death of Engineer Quinn and injury to two other men.

McTaggart, who is only 19, has not been heard of in the city since the accident. His uncle, W. O. McTaggart, real estate and insurance broker, spent yesterday telephoning and telegraphing to all points where the young man might be likely to go, but to no avail.

While half believing that his nephew, who was last seen Thursday night making toward the lake, may have made away with himself in the stress of emotion consequent upon the accident. Mr. McTaggart is nourishing a hope that he will yet turn up among relatives in Western Ontario.

The fugitive is an orphan, and his uncle thinks that probably on this account he fears to brave an investigation, thinking that nobody would concern himself in his behalf. But his uncle is very anxious that the boy should be found, and declaring that he will personally stand by him through the difficulty.

The lad has been a qualified telegraph operator only since Aug. 19. He passed the Grand Trunk telegraphers' examination the last week in June, and went on as a relief night operator at South Parkdale about the middle of July. Then he was sent to Bronte as a full-fledged operator, from where he was removed to Mimico the night before the tragedy to fill a vacancy occasioned by the illness of the regular day operator and station agent.

According to Fireman Jarvis, who was seen in Western Hospital yesterday, it was only due to the heroism and presence of mind of the dead engineer that a great many passengers were not probably killed or maimed. After the express had plunged into the open switch, and while he might have taken a chance and jumped before his engine collided with the Grand Trunk engine, he remained to throw on the emergency brakes, and, as a consequence, the train stopped without a single car leaving the rails.

Runaway Fatality.

Hamilton, Oct. 3.—James Hourigan, a Freelton hotelkeeper, was almost instantly killed in a runaway accident on King street in the block west of James street yesterday morning. He was driving a spirited team of horses in a wagon. The tongue broke, and the horses ran away, colliding with a street car. The horses were knocked down, and Hourigan, who was clinging to the reins, was shot out on to the pavement, alighting on his head. His skull was fractured. He was about 50 years of age. An inquest will be held.

Laurier In Quebec.

Ottawa, Oct. 3.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier will remain in Ottawa until Sunday afternoon, when he will leave for Quebec to be present at the demonstration in his honor Monday night. The whole of next week will be devoted to Quebec district, and the following week will be spent in Montreal district, the present plans including rural and city demonstrations.

Exports Decrease.

Windsor, Oct. 3.—Exports from Windsor to the United States for the quarter ending Sept. 30, show a decrease of $159,940, as compared with the same quarter of 1907.

Whisky alone of the luxuries shows a decrease of about $70,000, but this is due to the fact that the United States Government has tabooed some of the stuff because of improper labels. The total for the quarter just closed was $695,198.

Vito Spino Didn't.

Lindsay Oct. 3.—Vito Spino, an Italian, who was charged with stabbing a fellow-countryman, Patsi Marcorette, at Fenelon Falls some weeks ago, was discharged by Judge Parding yesterday after a lengthy trial.

It was proven that Spino was not the man who did the stabbing.

Typhoid at Montreal.

Montreal, Oct. 3.—To-day this city has little less than an epidemic of typhoid fever. There are now one hundred and sixty cases reported to the health authorities, and more are being added to the list daily. The water supplied the citizens is put down as the cause.

FERDINAND CALLED HOME

Prince Gets Hasty Message to Return Home at Once—Russia's Demand of Return of Railway Precipitates Trouble—The Turkish Ministry Says the Railroad Seizure Was Robbery.

London, Oct. 3.—A news agency despatch from Sofia says it is officially announced there that M. Malineff, president of the council, has telegraphed Prince Ferdinand, who is making a tour of Europe, requesting him to return to Sofia. The message is said to intimate the urgency of the situation. It is stated that Prince Ferdinand received the telegram, and that his immediate return is expected.

All the factories capable of supplying war material, the despatch adds, are working day and night, and preparations for mobilization are being openly pushed forward.

Berlin, Oct. 3.—The Lokal Anzeiger's Constantinople correspondent has had an interview with Tewfik Pasha, the Turkish Minister, on the subject of the controversy between Bulgaria and Turkey, which is regarded as having taken a serious turn in consequence of Russia's note demanding the giving up of that portion of the Oriental Railway that Bulgaria recently seized.

In the course of the interview, the Foreign Minister said: "Russia has taken energetic steps against Sofia in regard to the matter. In fact, as much foreign capital is invested in the Oriental Railway, its seizure was really robbery, but the restoration of former conditions will prove a hard task for the powers. I do not, however, expect complications for Turkey.

"Regarding the independence of Bulgaria, there is no hurry. Turkey will take up this subject from a legal standpoint, which the powers also recognize."

No One to Blame.

Brantford, Oct. 3.—No one is blamed for the explosion disaster. After sitting all night the coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict in connection with the recent explosion which wrecked Colborne street buildings and caused two deaths. The verdict was that the explosion was due to natural gas, which had been ignited by either Holstock or Blayborough, one of whom lighted a match while the two were sitting on the steps in front of the theatorium. Further it was held that gas had leaked into the theatorium cellar through a dead end pipe which had been connected with the new main by mistake.

The jury did not refer to the responsibility or place the blame.

Teachers Visit Birmingham.

London, Oct. 3.—(C.A.P.) A large party of Canadian teachers, under the leadership of J. L. Hughes, visited Birmingham, and at a meeting Sir Oliver Lodge expressed the hope that the Canadian teachers would derive satisfaction from their visit to Birmingham.

In acknowledging the welcome, Mr. Hughes congratulated the English teachers on the development of their system, and especially on the fact that they were freeing themselves from the control of a department which was in danger of becoming tyrannical.

Dies In Jail.

Toronto Oct. 3.—Frank W. Smythe came to his death in Toronto jail from hemorrhage of the brain, as the result of an accidental fall. This was the verdict of Chief Coroner Johnson's inquest into the death of Smythe, who died yesterday morning in the jail, where he was held to answer a charge of purse-snatching.

The man was suffering from alcholic excesses when arrested. He was epileptic and while standing with the other prisoners in line at the jail Wednesday afternoon suffered a seizure. He struck his head in falling and died early yesterday.

Hamilton Conservatives Choose.

Hamilton, Oct. 3.—The Conservatives of West and East Hamilton last night selected their candidates for the Commons. Mayor Stewart was the unanimous choice in the west and Samuel Barker, M.P., for the east. No other names were mentioned in either case, and both candidates were given a very hearty reception.

Beer Director Sails.

London, Oct. 3.—(C.A.P.)—Hon. F. M. Smith, director of agriculture for the Transvaal, sailed yesterday for Canada and the United States on a mission in connection with agricultural development of the Transvaal. Boer students for Canada are also sailing.

Firebugs Sent to Kingston.

Napanee, Oct. 3.—Charles Gonyea was sent to Kingston Penitentiary for five years for arson, and on a similar charge Stanley Paterson, aged 16, got ten years, Peterson also got two years for seducing a girl under 16 years of age.

Spark Destroys Barn.

Orono, Oct. 3.—Geo. Bigelow's big new barn, with all the season's crop, was burned yesterday afternoon, due to a spark from the threshing engine. Very little insurance is held.

Increased Naval Subsidy.

Wellington, N.Z., Oct. 3.—The bill increasing the naval subsidy to £100,000 annually was read a third time. Some members advocated compulsory service.

Montreal Next.

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 3.—Montreal was yesterday selected as the convention city of the League of American Municipalities for 1909.

NERVE LOSS

Consider how incessant is the use to which the eyes are put and how exact the adjustment demand for sight always equal and adapted to every change in position and distance. The nerve compels the eye to these instant adjustments, but with destroying over efforts, if there be defects in the refractive media or muscular system.

THE EFFECTS

Headache, Neuralgia, Insomnia and other nervous derangements are the work of eye strain. Chronic sufferers, assured by their physicians that "Organic disease unquestionably existed, and that the eyes had nothing whatever to do with the causation of the symptons," have been completely relieved by simple correction of the eyes by glasses.

MANY PEOPLE with the above symptons, thinking that all glasses are alike go to their druggist or jeweller and are probably half fitted by some novice, or again purchase a pair from the travelling faker who goes from place to place as Professor or Doctor so-and-so, the eminent Eye Sight Specialist of the States. He gets your money and you the experience.

THINK IT OVER

Our Examining Room is in full charge of our Mr. Taylor, who has had years of experience with such noted Specialists as Dr. Butler and Frank C. Fox of Montreal. Our factory and lens grinding plant is in the hands of a competent foreman, who looks after the manufacture of all new work and sees that repairs are done properly and when promised.

OUR STOCK is all new and up-to-date, comprising as it does everything in the optical line from the great fashion centres of the world.

OUR POLICY is honest goods at honest prices and satisfaction to all or money refunded.

WANT TO BREAK TREATY.

Australians Denounce Anglo-Japanese Agreement.

Ottawa, Oct. 3.—The treaty of commerce and navigation between Japan and Queensland terminates on July 31 of this year.

Queensland participated in the Anglo-Japanese treaty in July, 1905, to which Canada has recently become a party. But when the Commonwealth of Australia was organized and a constitution was formulated, the validity of Queensland's participation in the Anglo-Japanese treaty was then questioned, but its validity was confirmed.

The federal authorities in Australia, however, consider it undesirable to be bound by the Anglo-Japanese treaty in the matter of the customs tariff and other economic considerations, and on account of this reason the decision to seek the abrogation of the treaty is ascribed.

LIQUOR CONFISCATED.

Seizure of Beer For Fredericton Druggists.

Fredericton, N.B., Oct. 3.—A large seizure of liquor took place here yesterday, when several casks of ale, shipped from Montreal to local firms, were confiscated by the police and Scott Act detectives. The liquor was the property of druggists. The beer was taken to the police station on a truck wagon.

It is not known who will be proceeded against, but it is said it may be the C.P.R. Boats and trains are watched each day, and have been for some time, so that a line has been kept on shipments, and more seizures are likely to take place at any time.

No action has yet been taken against hotels from which seizures were made on Wednesday.

Bylaws Carry Unanimously.

Milton, Oct. 3.—The two bylaws voted on at Milton yesterday were carried by a majority of 232 for the Pleaston Manufacturing Co., and the Wilmott Farm Implement Manufacturing Co., not one vote having been polled against them.

Oakville Fair Opens.

Oakville, Oct. 3.—Lieutenant-Governor J. M. Gibson performed his first public act yesterday since being sworn into office, by declaring open the annual fair at Oakville. He came out from Toronto accompanied by Mrs. Gibson.

A New York Enquiry.

Albany, N.Y., Oct. 3.—An investigation into the Finance Department of New York city is to be made by the state civil service commission, according to an announcement made by the commission last night.

The proposed investigation is the result of complaints made against Comptroller Metz's department by the Civil Service Reform Association, alleging violations of the administrations of the civil service laws and rules.

Three Firemen Killed.

Youngstown, Ohio, Oct. 3.—Five firemen are in the hospital and three more are in the ruins of S. H. Knox & Co.'s store, which burned Thursday night.

The missing are: Fire Chief Thos. Reilly, Capt. Charles Vaughan and Fireman Edward Sweeney. Fatally injured: Chief of Police William Slater. The firemen were fighting the flames from the roof when the whole interior of the building gave way.

Don't Want Election Jobs.

Ottawa, Oct. 3.—From the new provinces of the northwest the Secretary of State is daily in receipt of refusals to act as enumerators and deputy returning officers.

The scale of fees prescribed in the Election Act is totally inadequate to compensate officials in the west who have long distances to travel in sections remote from the railway line.

C.P.R. Superintendent Leaves.

Vancouver, B.C., Oct. 3.—Superintendent Arundel of the Pacific division, Canadian Pacific Railway, left here yesterday to take the position at Winnipeg of general superintendent, succeeding R. B. Jamieson.

Winnipeg, Oct. 3.—It is said that Jamieson is resigning to accept a position in a private enterprise at Calgary.

Hurricane In Bahamas.

Nassau, New Providence, Bahamas, Oct. 3.—A hurricane swept over New Providence Thursday. There was no serious damage ashore, but several vessels were blown out to sea and it is estimated that six lives were lost.

Caught In Shafting.

Kingston, Oct. 3.—John Lillon, aged 65, was terribly injured at the locomotive works and may not recover. He was caught while oiling machinery in the shafting. He has four ribs broken, as well as other injuries.

HURTUBISE WINS A NOTABLE VICTORY BY DEFEATING FRITZ MOHL OF BUFFALO IN A BOUT LASTING FOR FIFTY-SEVEN MINUTES

Tommy Daly and Corney Burns Boxed Four Rounds to a Draw —Other Good Preliminaries

A GREAT EVENING'S SPORT

Eugene Hurtubise won the most important match in his wrestling career last night when he defeated Fritz Mohl, the German heavyweight of Buffalo, N. Y., in a catch-as-catch-can contest at Brock Street Rink before a large crowd of fans. It was only after 57 minutes of hard fast wrestling that victory finally came to the local boy and the match was about the best that has been seen here. Peterborough people were delighted with the result. They knew that Mohl was a most formidable adversary and some apprehension was felt that he would prove too much for Hurtubise. Gene, however, demonstrated that he was able to take care of himself in fast company, and, although he lost the first fall in 8¼ minutes, he succeeded in taking the next two and won the match cleverly.

Gene deserved to win. He was on the aggressive the greater part of the bout and worked like a Trojan for the victory. His task was not an easy one as the heavy and scienced German put up a strenuous resistance employing all the tricks of the game to shake off the local boy. He showed the same speed and skill that he did against Yankee Rogers, but Gene kept at him and finally won out to the great delight of the crowd. Hurtubise showed his best form to date, the improvement in his work being marvellous. On the aggressive he showed resourcefulness that was lacking on other occasions and varied his tactics cleverly while he was equally effective on the defensive. He kept at Mohl without a let up in his work and earned the victory on his merits.

The main bout did not get under way until 9:30 o'clock. Mohl entered the arena first and was warmly received while of course the fans had a royal welcome for Hurtubise, who followed closely. Little time was wasted in getting them started and the two went at each other from the handshake. For a minute they locked on their feet and then went to the mat with Mohl on top. Gene, however, broke away from him with a roll and took the aggressive. He slipped a bar Nelson on the German and had him in difficulties, but Mohl made one of his famous spins and pinned a bar Nelson on him following a body roll. Gene was in an extremely dangerous position for over a minute, but managed to wriggle free at last and once more was on the attack only to lose his advantage a moment after when Mohl again caught him with a quick body roll following it up with a bar Nelson and further arm hold that Hurtubise could not break and his shoulders were finally pinned to the mat in 8¾ minutes.

There was no let up in the speed of the contest in the next bout, in fact it was even faster. The men went at each other in a determined manner, and for a while honours were even. Mohl slipped a quick leg Nelson on Gene and looked to have him but Hurtubise broke it and was on top of Mohl with lightning like speed. Mohl was in a tight fix for the next minute. Gene had him fast with a bar Nelson and it looked like as if it would prove a fall. The German was so hard pressed that he tried the trick with which he fooled Rogers here, of slapping Gene on the back with the intention of making him believe that it was the referee. The local boy refused to be fooled and hung on like grim death. Mohl, however, succeeded in working free. Hurtubise kept on the aggressive and worried the German. The latter obtained a leg Nelson and pulled Gene over but Hurtubise managed to get away from it and was on Mohl before he could recover, throwing him with a bar Nelson in 17¾ minutes.

After the rest Gene kept up his aggressive tactics. He soon had Mohl on the defence and kept him there the greater part of the bout. For some time he worked on the toe hold and although he punished the German with it he did not succeed in turning him over. Abandoning that suddenly for a crotch hold and half Nelson, he had the visitor in danger, but Mohl's quick spin saved him. He rolled Hurtubise over but was speedily rolled back again and once more was in trouble. They worked that way for 31 minutes, Gene doing nearly all the aggressive work until finally a bar Nelson did the trick and the fall and match went to Gene.

Mohl, who is in right with the local fans on account of the game way in which he wrestles and takes a beating addressed the crowd at the conclusion of the bout. He did not want to take any credit away from Gene, he said, but he wished to explain that after the first fall one of the small bones in his right arm was injured putting that member practically out of business. He had read of Hurtubise's past record in the Associated Press and had not imagined that he was as good as he was. "If Mr. Hurtubise continues as he has done in the past," he remarked, "I prophesy a great future for him."

Mohl's remarks were appreciated by the crowd and he was given three hearty cheers as he left the arena.

The match was a grand exhibition of wrestling from start to finish and had the crowd wildly excited, so much so, that they began climbing over the sides into the arena and the police had to keep them back. It was hard and fast work all the way through the bout with no roughness to speak of.

Mr. A. C. Yokome refereed the bout and gave every satisfaction his decisions being unquestioned.

The preliminaries were decidedly interesting, far in advance of the usual curtain raisers. The main preliminary was between Tommy Daly, of Brantford, and Corney Burns, who came together in a four round boxing bout that was a corker. It was a fine exhibition of the game and the fans enjoyed it exceedingly. The boys were willing to mix it up but as both were careful and covered up well not much damage was done and honours were about even. Both were handicapped by injured hands, but in spite of that they went at each other hard. Burns repeatedly landed the right to the kidneys, while he received most of Daly's blows on the chest and shoulder. Mr. G. N. Graham, who refereed the preliminary most satisfactorily, pronounced the bout a draw to the satisfaction of the crowd.

Geo Lillie and Kid Turner, two arrivals from the Old Country were out for a four round bout and it was funny all the way. For two rounds the two sparred very gingerly and Lillie skipped around the ring as if the floor was red-hot. Then towards the end of the third a blow happened to land on the face of one of them and both got mad and slugged each other right and left, while the crowd cheered. Many swings went wild but a few got home with telling effect and when the bell rang honours were even. The fourth round showed up considerably. Referee Graham gave the decision to Lillie.

Joe O'Toole and Jack Patterson, two local light-weights, boxed three rounds to a draw. The pair were very cautious and refused to mix it up with any degree of vigor, but the crowd enjoyed the set-to.

There was also a preliminary wrestling bout between Fred Sullivan and Ken Morris. The boys went ten minutes and the bout was a lively one, with Sullivan on the aggressive most of the way. They did not hesitate to rough it, but shook hands afterwards. Mohl, who refereed called the bout a draw, but announced that according to the rules of amateur wrestling, Sullivan would have been the winner.

It was about the best night's sport that has been here this season and the crowd was thoroughly satisfied.

Corney Burns And Daly Will Be Matched For Fifteen Rounds; The Boys Are To Fight At 135 Pounds

The probabilities are that Peterborough people will have an opportunity to see a 15-round boxing bout between Tommy Daly of Brantford, and Corney Burns, manager of the Peterborough baseball club. The two met last night in a 4-round contest as a preliminary to the Mohl-Hutubise bout, and the result was a draw after a clever and fast exhibition, in which the honours were practically even. During the evening Announcer Lynch read a challenge from Mr. Archie Seymour on behalf of Burns, challenging Daly to a bout for $200 a side. Daly climbed up on the platform and announced that he was prepared to box Burns or any boy in Canada at 138 pounds. He was willing to meet the local boy, if he could make 138 pounds give or take three pounds. After the match the matter was talked over and finally it was practically decided to bring the two together, Burns to make 135 pounds. A deposit of $25 will be made by each for weight and appearance and the match will be pulled off here within the next four weeks. The mill will no doubt prove a big drawing card as the boys are fast and clever and will go after each other from the drop of the hat.

MOHL SAYS THAT HURTUBISE IS EVERY BIT AS STRONG AS ROGERS

"What do you think of Hurtubise?" was the question propounded by the Examiner to Fritz Mohl after the match last night.

"He has a great future ahead of him," replied the German. "He is strong and beautifully built for the mat game. I consider him fully as strong as Yankee Rogers, and he seems to be rapidly picking up the fine points of the game. He will take a lot of beating from now on. When he learns to use his legs more he need have no hesitation in going after the top-notchers.

THE COLLEGIATE CROSS COUNTRY RUN

To be Held on Monday—Other Events Next Week

The annual field day of the Collegiate Institute will be held on Friday next on the Nicholls Oval. The cross country run will take place on Monday afternoon after four o'clock and on Wednesday the jumps will be contested on the Riverside Park. All the friends of the pupils who are interested in the events should see them, as their attendance will encourage the boys besides adding to the success of the field day.

CHIEFTAINS BELONG TO THE Y.M.C.A.

They Will Run Under These Colours Under All Conditions

To correct a wrong impression the Chieftain Athletic Club, which was organized a short time ago, desire to state that they are not opposed to the Y. M. C. A. They are known as the Y. M. C. A. Chieftains, every member is a member of the Y. M. C. A., and whenever they enter track events they do so under the colours of the Y. M. C. A.

To the Electors of West Peterborough:

Gentlemen,—In my first address to you, I aimed to point out what had been accomplished by the Liberal Governments of Ontario and of the Dominion in promoting what may be described as the local interests of West Peterborough, in the provision of local advantages to meet local needs, and serve public interests.

I now wish to suggest some of the many reasons why the present Government should be sustained, and given an opportunity of continuing the great work it has accomplished for Canada as a whole. There is not a city resident, nor dweller in the suburbs, not a labourer, nor an artisan, not a mechanic, nor a manufacturer, nor anybody in any walk of life, that has not enjoyed more prosperity, had his welfare improved, his business benefitted, during the twelve years of rule of the present Liberal Government, which is now appealing for a renewal of its stewardship.

There is not a farmer in Peterborough county, who does not know that every farm, properly managed, has increased in value, and every farmer in prosperity, in the twelve years of Liberal rule. There is not a farmer who does not know that general conditions have been vastly improved; who does not know to what a general extent the clear deed for the farm has replaced the farm mortgage; new buildings replaced dilapidated structures; home comforts increased, and general conditions of well-being improved.

It is therefore incumbent upon me to present as concise a view as possible of the record of the Liberal Government, whose supporter I am, to set forth what it has done in the twelve years of its trusteeship to promote the general welfare of Canada.

To emphasize this record, the condition of the country previous to the Liberal Government assuming power, may be recalled. It is no exaggeration to say that at that time the country was practically at a standstill; that business was dormant; our industries languishing; manufacturers dissatisfied; the Conservative Government was fighting amongst themselves, and had ceased to effectively govern. Our finances were at low-water mark; expenditure was running ahead of receipts, deficits were almost annual, the national debt advancing, the country torn by dissensions and the outlook gloomy.

The first notable action of the Liberal Government, as a necessary preliminary to national progress, was to restore peace and harmony among the people—by the satisfactory and lasting settlement of a burning question. Peace having thus been restored, the Liberal Government was free to enter upon the work of nation-building.

The tariff, which, under previous administrations, was not giving satisfactory results, either to the people affected, or in the way of revenue, was readjusted with careful consideration of all interests, the consumer as well as the producer. The farmer was helped by having binder twine, barbed wire, Indian corn, cream separators, and articles of staple necessity, placed on the untaxed list of imports. Manufacturers, and through them the wage-earners, were helped by removal, or reduction, of duties on raw material used in manufacturing.

The result was an immediate improvement in the condition of all national interests; prosperity resumed its reign, trade became active, employment plentiful, wages increased, and a rate of good growth taken on which can only be understood by recalling some of the records.

Under the revised tariff, our revenue, even under a tariff lowered on an average of $18.28 per $100, at the close of Conservative rule to an average of $15.66 per $100, under Liberal rule, increased from thirty-six millions a year, in 1896, to ninety-six millions in 1908.

The capital invested in manufacturing establishments increased from $446,916,487 in 1900, to $833,916,155 in 1905, or over seventy million dollars per year.

The wages paid to labour in factories, increased from $113,249,350 in 1900, to $162,155,578 in 1905, or nearly ten million dollars per year.

The value of products of manufacturing establishments grew from $481,053,375, in 1900, to $706,446,578 in 1905, the increase in the manufactured output of the city of Peterborough in that period amounting to eleven millions odd, being far the greatest proportion of increase of any one place in the Dominion.

The total foreign trade—imports and exports—has in the past twelve years of Liberal administration amounted to the tremendous total of 5,132 millions of dollars.

The yearly growth of the total foreign trade of Canada is shown by the fact that it grew from $238,025,360 in 1896, to $630,758,200 in 1908.

In twelve years the farmers of Canada have received for the products of their farms sent abroad more than a thousand million dollars, and the exports of farm products have increased from $50,592,525 in 1896, to $121,171,199 in 1908.

The value of the exported products of our mines has increased from $8,059,690 in 1896, to $39,127,133 in 1908.

Forest products have increased in value of exports from $27,175,686, in 1896, to $44,170,470 in 1908.

In 1896, Canadian bank discounts the index of commercial and industrial activity, amounted to $224,507,302; they had grown to $584,732,914 in 1908—more than doubled.

The people's deposits in chartered banks and savings banks, have grown from $345,029,143 in 1896, to $650,126,232 in 1908.

The increase in tonnage carried in 1908 by Canadian railways (another index of commercial and industrial activity) was more than fifteen millions greater than the total tonnage carried in 1896, which was 24,266,825 tons as against 68,866,183 tons in 1908.

There was an increase in the export value of bacon and hams from $18,827,928 in twelve Conservative years, to $135,156,511 in the twelve Liberal years; the increase for the same period in butter export values was from $10,513,548, to more than five times—$51,680,095; in cheese, from $127,611,428, to $247,700,3321 in wheat, from $45,338,391 to $121,677,699, or nearly five-fold.

In the five years of Liberal rule—from 1901 to 1905—the population of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, increased from 419,512 to 808,863. In the last two years immigration and settlement have so rapidly advanced that the population of these provinces must be well beyond the million mark, for since January 1, 1907, immigrants to the number of 1,219,943 have come into Canada.

Not only have these immigrants the very great value of a million increase of population, but the effects they brought into Canada, exclusive of personal baggage and cash, amounted to $64,442,532, which is fourteen millions more than the total exports of farm products under Conservative rule in 1896.

In 1900 the number of farms worked in these provinces was 54,623; these had increased to 120,439 four years later—1906.

In eighteen years the Conservative Government voted 56 million acres of land to railway companies, or enough to supply 411,000 homesteads of 160 acres each, whereas, in contrast, in twelve years since coming into power the Liberal Government has not given away one acre of land to a railway. The land has been reserved for the settlers, who got 35 million acres in homesteads.

This work of western development, and the increase of population, have benefitted the east; every new household creates fresh demands upon the manufactured and commercial products of eastern Canada, giving increased work to factories and increased employment to working men.

The prosperity, the all-round quickened activity of national life in Canada attendant upon Liberal rule, has given employment to Canadians at home or found homes for them in the west. This is in strong contrast to the do-nothing immigration policy of the previous Government which could not retain the immigrants brought in nor present conditions attractive enough to keep native-born population at home, nor stop the exodus of the flower of Canadian youth to the United States by the million.

The British preference, or preferential tariff, extended to Great Britain, showed the Liberal Government to represent the party of real loyalty—practical loyalty—to the empire. The result of this gift was a splendid advertisement of Canada, and secured British good-will, with the direct results that it substantially favoured the Canadian consumer, increased imports from Great Britain—three-fold—from $32,894,505 in 1896, to $94,588,983, in 1908— and doubled Canadian exports to Great Britain—from $62,717,941 in 1896, to $126,194,124, in 1908.

This preference was extended to most of the British colonies and, in return, Canada secured a preference in New Zealand, South Africa and Barbadoes, with the result that British Columbia canneries captured nearly the whole trade of New Zealand, and shut out the canneries of the United States; and Canada's example has been followed by nearly all the British colonies.

Such a record of achievement on the more material side, on the part of the Liberal Government, amply justifies my appeal for your support to aid in retaining it in a position to continue the splendid service that has been given.

It is not, however, only in material matters, but in matters redounding to the credit of Canada, both at home and abroad, and in providing conditions for the general advantage of the people, that the Liberal Government has done work worthy of the practical recognition involved in its being given another lease of power.

Under the Liberal Government, the French treaty was negotiated by Canadian statesmen, without the help of British statesmen, subject, however, to the approval of the Home Government—a long step forward in Canadian nation-building.

The reign of the Liberal Government has been marked by unprecedented development of transportation facilities—the keynote of Canadian development, progress and prosperity. As a general result, the great bulk of the grain trade of the interior west of the continent is passing through Canadian channels, and New York and other American ports are alarmed at the formidable competition of the Canadian St. Lawrence route.

This condition was brought about by the completion of the enlargement of the St. Lawrence and Welland canal systems to a depth of 14 feet, the equipment of grain shipping harbours on Lake Superior and Georgian Bay, Lake Huron and Lake Erie; the improvement of Montreal, St. John and Halifax harbours, the deepening of the ship channel from Montreal to the Gulf, the extension of telegraph systems down the coast, the abolition of canal tolls, and the making of the St. Lawrence a safe route for ocean ships by day or night.

These great works have not only made the St. Lawrence the grain route of the continent, but directly benefitted shippers and producers—general merchandise and farm products. Last year the saving on reduced insurance rates, caused by the improvements made in the St Lawrence by the Government, amounted to nearly a million dollars—$922,000.

In the last twelve years, the Liberal Government has expended on transportation; in improving the facilities for marketting the products of factories and farms, the large sum of $121,215,115—on canals, twenty-six millions; on Government railways thirty-one millions; on Montreal harbour and St. Lawrence ship channel, seven millions; on the chief lake harbours, two millions; in aid of the construction and extension of railways, twenty-one millions; and, so far, twenty-seven millions on Transcontinental Railway constructions, have been advanced for construction, and upon which, after seven years, the Grand Trunk Pacific will pay the Dominion interest at the rate of three per cent.

In aiding railways to open up the country to development, the Liberal Government have simply invested money. The Conservative way was to give bonuses outright. The Liberal way is to make no gift, a condition of the Liberal grants being that the railways must regard them as a loan and pay in return, by the carrying of mails, an equivalent to a fair rate of interest.

The necessity of the Grand Trunk Pacific is emphasized by reasons of the conditions existing to-day. The movement of western wheat to the market is at this moment impeded by lack of cars, showing the need of more railway service. To meet conditions which will become more pressing as settlement and crop production will increase, through the building of the Grand Trunk Pacific, the Government has decided upon building the Hudson Bay Railway, as another wheat outlet that in the open season will shorten the distance to Liverpool by thousands of miles. And the Government shows its wisdom by making the railway build itself—by providing for the cost by the sale of lands, now valueless, but made valuable by the building of the line itself.

Having regard to the future of this country, no calculation can estimate the tremendous benefits that are accruing, and will accrue to Canada, through the bold and business-like development of our transportation facilities, by the Liberal Government.

The Liberal Government conceived, and is constructing, the Grand Trunk Pacific, which will practically double the settled and cropped area of Canada, from the Pacific to the Atlantic, over a belt 200 miles wide through the heart of New Brunswick, Quebec, Ontario, and western Canada. It will open up millions upon millions of new territory for settlement and development; it will give development and competition in transportation to 1200 miles of grain-growing country in the west. The Transcontinental Railway, which will be completed in three or four years, will, at least, duplicate the tremendous development work accomplished by the Canadian Pacific in building up the resources and widening the sweep of Canada's commerce.

The Liberal Government's subsidy of $3,630,000 to the Crow's Nest Pass Railway, secured the speedy construction of a line that opened up the rich mineral Kootenay district, of British Columbia, covered it with thriving towns, villages and mining camps, diverted trade from the United States, and opened up a market for western farm produce. It did more. A condition of the subsidy was a reduction of freight rates by the Canadian Pacific, which built the Crow's Nest line; and this reduction, on wheat alone, saved the farmers in five years, $3,750,000, or $20,0000 more than the amount of the subsidy, not to speak of the vast indirect benefit, a saving and benefit that are to continue for all time.

The Liberal Government established the Railway Commission, whose work is to continually adjust between railways and customers, and to deal with and settle freight and other rates. Last session telegraph and telephone lines were brought under the Commission, and now there is assured to the public in respect of these public utilities, all the rights, privileges and advantages that could come from public ownership, and that, too, without incurring a tremendous financial liability for purchase and operation.

The Liberal Government, in its work for Agriculture, has given farming a vital organization, and made that farming interests of Canada one vast co-operative industry. Cold storage for transportation of perishable products and efficient supervision in transit, have resulted in placing Canadian farm, garden, dairy and orchard products upon the British markets in their prime original quality, with a splendid reputation and greatly increased prices.

An example of advanced legislation is the Liberal Government's old age pension act, which brings within the reach of every man and woman in Canada a means for making provision for old age.

The Liberal Government's interest in Labour is shown, not only in the broad conditions provided for creating prosperity and industrial activity, and opportunities for employment, but in providing more specific benefits. This is shown in the abolition of the sweating system, so far as concerns Government contracts; the adoption of a fair wage scale for Government contracts; the establishment of a Department of Labour to be placed in charge of a Minister of its own; the publication of the Labour Gazette; the passing of the Lemieux Act, which though only operative since March of last year, has up to August last, been instrumental in amicable settlement of nearly forty strikes, involving over 40,000 employees, and millions of capital, and satisfactory arrangements were made for the limitation and practical cessation of Oriental immigration.

The Liberal Government's adoption of a revenue tariff that produced revenue, made it financially possible to meet the pressing demands of the provinces for increased subsidies, amounting to nearly five million dollars a year of the people's money returned directly to the people for provincial purposes.

The Liberal Government's management of the Post Office is a triumph of business administration. With a reduction in postage rate of over one-third, and with a vastly increased and improved service, a deficit of $750,000 in 1896 was converted into a surplus which steadily increased year by year till this year it reached the large amount of $1,101,827. Such a fruit of good management permitted the Government to initiate another great postal reform—rural mail delivery—that is free mail delivery to farmers, and before the year is out it will be in operation.

The splendid financial administration of the Liberal Government may be summarized in a few words—we have paid our way, and spent large sums in great public works for the development of the country, without appreciably adding to the public debt, and wihout increasing—but actually reducing—the taxation of the people. Customs taxation was reduced from $18.28 per $100, in 1896, to $13.66 per $100 in 1907, not to mention over one-third reduction in postage rates. If the Conservative average of taxation had been in force since 1896, fifty millions more customs duties would have been paid. The Liberal period of rule has been a reign of surpluses—totalling over one hundred and thirteen millions, or about nine and a half million dollars per year. Conservative revenue averaged thirty six million dollars per year for twelve years ending with 1896. Liberal revenue showed an increase every year till the last fiscal year, when it reached $96,054,905. In the twelve years the expenditure had only grown from $36,649,142, in 1896, to $76,061,451, in 1908.

The expenditure has only kept pace with the progress of Canada, and the Liberal Government has made generous expenditure on public works, which will return to the people a thousand fold.

The financial condition of Canada is sound. Her securities list on a par with securities guaranteed by the British Government, and the confidence of British capitalists is shown by the fact that in the first seven months of this year, British money to aid Canadian development was sent in from England to the amount of 143 millions of dollars.

Among the acts of the Government to advance Canada, the Liberal Government has established an assay office in British Columbia, and the establishment of a Canadian mint, in which our gold and silver coins are produced, adds to our dignity as a nation, and is also a source of profit.

The Liberal Government has appointed civil service commissioners to provide for eliminating political influence in appointments to the civil service.

The Government, acting on the principle that if Canada maintains a Militia, it must be the best, has instituted a great many reforms. New branches of service have been established; the pay of the militia has been increased from 50 cents per day to a possible $1.00; a permanent training camp has been established at Petawawa rifle ranges, and armouries—including one in Peterborough—have been established and built, and the defence of the country amply provided for. The Government has established a rifle factory in Canada, and the "Ross Rifle," to arm the Canadian militia, and pronounced by British experts as the best arm of precision now made, is a "made in Canada" article.

In presenting the foregoing truly remarkable record of achievements, only the salient points of merit have been indicated. A book would be required to unfold it in detail. But enough is shown to amply justify an appeal to the people for a renewal of confidence in a Government which in the short space of twelve years, has brought Canada into a position of prominence in the eyes of the world, has conquered the favour of the Mother Land; has brought Canada from being a timorous dependency, over-awed by hostile tariff-makers in the United States, to the rank of a nation, making her own treaties, coining her own money, a nation full of self reliance and confidence in a future of magnificent realization, for which the foundations have been laid strong and deep by the Liberal Government of the Dominion, whose stewardship is now under review, with confidence that it will meet popular approval.

Such a Government, I have the honour of supporting, and soliciting you to support, in the person of the Liberal candidate. If I am honoured by your confidence, I can only promise that I will endeavour, to the best of my ability, to repeat the efforts to serve West Peterborough and the country, which I have exerted in the course of my past representative relations, with a single eye to serving and promoting the best interests of Peterborough—city and county.

I have the honour to remain, gentlemen,

Your obedient servant,

J. R. Stratton

G.T.P. IS READY FOR NEW YEAR

Collingwood Schreiber Says the Grand Trunk Pacific Will Reach Edmonton By That Time

Winnipeg, Oct. 5.—Special. — That the steel structural bridges over the Battle River and the North Saskatchewan, on the G.T.P., will be finished in time to allow the track to be completed to Edmonton by the new year, was the statement made by Collingwood Schreiber, C. M. G., general consulting engineer to the Government, and chief engineer for the Government on the G.T.P. west of Winnipeg, after an extensive trip over the line of the Government road.

"We went around by Vancouver," said Mr. Schreiber, "and 199 miles up the Skeena River from Prince Rupert inspecting the work done there by Foley, Welch & Stewart. They have between 1000 and 1200 men at work and are pushing the job along at a good rate. They are unimpeded so far, and have opened up a number of rock cuttings. From this trip we returned by way of Vancouver, and went to Edmonton and along the new line to the westward. Returning to Edmonton, we went by C.P.R. to Hardisty, and then drove as far as the Battle River bridge, where they have 21 of the steel spans erected. At the North Saskatchewan bridge we found six steel spans in place, and it is expected that these bridges will be finished and the track completed to Edmonton by the beginning of next year.

"There is a scarcity of men in British Columbia. On the 100 miles in from the coast 500 to 600 men are needed on the rockwork. The work, as a whole, is progressing very satisfactorily."

Mr. Schreiber is accompanied by his wife and Mr. L K Jones, secretary of the Department of Railways and Canals. The party will leave for Ottawa to-day.

BREED OF HENS THAT IS REQUIRED

Time For Poultry Men to Decide—The Individuals Important

From The Canadian Dairyman.

Though it was decided last spring what breed of hens was going to be kept for next year's laying the time will soon be here to decide again what birds will represent that breed. This latter decision is of much more importance than the matter settled in the spring.

In selecting the breed, what was wanted was one that we liked, one that would give eggs the year round, one that laid most in summer and one that gave eggs and meat, etc. The color that suited our fancy, the one that didn't crow too much or too early in the morning, the one that was easiest to keep out of the garden, or the one that was best able to forage. Taking some or all of these questions into consideration most people decided to keep the same breed they had last year, which is probably the best thing to be done. A change of breed may be an improvement sometimes, but usually the man who neglects his flock blames the breed and gets another breed that proves no better. One who is always changing cannot get the best out of any breed. Decide what breed is best for your conditions and then make the flock you keep the very best of the breed.

The breed then is of less importance than the individuals. In selecting the individuals that are to compose the flock there are a few specimens that are not wanted.—Old birds are not profitable. Don't keep an old hen simply because she has some peculiarity you like. Sentiment is all right in its place but in the poultry yard it doesn't always pay. The second season as a rule is long enough for the best hen to live.

Don't have immature pullets in the flock. Have them well developed before cold weather comes. Have no cripples or deformed birds; none that are or have been sick.

If you want to breed true to the breed cull out all that are off in color and shape. Cull out the lazy birds, have no loafers. Like begets like.

Have no male that is not vigorous and full of life. The one that is never heard crow had better be eaten. Give the crower the preference. Have the flock made up of individuals that are good representation of the breed, a fair size rather than over or under. Have them well matured and from a good healthy parent stock of good laying strain before you begin selecting stock.

HOUSE WORK

Thousands of American women in our homes are daily sacrificing their lives to duty.

In order to keep the home neat and pretty, the children well dressed and tidy, women overdo. A female weakness or displacement is often brought on and they suffer in silence, drifting along from bad to worse, knowing well that they ought to have help to overcome the pains and aches which daily make life a burden.

It is to these faithful women that comes as a boon and a blessing, as it did to Mrs. W. Barrett, of 602 Moreau St., Montreal, who writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"For years I was a great sufferer from female weakness, and despite every remedy given me by doctors for this trouble, I grew worse.

"One day a friend advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did so, and am thankful to say that it made me strong and well."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

PLAYING A HUNCH.

By COLIN S. COLLINS.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

His name was James Gleeson Westcott, but his friends insisted that the middle initial stood for "Goat," for Jim's cheerful desire to be of service to his fellow man was forever getting him into trouble.

His misfortune in this regard had caused him to delay his declaration of love for Alma Sheldon. When a man, however innocently, is forever playing the clown he does not stand an excellent chance of being regarded as a romantic and eligible person matrimonially.

The worst of it was that Jimmie never learned by experience. He was as ready as ever to change a ten dollar bill for a stranger after having been caught with a counterfeit the day before, and that he was not always swindled was proof sufficient to him that the world was not always to be regarded with suspicion.

And so it happened that when a strange woman on the suburban station platform thrust a child in his arms and begged him to take it to her sister in the city Jim accepted his charge.

"I'd ask some lady to take him," explained the woman, "only there don't seem to be none going in on this train."

"That's all right," was Westcott's cheerful response. "There will be some one on the train if I need help with this little shaver, but he looks as though he was going to be as good as gold."

Followed by the woman's voluble thinks, Jimmie climbed aboard the train and hoped that none of his set would select the same car.

He did not dare go near the smoker, so he ensconced himself in the rear seat of the last car and thanked his good fortune that the through train stopped at the stations most favored by the people he knew. These who, like himself, were going to the Tarvet-Harding wedding would prefer the exclusiveness of the Pullmans carried on the more important train.

The baby was good tempered and playful, and Westcott was having the time of his life when the train came to a halt at the first station and an incoming passenger uttered a shout and bore down upon him. It was Ben Royster, with a party of the wedding guests.

"Look who's here!" he shouted, attracting the attention of his companions. "This is rich, Jim. I never supposed that you would fall for the abandonment game!"

"His mother is to meet me at the station," explained Westcott, miserably conscious of the fact that Miss Sheldon had boarded the train. "She couldn't afford the fare to come out and get the child. He's been having a vacation in the country at his aunt's because the hot weather in town is bad for him."

"That's a better story than the average," agreed his tormentor. "When you get to town, Jim, turn him over to the desk sergeant at the nearest station house. You'll be late for the wedding by the time that you have explained all about it."

"How did you come to be on this train?" demanded Westcott. "I had intended to run down to your station and take the express myself."

"Train was late, and the stop was cut out," explained Ben Royster. "We kicked when we heard it, but we are glad now. It wouldn't have missed this for a million. Pullman car."

The noisy speech and the presence of the score of people crowding about Westcott's seat roused the tiny traveler. His eyes wrinkled, and from the button of a mouth there was emitted a yell which was scarcely heard above the delighted shouts of the little audience. The fresh outburst started the child in earnest, and Westcott looked miserable.

Vainly he sought to quiet the child with his watch and a bright silver coin. Neither the ticking nor the silvery chime of the repeater stilled the cries, and at last Alma Sheldon came to his rescue.

She drove into their midst the crowd of tormentors and then took her place beside Westcott. Her golden chatelaine proved more efficacious than the watch, and presently the baby's cries were stilled, to Westcott's great relief.

"He's a splendid little fellow," he declared. "He'll be as good as gold!" Royster has spoken of the way."

"He's a fine little chap!" she commented, "but don't you think that you were a little bit—er—inconsiderate to take charge of a strange child? There are so many abandonments, you know."

"Not a bit," insisted Westcott. "Of course there are inhuman mothers, but, you see, this wasn't his mother, but his aunt."

Miss Sheldon smiled at the explanation.

"You could see that she was worried because there were so many coming into town," Westcott went on. "She told me I could find some one to look out for him on the train. Of course I didn't suppose that I should run into all of you—in fact, I was thinking only about the poor mother who was waiting there in town for the baby she hadn't seen in three weeks. Just fancy not seeing a child for three weeks and then being disappointed, because there was no one to take it at the other end!"

The last part of the sentence was a trifle ambiguous, and Miss Sheldon smiled again as she wondered if perhaps such trouble might not exist at both ends of the journey.

It was a kindly smile, though, for Westcott's faith was in pleasant contrast to Royster's cynical jests that even now came floating back to the rear seat. She was glad that they had already entered the outskirts of the town. Their arrival at the station would soon end the situation.

"In case there has been any mistake," she suggested, "it would be well to take the child to the police station. You can tell the depot police, and then should the mother come later she can be directed to the station house."

"She'll be there," declared Westcott, with cheerful optimism, and Miss Sheldon liked him the better for it. The train had entered the yard, and now Westcott gathered the little bundle of white clothes and pink face in his arms and prepared to leave the car.

The others of the party formed themselves into an escort, and they headed for the exit, Royster making imaginary book with ever increasing odds that no anxious mother would be found at the end of the long platform.

Westcott did not abate his confident smile, though he longed to thrash Royster for the attention he was attracting to the party. In some way the story had spread through the other cars, and quite a crowd of the incoming passengers were gathered opposite the exit gate by the time that Westcott reached it. As they passed the exit a woman sprang forward and, with a cry of "Micky!" snatched the child from Westcott's arms.

"Sure, an' I was feared that Susie could find divil a wan to take care of the bye," she protested, "an' it's me thanks to your leddy, sir. It takes one mother to feel for another, even if it's only me as it is. May the saints bring you all sorts of luck for your kindness to a poor woman!"

Royster shouted at the woman's mistake, and more than ever the blushing Westcott longed to kick him. Alma hurried to give credit where it belonged and explained that it was Westcott who had accepted the commission.

"The gintleman, is it?" gasped the baby's mother. "Sure an' I should have known, but you do be makin' the fine pair, the two av yes. It do be a shame that ye ain't married. Sure the fine gentleman 'ud make an illigant husband to some pretty lady. She'll never be sorry for marryin' a kind man like that."

With crimson face Westcott hurried Alma over to the cab ranks and helped her into a hansom, still followed by the profuse thanks and compliments of the grateful mother. As the cab rolled away they caught the twentieth repetition of the assertion that the kind gentleman would make a fine husband for some one. Westcott turned to Miss Sheldon.

"Are you willing to play that 'hunch,' Alma?" he asked wistfully. "I know that in lots of things I'm a joke, but—don't you care a little for me, dear?"

Her hand stole into his behind the shelter of the hansom apron. "I'll play that hunch across the board, Jimmie," she declared, following his racing talk.

"I guess I am a fool," he admitted regretfully. "I should have taken a four wheeler. I didn't have any hunch about that."

Green Spots in Chile's Desert.

Northern Chile, which is so largely mountain or desert, is generally regarded as a forbidding wilderness, but in spite of its natural desolation the landscape presents a scene of great beauty under the softened hues of sunset, and here and there in the waste of sand and salt may be found by looking for them a number of oases, the most conspicuous of which are Pica and Matilla. These oases are supplied with water from the high Andes, but the particular streams that support their life are not certainly known. It has been found that in various parts of the great Atacama desert the earth underneath the surface layer of sand or salt is sufficiently moist to grow crops, capillary attraction spreading the water through the soil. The rainless Atacama desert is the scene of the greatest industry of its kind in the world, yielding enormous quantities of nitrates, used to enrich the fields of Europe and the United States. The oases play a very important economic role in the industries of the region, supplying vegetables and foodstuffs for the support of the workmen, alfalfa for the cattle and various fruits, and also serving as timber producers for the nitrate works, which require much fuel. There is no part of the world where agriculture is more extensively carried on than in these green spots in the Atacama desert.—Zion's Herald.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., NEW YORK.

IS CONSCIENCE MONEY

BRITISH TREASURY GETS MANY WINDFALLS.

Penitents In Three Months Pay In £400 Ranging From £355 to Half a Crown—One Woman Who Beat the Government Returned a Single Postage Stamp—Private Companies Also Receive Refunds.

Windfalls from conscience-stricken people come to the British Treasury in some curious ways, but the hidden secrets underlying these payments are never revealed to the public, who are left to draw their own inferences. Even the remittance of small sums is as mysterious as the receipt of bank-notes of the value of hundreds of pounds. Acknowledgment of "conscience money" is made through the columns of The Times almost every day, and within the past two or three months the sums sent to the Chancellor of the Exchequer have amounted to upwards of £400. The largest sum forwarded this year was £355 in bank-notes, and the smallest was a postal order for half a crown. The name of the sender is never disclosed by the Treasury, but sometimes these contributions from penitent people are accompanied by strange letters.

Not many months ago the Chancellor received 360 sovereigns from a person who merely signed himself "X.X.X.," and explained that the coins were payment of "conscience money." The gold was neatly packed in a tin box and sent by post, and, of course, there was no means of finding out who the sender was. Nor did he wish his name to be known, for he requested that acknowledgment of the money should be made through the newspapers.

Not long ago a secretary found on his desk in the Treasury Office a big, stout envelope inside of which was a square piece of wood, pierced with a number of round holes. In each of these, wrapped in paper, were a certain number of sovereigns, totalling altogether 100. Then there is the case of a woman who once sent a single penny stamp, explaining that she had defrauded the Government of that amount of postage five years previously.

In marked contrast to this "conscience-stricken" mortal was an Englishman living abroad who sent a draft to the Treasury for £200. Another "penitent," who had swindled the state of £85 in his income-tax return, forwarded the amount in bank-notes with this letter: "The Chancellor of the Exchequer. Dear Sir,—I am sending you herewith £85, which is to go to the use of the Government. I will send more soon, until I have repaid fourfold, in accordance with the teaching of the Scriptures. The way of the transgressor is hard. No one knows how I have suffered for my wrong, and I would seek to make a bountiful restoration. May God pardon, while His Majesty's Government is benefited."

Perhaps the largest amount of "conscience money" in one sum that has ever been paid is the check for £2,845 which was sent by the vicar of St. Giles', Cripplegate, to the United States Secretary of the Treasury some years ago, with the explanation that the sum was entrusted to him by a person who declined to disclose his identity, but who said that he had come into possession of the money by defrauding the United States Government.

But it is not the Treasury alone to whom "conscience money" is paid. On five different occasions an advertisement appeared in one of the London daily newspapers in which a well-known company acknowledged receipt of £100 "as conscience money from X.Y.Z." Five times the person who concealed his identity behind these letters sent to the company in question a £100 note and a postal order for 10s. The receipt of the money caused surprise, but with the remittance the sender enclosed a letter of explanation to the effect that it was the first instalment of £500 which he intended to refund. The ten shillings, it was stated, was to defray the cost of acknowledging in a certain newspaper the receipt of the £100. This was repeated regularly until the whole sum of £500 was paid.

Public companies and corporations also receive "conscience money" from time to time, but it is perhaps insurance concerns that are most fortunate in this respect. It is well known that companies which do fidelity guarantee business receive large sums from those who have been guilty of embezzlement. It is on record that the secretary of one of these companies discovered among his letters one day an envelope containing £400 in bank-notes, accompanied by a letter stating that the writer, who did not divulge his name, returned the money which the company had had to pay nine years previously through his having betrayed the trust of his employers. Fire insurance offices, too, are frequently the recipients of "conscience money." Once a man called at one of these offices and handed over the counter £170, which he said he had been asked by "a friend in America" to pay, but whose name he did not reveal. There is also a case in which an old-established fire office received between £800 and £1,000 from a man who had defrauded it upwards of thirty years ago.

Considering the number of frauds that are perpetrated on railway companies, it is surprising that they receive so little "conscience money" as they do. The man who swindles the railways evidently does it with as much unconcern as the man who cheats the Exchequer. Probably the biggest sum ever refunded to a railway company was received on one occasion when it was least expected. The sender of the money did not give his name, but he indicated that the money was meant as recompense for something which he had done many years previously, and which had since troubled his conscience.

It sometimes happens that hotel companies are in luck. Guests have been known to leave without paying their bills, but some of them have been honest enough to "stump up" later on.

KNOWN BY NICKNAMES.

Places Where a Genuine Surname is Never Even Heard.

In many places in Great Britain, and especially in some of the fishing villages of Cornwall and of certain parts of Scotland, such a thing as a genuine surname is never even heard. Every man in the place is known by a nickname.

In most of these villages this has been brought about originally by the fact that all the inhabitants have only had very few surnames among them. One or two prevailing families have represented the population and have married and intermarried till trying to distinguish a man by his surname has only created confusion. And even some of the nicknames have begun to act in the same way. At a village not very far from Wick the writer knows of some fishermen who had originally been nicknamed "Dumpy" and had left so many descendants that other specific nicknames had been necessary to distinguished which of the "Dumpys" was meant on given occasions.

At another village not far from this one several nicknames have in the same way become the only known family names. The writer was once in the general shop here when a small boy came in and asked for some article, stating that it was for Blower.

"Blower?" said the shopkeeper. "Which Blower? There are scores of Blowers?"

The child answered at once:

"It's for 'Rowleggit' Blower, 'Red Lugged' (eared) Blower's laddie."—London Answers.

THE COCA PLANT.

Its Leaves Used as an Invigorant in South America.

Coca is the South American invigorant. The shrub from which the coca leaves are obtained grows under favorable conditions to a height of about four meters. It is cultivated in Peru and Bolivia.

At the time the crop is gathered the seeds are sown in beds, when they germinate and grow, and in two months the growing plants reach a height of about a foot. The leaves, grown in the proper sunlight and shade, are yellowish, small and thick.

This is the kind of leaf that is preferred for chewing by persons using the leaf as a stimulant, fortifier and preventive of sleep and fatigue in the performance of arduous work, inasmuch as they prevent rheumatism, from which miners suffer when working in mines that contain much water. Indians who masticate the leaves of this plant can work twenty-four hours without eating or sleeping.

Coca leaves are used by the natives when engaged in long and fatiguing journeys and by soldiers when subject to hardships and privations. They may be used with all kinds of food and are said to cure dyspepsia, either taken as an infusion in the shape of tea or by masticating the leaves. The life of the plant when perfect is eighty years.

Man and the Motor.

"Yep," said Uncle Rooster as he soberly traced in the glass the increasing whiteness of his hair and beard and the remarkable deepening and spreading of his innumerable facial wrinkles—"yep, man is like the motor car, by guinea."

"How so?" inquired the city nephew.

"Because," said Uncle Rooster, "by the time he's got in good workin' order in all his bearin's an' paid fur hisself to the last instalment an' learnt to do his daily run with ease an' certainty an' never a breakdown, why, he's antiquated by that time, the noo models is out, an' there's nothin' fur him but the shelf."

Lighting the Nest.

There dwells in upper Burma a bird with the high sounding name of Newcouris baza, but which is really a sort of blackbird. It is conspicuously clever, at least in one curious particular, for it actually lights up its nest artificially. To do this it works up a lot of clay into balls and sticks these balls all over with living fireflies in such a way that, although the fireflies are held captive, they shine all the same. The Newcouris baza then decorates its nest with half a dozen or so of these balls by hanging them round. The balls last for only a few days and are then replaced by others, and so on all through the nesting season.

PIMPLES

ALTHOUGH, NOT A DANGEROUS DISEASE, ARE A VERY TROUBLESOME AND UNSIGHTLY AFFLICTION . . .

They are caused by either poverty or impurity of the blood and require the prompt use of a good blood medicine such as Burdock Blood Bitters, for their eradication, which it speedily accomplishes, at the same time strengthening the entire system. Pimples also often arise from dyspepsia and constipation, and in these cases Burdock Blood Bitters has the double effect of removing the pimples together with their cause.

Mr. D. P. Sammon, Oconoh, Ont., writes "I was troubled with pimples all over my face and hands. I paid out money to doctors but they could do me no good. A friend convinced me to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and after using two bottles the pimples vanished, and I have not been troubled with them since."

THE NEW FIGURE.

A French Corsetiere Has Made it Possible of Achievement.

A corset establishment in Paris is making a corset cut very low beneath the waist, so that from the bust downward the silhouette of the figure appears absolutely straight. The waist line vanishes; the hips are deprived of contour; the bust no longer exists. Having prohibited the graceful outline of the figure, usually so carefully preserved, the body is swathed in fabric, literally wound round and round it from under the arms to the hips.

Below the hips the material is so arranged without a wrinkle so tightly that the wearer thereof can only shuffle in her movements, after which once more several draperies are introduced, so that about the feet there are multitudes of folds, calculated still further to impede easy and natural progress. So madame or mademoiselle is swathed exactly as are the little babies of Della Robbia and most all over Florence and Italy. No doubt the corset makers get their ideas from these pictures and casts.

If it is found to be impossible to make the waist of the same measurement as the hips, the corset is actually padded to add inches to the circumference of the waist—an extraordinary reversal of the usual order of procedure. The woman, therefore, with nothing to commend her in a race for beauty except a large waist, possessing neither bust nor hips, will surely win in these times, when all that is natural and full of curves is tabooed. Like artists who are bent on painting endaverous women with necks half a yard long, the couturiers are now becoming morbid and seeking only what seems to fascinate a sickly imagination.

The flying skirts of liberty, meteor, mervelluse or crepe de chine—these fabrics employed because of their clinging qualities—need some repressing influence to draw them down and keep the folds in place and grasp the form close. Every dressmaker has his own method of securing the required result, some by ribbon ties, others by loops of elastic attached to the ankles.

DO YOUR BEST.

Good Motto For the Girl Who Works.

Girls and women who are starting out on a business, professional or industrial career, each and every one of them would do well to embroider a motto in large letters upon their inner consciousness.

The words to be elaborately emblazoned where none else may see are these: "Whatever comes to you to be done, do it with the best within you."

There comes a time to all when we have to perform big and little tasks that are distasteful to us.

The girl who has a college or even a high school education in starting out upon a business life will frequently be called upon to do things that she may consider beneath her dignity. But that is no excuse for not doing them well.

The stenographer often may be asked to do the errands of the office boy; the teacher may find that she will have a sweep the schoolroom floor, a duty that the janitor has carelessly failed to do, or the girl in the library may have to carry a large armful of books, a work which obviously belongs to the porter.

None of these duties were included in the bargain when the girl or woman sought employment. For this reason the performance of the hated tasks is done with a careless hand and no interested thought.

But whenever a task comes to your hand to be done, no matter what it is, do it with the best that is in you, for every task has its useful lesson.

It is just as honorable to wash dishes well as to run a bank successfully. The girl who can paint a beautiful picture should be as proud of her ability to dust a room thoroughly as to portray a sunset in brilliant colors. The prophets of the Bible told us to do all things to the glory of God.

It does not matter whether dishes are to be washed, floors to be scrubbed, a dinner cooked, a poem written or a marble chiseled. One act of service is as good as another. All depends on its performance.

Fun is a Necessity.

Most people have the impression that fun and humor are life incidents, not necessities; that they are luxuries and have no great bearing upon one's career.

Many think fun is frivolous indicating a lack of serious purpose in life. There are parents who rebuke their children because they want to have fun and go in for a good time. These parents have yet to learn the great part which fun and humor play in the physical economy and their influence on the life.

What a complete revolution of your whole physical and mental being comes after seeing a really funny play! You went to the play tired, jaded, worn-out, discouraged. All your mental faculties were clogged with brain ash. You could not think clearly. When you came home you were a new being.—Success Magazine.

The Sad Old Story.

Apropos of the baby the following squib will be enjoyed:

"An old physician was noted for his brusque manner and old fashioned methods. A woman called him in to treat her baby, who was slightly ailing. The doctor prescribed castor oil.

"But, doctor," protested the young mother, "castor oil is such an old fashioned remedy."

CANADIAN DANCER.

Miss Maud Allan Talks About Her Successes in England.

"My dancing," says Miss Maud Allan, the Canadian girl who has made such a sensation in London by her dancing, "is, as it were, a continuation from where the ancient Greeks left off, and by combining our modern music with their movements I attempt to put into the rhythm of the dance something of the thought of to-day. You see, my dances depend entirely on the music, and just as the arches and the columns of a great temple vibrate to the chords of the organ, so does my soul vibrate to the music of my dances. I know nothing of the technique of dancing, and the arts of the coryphee mean nothing to me. I have sought all my attitudes and movements in the art galleries of Europe, on Etruscan vases and Assyrian tablets, and I have modelled my motions on their crude paraphernalias.

"And I feel somehow that Salome was as unstudied and as untaught as I. She had seen her women dance perhaps, and she must often have stopped to look at the old Assyrian tablets as I have done, and unconsciously incorporated their pictures in her dramatic interpretation of the tragedy of the moment when she danced before King Herod. She danced by instinct, for dancing, however conventional it may become, is in its essence a thing of instinct. And a tribe in savage Africa would display the same motions of fear, or joy, or sorrow, as we ourselves. Dances express emotions and these dances are neither the swaying to and fro to a valse measure in a London drawing-room, nor the pirouetting on one toe of an Austrian ballerina. Such dancing as that is not the expression of an immortal soul stirred by all the mystery of existence, tortured, as was Salome's soul by the tragedy of her sin. Dancing is only an expression of life. People to-day never appear to me to possess the idea of what life really is. It isn't giving way to the desires of the flesh; it means being one's own controller, influenced only by the very few. And to so influence people for their good is the only true kingship. I would sooner be the power behind the throne than the king upon it.

"But do you know what was the most exciting dance I ever danced? One morning, long ago, I climbed a fence, and jumped down into a little hollow beneath. I heard a loud hissing, and, looking down, I saw a huge 'rattler' darting at me. I gave a scream, and then realised that I was standing upon its mate. For the moment I was paralysed, and then I started to run; another snake, and another snake, and another snake sprang up. I realised at last that I was in their breeding place, and in another moment I saw I was surrounded by literally a hundred of them. I danced here, I dodged there, and I ran the whole time with the brutes in full pursuit; but I flew faster than they, and at last a little stream crossed the wood, and I dashed across it, and they could follow me no farther. Yes, my most exciting dance was in that Californian forest long, long ago." And then, with a quaint turn of her flexible mind, she added: "But not even their venom can equal that of the venom of those who wilfully misconstrue my innocent Salome dance."

FLIES CAUSE ILLUSION.

Lieutenant Davidson of Bay street fire hall, Toronto, is profoundly certain that what that city needs is countless reams of fly paper.

It so chanced that a plain citizen strolling down James street about 7 o'clock a few night ago glanced up at the city hall tower, and beheld that which gave him pause. From the pinnacle there puffed forth a wisp of smoke, or, so it seemed, shriveled up, and, as the breeze caught it, eddied into nothingness, but as he looked fresh whiffs emerged from the tower.

"The city hall's on fire," he informed another citizen who had joined him, and soon quite a large group had gathered. They were shortly joined by the night caretaker, who felt weighed down with responsibility for the three million civic pile, as he looked upward, and felt impelled to 'phone the Property Commissioner.

The Commissioner 'phoned Bay street station, and Lieut. Davidson was assigned the role of investigator. He was taken up in the tower elevator, with a lantern, explored every nook and cranny, in search of a possible cigar stub left to smoulder by some careless visitor. Half an hour later he came down.

"Stung again," he vouchsafed, as he washed his grimy hands.

She Hugged "Bobs."

Enthusiasm is a fine thing, no doubt, but there are times when it may be overdone. Earl Roberts probably thought so at Quebec some time ago when the following incident occurred. He was buying some furs in a big establishment. A well-known Montreal lady espied him. She is naturally enthusiastic, and the sight of the hero of Kandahar was too much for her.

"Bobs" stood at the counter looking over some fine pelts, when she rushed at him. Before he could do a thing in his defence, or devise a scheme of retreat, she was upon him.

Wildly flingly her arm over his shoulder, and literally hugging him in her ecstatic admiration, she cried out:

"Oh, you dear old Bobs, I just love you!"

Stamps Were a Success.

The Postoffice Department reports that the sale of special issues of stamps in commemoration of the Quebec Tercentenary has now reached a total of twenty-nine millions, aggregating $589,000. There has been a big demand for the stamps from collectors all over the world. The issues of the various denominations will be exhausted in a few days, and no more will be printed.

One of the most curious of all known phosphorescent larvae is found in British Guiana, near the Brazilian border, where it is known to the natives by the name of macaboeb.

YEAR OF PROGRESS.

Fiscal Reports Show Growth of Canada In Twelvemonth.

Canadian progress is outlined in the introduction to the annual series of consular reports on the Dominion just published by the bureau of manufacturers, Department of Commerce and Labor.

The total trade for the calendar year 1907, according to Canadian statistics, was $648,150,000, of which $372,825,000 were imports and $275,325,000 exports. The increase in imports over the previous year was $69,758,000, and in exports $3,849,000. The figures for the Canadian fiscal year, which ended March 31, 1908, make approximately the same showing. The United States exported to Canada in the calendar year goods to the value of $223,582,000 which was an increase of $26,455,000 over the previous year. This increase was maintained in the face of the preferential tariff which gives the United Kingdom an advantage of about 30 per cent. in the customs duties. The exports from the United States to Canada are more than to all the rest of North America, including Cuba and the West Indies; more than twice the amount to South America or Asia, and four times that to Oceanica.

The imports from the United Kingdom into Canada were $96,849,000, an increase of $10,204,000 over the previous year. Exports to the United Kingdom decreased $8,468,000.

Capital from the United States has been invested in Canada in one hundred and fifty important industries since 1897. The immigration from the United States during 1907 was 58,000, and the estimated property brought by these immigrants was $49,000,000.

The mineral production in 1907 was $86,183,000, an increase of $6,183,000 over 1906. There was a loss of $4,000,000 in gold production, a slight increase in copper, and an increase in coal from $19,945,000 to $24,560,000. The wheat crop now averages approximately 100,000,000 bushels annually.

In 1907 fifteen hundred miles of railways were constructed, and the total mileage in operation at the beginning of the present year was a little short of 23,000. It is estimated that $75,000,000 will be spent in railway construction in 1908.

In electrical development the present plans contemplate 400,000 horsepower from Niagara on the Canadian side, as compared with 2,000,000 horse-power on the United States side. About $80,000,000 is involved in an important electric light and power enterprise to transmit the power 119 miles to London, Ont. Substantially all the importations of electrical apparatus are from the United States, that country having sent $3,341,000 worth, as against $74,000 from the United Kingdom. In dutiable machinery other than agricultural the United States supplied $8,235,000 out of a total of $6,960,000.

The United Kingdom has better success in holding the market against the United States for textiles. The United States only supplies 12 per cent. of the textile imports. The importation of woollen goods from the United Kingdom increased from $10,000,000 in 1900 to $21,087,000 in 1905. Coincidently the number of Canadian woollen mills declined from 167 to 103.

As an illustration of the increased cost of living it is said that the royal commission has recommended an increase in salaries for the civil service employes of 12 per cent. in Eastern Canada and 2 to 25 per cent. in Western Canada.

CANADA'S BEST SHOT.

Sergeant Morris, Though Young, Has Long List of Honors.

Sergeant Frank H. Morris, 48th Regiment, Bowmanville, who has made such a phenomenal record at Bisley this year, making the highest aggregate in the whole empire, winning the coveted Gold Cross of the National Rifle Association, and several other valuable prizes, is one of a trio of marksmen from the Dominion Organ & Piano factory of Bowmanville—Major W. C. King (adjutant of the Canadian team), Pte. Geo. J. Rowe and Sergeant F. H. Morris. He was born at Shanklin, Isle of Wight, 29 years ago. J. H. Morris, his father, is also a Wimbledon man and winner of many prizes in local and Provincial Rifle Association matches. Sergeant Morris won second place in last year's Bisley's team. Last year was his first time at Bisley, when he won £6 for the team and £6 for himself. At Long Branch ranges in 1906 he won the gold medal of the Corporation of Toronto, the Culverwell Cup for highest aggregate at Cobourg last year, and the Hopper Cup of the Cobourg Rifle Association, winning two years the East Durham Rifle Association cup in 1905, the Canadian Military Rifle League's trophy, Ottawa, in 1906 for highest aggregate at long range, and a host of lesser prizes.

Origin of Pommes Souffles.

Speaking of the first railway in France, a French journal points out that it was in connection with this event that the virtues of pommes souffles were discovered. A French chef was traveling on the new line from Paris to St. Germain and was preparing in the train the banquet which was to celebrate the opening. Just before arriving at St. Germain he threw some potatoes in the boiling butter. The train, however, was delayed, and the potatoes had to be taken out again. When the train restarted the potatoes were once again put in the boiling butter and to every one's delight were found, on being taken out, to be deliciously light and inflated. The beauties of the pomme souffles had been revealed.

The Swiss Referendum.

In some of the cantons of Switzerland a method resembling the referendum has been in practice since the sixteenth century. The present form was adopted in the canton of St. Gallen in 1830. In 1848, in spite of conservative opposition, the referendum was incorporated in the Swiss federal constitution, and in 1874 its application was extended. In all the cantons, except Frieburg, the referendum is now established.

PATE DE FOIE GRAS.

Fearful Cruelty That Makes This Dainty a Possibility.

To the ordinary man and woman no conception of the torture to which the poor, unfortunate geese in put could possibly be forced.

The geese when about nine months old are taken from the pastures and pinned in an underground cellar, where broad, slanting stone slabs stand in rows, and are bound fast to the bars. They are literally crucified.

Feet, wings and bodies are spread out and bound by bands, so that only the neck is left free. As may be imagined, the animal struggles with all its might against this stretching till, after days of vain endeavor to free itself from the bands and its position, its powers of resistance are overcome, and a dull resignation, broken only by its low cries, takes possession of it. Two months must pass away before death brings relief.

The animals are meanwhile crammed with dumplings made of dough of buckwheat, chestnuts and stewed maize. Every two hours, six times a day, they receive from three to five dumpling pills, which in time become so sweet to the tortured creatures that they stretch their necks to be crammed.

The most difficult task is to determine the right moment for death. Those who die of their own accord are lost to the liver factory; therefore a kind of study is needed to see when the cup of agony is brimming full and the liver is ripe for taking. The bodies of such ripe ones are like pumpkins. Where ordinarily fingers are buried in flesh and fat nothing but skin and bone are found. The livers have absorbed all the strength and juices.

WHY WE SLEEP.

Darkness and Our Eyes the Answer, Says a Scientist.

If it were always daylight we should never sleep. So says a scientist. There is no particular reason why we or any other animals should rest on an average eight or nine hours a day.

The period of rest has been determined by the fact that eight hours is the average time when there is a lack of sufficient light to enable us to move about in comfort.

This most fundamental distinction between day and night is wholly relative to the sense of sight. It only affects those types of life which have developed eyes.

Plants, being dependent for their growth upon the action of rays of sunlight which fall upon their leaves, have a wide distinction between day and night functions. They eat and digest in the light and grow during the hours of darkness.

The lowest forms of animal life—the sightless denizens of ocean depths—do not rest at regular intervals. They prowl around incessantly, seeking prey by the sense of touch alone. When they rest it is at irregular periods. In other words, they have no distinct periodicity of their own.

But as soon as eyes are developed, and in proportion of this development, animals begin to divide their time into two main portions—a waking and a sleeping time. While there is light they perform all motive functions. When darkness comes they retire to rest or lair to rest.

Chinese Athletics.

The Chinese have always had athletic exercises of a sort in which they have rather prided themselves, though none ever seem to have taken such a hold on the nation as ours have on us during the last century or so. They have plenty of stories of strong men capable of wielding extraordinary weapons, of bending wondrous bows or of lifting heavy weights, etc.

Even within the last few years feats of archery were done before an officer could get his commission in the army, and in almost any village there is a bamboo with a pierced stone at either end to test the strength of the rising generation in lifting. But there was nothing of regular athletic training, except for a few wrestlers perhaps, before foreigners came.—Shanghai Mercury.

Short Memory.

"My wife," growled Hadley, "is the most forgetful woman."

"Indeed!" queried his friend sympathetically.

"Yes. She can never remember in the morning where I left my pipe the night before."

TRENT CANAL

ONTARIO-RICE LAKE DIVISION

SECTION No. 7

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Trent Canal", will be received until 12 o'clock on Tuesday, the 20th day of October, 1908, for the works connected with the construction of Section No. 7, Ontario-Rice Lake Division of the Canal.

Plans, Specifications and the form of the contract to be entered into, can be seen on and after September 26th, 1908, at the office of the Chief Engineer, of the Department of Railways and Canals, Ottawa, and on the office of the superintending Engineer, Trent Canal, Peterborough, Ont., at which places forms of tender may be obtained.

Parties tendering will be required to accept the fair wages Schedule prepared or to be prepared by the Department of Labour, which Schedule will form part of the contract.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and in the case of firms, unless there are attached the actual signatures, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm.

An accepted bank cheque for the sum of $10,000.00 must accompany each tender, which sum will be forfeited, if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work, at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The cheques thus sent in will be returned to the respective contractors whose tenders are not accepted.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
L. K. JONES,
Secretary.

THE SECOND ADDRESS OF HON. J. R. STRATTON TO THE ELECTORS OF THE ELECTORAL DIVISION OF WEST PETERBOROUGH

To the Electors of West Peterborough:

Gentlemen,—In my first address to you, I aimed to point out what had been accomplished by the Liberal Governments of Ontario and of the Dominion in promoting what may be described as the local interests of West Peterborough, in the provision of local advantages to meet local needs, and serve public interests.

I now wish to suggest some of the many reasons why the present Government should be sustained, and given an opportunity of continuing the great work it has accomplished for Canada as a whole. There is not a city resident, nor dweller in the suburbs, not a labourer, nor an artizan, not a mechanic, nor a manufacturer, nor anybody in any walk of life, that has not enjoyed more prosperity, had his welfare improved, his business benefitted, during the twelve years of rule of the present Liberal Government, which is now appealing for a renewal of its stewardship.

There is not a farmer in Peterborough county, who does not know that every farm, properly managed, has increased in value, and every farmer in prosperity, in the twelve years of Liberal rule. There is not a farmer who does not know that general conditions have been vastly improved; who does not know to what a general extent the clear deed for the farm has replaced the farm mortgage; new buildings replaced dilapidated structures; home comforts increased, and general conditions of well-being improved.

It is therefore incumbent upon me to present as concise a view as possible of the record of the Liberal Government, whose supporter I am, to set forth what it has done in the twelve years of its trusteeship to promote the general welfare of Canada.

To emphasize this record, the condition of the country previous to the Liberal Government assuming power, may be recalled. It is no exaggeration to say that at that time the country was practically at a standstill; that business was dormant; our industries languishing; manufacturers dissatisfied; the Conservative Government was fighting amongst themselves, and had ceased to effectively govern. Our finances were at low-water mark; expenditure was running ahead of receipts, deficits were almost annual, the national debt advancing, the country torn by dissensions and the outlook gloomy.

The first notable action of the Liberal Government, as a necessary preliminary to national progress, was to restore peace and harmony among the people—by the satisfactory and lasting settlement of a burning question. Peace having thus been restored, the Liberal Government was free to enter upon the work of nation-building.

The tariff, which, under previous administrations, was not giving satisfactory results, either to the people affected, or in the way of revenue, was readjusted with careful consideration of all interests, the consumer as well as the producer. The farmer was helped by having binder twine, barbed wire, Indian corn, cream separators, and articles of staple necessity, placed on the untaxed list of imports. Manufacturers, and through them the wage-earners, were helped by removal, or reduction, of duties on raw material used in manufacturing.

The result was an immediate improvement in the condition of all national interests; prosperity resumed its reign, trade became active, employment plentiful, wages increased, and a rate of good growth taken on which can only be understood by recalling some of the records.

Under the revised tariff, our revenue, even under a tariff lowered on an average of $18.28 per $100, at the close of Conservative rule to an average of $15.66 per $100, under Liberal rule, increased from thirty-six millions a year, in 1896, to ninety-six millions in 1908.

The capital invested in manufacturing establishments increased from $446,916,487 in 1900, to $833,916,155 in 1905, or over seventy million dollars per year.

The wages paid to labour in factories, increased from $113,249,330 in 1900, to $162,155,578 in 1905, or nearly ten million dollars per year.

The value of products of manufacturing establishments grew from $481,053,375, in 1900, to $708,446,578 in 1905, the increase in the manufactured output of the city of Peterborough in that period amounting to eleven millions odd, being far the greatest proportion of increase of any one place in the Dominion.

The total foreign trade—imports and exports—has in the past twelve years of Liberal administration amounted to the tremendous total of 5,152, millions of dollars.

The yearly growth of the total foreign trade of Canada is shown by the fact that it grew from $235,025,360 in 1896, to $650,738,200 in 1908.

In twelve years the farmers of Canada have received for the products of their farms sent abroad more than a thousand million dollars, and the exports of farm products have increased from $50,502,525 in 1896, to $121,171,199 in 1908.

The value of the exported products of our mines has increased from $8,059,650 in 1896, to $39,117,133 in 1908.

Forest products have increased in value of exports from $27,175,686, in 1906, to $44,170,470 in 1908.

In 1896, Canadian bank discounts the index of commercial and industrial activity, amounted to $224,507,301; they had grown to $584,732,914 in 1908—more than doubled.

The people's deposits in chartered banks and savings banks, have grown from $245,029,143 in 1896, to $650,126,232 in 1908.

The increase in tonnage carried in 1908 by Canadian railways (another index of commercial and industrial activity) was more than fifteen millions greater than the total tonnage carried in 1896, which was 24,266,825 tons as against 68,866,185 tons in 1908.

There was an increase in the export value of bacon and hams from $18,827,928 in twelve Conservative years, to $135,196,311 in the twelve Liberal years; the increase for the same period in butter export values was from $10,513,348, to more than five times—$51,680,095; in cheese, from $127,611,428, to $247,700,332; in wheat, from $45,338,701 to $121,677,639, or nearly five-fold.

In the five years of Liberal rule—from 1901 to 1905—the population of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, increased from 419,512 to 808,863. In the last two years immigration and settlement have so rapidly advanced that the population of these provinces must be well beyond the million mark, for since January 1, 1907, immigrants to the number of 1,219,943 have come into Canada.

Not only have these immigrants the very great value of a million increase of population, but the effects they brought into Canada, exclusive of personal baggage and cash, amounted to $64,442,532, which is fourteen millions more than the total exports of farm products under Conservative rule in 1896.

In 1900 the number of farms worked in these provinces was 54,625; these had increased to 120,439 four years later—1906.

In eighteen years the Conservative Government voted 56 million acres of land to railway companies, or enough to supply 411,000 homesteads of 160 acres each, whereas, in contrast, in twelve years since coming into power the Liberal Government has not given away one acre of land to a railway. The land has been reserved for the settlers, who got 35 million acres in homesteads.

This work of western development, and the increase of population, have benefitted the east; every new household creates fresh demands upon the manufacturing and commercial products of eastern Canada, giving increased work to factories and increased employment to working men.

The prosperity, the all-round quickened activity of national life in Canada attendant upon Liberal rule, has given employment to Canadians at home or found homes for them in the west. This is in strong contrast to the do-nothing immigration policy of the previous Government which could not retain the immigrants brought in nor present conditions attractive enough to keep native-born population at home, nor stop the exodus of the flower of Canadian youth to the United States by the million.

The British preference, or preferential tariff, extended to Great Britain, showed the Liberal Government to represent the party of real loyalty—practical loyalty—to the empire. The result of this gift was a splendid advertisement of Canada, and secured British good-will, with the direct results that it substantially favoured the Canadian consumer, increased imports from Great Britain—three-fold—from $32,894,503 in 1896, to $94,362,383, in 1908— and doubled Canadian exports to Great Britain—from $62,717,041 in 1896, to $126,194,124, in 1908.

This preference was extended to most of the British colonies and, in return, Canada secured a preference in New Zealand, South Africa and Barbadoes, with the result that British Columbia canneries captured nearly the whole trade of New Zealand, and shut out the canneries of the United States; and Canada's example has been followed by nearly all the British colonies.

Such a record of achievement on the more material side on the part of the Liberal Government, amply justifies my appeal for your support to aid in retaining it in a position to continue the splendid service that has been given.

It is not, however, only in material matters, but in matters redounding to the credit of Canada, both at home and abroad, and in providing conditions for the general advantage of the people, that the Liberal Government has done work worthy of the practical recognition involved in its being given another lease of power.

Under the Liberal Government, the French treaty was negotiated by Canadian statesmen, without the help of British statesmen, subject, however, to the approval of the Home Government—a long step forward in Canadian nation-building.

The reign of the Liberal Government has been marked by unprecedented development of transportation facilities—the keynote of Canadian development, progress and prosperity. As a general result, the great bulk of the grain trade of the interior west of the continent is passing through Canadian channels, and New York and other American ports are alarmed at the formidable competition of the Canadian St. Lawrence route.

This condition was brought about by the completion of the enlargement of the St. Lawrence and Welland canal systems to a depth of 14 feet, the equipment of grain shipping harbours on Lake Superior and Georgian Bay, Lake Huron and Lake Erie; the improvement of Montreal, St. John and Halifax harbours, the deepening of the ship channel from Montreal to the Gulf, the extension of telegraph systems down the coast, the abolition of canal tolls, and the making of the St. Lawrence a safe route for ocean ships by day or night.

These great works have not only made the St. Lawrence the grain route of the continent, but directly benefitted shippers and producers—general merchandise and farm products. Last year the saving on reduced insurance rates, caused by the improvements made in the St. Lawrence by the Government, amounted to nearly a million dollars—$925,000.

In the last twelve years, the Liberal Government has expended on transportation; in improving the facilities for marketing the products of factories and farms, the large sum of $121,215,115—on canals, twenty-six millions; on Government railways thirty-one millions; on Montreal harbour and St. Lawrence ship channel, seven millions; on the chief lake harbours, two millions; in aid of the construction and extension of railways, twenty-one millions; and, so far, twenty-seven millions on Transcontinental Railway construction, have been advanced for construction, and upon which, after seven years, the Grand Trunk Pacific will pay the Dominion interest at the rate of three per cent.

In aiding railways to open up the country to development, the Liberal Government have simply invested money. The Conservative way was to give bonuses outright. The Liberal way is to make no gift, a condition of the Liberal grants being that the railways must regard them as a loan and pay in return, by the carrying of mails, an equivalent to a fair rate of interest.

The necessity of the Grand Trunk Pacific is emphasized by reasons of the conditions existing to-day. The movement of western wheat to the market is at this moment impeded by lack of cars, showing the need of more railway service. To meet conditions which will become more pressing as settlement and crop production will increase, through the building of the Grand Trunk Pacific, the Government has decided upon building the Hudson Bay Railway, as another wheat outlet that in the open season will shorten the distance to Liverpool by thousands of miles. And the Government shows its wisdom by making the railway build itself—by providing for the cost by the sale of lands, now valueless, but made valuable by the building of the line itself.

Having regard to the future of this country, no calculation can estimate the tremendous benefits that are accruing, and will accrue to Canada, through the bold and business-like development of our transportation facilities, by the Liberal Government.

The Liberal Government conceived, and is constructing, the Grand Trunk Pacific, which will practically double the settled and cropped area of Canada, from the Pacific to the Atlantic, over a belt 200 miles wide through the heart of New Brunswick, Quebec, Ontario, and western Canada. It will open up millions upon millions of new territory for settlement and development; it will give development and competition in transportation to 2200 miles of grain growing country in the west. The Transcontinental Railway, which will be completed in three or four years, will, at least, duplicate the tremendous development work accomplished by the Canadian Pacific in building up the resources and widening the sweep of Canada's commerce.

The Liberal Government's subsidy of $3,630,000 to the Crow's Nest Pass Railway, secured the speedy construction of a line that opened up the rich mineral Kootenay district, of British Columbia, covered it with thriving towns, villages and mining camps, diverted trade from the United States, and opened up a market for western farm produce. It did more. A condition of the subsidy was a reduction of freight rates by the Canadian Pacific, which built the Crow's Nest line; and this reduction, on wheat alone, saved the farmers in five years, $3,750,000, or $20,0000 more than the amount of the subsidy, not to speak of the vast indirect benefit, a saving and benefit that are to continue for all time.

The Liberal Government established the Railway Commission, whose work is to continually arbitrate between railways and customers, and to deal with and settle freight and other rates. Last session telegraph and telephone lines were brought under the Commission, and now there is assured to the public in respect of these public utilities, all the rights, privileges and advantages that could come from public ownership, and that, too, without incurring a tremendous financial liability for purchase and operation.

The Liberal Government, in its work for Agriculture, has given farming a vital organization, and made the farming interests of Canada one vast co-operative industry. Cold storage for transportation of perishable products and efficient supervision in transit, have resulted in placing Canadian farm, garden, dairy and orchard products upon the British markets in their prime original quality, with a splendid reputation and greatly increased prices.

An example of advanced legislation is the Liberal Government's old age pension act, which brings within the reach of every man and woman in Canada a means for making provision for old age.

The Liberal Government's interest in Labour is shown not only in the broad conditions provided for creating prosperity and industrial activity, and opportunities for employment, but in providing more specific benefits. This is shown in the abolition of the sweating system, so far as concerns Government contracts; the adoption of a fair wage scale for Government contracts; the establishment of a Department of Labour to be placed in charge of a Minister of its own; the publication of the Labour Gazette; the passing of the Lemieux Act, which though only operative since March of last year, has up to August last, been instrumental in amicable settlement of nearly forty strikes, involving over 40,000 employees, and millions of capital, and satisfactory arrangements were made for the limitation and practical cessation of Oriental immigration.

The Liberal Government's adoption of a preferential tariff that produced revenue, made it financially possible to meet the pressing demands of the provinces for increased subsidies, amounting to nearly five million dollars a year of the people's money returned directly to the people for provincial purposes.

The Liberal Government's management of the Post Office is a triumph of business administration. With a reduction in postage rate of over one-third, and with a vastly increased and improved service, a deficit of $750,000 in 1896 was converted into a surplus which steadily increased year by year till this year it reached the large amount of $1,101,827. Such a fruit of good management permitted the Government to initiate another great postal reform—rural mail delivery—that is free mail delivery to farmers, and before the year is out it will be in operation.

The splendid financial administration of the Liberal Government may be summarized in a few words—we have paid our way, and spent large sums in great public works for the development of the country, without appreciably adding to the public debt, and wihout increasing—but actually reducing—the taxation of the people. Customs taxation was reduced from $18.28 per $100, in 1896, to $15.66 per $100 in 1909, not to mention over one-third reduction in postage rates. If the Conservative average of taxation had been in force since 1896, fifty millions more customs duties would have been paid. The Liberal period of rule has been a reign of surpluses—totalling over one hundred and thirteen millions, or about nine and a half million dollars per year. Conservative revenue averaged thirty six million dollars per year for twelve years ending with 1896. Liberal revenue showed an increase every year till the last fiscal year, when it reached $96,054,905. In the twelve years the expenditure had only grown from $36,949,142, in 1896, to $76,061,451, in 1908.

The expenditure has only kept pace with the progress of Canada, and the Liberal Government has made generous expenditure on public works, which will return to the people a thousand fold.

The financial condition of Canada is sound. Her securities list on a par with securities guaranteed by the British Government, and the confidence of British capitalists is shown by the fact that in the first seven months of this year, British money to aid Canadian development was sent in from England to the amount of 143 millions of dollars.

Among the acts of the Government to advance Canada, the Liberal Government has established an assay office in British Columbia, and the establishment of a Canadian mint, in which our gold and silver coins are produced, adds to our dignity as a nation, and is also a source of profit.

The Liberal Government has appointed civil service commissioners to provide for eliminating political influence in appointments to the civil service.

The Government, acting on the principle that if Canada maintains a Militia, it must be the best, has instituted a great many reforms. New branches of service have been established; the pay of the militia has been increased from 50 cents per day to a possible $1.00; a permanent training camp has been established at Petawawa rifle ranges, and armouries—including one in Peterborough—have been established and built, and the defence of the country amply provided for. The Government has established a rifle factory in Canada, and the "Ross Rifle," to arm the Canadian militia, and pronounced by British experts as the best arm of precision now made, is a "made in Canada" article.

In presenting the foregoing truly remarkable record of achievements, only the salient points of merit have been indicated. A book would be required to unfold it in detail. But enough is shown to amply justify an appeal to the people for a renewal of confidence in a Government which in the short space of twelve years, has brought Canada into a position of prominence in the eyes of the world, has conquered the favour of the Mother Land; has brought Canada from being a timorous dependency, over-awed by hostile tariff-makers in the United States, to the rank of a nation, making her own treaties, coining her own money, a nation full of self reliance and confidence in a future of magnificent realization, for which the foundations have been laid strong and deep by the Liberal Government of the Dominion, whose stewardship is now under review with confidence that it will meet popular approval.

Such a Government, I have the honour of supporting and soliciting you to support, in the person of the Liberal candidate. If I am honoured by your confidence, I can only promise that I will endeavour, to the best of my ability, to repay the efforts to serve West Peterborough and the country, which I have exerted in the course of my past representative relation with a single eye to serving and promoting the best interests of Peterborough—city and county.

I have the honour to remain, gentlemen,

Your obedient servant,

J. R. Stratton

INSIDE A SUBMARINE

You Are Invited by a Deafening Splitting Racket...

WORSE THAN A BOILER SHOP.

To Make Yourself Heard at All You Must Shout in the Ear of a Companion—The Economy of Space and the Simplicity of Arrangements.

Climbing down ten rungs of an iron ladder into the interior of a submarine is like going into a boiler shop where there is continuous, deafening, ear splitting racket. It is like a dozen trip hammers chasing a tattoo amid a grind and rumble and thump of machinery as if everything designed to burst your eardrums.

At first the noise in that narrowly confined space is painful and bewildering. To make yourself heard at all you must shout into the ear of a companion. So intense is the strain, says a writer in St. Nicholas, that you marvel how day in and day out human ears can withstand the din.

You find yourself inside what seems an enormous steel cigar painted a neat pearl gray, a color which is serviceable and does not dazzle the eyes. Light comes to you partly through portholes and in part from incandescent lamps placed fore and aft in the dark parts of the hull.

You have expected, of course, to land in a tangle of whirling machinery that fills the inside of the boat from stem to stern, threatening with every revolution to take an arm or a leg off. Instead the first thing you see is an uninterrupted "working space," on deck, measuring 7 by 25 or 30 feet.

At the stern, far in the background, are the machines and engines. In front this section of the vessel is nothing but machinery, a rumbling mass of silver steel and glittering brass revolving at the rate of 500 times a minute, so compact that you wonder how the various parts can turn without conflicting or how it is possible for human hands to squeeze through the maze to oil the machinery.

But this economy of space is as nothing to what you will see. The floor you stand on is a cover for the cells of the storage batteries wherein is pent up the electricity with which your boat will propel herself when she runs submerged.

The four torpedoes, measuring about 21 feet three inches long, eighteen inches in diameter and weighing 1,800 pounds each, are lashed end for end in pairs at either side, and directly over them are tool boxes and hinged bunks for the crew to sleep in.

The very air which is taken along to keep you in you in case the boat should be submerged beneath the surface longer than usual is compressed in a steel cylinder to 300 pounds per square inch, a pressure so intense that were the cylinder to spring a leak no larger than a pin hole and were the tiny stream of escaping air to strike a human being it would penetrate him through and through as a drill a hole through an inch thick board behind him.

And yet everything about the interior arrangements of this boat is so simple that you can see at a glance its purpose. At the forward, where the tip of the cigar comes to a point, are the two torpedo tubes out of which the gunner will send his deadly projectiles scething neath the waters at the rate of 35 miles an hour against an unsuspecting foe.

Directly under the conning tower is a platform, three feet square and elevated three feet from the deck, upon which the captain stands, head and shoulders extending into the tower, so that while at his post he is visible to the crew only from the waist line down, and at the front the captain and on a level with the platform is stationed another of the officers, in charge of the wheel that controls the diving rudders and the gauges that register the angle of ascent and decline and show how deep the boat is down.

The two officers are in personal communication, so that in case of heart disease or other mishap they can jump to the other man's place.

Time to Wake.

Judge Wheaton A. Gray was once harangue by the prosecuting counsel on a warm day at the end of a long harangue by the prosecuting counsel he noticed one of the jurymen asleep. As soon as the argument was completed the judge addressed the jury in the peculiar manner: "Gentlemen of the jury, the prosecuting attorney has completed his argument. Wake up and listen to the instructions of the court."—San Francisco Argonaut.

One Was Enough.

"Dad," said the white faced lad, "how many cigars does it take to make a boy?"

"How many have you smoked?" asked dad.

"That's the number," said dad, and taking down the strap from behind the door he soon convinced the boy that he was right.

A weak Spring Gun

It is easy enough to have excellent tests of ammunition if the manufacturer uses only new arms in which to do the testing. All Dominion ammunition is not only tested in new guns of all makes, but must pass the almost unfair test of being shot in old guns with weak springs.

For all makes of arms. Costs one-third to one-fifth less than duty proved ammunition. Our guarantee puts all risk on the Dominion Cartridge Co., Ltd., Montreal.

HE WANTED TO KNOW.

An Incident That Teased the Inquisitive Man For a Time.

There is not so much fun to be got out of the inquisitive man. He is generally a mere nuisance, but occasionally he furnishes food for merriment. A certain down east storekeeper was so offensively inquisitive that it was determined to teach him a lesson. Among his failings was a desire to examine the contents of every package which his friends deposited in his store for safe keeping. He must see the inside if he had to break the package open. One day a man left a stout leather bag, asking that no one disturb it. The proprietor walked around restlessly for awhile and then stopped near the bag. 'Apparently no one was looking. In reality all the store loungers were in the secret and were anxiously awaiting his next move. He nervously fingered the cord that tied the top of the bag for a minute and then quickly untied it. He had no time to look in before the contents came forth. They consisted of a score of large and spirited hornets, and the way they lit on all the exposed portions of that inquisitive man was a caution. He shot out of the store at a pace that would have done credit to a sprinter. They say that for a year afterward he hardly looked into his own sugar barrel without asking permission.

STILL LOYAL.

One Fourth of July night in London the Empire Music hall advertised special attractions to American visitors. All over the auditorium the union jack and the stars and stripes intwined coil another, and at the interludes were heard "Yankee Doodle" and "Hail, Columbia," while a quartet sang "Down Upon the Swanee River."

Then came the turn of the human encyclopedia, who advanced to the front of the stage and announced himself ready to answer, sight unseen, all questions the audience might propound.

A volley of queries was fired at him, and the encyclopedia breathlessly told the distance of the earth from Mars, the number of bones in the human skeleton, of square miles in the British empire and other equally important facts.

There was a brief pause, in which an American stood up. "What great event took place July 4, 1776?" he propounded in a loud, glad voice.

The human encyclopedia glared at him. "Th' hincident you speak of, sir, was a himfamous boutrage."

How Birds Meet Emergencies.

Dr. Francis H. Herrick says a sparrow will pluck a horsehair from the mouth of a nestling, while another bird, like an oriole, will stand by and see its mate hang until dead without attempting to release it.

A robin will tug at a string which has caught on a limb, but is never seen fully to meet the situation by releasing the string. It will make several turns of a cord about a limb and leave the other end free without any relation to the nest, so that its effort is useless. It ties no knots.

The gull, according to abundant and competent testimony, will carry shell fish to a considerable height, drop them on the rocks or hard ground and repeat the experiment until it gets the soft meat.

Purpose.

Long before the Christian era the philosophers of Egypt, Greece and Rome knew far more about eclipses and the cause of them than is known by a large majority of the men of average education at the present day.

The Regent Diamond.

The Regent diamond, probably the most perfect brilliant ever cut, weighs in its present state 136¾ carats. The Kohinoor lost in the recutting 62½ carats and now weighs 102½ carats. The Regent was so named from the fact that it was acquired from Louis XV. by the Duke of Orleans, then regent of France.

Ancient Barbers.

Barbers in the early days of the Christian era were not permitted to talk while shaving a patron. Indeed, silence was so much appreciated by persons while under the barber's hands that mutes were preferred for this service.

Woman's World

CECILE CHAMINADE.

The Only Living Woman Composer With Any Pretensions to Celebrity.

Cecile Chaminade, whose husband, M. Carbonel, died lately, will visit America for the first time this fall. For years past Mme. Chaminade has been receiving offers from American managers. "I made her one myself three years ago, which she declined, as she had declined others, on the ground that her poor health would not permit her to cross the ocean," said Charles Henry Meltzer, who recently interviewed the charming composer.

"Now, however, as she assured me while I sat chatting with her in her summer home at Le Vesinet, near St. Germain, she feels strong enough to brave anything, even the American critics, whom her Parisian friends, it seems, have been using as scarecrows to prevent her leaving them.

"Of course you know—and if you don't I strongly advise you not to say so—that, since the death of Augusta Holmes, Cecile Chaminade is the one living woman composer with any pretension to celebrity.

"Her songs, her sonatas and her ballet, 'Callisho,' are known to the whole world. Many of her works have been played at the American Symphony concerts, and her 'Prelude For Organ' was performed at the funeral of no less important a person than the late lamented and respect worthy Queen Victoria.

"'How do I compose?' she said. 'I am most likely to be inspired when I am in the woods or by the sea, quite close to nature. Usually when an idea comes to me I meditate over it for a time. Then, sometimes without needing any piano, I begin to write.

"'Before it is written I hear, as most composers hear—and I mean this literally—every note of the music I compose. I hear every instrument in the orchestra for which I am scoring my work as clearly or almost as clearly as if real instruments were performing my music for me. Once while I was composing the loudness of an imaginary instrument annoyed me so much that I startled some of my friends who were with me by exclaiming: "Oh, that oboe! That abominable oboe!" "Why, what's the matter with you?" said one of them. "Nothing," I answered. "I was only thinking."

"'Which is the most popular of my compositions? I think my song called "L'Anneau d'Argent," or "The Silver Ring." Over 200,000 copies of it have been sold, and it has been sung everywhere. Another song, "Si j'etais Jardinier," is also a great favorite.'"

Some Women Abroad.

In Dutch Guiana the women carry about their waists in large flat bags, ornamented or plain, all the family savings, in the shape of heavy bracelets and anglets, necklaces and even crowns of gold and silver.

The Japanese woman does not blacken her teeth under any mistaken idea that it makes her less beautiful. She does it to make herself as unattractive as possible and is supposed to have no desire to please the other sex.

The headdress and coral jewelry of a German woman are usually heirlooms and vary greatly according to the financial status of the family. The gold fastenings of the necklaces may be anything from a small clasp to one the size of a brooch, covered with expensive filigree work.

When large enough to satisfy the pride of the owner, the clasp is always worn in front. One or all of these pieces of jewelry must form a part of every smart girl's "dot," while among the farming people her dower mainly consists of cows and sheep.

A Spanish maiden who is the least bit attractive is always attended by a young man. He is called her "novio," and it is his privilege to accompany her on her walks, though, of course, her mother or maid is also in attendance to play propriety. His courtship seldom ends in his becoming engaged to the young woman, but while it lasts she must be obedient and loyal to him. If he should transfer his affections to another fair damsel the slighted one has no redress, as an old custom gives him the right to do so, and the friendship must never be regarded in the light of a broken engagement.

A marriage is settled by the heads of the two families chiefly concerned, and until this comes to pass the young Spaniard may be the novio of as many girls as he chooses, one after another.

The Woman and Her Paper.

Did you ever notice how a woman opens a paper? It is as different from the method of a man as her skirt is from his trousers.

If she is in her own home, with plenty of space and sitting in a capacious rocking chair, she has room enough to do it successfully. If she is anywhere else, she instantly becomes a public nuisance.

A man opens his paper sharply, keeping the sheets closely together, folds it lengthwise in half, then doubles it, making it into a flat pamphlet, and reads it comfortably. He doesn't gouge any one's eyes out or knock off hats or tickle the backs of ears and necks.

But a woman! She opens the sheets and then spreads out their entire length in front of her, up in the air, with both arms extended at full length to hold the edges. The fact that she is reading the first column on the first sheet does not prevent her from keeping the paper spread out in this position during the whole time she is reading.

When she turns another sheet she pushes the whole thing a bit higher in the air, makes as much of a breeze as she can when she is turning it and then readjusts it again in this spread eagle position.

The young girl looked impressed.

"Did you notice it?" she asked. "You must have sharp eyes. I thought it was a fact known only to myself."

"What fact?" asked the photographer.

"Why, the fact that the left side of my face is a little better than the right side and that the left profile is more regular."

"Oh!" said the photographer. "Of course I noticed that. That, you know, is the case with everybody. Everybody's left profile is better than the right one. The eye is opened more fully, the mouth has a finer curve, the cheek's contour is firmer, and the hair about the temples is thicker.

"Notice after this the profile photographs you come across, and you'll find that nine out of ten of them portray the left side of the face."

Teach Children to Be Tidy.

A waste paper basket should form part of every nursery equipment. Children should be taught to put into it all scraps of paper, cuttings from dolls' dressmaking and any other little odds and ends that would otherwise litter the nursery floor.

It will teach them all important lessons in tidiness and be good training, especially for the girls, for the day when each will have a home of her own.

While children are young it is comparatively easy to teach them to be tidy, but the lesson is hard to learn in later life.

Want Name "Suffragette" Dropped.

Certain persons think it is time to stop trying to be funny with the term "suffragette." A London paper says: The time has come to abandon it, as the suffragist movement has taken a serious place in politics. It is used as a term of reproach and does not enrich the language. Women do not want the vote to maintain a distinction, but to obliterate it. They want to be suffragists and citizens just as men are. Therefore we have no place for such a mongrel word as "suffragette" in our political vocabulary.

Making Jam.

The primitive method of stirring jam for hours while preserving it has given place to a more simple method, which is not only much less difficult, but the fruit has a more natural flavor. Mash the fruit thoroughly with a wire potato masher, add the same quantity of sugar, pint for pint, and place in a granite kettle on the stove to boil. As soon as it has thoroughly boiled it can be removed and the jars immediately filled and sealed.

New Cause for Alarm.

The Washington bluebooks are afraid that a change in the administration, whether a Democrat or Republican is elected, may take from office a number of nice young men who have helped out so much in social affairs during the last eight years. It so often happens that the young men appointed to office are not altogether presentable as guests at balls and dinners.

Cathedral Curtains.

There are some lovely imported madras curtains brought out by the decorators that give the exact effect of cathedral glass.

They are hung without fullness, straight against the window pane inside the window woodwork. They may be finished with merely a hem or a small ball fringe. They really give a dim religious light.

The True Home.

Homes are not built of bricks and mortar. It is the people, not the places, that make the homes. The face of a smiling woman, the patter of tiny feet and the music of children's voices—aye, even the barking of a dog and the human look of joy at our coming—bring us the nameless charm that we call "home."—London Throne.

Obedient English Husbands.

Despite all the admonitions to perfect obedience which have for decades been carefully instilled into the feminine mind, it is an undoubted fact that this is an age not of obedient wives, but of obedient husbands. Some obey through love, some through fear and others through a desire for peace, but all are alike, inasmuch that they are docile to a degree undreamed of in the middle ages or even in the Victorian era of Dombeyery whilome and bygone women.—London Gentlewoman.

Few Words.

He had gone to ask her father for her hand in marriage.

"Well, sir, what is it?" whispered out the old man. "Remember, I am a man of few words."

"I don't care if you are a man of only one word, if it's the right one," replied the suitor.

He got the girl.

RAILWAY STRIKE CALLED OFF

Men Accept Original Majority Award of Commission.

MANITOBANS MAKE PEACE

Hon. Robert Rogers and Hon. Colin Campbell of Roblin Government Instrumental in Securing Settlement —Men Will Be Taken on as Company Needs Them, But Will Not Discriminate.

Montreal, Oct. 5.—It was announced last evening by Hon. Robt. Rogers, Minister of Public Works for Manitoba, who has been negotiating with the president of the C.P.R. for some days past, that the strike has been brought to a close.

It is understood that the western negotiations have been in the hands of W. M. Whyte, vice-president at Winnipeg, and Bell Hardy for the strikers.

The Manitoba Minister stated last evening that by the terms agreed upon the men accept the finding of the majority of the arbitration committee, which, it will be remembered, they rejected, and which was the cause of all the trouble.

The company agrees to take back the men as they find room for them, and there will be no discrimination against men who may have gone on strike.

In fact, the president declares that there is no hard feeling whatever against the men on account of the difficulties, and he hopes all will be well in the future.

It is quite likely that the agreement which has been reached will give the company an excuse to get rid of a good many men who may have proved incompetent, yet on the other hand they are bound by contract to keep all the men who are good workmen.

It is said that the settlement is largely due to Hon. Mr. Rogers, Minister of Public Works, and Hon. Colin Campbell, Attorney-General of the Roblin Ministry, and, as a matter of fact, a great deal of the preliminary work was done in Winnipeg.

Saturday evening Mr. Campbell wired his colleague that the strike was happily at an end, adding that clause 3 of the agreement reads as follows: "The company is to use all reasonable means to find employment for the men, and to prevent discrimination against those who went out."

James Somerville of the Machinists' Union, who was seen last evening, had not heard the news officially, but he said he expected it, and felt quite disappointed over the terms. It was Mr. Somerville who submitted the minority report of the board of arbitration, to back up which the strike was called.

Newburgh Fire Swept.

Napanee, Ont., Oct. 5.—About four o'clock Saturday morning fire broke out in Newburgh, a village of about 500, seven miles northeast of here, on the Bay of Quinte Railway, and destroyed several buildings.

As Newburgh has no fire brigade, Napanee firemen went out by special train, and put out, as was supposed, all the fire and returned home at 7.30 a.m. The fire, however, broke out again and the brigade went again and totally extinguished the fire.

The fire started in Geo. Walker's meat stall and spread and burned M. Ryan's general store, C. F. Finkle's Hall, used for holding meetings, etc.; C. F. Finkle's blacksmith shop and carriage manufacturing shop, the postoffice, Rev. Mr. Chant's residence and Mr. Gibson's house.

Twenty-one years ago nearly all the village was destroyed.

Thirty-Two Fined.

Cobalt, Oct. 5.—Thirty-two convictions in liquor cases, one of keeping a disorderly house, one of being an inmate, and one of frequenting, with fines totalling $2,615, is the way the books tallied when Friday's session concluded before Magistrate Atkinson. There were eighteen convictions and seventeen on Thursday.

ROUND-TABLE SCANDAL.

Members of Excellent Montreal Families In Strange Club.

Montreal, Oct. 5.—The city is still discussing the discovery that a score of men belonging to excellent French-Canadian families have been banded in a club strangely like the "Knights of the Round-Table," whose members disgraced Germany and steeped themselves in infamy.

Four prisoners came before Magistrate Bazin in the court of arraignment—Joseph Hetu, an insurance agent; Joseph Bouthillier, a bookseller on St. Denis street; Victor Michaud, alias Becton, an actor of the Parisian Theatre, and Joseph St. Pierre, a Canadian Pacific Railroad clerk. They pleaded not guilty to the astonishing charges against them, and the case will come up for trial on Oct. 8.

The four, it is charged, were associated with Dr. J. W. Geoffrion, No. 1219 St. Catherine street, who pleaded guilty recently to like accusations and was remanded. Dr. Geoffrion was president of the club, whose members addressed each others as do nuns in a convent. Mysterious rites were celebrated at the club, and orgies were held at which the guests were youths. One of these told his parents what he had seen, and the discovery of the band's existence followed.

A YELLOW STORY.

Archbishop Ireland Calls Merry Del Val Story a Lie.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 5.—Asked what credence is to be given to the story taken first from the Italian paper, The Avanti, and now widely circulated through the press of America, to the effect that Cardinal Merry del Val is soon to resign from the papal secretaryship of state, forced to that step in large measure by representations coming to the Pope from English and American prelates, among whom he himself is numbered by name, Archbishop Ireland said:

"The story is a falsehood made out of whole cloth. The Avanti is the chief representative of the yellow press of Italy; it is an avowed enemy of the Vatican and deliberate falsehoods are their stock in trade, when facts, or even apologies for facts are wanting."

PRISONER WALKS AWAY.

Man Intended For Central Walks From Belleville Jail.

Belleville, Oct. 5.—Saturday morning at 9 o'clock William Brightcliffe, a young Englishman, sentenced a few days ago to one year in Central Prison on the charge of entering and stealing some money and other articles from the residence of his employer, George Wilson, in Sidney Township, eluded keepers at the county jail and escaped. Jailer Ketcheson had stepped into the sheriff's office, and on his return the prisoner was missing. He wore prison garb and was seen by several parties.

Harmsworths Buy Timber.

Victoria, B.C., Oct. 5.—The Harmsworths of London, publishers of The London Times, Daily Mail and other newspapers, are buying 150 sections of timber limits on Vancouver Island, thirty-five sections having already been bought in Quatsino district, and options on thirty-three more are being cruised, which will be bought if satisfactory. This is their first investment in British Columbia, though they have large holdings of pulpwood limits in Newfoundland and New Brunswick and contemplate entering into active competition with the paper trust.

Leigh Hunt, former financier of Seattle, is also acquiring fourteen sections of timber on Vancouver Island.

SWEPT OVER NIAGARA FALLS

CARRIED THROUGH SLUICE

Brewster Cameron, El Paso Insurance Man, Tumbles Off Bank and is Swiftly Carried to His Death Over American Falls With a Score of Spectators Looking On — Man Risks Life to Save Him.

Niagara River, N.Y., Oct. 5.—Brewster Cameron of El Paso, Texas, 65 years old, lost his life here Saturday by going over the American Falls.

Cameron was in the insurance business and came to the Falls by appointment to meet Frank H. Fulford of Bellair, Ind., and E. L. Tidball of Buffalo, Mr. Tidball being president of the American Surety Co.

The three men sat on the bank of the river until nearly 6 o'clock and when their conference was completed, arose to go. Fulford and Tidball got up first, and as Cameron attempted to do so his feet seemed to give out under him and he toppled backward into the swiftly rushing rapids. In a moment he was whisked several yards out into the stream.

Fulford, disregarding the great risk to himself, plunged into the river and attempted to get hold of Cameron, but without avail. A strange cross current caught Cameron and brought him toward shore, sending him with terrific speed into the opening of the raceway that feeds the elevator of the Cataract Hotel. Down this sluiceway went the unfortunate man and before his companions could reach him, he was again shot out into the river.

By this time the cries of the men had attracted a crowd, and Reservation Officer Tracy G. Lewee, seeing the body coming down the rapids, waded out to meet it and was within three feet of Cameron when he shot by. The unfortunate man realized his plight and strove desperately to get to shore, but his frantic struggles were futile against the rush of the angry waters.

A moment later and he had passed beneath the Goat Island bridge and all hope of saving him was gone. His two business associates and a score of others stood by powerless to assist, and witnessed his plunge over the brink of the falls to eternity. The body was not seen after it took the plunge.

With the finding Saturday of the body of another man in Niagara river just below the Falls, all records at Niagara Falls are broken. The past month has established the ghastly record of six suicides who have destroyed their lives here, two on Goat Island and four over the falls. Three were women.

Lady Cook Comes to Assist Bryan.

New York, Oct. 5.—Lady Cook, the philanthropist and suffragette, who, before her marriage to Sir Frederick Cook of London, was known as Miss Tennessee Claflin, arrived here Saturday on the White Star liner Cedric. She will remain in this city until after the election.

She is an admirer of Bryan, and it was learned that a meeting with the Democratic candidate had been arranged. Lady Cook said she would assist Mr. Bryan in whatever way she could, but could not say whether she would speak at public meetings in Mr. Bryan's behalf.

Officers Fear Lynching.

Stratford, Oct. 5.—It is not likely that Frank Roghmead, the prisoner accused of the murder of Mrs. Peake, will be removed from the jail and taken to Sebringville, a distance of five miles, for the inquest to-night.

As the attendance of the prisoner is necessary, it is thought that the inquest will adjourn to Stratford some night this week. The reason for this is that the officials do not care to take any chances in driving the prisoner along the country road through the section where the crime was committed.

Gorky Weds Andrieff.

London, Oct. 5.—It has just leaked out at St. Petersburg, a despatch to The Globe reports, that Maxim Gorky recently married Mrs. Andrieff, who formerly was the wife of a famous Russian author, Leonidas Andrieff.

Presumably Mme. Andrieff is the woman known here as Mme. Andrieva, who accompanied Maxim Gorky to New York two years ago, and who was the cause of his being ostracized by society in America when it was learned that she was not his wife.

HE CLAIMS TWO RUNNERS

Simpson and Sylvester Smoke Belong to the Alderville Reserve Says Mr. Ernest Crow

WRITES TO THE EXAMINER

Mr. Ernest Crowe of Alderville Indian reserve, writes the Examiner to the effect that Fred Simpson belongs there, and not to Hiawatha, and also that Sylvester Smoke is a native of Alderville. He writes the Examiner as follows:

"I have your favour of Sept. 28th and glad to hear from you. I recommend your paper very highly. There was one remark I forgot to make in my last letter and it was about our fast runner, Fred Simpson, who really belongs here in Alderville. We as Indians in this band cannot understand why you have him in your Examiner representing Hiawatha. He stays there at present but his home and property are here and he also draws his interest money here. On what grounds, therefore, can Hiawatha claim Simpson?

"There is another Indian runner coming to the front who goes by the name of Sylvester Smoke from Chemong. Smoke does not belong to Chemong. He belongs here in Alderville—the same as Simpson. I ask you kindly to print in the Examiner in large print that Simpson and Smoke belong to Alderville, because it's here where the good runners spring from. Always let these two runners represent our town, and there will be no mistake if you do."

EVENTS OF MEET OF THE OTONABEE ATHLETIC CLUB

AN ENNISMORE FUNERAL YESTERDAY

Body of Mrs. Twomey Laid in Its Last Resting Place.

The funeral of Mrs. Michael Twomey of Ennismore, was held yesterday to St. Martin's Cemetery. There was a large attendance of friends of the deceased woman, to pay them last respects to the memory of the departed. Rev. Father Fitzpatrick officiated both at the church and at the grave.

SUCCESSFUL RALLY AT THE Y.W.C.A.

Of the Bible Study Department—Address By Miss Little

A large attendance of the members and friends of the Y.W.C.A. greeted Miss Little, B.A., Canada's National Secretary, who was present yesterday afternoon at the Bible Study rally, and gave a most inspiring and helpful address. Miss Little, after giving a brief general review of the work of the association, laid particular stress of Bible study, missions and prayer. Very practical suggestions were made for systematic Bible study, and the work of Miss McDonald, the association's representative in Japan, was very impressively presented. Miss Rennar added to the interest by singing a solo in her usual splendid style. The whole atmosphere of the meeting was such as to make every young woman feel a hearty welcome at the association and a live interest in its work.

On Tuesday evening Oct. 6th, the educational rally will be held, when the different phases of this department will be fully presented and the classes formed. Rev. G. A. Henderson and Mr. Cornish, of the Normal School, will give short addresses. There will be a good musical programme, followed by an enjoyable social hour.

The Tuesday gymnasium classes will be cancelled for this evening.

OBITUARY.

MRS. JOHN ALEXANDER

The death occurred last night of Phoebe Anne Wilson, wife of Mr. John Alexander, 574 Division street, who passed away after a lingering illness. Deceased, who was 61 years of age, had been a resident of Peterborough for many years and was well known and widely respected. She was an attendant at George street Methodist church.

She is survived by her husband and one son, Mr. Walter P. J. Alexander of Madoc, Ont.

The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from the family residence, Division street, to Little Lake cemetery.

YOM KIPPER, THE DAY OF ATONEMENT, THE SECOND GREATEST FEAST OF THE JEWISH YEAR IS CELEBRATED TO-DAY

Began at 7 p. m. Sunday—Members Fast and Pray Until 7 To-night — Rabbi Garfenkal Conducts Services at Residence of Mr. Florence

BIG SPREAD AFTERWARDS

To-day the members of the local Jewish colony are celebrating the Day of Atonement, and are fasting through the entire twenty-four hours. The ceremony was begun on Sunday night at 7 o'clock, when the fasting period commenced. No one breaks his fast until 7 o'clock to-night, when there will be a big spread 'd make up for the long abstinence from food. The members must not eat, drink nor smoke, and the time is spent in prayer and fasting. Hymns are sung and a low chant is kept up almost continuously.

An Examiner reporter called at the residence of Mr. Florence, on Simcoe street, during the day and found the service at its height. About thirty-five men composed the congregation and most of them were from out of town. Rabbi Garfenkal of Toronto conducted the prayers and hymns, and presented an imposing appearance with his long flowing beard, and dressed in the "tallis" and "yarmul." The talis is a shawl which is worn throughout the day, and the yarmul is a sort of cap which is used for ceremonial occasions. Nearly all the men wore this regulation regalia.

"Yom Kipper"

The feast of the Atonement is known as "Yom Kipper," and is one of the two great celebrations of the Hebrew year. The other is the Jewish New Year, or Rosh-a-Hansh, which was celebrated Saturday Sept. 27. The chanting the reporter heard was expressive of more feelings than one, being very mournful at times, and then again glad and happy.

One of the members gave the reporter an account of the proceedings and remarked that he was so hungry that he scarcely knew what he was doing. The twenty-four hours without food of any kind is no joke, and the men, while fully in earnest about the service, will no doubt welcome the repast that awaits them at the conclusion to-night at 7 o'clock.

CORRECT SCORE SHOULD HAVE BEEN 3 TO 0

The referee at Saturday's Junior City League game between Rough Riders and the Collegiate Institute team stated to-day that the correct score of the game was 3—0 in favour of the Rough Riders and not 2—0 as stated elsewhere in this issue. The first score made by the Rough Riders pronounced at the time a rouge was in reality a safety touch and therefore counted two points instead of one.

MR. BORDEN CONSENTS TO RUN IN CARLETON

Examiner Special

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 5.—Mr. R. L. Borden received and accepted the unanimous nomination of the Conservatives of Carleton County, assembled at Stittsville.

MEETINGS FOR WEEK AT ST. PAUL'S CHURCH

The Communion service at St. Paul's church yesterday was largely attended and twenty-one new members were received. The pastor was assisted by Rev. Thos. McKee of Barrie. There will be a meeting of the young people to-night for the purpose of forming a young people's society. The usual mid-week service will be held on Wednesday night. On Thursday night a lecture will be given by Rev. Dr. Marsh of Springville on "An Evening in the Stars." The annual thankoffering service of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society will be held on Friday afternoon at 3.30.

The monthly meeting of the Faithful Workers' Mission Band will be held in the Guild room Thursday afternoon at 4.15.

SILVER CUP EMBLEMATIC OF THE LONG DISTANCE CHAMPIONSHIP OF THE COUNTY OF PETERBOROUGH

THE EXAMINER TROPHY

Came Here Especially To See The Peterborough Lift Lock

All the way from Nebraska to see the celebrated Peterborough Lift Lock is the distance covered by Mr. Thos. Elliott, who, with his wife, have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brumwell, in Otonabee, and friends in Norwood, Havelock and Peterborough. Mr. Elliott was a former resident of Peterborough county. He has not been here for years. He has read so much about the lift lock, and seen so many pictures of it that it was his great desire to see it in operation. This desire was appeased the other day when he witnessed the lifting up of a steamer the sixty-five feet.

Mr. and Mrs. Elliott returned home to Nebraska to-day.

The large funeral cortege which followed the remains of the late William John O'Grady, aged 21 years, from his father's residence, 633 Roger street, East City, yesterday afternoon to St. Joseph's Cemetery, Douro, was a substantial tribute to the popularity of the young man and the esteem in which he was held by his many city and country friends. The funeral was one of the largest that ever went out of Peterborough.

The members of the T.A.S. of which the deceased was a member, marched, two hundred strong, to the canal bridge. The body was taken to St. Joseph's church, Douro, where requiem mass was said by the Rev. Father Kielty and interment took place in St. Joseph's Cemetery. The pall-bearers were Messrs. Thos. Raymond, Patrick Devlin, Albert Doris, Joseph O'Leary, John Fitzgerald and Edward Fitzgerald.

The Examiner Road Races

One month from Friday, or Nov. 9th, the Examiner road races of 1908 will be run. November the 9th comes on a Monday and it is Thanksgiving Day as well as the King's birthday. From present appearances there will be a big field in both the junior and senior events. Both events are open to the county of Peterborough, and within the past two years some splendid runners have developed. This year it may be expected that long distance men from the Hiawatha and Chemong reserves, from Norwood and Havelock as well as Peterborough will line up for these prominent events. The entry form will be published in the course of a day or two and these may be filled out and handed in to the Examiner by those who intend participating. The first prize for the senior Examiner road race is the Examiner silver trophy, a handsome cup and worth while possessing. The former winners are Ray P. Best and Ernest Wilson. The latter holds the record for 10 miles, the time being 55.16. Peter Wallace has the record for the junior event with 29.30 for five miles. Wallace will likely be a participant in the senior event this year.

KEENE MEETING IN THE INTERESTS OF MR. E.A. TANNER

A meeting will be held to-night in the town hall, Keene, in the interests of Mr. E A Tanner, the Liberal Candidate in East Peterborough. In addition to his address, Col. A T Thompson, K.C., Ottawa, and Mr. Geo. A. Gillespie, Peterborough, will be present to give addresses.

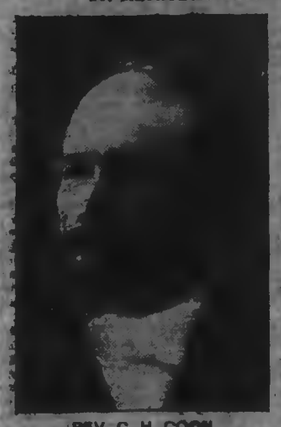
THE LIBERAL CANDIDATE IN EAST PETERBOROUGH OPENS CAMPAIGN WITH ROUSING WARSAW MEETING

THE ANNIVERSARY SERVICES IN MARK ST. METHODIST CHURCH



REV. C. H. COON,
Pastor of the Mark Street Methodist Church, East City.

Mr. E. A. Tanner Makes Splendid Maiden Address — The Other Speakers Were Messrs. F. D. Kerr and G. M. Roger

TOWN HALL WELL FILLED

Mr. E. A. Tanner, the Liberal candidate in East Peterborough, held the opening meeting of the campaign at Warsaw on Saturday evening, when the hall was packed with an interested audience who paid close attention to the arguments and facts placed before them by the speakers of the evening. Mr. Tanner made a splendid impression.

The chair was taken by Mr. E. Hawthorne, who, in a short speech, introduced the speakers and expressed his pleasure at being able to say a word in support of a Government that had done so much for Canada as had the Laurier Government.

Mr. Tanner was greeted with cheers when he arose to speak. His maiden speech was an address which seemed to catch the immediate attention of his hearers. He expressed his pleasure at meeting so many of the electors of Douro and Dummer Townships, and stated that from the canvass that he had been able to make so far in the riding, he had no doubt that the people of East Peterborough would rally around the Liberal Government and unite to send a representative of good Government and progress to Ottawa.

He pointed out to his hearers that every department of trade and commerce had received the utmost attention from the Government of the day, and that particularly the agricultural interest had been well looked after, instancing the establishment of cold storage systems upon the steamships plying to the Mother country and the establishment of rural mail delivery and rural post-offices, and further pointed out that in spite of the tremendous progress and the large sums expended upon public works, the net debt per head had been reduced in the past twelve years from $50 per head to $40 per head.

Mr. Tanner concluded a well delivered and interesting speech by asking the support of the voters of the district, promising that in the event of his election, he would bring to bear an independent judgment on matters that came before Parliament, and stating that he would endeavour in every way to advance the interests of East Peterborough.

At the conclusion of Mr. Tanner's address, Messrs. F. D. Kerr and G. M. Roger followed with speeches in which the public affairs of the day were discussed and explained. Their remarks were greeted with every indication of approval by the large audience present.

The meeting was concluded with the heartiest of cheers for the King, the Premier and the candidate.

Judging by the initial meeting of the campaign and the enthusiasm shown, Mr. Tanner's success is assured, so far as Dummer is concerned.

MR. BOWMAN FINDS THREE MUSHROOMS OF IMMENSE SIZE

Mr. Wm. Bowman showed the Examiner three giant mushrooms on Saturday. The size may be inferred from the fact that the scales recorded the weight of the three as 3 lbs. and 2 ounces. The quality is as good as the size, for the smallest of the three left with the Examiner constituted the piece de resistance of a mushroom-on-toast breakfast for three. The mushrooms grew on Simcoe street in the earth in the circles left in the pavement for telephone poles. It is surely the growing time under the Liberal Government when the hard-headed cement pavements sprout vegetables.

WEDNESDAY THE BIG DAY OF THE KEENE FALL FAIR

The Fair at Keene under the auspices of the Otonabee Agricultural Society opens to-morrow, when the chief business will be the making of the entries. Wednesday will be the big day of the Fair, and no doubt there will be a large number go down from Peterborough. Keene is naturally an attractive spot and will, of course, be more so when the Fair is in progress.

BILLY NAUGAN SET BACK $10.00 TO-DAY; THE PUNISHMENT FOR TOO MUCH WHISKY

It Billy Naugan, the Hiawatha walker had exhibited the speed in the walking match in the Brock street rink here last spring that he did this morning in beating it away from the police station, he would have trimmed Hoagland, Slater and company by about 11 miles in the week.

Billy was arraigned on a charge of being drunk in Peterborough on Saturday and admitted the charge when it was put up to him this morning. He could not shed much light upon the source of supply when questioned by the chief as to where he obtained his liquor. He got a bottle from a man at the G. T. R. station on Saturday morning, he said, and then he got another bottle from another man, but he could not say who the men were.

The Chief informed the Magistrate that Naugan was moving his lares and penates to Lindsay and that his wife and two children had been kept at the Children's Aid Society's shelter over Sunday.

The Magistrate decided that some punishment was necessary and accordingly inflicted a fine of $10 to be paid in ten days and in default of payment, ten days in gaol.

"How would you like a letter of introduction to the Chief of Police in Lindsay?" Billy was asked.

The redskin grunted and then replied with a smile that he thought he could get on well without it.

He was told to get his wife and family and get out of town on the first train and the last seen of him was his disappearance amidst a cloud of dust as he hit the trail for the north.

Lockmaster Jammed Between Steamer And Steamboat Dock

Mr. P P Young of Young's Point met with an accident a couple of days ago which might have proved serious but fortunately was only trivial. The steamer Stoney Lake was passing the lock and he was jammed between the boat and the lock. At first it was thought one of his ribs had been broken.

KETCHECUM LAKE CLUB TO LEAVE TO-MORROW

To-morrow the members of the Ketchecum Lake Hunting and Fishing Club leave for the north to again disturb the haunts of the fish and game of Cavendish Township. They will spend a couple of weeks fishing in the trout streams surrounding their camp.

MEETING OF YOUNG MEN OF ST. PETER'S

A meeting of the young men of St. Peter's T.A.S. is called for to-morrow night for the purpose of arranging for continuing the choral class that has already been begun. There will also be an organization for debating and literary work and all those who are interested are requested to be present.

TO FURNISH TWO ROOMS

Ladies of Sodality of St. Peter's Cathedral Prepare One And Knights of Columbus the Other

THE WORK IS APPRECIATED

The members of the sodality of St. Peter's Cathedral have undertaken to furnish one of the rooms in the new addition to St. Joseph's Hospital. It will be done in accordance with the requirements of the Hospital and will thus be much like the other rooms. It is expected that the work will be completed in a short time and the room will be ready for occupation. This is the second room to be furnished by local societies, the Knights of Columbus having furnished one some time ago.

RECEIVED HOLY COMMUNION IN A BODY YESTERDAY

The members of St. Peter's T.A.S. received Holy Communion in a body at the 8 o'clock mass yesterday morning at the Cathedral. They assembled in probably the largest numbers to have as yet turned out, meeting in St. Peter's School grounds and marching to the church. Mass was said by Rev. Father McColl, who was assisted at Communion by the Rev. Father Kelly and Rev. Dr. O'Brien. The members of the society occupied the main centre of the church. During the mass a male choir composed of the young men of St. Peter's T.A.S. sang a number of hymns, including the Magnificat. Their singing was favourably commented upon, as an entire choir of male voices is seldom heard at St. Peter's. Rev. Father McColl congratulated the T. A. S. on their splendid showing, and expressed the hope that they would persevere in the work they were doing.

Rev. Dr. O'Brien deserves the thanks of the young men for the leading choir in the singing of the mass this morning. Mr. Geo. Hall assisted with the other hymns.

One of the funniest comedians that has appeared in Canada is Dougall A. Paterson with the "Three Little Maids" at the Grand next Thursday. Plan opens to-morrow, (Tuesday) morning.

THE CREDIT OF CANADA.

A good deal is being said about the credit of Canada by those who have lately started in to convince themselves that Mr. Fielding has been a failure as Finance Minister. His own answer, made on July last, is complete and well worth quoting:

"Money is a commodity which, like other commodities, rises and falls in value; whenever you find an abundance of money, money is cheap, and when you find money scarce, then money is dear. Now, if we want to make comparisons of the credit of Canada, there is abundant material to enable us to do so. The true way to test the credit of Canada is not to ask how much we pay now, but how much did we pay years ago in comparison with some standard security, and how much do we pay now in comparison with the same standard security. Now the highest standard security is the British consols, of which I may say something later. Let me make a comparison now with that very high class security known in financial circles as Indian Government stocks as quoted in London. In 1896, India 3 per cent. stock at its highest quotation was 115, and the Canada 3 per cent. stock at its higest quotation was 107. There was a difference against Canada of 8 points. Turn to the situation now. In recent quotation, the highest for India 3 per cent. stock was 93, while the highest for Canadian 3 per cent. stock of 97. So we have this position, that in 1896 Canada was 8 points worse than India; in this present year, Canada is 4 points better than Indian Government stock. Now, if we make a similar comparison with the great corporation stocks of London, which are of very high class, it will be found, if you make the same comparison that Canada has come closer to them, and is often on even terms but certainly very much closer to them than in 1896, and that is a true comparison."

Private companies can float new loans in London, and we all rejoice, but for the Dominion it is, until after election day, a terrible business.—Montreal Herald.

Further, Canada's credit must be gilt edge. British financiers must have confidence in Canada, when as recently occurred, British capitalists sent into this country in the first seven months of this year, on Government, municipal and industrial account, for investment, the very considerable sum of 143 million dollars—twice the sum of our national revenue in its most buoyant moment. If our credit is low, if ruin stares us in the face, as the croak of the dirty birds that foul their own nests, alleges, British capitalists would not show such confidence in us, would not trust their good gold to a sinking ship.

Can we believe, as the Conservative candidate in West Peterborough wants the credulous to believe, that Canada is in the grip of blue ruin; that we are on the edge of national bankruptcy. Does it look like ruin when British capitalists shower money on us at the rate of 20 million dollars per month? Does it look like ruin when the return of the Census Departments shows us that the capital invested in manufacturing establishments in Canada increased in the last five years, from 1900 to 1905—from 446 million dollars to 838 millions of dollars—at the rate of 77 million dollars per year? No, Canada is not on the road to ruin. Petty politicians, in extremis, may raise their unpatriotic plaint, but the facts are against them. They are willing to make political capital out of slander of their country—by sullying its good name. We cannot be surprised at this, when a Minister of the Crown is guilty of dubbing the English, Irish and Scotch, who seek homes in this broad land as "foreigners"—men who are good British subjects, as good British subject as he is.

Canada's credit is not injured by the Liberal Government; if it is in danger of being injured it will be by the fact that public men in positions of responsibility, degrade it by slander and unworthy imputations, decry its credit and insult British subjects in terms of scurrility.

No thinking citizen, who contrasts the position of Canada, either in the matter of national progress, or self-respect and self-confidence, and in the matter of the place she holds in the respect and confidence of the Mother Land, and the nations of the world, Canada has emerged from the position of obscurity she occupied a dozen years ago—the young giant has awakened and is striding forward at a rapid rate. Our commerce has grown in twelve years from 240 millions to 640 millions, or at the rate of 34 million dollars per year. As Sir William Van Horne said, "Canada was living on a back street in 1896. It no longer lives there, but has moved up to a fine building on a corner lot of the main street of the commerce of the world." A great man like Van Horne, who finds the facts he speaks of in the chock-full strong-box of the C. P. R., is much more worthy of attention than the puny pessimist, who slanders British subjects as scum, and opposes a great national railway and its share in building up the nation, because of the absurd plea that it will lessen the value of Ontario farm lands.

Canada is all right; let us keep her all right by retaining a Government whose positive programme of advance has rolled the country onward, aided her growth and increased her greatness more in twelve short years them in all the years of her history.

A MATTER OF INCOME.

Conservative papers are harking back on Sir Richard Cartwright's declaration in '96 days that an expenditure of thirty-nine millions was unjustifiable extravagance—and he was right, when the revenue was only thirty-six millions. In the last three years of Conservative administration, with Mr. Foster at the pit-mouth of the national financial sink-hole, the deficits, that is excess of expenditure over revenue, totalled five and a half million dollars. The deficit in 1895 was four and a half millions, and in the last three years of Conservative rule the national debt was increased to the extent of sixteen million eight hundred dollars. It is self-evidently absurd for the Conservatives to claim economy on an annual expenditure of thirty-nine millions a year with—say in 1895—an addition to the national debt of $6,890,000, and a deficit of four millions, or a total of $10,800,000 to the bad.

When the Liberal Government came into power, and readjusted the tariff so that taxation went into the public chest, instead of into the pockets of N. P.-favoured beneficiaries, the Dominion revenue, with a lessened rate of tariff taxation, at once began to grow. Expenditure was so kept within incomes that there were surpluses every year but the first under Liberal rule, totalling in the eleven years one hundred and thirteen millions of dollars. The Liberal Government saw that lavish expenditure could be safely made, especially when it was kept well within income. And the expenditure was made for the provision of national needs. In the twelve years of its rule, the Liberal Government has spent the enormous sum of one hundred and sixty-three millions of dollars on capital account, that is, in providing permanent improvements— what the people and national interests demanded. This was sixty-three millions more than was spent in the last twelve years of Conservative rule. In that time, the Conservatives increased the national debt (under sixty-three million dollars less expenditure) about seventy-five millions, or six and a half millions a year, as against an increase under Liberal Government of $1,600,000 per year.

Under these conditions it is folly to say that the Liberal Government has been extravagant. They kept within income, and that is the test of extravagance or economy. A farmer with a mortgage on his farm, with debts pressing him, and a succession of poor crops, and an income of $500, would be extravagant if he spent $560. The same farmer with the mortgage wiped off, with money in the bank, with a succession of good crops, and an income of $1,000 a year, would not be called extravagant if he spent $900 a year in providing new buildings, or buying new farm machinery, better stock, new furniture, or what not, to make his farm pay better and improve the conveniences and add to the comfort of his family.

A charge of extravagance, which means unnecessary and unwarranted expenditure, cannot fairly nor reasonably be brought against the Liberal Government. The money was spent for what the nation needed. In a word, the Government can say, in regard to the national expenditure:—"We have paid our way, and spent large sums in great public works for the development of the country, without adding to the public debt to any appreciable extent, and without increasing the taxation of the people."

The financial expenditure of the Liberal Government is a mere matter of income, it has been well under income, and, therefore, not extravagant—Canada got good value in public works and conveniences that will be sources of profit to the people for all time, and recoup the expenditure involved a thousand-fold. The Liberals are governing Canada—not with an eye on the next election, but with a view to the Twentieth Century, which especially belongs to Canada.

Mr. A. W. Wright, Conservative organizer, speaking at a Conservative meeting in West Toronto on Friday night, took occasion to defend Hon. Geo. E. Foster against certain charges alleged against him in connection with the insurance investigation. MR. FOSTER WAS, HE THOUGHT, NEVER PROPERLY CHARGED WITH THE INFRACTION OF THE LAW IN QUESTION, AND WAS NEVER GIVEN A CHANCE TO DEFEND HIMSELF AGAINST THE ALLEGATIONS MADE.

WHITNEY IN THE FIGHT.

That valiant spoilsman, Sir James P. Whitney, has joined the civil service reformer, Mr. R. L. Borden, in his stumping tour.

Sweet and pleasant it will be for Sir James, with the scalps of hundreds of Liberal officeholders in his belt, to hear Mr. Borden plead for non-partizanship in the public service.

Mr. Borden is by this time quite accustomed to these delightful incongruities. He has been for some time going through the country arm-in-arm with Mr. Hanna and Mr Roblin. Mr. Hanna made the license administration of Ontario a cog in the party machine, and ruthlessly discharged, without excuse or cause, every license inspector appointed by a Liberal Government. Mr. Roblin has divided the greater part of the public lands under his control among speculators and syndicates, while Mr. Borden, from the same platform, declares that the land should be kept for the settler.

The conjunction of Sir James Whitney with Mr. Borden is the finishing touch on the organized hypocrisy of Mr. Borden's platform campaign.—London Advertiser.

ONE-CENT WORLD POSTAGE.

(Manitoba Free Press.)

Forty years ago the postage on a letter from Canada to the United Kingdom was 12 1-2 cents by Canadian steamers, or 17 cents by Cunarders; to the United States, ten cents; while the domestic rate was five cents. Strange to say, the charge for a drop letter, a letter delivered from the local office which received it, was then only one cent. That rate is now re-established, thanks to the Honourable Rodolphe Lemieux, a worthy successor to Sir William Mulock. Yet a few years and this postal chieftain may join hands with his brethren for the inaugural of a one-cent letter rate for the world. A reform, long since adopted in Great Britain, is to charge heavy letters a penny for the first ounce, less and less for each additional ounce as weight increases, because delivery costs more than transportation by rail or steamer. This principle is already applied to Canadian letters sent to countries outside the Empire. Thus to Spain we pay five cents for the first ounce, three cents for each additional ounce.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Mr. Borden says he will finish the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway if returned to power. And he says, too, that it will cost two hundred millions. He would be certain to make his estimate good.

It is pretty tough on Sir Wilfrid to hold him responsible for the morals of the whole country, when he has, as the Montreal Herald points out, no control over the Foster-Fowler-Pope-Bennett-(dear) Lefurgey-Roblin-Rogers-Montague-McGillivray-Wilson-Candray-Candrank-Candring-Borden-Bayne and booze mutual benefit association.

Toronto Saturday Night speaking of the Conservative candidate — the lamb selected for slaughter by Hon. Mr. Sifton in Brandon—says, that "Mr. Daly (Hon. T Mayne Daly) is insufferably afflicted with a congenial incapacity to be either good or bad to an extent that would attract anybody's notice." That crisp characterization might fit a candidate several miles east of Brandon—neither flesh, fish nor good red herring—speaking politically.

THE POSTOFFICE WAS LOOTED

Daring Quartette of Burglars Operate at Milverton.

A VALUABLE TEAM STOLEN

After Blowing Up Safe and Securing $200 in Stamps and $20 in Cash Robbers Break Into Hotel Stables and Take Vehicle — Drive to Stratford and Take Train For Toronto—Clues Are Scarce.

Stratford, Oct. 5.—Between 1 and 2 o'clock yesterday morning the postoffice at Milverton was entered by burglars, who, after blowing up the safe, got away with over $200 in stamps and $20 in cash.

They also broke into the stable of the Queen's Hotel, stole a team of black horses and a buggy belonging to Mr. Pauli, and driving to Stratford, boarded the 4.30 train for Toronto.

Neighbors living near the postoffice heard an explosion about 1.30, but thinking the noise was made by a party of returning coon hunters, no attention was paid to it.

Immediately after the robbery the burglars drove to Stratford and after tying the team to a tree on William street, walked across the long bridge, through town to the station.

Shortly before train No. 4 arrived from the west a comparatively young man, dust stained, approached the ticket office, calling for two tickets for Toronto. He was followed by another with the same request, indicating that there were four members in the party.

The ticket agent cannot give a description of the two who purchased tickets.

WRIGHT BREAKS RECORD.

Wilbur In France Beats All Two-Passenger Performances.

Lemans, Oct. 5.—Wilbur Wright, the American aeroplanist, who holds the world's record for an aeroplane flight, established another world's record Saturday afternoon for time and distance with a passenger. With a French journalist by his side, he remained in the air for 55 minutes and 37 seconds, circling the field twenty-four times and covering a distance officially estimated at 58 kilometres, or about 36 miles. His best previous flight with a passenger was 11 minutes 35 3-5 seconds.

By this feat Mr. Wright partially fulfills the conditions of a contract by him and Lazare Weiller, who represents a syndicate, whereby Mr. Wright will receive $100,000 and the syndicate will take in return the patent rights of the Wright machine for France and the colonies, with the privilege of manufacturing aeroplanes on this model. With another flight of 50 kilometres, carrying a passenger, Mr. Wright completes the fulfillment of the Weiller contract.

PARENTS FEEL IT KEENLY.

Judge and Mrs. Harris Greatly Affected by Creighton Sentence.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 5.—Judge E. W. Harris and his wife, of Port Huron, both aged people, have suffered a collapse owing to the revival of the tragedy of several months ago, when their daughter, Mrs. James F. Creighton, and her two doughters, were murdered at Owen Sound by the husband of the woman and the step-father of the two girls.

The news that Creighton has been sentenced to hang for the triple murder has caused the aged couple to become seriously ill, and grave fears are entertained for Mrs. Harris, who has been quite feeble since the tragedy.

Seven Thousand Bodies Recovered.

Bombay, Oct. 5.—Over seven thousand bodies already have been extricated by the health department at Hyderabad, and the belief prevails that the total deaths resulting from the floods that devastated the Hyderabad district a week ago will exceed all previous estimates.

Attorney and Moulder.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 5.—Wm. N. Osgoode, a Lowell attorney, and Robt. J. McCartney, a moulder, of Fall River, were nominated for governor and lieutenant-governor respectively, by the state convention of the Independence League, held in Faneuil Hall Saturday.

ENDS SPLENDID WEEK.

Mr. Fielding Concludes Series of Ideal Meetings.

Hamilton, Oct. 5.—The first week of Hon. W. S. Fielding's Ontario tour was concluded with an excellent meeting in the Association Hall here Saturday night. During the entire week the Minister of Finance could hardly have desired better audiences. Every hall in which he spoke has been filled, and he has been listened to with absorbing attention. He has been eminently successful in arousing any latent spirit of Liberalism which may have existed, while his well-reasoned, convincing speeches have won him hundreds of new admirers. In these respects the Hamilton meeting was on an equal footing with the others of the week.

Evelyn Claims Non-Support.

New York, Oct. 5.—Mrs. Nesbit Thaw, in a signed statement given out by her last night in the presence of her attorney, Daniel O'Reilly, makes the claim that for the past two months Harry K. Thaw has not contributed to her support, and, contrary to general opinion, no sum of money has ever been settled on her either by Thaw or his family.

In her signed statement, Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw says that Harry Thaw's "coke trust" income alone is $60,000 a year.

Mrs. Thaw, continuing, comments on Thaw's mental condition, saying: "Thaw's present mental condition is what it always has been and always will be," and with it she makes the statement that it is incurable.

Fall Proves Fatal.

Toronto, Oct. 5.—Death from concussion of the brain in St. Michael's Hospital yesterday afternoon followed the attempt of Alexander Falconer to jump from a moving Dundas car in Richmond street, near Sheppard, on Saturday evening. He was a widower, residing at 11 Hepburn street, and leaves a grown-up son and daughter. He was 45 years of age.

Killed by Train.

Niagara Falls, Oct. 5.—Car Inspector J. Trimble at 4.15 yesterday morning found the lifeless body of a man terribly mangled along the side of track No. 8 at the west end G.T.R. westbound yards.

It was identified as Thomas Parr of Stamford. The young man evidently was at an early hour yesterday morning attempting to board a train for Stamford.

Killed in Auto Collision.

Chicago, Oct. 5.—An automobile, racing at the rate of forty miles an hour, and a train on the Chicago & Milwaukee Electric Railway, running at even a higher rate of speed, collided at the Burlington Road crossing a mile north of Kenosha, Wis., Saturday.

As a result George O. Field, a prominent man of Manestee, Mich., was killed.

Fisher at Amelissburg.

Amelissburg, Oct. 5.—Hon. Sydney Fisher, Minister of Agriculture, attended the annual fair of the Amelissburg Agricultural Society, held here Saturday, and made an address.

Dr. M. Currie, Liberal candidate for the County of Prince Edward; F. E. O'Flynn, H. R. Barton, Nelson Parliament and others were on the platform.

Say Bills Are Bogus.

Oakville, Oct. 5.—Thomas Crozier, formerly of Milton, Ont., but now said to be residing in Toronto, was arrested here Friday evening on a charge of passing bogus five-dollar bills. He claims to have received the money at Niagara Falls in payment for work done.

Pictures of Britain.

London, Oct. 5.—Lantern slides, accompanying lectures descriptive of Britain, for use in Canada in connection with the scheme for the spread of empire knowledge amongst school children, will shortly be available.

Import Duty on Yukon Beers.

Ottawa, Oct. 5.—An ordinance is published placing a duty of 50 cents per gallon on porter, beer and ales imported into the Yukon territory. This does not apply to Canadian or British products.

Shipwrecked.

Nassau, New Providence, Oct. 5.—The British steamer Healeyside, Capt. Bedlington, from St. Michael's, Sept. 17, for Key West, was driven ashore on Abaco Island, in a hurricane, Oct. 1. The steamer is a total wreck, but the crew were saved and have arrived here.

OVERFLOW ATTENDANCE AT STRATTON'S HEADQUARTERS

The Mettle of the Meeting Enthusiasm and Confidence of Victory---Bright Addresses by Local Speakers---Mr. Louis F. Heyd, A Visitor, Gives Rousing Speech

The largest and most successful meeting that has yet been held in Mr. Stratton's committee rooms took place on Saturday evening. The hall was crowded to the doors and those present thoroughly enjoyed the addresses delivered by Mr.W.S. Davidson, Mr.L. F.Heyd of Brantford,and Mr.Stratton. The enthusiasm which prevailed certainly augurs well for the success of the Liberal cause and the return of Mr. Stratton.

Mr. Andrew McFarlane was chairman of the meeting. He pointed out the great benefit that Canada had received from a change of Government in 1896. The policy adopted by the Liberal administration had greatly increased Canada's progress, and the development was still going on. No one wish to return to the old state of affairs, and no one would compare the manfitness of the Opposition leaders to administer the affairs of the country as against the capability of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his associates.

Mr. Walter Davidson

opened the meeting with a short but pithy address. He was glad to have the opportunity to publicly show which side he was on. He was supporting the man whom every elector who had at heart the best interests of Peterborough and of Canada generally would record his vote for. Those who had either heard or read the statements made at the Conservative gathering in the Opera House would agree that Mr. Burnham had yet to make a speech or issue an address dealing with the issues of the campaign. All that we had had was black mud right out of the gutter. It was better for us to inquire as to why Mr. Burnham was unable to give any reasons why he should be returned. He had issued a marvellously indefinite and incoherent address; he wound up with the extraordinary expression, "Let humanity have a chance." No one was preventing humanity having a chance, and surely it was far better supplied with opportunities in the last twelve years under Liberal rule than in the eighteen years previous. Mr. Davidson said there was no doubt that the Liberals were going to win this contest, but that everyone should feel it their duty to see that a large majority was rolled up on election day for Mr. Stratton. (Applause).

Mr. L. F. Heyd.

Mr. Heyd, of Brantford, received a cordial welcome from the audience. Mr. Heyd said that he had been in the city on private business. He had met his friend, Mr. Stratton, and at his solicitation he had remained over to attend what he termed the weekly rally, and although he was fond of his home, he could not but meet the wishes of Mr. Stratton, and he was glad to be with them. After referring to the satisfaction which it afforded him to be able to speak a word on behalf of Hon. Mr. Stratton, he said he could not fail to be impressed with the appearance which Peterborough presented, in degree of progress and prosperity contrasted to that of a few years ago, and said these improved conditions to which the policy of the government had so materially contributed seemed to him to offer a sufficient reason why the people of this city and county should support the government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the gentleman who was their standard bearer in this campaign. He had not long since spent a period of travel and observation in Europe and Great Britain and when he compared the conditions under which the working masses of those countries were compelled to labour, and those which had been created for the labouring men of Canada he had felt that this was indeed a grand and glorious country to live in. When he regarded the development and magnificent progress of Canada for the past ten or twelve years, he was proud of his country. In view of that achievement, and the importance to the nation of its continuance, they ought to feel called upon to put "Canada First" before any political party, and remember that in this election they were Canadians called upon to perform a solemn public duty for themselves and for posterity. The men who toil are now asked to decide which party and which men are best calculated to advance the national welfare. He asked them to compare the laws in which labour was interested on the statute books ten or twelve years ago, and those that had been since enacted, and learn therefrom which party could be more safely appealed to for legislation for the protection of their interests. From 1878 to 1896, the then government had year after year been appealed to by the labor interest for favorable legislation, and in that time he defied them to point to one act that had been placed on the statute books to protect the toiling masses from the avarice of capital. The only action was in the appointment of A. W. Wright in 1883 to enquire into the alleged sweatshop evil, and his report that there was nothing in the allegation of a sweating system. When it was found that the soldiers of the King had been for ten years wearing clothing in the production of which 8½ cents an hour had been paid, it was Sir William Mulock, who decreed that there should be no further sweating, that the labourer was worthy of his hire, and this should be crystallized into legislation providing that so far at least as the Government of Canada was concerned the working man must be paid the highest standard of wages, and contractors were forbidden to sublet contracts for the purpose of evading this law. Previous to 1896 there had been no Act of Parliament exclusively in the interest of the labouring man,but it remained for this Government to give just consideration to industry. He asked which party was the party of freedom. It was to a Reform administration that we owed the vote by ballot and manhood suffrage. There was a time when you must have lands and mortgages to entitle you to a vote, but the Liberal party decreed that manhood should be the standard of suffrage for the people of this country. It was not the manufacturers, who left their home to uphold the flag of freedom in South Africa. It was the young manhood of the country that was willing to sacrifice all to protect and uphold the flag. For seven years labour sought in vain to have trade marks legalized—the mark of a fair day's wage for a fair day's work, and a guarantee that goods were not manufactured under unsanitary conditions, and it remained for the government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier to pass this statute. And now the day had arrived when Sir Wilfrid Laurier declares that labour shall have a responsible minister to represent its interests in the administration of the government. In private life we would prefer the servant who had shown capacity and good sense. Here we had one party in power for eighteen years and another for the twelve following and it is fair to compare the record of achievement of these two parties. He described the public services of Premier Laurier, who first effected the wiping out of race and creed prejudice, so that all classes of citizenship could live together in peace and harmony. Then in 1896 Laurier found a paralysing business depression, the young men leaving the country for the United States by the tens of thousands through lack of opportunity and employment. The government by its wise tariff policy, created business for the factory and employment for the workers. Then came a new era of things. The history of Canada since that time reads like a fairy tale. They proved true loyalty to the flag by providing a preferential tariff for British goods, and followed that by another act which prevented the use of Canada by the American manufacturers as a slaughter market, and prevented the dumping of American goods by undervaluation into this country to displace Canadian labour from its employment. Since then the total foreign trade of the nation had increased by leaps and bounds. What did this mean to the Peterborough mechanics? It meant increased prosperity. In 1895 our foreign trade was $198,000,000, in 1896 it was $238,000,000, and the total business of the country had developed in 1908, to $669,650,680,000. How was this done? The opposition say that Laurier stole their national policy. Well, if this were true he had at least shown that he knew how to run it better. What the country wants in the government is men who do things—who produce results. Do Mr. Borden and Mr. Foster come before the people with any platform? No. All they offer is a policy of scandalising the leaders of the nation.

Mr. Heyd continued: I want to say something on behalf of my friend, Mr. Stratton. I have known Mr. Stratton for some years, and I have found him to be a man to whom one can appeal when he requires the help of a good friend. and there are times in the history of us all when we experience the need of a friend. I have realized that time. I called upon Mr. Stratton. I found him a man through and through. I appreciate true friendship, and so do you, and if I can reciprocate in a very small measure by saying a few words in support of Mr. Stratton in the campaign I gladly and gratefully do so. I want to say to you electors of Peterborough that there are few men in the Province of Ontario, in the City of Toronto, who stand in the commercial world as Mr. Stratton stands. In the great financial world that gentleman is occupying a very prominent position. He is connected in positions of high responsibility with four or five of our most important and influential financial institutions. He is identified outside of Peterborough with industrial enterprises of large magnitude, in Hamilton, Brantford, and other manufacturing centres of Ontario, besides in your own town, where, as you know, he is prominently associated with important manufacturing enterprises that contribute to swell the field of employment of labour of his native city, and if he is good enough for the stockholders of these great financial institutions to elect year after year to positions of trust and responsibility—if abroad he so commands the confidence of the investing public that his services and experience, and great business ability are eagerly sought after, is he not good enough for his neighbours at home to select for any position of public service, and are you not confident that in the position of your representative he will serve you with zeal, with fidelity and with that ability which he has always brought to bear in the discharge of the many public interests that have been bestowed upon him. If he commands the trust and confidence of the financiers of Toronto, of the moneyed men of the City of Toronto, and you know that money is exceedingly careful in whom it reposes its trust, I should consider that that is surely the kind of a man whom this constituency ought to be glad to avail itself of to represent its interests in Parliament. When I called upon Mr. Stratton this afternoon, he was surrounded at his office by numerous callers, and in the midst of the urgent claims of his own business affairs upon his attention. And I could not but admire the happy faculty which he evidenced, of giving competent attention to business affairs, and finding time in the midst of that engrossing work for a pleasant word, and a shake of the hand for the many friends and admirers from town and country, who were eager to show their friendship for him personally, and their loyalty to his cause in this campaign. During my stay in your city I took occasion to make some enquiry into the progress of the campaign and its probable results, and no one with whom I came into contact seemed to entertain the slightest doubt that Mr. Stratton's election was a foregone conclusion. Why said one, "Who is opposing him? The people of Peterborough know Mr. Stratton and they know who are those who are against him in this election. They know what Mr. Stratton has done for the progress and prosperity of the city, and it does not take them long to know all that his opponents have ever done in that direction." And I believe that this impression will influence the action of the electors on this occasion. Mr. Stratton's friends do not claim for him that he is an angel or exempt from the common faults. In the course of twenty years of public life, in the conduct of a score of hot political campaigns, it is inevitable that in one party as in another there must be occasionally indiscretions arise which may give cause for regret. But it is undoubted that Mr. Stratton has been fair to his opponents, has never indulged in personal rancour after the heat of battle was over, and that in every public position which he has occupied he has given faithful and signally able service,and in particular he has ever been loyally and successfully active and energetic in advancing the material interests of Peterborough. As he said in the commencement he was glad to be among them, glad to see the crowd and to note the enthusiasm of their interest on behalf of their candidate, and he hoped this would be continued unabated to the close of the campaign, and that J. R. Stratton would be chosen their member by a handsome majority. (Applause).

Hon. Mr. Stratton.

Hon. Mr. Stratton, who was received with a warm demonstration of enthusiasm, after referring to the pleasure he had experienced in hearing Mr. Heyd, alluded to the altogether too flattering nature of his personal references, and only hoped to prove worthy of some small share of the eulogy with which he had been favoured. He proceeded to refer to the advancement which Peterborough had made in population and prosperity, in the expansion of manufacturing, and the employment of labour. Notwithstanding some depression, reflected from the United States during the present year, in no part of the Dominion had that depression been less felt than in Peterborough. The government had recognized that it was the duty of public men to see that labour was provided with employment. No other administration had devoted the same consideration to the interests and welfare of labour as that of Premier Laurier, which had given to the workingmen a representative department in the administration of the country, had safeguarded their interests and seen to it that our people don't have now to send to the United States for anything that can be produced in this country, and also that the toiler gets the highest wages for his labour. It was well that we should not only realize the dignity of labour in every avenue of productive activity, and its place as an imperative essential to national and local progress and prosperity, but also we should not overlook the fact that in order to be productive of results, in order to achieve the means to maintain the hundreds of thousands of comfortable and happy homes that everywhere are found in Canada, in order to produce those commodities that supply the necessities of the people and create the business activity from which prosperity springs,labour must be provided with active and remunerative employment. Surely the country and labour especially, will remember that they owe a debt of gratitude to the statesmen and the public policies that have during the past decade created and multiplied the opportunities available for profitable employment for both skilled and unskilled labour. The Liberal party in carrying out its grand plan for making Canada the country of the Twentieth Century for progress and achievement, while effecting giant strides in national advancement, has also conferred untold benefits upon the toiling masses. In the construction of great works, in the enlargement of canals, in the prosecution of vast railway undertakings, in the encouragement of liberal enterprise, which has filled our towns with forges and factories which supply to our people the commodities for which they used to have to send their money abroad, there has been provided a permanent market for labour, where industry commands a ready and profitable employment.

He referred to the contrast between the policy of promise that obtained before 1896 and the policy of performance that has prevailed since that time and instanced the case of the Trent Valley Canal, which former governments had dangled before the hopes of the people as a bait for their votes, but toward which they took no actual practical steps. Their course in this connection was like that of the darkey who stimulated his mule to increased exertion by dangling a dish of oats at the end of a pole a little ahead of the animal's nose. The deluded mule was always in hopeful pursuit but never caught up. With the change of government in 1896, the policy of performance and sincerity put this great work under practical way and he was confident that if that progressive policy be maintained within two or three years we should see cargoes from Duluth going past our doors for delivery over the Trent Valley Canal to Montreal. He did not believe the people of Peterborough would vote to destroy that go-aheaditive policy, which had achieved and was accomplishing such results. He was confident of election, and had never before had his meetings attended with a greater manifestation of enthusiasm. He had heard that his opponents were scheming to turn this into a campaign of slander, but he did not believe the people of Peterborough would be deluded by any such attempt. They must be up and doing for the progress of humanity and the advancement of this country of ours. He believed their interests required the continuance of the policy that was bringing industries to our city and working for its progress. He hoped to see an even larger attendance at next Saturday night's meeting, when other gentlemen would give their reasons for desiring the continuance of a national policy that had produced results of so great advantage to Canada, and which he did not believe the people of this country were willing to exchange for something they knew not of. Cheers were given with loyal enthusiasm for the King and three rousing cheers for J. R. Stratton closed a most successful and satisfactory meeting.

MR. HANNA'S FOREIGNERS

Mr. Borden has found it advisable in response to a telegram from the West to give out the following Statement:—

"The despatch from Galt, published in The Edmonton Bulletin, that Mr. Hanna is repeating from platform to platform that old country immigrants are riff-raff of the British Isles, fit only for jails and asylums,' is absolutely false and without foundation. What Mr. Hanna said in my presence, and I was present on every platform from which he has spoken, was that he welcomed desirable white immigrants of any nationality, but he objected to the bonused immigration of persons who are physically, morally and mentally unfit. He insisted that immigration should be brought in under more careful supervision, and that pains should be taken to sift out the undesirable class. He said that the negligence of the Dominion Government in this respect had imposed upon the people of Ontario a financial burden in connection with her public institutions. R. L. Borden."

The chief object of attack on the part of the delegates of the Trades and Labour Congress, who recently discussed the immigration question, was the work of the Salvation Army. Of that work Sir James Whitney is reported to have said while in London to a representative of The Canadian Gazette:—

"I have nothing else but words of the highest praise for the way in which the Salvation Army does its immigration work, so far as Canada is concerned. Every effort is made by them, and with success, to obviate any possible dislocation of the labour market in Canada. Their agents throughout the Dominion keep informed of the requirements, and in England a careful selection is made from the would-be emigrants having these requirements in view. There is no drag-net employed in England, and there is no dumping down of immigrants at Montreal or elsewhere. Immediately on their arrival the Salvation Army immigrants are taken to employers who are waiting for them, and in a very short time they become settled as useful and promising Canadian citizens. Recently the Canadian Government has decided to impose a money test of, I believe, $25 on all immigrants arriving. This will certainly have the effect of hindering very appreciably the immigrant of the Salvation Army type. Still no reasonable person can in any way blame the Dominion Government for imposing this moderate test of character and capacity."

Sir James Whitney must see that there is grave divergence of view between the Provincial Secretary and himself. The labour men condemn the Army's methods, and he says these methods are all right, while Mr. Hanna is going round inflating any prejudices which may exist against old countrymen. That that was the effect of his incendiary talk was evident from letters received in The Globe office. Letters came to hand in answer to The Globe's article in defence of the slandered newcomers, which, if published, would create a storm of protest from one end of the Dominion to the other. They were too sure a proof that in certain quarters inveterate prejudices exist against the old country immigrants. Why should a man in Mr. Hanna's position pander to that prejudice? He has set his officials to work to prepare a case against these old countrymen. At Pembroke he presented this case:—

He found, he said, that in the last five years the foreign element had increased in the Province of Ontario by twenty per cent. If the Dominion Government had exercised reasonable supervision of the class of immigrants coming to the country the increase in the foreign element at the asylums and at the Central Prison would be twenty per cent. But instead of such an increase it was shown that in the five years between 1903 and 1908 the increase had been about 90 per cent. Taking these figures as his basis and using the calculation that each of these "foreign-born" unfortunates would require attention for twenty years at an average cost of $200 a year, Mr. Hanna asserted that, as a consequence of the increase in the "foreign-born" population of our asylums and jails, the Province was burdened with a liability of $1,200,000 for the last year alone.

It is worthy of note that when Mr. Hanna speaks of "foreigners" he is speaking of men and women born in the British Isles, and just as good subjects of the King as he is. The Peterborough Examiner analyzes Mr. Hanna's figures and shows that they are wholly misleading. The Examiner puts it stronger. It says that "when compared with the actual figures and contrasted with the facts, the Provincial Secretary is found to be guilty of deliberate misrepresentation, not to use the stronger term of deliberate falsehood." This is plain speaking, but it must be said that the statistics furnished by The Examiner bear it out to the full. It is nothing short of disgraceful that whole classes of our population should be slandered in order if possible to take some of the credit from the Liberal Government for the splendid success of its immigration policy. That is not politics; it is treason.—Globe.

The Land For The Settler And Not The Speculator Is Record Of The Liberals

"If anybody owns land in the Northwest Provinces for speculation, it is land granted under the legislation of the Conservative party. Our record is clear. In addition to the fifty-six million acres granted for purposes of railway land grants, a vast quantity was held subject to the selection of the company, and it took twelve long years to get this land grant settled up. Last year the last of the land in this section area was taken up, and thirty million acres came back to the Government. What happened? This whole area was thrown open to the actual settler, a fact which formed a final crowning proof that the policy of the Liberal party is the land for the settler."

"They say that we gave the land to the speculator, but I should like to know where. Since 1896 the Government at Ottawa has granted 35,000,000 acres of land as homesteads to the individual settler. The one sale of land that has been made was made for the purpose of promoting settlement, for making land fit for settlement, and not for the purpose of speculation. Lands sold without condition to a speculator, not one single acre in the course of twelve years. To corporations of colonisation companies, not a single acre. To railway companies, not a single acre."—Mr. Sifton at Brandon.

Woman Had Money.

Detroit, Oct. 5.—Mrs. Nellie Bishop was committed to the Wayne County Asylum at Eloise Saturday. It was not known that she had any money, but as is customary a thorough search was made of her person by the matron. Besides about $60 in cash, four bank books were discovered, showing that she had a total of $3,240 to her credit.

Three of the books showed balances in the Dominion Bank, Windsor; the Hamilton Savings, and in the Dominion Postoffice Savings Bank, Guelph branch, and a small amount in a Detroit bank. Mrs. Bishop has a son in Hamilton. Her home was in Milford, Ont.

A Vagrant at 105.

Kingston, Oct. 4.—Mrs. Sarah Carr, aged 105, tottered into the dock at the Police Court Saturday, charged with vagrancy. She was turned out by her two daughters and fell into the hands of the police.

She was placed in a home but would not stay. Her daughters are in poor circumstances, and say they cannot keep their mother.

"Brainstorm" For Moir.

Stratford, Oct. 5.—E. Sydney Smith, K.C., of this city will act as crown counsel at the Middlesex Assizes, which opens in the court house, London. Interest, of course, centres around the trial of Private Moir, who will answer to the charge of killing Color-Sergeant Lloyd at Wolseley Barracks. It is stated that the defence will plead "brainstorm" for Moir.

Chancellor Sir John A. Boyd will preside.

Protection Can Save Them.

London, Oct. 5.—Robert Duff, engaged in the yarn and cloth trades in Canada, when interviewed by The Yorkshire Post, expressed the opinion that nothing could save the Canadian woollen industry but higher protection. Canadian woollen manufacturers understand their business, but they suffer in competition through lack of specialization.

Leg Badly Mangled.

Welland, Oct. 5.—Frank Hyatt, the six-year-old son of Frank Hyatt, had his leg badly mangled by being caught in a wagon here. The doctors have amputated it.

THE PATHETIC DEVOTION OF GEN. WARDWELL'S THAT DEFIED DREAD LEPROSY

CONTRACTED THE DISEASE

When an unpretentious coffin was lowered into the grave at Tombstone, Ariz.,the other day it was the visible sign of the departure from earth of one of the knightliest souls that ever adorned the annals of history.

Upon the coffin were only the words, "Gen. David K. Wardwell, U.S.A., Retired," with the dates of birth and death. The life story of the man who lay within—a story of conjugal devotion seldom equalled—was left to be written.

Pathos, tragedy and undying love make up the story of the closing days of General Wardwell's life. It was a story that had been scantily told in news dispatches, a story of a devoted husband who spirited his leper wife away from a hospital in Los Angeles and fled with her into the deserts of Arizona, so that he could minister to the afflicted one without the annoying supervision of health authorities.

As long as he lived this veteran of two wars, burdened with poverty and the weight of eighty-odd years, was faithful to his marriage vows. When he died his last thoughts were of his leper wife, unconscious in an adjoining room of the little desert cabin that had become their only home. Later she was returned to the Los Angeles hospital.

"Greater love hath no man than this!" such would be the most appropriate epitaph that could be placed upon General Wardwell's simple tombstone.

A leper was the old soldier's wife, a victim of that dread and mysterious disease that so far has yielded only to the ministrations of the Man who died on Calvary. And during all her illness her husband's love, devotion and sacrifice approached the divine.

Mrs. Wardwell had been ill for a long time. Her skin was dry and harsh. Her flesh was chalky and in places was covered with scales.

She arrived at Los Angeles one day this summer. While walking on the street she grew faint. Then she fell unconscious. At the receiving hospital police surgeons diagnosed her case as leprosy. For the sake of the public safety she was ordered confined in the detention ward at the county hospital, isolated, separated even from her husband.

General Wardwell, grieving alone at the Soldiers' Home at Sawtelle, lost all hope. He had feared his wife had leprosy, but was determined to stay by her side until death parted them. Now, it seemed, all his sacrifice was to be in vain. As strict as the laws of the Medes and Persians are the regulations governing the public health.

Then it was that he planned his flight. Communicating with the prisoner at the county hospital, he arranged the details of the escape.

In the silent watches of the night the aged veteran approached the grim walls of the hospital. From a half-darkened window shone a timid ray of light. That was her room. He whistled softly, and the curtain was moved aside.

He placed a ladder beneath the window and holding it firmly while she stepped out he soon had her safe in the shadows of the big palms.

Now to escape. A carriage was in waiting, and in this the couple sped to the railway station. Tickets had been purchased in advance, and within an hour the two were on their way to the Mexican border.

All was confusion the next morning at the hospital when the authorities learned a leper had disappeared. Health officers rushed here and there searching in every nook and corner of the city for trace of the fugitive. Two days later a letter came. It read:

We will soon be in Mexico. We will die together. If you separate us again we will both end our lives.

(Signed) WARDWELL.

Considering the circumstances, the authorities of the health department believed they could do no better than allow the pair to go their way provided they did not endanger the health of other persons.

After reaching the Mexican border the couple turned back and sought seclusion in the hills near Tombstone, Arizona, where Mrs. Wardwell's brother owns a ranch and a small shack far out in the hills. From Tombstone came a letter to the adjutant of the Soldiers' Home at Sawtelle. In this letter General Wardwell said he would never see the home again and he asked for a formal discharge from the institution. The letter continued:

We are safe here. There is a cabin awaiting my wife and me far out among the hills, where no one will see us and where no attempt will be made to part us.

Down at Sawtelle, where the couple lived before the woman was committed to the hospital, they tell tender stories of the love the aged general bore for his young wife. Some forty years his junior, Mrs. Wardwell was a beautiful woman until disease wasted her body, sprinkled her hair with gray and drew lines of pain in her face.

General Wardwell was first to suspect that his wife had leprosy. He knew she had once nursed a relative suffering from the disease, and even when he married her it was with the thought that some day the disease would fasten itself upon her and bear her away to the grave.

When her condition became worse, Mrs. Wardwell realized that almost beyond question of doubt she was stricken with a fatal malady, a malady that would drive her from home and friends and make her a wanderer on the face of the earth. But she feared most of all that she would be separated from her husband.

She confided this fear to her husband, and in full knowledge of what it might mean he took a vow never to leave his wife, but to live and die with her. She suggested that she give herself up to the authorities for an examination. Rather this, she said, than that she should be suspected of being a leper, arrested secretly, examined, and hurried off to die in some leper asylum.

General Wardwell protested, but on the day she fainted in Los Angeles it is believed she was on the way to give herself up. Early in the morning of that day she left the vine-covered cottage in Sawtelle to go to Los Angeles. The great mental strain under which she laboured caused her to faint when and she was carried into the receiving hospital. It was there that Police Surgeon Wright proved beyond doubt that she was a victim of leprosy.

There followed the commitment to the hospital, the long sorrowing vigil by the bereaved husband and the flight to Mexico.

The story of how General Wardwell, a grizzled veteran of two wars, wooed and won the beautiful Isabel Cole is still told and retold by the pioneer American residents of Cananea, Mexico, as they sit about their doorsteps in the fading twilight.

It was eighteen years ago that General Wardwell, then only a lieutenant colonel, first met Miss Cole, one of the belles of the American colony in Mexico. She had heard frequently of his gallantry, his dashing bravery. She had been told that he was a hero of the Civil War, that he had been rewarded for heroism displayed at the battle of Gaines Mills, when, with a few men, he charged to the very mouths of the enemy's batteries.

She tossed her pretty head when she met him, expecting that he would be vain, full of conceit or gruff and soldierly. Instead, the man she met was quiet, unassuming, gentlemanly, one whose least desire was to talk of himself or his reputed bravery.

They fell in love almost at the first and his suit was looked on with favour by all—but there was a taint, a shadowy menace blackening the girl's future, and this she must tell him. She had nursed her brother for two years—her brother who had died of some strange disease, which, she whispered, some had said was leprosy.

Grizzled David Wardwell laughed at her fears. In the rosy light of his first love what could the black shadow of leprosy do? "Why," he told her, "if you had the leprosy now I would marry you. Without you I care not to live. With you I am ready to face anything the future may bring forth."

And so the veteran of two wars and the beautiful girl were wed. They lived in Cananea for a few years and fortune seemed to smile on the happy pair.

Six years passed and illness came to the young wife. No pronounced symptoms, just a general feeling of languor and weariness. Both feared, but neither would speak of the shadow that was impending. They decided to go to California, thinking the balmy air of the coast region would prove of benefit to the invalid.

They moved to Sawtelle eight years ago. The wife grew worse, and the strain of nursing her sapped the veteran's strength. More misfortunes came. Their money dwindled away, and at times they were but little removed from absolute want.

A small growth appeared above one of Wardwell's eyes. He almost hoped he had contracted the dread disease which now, he felt assured, had seized his wife. But such was not to be his fate. The growth was diagnosed as cancer, not necessarily fatal, but torturous, and blinding.

Mrs. Wardwell's ailment increased in severity, and now it had become all but impossible to prevent discovery by the neighbors that the woman was in reality a leper. Wardwell prayed for death rather than detection, for the latter would mean separation worse than death.

When he saw that secrecy could be maintained but little longer, Wardwell began to make inquiries regarding lepers, their treatment and probable length of life. He was told the usual custom was to send such afflicted ones to Honolulu. He read of the miserable existence led there by the sufferers, and he determined, come what might, he would keep the secret of his wife's disease, or, failing in this, would fly with her to Mexico.

When Mrs. Wardwell fainted on the street and her condition became known, her husband proposed to take her to Mexico. His request was refused. But love lent him aid and soon they were housed in a lonely hut in the deserts of Arizona.

When the wife's affection was recognized as leprosy, a friend said to General Wardwell: "Why don't you get a nurse for your wife? It must be terrible to be at her beck and call day and night."

The look that the old fighter gave in response was one of utter amazement, as he replied:

"She didn't marry a nurse. She married a husband. She did that when she was young and pretty and could have married most any one she wanted to. She trusted me then, and you bet she wasn't fooled, either."

So old David Wardwell, hero of many battles in which men's blood was shed, chose the path of loving devotion and duty. While he lived, he cared for his leper wife with the utmost tenderness. When he died she was, fortunately, unconscious. After his burial, as there was no one to care for her, she was removed from the Arizona cabin and returned to the county hospital at Los Angeles.

How can the love that endears be expressed better than by the devotion this old warrior gave his heart's companion, who, as his bride, was to be always his bride?

PURE WATER FOR SMOKY CITY

Pittsburg Filtering Plant to be in Operation Thursday

Word was received in the city yesterday from Mr. Alex. Potter, C.E., of New York City, who was in Buffalo, on his way to Pittsburg. Mr. Alex. Potter is a brother of Rev. J. G. Potter of this city, and his mission to Pittsburg will be of particular interest to many citizens. He is the engineer who prepared the plans for the mammoth filtering plant for the water supply of Pittsburg, and he has superintended its construction. The plant is situated at McKeesport, a suburb of the Iron City and is nearing completion. The people, however, have been and are suffering greatly from the very bad water being supplied, and the engineer has been requested to hurry work. The contract does not have to be finished for some time yet, but under the circumstances Mr. Potter is going to make an extra effort, and he says he will give Pittsburg pure water on Thursday.

There are many in the city who have followed Mr. Potter's work closely and will be interested to learn the result.

CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC BEGIN THEIR DUTIES

Miss Adamson and Miss Newman Here On Saturday

Miss Lina Drechsler Adamson, violiniste, and Miss Lora Newman, pianiste, Toronto, have arrived in the city and on Saturday began their duties on the teaching staff of the Conservatory of Music. Both these ladies are well known to the music-loving population of the city, and that they are here again to resume their duties will be welcome news to those who have been and will be their pupils.

Mr. Henry J. Lauts, vocal teacher of the Toronto Conservatory of Music, will be here this week and will also begin his duties.

WEDDING BELLS

HOPKINS—STIRLING.

Havelock, Oct. 5.—Special. — News has just been received of the marriage of Miss Charlotte Stirling, daughter of the late Rev. Alex Stirling, of the Free Church, Rothesay, Scotland, and sister of Rev. J. A. G. Stirling, of town, to Mr. Oswald J. Hopkins of Avenay, Fertile Valley, Sask. They are spending a short honeymoon at Winnipeg, Man. Miss Stirling left on Thursday, Sept. 12, for Fertile Valley, and on the eve of her departure was presented with a handsome silver pudding dish by the Christian Endeavour Society of the Presbyterian church, in which Miss Stirling always took an active part, and, with the help of a few other willing workers organized the society last spring. A short address was read by Miss A. Smith, and the presentation was made by Mrs. Alex. Innis.

Mr. Stirling thanked the society on his sister's behalf.

During Miss Stirling's stay in Havelock she made a host of friends who, although sorry to have her leave wish her every joy and happiness in her new home in the West.

DR. HUMISTON, A PROMINENT SURGEON, SAYS THAT DEATH IS PAINLESS FOR GOOD AND EVIL

Surgeon Who Has Watched Dissolution in 15,000 Cases Says That Dying is as Simple and as Natural as Falling Asleep

BELIEVE IN FUTURE LIFE

FACTS ABOUT DEATH.

The wicked are not afraid to pass into the great Beyond.

Nobody knows when he is going to die.

There is no pain in death in ninety-nine cases out of 100.

Suffering always ends before death.

Nearly all dying people want to live.

Nearly all people die believing in a future life.

Dying is very much like going to sleep.

No pain is expected in going to sleep and no pain is experienced in dying.

Nature has made death as easy as it can possibly be made.—Dr. C. S. Humiston, who has witnessed 15,000 deaths.

To solve the mystery of dying—not alone the mystery of death—has been a life study to an American physician, D. C B Humston, of Cleveland, O.

Dr. Humiston has scientifically watched the death of 15,000 persons. His research was, of course, not merely curious. There were certain things he wished to know that might have an important bearing on human life and the hope and habits of the race.

Dr. Humiston, by arrangement with other physicians and because he was recognized as being greatly interested as a scientific investigator, was called repeatedly to witness the drama that marks the parting of the ways. He tells the results of his investigations to the New York World.

The principal reason why Dr. Humiston took up this weird study was to weigh the old adage that the good die a peaceful and the wicked a horrible death. Dr. Humiston's parents were strict believers in the Anglican faith, and from childhood he was taught that a sublime death was in store for those who had led a moral and upright life, while the dying hours, or even moments of the ungodly would be tortures.

In addition there was always a weird fascination about death which attracted him, and he wanted to disprove, at least to his own satisfaction, a number of beliefs he had brought from childhood. He believed the phenomenon of death was a subject which had been neglected, but which was worthy of close study. His theory was that if so much time and money were spent in studying how to bring people into the world, it was quite important to study how they left it, especially as the knowledge thus derived would be of great benefit to mankind, both in prolonging life and easing the pain of those who suffer.

There are three theories by which man accounts for all phenomena:—First, the supernatural; second, the supernatural and the natural; third, the natural. Dr. Humiston studied the phenomena of death as natural phenomena.

"There is no truth in the statement that the good die happy and the wicked suffer," said Dr. Humiston. "There is absolutely no difference in the actual death of the vilest criminal and the most sainted man or woman. There is no pain in death. There may be pain in suffering up to a certain point, but there can be no death where there is pain.

Death is Painless

"Before death there is a period of no pain, sometimes it is a long period, usually it is not so long. I have seen notorious criminals, many of them, die as peacefully as the most Godlike priests. There is no difference in death. It is alike to all, good and bad. Before death there may be physical pain or suffering, or mental pain or suffering which is even more severe than physical pain, as it is more difficult and impossible to cure. But even in the cases of the most intense physical or mental pain it ceases before death. Many times, if the patient is conscious, he believes that he is getting better, but it is only the characteristically painless period preceding death.

"Death is absolutely painless. Not one in a hundred suffers pain when final dissolution takes place. There may be great pain up to a certain point, but the senses become naturally and mercifully blunted, and when death comes it is always, or nearly always, peaceful.

Narcotics That Kill

"One startling thing that I discovered in my study of death, and a fact which is now reluctantly conceded by medical men in cases where the patient has suffered great pain and has been given narcotics, is that death is often caused by the drug rather than the disease. In case of cancer, which is perhaps the most painful disease, and other diseases which cause great physical suffering, narcotics should be used to deaden the senses, but they should not be used in such quantities as will kill the patient. The proportion of deaths by narcotics is shockingly large, and the only excuse for such deaths is the rather superfluous one that they are absolutely painless, when, in fact, death is painless by nature.

"The meaning of the word pain," continued Dr. Humiston, "is so indefinite that it is difficult to define it, but when I speak of pain I mean intense physical suffering. There is often a sort of oppression before death which some people mistake for pain but that must not be taken into consideration. In death by drowning there is a feeling of oppression, but there is no actual pain. Strangulation, which is by many considered one of the most terrible and painful forms of death, is not painful. There is a feeling of oppression at first, but the senses soon become blunted, and no pain is felt. The twitching of the body, which is often taken to mean that the victim is experiencing pain, is done subconsciously. It is a reflex movement, and no matter how the muscles may move, it is not a sign that pain is being or has been felt."

Dr. Hmston's Story

For many years Dr. Humiston has been considered one of the leading physicians of Cleveland. In the latter '70's Dr. Humiston took up surgery as a specialty, and in 1880 went abroad, and took a post-graduate course in surgery at the Algemeine Krankenhaus, in Vienna, under the famous Dr. Bilroth. After a year of study there, Dr. Humiston went to London and was made a clinical assistant at the noted Soho Hospital, in Soho Square. Returning to Cleveland in 1883, Dr. Humiston resumed his practice, and again in 1890 went to Vienna, where he remained five years. It was there he took up the weird study of the phenomena of death. Ever since he took up the study of medicine he was anxious to study death, and nowhere in the world is the opportunity offered as it is in Vienna at the Algemeine Krankenhaus, or "general hospital." In no other hospital in the world is such a minute record kept of the causes of death, and nowhere is there such opportunity afforded for its personal observation.

In the first place, the Algemeine Krankenhaus is the largest hospital in the world. It has 6,500 beds, 3,500 of which are devoted to general hospital cases. The remainder are devoted to the old soldiers. The hospital is supported by the Austrian Government, and everything is free. Between thirty and fifty patients die every day in the various wards of the enormous hospital, and a post-mortem is held on every body. This is one of the rules of the hospital, and several hundredt housand have been made since the hospital was first opened. One of the old house physicians has made no less than 60,000 post-mortems, while Dr. Bilroth, Dr. Humiston's professor at that time, had made more than 42,000. Every night the bodies of the dead are removed from the wards to the post-mortem room, where several physicians devote their entire time to the work. A history of each case, together with the diagnosis and the treatment, which is prepared by the attending physician during life, is read before the post-mortem is performed.

These records are of great assistance to those who wish to study the phenomena of death, for they furnish statistics of the causes of death and show what treatment would have been best for the symptoms shown.

Naturally all sentiment had to be left behind. Dr. Humiston had to regard each death simply as an interesting case and not as the end of the life of somebody's friend or relative.

Often several patients were dying at the same time and he would have to hasten from one ward to another to be in time to witness their final dissolution. During these five years which he spent in the big hospital he saw more than 15,000 men, women and children die from almost every cause known to man.

"The German and Austrian physicians," said Dr. Humiston, "are more interested in the causes of death than the physicians of other nations, and more attention is paid to that particular study at the Algemeine Krankenhaus than at any similar institution in the world. That is why I chose that hospital to pursue my favourite study, which I have made my hobby throughout years of practice in this city. I have found that when I know about the causes of death I am able to counteract similar symptoms at the proper time, and thus, in many cases, to postpone death. Of course, it is inevitable that death must come, but it can be avoided for a time, at least."

Clergymen At St. John's Church Here From Three Continents

The services at St. John's yesterday took on a rather special character from the fact that they marked Rev. Canon Davidson's resumption of duty after his prolonged visit to England, and from the fact that it constituted a little local replica of the recent Pan-Anglican Synod, there being present and taking part in the services of the day no fewer than three visiting clergymen from widely-separated continents — Rev. Charles Sutcliffe, Vicar of Holy Trinity, Staleybridge, near Manchester, England; Rev. S. J. Roch, of the parish of Melita, Manitoba, and Rev. Robert Brinton, of East India. There were large congregations at all the services, there having been over two hundred communicants at the morning celebration when Rev. Mr. Sutcliffe preached the sermon. There was also a large congregation in the evening when Rev. Mr. Roch took the service, with Rev. Canon Davidson. Rev. Mr. Sutcliffe reading the lessons. Rev. Robert Brinton, a relative of Mr. John Brinton, well known in Peterborough, and late curate of the great St. Mary's Church, Portsmouth, gave a brief but happy address preliminary to the address of Rev. Canon Davidson on the Pan-Anglican Synod. Rev. Mr. Brinton is a distinguished graduate of Oxford, and has resigned as curate of St. Mary's to devote himself to mission work in the East Indies. He is paying Peterborough a visit before going to the East. The congregations throughout the day were very large and the services bright and earnest. Mr. Chandler sang an excellent solo in the evening, being assisted in the chorus quartette by Mrs Devey, Mrs. Hinchcliffe and Mr. N. Greenhalgh.

MISS STELLA MARKS

Friends and acquaintances of Miss Stella Marks, until last August a resident of Peterborough, will sincerely regret her rather sudden death in Collingwood on Saturday morning. Miss Marks was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Marks, who left Peterborough only in August. She was just entering into womanhood, being 18 years of age, and the favourite of the family. She was born and brought up in Peterborough and her numerous girl friends will be sorry to learn of her death. Before the family left the city for Collingwood Miss Marks was employed at Robt. Fair & Company's store. She was a Methodist in religion and attended the George street Methodist church and Sunday school. Her death was due to typhoid fever, from which she suffered only two weeks. Besides her parents, Miss Marks is survived by one sister, Beatrice, and two brothers, Chester and Earle.

The body will arrive in the city on Monday night and will be taken to the residence of Mr. Albert Duncan, 371 Bethune street. The funeral will be held from there on Tuesday afternoon to Little Lake Cemetery.

MARGARET M. CHAMBERT

The death occurred yesterday of Margaret Madeline Chambers, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Chambers, 175 Aylmer street, at the age of three months and fifteen days. The funeral was held this afternoon to Little Lake Cemetery.

RICHARD HALL & SON, Limited

An Inviting Home---Yours?

Here's where a big question mark may be added—Is your home inviting, not only to strangers but to your own family. It is not necessary to refurnish the whole home every year—no, that would be folly. A New Rug this year or perhaps some fresh Curtains, Drapes or a handsome Picture—anything to keep the surroundings fresh and cheerful.

Brussels Carpet Sweepers

Keeps Down the Dust

IF IT'S A CARPET

We have the finest stock in the trade of Axminsters, Velvets, Brussels, Tapestries, etc., in as low as 12½c and as high as you wish to go.

RUGS TOO

Our big feature is home furnishing, from the smallest door size to the most elaborate Art Square—Axminster, Crossley's, Velvets, English and Canadian Wiltons, Brussels, Tapestries, Balmorals and Ingrain Wools and Unions, also good line of Jute Brussels. If your hall or stair needs renovating, we have some very choice patterns in different qualities of Carpets, Oilcloths and Linens.

¶ Nain's Scotch Linoleum, Canadian Linoleums and Canadian Oilcloths in a finely selected stock of patterns and colours and all grades will be found in this large Home Furnishing Department.

Brussels Sweeps Clean

Every Room in the Home

¶ When you lay a rug in any room you should, as is well known, allow for a margin which may be finished in many ways—our way is the wood striped effects in Oilcloth or Silvers Surface Oak Veneer—the way to make old floors new.

HOW ABOUT DRAPERIES?

Our stock is well assorted in Muslins, Silkalines, Madras in the most beautiful shades and combination colour effects, Tapestries, Velours, Chenille and Silks. Curtains for the windows in all grades, Portieres in Tapestry, Chenille and double faced Velour in the latest effects in pattern and colour.

PICTURES

Odd Pictures in the best subjects, handsomely framed, must be closed out at once. Come and see them and get our prices.

The Price We Have To Pay For The Privileges We Enjoy

Rev. W. R. Trumpour's Sermon at Evening Service of First Sunday Of His Pastorate—A Large Congregation

RESPONSIBILITIES GREAT

Rev. H. R. Trumpour began his pastorate yesterday succeeding Rev. William Major, who is now assistant rector of St. George's Church, Montreal. The services during the day were as largely attended as usual, particularly in the evening when the seating accommodation was considerably overtaxed.

The sermon at the latter service was an eloquent appeal to the people to recognize certain privileges which God has given us and for which he exacts a serious and heavy price. The text was from Amos 3.2, "You only have I known of all the families of the earth; therefore I will punish you for all your iniquities." Even His own people, the Israelites, were to be punished for their transgressions. They had enjoyed special privileges, had been protected and preserved, they only had been known by the Lord, yet they failed to show their appreciation of their responsibilities.

A similar situation exists to-day, Rev. Mr. Trumpour said. We, as Canadians, have a privilege which is not shared in by those living in the slums of large cities; as Christians, too, we enjoy special graces. A privilege means a responsibility, and if we do not live up to it a price is required of us.

Our Privileges

Rev. Mr. Trumpour then dwelt on this idea, specifying certain responsibilities placed on us as a result of privileges granted us. He first referred to a feeling of restlessness which is noticeable among people. It is a discontent, an unconquerable desire to be something else, or to be somewhere else. This, the speaker said, is the price we are paying for our soul possessing the majesty of being God's image. The soul of the humblest human being is like unto God, and there is no rest in the world until we come into the presence of the King of Kings.

Another responsibility demanded of us is to resist temptation. God has given us the privilege of choosing for ourselves through the use of our own free wills. As a result temptation presents itself every day of our lives, it stalks in our very footsteps from the time our mental development begins until we are called to our reward. It is omnipresent, waiting for us in the streets, in our homes, in the office and workshop and it is for us to choose. The price we pay for our freedom of action is the possibility of going wrong, and the speaker said it was a noble price. To be tempted does not mean that we necessarily fall into sin, as there is always an opportunity to escape.

Rev. Mr. Trumpour referred to the present feeling of disinterest, doubt and unbelief which is much in evidence. This is the price being paid for the use of the brains which God has given to men. These doubts will pass and the man who has entertained them is by far to be preferred to the individual who never shows any interest in religious matters, even not attending church. There is also a feeling of gloom which the Christian experiences at times. It is the minor note in the music of the Kingdom of Heaven. This is felt only by those who know Christ, who realize what this life really means, and the consequence of living as we should. By having the privilege of being like Christ there is the equal responsibility of living up to that privilege, of having our character like unto His.

Large Attendance At Mark Street Methodist Church

Rev. H. M. Manning Preaches in The Morning and The Pastor in The Evening

THE CHURCH DECORATED

At the Mark street Methodist church yesterday the anniversary services were attended by large congregations. Special sermons were preached and the music rendered by the choir was of a special Thanksgiving character. The church was prettily decorated with flowers and fruit, and presented an attractive appearance. In the morning Rev. H M Manning, of St. James' church, preached, and in the evening the pastor, Rev. C H Coon delivered the sermon, taking for his text, the eighth verse of the sixth chapter of the Book of Isaiah: "Also I heard the voice of the Lord saying, who shall I send, and who will go for us? Then said I, Here am I; send me."

Rev. Mr. Coon began his remarks by stating that the prophet Isaiah began his prophetic utterances in the latter part of the reign of Isaiah and continued into fifteen years of Hezekiah. The prosperity of the nation had led to abuses and excesses. The prophet had had a vision of the Lord in His glory. He was called to a mission of sorrow. It entailed losing friendship, but nevertheless he went. The speaker remarked that it was God's way to choose a certain time to manifest Himself to men, often changing their whole personal history. A larger vision of God led men to a better life. The consciousness of God led them to conviction and they saw themselves in the true light.

After Isaiah's vision of God he grew stronger and mightier. It prepared him for something better. Likewise the vision of, Jesus Christ to Simon Peter showed himself his sinfulness. All great reformers, the preacher said, have had their visions of God. Isaiah's cry of distress was changed into one of gladness.

The speaker, continuing, said it was the aim of everyone in secular life to advance themselves. It should be the same in religion, to rise from the lower to the higher type of living. "We should rise from the inspiration God has given us," he said, "living for others and doing good."

The speaker thought it might be that some people dwelt too much on earthly things, that such was the case. They were too wrapped up in the pleasures of this world to think of the next. He concluded his remarks by urging his hearers to seek God and to live out His will in all things.

An anthem was sung by the choir, with solos by Mrs. W M Matchett and Mr. Callendar.

Lovers of golf should not fail to see the funny little "Cadie" in the "Three Little Maids" at the Grand, next Thursday. 1d-54

REASONS WHY

We can save you money on lenses.

1st—Those buying finished lenses in small quantities from the States are compelled to pay the highest price, also a duty of 30 per cent. If they meet our price they do so by the misrepresentation of quality.

2nd—We buy lenses in the rough in large quantities for cash.

3rd — Our lens grinding plant is second to none on the continent. The result being a perfectly finished lens.

4th—Our policy — Honest goods at honest prices—satisfaction to all or money refunded.

IMPORTANT TO LADIES

It is not often an opportunity occurs at your door to see the latest Parisian and New York styles in Hair Goods, yet such is the case, as Prof. Dorenwend of Toronto is visiting in this town, and invites your inspection of these goods at his private apartments reserved at the hotel.

These Hair Goods styles, when properly adjusted protect and ornament the head, soften and beautify the expression of the face, and consequently tone up an aged appearance. Be sure and see them at the Oriental Hotel on Friday, October 16th.

Worst of All.

Mr. Lane, Mr. Hobart and Mr. Meek had been off fishing the day before. They had gone unexpectedly from the postoffice, where they met, and neither Mrs. Lane, Mrs. Hobart nor Mrs. Meek had been informed of their whereabouts until nightfall. "And it did beat all what poor luck we'd had!" said Mr. Lane when the three friends met the next day.

"I tried to explain to Sadie that we kep' staying in the hopes of fetching home something that would show why we'd stayed, but she said we'd acted like a parcel o' yearlings and it would be one while before she'd have a hot apple pie for my dinner again and dumplings. She ran me uphill and down, I tell ye!"

"Maria spoke of my clothes," said Mr. Hobart feelingly. "She pointed out the way the dampness had cockled that coat I had on. She said 'twouldn't ever be the same again and if I knew of anybody that was going to spend summer days heating great irons and pressing out clothes for a man like me she didn't!"

"Martha never said a word," said Mr. Meek as the other two men turned to him, but as they remarked with one accord, "That's the kind of wife to have!" Mr. Meek looked much depressed.

"The only trouble is," he added, "she hasn't spoken yet, and I don't know when she will."

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Dredging," will be received until 15th October, 1908, at 4.30 p.m., for dredging Terminal Basin at Mouth of Mission River, Ontario, and also for dredging an additional 3 feet over the areas already dredged to a depth of 22 feet in the Kamalistiquia and Mission Rivers as specified.

Tenders will not be considered unless made on the form supplied, and signed with the actual signatures of tenderers.

Specification and form of tender can be obtained on application to J. G. Sing, Esq., Resident Engineer, Confederation Life Building, Toronto; J. L. Michaud, Esq., Resident Engineer, Merchants' Bank Building, St. James Street, Montreal; W. P. Merrick, Esq., Resident Engineer, Fort William, Ont., and at the Department of Public Works, Ottawa. Tenders must include the towing of the plant to and from the works. Only dredges can be employed which are registered in Canada at the time of the filing of tenders. Contractors must be ready to begin work within twenty days after the date they have been notified of the acceptance of their tender.

An accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, for thirty thousand dollars ($30,000.00) must be deposited as security. The cheque will be returned in case of non-acceptance of tender.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
NAP. TESSIER,
Secretary.

Department of Public Works,

Rough Riders Defeated P.C.I. In The First City League Game; Won Out By Close Score Of 2-0

After a hard fought contest which was anybody's game until the final whistle blew, the Rough Riders defeated the Collegiate Institute fourteen in the first game of the junior City Rugby League played at Riverside Park on Saturday afternoon by a score of 2—0. Two rouges represented all that was done in the scoring line, and small score indicates the nature of the game. It was a desperately fought contest from start to finish with every man of the twenty-eight fighting for all that was in him for victory and the quality of Rugby exhibited was surprisingly good considering that it was the first game of the season and that the teams have had little opportunity to practise. The handful of spectators present heartily enjoyed the game and expressed surprise at the form shown by the two teams. The game sufficed to show that there is plenty of promising Rugby material to be developed in Peterborough and there is every reason to hope that the League will fulfill its purpose and bring the young blood to the front.

There was little to choose between the two teams Saturday. The Rough Riders had the advantage in weight both on the wing line and further back and they were aided too by a back division that seemed to be a little faster on its feet than the opposing rear guard. Despite the disparity in weight, however, the school team displayed surprising strength in the mass work and gave their backs splendid protection, holding the heavier wings of the R.R's. back in clever fashion. The backs of the school failed to make much headway in the running game where they might be expected by reason of their light weight to do their best work, but on the other hand they bucked the Riders' heavy line time after time for substantial gains. The instruction of Dr. A W MacPherson, who has been coaching the school boys was in evidence in all their work. They had it on the winners in tackling, doing some grand work in that respect. Varsity's crack halt has evidently paid particular attention to this important department and the Collegiate have proved apt pupils.

As has been said the Riders' back division was fast and their long runs, generally following a punt from the school played a large part in the victory.

For the winners, Cahill at full back, Laing on the half line, Porter at quarter and Giroux on the wing line showed up to best advantage. Cahill handled punts nicely and ran them back well often taking the kick on the dead sail, and getting away for substantial gains. Laing did some good punting and running and Porter bucked the line nicely and was prominent for his tackling. Giroux played an aggressive game on the wing line.

For the school, Gibson of the half line was the bright particular star, his brilliant tackling making him a conspicuous figure. Time after time he put down the man with the ball by a pretty diving tackle and his line bucking and work all through was classy. Rankin, though handicapped by an injured knee played a fine game, and the same is true of Meldrum, who did the kicking for his team and did it well. Fortye was cool and reliable at full back. On the wing line Capt. Hall, Layfield and Quinlan were the most conspicuous, although all played good Rugby.

Mr. R F McWilliams was referee and Mr. J D Clarke umpire, and both gave every satisfaction. The teams lined up as follows:

Rough Riders.	P. C. I.
Backs.
Cahill	Fortye
Halves.
Laing	Rankin
Hayes	Meldrum
Quinlan	Gibson
Quarters.
Porter	Matthews
Scrimmage.
O'Brien	Kirn
Eastwood	Leahy
Hollingshead	Layfield
Wings.
Waram	Sheehy
Coughlin	Hall
Forson	Anderson
Giroux	Quinlan
Corkery	Giroux
Heffernan	Dobbin

Mr. R A Morrow, Honorary President of the League, kicked off the ball shortly after 3 o'clock, and declared the League open. The Rough Riders won the toss and elected to kick with sun at their backs, and the Collegiate kicked off. The play was hard and even from the start with neither team having much the best of the play. The school boys for the most part played the line-bucking game and the Riders depended upon the speed of their back division for end runs. Neither side kicked until they had to and the result was that the play for the most part was close. Through the first two quarters there was little to choose, though towards the end of the second quarter the Collegiate were dangerously near the Riders' line, a series of line plunges carried the ball almost over but a fumble lost them a golden opportunity.

In the third quarter the play continued close, with the Rough Riders having a little of the advantage. A fumble on the part of Meldrum carried the play close to the Collegiate line and a try seemed certain, but the School boys held their opponents for downs. On the first scrimmage, however, the Rough Riders' wings broke through and tackled Meldrum behind the line for a rouge.

There was no further scoring until the last quarter when a long run by Laing brought the ball into school territory and a punt over the line to Meldrum resulted in another rouge. Time was called before any more scoring was done and the Riders had won by the small margin of 2 points to 0.

Charlie Conkle Held Eugene Tremblay To Draw In Montreal; Each Could Get But One Fall

Montreal, Oct. 3.—In an exceedingly close match in which pretty rough tactics were resorted to at times by the wrestlers, Charlie Conkle, of Hamilton, and Eugene Tremblay, the lightweight champion, last night at Sohmer Park, both secured a fall. Tremblay won the first in forty-seven minutes and Conkle the second in but twenty-three. So much time was taken for these two rounds that the final fall was not reached last night owing to the lateness of the hour and the match was let go at a draw.

The match was easily as rough as any bout ever seen between lightweight wrestlers at Sohmer Park, and Conkle appered to be quite at home in the midst of such work. He had an advantage over Tremblay of about ten or twenty pounds but the local man was quite able to look after himself and what medicine came his way he took gamely.

The first round found Tremblay the aggressor throughout, but the quick defensive work by Conkle made most of his favourite holds ineffective. Conkle is quick at the game and his familiarity with all the tricks makes him a hard man to tackle. He kept Tremblay guessing continually, for when the local man would grab for a hold the Hamilton boy would have some kind of a counter move that would spoil it every time. Tremblay, however, worked hard, with never a smile on his face, while Conkle was wreathed in smiles, except on one occasion when he was forced to the mat and when all of his strength was needed to try and save himself from going to the canvas. But when Tremblay got on from him the smile came back and he took the fall in good part. Conkle, with both of his feet forced up in the middle of his back, showed wonderful stamina by keeping his shoulders from the mat for fully three minutes, but in the end he had to cave in.

The second round was even rougher than the first. Both mixed it up in strenuous fashion. Tremblay, who all through the previous round, had been roughly used by the Hamilton man, now turned round and gave Conkle some of his own medicine. Conkle in this round, contrary to his work in the first round, took the part of aggressor, and with a good supply of tricky holds floored Tremblay in twenty-three minutes.

The third and deciding round went no further than two ten minutes' bouts. It was decided, as the hour was very late, to go twenty minutes and if no fall was scored the match would be declared a draw.

The Y.M.C.A. To Be Represented In The Junior O.R.F.U. Series

At a meeting of Y.M.C.A. Rugbyists on Saturday afternoon it was decided to put a team in the junior O. R.F.U. series of which the other teams in this district are the T.A.A. and Lindsay. With these three teams in the game there should be considerable interest taken in Rugby particularly as there are two teams representing Peterborough. The "Y" line-up is said to be a strong one and it will be very strange if this district's honours are not decided on a local field.

The Y.M.C.A. will also have a fourteen in the City League, and will play their first game next Saturday probably against the Collegiate Institute boys. They are going to make a strong bid to win out in this league and certainly have a formidable line-up on the road the first batch of men were: Woods, Pierce, Sellen, Galbraith, Tait, Meadows and Knox; that is, the first three men were Irish Canadians; Galbraith, Central; Tait and Meadows, West End, and Knox, of Central.

Meadows won the race in splendid style, finishing dully thirty yards ahead of Tait. Knox was as far behind him again, and the others straggled along behind. The time was exceedingly fast, being 25 min. 51 2-5 seconds. The second man, Tait, finished in 26 minutes. The trophy, then, goes to the West End, with a score of 47, Central being second with 46; I.C.A.C. was third.

HAMMOND'S WONDERFUL FORM IN 24 HOUR WALKING CONTEST BROKE ALL WORLD'S RECORDS

London, Sept. 28.—No more sporting event has been held in many years than the twenty-four hours' open amateur race, carried through by the Middlesex Walking Club, at the Stadium. Excepting for a few drops of rain, which fell immediately after the start, the weather was fine, although the night was cold; but the sun was almost too powerful for the comfort of many of the competitors. J. R. Barnes-Moss, the organising secretary, was the first to forge ahead, but he was soon passed by J. Butler, who, in turn, gave way to W. Brown, Ross, Barnes-Moss and Butler were, however, destined to finish. Butler's retirement was anticipated, for, starting unwell, it was not his intention to go the full journey. He left the track for the second and last time in the 27th mile, and so fell far short of securing even the 50 mile silver medal. Ross dropped back in the 28th mile, and once more Iles had the lead, but in the 31st mile Hammond went to the front, never to be passed.

In the 33rd mile, Ross, who had become very weak, went off the track, but returned nearly five hours later to help pace the Stock Exchange crack. When six hours—a quarter of the time—had expired, Hammond, walking like a machine, had covered 35 miles 1,027 yards, Iles then lying second, and T. Payne, the Lancashire walker, third. The last-named maintained his position, which he had held from the 29th mile, until just on entering his 43rd mile, when he temporarily left the track and let Leatherby up into third position.

At 51 miles (8 hrs., 47 min., 12 2-5 secs.), Hammond began to lower the late A. W. Sinclair's amateur records (the latter's 51 miles time was 9 hrs. 8 min. 26 secs.), and at 12 hours, with 68 miles 335 yards to his credit, Hammond was four miles 150 yards ahead of Sinclair's 27 years' old performance. Iles was lying second at this point, two miles behind Hammond, but subsequently left the track for a time, and Leatherby went up into second position. Although walking well, Hammond stopped frequently for a sponge down, and once he fell through cramps in the leg and stomach. Even with nearly half the distance to go, however, there was little doubt as to his ultimate success, and he was cheered again and again as he strode round the track in the closing hours. In 18 hours he covered 99 miles 1,065 yards, having already begun to beat Howes's world's professional records. Hammond's 97 miles time in 17 hours 28 min. 47 2-5 secs., as against Howes' 17 hours, 30 min. 22 secs., and in the last lap a hundred people must have followed the Stock Exchange hero down the straight.

When the pistol fired the following were the distances covered by those still on the track: Full distances and placings of those who finished:—T. E. Hammond, Surrey W.C. and Middlesex W.C., 131 miles 580 yards, 1 ft. 3 inches (world's record). Previous amateur best, A. W. Sinclair, 120 miles, August 26-7, 1881, Lillie Bridge ground. Professional record, W. Howes, 127 miles 1,210 yards, February 23-3, 1878, Agricultural Hall.

St. Andrews With All Star Team To Play Petes Here On Saturday

St. Andrew's team of Toronto, sore over the decisive defeat administered to them by the Petes in the first of the series of games for the championship of Ontario, will be here Saturday afternoon with one of the strongest teams that ever represented a Toronto amateur or semi-professional club. Three Eastern Leaguers, a Michigan State League player, a Northwestern League man and an International Leaguer will be on the line-up of the Saints and they will make a big bid for victory. They will have Walter Cadman who caught for the Saginaw team of the Michigan State League, behind the bat for them, while Fred Hickey of the Toronto Eastern League team will be on the slab, and the Petes will have their work cut out for them in going up against that battery. Homer Beatty, the old Toronto boy who has been playing first base for the Winnipeg team in the Northwestern League this season, will look after the first sack for the visitors. In the outfield will be none other than the famous Bill O'Hara of the Baltimore Eastern League team. O'Hara was one of the stars of the Eastern League this season, his sensational fielding and heavy hitting, coupled with speed on the bases bringing him strongly into the limelight. Cobean of the Toronto Eastern League team, who pitched against the Petes in the last game, will also be in the outfield, as will Ernie Hewer, the Saints' star fielder, who was unable to be here for the last meeting between the two teams.

The teams will line up as follows:

SAINT ANDREWS—
Cadman, c.
Hickey, p.
Beatty, 1b.
O'Hara, rf.
Garrie, 2b.
Thorne, 3b.
Clewlo, ss.

Adams Tenth In Dunlop Trophy; Toronto West Ends Won Event

Mr. Adams, of the Collegiate Institute staff, ran for the Toronto Central Y.M.C.A., in the Dunlop trophy on Saturday, finishing tenth. A despatch says:

For the Dunlop trophy, 5 miles, four teams entered, two from West End, one from Central and one from the I.C.A.C. As they lined up the men were:

Their second team was—Kerr, Wilson, Jewell, McKendrick, Picknell and Selby.

Central's team — Galbraith, Adams, Knox, Goulding, Schofield and Near.

I.C.A.C.—Sellen, Black, Skeene, Pierce, Green and Woods.

For leaving the track for the trip

MANY BIG LEAGUERS IN THE GAME HERE NEXT SATURDAY

The minor leagues will be pretty well represented in the ball game between St. Andrew's of Toronto and the Peterboroughs on Saturday. Fred Hickye and Sam Cobean of the Toronto Eastern League team, Walter Cadman of the Saginaw team of the Michigan State League, Homer Beatty of the Winnipeg Northwest League team, Bill O'Hara of the champion Baltimore Eastern League team and Jack Moran of the Guelph International League club will be on the line-up of the Saints, while the Petes will have Harry Burridge of the Youngstown team of the Ohio and Pennsylvania League and Walter Jayes of the Wilmington team, champions of the North Carolina State League. With seven professional ball leagues represented, the fans may be assured that the ball will be of a most classy character. It will be the greatest galaxy of baseball stars that ever assembled in Peterborough, and a team selected from the two would take a lot of beating. The fans cannot afford to miss this contest, which will be for blood, as the Saints are very bitter over being trimmed so badly on their last appearance here. Only four of the team which represented them then will be here, so that it can be seen they are determined to beat Peterborough. Well, Eastern Leaguers have wandered here before and have been trimmed properly. For particulars apply to Doony Hardy or Barry of the Providence team.

All those interested in the American and National league games will be able to get to-days scores from the Examiner bulletins to-night. If you have a 'phone call up 234 and we will be pleased to give you the scores as they are received.

THE FIGHT AMONG THE BIG LEAGUERS

Chicago First in National While Detroit Leads in American

In the National and American Leagues the struggle at the present time is the closest in both, since the leagues were organized. In the National by defeating Pittsburg yesterday, the Chicago Cubs made it possible for them to tie the New York Giants in the run for the money, but the Giants have got to win their three remaining games to make this possible. Boston has only to beat them one game to give the pennant to Chicago. The attendance at the game yesterday at Chicago was the largest that ever attended a ball game in the Windy City, or any other ball park, there being over 30,000 paid admissions.

In the American League the fight is closer than ever. On Saturday, Chicago White Sox defeated Cleveland, Detroit won, while on Sunday Chicago defeated Detroit and Cleveland tied with St. Louis. If Cleveland defeats St. Louis in the three remaining games to be played, they will win the pennant. If Chicago defeats Detroit the next two games and the Naps lose two, they win it themselves, while if Detroit beats Chicago two games and the Naps lose one, why then the Tigers win. So it will be seen that either three teams have a grand chance to win the flag. But it looks as though the Naps have the best of the deal by playing the remaining games with the St. Louis team, while Chicago and Detroit are breaking each other's necks in an endeavour to win the flag for themselves. It is most likely that the contests for the world's series will start the beginning of next week, or as soon as the leagues are finished with their record-breaking races.

The following are the standings:

BILL O'HARA TO PLAY FOR SAINTS

Well Known Baltimore Outfielder Will be on Line up of Toronto Team

Great interest is being taken here in the appearance on Saturday afternoon with the St. Andrew's ball team of Bill O'Hara, the peerless outfielder of the Baltimore Eastern League team, who will be on the job in a Saints' uniform. O'Hara is a player with a bright future before him, and has proved himself one of the best outfielders in the Eastern League circuit. He is an old Toronto boy and will be a tower of strength to the visitors here on Saturday. A City League Rugby game will be played after the ball game.

THE INDOOR ATHLETIC EVENTS

Collegiate Institute Boys' Class Meet on Saturday at Y.M.C.A.

The first of the indoor athletic events for the Collegiate boys' class of the Y.M.C.A. will be held Saturday morning, Oct. 10th. The list of events is as follows:

100 yds.; 440 yds. on indoor track; 1 mile; 8 lbs. shot put; running high jump; running broad jump; standing high jump; standing broad jump; 60 yds. potato race; fence vault.

Medals will be given to competitors winning the highest number of points.

Sporting Comment

The cross country run in connection with the Collegiate Institute sports was held this afternoon at four o'clock. The full particulars will be given in to-morrow's paper.

Kilties For Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 5.—A Highland regiment has been organized here, with D. C. Cameron, the Liberal candidate in Winnipeg, as colonel.

Manager McHaffie of the Home Bank is to be major and Lieutenant-Governor Sir Daniel McMillin and W. H. Whyte, the second vice-president of the C.P.R., will be given official positions.

Wreck on G.T.P.

Saskatoon, Oct. 5.—Another bad smash occurred on the G.T.P. Saturday afternoon, when an engine and coaches jumped the rails, and as a result an engineer named Martin lies dead, and Conductor Cory and Brakeman Vische are now in the hospital badly injured.

Civil Service Exams.

Ottawa, Oct. 5.—Examinations for the outside civil service will begin on Friday, Nov. 27.

COOL WEATHER MAKES THE BOWLING BRISKER

Record of the Alleys Still Stands at 264

With the advent of the cooler weather the Peterborough Bowling Club alleys have taken on a brisker move and every night several games are in progress. George Cairns still holds the record of the alleys, with 264, and Chief Adams the pick-up record, with 120.

HAVE CHALLENGED THE TORONTO LEAGUE WINNERS

The Peterborough Baseball Club champions of the Midland League, have sent a challenge to the winners of the Toronto City Amateur League to play for the championship of Ontario either home and home games or else a sudden death game. The challenge will no doubt be accepted. At present St. Mary's, Park Nines and Wellingtons are all tied for the championship of the league.

SUMMARY OF THE PROCEEDINGS OF THE GREAT PEACE CONGRESS RECENTLY HELD IN LONDON

THE BISHOP'S RESOLUTION

The "seventeenth universal congress of peace" assembled at Caxton Hall, Westminster, London, and the congress was received by the King and the Queen in one of the state apartments, where they listened to an address which expressed profound gratitude to the King who had earned the proud title of "the peacemaker."

"One common object," said the address, "brings us together, it being the redemption of the world from the curse of international enmity and war, the promotion of legality and upright dealing between nations, and the desire to combine the people of the world together in bonds of confraternity and mutual aid." We rejoice at the many signs of the acceptance of these principles in our day and at the successive efforts of the enlightened statesmen of the twentieth century to give effect to the high ideals which are the common attributes of universal religion. The address cited the king's recent words: 'It is in times of peace that the happiness, prosperity and progress of people can best be increased and the standards of religion and morality raised."

The address concluded by expressing gratitude that the King's constant efforts had been to give effect to these ideals and to cement the peace of the world.

The King, responding, said that nothing gave him such sincere gratification as to feel that his efforts in the cause of international peace had resulted in good. Rulers and statesmen could set themselves no higher purpose than the promotion of mutual good understanding among nations. It was the surest means whereby humanity was enabled to realise its noblest ideals, and its attainment would ever be the object of his constant endeavours. He rejoiced to think that the international organizations included the representatives of all nations who were labouring for peace, and he prayed God's blessing upon their labours.

Keynote Discordant.

The congress was opened on the 28th of July by Mr. T. P. Newman, chairman of the executive committee. "They were met," said he, "to promote international friendship—friendship which was stronger than armaments more binding than treaties, more powerful than guns, and a better defence than war. It was the armaments that were piled up by President Kruger that led to his destruction." This remark by the speaker was met by protestations and cries of "No," which evidenced that there were some level-headed people among the pacifists present who remembered the part played by Cecil Rhodes and his lieutenant, Jamieson in provoking the Transvaal war. International peace congresses are too much in sympathy with liberty-loving people to accept without protest the attempt to falsify the role of the unfortunate president of the Transvaal.

Lord Courtney of Penwith, president of the congress, recognized the chairman's unfortunate allusion and endeavored to nullify its effect. He spoke of the connection between justice and peace. "Without justice," he said, "they could have no guarantee of a permanent peace; with justice the peace of the world was unassailable."

Mr. Lloyd George, chancellor of the exchequer, was the principal speaker in the evening, but he suffered continued annoyance from the interruption of woman suffragists, one of whom had tied herself to a chair in order to render her enforced exit the more conspicuous. When the interruptions were continued the speaker finally lost his patience, with his good humor, and said that if the women did not show more real intelligence than the very sorry samples it had been his privilege to meet at these interruptions they were not fit to vote. They were rapidly creating a feeling of anger and distrust in the minds of their best friends.

England and Germany.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer said in substance that it was deplorable that two great progressive nations like Germany and Great Britain could not establish an understanding; that Great Britain had done so with France, with Russia and the United States. "Why should we not rope in Germany?" asked the speaker. England was spending £60,000,000 per year preparing for war. What could not be done with such a sum in trade, in commerce and in improving the condition of the people, in enlightenment and alleviation of misery? It was said that Englishmen would become degenerates if they did not fight. "Why? Does it give spirit to a nation (another woman suffragist cried out) to keep its women in bondage?" There was an uproar and the 'suffragette" was handed out gently, but firmly, over the heads of the audience.

Mr. Lloyd-George concluded by asking, "Are not the dominions of the earth large enough that nations should spend £400,000,000 a year in extending them? There were crusades in the Middle Ages when princes and kings dropped their feuds and abandoned their quarrels for some great holy purpose. There is a nobler crusade awaiting the princes and people today. Let them cast aside suspicion, mistrust, quarrels, feuds, and you might redeem humanity from the quagmire where millions are sunk in misery and despair."

At the second session on the 29th the principal subject discussed was "Propaganda Among Workmen's Organizations." Professor Stein recalled the history of the "International Museum of Peace" of Lucerne, which lacked £4,000 to complete the building. The intention of the founders, and particularly M. Jean de Bloch, was that the museum was to be the centre of a powerful peace propaganda.

M. Gigroux, representing one of the workingmen's societies of France, declared that war was the result of capitalism which governed the world; that the real means of preventing was to abolish capitalism. Disputes should be submitted to international arbitration. All workingmen should refuse to fight.

Disbandment Proposed.

M. W. Thorne, M. P., desired the abolition of all standing armies and the establishment of a citizen force. He acknowledged that his proposition was a "tall order." He was in favour of "compulsory training," but not of "military service."

Mr. Asquith, speaking at the banquet at the Hotel Cecil, tendered the congress by Mr. Harcourt, the first commissioner of works, and responding to the toast, "The International Peace Movement," said:

"I am told that at your congress the delegates represented no less than 25 distinct nationalities and 250 separate societies. Of all the deities in the Pantheon there is none to whom mankind now, as always, is more ready to pay the homage of life service than the Goddess of Peace. We are indeed often told by apologists for the existing state of things that the colossal armaments which are inflicting an immeasurable and ever-growing burden upon mankind are in themselves a safeguard and indeed the best insurance against war."

Speaking for himself, Mr. Asquith confessed that he did not think that the youngest member of the congress would live to see universal disarmament. National security held the first place in the thoughts and plans of those responsible for government in all countries.

"So long as human nature continues to be what it has always been," said the speaker, "it will be necessary for prudent statesmanship to provide against the contingency of war."

And Mr. Asquith followed this logical declaration by the remark that there was no enterprise more worthy than that of seeking a practical substitute for the arbitrament of arms.

Bishops' Resolution

At the opening of the third session of the congress the 30th a deputation of bishops attended from the Lambeth conference and communicated a resolution passed by that conference upon the motion of the Bishop of Ripon on July 11. The deputation among others, included the Bishop of Massachusetts. The resolution of the Anglican episcopate was read and welcomed with cheers:

"That the conference, while frankly acknowledging the moral gains sometimes won by war, rejoices in the growth of higher ethical perception evidenced by the increasing willingness to settle difficulties among nations by peaceful methods. It records, therefore, its deep appreciation of the services rendered by the conferences at The Hague, its thankfulness for the practical work achieved and for the principles of international responsibility acknowledged by the delegates. And, finally, realizing the danger inseparable from national and commercial progress, it urges earnestly upon all Christian people the duty of allaying race prejudice, of reducing by peaceful arrangements the conflict of trade interests, and of promoting among all races the spirit of brotherly co-operation for the good of all mankind."

The Bishop of Massachusetts said that his delegation, which represented three parts of the world, was in favour of international peace; that international peace depended upon the spirit and temper of the great body of the people; that one of the great advantages of The Hague conference was that it gave the people time to think—it delayed war in order that there might be an opportunity for mutual understandings at a critical moment. The United States was a government of the people, for the people, by the people. She could be depended upon because of her government and her position to stand wherever she could stand with justice for international peace.

Turkish Delegate

Ahmed Riza, speaking in behalf of "Young Turkey," was listened to with marked attention, because of the almost peaceful revolution which had been affected in Turkey, and which seemed the harbinger of an era of peace for that country, which had been the theatre of so many horrible scenes of riot, rapine and massacre. Ahmed Riza offered a resolution, which was passed, expressing the vows of the congress for an "integral pacific solution of the conflicts of nationalities and peace at the last."

Sir Edward said in his speech in the House of Commons on the 7th inst.: "It was a remarkable situation, coming at a moment when England had submitted to the powers proposals for forming a mobile force, composed partly of Turkish troops and partly of gendarmerie, to be placed at the disposal of the Turkish Government in Macedonia for the purpose of putting down the bands impartially and vigorously. At this moment the bands have melted away; they have dispersed under the influence of the events which have taken place. Well, of course, if this state of things continues, if these bands have really dispersed for good, there is no further need for the mobile force."

England, according to Sir Edward, will adopt toward Turkey—"Young Turkey"—a sympathetic and expectant attitude. Sir Edward disclaimed all intention of isolating Germany, as charged. England would not take advantage of the friendships which had been formed, but she must be free to make those friendships. Germany had two allies. Why should England not have as many? With regard to Persia. There were two parties in Persia—one constitutional, one reactionary. There had been civil war in which the shah had won in Teheran, the constitutionalists in Tabriz. If there was in Persia a genuine movement for freedom and good government, it will not lack for sympathy from England.

In the matter of the Congo, Sir Edward was not very clear. And as to Portugal he had little to say. With regard to The Hague conference, Sir Edward expressed the hope that a conference would meet in the autumn to discuss questions and enable England to ratify the convention before the meeting in 1900. Sir Edward Grey's speech is eminently pacific and will strengthen the cause of universal peace. CH. CHAILLIE-LONG.

THE PROVINCIAL EXHIBITIONS

—All cities over the Province are preparing for their exhibition, and Peterborough is no exception to the rule. It is the time we meet our old and new friends, and those who are not our friends. It is also the best time for the introduction of the newest and smartest cuts in fall suits and where they can be shown to the greatest advantage. The New York Ladies' Tailoring establishment have removed their parlours and workshop from 658 George street to 367 Reid street, opposite St. Peter's Cathedral, for the better accommodation of their patrons, and are prepared to take orders in any line of ladies' garments. WEIR & O'BRIEN
ARCH. WEIR JAMES O'BRIEN

Mrs. Scarritt's Crusade.

By W. F. BRYAN.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

It is a dreadful thing to have a mission. Mabel Maitland found it a responsibility, and Roy Barnes declared it a bore, a fad and some other things to which he did not give vocal utterance in Mabel's presence.

To Roy it was a matter of supreme indifference whether women voted or not, but it seemed to Mabel that it was the vital question of the hour.

She attended all the suffragette meetings advertised and even formed a suffrage club among the girls of Cowdrey House, an establishment for self supporting girls in which she had made her home since the death of her parents.

The Cowdrey Suffrage club was at best a lukewarm organization. The girls had joined "for the fun of the thing," and Mabel had to work hard to hold her converts in line.

This prevented her from giving much of her time to Roy, and his opinion of the suffragettes was the natural result. For five years he had begged Mabel to marry him, but even before the cry of "votes for women" became a fashionable slogan Mabel had had pronounced ideas as to the independence of her sex, and Roy waited patiently while Mabel demonstrated her ability to earn her own living.

Then she had fallen under the influence of Mrs. Grace Brown-Hazzard and had been welcomed by the leader as an addition to the cause. The approval of this famous woman had the effect of making Mabel the more enthusiastic, and presently she was devoting every evening to the Cowdrey branch of the society, and Roy was left out in the cold.

It was the rule that all lights were to be out at 11 in Cowdrey House, but with the aid of candles Mabel wrote far into the night on the speeches that Mrs. Brown-Hazzard delivered and dragged herself unwillingly to her work the following morning, sadly feeling the lack of sleep.

Mrs. Brown-Hazzard found in her new disciple a valued assistant, and her demand for speeches that offered a departure from her own stereotyped thoughts was insistent.

The more she praised the harder Mabel worked until at last the inevitable breakdown occurred, and Mabel was forced to resign her position and go into the country, where her scanty savings rapidly diminished. The pile of manuscripts for her idol, however, increased greatly.

Mrs. Scarritt, her new landlady, was much interested in the girl, and her protests against the manner in which Mabel was overworking were loud and emphatic.

"Better stop that foolishness," she argued, "and put some flesh on your bones."

"But the cause needs my work!" cried the tired girl. "Mrs. Brown-Hazzard writes me that these speeches are doing a world of good; that I am making thousands of converts. Of course she flatters me there, for it is her magnetic personality that counts. I merely save her the worry of marshaling her arguments."

"Mrs. Brown-Hazzard?" mused Mrs. Scarritt. "Grace Brown married Ben Hazzard. You don't happen to know what your friend's husband's name is, do you?"

"It is B. Henderson Hazzard," responded Mabel.

"Named after his ma," explained Mrs. Scarritt. "His ma was Luella Henderson. We always did say that 'change of name and not of letter' meant 'change for worse and not for better.' It was Gene Hazzard that got the worst of it. My, but he was henpecked! Lived over in the hollow. Grace Brown lived right down the road a piece—that first red house on your right as you go to the postoffice."

"She never said anything about having been born here!" cried Mabel in surprise. "She did say in one of her letters that she knew that Cadyville was a beautiful place."

"Grace Brown ain't bragging about us, and we ain't bragging about Grace Brown," declared the old lady. "Grace always was a frapd," she went on. "She used to get me to write her compositions for her, and Ben Burrows used to do her sums. She never did anything that she could coax some one else to do for her. I must say that she had nice ways about her. She could coax even the teacher into giving her good marks when she'd been kept in after school the whole week."

"She is the leader in a great cause," said Mabel reverently. "She has devoted her gifts to a great battle, and she will win for us. We shall get the vote before long, and the name of Mrs. Brown-Hazzard will go down through the ages as the woman who worked this great revolution in favor of woman's rights."

Mrs. Scarritt sniffed scornfully; then she looked down into the deep blue eyes glowing with the fires of enthusiasm. Mabel's cheeks were thin and white, and there was a little quiver of the chin that bespoke nervousness. Only the eyes betrayed animation. Mrs. Scarritt laid her hand gently upon the girl's arm.

"There's just one real right that a woman has," she insisted softly. "That's the right to marry a good man and have him love and protect her. If she can get that she doesn't need to vote or do any of those fool things. She is content with her home and her babies. It's when she doesn't get the man she wants that she seeks the excitement of some fool crusade like this.

"I've lived fifty-three years, my dear. I never voted, and I never wanted to, and I guess Silas and I are about as happy a pair of old folks as there are in the state. I spoke of Ben Burrows a moment ago. Grace loved him, but she married Hazzard because his folks died and he came into all the money. Grace knew that he would be easy to handle, so she threw Ben over and married Hazzard. I'll bet she thinks of Ben yet sometimes."

Mabel shuddered as she recalled certain times at Mrs. Brown-Hazzard's when her husband had almost staggered into the room to cringe under her glance. Then there would come over the woman's strong, rather masculine face a curious look of regret, and Mabel wondered if Mrs. Scarritt had not spoken the truth.

"I tell you, dear," continued the old lady, "there is nothing to voting. Let the men vote all they want so long as they make good husbands. That's all I've ever asked of Silas. I don't believe in throwing over a good man for the sake of voting for the president and the town council and all that. Election day is only once a year, and you're married 365 days in that time. You can't be a good wife and go gadding around too. You have to take your choice."

"But when you have a mission to uplift your sex"— began Mabel. Mrs. Scarritt sniffed again.

"Uplift nothing," she said irritably. "You only lead 'em into mischief. Your mission is to marry and make some man happy and strong and a good citizen. That's the way to do your duty to your country."

Mabel turned away without answer. She was not used to ridicule except from Roy, and of course he was prejudiced. Here was Mrs. Scarritt making out her leader to be a selfish, sordid woman who, having thrown away her happiness, sought forgetfulness in the excitement of a crusade. It was a bitter blow, and she resented it.

Mrs. Scarritt did not speak again, and Mabel lay back in her chair, her tired eyes feasting upon the soft greens of the field and forest, touched here and there with the gold of the afternoon sun.

Across the road was another cottage with boarders. Its young bride, in whom the whole town seemed to take a personal interest, came out in her fresh white dress to watch for her husband. He came every Friday night and stayed until Monday, and the little bride was always waiting for him at the gate.

A huge farm wagon rumbled past, a great covered affair, and from its cavernous depths there sprang an athletic form. Almost before she could realize it the little bride was folded in strong arms, and together the two went happily toward the house, laughing over the man's joke.

Mrs. Scarritt touched Mabel's arm.

"Isn't that better than a vote?" she asked.

"Going in to write?" asked Mrs. Scarritt.

"Yes," came the answer. "I want to write Mrs. Brown-Hazzard that I do not feel strong enough to write that speech she wants, and I want to write to—Roy."

Mabel vanished indoors with a face of scarlet, and Mrs. Scarritt smiled as she rocked vigorously back and forth. She had not known of Roy, but she had imagined that somewhere in the background there was some one. Like Mrs. Brown-Hazzard, Mrs. Scarritt was a crusader, and a successful one.

If We Could Look at the Heart of a Pale-Faced Person!

Few people ever stop to consider what pallor to the countenance means. In the first place it indicates an absence from the blood of the rich, red, life-giving elements so requisite to health; and in the second place it indicates a weakened heart action. These two things act and re-act. If we could look at the heart of one of these pale-faced people, we would see it flabby, weak and pallid. No wonder they are easily tired, get out of breath quickly, have palpitation, are nervous and downhearted. Their muscles are poor, their stomach disordered, and their lives are seldom free from misery.

Let them take Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills; there is no remedy to equal them for making pale faces rosy, weak hearts and shaky nerves strong, flabby muscles firm, and infusing new hope and ambition into life.

Mr. W. J. Churchill, Lombardy, Ont., writes: "I was troubled for three years with a weak heart and nervousness. I could not sleep and ever so little food would distress me. I also had faint and dizzy spells, and doctored with three doctors but was growing worse. After taking three boxes of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills I feel as well as ever I did. They are the best pills on earth."

Price 50 cents per box, or 3 for $1.25 at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

The Woodchuck's Name.

One of the most noticeable traits of woodchucks is the throwing up of large piles of dirt in front of their burrows. According to the author of "Familiar Life In Field and Forest," it is from this practice that the woodchuck got his name. In olden times—probably in the time of Aesop—the lower animals used to live in one happy country with a judge over them, the dog. One day a rabbit whose burrow adjoined that of a marmot complained to the latter that the little rabbits' eyes were continually filled with the dirt which he threw out of his burrow. The marmot paid no heed to this remonstrance, and the rabbit was compelled to appeal to the judge. His honor immediately sent word to the offender that greater care must be taken in the future. But the insolent marmot, notorious for his incivility and indifference, replied to the messenger that he "would chuck" his dirt just where he pleased.

That settled it. The dog has been hunting for the gross offender ever since, and the name "woodchuck" has stuck to the whole tribe of marmots.

His Revenge.

The discourtesy of some postoffice lady clerks in London is proverbial. Occasionally, however, the fair creature receives a Roland for an Oliver.

An irascible stockbroker entered a certain city office exactly at the hour of closing and, approaching the money order desk, politely requested the presiding genius to issue him an order for 48 shillings.

"Too late," said the damsel curtly, pointing with an ink stained finger to the clock. The indignant broker stormed, raved and finally challenged the correctness of the timepiece. The imperturbable lady smiled.

The following afternoon two minutes before the closing hour the merchant again presented himself and calmly asked:

"Am I too late?"

"Only just in time," replied the damsel crossly.

"Thank you. Now, miss, I must trouble you to issue me forty-eight orders for 1 shilling each."

"F-f-forty-eight!" gasped the horror stricken woman. Her tea had just arrived and was standing on a table behind the screen. "Surely you are joking!"

Making Literature Interesting.

"Oh, Mrs. Watts, you should join our literary society."

"Should I?"

"Yes, indeed. We study and learn so much. Last meeting we took up Carlyle's quarrels with his wife."

"It must have been interesting."

"Very. Next meeting we shall investigate the private life of Goethe and his love affairs."

"How instructive!"

"Yes, and we have found out everything about Poe's dissipation and disreputable conduct and propose soon to thoroughly investigate the actions of Voltaire."

"Indeed!"

"Oh, there's nothing like a literary society to increase one's culture. You ought to join."—London Express.

The Oldest Map.

E. B. Tylor in his "Early History of Mankind" says that the oldest map known to be in existence is that of the Ethiopian gold mines, dating from the time of Sethos I., the father of Rameses II., long before the time of the bronze tablet of Aristogoras of Greece.

Livingstone.

Livingstone died April 29, 1873, at Chitambo's village, on the Lulimala, in Ilala. His body was carried by his faithful servants to Zanzibar, from which point it was taken to England and borne with all honors to its last resting place in Westminster abbey.

Well Proportioned Men.

In a well proportioned man the distance between the tips of the middle fingers when the arms are stretched out laterally should be equal to the length of his body.

Turks and Coffee.

The Turks have a theory that coffee makes muscle and are therefore great coffee drinkers.

Posters.

Posters took their name from the fact that in former times the footways of London streets were separated from the drives by a line of posts on which advertisements were displayed.

Mascots.

Mascots have had their place in the world for many generations. Cats, as with the ancient Egyptians; grasshoppers, as in Italy, and various other specimens of animal life have in their time been counted as sacred or lucky by different peoples.

Peanuts.

Arachides, or peanuts, are imported into France from east Africa, the British and Dutch East Indies, Argentina, Algeria, Senegal, Australia and the United States. Those imported as nuts in the shell yield edible oil, while decorticated peanut kernels produce inferior grades of oil, which are used mainly for soapmaking.

Undesirables.

The Chinese and Japanese are not the only ones excluded by the United States government. Birds, like the English sparrow and the sterling, find the ports shut to them. So do rabbits, the mongoose and the dying fox.

The Considerate Wife.

"Mrs. Rogers is a perfect slave to her husband."

"What does she do?"

"Would you believe it? Every year on his birthday she gets up in time to eat breakfast with him."—Judge's Library.

Stanfield's Underwear

(Chapter 3)

Combing the Wool

When wool reaches the Stanfield mills from farmers, who have sent us their best wool for years, it is thoroughly washed. Then it is rendered absolutely unshrinkable.

Then it is COMBED. This process consists in passing the wool through a machine that combs out all the short lengths, weak threads and snarled strands of wool—something like one combs the hair.

After the wool has been combed, all the fibres are the same length and strength.

The Stanfield Combing Machines are mighty particular, too. They comb only WOOL—and they comb out everything but the longest, strongest strands.

Most Underwear is made of CARDED wool. Now, carding consists in tearing the fibres into short lengths. Mills, using carding machines, put the whole wool through—short wool, weak fibres, even cotton and shoddy—the carding machines make no distinctions.

The "cream" of the best wool—rendered absolutely unshrinkable by the Stanfield process instead of being "eaten" with lime—combed instead of carded—knitted with a lock stitch that prevents raveling—is it any wonder that Stanfield's Unshrinkable Underwear wears so well, and is so thoroughly satisfactory?

All sizes from 22 to 70 inch chest measure. 3 weights—RED label for light weight—BLUE label for medium—BLACK label for heavy weight.

OLD TIME ZOOLOGY.

The Queer Insects Lawson Discovered in North Carolina.

In the Raleigh state library is an interesting old volume presented by President Madison in 1831. This quaint book is the first history of North Carolina, written in 1741 by "John Lawson, Gent," a surveyor general of the lords proprietors. The history is well worth reading, but perhaps the most entertaining portion of its many pages is that in which Mr. Lawson describes the flora and fauna of the new country. He is evidently the ancestor of the railway conductor who decided that, according to the rules of the road, "dogs is dogs and cats is dogs, but turtles is insects."

"We will next treat of Beasts," says the historian. "The chief are the Buffelo, or Wild Beef; the Tyger; the Bever; and the Bearmouse. The Buffelo is a Wild Beast of America which has a Bunch on his Back. These monsters are found to weigh (as I am informed by a Traveller of Credit) from 1100 to 2400 weight.

"The Bat or Bearmouse is the same as in England. I have put this among the Beasts as partaking of both the Nature of the Bird and the Mouse. Now I shall proceed to the known Insects of the Place.

"Insects of North Carolina: Allegators, Rattlesnakes, Frogs, Vipers, Tortois, Terebin, Rottenwood Worms (etc.).

"The Allegator is the same as the Crocodile. After the Tail of the Allegator is removed from the Body it will move freely for several Days. I have named these among the Insects because they lay Eggs, and I did not know well where else to put them."

It Grew and Grew.

"My pa caught a wonderful fish," said little Willie. "After it was dead it kept on growing."

"It couldn't do such a thing."

"Oh, yes, it did, for every time pa told about it it was bigger than it was before."

What He Meant.

Housewife—Why don't you get a job and keep it? Hobo—I'm like de little bird dat keeps flyin' from limb to limb. Housewife—G'wan! You're only a bum! How could you fly from limb to limb? Hobo—I mean de limbs o' de law, mum.—Bohemian.

SUFFERED 5 YEARS WITH RHEUMATISM

I have been troubled with Rheumatism for 5 years, one of which I have been unable to do any work whatever. Have spent much money on other remedies until I purchased from my druggist, L. T. Best, Kingston, one box Gin Pills on his recommendation. The result was beyond my expectations. The first box banished all traces of Rheumatism. I now keep Gin Pills in the house and take one occasionally. My sincere thanks are due you for your wonderful remedy which has done so much for me.

RAT CATCHERS.

One of the Methods by Which They Make Big Hauls.

"Rat catchers, like horse tamers, try to make a mystery of their trade," said a zoo keeper.

He pointed toward the large gray rats that played about the corners of the carnivora house.

"But they can't mystify me in any phase of the rat question," he went on. "Living as I do, surrounded by an army of the largest, finest rats, I know the animals too thoroughly. I could set up as a successful rat catcher tomorrow.

"This is the way the men work. They go to the infested place late at night with a pair of tongs, a powerful lantern and a lot of bags.

"They walk softly about in the darkness, and they make a low, chattering, whistling noise, like this."

At the sound all the rats in the corners of the big room looked at the keeper inquiringly. He went on:

"This is the signal whereby a rat tells his mates that he has hit on good feeding. That sound made in the dark gathers rats as molasses gathers flies. The catcher, having made it, opens his strong lantern, the rats are dazed by the light, and he picks them up with his tongs and drops them in his bag.

"Of course there are other ways to catch rats, but of the secret, mysterious ones this is the best."—Exchange.

A CEYLON PLAGUE.

The Land Leeches Are Worse Than the Snakes or Mosquitoes.

It is nearly always the case that exceedingly beautiful countries are overrun by different kinds of pests. Beautiful Ceylon has mosquitoes said to be the most adroit and audacious in the world and snakes and a thousand more plagues of poor human beings, but the worst of them all is a species of leech. The Ceylon land leech is a thin creature about two inches long and very nimble and flexible. It will crawl up a man's leg and, traveling underneath the clothing, will climb as high as the throat. These leeches do not crawl like the leeches that are known to medicine, but rear themselves up on their tails to watch for prey and walk off to attack it with amazing rapidity. In walking through the jungle hosts of them may be seen by the roadside, where they wait to victimize cattle. Horses, it is said, are driven half wild by them, as also are palanquin bearers and coolies, whose bare legs are their favorite resort, the men's hands being too engaged to pull them off. The leeches may be seen hanging round their ankles, from which tiny trickles of blood run over the foot.—London Standard.

Paid Up.

A year or two ago the son of a prominent banker of Iowa undertook, with all the brightness and confidence of youth, the launching of a new morning paper in a town already well supplied with newspapers.

It was understood by his friends that the young man had, in fact, started his enterprise on "a shoestring"—a few hundred dollars advanced by his father. So it was with much facetiousness that the youthful proprietor and editor was approached from day to day by the aforesaid friends. "So you call yourself an editor!" exclaimed one of them, with affected contempt.

"Of course I do," returned the brash young owner. "I'm the whole thing on this paper. And I don't owe a cent therefor."

"Everybody knows," continued his tormentor, "that you got $200 from your father to start the thing."

"Sure!" said the proprietor and editor. "Furthermore, the old man's subscription for the Beacon is marked paid a hundred years ahead on my books!"

Long Flights of Birds.

Birds of passage make their longest flight somewhere near Behring strait. A naturalist says that probably the longest continuous flight made by the feathered travelers in their peregrinations is accomplished by some of the shore and water birds that nest in the islands of Behring sea and spend the winter at Hawaii and Fanning island, 2,200 miles away. As some of the birds live entirely on the shore and are probably unable to rest on the surface of the water, they must accomplish the whole distance in a single flight, yet they make their way to their destination with absolute precision.

Cheese Crackers.

Cheese crackers are better when made the day they are to be eaten. Use American grated cheese and saltine crackers. For each two tablespoonfuls allow one of creamed butter, rubbing them together till perfectly smooth. Spread evenly on the wafers and set them in a moderate oven to glaze the cheese. Watch carefully to prevent burning. There is nothing nicer to serve with a plain salad.

No School.

The teacher was giving an exposition on culpable homicide.

"If I went out in a small boat," he said, "and the owner knew it was leaking, and I got drowned, what would that be?"

After a few minutes' silence a little boy stood up and said:

"A holiday, sir!"

Anticipation.

A Deal in Gum.

Some of these little newsboys are resourceful little mites. A day or two ago a business man dropped a silver mounted fountain pen through the grating in front of a building on West Third street. They told him in the store that there was no access to the hole from the inside. He seemed to be up against it. Two newsies saw him peering down into the grating and got interested.

"I'll git it out for you, mister," spoke up one of them, "if you'll stand the expense. It'll take about a nickel's worth o' chewin' gum."

The man said he would finance the gum scheme, whatever it might be.

A minute or two later the boy had dashed into a store and got a yardstick. He was chewing hard on an entire 5 cents' worth of gum. As soon as this was properly softened by the process of mastication he placed it on the end of the yardstick, stuck the stick through the grating until the gum met the pen and brought the pen up with the utmost dispatch.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Sand Fish.

At low tide in midsummer on certain parts of the Breton coast men and boys with baskets and hoes descend the white beach to the sea's edge. They are anglers, but the fish they seek live on dry land. With his hoe each fisherman makes swiftly in the packed sand shallow parallel trenches, very close together and about a yard long. If the luck be good every scratch of the hoe uncovers three or four silvery fish, the size of sardines, that leap up glittering into the air. They must be seized quickly or at once they bury themselves in the sand again. They are called lancons. The smaller ones are used for mackerel bait; the larger, with their heads cut off, make, fried, an excellent dish a good deal like fried smelts. With daylight tides the lancons are seldom bigger than a man's middle finger, but with the night tides, when promenaders have not disturbed the sand, they run very large indeed. Then, their lanterns flashing on the beach, the Breton fishermen often capture lancons a foot long.

Cut Heads.

The Liverpool Post has been making observations with regard to the "cut heads" which are treated at the hospitals between 12 and 2 a. m. The Post says that the house surgeons have noticed a curious difference in the sexes on different nights. On Saturday nights the subjects are mostly men who have received their wages, redeemed their clothes from pawn and drunk enough to lead to a brawl. Monday night, however, is "ladies' night." The men have gone to work, and the wives have taken their husbands' best and only suit to the pawnshop, and then it is their turn to drink the proceeds and cut one another's heads. The usual answer to the question "Who did it?" is, "Another lady wot lives in the same 'ouse."

Married Paupers and Divorce.

"An odd thing about married paupers is that they like to live separate," said a single pauper.

"You know how almshouses are arranged. There's a man's ward, a women's ward and a mixed or married ward. Well, the mixed ward is always nearly empty. Not that we lack married paupers. Oh, no. But the husbands prefer to bachelor it among the men and the wives to old maid it among the women. The older our married paupers get the more vehement is their insistence on separate living.

"'She's allus a-naggin',' the octogenarian will growl.

"'Nobody can't sleep o' nights with sech snorin' as him,' saith the septuagenarian female.

"And so they separate—to all intents divorced."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

A Great Financier.

A man who occupied a little back room in a poor quarter of the east end of London was evicted for nonpayment of rent. He had nothing but a valise and a few clothes, and while they were throwing him and his belongings out of the house a bulky manuscript fell out of his pocket. Nobody noticed it at the time, but after he had gathered his clothes and taken his departure one of the bystanders saw the big roll of paper, picked it up and on opening it was surprised and amused to find it contained an elaborate scheme for refunding the national debt of the British empire.

Know His Rights.

"I fine you," said the police justice, "$30 and costs."

"Yr honor," protested Tuffold Knutt, who had been hauled up for vagrancy, "all the prop'ty I've got in the world is a plugged nickel an' me clo'es, an' they hain't wuth more'n about two bits. That fine's onreasonable. It's confistication, an' it won't never stand the test o' the fed'ral courts. I shall take an appeal, y'r honor!"—Chicago Tribune.

Sure Sign.

"Don't sell that man another drink," ordered the boss.

"He's all right," argued the barkeep. "He ain't full."

"No; but he's beginning to tell what a nice family he comes of."

Agreed.

He (at the end of fishing story) Truly word, it was a monster. 'Pon my soul, I never saw such a fish in my life!

She—No; I don't believe you ever did.—Punch.

HOLES IN GLOBES.

They Are Too Tiny to See, but Air Can Work Through Them.

Ordinary tumblers will hold water because the globules of water are too big to squeeze through the glass. But glass is as full of holes as a sponge, and air blows right through it because the specks of air are smaller than the holes.

Put a bell into a big globe of glass, seal up the vessel, pump out all the air, then ring the bell inside, and you hear nothing. There is not air enough in the globe to carry a sound. But lay the globe aside for a month or so, and, no matter how carefully you have sealed up the neck, you will find that you then can hear the bell when you ring it. Air has got into that globe. Enough anyway to carry a sound has leaked in through the substance of the glass.

The ordinary incandescent lamp is a glass globe with the air pumped out, and after a few months sufficient air leaks through to dim the light which comes from the thread of electrified charcoal inside.

We can make plenty of vessels to hold water, but nothing has been made which will hold air without any leakage. The air sneaks in through holes which are too small for the human mind to imagine.

In fact, everything leaks.—London Answers.

THE END OF THE WORLD.

A Theory That It Will Come by Fire Caused by Friction.

As to the length of time the earth is likely to last, the calculations are that it will not cease to be active for a good many millions of years, such activity not, however, necessarily supposing that life as we know it now will always be possible, the eventuality of a universal ice age being always a contingency that may occur again in the history of the globe.

It is interesting to note that in this connection a Swedish mystic called Stromberg has declared that the world would never know another ice age, but that it was now running out its course to the end. Its existence, he declared, would endure as long as fire burned in the earth's bowels—that is, until the whole mass shall have become solidified. The internal fires, he said, provided the link which maintained the earth in the sun's sphere of attraction. When this attraction shall fail, the earth, according to the Swede, will cease to revolve and will fall away, only to disappear by fire caused by friction, thus verifying the Biblical prophecy. As, however, the process of cooling down entirely will take some billions of years, the nervous person will note that there is really no immediate cause for alarm.

Pepsin, Saliva and Gastric Juice.

Pepsin, the principal agent in the digestion of food, is a powerful solvent stored up in the walls of the stomach and only poured forth when its assistance is needed. When pure, this fluid is perfectly neutral, neither acid nor alkaline, and appears to be unable to exert any action without the presence of an acid. Such acid is supplied in the gastric juice, secreted by the gastric follicles covering the coating of the stomach. The saliva is merely for the purpose of moistening the food, thus preparing it for the action of the pepsin and gastric fluids.

Shawls.

An Indian or a Persian shawl used to be considered one of the finest feminine possessions in the world, and they were handed down from mother to daughter as prized heirlooms. But now if you gave a young woman even a very elegant shawl, costing possibly hundreds of dollars, as many did, she would turn up her beautiful nose at it and if she used it at all would make a portiere out of it for her cosy corner. She would never think of wearing it, even if it were the only thing she had. —Argonaut.

That Voice.

Before Marriage—"Oh, my darling, your voice is as musical to me as a vesper bell whose tones fall softly on the perfumed air. Speak again and say those words, my beloved, for I could listen to your voice until the stars are extinguished into everlasting night."

After Marriage—"I've had enough of your clapper, old woman, and if you don't shut up I'll leave the house."—London Globe.

His Glasses.

Once that genial comedian Peter Dailey consulted an oculist about his eyes. His nose was small, and he couldn't keep on the glasses with which the oculist was trying to fit him. "You are not used to glasses, Mr. Dailey," said the oculist. "Oh, yes, I am," replied Mr. Dailey, "but not so high up!"

Wearing Apparel.

Customs Officer (to woman traveler from the continent)—I thought you said, madam, there was nothing but wearing apparel in your trunk. What about these three bottles of cognac?

"Oh, those," said the lady, "are my night caps."—Tit-Bits.

The Negro and the Watermelon.

A negro bought a watermelon for 50 cents and sold it a few minutes later for the same price. The purchaser changed his mind and sold it back to the negro for 40 cents. Later the negro sold it for 60 cents. How much profit did he make?—New York World.

Saves Him.

"How did Snigguley ever get his reputation for the possession of great wisdom?"

"His wife talks so much that he never gets a chance to expose his ignorance."—Chicago Record-Herald.

WILL THEY KNOW ME?

For he for years and years did roam
O'er mountain, mead, and mere,
And now towards his boyhood's home
His feet were drawing near.
It was not Paradise regained;
His face was sad and wan,
The wide and frogful swamp was drained,
The coonful woods were gone.
"I lost my way," he whispered low,
"A stranger had to show me,"
He muttered with a note of woe:
"I wonder will they know me?"

NOVA SCOTIA'S TOWER.

Easterners Will Celebrate 150th Anniversary With Massive Monument.

It is proposed to celebrate the Parliamentary anniversary in Nova Scotia by erecting an historical tower, and architects' drawings have been made of the edifice from a sketch by Sir Sandford Fleming. It is designed to be of noble proportions, and the first course of masonry laid on the bed rock of native Nova Scotia granite would typify the beginning of representative Government in the year 1758, associated, as has been shown, so closely with the foundation of the Empire. Each course of massive masonry upwards would have its meaning, and would be adorned by references to the names and deeds of distinguished men who have served their country. It is suggested that the tower be built at Halifax on an elevated promontory, in Point Pleasant Park. This, it is pointed out, is an excellent park site, and here the memorial tower would not only be conspicuous by land and sea, but "would be in the midst of associations made memorable as the homes or haunts of the Howes, Hills, Thomsons, Cunards, Haliburtons, Tuppers, Joneses, Stairses, Morrows, Kennys, Pryors, Ritchies, Duffuses, and other sons of Nova Scotia, and thus in a neighborhood of old memories and on ground already historic."

Nova Scotia was the first of all the colonies, or sections thereof, of the British Empire to establish a free constitution by authority of the British Parliament. In 1758, when her first representative assembly met, the provinces of Quebec and Ontario, and a vast amount of territory stretching across the continent were under the military rule of the King of France. British Columbia did not become a British colony for a hundred years later. Australia and New Zealand were unsettled and unclaimed. The Cape of Good Hope did not become British until half a century later. The Halifax Canadian Club, in its literature concerning the forthcoming celebration, has said, after enumerating facts: "While historic Quebec has undoubted claims to be regarded as the birthplace of Canada, the great Motherland has placed Nova Scotia in a position to be regarded as the cradle of the Empire and Halifax as its constitutional birthplace."

TENDERS FOR DREDGING

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Dredging," will be received until 18th October, 1908, at 4.30 p.m., for dredging Terminal Basin at Mouth of Mission River, Ontario, and also for dredging an additional 3 feet over the areas already dredged to a depth of 22 feet in the Kaministiquia and Mission Rivers as specified.

Tenders will not be considered unless made on the form supplied, and signed with the actual signatures of tenderers.

Specification and form of tender can be obtained on application to J. G. Sing, Esq., Resident Engineer, Confederation Life Building, Toronto; J. L. Michaud, Esq., Resident Engineer, Merchants' Bank Building, St. James Street, Montreal; W. P. Merrick, Esq., Resident Engineer, Port William, Ont., and at the Department of Public Works, Ottawa. Tenders must include the towing of the plant to and from the works. Only dredges can be employed which are registered in Canada at the time of the filling of tenders. Contractors must be ready to begin work within twenty days after the date they have been notified of the acceptance of their tender.

An accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, for [illegible] must be deposited as security. The cheque will be returned in case of non-acceptance of tender.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
NAP. TESSIER,
Secretary.
Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, October 1, 1908.

TENDERS FOR DREDGING

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tenders for Dredging at Port Arthur, Ont.," will be received until Friday, October 9th, 1908, at 4.00 p.m. for dredging required at Port Arthur, in the Province of Ontario.

Tenders will not be considered unless made on the form supplied, and signed with the actual signatures of tenderers.

Combined specification and form of tender can be obtained at the Department of Public Works, Ottawa. Tenders must include the towing of the plant to and from the works. Only dredges can be employed which are registered in Canada at the time of the filling of tenders. Contractors must be ready to begin work within twenty days after the date they have been notified of the acceptance of their tender.

An accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, for six thousand dollars, ($6,000.00), must be deposited as security. The cheque will be returned in case of non-acceptance of tender.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS

ANY PERSON who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother, or sister of intending homesteader.

DUTIES—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

AN UP TO DATE METHOD.

Net Curtains Pulled Up and Down When Laundered.

Methods of dyeing the threads used in the manufacture of madras curtains are being continually improved upon, so that they have now reached such a state of perfection that these hangings may be washed as safely as a pocket handkerchief, and by the same simple means.

Not long ago it was necessary to use either salt or vinegar to "set the colors" before laundering, but nowadays this is entirely unnecessary.

An authority says curtains can be washed at home quite as satisfactorily for a few cents as though one paid 50 cents a pair for cleaning by a professional.

According to a successful cleaner, this process should be followed: Make suds with warm water and white soap. Then the water is put into an immense tub or vat that has revolving arms something like those found in washing machines.

Next the curtains are thoroughly shaken in order to free them from dust. Then they are placed in wide meshed bags like the string shopping bags. The revolving arms send the water through and through both bags and curtains. When clean they are taken from the suds and still in the bags, are rinsed in clean water.

The bags are used to protect the curtains from the revolving arms, which of course might catch the meshes and tear them.

This authority advises home cleaners to make the suds, then immerse the curtains (still using bags) and souse them up and down with the hands without rubbing until all the dirt has disappeared. They must then be rinsed in clean cold water, hung up to dry and well shaken, when they are ready for use again.

When madras curtains were made in cream and one coloring only, it was quite safe to lay them in salt or vinegar, as the color called for, but since as many as four shades are often combined in one curtain what would brighten one might darken or dull another, so the greatest care is taken in dyeing the yarns before weaving.

The warp only in madras curtains is of cotton. The pattern or design, no matter whether just white, one color or a variety of tints, is always of wool.

A line of madras curtains that will not fade is shown in some stores. They are called the "sundour" and come in a variety of pretty designs and colorings. The best part of it is that they are no more expensive than the average madras curtains.

THE DANGEROUS FLEA.

A Plague Alike to Both Man and Beast.

As to the place and manner of origin of the plague germ, or Bacillus pestis, nothing definite is yet known. The manner of its travel and communication to man has been clearly traced. The bacillus lives and breeds in the blood of the rat. The rat is the victim of fleas which live upon his blood and as they feed draw into themselves the plague bacilli which swim by thousands in his vital fluid. Thus infected and thereby as dangerous as so many little dynamite bombs, the fleas pass with the rats into the habitations of human beings which the rats infest and there from convenient floors or chairs or beds leap upon human victims.

The plague laden flea does not poison man with his bite, as the stegomyia mosquito poisons by injecting the bacillus of yellow fever directly into the blood. The flea, it is true, bites human beings as he bites other prey. He sucks blood until he is replete and then squirts blood from his alimentary canal upon his prey. Therein lies the peril. Plague bacilli are in this discharge, and if it be left undisturbed on the skin of the victim the bacilli will penetrate the skin and tissues, enter the circulation and thus infect the person upon whom the flea has fed.

It is this curious manner of infection by dejecta that makes the bubonic plague peculiarly dangerous to people who do not bathe frequently. In Japan and in the United States the spread of the disease among human beings even in rat infected cities is slow, while in India and China and certain parts of Europe where people bathe seldom if ever the plague runs like wildfire. It is almost impossible for a person who bathed twice a day to become infected with bubonic plague.—William Inglis in Harper's Weekly.

HOUSEHOLD NOTES.

Handkerchief corners will meet more exactly if the handkerchiefs are folded with the first crease on a line with the width wide threads of the linen.

If when boiling ham you add for each gallon of water a teacup of vinegar and six or eight cloves the flavor will be much improved. Always let a ham cool in the water in which it is boiled, and it will keep deliciously moist and nice.

Nickel plating may be cleaned with water and whiting or with water and alcohol as easily as silver. Where there is a large amount of nickel to be cleaned gasoline will do the work well and quickly, but of course extra precautions must be taken.

Indelible ink stains may be removed by wetting the stains with a fresh solution of chloride of lime. In a quarter of an hour dip the part in strong ammonia and presently wash out. The stains can also be dipped in hyposulphate of soda instead of ammonia.

GUESSING THINGS.

How Dottie and Johnny Amused Themselves in the Country.

Dottie and Johnny were spending a week at the same farm. Such fun as they had feeding the hens, poking the pigs, milking the cows and fishing in the brook with bent pins at the end of long strings! What cared they whether they caught the minnows that swam in the clear water! They had fun in their own innocent way, and they were happy.

One morning, after they had romped and played until Dot was tired, the two threw themselves on the soft grass under a spreading chestnut tree, and Johnny said, "Oh, say, Dot, let's play guessing things!"

"Don't know how," answered Dot.

"Easy as rolling off a log. I will think of something, and you must be asking me questions. Try to guess what I'm thinking about."

"All right," assented Dot. "Now think."

"Guess what's in my pocket?" asked Johnny, opening the game.

"That is easy," laughed the little girl. "Marbles and tops and a ball. I know, 'cause I saw you put them in."

"Nup. I'm thinking of something else."

"Then," said Dot, puckering her brow, "a bubble pipe, a key, a fishing line and pin."

"Again I must say nup," said Johnny. "Sure I have all them things, but I'm thinking of something else."

Dot put on her thinking cap for the third and last time. "Is it a whistle, a knife or a nail?"

"No, no, no!" cried Johnny. "Now, you've had three guesses, and your turn is up, so I'll tell you."

"Well, well!" said Dot impatiently.

"It's a hole."—Philadelphia Ledger.

GAME OF LOCATION.

Knowledge of Geography Wins the Prize in This Contest.

Two captains are chosen from among the players, and these in turn choose their sides until the party is equally divided. For convenience it is well to seat the parties in two rows, facing each other. Chance decides which captain shall begin the game. This he does by calling the name of a city or town and then counting ten. Before he has finished counting his opposite opponent must call out the location of the city—that is, the state or country in which it is situated. If he answers correctly, he in turn calls the name of a place, and the second player in the opposite row must locate it before ten is counted. Should any player fail to answer before ten is counted or answer incorrectly he or she must drop out, and when there is only one player left on either side that one wins the prize.

How to See a Ghost.

Look steadily in a good light for thirty seconds at the cross in the eye of the pictured skull; then look up at the wall or ceiling or look fixedly at a sheet of paper for another thirty seconds, when a ghostlike image of the skull will be developed.

One Industry of the Ant.

Out in Burma and the far east, where sandalwood is worth its weights in silver, the pestiferous ant is a valuable assistant to the loggers of that precious timber. The hard and fragrant heartwood alone has value, but as the tree grows this valuable heart is overlaid by a soft and worthless layer forming two-thirds of the trunk. When a tree is felled and cut into lengths the loggers let the timber lie. At once the ants begin work upon the soft wood, which is sappy and sweet enough to attract them. In a few weeks, less than a month in the case of the largest butts, the ants deliver the heartwood free of all the worthless sapwood.

A Large Proportion of the Increase in Native-Born Population of the New Provinces and Manitoba Caused by Arrivals From Ontario.

ONTARIO PEOPLE IN WEST.

It has been said that the Government pays too much attention to the immigrant, and assists him to the neglect of residents of the older provinces. This is fallacious. Residents of Ontario have just the same right to a homestead as a newly-arrived immigrant. That Ontario people are taking advantage of this provision and freely taking up homesteads is proved by the following table:

HOMESTEADS BY ONTARIO PEOPLE.

Statement showing the number of homestead entries made by Ontario people from 1st July, 1896, to 30th June, 1908:

WHERE THEY WENT.

It is interesting to know where the people who left Ontario for the West finally settled. The following will throw light upon this. The figures are taken from the census of 1906:

In Manitoba	79,008
In Saskatchewan	54,474
In Alberta	30,486
Total	163,968

Rapid Transit.

An express on a certain railroad was teasing along at a wild and awe inspiring rate of six miles an hour, when all of a sudden it stopped altogether. Most of the passengers did not notice the difference, but one of them happened to be somewhat anxious to reach his destination before old age claimed him for its own. He put his head through the window to find that the cause of the stop was a cow on the track. After awhile they continued the journey for half an hour or so, and then—another stop.

"What's wrong now?" asked the impatient passenger of the conductor.

"A cow on the track."

"But I thought you drove it off."

"So we did," said the conductor, "but we caught up with it again."—Ladies' Home Journal.

The Cheapest Way.

"That tobacco ye're smokin' has a richt bonnie smell, Wullie," said the Caledonian tradesman.

"Aye!" assented Willie. "An' it's gaid tobacco and cheap. In fact, I get it cheaper than the tobacconist himsel'!"

"Hoots, man!" exclaimed the knowing tradesman. "That's an impossibeelity! Ye canna' get it cheaper than the tobacconist himsel'! It isna likely."

"Aye, but I do," asserted Willie, lowering his voice. "Ye see, there happens to be a brither o' my ain wife's in the shop!"

Breaking It Gently.

"I understand, sir, that you are the possessor of a swollen fortune."

"Well," gruffly answered the beautiful girl's father, "what is that to you?"

"I merely thought that I would give you due notice of my intention to help take the swelling out of it. Myrtle and I are going to be married."

Terrible Tests.

"So you are still looking for an honest man?"

"I am," answered Diogenes.

"What is the lantern for?"

"That's to test him with. I am going to lend him the lantern, and if he brings that back I'm going to try him with an umbrella."

One Good Feature.

"I am not adroit. Each day I do something that makes me worry."

"That's bad."

"Well, each new worry makes me forget the worry of yesterday. It might be worse."

Lingering Sweetness.

She finished all her raisin cake,
And, sighing, said to me,
Oh, dear, I'm jes' thirsty as I possibly can-be!"

I offered her some water, but
"Oh, thank you, no!" she said,
I offered milk and lemonade,
But still she shook her head.
"Why don't you take a drink?" I asked
The thirsty little maid.
She answered, "It would take away
The taste of cake, I'm 'fraid."
—Washington Star.

A Critic.

Said the frog to his wife as they sat under water:
"I spied our young son and our granny gold daughter.
They sit in the storm up above, addle brains!
Ho! They don't know enough to come in when it rains!"

Before accepting a favor look for the string that may be tied to it.—Atchison Globe.

THERE are many kinds of flour sold. Some are made from spring wheat and some from winter wheat.

What you ought to know is which wheat makes the best flour, and why.

Winter wheat is put into the ground in the fall, grows a few inches, then gives up to the snow. When the snow melts it grows again, ripening in July. It matures slowly, is soft and very starchy.

Spring wheat is sown in late April or early May, and ripens in August. It matures rapidly and is therefore strong. It's a flinty, translucent wheat, rich in gluten and containing nearly twice as much real nutriment as the winter wheat.

Royal Household Flour

is made entirely from the hard, nutritious spring wheat, carefully selected from all the wheat of this kind grown in Canada.

Royal Household is fine, light and pure—milled by the most improved methods—in a mill as cleanly as your own kitchen.

Ask your grocer for Ogilvie's Royal Household—just enough to try. He may charge you a few cents more than you are used to paying, but you will forget that when you see the results in your bread and pastry.

OPENING OF TOUR IN QUEBEC

Premier Gets Tremendous Ovation in Old Capital.

50,000 LINE THE STREETS

Again and Again Throngs Stop Progress of Carriage and Sir Wilfrid Has to Rise and Bow Thanks—Seven Thousand Crowd Into Hall to Hear Address—Reception in East Riding Grand.

Quebec, Oct. 6.—The largest demonstration ever witnessed in the ancient capital crowded the streets yesterday to do honor to the Liberal chieftain, Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Fully fifty thousand people lined the streets to witness the procession of citizens on foot and in carriages, with bands of music, that escorted the Premier from the Chateau Frontenac through the principal streets of the Upper Town, St. Roche and St. Sauveur to the Variety Hall, Notre Dame des Anges street, where Sir Wilfrid addressed a monster meeting on the political issues of the present electoral campaign. One-half the population of the Upper Town turned out to welcome and cheer the chief, but the ovation accorded him in his own constituency, Quebec East, comprising the suburbs of St. Roche and St. Sauveur, beggars description. The streets were simply a mass of humanity, who were intensely enthusiastic in their demonstration of welcome.

Several times during Sir Wilfrid's progress to the hall his carriage was so surrounded with people that he had to rise and bow his thanks before he could go any further.

There were fully 7,000 people crowded into the spacious hall in which the meeting was held, and so densely packed was it that it was with difficulty Sir Wilfrid, the Postmaster-General and their friends could make their way through the dense mass to the stage, which was also thronged with people.

Sir Wilfrid was presented with a large volume bound in red leather and faced with a golden plate duly inscribed. Inside the volume was an address couched in the most ornately eulogistic terms, and a requisition to the Premier signed by over 3,000 voters of Quebec East asking him to again become their candidate. Sir Wilfrid consented to run once more in Quebec East despite his engagements at Ottawa, and kissed two happy young ladies who presented him with huge bouquets.

A striking feature of the demonstration was the absence of banners and the other stock in trade of machine-made enthusiasm.

BORDEN AT OTTAWA.

Capital Hears Hanna, Ross, Chabot and Conservative Leader.

Ottawa, Oct. 6.—The Conservative rally at Ottawa last night was characterized as one of the very best of the campaign.

P. D. Ross drew attention to the change in the candidature for Ottawa, and as to how A. W. Fraser and Dr. Chevrier had been pulled out of the fight. He imagined that the change was due to the growing and crushing conviction of public opinion that Fraser and Chevrier had been benefiting by Government patronage.

Dr. J. L. Chabot, the French-speaking candidate, congratulated himself that the Liberals had brought out their biggest and best against him. The bigger the game, the greater the honor. He challenged the Premier to state on the first occasion he spoke in Ottawa, whether, if he were returned for Ottawa, he would sit for the capital or Quebec East.

Talking of federal matters, R. L. Borden contrasted the report of the Civil Service Commission this year regarding the Marine and Fisheries Department with the investigation of the same Department during 1892-3. This alone should be sufficient to drive the Government from power; it would in the old country within a week of publication.

Mob Wipes Out Family.

Hickman, Ky., Oct. 6.—David Walker, a negro, his five-year-old daughter and a baby were killed outright; the mother, who was holding the baby in her arms, was fatally shot, and three other children will probably die as a result of a mob's visit to the Walker home. In addition, the oldest son is missing, and is supposed to have been burned with the negro's cabin, which was fired by the mob.

Walker had cursed a white woman and threatened a white man with a pistol, it is said.

Conductor Guilty of Assault.

St. Catharines, Oct. 6.—Conductor Harry Phillips was yesterday convicted before County Judge Carmen of aggravated assault on James Groggan by throwing him off a Niagara-St. Catharines-Toronto trolley in August. The judge held that Groggan was partly to blame, and let Phillips go on suspended sentence.

Methodist Church Sold.

Ottawa, Oct. 6.—The sale of the Dominion Methodist Church to C. Ross & Co. for $125,000 has been approved by the church board, and the congregation will seek new quarters.

Ottawa River Low.

Ottawa, Oct. 6.—Water in the Ottawa river is lower than it has been for twelve years. Barges and vessels have had to be lightened to get through the Rideau locks. The registered depth at the foot of the locks was 5 feet 1 inch yesterday. On May 18 it was 25 feet.

Charged With Theft.

Hamilton, Oct. 6.—Joseph Leslie, 128 East Picton street, was arrested last evening charged with stealing a sum of money from George Cann, a grocer. It is alleged that the prisoner collected a bill and failed to return the proceeds to Mr. Cann.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Steady—Hogs Are Weak at American Markets.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—London cables for cattle are steady at 11½c to 12½c per pound, dressed weight; refrigerator beef is quoted at 9½c to 10½c per pound.

Toronto Junction Live Stock.

TORONTO JUNCTION, Oct. 5.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Stock Yards were 44 carloads, composed of 881 cattle, 1,218 hogs, 324 sheep and lambs, and 23 calves.

Exporters.

Export steers sold from $4.80 to $5.25; bulls, at $3.80 to $4.25 per cwt. Only one load was reported at $5.25.

Butchers.

Prime picked butchers sold at $4.75 to $5; loads of good, at $4.60 to $4.80; medium, $4.15 to $4.45; common, at $3.60 to $4; cows, $3.75 to $4.50; canners, $1.50 to $2. More good butchers' cattle would have sold.

Feeders and Stockers.

Not many of either class on sale. Good, 1,050 lb. steers were quoted by Mr. H. Halligan at $3.60 to $3.75; ordinary bulls, $2.25 to $2.75.

Milkers and Springers.

James Armstrong & Son bought 17, which was all that was on sale, at $30 to $45 each.

Veal Calves.

Receipts limited, and prices steady at $3 to $4.50 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Prices were firmer for lambs, at $4.60 to $4.85 per cwt.; sheep, steady, at $3 to $3.50 per cwt.

Hogs.

Quotations unchanged, fed and watered, at the market, $6.25, and f.o.b., cars, at country points, $5.75.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Oct. 5.—At the Montreal Stock Yards' West End Market the receipts of live stock for the week ending Oct. 3 were 2831 cattle, 2160 sheep and lambs, 4122 hogs and 384 calves. The offerings this morning for local consumption consisted of 900 cattle, 600 sheep and lambs, 1140 hogs and 200 calves. Owing to the fact that the supply of cattle was over 400 head smaller than a week ago and the quality somewhat better, a stronger feeling prevailed in the market and prices show an advance of ¼c per pound on all grades. On account of the cooler weather and the lower prices that have ruled for best of late the consumption is steadily increasing and in consequence the demand from local and outside buyers was good and an active trade was done at the higher range of values. There was also some demand from exporters for the best beeves offered to complete shipments with. Cable advices from Liverpool to-day were stronger and noted an advance in prices of half cent per pound, as compared with a week ago, with trade firm. Choice beeves here sold at 4¾c to 5c; good, at 4½c to 4¾c; fair, at 3¾c to 4c; common, at 3½c to 3¾c, and inferior, at 3c to 3½c per lb. Owing to smaller receipts of lambs, the good general demand for the same, market is stronger and, altho prices show no actual change from a week ago, they have an upward tendency and unless supplies increase will no doubt go higher in the near future. A fairly active trade was done this morning, with sales of choice lots at 5c to 5½c, and good, at 4¾c to 4¾c per lb. The demand for sheep for export account was slow on account of the continued discouraging advices coming from the side and, according to prices that have realized for them of late, exporters state that choice sheep are not worth any more than 3¾c per lb. for shipping purposes, but they have not declined to this figure yet, as sales this morning were made for local account, 3¾c and the culls at 3½c to 3¾c per lb. The demand for calves was fair and as the offerings were small, prices ruled firm at from $3 to $10 each. There was no further change in the local hog situation, prices being about steady in spite of the recent sharp decline in values for Canadian bacon in the foreign markets. Supplies were fairly large, for which the demand was good and sales of selected lots were made at $7 and good at $6.90 to $6.75 per cwt., weighed off the cars.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, Oct. 5.—Cattle—Receipts, 2600 head; active and 10c to 15c higher; prime steers, $5.25 to $5.35; shipping, $5 to $5.25; butchers', $4.25 to $5.25; heifers, $3.50 to $4; cows, $2.75 to $4.25; bulls, $2.50 to $4.25; stockers and feeders, $3.25 to $4.50; stock heifers, $2.75 to $3; fresh cows and springers, active and $2 to $3 higher, $35 to $55.

Veals—Receipts, 1000 head; active and steady, $4 to $7.60.

Hogs—Receipts, 14,700 head; slow and 10c to 15c lower; heavy, $6.30 to $7.30; mixed, $6.25 to $7.10; yorkers, $6 to $6.20; pigs, $4 to $6.25; roughs, $5.30 to $5; stags, $3 to $4.75; dairies, $6 to $6.40; grassers, $5.60 to $6.60.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 12,600 head; active; ewes and mixed sheep steady; others, 15c to 25c higher; lambs, $4 to $7.25; yearlings, $4.25 to $4.75; wethers, $4.25 to $4.50; ewes, $3.75 to $4.60; sheep, mixed, $1 to $4; Canada lambs, $5.60 to $6.75.

Chicago Live Stock.

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—Cattle—Receipts, 22,000; market, generally 10c to 20c lower; steers, $4.60 to $7.75; cows, $2.25 to $3.25; heifers, $3 to $4.25; bulls, $2.60 to $4.00; calves, $3.50 to $8.50; stockers and feeders, $2.60 to $4.25.

Hogs—Receipts, 32,000; market, 10c to 20c lower; choice, heavy shipping, $6.50 to $7.05; butchers', $6.20 to $7.05; light mixed, $6.00 to $6.60; choice light, $6.60 to $6.85; packing, $5.90 to $6.60; pigs, $5.75 to $6; bulk of sales, $6.25 to $6.50.

Sheep—Receipts, 22,000; market, 25c higher; sheep, $4 to $4.60; lambs, $4.80 to $5.85; yearlings, $4.85 to $5.35.

Farmer Drowns.

Kenora, Oct. 6.—The body of Anton Anderson, a well-known Swedish farmer, was found in the lake channel, four miles out. He left Sept. 25 to go to his farm at Fort Aylmer, and it was supposed he had arrived safely until the boat was found tied to the shore, and a search revealed the body.

Petro Samonetta, Italian, was smothered in the C.P.R. gravel pit at Margach by a cave-in of the bank.

Riot in Court.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 6.—There was a scene of riotous disorder in Justice Austin's court yesterday, in which several persons were slightly injured in an attempt to lynch Edward Martin, a negro, who assaulted Miss Edith Ralston, a concert singer, at College Grove Friday night.

Martin was spirited away to Superior Judge Wilbur's court, where he pleaded guilty and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Three Persons Burned.

Yonkers, N.Y., Oct. 6.—Mrs. Mary Cummings, 70 years old, and her two grandchildren, Jeanette Howland, aged 9, and Harry Howland, 11 years old, were burned to death yesterday in a fire which destroyed the cottage of John Cummings, superintendent of the estate of William J. Cohran, on the outskirts of Yonkers.

All the members of the household were asleep when the fire was started by the explosion of a kerosene lamp.

Stratford Accidents.

Stratford, Oct. 6.—While feeding a corn-cutter at Robertson's farm, in Ellice, John Ingle, Shakespeare, had his right arm drawn into the machine and chopped off at the elbow. He is in a serious state.

Wilbur Silvester, ten years old, fell on an upturned axe on Sunday, almost severing his arm. The gash required fifteen stitches. The arm will likely be saved.

Aldermen Fight.

Guelph, Oct. 6.—Ald. A. W. Humphreys and Chairman James Ryan of the sewerage committee got into a hot discussion about the sewerage, in which Ryan intimated that Humphreys had been helping his friends get jobs on the new waterworks plant. This made Mr. Humphreys mad and he tried to disfigure Mr. Ryan's complexion. They were parted before much damage was done. A charge of assault may be pressed.

Bear Kills Babe.

Tucson, Ariz., Oct. 6.—A terrible tragedy was enacted at Elysian Grove, a pleasure park, when an immense black bear escaped from a cage and charged a throng of visitors, and snatching an infant from its go-cart crushed it to death before its mother's eyes. It was attacking the woman when a shot from a policeman's revolver stopped it. Bystanders opened a fusillade and killed the bear.

An Angry Elephant.

A sentinel in the menagerie at Paris has had a curious experience with one of the largest elephants. The sentinel was very conscientious and always requested the spectators not to give the animals anything to eat, which seemed to displease the elephant in question to such an extent that he several times sprinkled the sentry's head with water from his trunk. One day a bystander offered this particular elephant a large cake. The sentinel interfered, as usual, and the elephant promptly discharged in his face a violent stream of water. A general laugh ensued, but the sentinel, having calmly wiped his face, stood on one side and continued as watchful as before. Soon afterward he found it necessary to repeat his admonition, but no sooner was this uttered than the elephant laid hold of his musket, twirled it round his trunk, trod it under his feet and did not restore it until he had twisted it into nearly the form of a corkscrew. Then he gave a snort at the discomfited sentinel, as if to say, "Now I hope you'll mind your own business!"

A Neighing Cock.

Camden says the Thames was once called the Cockney, and therefore a cockney means simply one who lives on the banks of the Thames. Wedgwood says a cockney, or cockerney, is one pampered by city indulgence, in contradistinction to rustics hardened by outdoor work. There is, however, a legend, almost too good to be true—namely, that a Londoner who had never before slept out of sound of Bow Bells had occasion to go into the country and was detained all night. He was much disturbed by the lowing of the cattle, the grunting of the pigs and other sounds of country life, which he could not understand, and in particular he was frightened by the crowing of the cock. In the morning, in response to the farmer's inquiries, he said the sound of the wild beasts had kept him awake. Just at that moment the cock crowed again, and the Londoner said: "That's the one! He's been neighing like that for hours!" Since then Londoners have been called cockneighs or cockneys.

The Python.

Contrary to general belief, the python or boa constrictor rarely attacks people and is looked upon very differently by the people from the hamadryad and cobra. The python will take up his abode in a neighborhood and will not disturb anything except the hencoops. These he disturbs very much, as he has a great fondness for chickens; also for a stray dog or small goat. I know of one case, however, in a floating house where a python attacked a woman and, contrary to the preconceived idea, did not crush her in its folds, but attempted to swallow her, commencing with one of her feet. When she was rescued her foot and ankle were badly lacerated by the snake's teeth. The Chinese kill the python to make medicine from the liver, which has a high repute among them. They also boil the dried skin for medicine. Any Chinese drug shop in Siam will have a number of python skins for sale.—Medical Journal.

Girlhood Vigor Regained.

The difficulty with most women lies in the fact that while they are anxious about the health and welfare of their family and loved ones, they rarely ever pay attention to themselves until Nature says Stop. To prevent this every woman should take Psychine regularly. It creates an appetite and is the greatest of Aigentuic: "Psychine is a boon to run-down, tired and over-worked women, for there is LIFE IN EVERY DOSE. Mrs. J. T. Miller, of 63 Notre Dame St., Winnipeg, proved this, for she says: "I am thankful for what Psychine has done for me. I was laid up with weakness. Oh, how I suffered. My appetite was very poor and my stomach was greatly disordered. To-day I am strong and well, for Psychine has brought me permanent relief. I feel like a new woman now to what I did before taking Psychine. I feel the vigor of girlhood in my veins once more."

MOB SHOUTING NEGRO'S INNOCENCE

But Stratford Authorities Keep Roghmond in Jail.

PEAKE INQUEST RESUMED

In Fear of Trouble Police Keep Alleged Slayer of Farmer's Wife Well Guarded in Jail and Big Crowd is Disappointed — Some Tell How They Found Their Mother Lying on Cellar Floor.

Stratford, Oct. 6.—The adjourned inquest into the death of Mrs. William Peake, who was found dead in the cellar of her home last Wednesday, was resumed last night at the Arlington Hotel, Sebringville, before Coroner Monteith.

An immense crowd gathered, expecting that Roghmond, the negro accused of the murder, might be brought out from the county jail, but they were disappointed, the evidence being taken without his presence.

William Peake, husband of the murdered woman, gave evidence concerning the health of his wife previous to the tragedy. She had been troubled with weak heart, but had never been known to have a fainting spell. Witness had been absent at the time of the tragedy and did not arrive home until the negro had been taken away.

Lee Hobson, who was at work in a field near the railroad track on the day of the tragedy, gave evidence of having seen a negro resembling Roghmond, walking on the track. Witness thought the negro was drunk, but lost sight of him before he reached the corner turning off to the Peake home.

George Peake, son of the deceased, told of returning from the field when called by his brother, to find his mother dead in the cellar. He saw the negro stretched out, lying on his back and apparently asleep. A jackknife and pair of spectacles found beside his mother's body did not belong to the household.

John Peake, who found the body of his mother, gave evidence as to having left the field for home to get a drink of cider in the cellar. He stated positively that he heard the negro snoring when he made the discovery and immediately went for help and despatched his brother to Stratford for the police.

ALLEGED COUNTERFEITERS.

Toronto Contractor and Son Charged With Passing Bogus Bills.

Toronto, Oct. 6.—With the arrest of Thomas Crozier, a builder, of 9 Gerrard street west, a well-to-do citizen, and his son, Milton Crozier, the first of whom was taken into custody at Oakville and the other at Milton, during last week-end, the local police believe they have laid by the heels a couple of counterfeiters who have troubled local bankers and tradesmen for several months past.

The elder man was arrested in Oakville on Friday night on the charge of passing a spurious $5 bill of the Farmers' Bank at the local opera house.

The younger man was arrested on the following day at Milton, where his father owns a farm. The arrest was made at the instance of the Dominion detective department. Inspector Parkinson having taken charge of the case as soon as the first arrest was made.

Following the arrest of the two men, Inspector Duncan, with Detectives Sockett, McKinney, Montgomery, and Levitt of the Toronto police, made a raid on the house at 9 Gerrard street west at 10 o'clock Sunday night and found some photographic apparatus, a small hand press, and nearly one hundred tubes of paints.

HE HID IN CHURCH.

Runaway Prisoner is Captured in Belleville.

Belleville, Oct. 6.—William Brightcliffe, a young man who escaped from the county jail here Saturday morning, when awaiting to be taken to the Central Prison to serve a year for theft, did not long enjoy liberty, as he is now back in jail in charge of Jailer Ketchesen, from whom he escaped while in the sheriff's office.

He was captured about ten miles from the city by Hans Cosby and John Detlor, two farmers with whom the prisoner formerly worked.

He was caught in Cosby's house. He must have been assisted in the escape, as the prisoner's garb had been exchanged for ordinary clothes.

He had been hiding in John street Presbyterian Church all day Saturday, having come out at night. When captured, Brightcliffe had several articles of clothing which had been stolen from various houses in the vicinity, where he formerly worked. The accused is only 18 years of age.

Preference Means Discord.

London, Oct. 6.—(C.A.P.)—Dr. Muspratt, president of the Financial Reform Association, in a letter to the press, says the recent discussion at a meeting of the Canadian Manufacturers in Montreal ought to convey a warning to those who indulge in the hope that if we impose a duty on foreign goods coming into Britain, while admitting the colonial free, a great market will be provided to our manufacturers within the Empire.

Dr. Muspratt believes that so far as political results are concerned the fiscal federation of the Mother Country and colonies, in place of binding the Empire together, will sow the seeds of discord that in a short time will rend it to pieces.

Storms in West Indies.

Havana, Oct. 6.—Baracoa, on the northeast coast, suffered severely on Saturday and Sunday from a heavy storm. The custom house, which was in the course of construction, and many other buildings were destroyed.

Hamilton, Bermuda, Oct. 6.—Heavy rains fell throughout Sunday and about midnight a whirlwind of considerable force struck Somerset Island, tearing up large trees and unroofing and otherwise damaging many buildings. No lives were lost.

Revivalists at Orillia.

Orillia, Oct. 6.—A big religious revival is going on here, which commenced on Sept. 20 and is to continue until Oct. 15. The revival is being conducted by Dr. Wilbur J. Chapman and Charles M. Alexander. The meetings are being held in the Palace Roller Rink, and Sunday night there were about 3,500 people present. There is a choir of 300 voices, which is led by Mr. Alexander. There are twelve members in the Chapman-Alexander party.

Fatal Tenement Fire.

New York, Oct. 6.—Eleven persons were killed, more than a dozen injured and 30 more escaped with their lives only by the narrowest margin, in an incendiary fire which wrecked the tenement house at 71 1-2 Mulberry street, early yesterday.

That a deliberate attempt was made to destroy the house and its occupants as well, there is no doubt in the minds of the police and firemen.

Deserts Liberal Party.

Halifax, N.S., Oct. 6.—Mayor Morash of Lunenburg, ex-Liberal M.P.P., well known in this province, at a public meeting in that town last night, formally joined the Conservative party. He stated that he could no longer remain a member of the party that had disgraced the name of Liberalism. He preferred to call them Laurierites rather than Liberals.

Can Fly With Two.

Lemans, France, Oct. 6.—Wilbur Wright, the aeroplanist, made two short flights with passengers yesterday. One was with M. Bellec, who weighs about 216 pounds, and the other with M. Pellier, vice-president of the Aero Club of the Sarthe, who weighs 176 pounds. These demonstrations were entirely satisfactory.

Big Fire at Steveston.

Vancouver, B.C., Oct. 6.—Part of the town of Steveston, with the Beaver salmon cannery, was burned yesterday morning. The loss is supposed to be from a hundred to a hundred and fifty thousand dollars. Two Chinamen are said to have been burned to death.

Killed by Runaway Accident.

Houston, Tex., Oct. 6.—In a runaway accident in the City Park Sunday H. W. Cortes, a member of a leading hardware firm, was killed, and Mr. and Mrs. M. Treadway and her two children were painfully injured.

INDEPENDENCE PROCLAIMED

Swift Change in Political Affairs of Europe Comes as Big Surprise to Great Britain—Austria Stands Behind Ferdinand, New Czar of the Near East—New Congress of Powers to Be Formed.

London, Oct. 6.—In the ancient capital of Tiernovo the independence of Bulgaria was proclaimed yesterday with the Czar of the Bulgarians as ruler.

Czar of the Bulgarians is recognised to mean more than Czar of Bulgaria, because it is a distinct intimation that he regards his country as having sovereignty over all people of that blood in the near east.

Within a day or two Austria-Hungary, which has been working with Prince Ferdinand in this preconcerted plan, will proclaim the new status of Bosnia and Hersegovina.

The question, which has been stirring the whole of Europe more deeply than any similar question in the memory of the present generation, is, does it mean war?

From all the capitals last night come reports indicating that it means, first of all, an European congress of the signers of the treaty of Berlin to consider the situation and probably revise the treaty.

Turkey, caught in a moment of weakness, is the victim of this situation, and while some international animosities have been stirred up, probably no power is willing to make war. Reports from the emancipated Turkish press to London indicate that the "Young Turks" will swallow this bitter pill as best they can and, if they do, naturally the Bulgarians, while willing and eager for war, will have no cause on which to base the beginning of hostilities.

From the British standpoint the whole affair has been a surprise, and more than a surprise, because for the first time in years, the British Government felt itself, with apparently a perfect understanding with France and Russia, and complete friendship with Italy, to be in a position when it dominated European politics, reserving out of this consideration the almost open enmity between itself and Germany.

Probably never in the history of Europe have politics taken such amazing kaleidescopic revolutions as during the past week.

An untangling will come when the signatories of the Berlin treaty meet to consider what action shall be taken regarding the violations of the treaty.

Great Britain last night served notice that it does not recognise the right of any of the parties to this treaty to violate its provisions without consulting the others, but English diplomats know that the conference will resolve into a scramble among the power to get what is termed in European politics "compensating advantages" which Austria, backed by Germany, has already obtained.

Orillia Passes Bylaws.

Orillia, Oct. 6.—A vote was taken for two money bylaws in Orillia yesterday — one for $30,000, for extensions to the town's power plant at Ragged Rapids, which carried with 120 majority, and the other for $10,000, for extensions to the waterworks, which also carried, by 110 majority. Both bylaws carried in every ward.

SCOW HANDS DROWN.

Craft Turns Turtle in Whitefish Bay and Two Lose Lives.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Oct. 6.—Two men, Capt. John Hunter of Sarnia and Fred Shields of Duluth, lost their lives near Whitefish at 2 o'clock yesterday morning by the overturning of a scow of the Reid Wrecking Co.

Capt. Reid had been engaged for some time endeavoring to save the machinery of the steamer Mosgrove, which went to pieces near Isle Royal a year ago.

The machinery had been raised and the outfit was proceeding down the lake from Michipicoten.

The scow which overturned was in tow of the schooner Kilderhouse, and the tug Salvator, in close proximity in case of emergency.

When 14 miles from Whitefish the scow turned turtle and went down without warning. It was loaded with derricks and other machinery.

The crew of the Salvator immediately went to the spot and saw the scow, bottom upwards, but the crew of two men, and the machinery has disappeared.

The men were never seen again and the bodies are not yet recovered. The remainder of the outfit proceeded to the Soo yesterday morning and tied up at the New Ontario dock.

NEW CATHEDRAL.

Winnipeg, Oct. 6.—The new cathedral of the Roman Catholic diocese of St. Boniface was formally opened on Sunday morning with imposing ceremonies.

Three archbishops and seven bishops of the church were present from outside points, together with a large number of representatives of different church orders.

The new cathedral is a magnificent building, capable of seating 2,500, and by far the largest church edifice in western Canada. A striking feature of the day's proceedings was the parade of Roman Catholic laymen of the city. There were 9,800 men in the procession when it passed the city hall, where it was reviewed by Archbishop Langevin.

The only women in the parade were Ruthenians, who, to the number of over 100, marched, as is their custom, with their husbands and brothers, all singing Ruthenian chants.

The pulpit of the cathedral was occupied in the morning by Bishop Foy, auxiliary Bishop of Montreal. Bishop Shanley of Fargo spoke in the afternoon and Archbishop Ireland of St. Paul, in the evening.

Will Not Pay Tax.

Ottawa, Oct. 6.—Instead of appealing to the assessment commissioners as originally intended, the civil servants intend to refuse payment of the newly-imposed income tax when time for payment comes around next spring.

A. E. Caron, one of the members of the commission on assessment, was of the opinion that the refusal to meet the tax would be to a man on the part of the service, basing his opinion on the fact that circulars advising that course of action had been issued to all and no one had made any objection to the proposition.

Store Thrice Robbed.

Toronto, Oct. 6.—Beginning with the break pulled off by young Robert Snow, jailbreaker, three entries have been made since June into the premises of the Warren and Ellis sporting goods' store at 302 Yonge street. The last was effected Sunday night, when five revolvers were taken by a burglar who broke in at the workshop in the rear. An attempt was also made three weeks ago.

Entry was also made Sunday night into the dental premises of Dr. Charlton Mills, 128 Yonge street. About $30 worth of gold leaf and plates was taken.

Married on Death Bed.

RIFLE BULLET STRUCK WITHIN TWO INCHES OF A YOUNG BRIDGENORTH BOY'S HEART

Bruce Cullen Has a Remarkable Escape From Fatal Injury—Ball From Friend's Rifle Pierces His Left Arm

WERE SHOOTING AT TARGET

Examiner Special

Bridgenorth, Oct. 6.—A bullet passing through the flesh of the left arm within a couple of inches of the heart, tells the tale of the remarkable escape of Bruce Cullen from a fatal injury due to a mere accident. Young Cullen who is not yet advanced beyond his teens in years, was out in the woods with a friend named Orrie Hartwell when the accident occurred. Each had a 22, rifle and were engaged in shooting at a target roughly erected for the special occasion.

Hartwell was walking along behind his friend with the stock of the gun under his arm and the muzzle pointing downward. The trigger must have been cocked and it is supposed that it caught in his clothing in some manner, and the hammer striking the bullet discharged it.

Near the Heart

The bullet entered the left arm of Bruce Cullen, which was hanging by his side, and therefore came within a couple of inches of piercing his heart. Had it struck two inches to the right there would have been little hope for his recovery.

The boys were naturally frightened and as hurriedly as possible reported the accident. Dr. J A Morgan of Peterborough, was called and dressed the wound. The flesh was not badly torn but the injury has, of course, prevented the use of the arm. The bullet was a 22. short. Cullen is a son of Mr. W T Cullen.

With the advent of the hunting season, shooting accidents will be heard of in numbers and this accident, which, although fortunately, not a serious one, should remind the hunters of the danger connected with the carrying of firearms.

HONORARIUM OF $250 FOR EX-CHIEF RUTHERFORD FOR HIS LONG SERVICE

At the meeting of the City Council last night it was unanimously decided to show the appreciation of the Council of the long and faithful service given by Mr. Thomas Rutherford as chief of the Fire Brigade by giving him a year's salary. There was not a dissenting voice to that proposition, it being felt by the aldermen that ex-Chief Rutherford had earned the reward by his work on behalf of the city and the following motion which was moved by Ald Neill and seconded by Ald. Bradburn, was carried unanimously:

"That in view of Mr. Thomas Rutherford's long services as Chief of the Fire Brigade since Aug. 1, 1881, he be given a grant of one year's salary, namely $250."

Dr. Stratton of Napanee, well known to the members of the Astronomical Society, is in the city visiting his brother-in-law, Mr. H. B. Collier. Dr. Stratton has just returned from the Old Country, where he has spent the summer studying. While in England he visited the celebrated Greenwich Observatory and met Prof. Maunder, the celebrated astronomer.

PRIZES DONATED BY MR. JAS. LYNCH WERE PRESENTED TO THE SUCCESSFUL PUPILS

The two five dollar gold pieces which are donated yearly by Mr. James Lynch to the boy and girl from the Separate Schools who secure the highest marks in the Entrance examinations, have been recently presented by Rev. Father McColl to those who won them this year. The Convent and Lake Street Schools claim the successful pupils. Gerald Desautels, now in the C. P. R. telegraph office, formerly of the Lake Street School, headed the list of the Separate School boys, while Veronica Carveth, of the Convent, obtained the highest number of marks among the girls. The action of Mr. Lynch in thus donating these prizes to be competed for by the pupils in their general work during the term, is much appreciated by them and by the Separate School Board for it is on their monthly work that the final examination depends.

POULTRY ASSOCIATION WANTS GRANT FROM COUNCIL FOR SHOW THIS YEAR

At last night's meeting of the City Council, a deputation representing the Peterborough Poultry Association waited upon the Council to urge that a grant of $50 be made to the Association for the purpose of assisting in a poultry show which the Association intends to hold in January next. The deputation consisted of Messrs. R J Kidd, E C Irigley and Jos. Kelly. Their request was apparently looked upon with favour by the council and will be dealt with by the Finance Committee.

Mr. R J Kidd stated that the Association contemplated holding a show here in January next. The enterprise would entail considerable expense and the Association realize that necessary funds might not be forthcoming. They asked the council to give them a grant of $50 towards the expense of the undertaking.

Mr. E C Irigley spoke of the benefit the Association was proving to the boys of the city. It gave them something to occupy their minds and kept them off the streets.

Mr. Jos. Kelly, the treasurer, remarked that the membership of the Association was 85 and that the greater part of them were rate payers of the city. The Association felt that the grant would be well merited.

Ald Turner thought that the matter should be referred to the Finance Committee. He had been informed that a dog show would be held this winter and that a grant would be wanted for that purpose. He was of the opinion that the matter should be considered.

Ald. Elliott was in favour of making the grant as requested by the deputation. He thought the object was a worthy one.

Ald. Neill seconded Ald. Turner's motion to the effect that the matter be referred to the Finance Committee. He was in sympathy, he said, with the object of the Association.

Mr. Irigley remarked that the Poultry Association decided to conduct the show on as economical lines as possible. They intended to build 300 coops and the members were going to perform the labour themselves.

The motion to refer the matter to the Finance Committee was carried.

ISOLATION HOSPITAL AND OTHER OLD FRIENDS BEFORE THE COUNCIL AGAIN

After the regular business of the council had been transacted last night the aldermen had a long talk fest over such dear old friends as the Smith street bridge, the Isolation Hospital and the Public Library. The mayor started the ball rolling by pointing out that it was near the end of the year, and that there were important subjects that should be dealt with without delay. The Smith street bridge was the first subject dealt with. Ald. Phelan explained that the city engineer was dealing with the matter and was preparing the plans. The only question was whether the by-law should be submitted to the people this year or to kept until the January elections.

Ald. Neill stated that he had been informed that the bridge was in a dangerous condition and said that he was of the opinion that the bridge should be closed at once if that was found to be true.

Ald. Bradburn spoke in favour of submitting the by-law at the municipal elections in January. It would not be possible to do any work on the bridge during the winter anyway, and he was of the opinion that the by-law could be carried easier at that time.

Ald. Turner and other aldermen spoke on the same subject.

Ald. Phelan remarked that he would get the city engineer at once to submit a report on the condition of the Bridge, and that if it was found unsafe steps would be taken to close it.

The Isolation Hospital also came in for discussion at the hands of the aldermen, and it was decided that the Property Committee should report to the council as to the cost of the same. It was felt that some action should be taken in the matter, Ald. Neill remarking that it had been before the council for about five years.

The Public Library question also received some attention and Ald. Turner spoke of the necessity of some action in that regard, but no steps were taken at last night's meeting.

Another question that came up was the proposal to buy the exhibition grounds. In this connection Mayor Bush remarked that there had been a suggestion to the effect that some twenty acres of the Hilliard farm should be used for exhibition purposes.

Ald. Elliott suggested that the old drill shed, which could be secured for $1,000, might be used as a main building at the fair grounds.

SCARCITY OF LIME IN THE CITY AFFECTS THE BUILDING OPERATIONS

Since last Tuesday there has been a remarkable scarcity of lime in the city. Such a dearth of this article has there been that contractors and masons were forced to quit work. Building operations were suspended and a large number of men were out of work. But the spell was broken this morning when Mr. T. Rehill received a couple of carloads.

ANOTHER MONAGHAN FARMER INJURED IN A RUNAWAY TO-DAY

A farmer giving his name as George Beksmith, of North Monaghan, had his right leg broken below the knee in a runaway this afternoon at at 2.30 o'clock on Aylmer street. He was driving his team across the C. P.R. tracks when they became frightened at a train and started to run up Aylmer street. A quantity of lumber that had been piled on the waggon was strewn along the road and at the corner of Dalhousie and Aylmer streets Mr. Beksmith was thrown from his seat. He was cut about the face as well as suffering a compound fracture below the right knee.

WATER FRONT PROBLEM IS ONCE MORE BROUGHT BEFORE COUNCIL

At last night's meeting of the City Council the following letter was received from Mr. R. E. Wood:

Peterborough, Sept. 9, 1908.

Henry Rush, Esq.,
Mayor of Peterborough.

Re Mrs. Rogers' waterfront.

Dear Sir—It is now two years since these proceedings were commenced, and it is high time some settlement was made. If the proposition to pay Mrs. Rogers a lump sum of $1750 in full settlement is to be carried out I can see no reason for so long delay. If you do not get this in shape within a reasonable time, say ten days, I shall revive the porceedings against the other parties and issue a writ against he city as well.

Yours truly,
R. E. WOOD.

The Council decided that the mayor should interview Mr. W. H. Meldrum in regard to the matter, and afterwards call a meeting of the Committee of the Whole to decide the question.

LIT MATCH TO OBTAIN LIGHT TO POUR SOME GASOLINE FROM A CAN

Minden, Oct. 6.—Special.—One evening last week, Mr. John McKay, Sr., of Dorset, met with a bad accident. While he was pouring out gasoline, Mr. Jerry Clayton, meaning well, lit a match to give him a light, as a result all took fire. Mr. McKay threw the blazing gasoline can out of doors, and thus the store house was saved, but he was badly burned about his neck, hands and arms. Mr. Clayton did all in his power to smother the fire as quickly as possible.

TWO SONS OF MR. RICHARD LEES WIN THE SENIOR AND JUNIOR RACES YESTERDAY

A Record in Collegiate Institute Cross Country Runs—Two Brothers Carry Off First Prizes—Lees and Tovey Finish as Last Year

SPLENDID TIME WAS MADE

The junior and senior road races in connection with the annual athletic events of the Collegiate Institute brought out a decided feature yesterday afternoon, when Harold and Bruce Lees, sons of Mr. Richard Lees, Public School Inspector, respectively finished winners. While it was a genuine surprise to those unacquainted with the Collegiate sporting affairs, there were many who picked these boys to carry off the two events. It was a record in the history of Collegiate's athletics and will probably never be duplicated. Both the boys are slight of build and well developed. While they are fast and run exceedingly well, they have also an endurance which carried them along when their competitors showed signs of diminishing their pace. Each of them was the smallest boy in his respective race, but they brought themselves along to victory in splendid style.

A large crowd gathered on McDonel street, opposite the Collegiate building, to see the start. The field was a large one, about fifteen getting away shortly after half past four, when the starter gave the signal to the scorers. The route was west on McDonel street to the boundary and north to Smith street, thence east on Smith to Water, south to McDonel and west to the starting point. The distance is estimated at nearly 2 3-4 miles, and covers three hills, that on Smith street being exceptionally steep.

Seniors to Finish

The finish of the seniors' race was fought out almost to the tape by Garnet Tovey and Harry Lees, the latter scoring by a safe lead, after covering the distance in 13 min. 54 3-5 secs. It was a great fight, Tovey having stayed at his heels through the whole course.

The boys finished as follows:

1. Harold Lees.
2. Garnet Tovey.
3. Garnet Rankin.
4. R. Dixon.
5. Cyril Moore.
6. W. Gibson.
7. S. Sheehy.
8. M. Quinlan.
9. D. Horton.
10. McCabe.
11. A. Ackerman.

Hatten led to the Smith street hill when he had to drop back owing to cramps. Lees and Tovey were close behind him and right together. They continued on at a fast pace down Water street to the finish.

The junior race was won more easily by Bruce Lees, who was between 150 and 200 yards ahead of Harold Hill, the second man. The time made by the juniors was 17 min. 2 3-5 secs. The youngsters finished in the following order:

1. Bruce Lees.
2. Harold Hill.
3. Hugh Wallis.
4. Vernon Miller.
5. Hurley.
6. W. Hatrick.

The boys stated that a train at the G. T. R. crossing delayed them slightly, but even at that they made good time. Most of the juniors finished strong and sprinted the last 100 yards.

The officials were: Starter, Harry Hall; timekeeper, Mr. Alex. Gibson; referee, Mr. Clarke.

Last Year's Finishes

It is claimed by some that the course is this year a little longer than the old one, but it is generally believed to be about the same distance. Jimmy O'Brien finished first last year in 17.53, while the record was 17.21. In the juniors Garnet Tovey won out in 1907 in 22.20. Harold Lees beat them in by a few feet, but he was meligible, being over age, Hugh Wallis was fourth. Tovey and Lees fought it out again this year, with the same result in the seniors, and Wallis still in the juniors, finished third.

It was remarked last year that the first men home were the sons of school inspectors, Mr. Michael O'Brien and Mr. R. Lees being the fathers of the winners. Now, however, Mr. Lees has the honour of having his two sons finish first.

THE FINAL DECISION IN THE NEW YORK-CHICAGO BALL GAME

The National Baseball Commission which met in Cincinnati this morning, gave out the following decision in connection with the tie game between New York and Chicago, that if the game effects the standing of the two teams at the conclusion of the season, the game will have to be played over on the Polo Grounds in New York. The Commission consisted of the following baseball Moguls, Garry Hermann, of Cincinnati; George Dovey, of Boston; President Pulliam, Frank Hedges, of St. Louis; President Murphy of Chicago was also on the committee, but was barred on account of his team being attected in the protest. The game in question was the one played at New York when with two out and a man on third and first, Bridwell of the Giants, made a clean hit and instead of Merkle, who was on first, running to second to touch that bag he run to the club house, and was declared out, which ended the game in a draw.

REAR-END COLLISION ON THE C.P.R. THIS MORNING IN THE FOG

A rear end collision occurred about 6.45 o'clock this morning, when a freight train ran into another freight on the east side of the C. P. R. bridge. The accident was reported due to the driver of the second train not seeing the van of that which was standing still. The authorities refused to give a word of information about the affair, but it was learned that the man in the van were at breakfast when the affair happened. A man by the name of George Carey is said to have had a leg broken.

FIFTEEN DOLLAR FIRE OCCURRED IN EAST CITY HOUSE TO-DAY

Shortly after 1 o'clock to-day a fire occurred in the house occupied by Mr. Wm. Stanley and owned by Mr. Faint, East City, doing damage to the amount of $15 to the property. The contents were not damaged. A spark from the kitchen chimney is supposed to have been the cause. The brigade was called out and quickly extinguished it.

SONS OF SCOTLAND HOLD ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING LAST NIGHT

A rousing meeting of Clan Alpine Camp, S.O.S. was held in the Orange Hall last night. In the absence of the Chief, his place was filled by Chieftain Bro. MacKay, and considerable business of importance was done. Grand Organizer Bro. Grieve, assisted in the initiation. Owing to the Secretary, Bro. Donald G Cameron, having been transferred to Victoria, B.C., Bro. F Linton was elected to fill the office.

The social part of the programme was taken up with songs from Bro. Barr, Grieve and MacKay. Bro. MacKay was also in evidence with the Bagpipes.

IT HAD TO BE KILLED

A runaway that cost a South Monaghan farmer, named Moncrief, a valuable horse, occurred yesterday on the River Road just beyond the Lasks bridge. He was returning home after a trip to the city, and was driving his team on to the weigh scales at Kennedy's Abattoir, when instead of stopping to be weighed the horses took fright and ran out the lane turning at the road and continuing their crazed course at a furious clip. About three hundred yards down the road, after dismantling the waggon, leaving only a pair of wheels, the team collided with the rear end of Mr. John Matchett's waggon, upsetting him into the ditch. One of Mr. Moncrief's horses was so badly injured that it had to be killed. Dr. Johnston, who was called to attend it, found that it was out of the question to save the animal, as a great cavity had been made in its breast by coming in contact with one of the side boards of Mr. Matchett's waggon. The wound was about eighteen inches long by three inches in width, and went right into the lungs, one of which it pierced. The poor brute was breathing through this opening when the doctor arrived and it was a wonder that it had lived at all.

As the horses had pursued their mad course along the road they had upset the stovepipes, wheelbarrow and groceries from the waggon and also left the box boards and wheels and, in fact, everything but the shafts. The other horse escaped without injury.

Mr. Moncrief was leading the horses on to the scales when they ran away and thus escaped without hurt, Mr. Matchett, however, was not so fortunate. He received a severe shaking up and indeed had a rather narrow escape. The horse that was killed was valued at $200.

THREE MEN KILLED IN A TRAIN COLLISION

Brantford, Oct. 6.—Special. — A collision took place this morning between a work train and a yard engine between Mount Vernon and Burford. Three persons were killed, Yardmen Cribb and Fralick of Brantford, and another man whose name is at present unknown. No further particulars are available at present.

MR. DUMBLE WANTS THE COUNCIL TO APPROVE OF PLAN FOR NEW STREET

Prior to the regular monthly meeting of the city council last night there was a short session of the Committee of the Whole in the committee room, at which two requests were dealt with.

Mr. D. W. Dumble appeared before the council in connection with his request that the council approve of a plan of subdivision of part of Park Lot 16, lot 13, concession 12. The Board of Works, he understood, had not looked favourably upon the scheme, on the ground that the street could not be sixty-six feet wide, but he explained that it would not be practical to have a street any wider than thirty feet there. He did not ask the council to make any expenditure there, but merely as approve of the plan so that he could have it registered. He desired to sell a number of lots there and a thirty foot street would be accommodation enough.

Ald. Bradburn pointed out that the city did not look with favour upon narrow streets, as there had already been enough trouble with them.

It was moved by Ald. Elliott, seconded by Ald. Marrow, that a committee, composed of the mayor, Ald. Phelan, chairman of the Board of Works, and the city engineer look into the matter and report back to the council.

Mr. Taylor waited upon the council to urge that a sewer be constructed on Aberdeen avenue. He stated that he was building a new house They had no water service yet, but hoped to get it this autumn.

Ald. Phelan remarked that it was the feeling of the council that if the water service was provided, the sewer would be built.

The matter will be taken up by the Board of Works at once.

MANUFACTURING BEGINS IN THEIR NEW AND MODERN ESTABLISHMENT

The Collier-Cunningham Company and the Diamond Calk Horseshoe Company have concluded moving their factory machinery to their new premises, formerly occupied by the Peterborough Cereal and the Canada Flakes Company on Simcoe street. They have already begun manufacturing and are employing a dozen or more men. Within a short time they expect to employ about 30 men.

The premises they vacated on Hunter street have been secured by the aged by Mr. A. J. McClellan. The Peterborough Meter Company, manufacturing in the room over Mick's hardware store, and as they needed larger premises, they have turned the two rooms into one large one.

A CHAPTER OF ACCIDENTS COME FROM THE TOWNSHIP OF OTONABEE

Yesterday must have been Otonabee's unlucky day—for the Cold Springs district at least. In addition to the runaway of Mr. Wm. Moncrief's team from Kennedy's weigh scales, the injury of Mr. John Matchett, and the escaping of his team, there was still another accident of a similar character.

Mr. Edgar Ruth, while driving past a traction engine drawing a threshing machine owned by Mr. William Reid, also of Otonabee, his horse scared and threw him out. The buggy was badly smashed and the spokes of the wheels were afterwards found strewn along the road.

PROMINENT YOUNG MEN OF THE CITY ARE FORMING A NEW CLUB

At a meeting held last night in the upper rooms at 498 1-2 George street at which some thirty prominent young men of the city were in attendance, it was decided to form a new club. The chair was taken by Mr. W. T. Belleghem, who has done much to get the club underway. He also acted as secretary pro tem. A working committee was last night appointed, consisting of Messrs. H. Crossman, H. Clarke, W. E. Martin, Oliver Milburn, Harold Tanney, and W. T. Belleghem, for that time and at the next meeting. The rooms will be furnished being the officers of the club will be elected.

A FOOLISH ARGUMENT.

The Conservatives misleadingly claim that because a larger Customs revenue is collected under Liberal administration 96 millions in 1908 as against 36 millions in 1896, that therefore taxation has been increased. One way of showing the folly of this argument and its antagonism to the truth, is to quote the fact that in 1896 the tax of 3 cents per letter, brought a postal revenue of three millions, while in 1908, a tax of 2 cents per letter brought a postal revenue of six millions. According to Mr. Foster and other Conservatives, the doubling of the postal revenue is due to a higher postal rate, which is self-evidently absurd, for everybody knows who writes letters that the postal rate is one-third less. The same causes that produced increased postal revenue—with a rate one-third less—increased prosperity, commercial activity, etc., meaning increased correspondence, brought increased customs revenue. Increased customs revenue with a tariff about $3 per $100 less brought more revenue, because the people were more prosperous under Liberal rule, bought more goods and consequently a larger customs revenue resulted. The average duty paid in 1896 was $18.28 per $100; in 1908 it is 15.72 or 14 per cent. less. Yet our revenue more than doubled.

CANADA'S PROGRESS UNIQUE.

It is argued on the Opposition side that the progress of Canada in the past twelve years is merely a feature of the general progress of the world. One would like to believe that the world as a whole had made such marvellous progress as is indicated by this argument. For instance, in the last twelve years the trade of Canada has been increased by about four hundred millions, or 175 per cent. If the trade of the principal nations of the world has increased by 175 per cent. in the last twelve years, the fact has escaped the notice of the expert statisticians.

The number of passengers carried by the railways last year was more than double the number carried in 1896. The tonnage of freight carried was increased by 160 per cent. The bank deposits were more than trebled. The number of letters carried was nearly trebled. There may be a few countries in which this progress has been rivalled. But to say that the business of the world has been advancing at this prodigious rate is an assertion that will not be made by careful students of the world's advancement.

But the history of Canada in the last twelve years is not to be studied in statistics alone. Many things have contributed to make it a unique period, which historians will study as they study the period when responsible government was granted, the period when the provinces were federated, the period when the boundaries of Canada were extended to the Pacific Ocean. The growth has been so marvellous as to change the whole outlook, and to infuse a new spirit into Canadians. We may dispute over the question whether Canada has become a nation according to the law and the constitution, but Canada is surely a nation in fact, or is rapidly approaching that status.

The preferential tariff was a measure of tariff reduction; it greatly stimulated thought upon the general question of preferential trade within the Empire. But it also did much to enlarge the commercial freedom of Canada, and its liberty to make commercial arrangements within and beyond the Empire. Having acquired complete self-government in domestic affairs, Canada is step by step acquiring control over her relations with foreign countries. This is being done with the full consent and approval of the British Government, and this consent and approval are in accord with an enlightened view of the world-wide interests of the Empire. It is a good training for a young nation to manage its own international affairs. If a mistake is made, it is better that we should blame our own public men than burn with impotent rage against the public men of the United Kingdom.

In the matter of defence Canada has become more self-reliant in the last twelve years. The amount expended on defence has been increased from a little over one million to more than four millions. The garrisons at Halifax and Esquimalt, formerly maintained by Great Britain, have been taken over by Canada. Canada is not yet self-sustaining in the matter of defence, but greater progress has been made toward this end during the last twelve years than was made at any previous period since Confederation.

Above all, that which marks out Canada for distinction in the history of the last decade is the development of the West. To find a parallel for this, it would be necessary to go back to some period in the history of the United States in the nineteenth century, to the migration from the original States along the Atlantic to the Mississippi valley, or to the second migration to the Northwest and the Pacific Ocean. In the three last years of Conservative rule the immigration into the Canadian West was 56,454. In the three years 1904, 1905 and 1906, it was 465,500. Between 1901 and 1906 the population of the West has nearly doubled, and it is probably now close upon a million. But numbers alone cannot tell the tale. The character of the country, has virtually changed. The populated area is no longer a fringe along the southern border, served by one railway. It has gone northward four hundred miles, and still the movement is northward, so that the next great movement will be the peopling of the Peace River district. Two great new provinces have been created. Three transcontinental railway companies are eagerly competing for the privilege of carrying the Western grain. The railway to Hudson's Bay, long regarded as a dream of romance, is likely soon to be a realised fact. A new Canada has arisen between the lakes and the Rocky Mountains.—Toronto Star.

THE TARIFF AND PROGRESS.

Tariff matters cut little figure in the public discussion of issues relevant to the present campaign. Mr. Borden steers carefully clear of them, for good reasons to himself. His supporters in the West want a reduced tariff, some of his supporters in the East want a high tariff, and he has to tread gently. But some of his indiscreet followers in the East speak strongly to provide what they seem to think will meet local favour.

At the Conservative rally on Saturday night, Mr. Burnham, the Conservative candidate, is reported as saying: "If it were necessary to have a tariff as high as the clouds, I would have it so in order to develop this country of ours." This is rank nonsense. We have had some experience of such a tariff. When Mr. Burnham's friends, the Conservatives, were in power, they had a tariff literally "high as the clouds," for the clouds of depression hung pretty low in those days. It did not "develop this country of ours." We were in a bad way in those days; wages were low, revenue fell far short of expenditure. The money collected by "a tariff as high as the clouds" did not flow in the form of revenue; a large share of the money collected went into the pockets of highly-protected manufacturers and very little of it found its way into the pockets of the workingman. Times were dull, employment was scarce, wages low. Canada with its cloud-high tariff could not pay its way. Every year expenditure ran ahead of income, deficits were the rule. Things went on from bad to worse. The public debt grew at the rate of between five and six million dollars per year. Trade was dead. Canada was in a state of stagnation.

This is no over-drawn picture of the state of Canada after eighteen years' application of "a tariff as high as the clouds." Everybody old enough to remember the conditions twelve years ago, at the end of Conservative rule, would shudder to think of going back to those gloomy days.

Those facts show that "a tariff as high as the clouds" does not bring prosperity, that a country cannot tax itself rich. The Liberal Government came into power and dealt with the tariff in a business way. They readjusted it so that it would be a help instead of a hindrance. They took off the duty on raw material in the interests of manufacturers, and, of course, in the interests of the workingmen, on whom the manufacturers must depend.

What was the result? Why, everything went forward with a bound; wages got better, employment plentiful, and the workingman's condition was infinitely improved. What workingman who is old enough to recall the "good old days" would return to the dark days of Conservative rule and exchange them for the buoyant days he has enjoyed since the Liberals came into power?

What do the records show? They show that under a reduced Liberal tariff, but intelligently adapted to our conditions, manufacturing industries flourished as they never had done before. After eighteen years of a Conservative "tariff as high as the clouds," the total exports of Canadian manufactured products — representing manufacturing activity, representing wages paid to workingmen —amounted to only $9,365,384. Now, for the contrast to the manufacturing dullness brought by "a tariff as high as the clouds." As soon as the Liberal tariff became operative, the very next year, exports of Canadian manufactured products advanced to $10,676,316, and they advanced every year at the rate of two millions a year increase, till the total of the exports of Canadian manufactured products reached the sum of $28,567,124 in 1906, the increase of the last year, in spite of the temporary dullness in trade, being over nine millions over the figures of 1907. Is there any comparison between the two conditions? In 1896 the workingman got employment in proportion to an export of nine millions; in 1906 he got employment in proportion to an export of twenty-eight millions, a threefold improvement.

Again the advance of manufactures and the consequent improvement of the workingman's condition showed a steady improvement, growing stronger every year. An inter-census taken in 1905 showed the capital invested in manufactures to have doubled in five years. In 1900 the capital was four hundred and forty-six millions. In 1905 it had grown to eight hundred and thirty-three millions. The workingman got his share of the increase, too. In 1900 the total wages paid to labour in manufacturing industries was one hundred and thirteen millions. In five years it had grown to one hundred and sixty-two millions, an increase of fifty millions or ten millions a year.

How do we need a better tariff, a better fiscal policy, a better administration, in the interests of manufacturing and workingmen? Neither the manufacturer nor the workingman prospered under "a tariff as high as the clouds." Under the Liberal tariff, placed on a rational and permanent basis, both workingmen and manufacturers have prospered. Which does the country need? Which is in the interests of the country?

Workingmen and business men have no need to bother their brains with abstract economic questions. It is the result that counts. Under "a tariff as high as the clouds" from 1878 to 1896 we had dullness and despondency, and conditions yearly growing worse. Under a rational Liberal tariff, adjusted to assist manufacturer and workingman, and produce revenue, we have had buoyant and prosperous conditions. We have found the money to develop the resources of the country, to improve transportation, to people the West, to widen the home market, to increase wheat production, and bring back millions more from across the sea in exchange for our wheat, to quicken the pulses of commerce, and make Canada a country to be proud of. We want to make Canada the home of millions, the granary of the world. We shall not do that by closing it in with a tariff wall "as high as the clouds." It must be done by creating the conditions that make a nation.

We must work to bring about conditions in this country that will warrant our adoption of a paraphrase of the three last magnificent lines of Shakspere's "King John":

Come the four corners of the world in crowds,
And we shall feed them. Naught shall make us rue,
If Canada to itself do rest but true.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Toronto's population increased last years 14,000; Hamilton's 5,000 and Peterborough's 600. Thus we see how these wicked Grits are ruining the country. Peterborough, by the way, has no reason to be ashamed of her increase. It is many times greater in proportion to population than that of either Toronto or Hamilton.

Mr. Ames of Montreal, is the magic lantern orator of the Conservative party in this campaign and the false statements of his "spiel" become truly picturesque. He should come to Peterborough. The editor of the Review hasn't yet favoured the public with a publication of the former's essays sent in to show the ruinous effects of the Grand Trunk Pacific in Ontario farm values. Mr. Ames might put the essays on a slide and throw them on his canvas, since, apparently the Review has "let them slide."

The Mail and Empire has a slogan, "better men, better times." By better men we are to understand Conservatives like Mr. Foster, et al, and the "better times" are to come when they are placed in power. Does the experience of Canada encourage this idea? We had the "better men," Mr. Foster and his Conservative allies but did "better times" attend their administration? Does an experiment extending over 18 years with decay and stagnation, with retrogression instead of progress, encourage the people of Canada to repeat the experiment? No, the people will vote to retain in power a Liberal Government under which the country has grown and prospered.

Mr. Borden is quite too innocent to be referee at a Sunday School picnic games. After the Colchester bye-election which, as a matter of fact, as shown by the evidence of the courts was won by help of the expenditure of money and whisky shipped in in cases labelled "choice tomatoes," Mr. Borden declared the election was an "absolutely clean one" because, Mr. Stanefield, the Conservative candidate, had told him eighteen months previous that the election "would be run on absolutely clean lines." Mr. Borden knows by the sworn evidence of the courts that he accepted the support of an Opposition member elected by the foulest of corrupt methods. This should teach him more moderation than wholesale vituperation of his political opponents.

There are, says the Finance Chronicle, various indications of better trade conditions during September. Bank clearings and railroad earnings give formal testimony, supplied by other evidence less definite in appraisal but convincing withal. A Dominion Government loan of £5,000,000, consisting of 3 1-2 per cent. inscribed stock at par, was this week announced in the London market by the Bank of Montreal. This loan, like the July issue of similar amount at 3 3-4 per cent., is partly for the conversion of 4 per cent. borrowings, there being £2,250,000 of such maturing in November. The present lower rate indicates that something was gained by having recourse to short term notes rather than to ordinary long term issues during months of extreme money stringency. While all caution and foresight should be exercised in Canada's borrowings from abroad, only blindness to the country's real welfare counsels radical reduction in public expenditure solely because of a season of trade recession and reduced public revenues.—Finance Chronicle.

Guarantee and Recommend Vinol as the Best Cod Liver Preparation On the Market

It one person more than another should know the value of medicine it is the retail druggist.

For this reason such testimony as the following should be convincing.

C. A. Potterfield, the leading druggist of Charleston, W. Va., writes: "I have used Vinol for every member of my family, and have never been disappointed in its results. It is a pleasure to sell a remedy that gives such universal satisfaction."

Mr. J F Bradley, of New Brunswick, N. J., writes: "It is a pleasure to recommend the cod liver preparation, Vinol, as it gives such splendid satisfaction. I have used it in my family and can recommend it from experience."

As a body-builder and strength-creator for old people, delicate children, weak, run-down persons, after sickness, and for chronic coughs, colds, bronchitis, and all throat and lung troubles, Vinol is unexcelled. FESTIVAL SERVICE AT PARK ST. BAPTIST CHURCH

Largely Attended on Sunday—A Special Collection.

The Harvest Home Festival services at the Park Street Baptist Church on Sunday, were largely attended, and the occasion was a most interesting one. Two eloquent sermons appropriate to the event, were preached by the pastor, Rev. W. C. Riddiford. Special music had been prepared and the church was tastefully decorated with fruits and grains. A male quartette, composed of Messrs. Miller, Hayward, Dickson and Tranter, sang in the morning, and in the evening a solo was rendered by Mr. Miller in excellent voice. The special collection for the day, which was devoted to the Building Fund, amounted to $220, and the pastor announced that during the time he had been in Peterborough he had been successful in collecting a little over $500 towards the same purpose.

THE ELECTION OF OFFICERS

The Ministerial Association Hold Annual Meeting—Address by Canon Davidson

VISITING MINISTERS THERE

The Ministerial Association met yesterday morning in the Y.M.C.A. parlours, Rev. J R Webb, the president, in the chair. There were also present, Mr. Potter, Mr. Coon, Mr. Burns, Mr. Keith, Dr. Langfeldt, Mr. Pogue, Mr. Manning and Canon Davidson.

Rev. Mr. Johnston, Millbrook; Rev. Mr. Jones, Lakefield, and Rev. Mr. Kettlewell, of Toronto, were also present and were invited to sit with the Association.

Matters in reference to the Lord's Day Alliance were introduced by the President and it was decided to leave them in the hands of the different clergymen that they might bring them before the people of the different churches.

The annual meeting of the Bible Society was referred to and arrangements for it are left in the hands of Rev. Mr. Webb. Announcement was made of the proposed larger plans of work of the Y.W.C.A. and on hearing the matter the Association decided that all prayer meetings should be recalled on the night of Oct. 21, and a union meeting be held in St. Paul's church that night to listen to Dr. Elmore Harris.

A communication was received from the City Temperance Reform League, requesting a temperance Sunday in the near future. The matter was thoroughly explained by the Rev. Mr. Kettlewell. On motion it was decided to reserve Oct. 18th as Temperance Sunday in Peterborough. Further arrangements were left in the hands of the President and Secretary.

The election of officers for the ensuing year took place. In introducing this matter Rev. J R Webb, the retiring president, gave a brief interesting review of the past year, touching upon the outstanding features of the Association's work. The officers for the year are:—

President—Rev. H J Keith.
Vice-President—Rev. H M Manning.
Sec.-Treas.—Rev. E A Pearson.

Then followed a most interesting address from Canon Davidson on the Pan-Anglican Conference. He referred to the different meetings and places in which they were held and then touched upon some of the great problems discussed at the conference —matters of vital interest to Christendom. He modestly referred to his own address given at one of the large sectional meetings.

The address was much appreciated by the Association.

The president and secretary were asked to arrange a programme for the ensuing year. Rev. Mr. Pogue was asked to officiate in the branch of Upper Canada Tract Society that is to be formed here. Rev. Mr. Riddiford was appointed secretary.

Appointments for the hospital and old folks home for this month are as follows:

First week—Rev. W C Riddiford.
Second week—Rev. G W Henderson.
Third week—Rev. J G Potter.
Fourth week—Rev. Dr. Langfeldt.

HARWOOD HUNTER GOES NORTH

Dr. H. E. Merriam Passes Through Lindsay for Haunts of Big Game

Dr. H E Merriam, of Harwood, Ont., an enthusiastic and well known hunter, passed through town this morning for Fenelon Falls and the north. The doctor intends hunting in that district this fall and will spend the time, until the deer season opens, in the collecting of herbs and roots. He is noted for his knowledge of the medicinal properties of herbs found in these woods and annually spends considerable time in collecting these. It is an assured thing that Dr. Merriam will return later with his full quota of deer and other game.—Lindsay Warder.

Mr. Stratton Holds Splendid Meeting In Smith Township

Large Gathering in Temperance Hall Hears Addresses by Messrs. W. H. Meldrum, F. D. Kerr and Hon. Mr. Stratton

Temperance Hall, in the township of Smith, rarely sees such an audience as that which packed it last evening to hear a discussion of the political situation by friends of Mr. J. R. Stratton and the candidate himself, and if we can judge by the frequency and enthusiasm of the applause that punctuated the remarks of the speakers, and by the personal assurances given to Mr. Stratton at the close of the meeting, there can be no question that Smith will turn out one of its old-time majorities in favour of Mr. Stratton on October 26.

The meeting was organized by the election of Mr. T. H. Graham to the chair.

Mr. Graham briefly opened the meeting, remarking that they needed no introduction to Mr. Stratton whom they recognised as an old political war-horse.

Mr. F. D. Kerr.

Mr. F. D. Kerr was then introduced and expressing the pleasure it gave him to be there, and to see so large and intelligent a gathering of the electors, he said it was for them to choose between the two candidates, Mr. Stratton and Mr. Burnham, and the policies they represented, whom they regarded as best qualified to advance their interests and the interests of the country. Of Mr. Burnham he would ask, without any unkindness, can any one point to anything that he had ever done for the city or county of Peterborough in the 45 or 50 years of his life? On the other hand Mr. Stratton had represented the county for twenty years in the local house, and was known to be a man true and tried, and who had been singularly successful in securing benefits for the people of this county. He was known to all throughout the district as a friend and a familiar friend. Now, how many of you would, if you met him on the streets of Peterborough be able to recognize Mr. Burnham? And how many of you would Mr. Burnham recognize? (Laughter). But when you know J. R. Stratton you know him for keeps, and knowing him you couldn't fail to find out that it was a duty and a pleasure to vote for him. He was the best qualified by public experience to serve their welfare as he had done in the past. His usefulness had been improved by maturity and he was to-day more capable than ever of solid and effective service He knew the people and knew their needs. How many of them had read Mr. Burnham's address and if any have, could they tell after reading it what Mr. Burnham was talking about? (Laughter). If any man can say what, Mr. Burnham is driving at in that address he is certainly deserving of a prize. He recalled to their recollection that prior to 1896 had been a period of discouragement, of debt, of decreasing values, and increasing mortgages on the farms. To-day what do we find? The mortgages wiped out, farm buildings gone up, new and better farm houses erected, and to-day, if a farmer wanted for some special purpose a few hundred dollars more than he had in the bank, where would he go to get it? He would go to his farmer neighbour, who would have it to lend. And this was the fruit of the policy which had been applied to their public affairs by Sir Wilfrid Laurier. (Applause). Mr. Burnham had pronounced himself opposed to that policy, and it was the principle of what Sir John Macdonald called the National Policy, perfected and adopted to the promotion of the industrial interests of the country. Mr. Burnham had taken the position that the opening up of the Great West for expansive settlement by the prosecution of railways to make markets for the settlers out there was a mistake. Sir John Macdonald, however, they might regard his methods, was a great man, and a patriotic man, and his most earnest thought for the advancement of his country had been for the development of the resources of the golden west. And yet, poor man, he had gone to his reward without ever having known that J. Ham. Burnham did not approve of his policies. In the remarkable development of the West that had resulted, the great grain products of that wonderful land are carried to great Britain to be returned in gold which in its turn comes to the manufacturers of Peterborough and of other towns, increasing population, enlarging employment, and creating a profitable home market for the farmer. The young men who go west to open up the country, thus, do not rob but enrich Ontario. The results of his enterprise and industry come back to benefit you and me, and aid in the development of this great country. In spite of Mr. Burnham's disapproval the only fault to be found with the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific enterprise was that it had not been commenced sooner. Even Mr. Roblin of Manitoba, the most reckless and irresponsible of the Opposition's spellbinders had been compelled at Peterborough to admit that it was a necessity, and as a result of the enterprise and energy of the Government there were now upwards of a thousand miles of that great undertaking opened into Winnipeg for the carrying of the crops of the settlers in the new country which this road had rendered possible of development. Now, Mr. Laurier, Mr. Sifton, Mr. Oliver, did not make the North West, but by introducing reform in methods of administration concerning it, by providing transportation facilities in advance of settlement, by effecting conditions facilitating the exchange of the products of the prairies for British money and again for the manufactured products of Eastern Canada, they had made that North West something helpful and something hopeful for the welfare and progress of Canada. He himself did not believe in extremes. He believed there was too much abuse poured out upon the heads of public men of Canada. If Mr. Burnham had a policy why did he not say so. He had issued an address to the electors which was not in any sense a discussion of affairs, but simply a tirade of abuse, and yet he asks you to send him to Parliament. He referred to the claims of the Opposition press of corruption and waste in regard to the Ross rifle. The public were led to believe that to enrich its favourites the Government was compelling the defenders of the country to use a weapon which every time it was employed endangered their lives. Yet at that great match at Bisley, where the crack shots and the finest arms of the world were employed the Ross rifle so outclassed all other arms, that it was admitted even by Tory papers to be the finest arm of precision in the world, and that the Bee-Enfield would be rendered obsolete. That was one illustration of the buncombe talk of the reckless opponents of the Government. Mr. Roblin of Manitoba had come in here and told them that he and Mr. Borden and a few others were all good men, but that all the others, who sustained the Government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier were black sheep. When Mr. Roblin became premier of Manitoba he found a heritage belonging to the people of 500,000 square acres of public lands. In the short time that he had been in power, he had already got rid of it to the extent of 400,000 acres, and this not to encourage settlement, but it had been sold in blocks to the land sharks and land speculators, who held it for such high prices that the young man who goes out there to locate for settlement is compelled to go to the far West. The Government at Ottawa had never divested the country of one single acre of the public domain of the West except for the purpose of actual settlement. He alluded to the Crow's Nest bugaboo in which it was sought to make it appear that the Government had squandered the coal lands for political favourites. The land in question was the property of the Province of British Columbia. The only action of the Dominion Government was to ensure the setting aside of 50,000 acres of these coal lands in trust for the people of this country to ensure an adequate coal supply to the people of the West at a cheap rate, to compel the C. P. R. to abandon certain concessions they enjoyed, and to grant freight rates of great advantage to the people, and to also ensure the carriage of the products and the business of that country to Canadian markets over Canadian routes, instead of having it diverted to the benefit of the United States. He concluded by asking them to see that the good old township of Smith was not led away by any of these cries, but would roll up such a majority for Mr. Stratton in this election as would demonstrate their appreciation of his past services and his power for future usefulness to their interests. (Loud applause).

Mr. W. H. Meldrum.

Mr. W. H. Meldrum, who followed, said Mr. Stratton was an old friend of the people of Smith and also of the people of Peterborough. The manufacturers and the business men and the workingmen of Peterborough looked upon Mr. Stratton as the mainstay of their public enterprises. He desired to call attention to the cry of his opponents that Mr. Laurier was kept in power by the Province of Quebec. This was not true, but had not Sir John Macdonald been maintained in office also by that province. It only proved that the people of Quebec were not bigoted, but liberal-minded. As for Sir Wilfrid Laurier, he believed there was not a man to-day in the Dominion of Canada, and perhaps not in the British Empire, who was the equal in commanding ability, in eloquence, and in patriotic earnestness, of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and they had all felt proud when at the Queen's jubilee, his figure, representative of Canada, had towered above all others and commanded the respect and attention not only of Britain, but of Europe. The opposition are fond of repeating that Sir Wilfrid's success is due to the fact, as they claim, that he "stole the national policy." They knew what the then so-called national-policy had done, or rather not done, up to 1896, and the great results that had ensued for Canada since that date proved that at least no matter how he came by the national policy he was making a much better job of it. Mr. Laurier knew how to organize and harmonize all the interests that make for common progress, and the first thing to which he turned his attention was the improvement of transportation facilities. He recognized, as we do, that the welfare of the farmer is the backbone of national success, and that the first thing to do was to look after the farmers' welfare. By the provision of adequate transportation facilities, for the first time the farmer was enabled to secure the maximum value for the products of the soil, the dairy and of animal industry. He quoted figures showing the remarkable expansion that had been effected both in the volume of the farmer's products, and in the returns which he received from the consuming markets, which added to his income and produced the prosperity that he enjoyed. And as the development of the farmer's progress benefited the interests of the towns, so the opening up of the Great West with such unrivalled success had also given to the factories and industrial enterprises of the east an enlarged market, a greater volume of business and vastly expanded the field of employment for labour. And this in turn had provided new and profitable local markets for our farmers in their neighbouring towns. He quoted figures proving the unexampled progress of the national prosperity by the wonderful increase in imports and exports, in the volume of foreign trade, which had been accomplished under the sagacious management of the Liberal Government. He pointed out how the Intercolonial Railway, long known as the deficit mill in national enterprises, was now returning revenues to the nation. When the opposition politicians cried out about the $27,000,000 expenditure for the Grand Trunk Pacific, he was reminded of vast amounts in cash subventions, grants of land of incalculable value, that had been given to the Canadian Pacific. And he believed the Canadian Pacific had been one of the grandest investments that a country had ever made and had justified in the wonderful development of population and production which it had accomplished, and in the national wealth which it had created all that had been done to aid it in its early career. And the Grand Trunk Pacific opening up an entirely new and non-competitive country, with equally fertile resources, would in the same way prove to be a potent means of advancing Canada, in wealth and progress and material greatness. He dwelt upon the importance to the country and to this district in particular of the Trent Valley Canal contracts for the completion of which from the Georgian Bay to the Trent had been now let. In three years vessels from Oswego and Rochester and Ogdensburg would be able to reach our doors, and a result would be the reduction in the cost of coal to the consumer here of $1.25 per ton, and an increase in the price of grain sent out, by lessening the cost of transportation which must be charged against the product before the residue accruing to the producer is determined. Mr. Stratton during his whole lifetime, in season and out of season, and in his newspaper had never let up in his promotion of this great enterprise till to-day contracts for the work from the Georgian Bay to the Bay of Quinte are under way. He (Mr. Meldrum) in Dominion politics had always been a Conservative though he had supported Mr. Stratton for the Legislature, but he believed that Mr. Laurier by his statesmanship, by his eloquence, and by the great achievements that had attended the twelve years of his administration of public affairs, had so entrenched himself in the hearts of his countrymen, that he ought to be and would be maintained in power to continue his work of usefulness for his country. (Applause). Referring to his friend, Mr. Stratton, they heard lots of things, always from his opponents, endeavouring to depreciate Mr. Stratton's public service. But we, who know him well, know that he is in his true place where he is, and that he is incomparably the best man before us to represent us in Parliament. He alluded to the high and responsible positions held by Mr. Stratton in the great financial institutions of the province, and said that he would not have been selected for and maintained in these positions if he were not capable, if he were not trustworthy, and that in a more than ordinary measure. (Applause). He hoped that consideration for past services, recognition of his ability for future usefulness to this constituency and firm belief in his integrity and fidelity to every trust would lead the people of Smith to do their share to swell the majority which Mr. Stratton would receive on October 26, from his fellow-citizens of West Peterborough. (Loud Applause).

Hon. Mr. Stratton.

Hon. Mr. Stratton, who received a round of hearty applause, apologised on account of a weakness of the throat for making a conversation rather than a speech. He was pleased to see so many ladies present to testify their interest. He had owed much in former elections to the sympathy and interest of the ladies, and he took the presence of the ladies of Smith on this occasion as an earnest that this township would give him in one of its old-time majorities. (Cheers). This election was an important one, for it was not only that the candidate was to be elected to represent the interests of Peterborough alone, but to take his share in moulding the destinies of a great and growing nation. He himself, had been unwarrantably and unreasonably assailed in this campaign. When he was a member of the Ontario Government, he had also been more savagely attacked than any of his colleagues, and they knew the reason. It was because he had been more active in opposing the assaults of the enemy, and they knew it was the leader in battle who was always exposed to the fiercest fire. He recalled the fact that when he relinquished his position as provincial secretary, which was at the head of the spending department of the Government, he had issued a statement releasing all the clerks and subordinates who had served under him from any sense of a closed mouth, from any obligation of personal loyalty, and invited them, if there had been any wrongdoing in his department under his administration, to disclose it. Their opponents had proclaimed that if they could only get at the books of the province, they would show the corruption and misdoing of the Ross administration. Well, they had now had these books a long time in their possession, and they had not shown, and could not show, and would not be able to show, if they searched till the crack of doom the misdirection or misuse of the fraction of a cent in the department over which he had presided. (Applause). He had retired from private business reasons that pressed upon him from politics, but when the present campaign came on he had felt that the time had arrived when he could again feel justified in re-entering public life, and he was considering the representation of East Peterborough when he received a letter from Mr. Hall, their late member, that he could not and would not again be a candidate and urging him (Mr. Stratton) to permit his name to be placed before the convention. He had requested Mr. Hall to reconsider his determination, and even up to the day of nomination had sought to induce him to consent to run again, but Mr. Hall was firm in his refusal, and so it was that he (Mr. Stratton) had become a candidate for their suffrages. In accepting this nomination, he had done so as a Liberal, but he reserved to himself the right to exercise his judgment upon public matters, and to vote according to his convictions of the public good upon questions as they may arise. We had had experienced twelve years of Liberal rule. They knew what the conditions were in 1896 and they knew also what they were to-day. Mr. Laurier found on assuming office that the national policy was not what it ought to be; that to accomplish results the strings must be loosened. Even Mr. Foster recognised this when referring to it he had said the mouldering branches must be lopped off. The Government had facilitated the introduction of raw material and had consulted the business welfare of our factories and as a result they were now prosperous. He instanced the local companies which had progressed from out of serious difficulties in 1896, to become dividend-producing undertakings under the wise policy of the Government, thus giving enlarged and satisfactory employment and benefitting the town and county. This could not have been done under the old policy. We in Peterborough could look back to 1896 when we had one tall chimney whose smoke never darkened the sky. Now we had many prosperous industrial enterprises, our population has been increased from 9,000 to 17,000; farm lands have increased in value, and the farmer to-day has a market at his doors that he did not have in 1896. In that year we were looking to the United States for a market for the disposal of our stock and produce. Through rearrangement of the duties, and expansion and improvement of transportation facilities we are to-day sending our products to the mother country, Great Britain. He did not believe anyone would want to alter these conditions and return to those of 1896. (Applause).

Four years ago they had voted for the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific railway. Their opponents had declaimed against it as unnecessary, but the conditions to-day show that the existing railway facilities could not adequately handle the enormous grain products of the West so as to enable the settlers to get their wheat promptly and profitably to market. This proved the wisdom of the policy of the Government and the advantage of the energetic and far-seeing policy pursued under which we had now 885 miles of completed railway carrying grain from Edmonton to Winnipeg; 1,265 miles graded and ready for the rails, and 1,255 miles east to Moncton, N. B., under contract, which would open up in Ontario and Quebec new sources of agricultural, forest and mineral wealth. As the result grain was now being transported over this new railway from a vast country that up to two years ago had never felt the touch of the plough, and thus a new national resource was developed and a new source of national wealth and prosperity brought into being. Hence we do not any more have our boys going to Dakota and Minnesota for agricultural opportunity, and that is as it should be. In its arrangements for the construction of this great work Canada will have only to pay the interest on the cost of construction, and this was being kept by the vigilance of the Grand Trunk Pacific Company in seeking contracts, to the lowest point. By means of this enterprise the iron horse had been brought to the doors of the western settler, and the product of his industry is thus enabled to be converted into capital, which in turn comes to Ontario for the ploughs and harrows, shovels and looks, etc., which he requires. And so again is expanded in these manufacturing towns a ready local market for the farmer. Mr. Stratton gave figures illustrating the national advance in every department of productive energy, and showed that through this enormous increase in business, accomplished by the policy of the Government our factories had been kept busy, and new and profitable markets found for the products of the farm, all of which showed the wisdom and sagacity applied to the administration of the tariff by the Liberal Government. He sketched the great advance accomplished in augmenting the exports of the dairy and other farm products, and said that was due to the fact that the Department of Agriculture, formerly presided over by a brewer, was now administered by Hon. Sidney Fisher, a practical farmer who knew the needs of the farming interest and all about the conditions that affected them. He detailed the so-called Crow's Nest Railway business, about which so much buncombe had been talked, showing that no Dominion lands whatever had been concerned, that the action of the Government had not only secured for the settlers cheap coal, and reduced transportation rates, and the carrying trade to be secured for Canadian lines, and filled the district from Lethbridge down into the Kootenay country with thriving towns and villages, but in addition, the 50,000 acres of coal lands which the Government had reserved for the people, were worth many times in value the amount of the subsidy involved in the arrangement. He referred to the origin of the Temiscamingue Railway, which he had been amongst the first to suggest, which had been carried forward by the Government, and completed to the G. T. Pacific line by their successors. He believed that line would develop a splendid and resourceful country and that when it was fairly filled by agricultural enterprises and diversified industries of the forest, the mine, and the factory, it would become a steadying power, preserving a wise balance between the extreme protectionist of the east and the extreme free trader of the west. Referring to the bogy of Quebec's domination, he said that it was enough to answer that if Quebec today were wiped off the face of the earth. Premier Laurier would still have a majority of fifteen or twenty. And it would be found that after this election his support would be sufficient without considering Quebec. There is no man in Canada who can compare with him in his extraordinary ability, his incomparable eloquence, and the stick-to-it-iveness, and tenacity of purpose that enables him to achieve results. Some men are loved for the enemies they have made and some are loved for the friends they have acquired, and in both these respects Sir Wilfrid Laurier has a powerful hold upon the admiration, esteem and confidence of his countrymen. He referred to the squandering of the resources of Manitoba by the premier who had been criticizing in a violent and reckless manner the Ottawa Government, and pointed out that not one single acre of Dominion public lands had ever been parted with except to the actual settler. (Applause.) He referred to a new enterprise now being organized by the Government which would prove of incalculable advantage and benefit of every individual farmer—the system of Rural Free Mail Delivery, whereby every farmer wil have his mail delivered at his gate every day of his life. Think of the boon that this will be to the farmer, in a direct and pecuniary way. He won't have to take a day off when he is urgently needed at home, to visit the post office, and, perhaps, find news that would have been most important to him if he had had it before. He will be kept in direct touch with the fluctuations of the market, and will be kept accurately posted when to sell, and when it is to his advantage to hold his products in his barn. (Cheers.) This great boon not only shows the live and sincere interest of Mr. Laurier's Government in the welfare of the farmer, but it would not have been possible or practicable if it had not been for the splendid administration of our postal service during the past decade, which has given the county increased efficiency, and, at the same time, converted a department long noted for its deficits, into the producer of a surplus, which is wisely to be employed to create this great benefit to the farmers of the Dominion.

Would it not be an insult to the intelligence of any farmer in West Peterborough to suppose that he would vote to destroy this beneficent policy of the Government, and restore the old conditions that prevailed prior to 1896?

Mr. Stratton concluded by asking the electors, irrespective of their political leanings, to consider the situation as things are. Did they wish to return to the old order of things? Was it not better to allow the government that had commenced and so far successfully prosecuted the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific undertaking, to carry it to completion? Was it not better to allow the Government that had given evidence of its earnestness in the construction of the Trent Valley Canal, and had carried it already so far to the desired result, who had faith in its importance to the public interests, to carry this enterprise also to completion? Had Peterborough been as well served, as considerately treated and as generously dealt with by any other government in the history of Canada? Have we not in our city everywhere monuments of usefulness and importance to our interests that bear eloquent testimony to the sincere concern of the Government in our welfare, and their desire to aid in our progress? Is it not better that the Hudson Bay railway should be completed by its projectors, who recognize its importance to the settlers of the West, than by those who deny its utility, and who might possibly abandon its construction? Have not our canals been enlarged, our general transportation facilities expanded and improved, and every possible administrative measure taken that could be devised to promote our trade and commerce, extend our industries, create new markets and multiply the opportunities for profitable employment for both labour and capital? Recognizing all this, as all fair-minded men must recognize it, do not your sense of justice, your concern for the welfare of your country, and your regard for your personal interest, unite in convincing you that you are justified at this time, regardless of any political tendency, to vote in this election in favour of the Government which has accomplished so much, and of myself in this contest? I am content to leave you to be the judges of my qualification to render you effective and useful service in Parliament, and I confidently appeal to my past record as a sufficient assurance of the character and competency of my future labour in your behalf. (Loud cheers).

A vote of thanks was tendered to the chairman; three rousing cheers for Hon. Mr. Stratton were given with a will, and three cheers for the King and the ladies closed a most successful meeting.

Mr. Tanner's Successful Meeting At Keene Last Night

Col. Thompson of Ottawa Makes a Convincing Address Comparing the Two Parties—Favourable Impression Made by the Candidate

ATTENDANCE WAS LARGE

Examiner Special

The campaign of Mr. E. A. Tanner, Liberal candidate in East Peterborough, was successfully continued last evening when a meeting in his interests was held in the town hall, Keene. There was a large audience present, the fair sex being well represented and the candidate was given a most favourable reception while the applause that greeted the remarks of the speakers tended to show in no uncertain manner the feelings of the electors of that district. Mr. Jas. McNeill was elected chairman and the first speaker was Ald. Geo. A. Gillespie of Peterborough, who in a short address urged upon the electors the desirability of them supporting Mr. Tanner and the Laurier Government. The candidate, Mr. Tanner made a telling speech in which he pointed out the prosperity that the country had enjoyed under the wise rule of the Liberal Government.

Col. Thompson, of Ottawa, followed with a masterly address and his remarks were attentively listened to and warmly applauded during the sixty minutes in which he addressed the audience.

He pointed out that the three great requisites of good government were honesty, economy and enterprise. In connection with the first of these he referred to the unblemished character of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and noted that while the other great political leader, Sir John A. Macdonald was proven guilty of widespread corruption in connection with the Pacific scandal in 1872, no stain had ever rested upon the political honour of Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Passing from Premiers to members of the Cabinet, Col. Thompson called the attention of the audience to the fact that in the days of Conservative rule one of its most powerful ministers, Sir Hector Langevin, was personally charged with corruption and driven into private life, while, on the other hand, no Liberal Cabinet Minister had ever had any specific charge laid against him personally. In regard to private members of Parliament, the speaker pointed out that, while, during the Conservative regime, Thomas McGreevy, Conservative member of Parliament, was charged with corruption, found guilty of the same, and sent to jail for six months, not one single member of Parliament had been personally accused by Mr. Borden, Mr. Foster, and their followers.

Col. Thompson next dealt with the administration of departments, and pointed out that when suspicions of grafting arose, Sir Wilfrid Laurier appointed a commission of independent men to investigate the charge. These in their report had confirmed the suspicions in the case of one department, but refused to name the evil-doers. Sir Wilfrid immediately appointed Judge Cassels to minutely investigate the department and to find the guilty parties. When their guilt was proven, the speaker remarked, they would be summarily punished. Of the three officials most under suspicion, two were appointed by the late Conservative Government.

The speaker dealt fully with the alleged timber limit and Saskatchewan Valley Lands Company scandals and completely demolished them to the satisfaction of the audience. Passing on to the next head of his speech, that of economy, he first dealt in a general way with the increase in expenditure, comparing it with the large increase in foreign trade bank assets, deposits in banks, and railway traffic. He then took up the expenditure and rapidly demonstrated that the increased millions spent had brought magnificent returns, and that while Foster with his small expenditure had even then spent more than he was taking in, Fielding with his large and commendable expenditure last year expended actually $19,000,000 less than came into the Dominion treasury. One of the speaker's most telling points was in connection with the provincial subsidies. He showed that the Liberals last year returned to the provinces nearly $5,000,000 more than did the Conservatives under Mr. Foster, and emphasized the fact that while the large sums greatly swelled the expenditure, it was after all but a distribution of the Liberal surplus to lighten the burdens of the tax payers in the provinces.

In connection with the enterprises of the Liberal Government, Col. Thompson emphasized the establishment of cold storage for farm products, the reduction of postal rates and the building of the National Transcontinental Railway. He further pointed out that the Government was as much alive as ever to the needs of the people and had mapped out a further programme of progress and development for the future, the chief features of which were free rural mail delivery, and the building of a railway to Hudson's Bay as a further outlet for the rapidly increasing products of the Northwest Territories.

Mr. R. F. McWilliams was the last speaker and dealt for some time with the records of the two parties.

The meeting closed with the usual cheers for the King, the Premier and the candidate.

LECTURE ON PILGRIM'S PROGRESS

Given at Knox Church Guild Meeting by Rev. Mr. Keith.

At the Young People's Guild meeting of Knox Church last night, a literary evening was held. The president, Mr. Patten, presided. The meeting opened with the hymn, "Stand Up, Stand Up For Jesus," and after devotional exercises Rev. Mr. Keith kindly gave the Young People an interesting lecture on "Pilgrims' Progress," and illustrated it by lantern slides, showing how Christians had to fight against temptation and meet with difficulty and despair. And last, overcoming these, he obtains the final victory and reward in heaven. The lecture was enjoyed by all, being very instructive. Mr. Roy Mensies assisted in working the lantern in a very acceptable manner.

OBITUARY

MR. ALEXANDER RUTHERFORD

The intelligence of the death of Mr. Alexander Rutherford, at Oshawa, will be learned with deep regret by many citizens of Peterborough. He was a former resident of Peterborough, and a man whom everybody respected who knew him. He passed away on Monday afternoon, and his friends here received the news of his death yesterday evening. The deceased had passed the half century mark and had been a sufferer for some time as the result of a paralytic stroke. While living here he was a well known contractor and builder, and only left this city about six months ago. He was a past grand of Otonabee Lodge I.O.O.F., and that lodge with Peterborough Lodge, will attend the funeral on Wednesday evening in a body. The deceased was also a member of Court Peterborough C. O. F. Ald. Morgan, Mrs. John A. McWilliams, of Ashburnham; Mrs. Wm. Rombough, and Mr. Wm. Rutherford, Otonabee, are relatives left to mourn his loss. The funeral will be held on Wednesday afternoon upon the arrival of the 1.20 G. T. R. train from Oshawa, and interment will take place in Little Lake Cemetery.

SUMMARY OF FRUIT CROP

Weather Conditions Favourable for Some Fruits—Winter Fruits Ripening Prematurely

CANADIAN APPLE PRICES

The fruit crop report as presented by Mr. A. McNeill, chief of the Fruit Division of the Dominion Department of Agriculture branch of the Cold Storage Commissioner, is as follows:

Weather conditions have been fairly favourable for plums, peaches and grapes, but not for pears and winter apples.

Apples—Early and fall fruit nearly all harvested. Winter fruit ripening prematurely, and dropping, reducing the crop already below medium.

Peaches—All harvested but a few late varieties. Prices have been below the average.

Plums—Nearly all harvested except in northern districts.

Tomatoes have ripened too rapidly for the canning factories, but are of excellent quality.

Cranberries—A good crop. There is a demand for the Canadian berries in the United States.

Insects and Fungous Diseases—Have developed slightly this month. Pink rot has developed to a serious extent.

Winter apples in the United States have depreciated in quantity and quality.

Prices for Canadian pears and apples in Great Britain have been good, and shipments larger than usual.

RING WORM AND DANDRUFF

They are Each Caused by a Pestiferous Germ

Ringworm and dandruff are somewhat similar in their origin; each is caused by a parasite. The germ that causes dandruff digs to the root of the hair and saps its vitality, causing falling hair, and finally baldness. Without dandruff there would never be baldness, and to cure dandruff it is necessary to kill the germ. There has been no hair preparation that would do this until the discovery of Newbro's Herpicide, which positively kills the dandruff germ, allays itching instantly, and makes hair glossy and soft as silk. Take no substitute. There is nothing "just as good." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Two sizes, 50c and $1. McDermid & Jury and the Market Drug Store, Special Agents.

The Horticultural Society Gets Usual Grant From The Council; Routine Business Transacted

The Communications and Reports Dealt With Last Night—Some By-laws Were Passed

OTHER BUSINESS DONE

The montaly meeting of the City Council was held last night in the Council Chambers when a considerable amount of routine business was transacted. Most of the standing committees had reports to make, a number of communications were dealt with and some bylaws were passed.

There were present Mayor Russ, Aldermen Johnston, Elliott, Butler, Bradburn, Turner, Neill, McIntyre, Morrow and Phelan.

Property Committee

The Property Committee's report, as follows, was carried:

Your Property Committee beg leave to report and recommend that an increase of salary of $50 be given to Robt. Wilson, caretaker, for additional work in looking after the fire in the City Buildings.

Fire, Water and Light

The Fire, Water and Light Committee recommended as follows:

1—That the Peterborough Light & Power Co. be instructed to place an arc lamp at the corner of Smith and Park streets, and one at the corner of Smith and Fairbairn streets, provided the council of the township of Smith agrees to pay one-third of the cost of the latter lamp for five years.

2—That a reward of $25 be offered for information that will lead to the conviction of anyone sending a false alarm of fire in.

E. H. D. Hall, City Solicitor, stating that the Council of Peterborough had no authority to assist the township of Cavan to open up a highway, wholly in said township.

John Fife, the foreman of the last Grand Jury, enclosing report of that body to His Honour Mr. Justice Magee.

H. C. Small, secretary of the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board, enclosing a copy of Dr. Helen McMurchy's application for a regulation fixing the height of street car steps.

2—That the City Solicitor be requested to notify all those who have not paid for their connection with the outfall sewer, and request them to do so at once.

3—That the usual grant of $550 be made to the Agricultural Society on the usual conditions.

4—That the City Treasurer's office be kept open on pay nights until 8 o'clock.

Communications

Communications were received and read from the following:

City Treasurer, reporting neglect of several ratepayers (names were given) to pay for the privilege of connecting with the outfall sewer on Lock street.

T. J. Moore, City Clerk of Guelph, in reference to the laws respecting the inspection of meats and milk supplied the citizens. Guelph City Council has decided that the laws, to be effective, require to be amended, and the City Council of Peterborough was requested to petition the Provincial Legislature to that effect.

Secretary of the Board of Trade, drawing the attention of the Council to the resolutions passed at the last meeting of the Board in reference to the desirability of completing the equipment of the firehall so that the city will be placed in Class A by the underwriters.

F. Bartlett, applying for appointment by Council to take the necessary levels of the district to be drained by the proposed new outfall sewer.

Thos. Gunn complained of the condition of the street at the corner of London and Gilchrist streets, and of the water after a heavy rain.

D W Dumble, police magistrate, notifying the City Council that he had convicted Walter Moore, son of David Moore, a lad under 12 years, for stealing a bicycle, and that the boy had been sent to the Victoria Industrial School for an indefinite period, not exceeding five years, and that the corporation would be called upon to pay $1.25 per week for his maintenance.

Auburn Woollen Mills, declaring that in return for their fixed assessment of $40,000 for 10 years they will employ 120 hands for 10 months of the year, and will not oppose the construction of any local improvements such as sewer, walks, etc., undertaken by the city during that time.

By-laws Passed

The following bylaws were carried:

Bylaw No. 1413, to authorize a grant of $550 to the Peterborough Horticultural Society.

Bylaw No. 1414, to authorize an increase of $50 per year in the salary of Robt. Wilson, caretaker of the City Buildings.

Bylaw No. 1415, to authorize the construction of certain granolithic sidewalks as local improvements.

Bylaw No. 1416, to authorize the execution of a least with the Grand Trunk Railway for a bridge over the Chemong bridge.

Ald. Morrow moved, seconded by Ald. Phelan, that the Fire, Water and Light Committee be requested to place two more incandescent lamps on Weller street.—Carried.

Ald. Johnston referred to the fact that a light was badly needed at the corner of Sherbrooke and Aylmer streets.

The matter was referred to the Fire, Water and Light Committee, on motion of Ald. Phelan and Ald. Morrow.

Brigadier Roberts Begins A Revival Campaign To-morrow

Will Be in The City Until Next Monday—A Special Effort to Win Souls—A Well Known Revivalist

WILL BE SPECIAL SINGING

Brigadier John Roberts, from the International Headquarters of the Salvation Army will pay a visit to the local corps on Oct. 7th to 12th. The brigadier is one of the Salvation Army's most successful Evangelists, having been an officer in its ranks for more than 30 years, has read the Bible through at least once every year during that period, and has seen thousands of parents and children converted to God. He has the names of hundreds of children with whom he has prayed and whom he has led to the Lord Jesus, and has letters from numbers of them describing their conversion and experience.

The brigadier will give a lecture on Monday, October 12th, his subject being "A Month's Experience in a Prison Cell." Chair to be taken at 8 p.m. Dr. Campbell, in expressing his appreciation of the lecture when labouring in Staffordshire, England, said: "I should like the whole Church to hear it."

The Rushden "Echo" says: "Probably the most remarkable lecturer who has ever visited Rushden is Brigadier Roberts of the Salvation Army, who on Wednesday evening last lectured in the Salvation Army Barracks, Rushden:" 'One Month in Prison." The brigadier is not only a born humourist, but is an almost unconscious rhymester in fact, his prose, as he utters it, almost runs itself into poetry. In many respects he is the nearest approach to the great genius Peter McKenzie, that we have ever heard. To do full justice to the brigadier we should require more than cold type, black ink, and white paper, at the very least we should require a cinematograph and a gramophone But this we can say—that those who heard the lecture will probably never forget it.

Thrilling and fascinating as the lecture was, there was something deeper than wit and humour. There was a wonderful pathos, there was much shrewd common-sense, there were flashes of genius, and there was a real grip of spiritual truth.

It is hoped that the building will be filled every meeting, and the local corps is anticipating a mighty Pentecost, with hundreds of souls converted.

On Thursday and Friday afternoon at three o'clock there will be public Bible readings by the brigadier to which all are invited.

MOTHER OF TWO LOCAL MERCHANTS IS DEAD

Mrs. Jos. Braund Passed Away at Oshawa Yesterday After Year's Illness.

Mr. R. C. Braund and Mr. J. T. Braund, local general merchants, left this morning for Oshawa, accompanied by their wives, after receiving the sad intelligence of the death of their mother yesterday. The latter, Mrs. Jos. Braund, was striken with paralysis a year ago, almost to the hour, and has been gradually sinking during the intervening months.

The surviving children are Messrs. R. C. and J. T. Braund, of Peterborough; J. W. Braund, of North Toronto; J. H. Braund, of Edmore, N. D.; Frank Braund, of Oshawa; Mrs. John Pound, Mrs. Thos. Stacey, and Mrs. Thos. Gale, of Oshawa.

The funeral will be held on Wednesday to the Union Cemetery, Oshawa.

Messrs. William, Nelson, Robert and Walton Routley, of this city, are nephews of the deceased.

All those interested in the American and National league games will be able to get to-days scores from the Examiner bulletins to-night. If you have a 'phone call up 234 and we will be pleased to give you the scores as they are received.

WORK THAT WEAKENS

Booth's Kidney Pills Have Done Great Service For People Who Work in Peterborough

Many Peterborough people work every day in some strained unnatural position, bending constantly over a desk, riding on jolting waggons or cars, bending over heavy house work, lifting, reaching, pulling, all these strains tend to wear, weaken and injure the kidneys until they fall behind in their work of filtering the poisons from the blood. Booth's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys, put new strength in bad backs, Peterborough cures prove it.

Mrs. J E Booth, 631 Water street, Peterborough, Ont., says:—"I cannot speak too highly of Booth's Kidney Pills as I have found more actual results in one box of them than in all else I had previously tried. For over a year I had suffered with headaches and spells of dizziness. I became so weak that I would have to support myself to keep from falling. My back was tender and a heavy, bearing-down pain had settled across the small of it. Numerous prescriptions had failed to give me any relief. I procured Booths' Kidney Pills at the Market Drug Store. They quickly cured me. I have no trouble since and am stronger than in a year previous. Although I am averse to having my name used I feel that everyone should know of such a valuable remedy."

HOUEDRY'S NEW CHOP MILL

A Powerful Grinder Installed in the Old Bridge Works and Doing Good Trade

Attention is directed to the advertisement of Houedry's new chopping mill, which appears in another column. Mr. Houedry has installed a powerful mill in the bridge works opposite Ackerman's wholesale harness warehouse. This special mill is particularly adapted for the grinding and chopping of all kinds of grain, peas, etc., and has a speed of 2,500 revolutions per minute. Already a good trade is done, and farmers' orders will have special attention, and all transactions will be done promptly and on pure business lines. Mr. Houedry will also sell flour, feed, etc., for which he solicits the patronage of all who require the same.

Don't make any appointments for Tuesday & Wednesday nights, the 3th, 4th of November. All theCom torts of Home will be played in the Grand Opera House by local talent on those nights.

The Best Linoleums and Oilcloths Come from Scotland

We believe only in the best. The best is none too good for us, and the only thing good enough for our customers. In getting in our stock of Fall Linoleums and Oilcloths, we have called upon Scotland to supply us. It is going a long way but these pretty, durable and economical Oilcloths and Linoleums are worth the trouble. Housewives who have ever covered a floor with Linoleum admit that the genius who invented it solved the puzzling floor problem once and for all.

Next to Linoleum come Oilcloths, not so durable and not so costly. We are showing them in many pretty patterns at 25c and 35c a yard.

Our Scotch Linoleums embody all the well known and justly famous designers. They come in new designs which are entirely different from any that have been shown in this vicinity, and you will find them most desirable.

Some are very pretty Linoleums for bedrooms, which many of our customers are using instead of carpets and mattings.

Linoleums come in two and four yard widths and are priced from 35c to $1.50 a square yard.

Great Interest Shown In The Big Ball Game On Saturday

The local members of the Peterborough baseball club had a lively practise at Riverside Park this afternoon, in preparation for the big game with St. Andrew's of Toronto, on Saturday afternoon. The formidable line-up announced by the Saints has not set the locals back any, and although they realise that they will go up against one of the strongest baseball aggregations ever visiting Peterborough, they will go into the game with the determination to show the visitors that their victory two weeks ago was not a fluke. That the Saints are very strong cannot be gainsaid. Bill O'Hara, of the Baltimore Eastern League team, who will be on their line-up Saturday, has played for Baltimore for three seasons and is the fastest base runner and the leading run getter in the Eastern League, while his fielding has always been of a sensational nature. The local fans all know the calibre of Fred Hickey as a pitcher. His career as an amateur and semi-professional twirler was a phenomenal one, and his first work with the Toronto Eastern League team this season was such as to ensure him a berth next year. As his battery worker he will have Walter Cadman, one of the best catchers that ever wore a big mit in Toronto, and who has been playing great ball this summer for Saginaw in the Michigan State League. With Beatty, who has played for two seasons with the Winnipeg North Western League team, at first, Currie at second, Diewlo at short stop and Walter Thorne, of the Park Nines, at third, they will have a classy infield and there is no question about the outfield with Cobean, O'Hara and Hewer holding down garden positions.

The Petes will send out against them the same team that defeated the Saints so decisively on their last appearance here. Hawkins, who held the Saints down to one hit for a shut out, will be sent out against the visitors again on Saturday, and he will have the same team behind him, including Walter Jayes, of the Wilmington team, and Harry Burridge. If the Petes play the same brand of ball that they did on that occasion, even the all star aggreggation that will represent St. Andrew's here on Saturday, will have its work cut out.

There should be a record crowd on hand for the game, as the fans will be able to see a City Rugby League game at the conclusion of the ball game.

REASONS WHY

We can save you money on lenses.

1st—Those buying finished lenses in small quantities from the States are compelled to pay the highest price, also a duty of 30 per cent. If they meet our price they do so by the misrepresentation of quality.

2nd—We buy lenses in the rough in large quantities for cash.

3rd — Our lens grinding plant is second to none on the continent. The result being a perfectly finished lens.

4th—Our policy — Honest goods at honest prices—satisfaction to all or money refunded.

The List Of Events Comprising The Otonabee Athletic Club Meet To Be Held Next Wednesday Night

The Otonabee Athletic Club meet will be held at the Brock street rink on Wednesday night, Oct. 14th. From the inquiries made concerning the event there promises to be a large entry from the various clubs as well as the unattached runners of Peterborough County. The Otonabee Athletic Club is a young organisation, but the members are all enthusiastic and will make the meet a success. It was the original intention to hold it on Friday night, Oct. 16th, but owing to other events falling on that date, Wednesday night has been chosen.

At a meeting of the executive held last night the following events were decided upon:—

50 yds. dash, junior.
50 yds. dash, senior.
220 yds., junior.
220 yds., senior.
Running long jump, (open.)
1 mile, junior.
1 mile senior.
Pole vault, (Open.)
1 mile team race.
5 mile, (open.)

The one mile team race will consist of 3 men from organised clubs, and it is likely the Y.M.C.A., the T.A.C., the Chieftains, the Business College and the Otonabee Athletic Club will enter.

The meet will be run under the sanction of the C.A.A.U. and all those desiring to secure their tickets from the C.A.A.U. may leave their names and the necessary fee with P. T. Huston, the secretary of the Otonabee Athletic Club at the Examiner office. Entries in the various events should also be made to him before Monday night next.

LINDSAY HAS THE RUGBY FEVER

Lindsay has nothing to fear. The club has in its ranks the best young blood in the town and the bunch are considered fit to travel in fast company. Their showing in the league no doubt will be a creditable one, and all the officers ask is the co-operation of every lover of true sport in the town of Lindsay.

Sylvester, Moore, Greene, Spratt and Cotton on the back division are making good, and Leon Koyle is handling himself in great style. Frank Gregory is being ushered into the game for centre scrimmage and will make the young fellows sit up and take notice. Byron Greene and Jack Seymour are both coming along fast and will no doubt make a good showing when they line up on Wednesday next.

Much regret is being felt in Rugby circles over the departure of McNaught for Paris, as he was considered a valuable man. His aspiration for kicking the pigskin will no doubt increase when he reaches that live town in Western Ontario. — Lindsay Free Press.

CHIEFTAINS WON BOTH ROAD RACES

The New Club Makes Good Showing in the Collegiate Institute Cross Country Run.

The newly formed Chieftain Athletic Club got off to a good start yesterday in the Peterborough Collegiate Institute road races when both the senior and junior races were captured by members of the Club. Harold Lees who won the senior event and his brother Bruce, who captured the junior, are both members of the Chieftains and as a result the red and black boys are delighted over the result. To have their members capture two races on their first day out is sufficient reason for the pleasure of the Chieftains. The new club will have a number of entries in the Otonabee A.C. Club's meet in the Brock street rink on Wednesday, Oct. 14th, and hope to carry off a number of the prizes.

PRAISE FOR TERCENTENARY PICTURES AS PRODUCED AT THE CRYSTAL THIS WEEK

No more realistic pictures have been seen in Peterborough than the films representing incidents in the Tercentenary celebration at Quebec, which are being shown this week at the popular amusement house, the Crystal. The views are very clear and evoked sincere admiration from all who saw them last night. They give one an excellent idea of the picturesque nature of the event, as the leading incidents of the pageant are shown. The pictures depict the arrival of the warships bearing the Prince and Princess of Wales, their landing at the King's wharf, reception by the civic authorities and other features of their arrival. There are some magnificent pictures of the grand military review and of the arrival of the fac simile of Champlain's ship "The Dom de Dieu." The views will be shown to-night and to-morrow.

OBITUARY.

WILLIAM HENRY ISAAC

A particularly sad death was that which occurred this morning when William Henry Isaac, local agent of the Gerard Heintzman Company passed away at 5 o'clock, at his home on Dublin street, as the result of an attack of paralysis. The deceased had been in ill health for some months but was only taken seriously ill two weeks ago and his condition was not considered serious until a few days ago. The news of his death will prove a shock to his large circle of friends in Peterborough and the community will unite in sympathising with his relatives.

The late W H Isaac was fifty-three years of age and was born in England. He had been a resident of Peterborough for about twenty-three years and was very well known and highly respected in this city. He was a member of Court Langton, No. 344 Candian Order of Foresters and was an enthusiastic lawn bowler and curler. The members of the local clubs will learn with the greatest regret of his death.

He is survived by a wife and three children, Miss Mabel, in Winnipeg; Miss Guelph, at home, and Mr. Edgar, in Edmonton, Alta. Two brothers, Mr. John Isaac, of Midland, Ont., and Mr. Thos. Isaac, of Port Hope, are also left to mourn his loss.

The arrangements for the funeral have not yet been completed.

IMPORTANT TO LADIES

It is not often an opportunity occurs at your door to see the latest Parisian and New York styles in Hair Goods, yet such is the case, as Prof. Dorenwend of Toronto is visiting in this town, and invites your inspection of these goods at his private apartments reserved at the hotel.

These Hair Goods styles, when properly adjusted protect and ornament the head, soften and beautify the expression of the face, and consequently tone up an aged appearance. Be sure and see them at the Oriental Hotel on Friday, October 16th.

WEDDING BELLS

MAHER—McMAHON

A pretty church wedding was celebrated at St. Peter's Cathedral this morning at eight o'clock, the principals being Miss Mary McMahon, daughter of Mr. John McMahon, 217 Euclid avenue, to Mr. Wm. Mahar, who some time ago came out from Ireland. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. O'Brien. The bride was attired in silk Khantonia trimmed with gold insertion. She wore a picture hat and carried a white prayer book, the gift of her father. She was attended by Miss Charlotte McMahon, her sister, who was dressed in cream taffeta and who carried a bouquet of white carnations. She also wore a picture hat.

After the ceremony a dainty wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride, where also a beautiful array of gifts was spread. The groom's gift to the bride was a gold watch and chain.

Mr. and Mrs. Mahar left on the morning G. T. R. train for their honeymoon trip to Rochester and New York, and returning will reside in East City.

GORDAN—EDGAR

A quiet wedding was celebrated this morning at St. Peter's rectory when Miss Flossie Edgar was united in marriage to Mr. Hosanna Gordon, the Rev. Father Kelly performing the ceremony. They were attended by Mr. Ed. Laplante and Miss Florence Gordon, sister of the groom. After the usual post-nuptial luncheon and reception, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon left on the 4.48 C.P.R. train for the west, visiting at Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo. They have the best wishes of their many friends for a long and happy married life.

To the Electors of West Peterborough:

Gentlemen,—In my first address to you, I aimed to point out what had been accomplished by the Liberal Governments of Ontario and of the Dominion in promoting what may be described as the local interests of West Peterborough, in the provision of local advantages to meet local needs, and serve public interests.

I now wish to suggest some of the many reasons why the present Government should be sustained, and given an opportunity of continuing the great work it has accomplished for Canada as a whole. There is not a city resident, nor dweller in the suburbs, not a labourer, nor an artisan, not a mechanic, nor a manufacturer, nor anybody in any walk of life, that has not enjoyed more prosperity, had his welfare improved, his business benefitted, during the twelve years of rule of the present Liberal Government, which is now appealing for a renewal of its stewardship.

There is not a farmer in Peterborough county, who does not know that every farm, properly managed, has increased in value, and every farmer in prosperity, in the twelve years of Liberal rule. There is not a farmer who does not know that general conditions have been vastly improved; who does not know to what a general extent the clear deed for the farm has replaced the farm mortgage; new buildings replaced dilapidated structures; home comforts increased, and general conditions of well-being improved.

It is therefore incumbent upon me to present as concise a view as possible of the record of the Liberal Government, whose supporter I am, to set forth what it has done in the twelve years of its trusteeship to promote the general welfare of Canada.

To emphasize this record, the condition of the country previous to the Liberal Government assuming power, may be recalled. It is no exaggeration to say that at that time the country was practically at a standstill; that business was dormant; our industries languishing; manufacturers dissatisfied; the Conservative Government was fighting amongst themselves, and had ceased to effectively govern. Our finances were at low-water mark; expenditure was running ahead of receipts, deficits were almost annual, the national debt advancing, the country torn by dissensions and the outlook gloomy.

The first notable action of the Liberal Government, as a necessary preliminary to national progress, was to restore peace and harmony among the people—by the satisfactory and lasting settlement of a burning question. Peace having thus been restored, the Liberal Government was free to enter upon the work of nation-building.

The tariff, which, under previous administrations, was not giving satisfactory results, either to the people affected, or in the way of revenue, was readjusted with careful consideration of all interests, the consumer as well as the producer. The farmer was helped by having binder twine, barbed wire, Indian corn, cream separators, and articles of staple necessity, placed on the untaxed list of imports. Manufacturers, and through them the wage-earners, were helped by removal, or reduction, of duties on raw material used in manufacturing.

The result was an immediate improvement in the condition of all national interests; prosperity resumed its reign, trade became active, employment plentiful, wages increased, and a rate of good growth taken on which can only be understood by recalling some of the records.

Under the revised tariff, our revenue, even under a tariff lowered on an average of $18.28 per $100, at the close of Conservative rule to an average of $15.66 per $100, under Liberal rule, increased from thirty-six millions a year, in 1896, to ninety-six millions in 1908.

The capital invested in manufacturing establishments increased from $446,916,487 in 1900, to $833,916,155 in 1905, or over seventy million dollars per year.

The wages paid to labour in factories, increased from $115,249,350 in 1900, to $162,155,578 in 1905, or nearly ten million dollars per year.

The value of products of manufacturing establishments grew from $481,053,375, in 1900, to $706,446,578 in 1905, the increase in the manufactured output of the city of Peterborough in that period amounting to eleven millions odd, being far the greatest proportion of increase of any one place in the Dominion.

The total foreign trade—imports and exports—has in the past twelve years of Liberal administration amounted to the tremendous total of 5,152, millions of dollars.

The yearly growth of the total foreign trade of Canada is shown by the fact that it grew from $239,025,360 in 1896, to $650,738,200 in 1908.

In twelve years the farmers of Canada have received for the products of their farms sent abroad more than a thousand million dollars, and the exports of farm products have increased from $50,502,525 in 1896, to $121,171,199 in 1908.

The value of the exported products of our mines has increased from $8,059,650 in 1896, to $30,117,133 in 1908.

Forest products have increased in value of exports from $27,178,686, in 1906, to $44,170,470 in 1908.

In 1896, Canadian bank discounts the index of commercial and industrial activity, amounted to $224,507,301; they had grown to $584,732,914 in 1908—more than doubled.

The people's deposits in chartered banks and savings banks, have grown from $245,039,143 in 1896, to $650,126,232 in 1908.

The increase in tonnage carried in 1908 by Canadian railways (another index of commercial and industrial activity) was more than fifteen millions greater than the total tonnage carried in 1896, which was 24,266,825 tons as against 68,866,183 tons in 1908.

There was an increase in the export value of bacon and hams from $18,827,928 in twelve Conservative years, to $135,156,321 in the twelve Liberal years; the increase for the same period in butter export values was from $10,513,348, to more than five times—$51,680,095; in cheese, from $127,611,428, to $247,790,532; in wheat, from $45,338,791 to $121,677,659, or nearly five-fold.

In the five years of Liberal rule—from 1901 to 1905—the population of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, increased from 419,512 to 808,863. In the last two years immigration and settlement have so rapidly advanced that the population of these provinces must be well beyond the million mark, for since January 1, 1907, immigrants to the number of 1,219,943 have come into Canada.

Not only have these immigrants the very great value of a million increase of population, but the effects they brought into Canada, exclusive of personal baggage and cash, amounted to $64,442,532, which is fourteen millions more than the total exports of farm products under Conservative rule in 1896.

In 1900 the number of farms worked in these provinces was 54,625; these had increased to 120,439 four years later—1906.

In eighteen years the Conservative Government voted 56 million acres of land to railway companies, or enough to supply 411,000 homesteads of 160 acres each, whereas, in contrast, in twelve years since coming into power the Liberal Government has not given away one acre of land to a railway. The land has been reserved for the settlers, who got 35 million acres in homesteads.

This work of western development, and the increase of population, have benefitted the east; every new household creates fresh demands upon the manufactured and commercial products of eastern Canada, giving increased work to factories and increased employment to working men.

The prosperity, the all-round quickened activity of national life in Canada attendant upon Liberal rule, has given employment to Canadians at home or found homes for them in the west. This is in strong contrast to the do-nothing immigration policy of the previous Government which could not retain the immigrants brought in nor present conditions attractive enough to keep native-born population at home, nor stop the exodus of the flower of Canadian youth to the United States by the million.

The British preference, or preferential tariff, extended to Great Britain, showed the Liberal Government to represent the party of real loyalty—practical loyalty—to the empire. The result of this gift was a splendid advertisement of Canada, and secured British good-will, with the direct results that it substantially favoured the Canadian consumer, increased imports from Great Britain—three-fold—from $32,894,505 in 1896, to $94,963,585, in 1908— and doubled Canadian exports to Great Britain—from $62,717,941 in 1896, to $126,194,124, in 1908.

This preference was extended to most of the British colonies and, in return, Canada secured a preference in New Zealand, South Africa and Barbadoes, with the result that British Columbia canneries captured nearly the whole trade of New Zealand, and shut out the canneries of the United States; and Canada's example has been followed by nearly all the British colonies.

Such a record of achievement on the more material side, on the part of the Liberal Government, amply justifies my appeal for your support to aid in retaining it in a position to continue the splendid service that has been given.

It is not, however, only in material matters, but in matters redounding to the credit of Canada, both at home and abroad, and in providing conditions for the general advantage of the people, that the Liberal Government has done work worthy of the practical recognition involved in its being given another lease of power.

Under the Liberal Government, the French treaty was negotiated by Canadian statesmen, without the help of British statesmen, subject, however, to the approval of the Home Government—a long step forward in Canadian nation-building.

The reign of the Liberal Government has been marked by unprecedented development of transportation facilities—the keynote of Canadian development, progress and prosperity. As a general result, the great bulk of the grain trade of the interior west of the continent is passing through Canadian channels, and New York and other American ports are alarmed at the formidable competition of the Canadian St. Lawrence route.

This condition was brought about by the completion of the enlargement of the St. Lawrence and Welland canal systems to a depth of 14 feet, the equipment of grain shipping harbours on Lake Superior and Georgian Bay, Lake Huron and Lake Erie; the improvement of Montreal, St. John and Halifax harbours, the deepening of the ship channel from Montreal to the Gulf, the extension of telegraph systems down the coast, the abolition of canal tolls, and the making of the St. Lawrence a safe route for ocean ships by day or night.

These great works have not only made the St. Lawrence the grain route of the continent, but directly benefitted shippers and producers—general merchandise and farm products. Last year the saving on reduced insurance rates, caused by the improvements made in the St. Lawrence by the Government, amounted to nearly a million dollars—$922,000.

In the last twelve years, the Liberal Government has expended on transportation; in improving the facilities for marketting the products of factories and farms, the large sum of $121,215,115—on canals, twenty-six millions; on Government railways thirty-one millions; on Montreal harbour and St. Lawrence ship channel, seven millions; on the chief lake harbours, two millions; in aid of the construction and extension of railways, twenty-one millions; and, so far, twenty-seven millions on Transcontinental Railway construction, have been advanced for construction, and upon which, after seven years, the Grand Trunk Pacific will pay the Dominion interest at the rate of three per cent.

In aiding railways to open up the country to development, the Liberal Government have simply invested money. The Conservative way was to give bonuses outright. The Liberal way is to make no gift, a condition of the Liberal grants being that the railways must regard them as a loan and pay in return, by the carrying of mails, an equivalent to a fair rate of interest.

The necessity of the Grand Trunk Pacific is emphasized by reasons of the conditions existing to-day. The movement of western wheat to the market is at this moment impeded by lack of cars, showing the need of more railway service. To meet conditions which will become more pressing as settlement and crop production will increase, through the building of the Grand Trunk Pacific, the Government has decided upon building the Hudson Bay Railway, as another wheat outlet that in the open season will shorten the distance to Liverpool by thousands of miles. And the Government shows its wisdom by making the railway build itself—by providing for the cost by the sale of lands, now valueless, but made valuable by the building of the line itself.

Having regard to the future of this country, no calculation can estimate the tremendous benefits that are accruing, and will accrue to Canada, through the bold and business-like development of our transportation facilities, by the Liberal Government.

The Liberal Government conceived, and is constructing, the Grand Trunk Pacific, which will practically double the settled and cropped area of Canada, from the Pacific to the Atlantic, over a belt 200 miles wide through the heart of New Brunswick, Quebec, Ontario, and western Canada. It will open up millions upon millions of new territory for settlement and development; it will give development and competition in transportation to 1200 miles of grain-growing country in the west. The Transcontinental Railway, which will be completed in three or four years, will, at least, duplicate the tremendous development work accomplished by the Canadian Pacific in building up the resources and widening the sweep of Canada's commerce.

The Liberal Government's subsidy of $3,630,000 to the Crow's Nest Pass Railway, secured the speedy construction of a line that opened up the rich mineral Kootenay district, of British Columbia, covered it with thriving towns, villages and mining camps, diverted trade from the United States, and opened up a market for western farm produce. It did more. A condition of the subsidy was a reduction of freight rates by the Canadian Pacific, which built the Crow's Nest line; and this reduction, on wheat alone, saved the farmers in five years, $5,750,000, or $20,0000 more than the amount of the subsidy, not to speak of the vast indirect benefit, a saving and benefit that are to continue for all time.

The Liberal Government established the Railway Commission, whose work is to continually arbitrate between railways and customers, and to deal with and settle freight and other rates. Last session telegraph and telephone lines were brought under the Commission, and now there is assured to the public in respect of these public utilities, all the rights, privileges and advantages that could come from public ownership, and that, too, without incurring a tremendous financial liability for purchase and operation.

The Liberal Government, in its work for Agriculture, has given farming a vital organization, and made the farming interests of Canada one vast co-operative industry. Cold storage for transportation of perishable products and efficient supervision in transit, have resulted in placing Canadian farm, garden, dairy and orchard products upon the British markets in their prime original quality, with a splendid reputation and greatly increased prices.

An example of advanced legislation is the Liberal Government's old age pension act, which brings within the reach of every man and woman in Canada a means for making provision for old age.

The Liberal Government's interest in Labour is shown, not only in the broad conditions provided for creating prosperity and industrial activity, and opportunities for employment, but in providing more specific benefits. This is shown in the abolition of the sweating system, so far as concerns Government contracts; the adoption of a fair wage scale for Government contracts; the establishment of a Department of Labour to be placed in charge of a Minister of its own; the publication of the Labour Gazette; the passing of the Lemieux Act, which though only operative since March of last year, has up to August last, been instrumental in amicable settlement of nearly forty strikes, involving over 40,000 employees, and millions of capital, and satisfactory arrangements were made for the limitation and practical cessation of Oriental immigration.

The Liberal Government's adoption of a revenue tariff that produced revenue, made it financially possible to meet the pressing demands of the provinces for increased subsidies, amounting to nearly five million dollars a year of the people's money returned directly to the people for provincial purposes.

The Liberal Government's management of the Post Office is a triumph of business administration. With a reduction in postage rate of over one-third, and with a vastly increased and improved service, a deficit of $750,000 in 1896 was converted into a surplus which steadily increased year by year till this year it reached the large amount of $1,101,827. Such a fruit of good management permitted the Government to initiate another great postal reform—rural mail delivery—that is free mail delivery to farmers, and before the year is out it will be in operation.

The splendid financial administration of the Liberal Government may be summarized in a few words—we have paid our way, and spent large sums in great public works for the development of the country, without appreciably adding to the public debt, and without increasing—but actually reducing—the taxation of the people. Customs taxation was reduced from $18.28 per $100, in 1896, to $15.66 per $100 in 1907, not to mention over one-third reduction in postage rates. If the Conservative average of taxation had been in force since 1896, fifty millions more customs duties would have been paid. The Liberal period of rule has been a reign of surpluses—totalling over one hundred and thirteen millions, or about nine and a half million dollars per year. Conservative revenue averaged thirty six million dollars per year for twelve years ending with 1896. Liberal revenue showed an increase every year till the last fiscal year, when it reached $96,054,905. In the twelve years the expenditure had only grown from $36,049,142, in 1896, to $76,061,451, in 1908.

The expenditure has only kept pace with the progress of Canada, and the Liberal Government has made generous expenditure on public works, which will return to the people a thousand fold.

The financial condition of Canada is sound. Her securities list on a par with securities guaranteed by the British Government, and the confidence of British capitalists is shown by the fact that in the first seven months of this year, British money to aid Canadian development was sent in from England to the amount of 143 millions of dollars.

Among the acts of the Government to advance Canada, the Liberal Government has established an assay office in British Columbia, and the establishment of a Canadian mint, in which our gold and silver coins are produced, adds to our dignity as a nation, and is also a source of profit.

The Liberal Government has enacted legislation concerning the observance of the Lord's Day.

The Liberal Government has appointed civil service commissioners to provide for eliminating political influence in appointments to the civil service.

The Government, acting on the principle that if Canada maintains a Militia, it must be the best, has instituted a great many reforms. New branches of service have been established; the pay of the militia has been increased from 50 cents per day to a possible $1.00; a permanent training camp has been established at Petawawa rifle ranges, and armouries—including one in Peterborough—have been established and built, and the defence of the country amply provided for. The Government has established a rifle factory in Canada, and the "Ross Rifle," to arm the Canadian militia, and pronounced by British experts as the best arm of precision now made, is a "made in Canada" article.

In presenting the foregoing truly remarkable record of achievements, only the salient points of merit have been indicated. A book would be required to unfold it in detail. But enough is shown to amply justify an appeal to the people for a renewal of confidence in a Government which in the short space of twelve years, has brought Canada into a position of prominence in the eyes of the world, has conquered the favour of the Mother Land; has brought Canada from being a timorous dependency, over-awed by hostile tariff-makers in the United States, to the rank of a nation, making her own treaties, coining her own money, a nation full of self reliance and confidence in a future of magnificent realization, for which the foundations have been laid strong and deep by the Liberal Government of the Dominion, whose stewardship is now under review, with confidence that it will meet popular approval.

Such a Government, I have the honour of supporting, and soliciting you to support, in the person of the Liberal candidate. If I am honoured by your confidence, I can only promise that I will endeavour, to the best of my ability, to repeat the efforts to serve West Peterborough and the country, which I have exerted in the course of my past representative relations, with a single eye to serving and promoting the best interests of Peterborough—city and county.

I have the honour to remain, gentlemen,

Your obedient servant,

J. R. Stratton

PREMIER'S MEETING AT L'ISLET

Sir Wilfrid Laurier Continues Triumphal Tour of Quebec.

HE DISCUSSES IMMIGRATION

Major Part of Chieftain's Speech is Reply to Dr. Paquet's Attack on the Policy of the Government Regarding Immigration—Million New Westerners to Keep Industries of the East Working.

L'Islet, Que., Oct. 7.—Nearly 4,000 electors of this county welcomed Sir Wilfrid Laurier on his tour of this part of the province at an open-air meeting yesterday afternoon.

The meeting was held at the Intercolonial Railway station, which is nearly two miles from the village, and the Premier was met at the station by Mayor Cloutier of L'Islet and most of the male population of the village, headed by a brass band. Special trains were also run from Levis and Riviere du Loup, bringing in nearly 2,000.

The Premier was escorted to a temporary platform erected in front of one of the two stores at the station, and after a selection from the band Mayor Cloutier, the chairman, introduced J. B. T. Caron of Ottawa, the Liberal candidate, who spoke on the general policy of the Liberal party since 1896.

Mayor Cloutier then read an address of welcome to the Premier and a bouquet was handed to Sir Wilfrid by a red-sashed little girl.

When the Premier turned to reply he was given a great reception. Sir Wilfrid spoke for over an hour, devoting a large proportion of his speech to a defence of the Government's immigration policy, which had been attacked in the House last session by Dr. Paquet, the sitting Conservative member for L'Islet.

Sir Wilfrid said that the Government had introduced over a million new citizens into the west, whose needs gave employment to the industries of the east.

Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux spoke for an hour with a sketch of the history of the Liberal party from the time of Baldwin and Lafontaine.

At the close of the meeting the Premier was escorted to the train by the band and given a cheer as the train pulled out for Quebec.

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS.

Brockville has a population of 9,117, an increase of 121 over 1907.

As a result of a dense fog there were several street car collisions in Montreal yesterday morning.

Rhode Island Democrats have named Olney Arnold of Providence for governor, and Adelard Archambault for lieutenant-governor.

Mrs. Robert Woodhull, the only woman timber inspector in Michigan, formerly of St. Thomas, Ont., died in Detroit, aged 62 years. She was the first woman editor in the state.

The Church of the Transfiguration in East Twenty-Ninth street, between Fifth and Madison avenues, New York City, popularly known as the "Little Church Around the Corner," observed with appropriate services its sixtieth birthday on Sunday.

Rivers Drying Up.

In some localities the conditions are such that the health of the community is in grave danger.

This is true in some sections near the smaller streams, where drying up is taking place to such an extent that fish are dying off by the thousands. In order if possible to prevent an epidemic of any kind, the dead fish are being buried.

White Star Undecided.

Montreal, Oct. 7.—The White Star line has not decided if they will bring the Laurentic and the Megantic to Montreal. Both these vessels are newly built for the St. Lawrence route and will be the biggest passenger ships that ever came to Canada. The company has sent Capt. Macaulay to Montreal to look over the ground.

Berlin's Population.

Berlin, Oct. 7.—Berlin's population as shown by assessors reports just completed is 13,278, an increase of 195 over last year, and in same assessment increased $277,126, bringing total up to $6,307,386.

Blood Price of Industry.

Ottawa, Oct. 7.—During the month of August, according to reports received at the Labor Department, 320 people were seriously injured in industrial accidents in Canada, of whom 125 died.

JAMES DUFF, THE MAN SELECTED

He is Made Minister of Agriculture For Ontario.

MONTEITH FOR LONDON?

Former Member For North Perth May Take Position of Agent-General of Immigration For Ontario in the British Capital—New Minister is Active Agriculturalist and is An Experienced Man.

Toronto, Oct. 7.—Hon. James S. Duff, M.P.P. for West Simcoe, is the new Minister of Agriculture in succession to Hon. Nelson Monteith.

Mr. Duff was sworn in yesterday and at once turned his attention to his new duties, in which he will have the assistance of Hon. Mr. Monteith, his predecessor, for a few days.

Sir James P. Whitney, in making the announcement yesterday evening, stated to the press that Hon. Mr. Monteith offered his resignation on June 25, consequent on his defeat in North Perth.

"The resignation was not accepted, but stood over till to-day," said the Premier. "I have all along regretted the coming severance of our official relations, which I have expressed in a letter accepting Mr. Monteith's resignation."

HON. JAMES DUFF,

"Mr. Duff, the member for West Simcoe," proceeded Sir James, "has been sworn in as Minister of Agriculture in succession to Mr. Monteith. He has been all his life a prominent and active agriculturist. He has had considerable experience in the House, and we anticipate that he will be a successful Minister.

"The nomination for Mr. Duff's constituency will take place on Friday, the 23rd, and the election on the 30th, should there be a contest."

Sir James also intimated that he hoped to have the advantage of Mr. Monteith's experience and advice as required. In the meantime Mr. Monteith returns to his farm near Stratford, where he is more at ease than in the garish career of politics.

It is not believed that Mr. Monteith would be willing to undertake the duties of agent-general of immigration for Ontario, but the lights of the great city have lured the farmer's boy before now, and Mr. Monteith may yield.

Mr. Duff is one of the most popular members of the House, utterly without pretension, good humored and genial, full of good sense and the valuable experience of a hard-headed Canadian farmer, which Mr. Duff has been all his life. He is of Irish extraction, born on the farm near Cookstown, Ont., June 20, 1856. He has had considerable municipal experience, and has been in the Legislature since 1898.

Findlay G. Macdiarmid, and J. H. Carnegie were both mentioned for the position, and it is now rumored that Mr. Macdiarmid may be given a seat in the Cabinet without portfolio, but no solid grounds appear to exist for the report.

A Manitoba Tornado.

Winnipeg, Oct. 7.—A tornado swept over sections of country surrounding Winnipeg Monday night and did considerable damage. At Bird's Hill, six miles east, the general store of M. Hetkoff was wrecked, and the contents were distributed over about a mile of country. A number of shacks were also destroyed, and in one case a building was picked up off the ground, leaving the family sitting in the rain but uninjured. A section of the C.N.R. track was destroyed, and telegraph poles were blown down.

De Wolf Hopper Hurt.

Syracuse, Oct. 7.—De Wolf Hopper, who was giving the first performance of "What Happened Then" in this city Sunday night, fell 12 feet to the stage. It was manifest that the popular comedian was badly hurt and the audience was dismissed.

Physicians found that Mr. Hopper was suffering from concussion of the brain.

Crushed by Car.

Toronto, Oct. 7.—Crossing before an east-bound car on Arthur street at Euclid avenue yesterday afternoon, Dr. Alexander E. Ferguson, 700 Bathurst street, fell from his bicycle and was fatally crushed under the front wheels of the car. He died half an hour later, while being hurried to his home in a private ambulance.

THE POWERS TO HOLD A CONFERENCE

Bulgarian Situation Will Be Dealt With in Concert.

TURKEY AWAITS OUTCOME

Porte is Looking to the Powers to Handle the Affair For Her and Protect Themselves Against Bulgaria—Britain, France and Russia Favor Conference, and Other Powers Will Enter Congress.

London, Oct. 7.—The attitude of all the powers concerned in the Balkan difficulty was yesterday one of waiting. No hostile move has been made by any one of the three nations most intimately concerned — Austria, Turkey and Bulgaria. Austria denies that she is mobilizing troops, and has, in fact, withdrawn her forces from the sanjak of Novi-Bazar. The Bulgarian monarch has ordered his reservists to disperse on Oct. 14 as had been previously arranged. The Porte, holding that Bulgaria's action has been directed against the powers as well as against Turkey, looks to the powers to defend their own interests and protect the provisions of the treaty of Berlin. Servia, deeply resenting the annexation of Herzegovina and Bosnia, by Austria, seems to be most anxious for war.

According to a statement made at Paris last night, an international conference on the Bulgarian situation is now assured. It will be proposed by Great Britain, France and Russia acting together instead of by one power. These three powers are in complete accord on the principle of an immediate conference; Italy is in favor of it, and even Germany is expected to adhere to the proposal. Furthermore, the latest advices from Constantinople indicate that the Porte will accept the advice of France and Great Britain and await the result of this congress.

Constantinople, Oct. 7.—Immediately upon receipt of the news that Bulgarian independence had been proclaimed the Turkish Foreign Minister summoned all the Ambassadors, except the Austrian Ambassador, and sought their advice.

It is the general desire of the Government to avoid war, and suggestions have been made that a tariff war be inaugurated against Austria and Bulgaria in the way of retaliation. The people, however, are in a belligerent mood and may force the Government into taking extreme measures.

Belgrade, Servia, Oct. 7.—A mass meeting of 10,000 persons was held in the public square last night, the mayor of the city presiding. The leaders of all political parties made addresses, and resolutions were adopted calling upon the Government to induce the powers to save Bosnia and Herzegovina from annexation and pledging the lives of the Servian people for the cause. Copies of the resolutions were taken by all the foreign Ministers, with the exception of the Austrian representative. Shops have been closed in Belgrade and processions fill the streets. The newspapers demand war. The majority of the people of Bosnia are Servians and utterly opposed to annexation.

A ukase has been issued calling out all the army reservists of the first class. The reservists total about 130,000 men.

Peake Inquest.

Stratford, Oct. 7.—The adjourned inquest into the Peake murder case will be held in the city hall, Stratford, on Thursday afternoon.

The adjournment from Sebringville to Stratford will permit the attendance of the prisoner Roghmond without involving possible danger.

A Fatal Spot.

Glace Bay, Oct. 7.—John Dunphy, a young miner, was killed by a fall of coal in the Dominion Coal Co.'s pit.

The place in which he was killed was the same at which another man met death two weeks ago.

Negro Lynched.

Glenflora, Kas., Oct. 7.—Ben Price, a negro, was seized by a mob here, taken to the centre of the town and hanged to a tree yesterday. He was charged with criminal assault on his own daughter. The mob broke in the jail in order to capture the negro.

POLITICAL MEETINGS AT OMEMEE

Rival Candidates Address Gatherings There Recently

Examiner Special

Omemee, Oct. 6.—Ploughing is well advanced since the rain. Root crops show improvement.

Elections are now the "topic" of the day.

The river is looking at its best now. The two motor yachts owned by Mr. Beatty and Thos. Stephenson have had some fine trips.

Joe Sherwood is building a fine yacht for steam power, strong enough to tow and will be used next spring.

There have been two political meetings here, on Monday, 28th September, in the interests of Dr. Wilson, Liberal candidate, a very orderly, successful and profitable meeting was held, although a wet evening. Dr. Wilson's maiden speech made a good and lasting impression; also that of R. J. McLaughlin. Although the audience was largely Conservative there were no questions or interruptions or contradictions, simply because there was no room or chance for it.

This meeting was closely followed by a Conservative meeting on Saturday evening, October 3rd. Very few business men attended and the large audience was made up chiefly of ladies and young men and their girls to look at the gallant Colonel Sam, his lieutenants Mallos and Lehane, Captains J. Ellis and G. Jordan. This meeting became so monotonous that it broke up in a hurry with weak cheers.

Thos. Palmer is opening up a long felt want here—a restaurant in connection with the Commercial Hotel, lunches cold and hot at all hours.

Mrs. R. Gentleman, 1098 St. James Street, Montreal, Quebec, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I suffered from a severe female weakness, and extreme nervousness, and was blue and utterly discouraged.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended, and after taking several bottles, I am not only cured, but am an entirely different woman, and on the whole a healthier woman than before taking your valuable medicine.

"Every woman who suffers from any form of female ills should not fail to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

Who Got the Timber?

Sample Pages From the Records of Interior Department.

PARTIAL LIST OF LOOTERS

When Charging the Liberal Administration With Dissipating the Timber Resources, the Tories Overlook the Records Which Expose Their Own Transactions.

Who got the timber? This is a question often asked in the Tory press, and, often asked in public meeting, but the question is never repeated. The Tories regarded the public lands as their personal property and dealt with it accordingly, as the following record shows. Their rapacity grew each year, and the following record from the books of the Department shows how the shameless demands of their supporters were satisfied:

In 1882—Ninety-eight timber limits were granted; area, 4,642 square miles.

In 1883—Two hundred and twelve timber limits were granted; area, 10,328 square miles, free.

In eighteen years, from 1878 to 1896, the Conservative Government disposed of no less than 29,322 square miles of timber limits, an area equal to 17,766,080 acres—of this quantity 23,967 square miles equal to 15,351,680 acres, were given away without one cent going into the treasury.

Startling Comparison.

Compare this with the record of the Liberal Government. In twelve years, they have disposed of only 6,456 square miles, or 4,131,840 acres; and for this they received the sum of $71.92 per square mile. In addition to this the ground rent amounts to $30,000 a year, and there is a stumpage imposed of 50 cents a thousand feet.

In other words the Conservative Government gave away, free, more timber in one year than the Liberal Government has given, since coming into power, twelve years ago.

The Liberal Government never sold an acre of timber except by public competition to the highest bidder.

Members of the Purity Party Who Got Timber.

In proof of the statement that the Conservatives divided timber lands among themselves and did not consider the interests of the people, and as further evidence that they have no right to criticize the Liberal Government in respect of the administration of timber lands, the following list will show who got the timber, and be it remembered they paid nothing for it. This was in one year only:

Shields, Haggart and McLaren, 100 miles.

The Haggart mentioned here is Hon. John Haggart, formerly Minister of Railways and Canals in the Conservative Government, and Foster's co-conspirator in the nest of traitors. McLaren was a Conservative Senator.

J. G. H. Bergeron, 50 miles.

Mr. Bergeron was attached to Mr. Borden's party on the recent western political tour, in the capacity of expounder of Conservative purity.

Can any elector read this and feel satisfied to place in the hands of such men the government of the country so that ducks and drakes can be made of the natural resources?

How Bennett Wasted Public Money.

Mr. W. H. Bennett of Simcoe is one of the loudest and most virulent denunciators of the Government. His specialty is dredging. When the Hon. Mr. Pugsley, Minister of Public Works, saw it would be to the advantage of the Government to continue certain dredging contracts at last year's prices Mr. Bennett objected, alleging that this was a graft and a waste of public money. Mr. Pugsley thereupon called for tenders, and the consequence was that the Government will pay this season $250,000 more for dredging than would have been the case had Mr. Bennett not interfered.

Reid Failed to Prove It.

Dr. Reid of Grenville, the man who said more goods were purchased for the "Arctic" than would go on board, and who failed to prove his case when a special committee was appointed, is telling the people of his constituency to elect him for God's sake, for he will become Minister of Marine and Fisheries in Mr. Borden's Cabinet. This is very amusing to those who know the qualifications which a minister of the crown must possess, but it is likewise embarrassing and annoying to Mr. Borden, who has already promised the job.

Hon. Mr. Foster is crying aloud for some one to speak with him on the public platform. He should remember that there may be those who feel like Sir Mackenzie Bowell did when he intimated to Mr. Foster (who had addressed a remark to him on the train) that he did not desire to have anything to do with him.

Woman the Tougher Sex.

Although men, as they run, are perhaps muscularly stronger than women, their inability to withstand the elements and their reliance upon clothes place them considerably below the so called weaker sex in the matter of unclothed toughness. Women wear clothes for ornament. Men use them as protective covering. A group of men marooned clotheless on an island in the temperate zone might be expected to die off in a month from drafts and colds and rheumatism. The health of women similarly placed would suffer little from the enforced exposure. The fact appears to be, therefore, that in everything but muscle—in vitality, ruggedness, character, disposition, brain power, etc.—woman is the tougher, not the weaker, sex.—Kansas City Journal.

Perfectly Correct.

A shopkeeper had stuck up a notice in glaring colors and very large letters: Selling Off! Must Close on Saturday!"

On Friday he was asked by a friend: "What! Are you selling off again?"

"Certainly. All the shopkeepers are selling off, ain't they?"

"Of course they are. But you say, 'Must close on Saturday.'"

"Certainly I must. You would not have me keep open on Sunday, would you?"

Effective at All Hours.

"I've got the finest gardens in this part of the country," boasted the newly made millionaire. "Right in the center of them is the most expensive sundial in the world."

"A sundial is all right during the day," remarked a listener. "It's useless at night."

Settler Got the Land

The Laurier Government Has Placed Men on the Land and They Live There.

BUMPER CROPS THE RESULT

Frenzied Call For Cars to Transport the Grain, and For Men to Assist In the Harvest Is the Best Evidence That the Settler Is on the Land and Using It.

"How about the land for the settler?" said a man from the audience at a recent Liberal meeting. The question was a most welcome one. The reply cannot fail to be satisfactory to every elector in the country. Let us present some figures by way of comparison.

During the eighteen years the Conservative Government were in power, they gave away by votes to railway corporations

56,087,072 ACRES

During the twelve years the Liberal Government has been in power they gave to railway corporations

NOT ONE ACRE

During eighteen years of power the Conservatives gave to actual settlers by way of homesteads and pre-emption

9,952,840 ACRES

During twelve years of power the Liberal Government gave to actual settlers, by way of homesteads and pre-emption

35,501,600 ACRES

Altogether the Liberal Government, while not giving a single acre to a railway company has disposed of 2,000,000 acres otherwise than to actual settlers. This includes the land given to an irrigation company, for which they pay $1 an acre after they have spent $1,000,000 in irrigation works, and the 250,000 acres to the Saskatchewan Valley Land Co., which they paid $1 an acre for, only after having placed actual settlers upon the land.

This surely is a proud record for any Government. When compared with the record of the Conservative Government there is no doubt that the Liberals did better by the settler than their predecessors, and what credit is claimed for the great prosperity in the west, is properly attributed to the progressive policy of the Liberal Government.

Who Got Homesteads?

Examine the official figures and they will tell the story of the two parties with regard to placing the settlers on the land.

Belongs to People.

The public domain of Canada belongs to the people, and the Liberal Government recognizes this. The very fact that the people of the west are crying aloud for more railways, and the people of the east for deeper harbors, extended canals, and more and better shipping facilities, is monumental evidence that the Liberal Government have placed the people on the land, and the public improvements called for are the natural consequences of this in the proper demand for the wherewithal to move the enormous crops which have resulted.

A crop in sight of 120,000,000 bushels, thousands of harvesters hurried across the continent, a frenzied call for grain cars, and steamer accommodation on the great lakes, demand for more and proper elevators, all tell the same story, that the land was given to the settler, and he is making good use of it.

No Conservative should have the audacity to compare the administration of the land under the present Government with the miserable conditions which obtained in years gone by, when under Tory administration it seemed to be impossible to get men to stay on the land. As to its land policy the present Government invites the closest scrutiny, and the more it is examined the better it will look.

Since this Government came into power the immigrants arriving in the country have brought in effects valued at $67,442,532, exclusive of personal baggage.

When a woman does it at home she calls it the "wash," but when she sends it down town she calls it the "laundry."

TOOTHACHE.

About the Worst Torture That Ever Afflicted Mankind.

"You of the younger generation," said the dentist severely, "don't appreciate the importance of the conquest of toothache that dentistry has made.

"Toothache is the worst torture that ever afflicted mankind. Its pains—'lancinating' they are technically called—are worse than the pains of cancer. Worse than cancer; that is the truth. I have heard it from physicians; I have heard it from three old people whom cancer finally killed. They all said that the pain of cancer at its worst was mild beside the pain of the worst toothache.

"Toothache drove De Quincy to opium eating. De Quincy, too, says in his 'Opium Eater'—like all dentists, I have the passage by heart:

"'No stronger expression of toothache's intensity and scorching fierceness can be imagined than this fact, that within my private knowledge two persons who had suffered alike under toothache and cancer have pronounced the former to be on the scale of torture by many degrees the worse. In both there are at times lancinating pangs—keen, glancing, arrowy radiations of anguish—and upon these the basis of comparison is rested, paroxysm against paroxysm, with the result that I have stated.'"

A VERY PRETTY LETTER.

The Story of Byron's Proposal to Miss Milbanke.

Byron's proposal to his wife, Miss Milbanke, was made after sordid discussion and study and lacked all impulse. Lady Melbourne, who stood in his confidence, observing how cheerless and unsettled his mind and prospects were, strenuously advised him to marry. She suggested a certain lady, but Lord Byron fancied the idea of marrying Miss Milbanke.

"No," said Lady Melbourne; "Miss Milbanke will not suit you. In the first place, she has no fortune now, and you want money immediately. In the next place, you want a person who will have great admiration for your genius; she has too great an admiration for herself."

"Well," said Byron, "as you please."

And, sitting down, he wrote a letter to the lady recommended by Lady Melbourne. He received a refusal.

"Now, you see," said he, "Miss Milbanke is to be the person, after all. I will write to her."

As soon as he had finished his friend, still remonstrating, read the note and observed:

"Well, really, this is a very pretty letter. It is a pity it should not go."

"Then it shall go," exclaimed Byron. And, so saying, he sealed and sent the fiat of his unhappy fate.

The Allowance.

"But," protested the wayward son, "you should make allowance for the follies of youth."

"Huh!" growled the old man. "If it wasn't for the allowance you get there would be less folly."

Your Mother?

A QUEER EXPERIENCE

Alma-Tadema's Miraculous Escape From Death.

FREAKS OF AN EXPLOSION.

The Artist's House Was Wrecked, and How He Got Out Alive and Uninjured is a Mystery—The Puzzle of the Staircase and Hallway.

In 1874 a canalboat carrying a hundred barrels of gunpowder along the Regent's park canal in London exploded just opposite the magnificent house of Laurence Alma-Tadema, the famous artist, across the road. This happened at 4 o'clock on a rainy morning. Every window in London within a radius of a mile was smashed, and the houses in the immediate vicinity, though solidly built of brick and stone, were wrecked.

"I was sound asleep in bed at the time," said Alma-Tadema, "and the first I knew of the explosion was when I found myself standing out on the sidewalk in front of my house in the rain, with my pajamas on and bare feet. How I got there I never knew. The entire top of the brick wall in front of the lawn before my house was blown off, and the front of the house itself was as if driven in by the blow of a giant's fist.'

"The canalboat, we found out afterward, had blown up underneath a solid bridge that crossed the canal at that point. Had it not been for that my house and the others near it would have been utterly knocked to pieces. It was fortunate, too, that there was no one on the street at the time. Had the explosion occurred in the daytime hundreds of persons might have been killed or maimed.

"But the strangest episode connected with the event concerned the man whose duty it was to keep watch on the bridge during the night. His name was Peter Knox. He was thirty-seven years old, married and had two children. I knew the fellow and had often chatted with him on the bridge. The day before the explosion he had arranged with a friend of his to come at 4 o'clock and relieve him. It was a Saturday, and he wanted to take his wife and children a little trip down to Bushey park on the Thames, and he wished to get to him home in east London in time so as to have breakfast and be off early on Sunday morning.

"Well, as 4 o'clock drew near, Peter, so he told me afterward, began to feel anxious lest his friend should have forgotten the appointment. He paced up and down the bridge and looked up the street, but the morning was so dark and misty with the rain that he could see only a short distance. A few minutes before 4, he said, he noticed a line of canalboats come slowly down toward the bridge, but paid no special attention to them.

"Just before the first boat passed under the bridge he stepped off it, though in doing so he was infringing the regulations, and sauntered up the street in the direction from which he expected his friend to appear. He had gone about forty yards when the explosion took place, and when he turned not a brick of the bridge was left. If he had been less impatient or if his friend had been more prompt, one or both of them would never have been seen or heard of again.

"But my own little adventure was singular enough. As I said, I was not conscious of having been awakened by the explosion, still less of having got out of bed, come downstairs, opened the front door and stepped out to the sidewalk. The shock had knocked all memory of these acts out of my head, and I have never recovered it.

"But what puzzled me most was the condition of things I found when I went back into the house. The hall was a mass of wreckage, and the staircase from top to bottom was covered with pieces of broken glass, sharp as razors and so distributed that I found it impossible to ascend without a light to show me where not to tread.

"Nevertheless I had come down these same stairs, with my eyes shut or unseeing, and had never so much as scratched my bare feet. The thing was impossible, and yet I had done it. I had been skeptical about miracles before that, but since then I have been both a believer and an evangelist."

His Quietus.

"What would you do," he whispered hoarsely, "if by some terrible accident I should be drowned?"

In the mild moonlight he saw his young wife pale and shudder.

Not Impressed.

"I have been abroad in the best of society," boasted the city youth. "Why, even my trunks bear the labels of Switzerland."

"Gosh, that ain't nothing, sonny!" drawled his rural uncle. "So does a box of cheese."

Sponges Are Sunstruck.

The sponge being an animal, it is necessary to kill it. This is done by exposing it for several hours on the broad decks of the boats. In summer sponges soon die, but in winter take a long time owing to weaker force of the sun. After death they are brought ashore and put in the cradles. These are inclosures made on the seashore by setting stakes a little apart from each other. The ebb and flow of the tide wash the animal matter from the sponges, and the work is completed by manual labor. They are then taken to the packing house, graded, strung, baled and dispatched to their destination.—Pall Mall Gazette.

THE GRAMPUS GOURMET.

"Of all the gourmets on land or water," said the captain, "commend me to the grampus."

The ladies at the captain's table looked with inquiring smiles at the handsome sailor.

"The grampus," he went on, "is a kind of overgrown shark or a kind of undersized fighting whale. You can take your choice. At any rate, he is a terrible creature to meet with if you happen to be aquatic.

"He and his mate travel together. Sometimes they have a friend along—big, fine, strong chap, as such friends usually are. And their game is the bowhead whale.

"When they find a whale they go at him. They stick to him invincibly. They punch and thump till he is as limp as a rope of seaweed with exhaustion. Then, by means of one horrible deed, they show their unexampled gluttony.

"They take hold of the whale's lower lip; they hang their weight on it until it drops open. Then in go their heads, disappearing inside that great red mouth, that warm, moist cavern of scarlet, and they eat in there the whale's tongue, a tender tidbit, very rich and delicate.

"The tongue consumed, they go on their way again, leaving the whale to die slowly."

WHITE ISLAND.

Its Strange Lakes, Sulphur Fumes and Clouds of Steam.

White island, a New Zealand natural wonder, derives its name from the clouds of white steam in which it appears to be continually enveloped. Its area is only 600 acres and its height about 880 feet above the sea level.

In form and color it is like a reposing camel, while its interior, with its gray, weather beaten, almost perpendicular cliffs, recalls the Coliseum at Rome. Overhanging the southern landing place stands a column of rock closely resembling a sentinel, which has been dedicated to the memory of Captain Cook. The water of the island is of a pale green hue, and anything dipped into it becomes of a red brick color. The fumes of sulphur are always plainly perceptible.

On a fine moonlight night a wonderful sight is afforded to any one who will sit in an open boat in one of the lakes of the island. Covering an area of fifty acres is an immense caldron, hissing and spouting and sending forth volumes of poisonous steam, while all chances of egress appear to be denied by the steep, silent and gloomy cliffs.—British Australian.

Flying Fish.

Interesting are the habits of the flying fish, that queer denizen of the sea found principally in the region of the trade winds. "Does it rise from the sea like a bird?" you ask. No. It shoots out of the waves like an arrow, and with outspreading wings sails on the wind in graceful curves, rising sometimes, one might say, to the height of fifteen feet, but not often so high, and then, lowering it again touches the crest of a wave and renews its flight. This operation may be repeated till it covers a distance, say, of 500 yards in the case of the stoutest on the wing, though very often not half that distance is covered. A ship sailing through the trade winds will often be visited on dark nights by flying fish which hit the sails or rigging and fall on deck, where of course they soon give up life.

Stone Arch Culvert.

These days we have a great deal about permanent structures and the use of cement for such works.

On Yonge street at Newtonbrook, about eight miles north of Toronto, is a stone arch culvert, says The Canadian Engineer, which has withstood wear and tear for three-quarters of a century.

Yonge street was used as a highway before 1800, and during the war of 1812-15 was improved as a military road. Later, about 1835, part of the road was macadamized, and a number of large stone culverts built, among them this one.

The culvert is 42 feet long and carries not only the highway traffic but also the roadbed of the Metropolitan Street Railway, which runs the heaviest electric rolling stock used in Canada. At the water line the opening is 10 feet wide and rises seven feet.

Seventy-three years' exposure to the elements has done but little injury to the structure.

Kid Was on the Job.

Mr. E. L. Richardson, manager of the recent successful Dominion Fair held at Calgary, and secretary of the Board of Trade of that growing city, was in charge of the Alberta exhibit at the Toronto Exposition.

Mr. Richardson is remarkably boyish in appearance and one day at the Calgary Fair was standing near Lieutenant-Governor Bulyea and other distinguished visitors in a select portion of the grand stand, when a very officious usher grabbed him and started to lead him away, remarking to the great amusement of the gubernatorial party: "Here, sonny, this isn't any place for kiddies."

Richardson quickly flung open his coat, and revealed the manager's badge, saying with a chuckle: "I guess I'm the kiddy who is running this fair."

Huge Boa-Constrictor Escapes.

There was a serious danger of a riot at the Exhibition grounds one day during the Toronto fair. A giant 27-foot boa-constrictor escaped from the Great Sibley Show on the Midway, and made for the Ferris Wheel. With wonderful rapidity he wound his massive form around the iron-work of the wheel. Wood of the escape was sent to Mr. Sibley, and he at once secured a drag-net, and assisted by horse and cattle men, rounded up the boa, and recaptured it.

Every Home Needs This Great Discovery!

ANCIENT Greece will always be remembered for the fine types of manhood supplied by the heroes of her battlefields and the athletes of her arenas, but still more will these heroes and athletes themselves be remembered for the custom they bequeathed to later ages of healing sore and injured places on their bodies by the external application of some secret balm or salve. The Greek charioteers did not emerge from their mad races without some severe bruise or gaping wound; and to anoint each injury carefully with their favorite balm was an indispensable part of the day's program. Our own instinct tells us to rub a part that hurts; and in Zam-Buk the ideal substance to apply to an injured or diseased surface is found at last. It is a well-known fact that ordinary ointments, creams, salves, liniments, and embrocations have hitherto been imperfect in their action, and frequently contain quantities of rancid animal fat and harmful mineral products.

Zam-Buk is free from any of these serious objections. It is made exclusively from herbal extracts and essences. Just as nature prompts you to rub a place which hurts, so in Zam-Buk she provides you with a herbal balm with which to rub, or to apply to a cut, bruise, injury, or diseased surface. Zam-Buk is so refined, that, unlike other ointments, it can be absorbed by the skin. It is also highly antiseptic, kills disease germs and prevents blood-poisoning, suppurating, and festering. Apply Zam-Buk to a sore, a cut, a scratch, a poisoned wound, a patch of Eczema, and at once the healing process begins. It draws out the inflammation, ends pain and smarting, and heals. Zam-Buk is nothing less than "Applied Nature." The vegetable world was given as man's medicine chest. Zam-Buk (compound purely from valuable herbal essences) is Nature's cure for all skin diseases and injuries. The best test is a personal test. Send in for a free box and let Zam-Buk prove its own case.

Zam-Buk heals sores, eczema, skin eruptions, ulcers, ringworm, itch, barber's rash, blood poisoning, bad leg, salt rheum, abrasions, abscesses, cuts, burns, scalds, and all skin injuries and diseases. Of all stores and druggists, at 50 cents, or from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price, 3 boxes for $1.25.

THE GREAT SKIN-CURE.

A Xantippe Outwitted.

An Englishman of Lymington had the misfortune to live in a continuous quarrel with his wife, who was a modern Xantippe and threatened in case she survived him to dance over his grave. It was her lot to outlive him, but it was not so easy to carry out her threat. The husband had the precaution to make an injunction in his will requiring his body to be buried in the sea near his residence and without ceremony. The injunction was complied with.

Succeeded.

"No, sir," said the stern parent, "I cannot give my consent—at least not now. Before I will think of confiding my daughter to your care you must succeed in doing something."

"Oh, I've done that. I succeeded in kissing her last night after she had assured me that I never could until you had given your approval."

"No; I've decided never to accept friendly advice any more."

"Why not? It doesn't cost you anything."

"Well, I've found out that it almost invariably costs you your friends."—Exchange.

TENDERS FOR DREDGING

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Dredging," will be received until 15th October, 1903, at 4.30 p.m., for dredging Terminal Basin at Mouth of Mission River, Ontario, and also for dredging an additional 3 feet over the areas already dredged to a depth of 21 feet in the Kaministiquia and Mission Rivers as specified.

Tenders will not be considered unless made on the form supplied, and signed with the actual signatures of tenderers.

Specification and form of tender can be obtained on application to J. G. Sing, Esq., Resident Engineer, Confederation Life Building, Toronto; J. L. Michaud, Esq., Resident Engineer, Merchants' Bank Building, St. James Street, Montreal; W. P. Merrick, Esq., Resident Engineer, Fort William, Ont., and at the Department of Public Works, Ottawa. Tenders must include the towing of the plant to and from the works. Only dredges can be employed which are registered in Canada at the time of the filling of tenders. Contractors must be ready to begin work within twenty days after the date they have been notified of the acceptance of their tender.

An accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, for thirty thousand dollars ($30,000.00) must be deposited as security. The cheque will be returned in case of non-acceptance of tender.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS

ANY PERSON who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother, or sister of intending homesteader.

DUTIES—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

TRENT CANAL

ONTARIO-RICE LAKE DIVISION

SECTION No. 7

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Trent Canal", will be received until 16 o'clock on Tuesday, the 20th day of October, 1903, for the works connected with the construction of Section No. 7, Ontario-Rice Lake Division of the Canal.

Plans, Specifications and the form of the contract to be entered into, can be seen on and after September 30th, 1903, at the office of the Chief Engineer, of the Department of Railways and Canals, Ottawa, and at the office of the superintending Engineer, Trent Canal, Peterborough, Ont., at which places forms of tender may be obtained.

Parties tendering will be required to accept the fair wages Schedule prepared or to be prepared by the Department of Labour, which Schedule will form part of the contract.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and in the case of firms, unless there are attached the actual signatures, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm.

An accepted bank cheque for the sum of $10,000.00 must accompany each tender, which sum will be forfeited, if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work, at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The cheques thus sent in will be returned to the respective contractors whose tenders are not accepted.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
L. K. JONES,
Secretary.

WHERE SAVAGES BEAT US

The rude, uncultured savage did not sit most of the day in a padded office chair, a carriage or car. His food was not prepared by a chef. He had to hunt for something to eat. And dinner, when he got it, was none too rich.

But the rude, uncultured savage did not suffer from indigestion, constipation, biliousness, headaches, as we civilized beings do. Exercise and the amount of fruit and fresh vegetables in his diet, kept liver, bowels and kidneys working right.

None of us want to go back to the days of wigwams and tomahawks but a lot of us certainly would like to have the digestion of the savages.

We can, by taking "Fruit-a-tives." "Fruit-a-tives" act directly on the stomach, liver, kidneys and skin, and keep these organs in perfect condition. "Fruit-a-tives" bring back lost appetite and sound digestion to the Dyspeptic—regulate the bowels of those who suffer from Constipation — and build up the whole system. Trial size 25c. HARVARD'S CRIMSON.

The Incident That Gave the University Its Color.

Although President Eliot's opposition to modern college football is well known, he has always been interested in some athletics and during his undergraduate days himself participated in college sports. Many a crew has listened to his interesting experiences of those days when Harvard pulled eight oars and Yale six, a time allowance usually being given for the difference, and when the crew met professionals and raced for prize money which got the crew out of debt. But all of this was part of his desire to keep up his physical, mental and moral health. He developed no one set of muscles out of all proportion to another, and unquestionably he believed then, as now, in a sound mind and a sound body.

He likes to tell of the origin of Harvard's "crimson." In 1858 the first Harvard rowing shell was put on the water. Three men, of whom Alexander Agassiz was one, got together and bought it.

"We had not paid for the boat," said President Eliot when asked about this, "and we depended on our first prize money to pay for it. Well, the day before the race it appeared that there were to be thirteen or fourteen boats in the race, and we said to each other, 'How are our friends going to know us in the regatta?' We had no uniform, nothing at all to distinguish us. We had rowed in our various underclothes up to that time. So Ben Crowninshield and I went down to Hovey's and bought six red handkerchiefs just about that color," picking up a flower from the table, "and we tied those handkerchiefs around our heads, and that, gentlemen, is the origin of the Harvard red. Here is the kind of silk handkerchief that was worn a few years later," showing a handkerchief. "It was not the right color. The trouble was that magenta came in, and the Harvard color was magenta for a few years, but that handkerchief is a poor aniline dye. This," showing an American Beauty rose of a very dark red hue, "was the real color."—Sidney Curtis in Success.

Music and Chess.

As is well known, Sir Walter Parratt, M. V. O., the newly appointed professor of music in Oxford university, is an enthusiastic chess player. On one occasion at St. Michael's college, Tenbury, he undertook to play two men in consultation and at the same time play on the pianoforte from memory pieces selected by those present from any of the classical writers for that instrument. He not only played brilliantly during the games, never once looking at the board, but conversed animatedly with several persons, who did their best to distract him. The game lasted an hour, and Sir Walter was the victor. His pianoforte selections while the game was in progress came from such giants as Bach, Mozart, Beethoven, Mendelssohn and Chopin, and he afterward explained that for the greater part of the hour he had been intensely interested in the efforts of a fly to disentangle itself from a spider's web!—Westminster Gazette.

An Eye to Business.

A good story is going the round of theatrical circles in London, which has the advantage of being perfectly true, according to the Jewish Chronicle. One of the features of Beerbohm Tree's production of "The Merchant of Venice" has been his introduction of real Jews to form the crowd in the ghetto. When Mr. Tree first met his Jewish crowd he informed them that the Christians in the play would affect to spit upon them. "Understand," said Mr. Tree, "it will not be real, but only pretense." He then informed them as to the proposed remuneration. One old man looked wistfully at Mr. Tree and said at last, "I say, sir, couldn't you make it a little more and let them spit?"

Pike Ate the Trout.

Two years ago Sir Julius C. Werner, the South African mining magnate, had the lake at Luton Hoo park netted for coarse fish and the bed cleaned at a great cost. Eleven thousand rainbow trout were then placed in the pool. The lake was again netted recently, when 1,800 pike, one of which weighed seventeen pounds, were caught.

There were, however, only nine trout, the sole survivors of the 11,000 introduced to the water two years before.—London Mail.

An Awful Outlook.

There can be no doubt that within a very few years the shortage of paper will work some curious changes in certain familiar aspects of life. Paper is made from grasses and wood pulp, but, so far as newspapers are concerned, almost entirely from the latter. The rise in price of paper is already causing alarm in Europe. When news papers are no more the nations will probably relapse into barbarism until the forests have regrown themselves again.—Calcutta Indian News.

"Yes—in Haste."

Bridge, the telephone and motoring killed conversation. The picture post card is now rapidly killing the art of correspondence. A few words in telegraphic style replace nowadays the long, witty and interesting letters which our forefathers exchanged.—Berlin Zeitung.

She Recalled an Instance.

"Mrs. Peddicord," said that lady's husband, "did you ever say anything that you afterward regretted saying?"

"Certainly. I said 'Yes' once and have been sorry for it ever since."

QUEER ANSWERS.

Entrance Pupils At Ottawa Are Shaky On Geography.

In reading the papers written by Ottawa pupils on the geography entrance examination recently, Mr. A. H. McDougall, B.A., preserved some of the peculiar answers which touched his risible sense. The mistakes are for the most part in describing the geographical location of various places.

"Winnipeg is situated north of the Black Sea," declares one pupil. Another asserts that "Manitoba is either a Province in Canada or a city in Winnipeg."

"Ontario is a city in Toronto," says one who would probably put the cart before the horse if asked to put the animal in harness.

In one of the questions the word "supremacy" was used, a candidate seizing largely at the word that sounded so well. "Victoria is important because it is the supremacy of the C. P. R.," he wrote.

When Tom Longboat returns to Canada he will be able to say whether or not this assertion is true: "The first reason for England's commercial supremacy is because she is a marshy country."

The dwellers in the caverns by the Mountain will gnash their teeth when informed by one youth who has early learned to be sarcastic that their "Hamilton is important because it is near Toronto." The Hamiltonians may be somewhat mollified, for another pupil flatters them by saying that Hamilton is situated on the Ottawa river not far from the Capital. Apparently he was thinking of Gatineau Point.

A pupil who declares that "Toronto is on the coast of Lake Erie on the American side," also numbers New York and New Orleans among the chief Canadian cities. If this spirit spreads among the rising generation, Canada will be annexing the republic.

TEACH YOURSELF NOW

For Your Own—Your Children and Your Friends Sake.

Diseased parts of the air passages can best be reached by dry air. The bronchial tubes and lungs can only be reached by dry air. Hyomei is a dry air treatment from which you get the Balsamic effect of diving in the Pine and Eucalyptic Forests, where catarrhal and bronchial troubles do not exist.

Hyomei destroys the germs that cause disease of the breathing organs; you simply, by the use of a rubber inhaler, mix Hyomei air with your inward breath as it reaches the diseased parts, where catarrhal, bronchial, croup or pneumonia germs are multiplying by millions, their life is snuffed out, as they are the disease, their extermination means quick improvement.

Wm. Madill has the agency for Hyomei and will furnish the complete outfit for $1 under guarantee to satisfy. For sale by Wm. Madill, corner of George and Hunter streets.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

When cold sores appear, a bit of absorbent cotton which has been saturated with camphor spirits is very effective.

Hollow places under the eyes can be filled out by massage and the constant use of a good skin food. Much benefit will come from bathing the eyes every morning with cold salt water and by applying occasionally a compress of rosewater.

When powder does not adhere nicely to the face it is because the skin is too dry. Anoint the surface every night with a good skin food after having washed the face in warm water. This will get the skin in good condition. Before applying the powder to the face it is well to anoint it first with a little cream, wiping off the thickest before the powder is used.

A conspicuous feature of the face is the eyebrows, but these are rarely arched or even regular, yet nothing can be simpler than to rub them with vaseline twice a week, or, better, three times, taking care to smooth the hairs at each stroke in the way they should grow. This treatment continued faithfully for years will not only give desirable shape to the brows, but will create a good color.

There is a beauty specialist who assures her patients that there is nothing to compare with the pillow nap, as she calls it, for producing beauty. The sleeping out of doors fad in "down to zero" days and other "dares" to colds, which call forth remonstrances from old fashioned persons, will be thrown into the shade, the specialist says, by this new beauty sleep. She places three little rose leaf pillows, which she calls ear pillows, under a patient's head. Heaped on the couch "in such a way as to rest the nerves" are other pillows filled with various compounds. There are three large square pillows filled with pine needles loosely packed and several of clover top and lavender.

Life without liberty is joyless, but life without joy may be great. The greatness of life is sacrifice.—Quida.

HANBURY-WILLIAM'S CAREER.

Governor-General's Secretary Is Distinguished Soldier.

Very little is known, by the average Canadian, of Col. Hanbury-Williams, the Governor-General's secretary, who was knighted on the occasion of the Quebec Tercentenary. A writer, signing himself "The Marquise de Fontenoy," who contributes syndicate articles on English notabilities to a number of Canadian papers, has an article about Sir John which may very well be reprinted. The article runs:

His appointment as military secretary to the Governor-General of Canada four years ago, was made at the personal instance of the King, who entertains the highest regard for Hanbury-Williams, and who wished to atone for the undeserved slight placed upon him through the cancelling of his nomination to the post of military attache of the English Embassy at Paris. The assignment was cancelled at the request of the French Government and military authorities, who objected to it in consequence of the fact that the colonel's wife was a Miss Annie Reiss of Manchester, a member of the Hebrew race, though not of the Jewish creed.

It was considered by the authorities at Paris that in view of the Anti-Semitic feeling that still prevailed among military men in France and also in certain political and social circles in Paris—four years ago the anti-Dreyfus fever was still strong—the fact that Mrs. Hanbury-Williams was a Jewess would give rise to difficulties.

King Edward, who, like Emperor William, entertains no prejudice whatever with regard to the Jewish race, not only endeavored to atone for the affront by inviting the Hanbury-Williamses to be his guests at Balmoral, but likewise directly interested himself in their future, the colonel's appointment to the staff of the Governor-General of Canada being made, as I have mentioned above, at his suggestion.

Sir John Hanbury-Williams is a particularly able officer. He distinguished himself in several of the Egyptian campaigns, as well as in the Burmese and South African wars; was military secretary to Lord Milner throughout a considerable portion of the latter's Lord High Commissionership in South Africa, and was afterwards secretary to the Secretary of State for War. Lady Hanbury-Williams is not only wealthy, but also a tactful and clever woman, who has made hosts of friends in Canada. Sir John has received, in addition to his knighthood, the Star of the Victorian Order, and it is said that the Prince of Wales intimated to him on behalf of his father, the King, that the latter was particularly pleased to bestow the honor in question on so distinguished an officer.

Psychology of Broken Jaws.

It might be a bit of a strange fact, but you would be astonished to see the broken jaws which are presented at free institutions on holidays—election day, New Year's day and the Fourth of July. A great number of fractured jaws are the result of quarrels among the very lowest classes. It surprises me that the number of broken jaws is not on the increase on account of the heated newspaper discussions that we are constantly having on various topics of the day. It has been said that were it not for the mouth nine-tenths of the gossip and the mischief of the world would be prevented. And very often were it not for the mouth there would be no broken jaws.—D. B. Brunswick in New York Medical Journal.

Shooting Stars.

When a shooting star enters into the outer atmosphere the resistance of the combustible gases in the air and can be found in what is known as atmospheric dust. The virgin snow of the polar regions was often seen to be spotted with traces of dust which contained particles of iron. Like particles are found on church towers and elsewhere. Among the minute bodies that dance in the sun's rays there are certainly particles of shooting stars.

Showing Him How.

"You young scoundrel," said the father, seeing his disobedient son by the hair, "I'll show you how to beat your mother!"

And he gave him several blows on the ears and then shook him until his hair began to fall out.

KILLS HERSELF AT THE FALLS.

Woman Commits Suicide at Niagara—Twelfth in Three Months.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., Oct. 7.—About 7 o'clock yesterday morning a woman about six feet tall, wearing a black hat, long black coat, black shoes and spectacles and of sallow complexion, appeared in the reservation here acting strangely and tried to cross over the bridge to Goat Island, but was stopped by a policeman who informed her that the island was not open to visitors until 8 o'clock.

About 8 o'clock she walked towards Prospect Point. Officers started after her, but before they reached her she passed under the railing and leaped from the bank into the American Falls.

This is the twelfth suicide here since July 1.

ARRESTS INCENDIARIES.

Provincial Detective Rounding Up Firebugs in Eastern Ontario.

Almonte, Oct. 7.—Provincial Detective Reburn has been clearing up some incendiary cases in Eastern Ontario.

On Sunday he arrested Aaron Bulger, son of a farmer near here, for having set fire seven times since July 12 to the timber on the land of an adjoining farm. It was spite work against the farmer, who had recently bought the place. Bulger was yesterday committed for trial.

Detective Reburn also arrested W. F. McBain, a farmer, in Lancaster Township, for setting fire to his son's barns on Sept. 3. McBain was sent for trial by a Cornwall magistrate.

Parted From Child Fifteen Years.

New York, Oct. 7.—Mrs. Flora Avery of Spearfish, N.D., met her fifteen-year-old daughter, Myrtle Barber, for the first time in nearly fourteen years, in the Supreme Court yesterday, where the child had been produced on a writ of habeas corpus. The child, for two years, has been an inmate of the Roman Catholic Protectory in Westchester, to which the girl had been committed by Magistrate Fitzgerald of Brooklyn.

Mrs. Avery's discovery of her daughter's whereabouts followed the arrest in this city of Charles Barber, father of the girl and former husband of Mrs. Avery.

A Colossal Robbery.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 7.—It came out yesterday that the proceeds of the train robbery that occurred near Vilna eight days ago were very much higher than was at first estimated. The robbers got away with a little over $380,000. Of this amount $150,000 was in registered letters, mostly bank correspondence.

Should there be another robbery the railroad will be placed under martial law.

Seats Come High.

Montreal, Oct. 7.—Frank Weir bought a seat on the Montreal Stock Exchange yesterday for $19,500.

The seat was bought for F. T. Buchanan, and it is said that the previous owner was the late Dumont Laviolette. It was sold through L. J. Forget & Co.

After the sale was made $20,000 was bid for a seat by a member of the exchange.

Shoots His Young Son.

Fredericton, N.B., Oct. 7.—At the hospital, Ned Clements Lyons, the five-year-old son of Archie Lyons of Doaktown, is lying at the point of death as the result of a bullet received from his father's gun while the latter was showing a friend the weapon, not knowing it was loaded. A critical operation was performed by doctors in an effort to remove the bullet.

Father and Son Dead.

Wingham, Oct. 7.—John Hanna, formerly a well-known merchant and one of the earliest settlers here, died early Monday morning, in his 73rd year. The end was hastened by the shock of his son's death in the same house from typhoid. The body of the latter, George C. Hanna, had not yet been carried out when the father passed away.

Mr. Hanna, Sr., was three times mayor of Wingham, and at one time won a valuable prize as the most popular man of the town.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Steady—Hogs Turn Firmer at Buffalo Market.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—London cables for cattle are steady at 11¾c to 12¼c per pound, dressed weight; refrigerator beef is quoted at 9¾c to 10¼c per pound.

Toronto Live Stock.

TORONTO, Oct. 6.—Receipts of live stock at the City Market were 83 carloads, composed of 1248 cattle, 1648 hogs, 2490 sheep and lambs and 85 calves.

Exporters.

None on sale and apparently none wanted.

Butchers.

The quality of the butchers' cattle on sale was not as good as those offered at the Junction, consequently the prices paid were not as high as quoted for that market. Choice picked lots sold at $4.50 to $4.75; loads of the best on sale, $4.20 to $4.45; medium, $3.90 to $4.15; common, $3.60 to $3.75; cows, $2.75 to $3.75; canners, $1 to $2.

Feeders and Stockers.

Supplies were fairly large in both classes, but good quality steers are scarce. H. & W. Murby report prices unchanged from our last quotations, as follows: Best feeders, 950 to 1050 lbs. each, at $3.60 to $3.90 per cwt.; best feeders, 800 to 900 lbs. each, at $3 to $3.35; best stockers, 650 to 700 lbs. each, at $2.50 to $3; medium stockers, 600 to 800 lbs. each, at $2.35 to $2.60; common stockers, 500 to 700 lbs. each, at $2 to $2.25; distillery bulls, $2.25 to $2.75.

Milkers and Springers.

Choice milkers and springers are at a premium. The best cows sell readily at $50 to $60, and an odd cow now and again reaches $65; common to medium cows sell at $30 to $40 each.

Veal Calves.

Receipts moderate; prices firm at $3 to $6.50 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Receipts were large, 2490 being on sale, which caused a little easier feeling. Export ewes, $3.25 to $3.50 per cwt.; rams, $2.50 to $3 per cwt.; lambs, $4.25 to $4.90 per cwt.

Hogs.

Mr. Harris reports hog prices 10c lower than yesterday, or selects at $6.40 and lights at $6.15 per cwt.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, Oct. 6.—Cattle—Receipts, 150 head; fairly active and steady; prime steers, $5.35 to $5.35.

Veals—Receipts, 200 head; active and 25c lower; $5 to $9.25.

Hogs—Receipts, 5200 head; slow; pigs, 10c to 15c higher; others 10c to 20c lower; heavy, $6.90 to $7.05; mixed, $6.60 to $6.90; yorkers, $6.25 to $6.75; pigs, $4 to $6.75; roughs, $5.40 to $5.75; dairies, $6 to $6.50; grassers, $5.75 to $6.50.

New York Live Stock.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Beeves—Receipts, 1622; steers, nominal; bulls, steady; cows, higher; bologna cows, 20c to 40c higher than last week; bulls, $2.80 to $3.35; cows, $1.30 to $4.65; dressed beef, steady and in fair demand; shipments to-day, none.

Calves—Receipts, 226; veals and western calves, steady; grassers, easier; veals, $5.50 to $9.75; culls, $4 to $5; grassers, $3.50 to $3.75; westerns, $4.25.

Sheep and lambs—Receipts, 2264; sheep, steady; lambs, firm to a shade higher; sheep, $3 to $4.50; yearlings, $3; lambs, $6.25 to $7; culls, $4.

Hogs—Receipts, 3520; market weak at $6.50 to $7; pigs, $6.25 to $6.60.

Chicago Live Stock.

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—Cattle—Receipts estimated at about 11,000; market for steers weak to 10c lower; butchers' cattle steady; calves strong; steers, $4.40 to $7.40; cows, $3.25 to $5.25; heifers, $3 to $5.25; bulls, $2.50 to $4.50; calves, $3.50 to $8.50; stockers and feeders, $2.60 to $4.65.

Hogs—Receipts estimated at about 27,000; market 10c to 15c lower; choice heavy shipping, $6.30 to $6.90; butchers', $6.70 to $6.85; light mixed, $6.90 to $6.85; choice light, $6.50 to $6.75; packing, $6.20 to $6.40; pigs, $3.50 to $5.30; bulk of sales, $6.20 to $6.40.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts estimated at about 24,000; market steady to 10c higher; sheep, $4.25 to $4.40; lambs, $4.75 to $6.40; yearlings, $5.25 to $6.75.

License Vote in Connecticut.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 7.—The prohibition forces had a drawn battle with the liquor men in the town elections of Monday, the complexion of 168 towns remaining unchanged.

Nine towns went from no license to license. Nine others went from license to no-license.

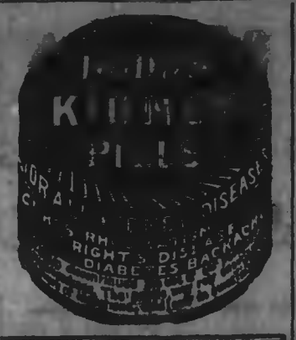
This makes 97 town no-license to 71 license.

Limit to Skyscrapers.

New York, Oct. 7.—If the building code revision committee has its way, according to a resolution adopted yesterday, buildings in this city will be restricted to 300 feet in height, unless they face a park, square or plaza, when they may be built 350 feet high. An ordinance will be drawn containing these provisions.

Falls From Ladder.

Woodstock, Oct. 7.—At Thamesford, Thomas Newton, resident of the village for 25 years, fell from a ladder suspended from the roof and was killed.



BORDEN IN BRANT.

Brantford, Oct. 7.—R. L. Borden visited Brantford yesterday and addressed an audience of about 3,000 people in the Waterloo Rink. The Conservative leader was accompanied only by Col. Hugh Clark.

The Conservative leader was met at the T., H. & B. depot by a number of prominent Conservatives and the 38th Regiment Band and taken to the Kerby House, where he held a reception. Afterwards he was driven around the city, visits being made to the Mohawk Indian Institute, the Brant monument, the Blind Institute and the armories.

Candidates J. P. Nunan and W. F. Cockshutt, M.P., spoke at the evening meeting.

Mr. Borden dealt with the tariff question. He doubted if there was a Liberal present who could define the policy of his party in respect to the tariff.

"The platform of the Conservative party is only an adaptation to the conditions and problems of to-day of the national policy upon which Sir John Macdonald swept the country in 1878," said Mr. Borden, "and we appeal to the people upon this issue with confidence in the result."

The Conservatives stood for civil service reform. The outside service should be brought within the new act. Officers of the Government, particularly of the Interior Department, had outrageously and wantonly violated the resolution of Parliament that civil servants should take no part in election matters and Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Hon. Frank Oliver had practically, if not avowedly supported them. Officers of this Department were nothing more than machine heelers doing the work of party organizers.

"Therefore," said the chieftain, "any man who insults Parliament by outrageously and wantonly violating a principle laid down by a resolution of that body must do so at his own peril and he will have no word of complaint if he is dealt with as he deserves."

Col. Clark declared people were beginning to "get on" to the record of the Government. The Liberals were in a panic. At their opening meeting they had stolen the free rural mail delivery plank in the Conservative platform.

Canada's Richest Woman Buried.

Victoria, Sept. 7.—The funeral of the late Mrs. Jean Dunsmuir, Canada's richest woman, attracted a large gathering of pioneers, one old man walking from Nanaimo to be present. Hon. John Dunsmuir, her son, who was made the defendant in a suit brought to ask for an accounting of the estate which he was stated to have secured by misrepresentation, was not expected to be present owing to the family disagreement, but at the last moment he decided to attend, and broke down during the service. The daughters will continue the lawsuit.

Mrs. Dunsmuir's will disposes of an estate of $2,000,000, of which $85,000 goes in legacies to more distant relatives, and the residue is divided equally between the five daughters.

Foretold Her Death.

Toronto, Oct. 7—Having foretold her death weeks ago, Mrs. Leah Taylor, wife of Assher Taylor, Chestnut street, was buried yesterday.

She was 35 years of age and death occurred after giving birth to a seventh child (still-born). Her mother had died in giving birth to a seventh child, and Mrs. Taylor was so certain that she would not survive that weeks ago she made known her belief to her friends. She leaves a family of five children from 3 to 10 years of age.

Child Crushed in Street.

Vancouver, B.C., Oct. 7.—The seven-year-old son of E. Lyngheit was found on the street yesterday afternoon with his head crushed. It is presumed he attempted to climb on a heavily-laden wagon and fell under the wheels without the driver knowing it.

TAKES FITS, SAYS PTE. MOIR.

Slayer of Sergt. Lloyd Gets Postponement Until January.

London, Oct. 8.—The trial of Pte. Moir for the shooting of Sergt. Lloyd at Wellesley Barracks, was yesterday traversed to the January Assizes.

Mr. Meredith, K.C., for the defense, yesterday asked for, and was granted a postponement of the trial on the grounds of bringing important witnesses over from Scotland to prove that Moir has been subject to epileptic fits in his youth. The witnesses in question are Moir's mother and sister and two Scotch doctors. An affidavit by Dr. M. J. Robinson, superintendent of the London Asylum for the Insane, showing that Moir had been subject to epileptic fits in 1905 was also produced.

In an affidavit, on his own behalf, Moir, the accused, stated that he had been subject to epileptic fits since boyhood, and that he knew nothing beyond what had been told him of having committed any crime. Moir had further been informed by his counsel that he had been suffering from epilepsy at the time of his alleged crime.

TWELVE YEARS FOR ITALIAN.

Man Who Put Up Sanguinary Fight at Byng Inlet Punished.

Parry Sound, Oct. 7.—At the sittings of the Assize Court here yesterday Frank Sprano, an Italian, who recently attempted to shoot Provincial Constable Knight and District Constable Madigan, near Byng Inlet, while resisting arrest, was convicted of shooting with intent to commit murder and was sentenced to twelve years' imprisonment in the Manitoba penitentiary.

The prisoner, with three others, broke into a boarding-house kept by a Mrs. Eno, at Key Harbor, and stole $800. Three of them were arrested and broke jail. Sprano was working in a field near Byng Inlet and as the constables came out of the woods toward him he put up a stiff fight with a rifle.

Planted by King Edward.

New York, Oct. 7.—The big English oak, known as the Prince of Wales' tree, which grew from an acorn planted in the Mall in Central Park in 1861 by the then Prince of Wales, now King Edward, has been cut down by a park foreman under the order of Park Superintendent Beasley. The stump was pulled out and the spot covered with sod.

Several attempts have been made to save the oak by filling the rotted places with paraffin.

The acorn from which the tree grew was brought by the Prince of Wales from England.

Farm For Eighty-Two Years In The Brumwell Family Passes Into Other Hands

With the disposal of the estate yesterday of the late Mrs. Jane Brumwell, Smith township, there passed into other hands property which has for eighty-two years belonged to members of the Brumwell family. The farm sold yesterday was one of 64 acres fronting on the road opposite the city waterworks dam. An auction sale was held and the highest bidder was Mr. Joseph Green, of Peterborough, and formerly of North Monaghan. The property was sold en bloc for $4,600, Mr. John Haggart being the auctioneer.

The former history of this property is interesting, especially to the old timers. It was first settled by the late Jacob Brumwell, who about 1826 built a small mill at the mouth of a creek which entered the Otonabee at a point near where Mr. John Carnegie's residence now stands. When Mr. Jacob Brumwell died the estate passed to his son, Mr. Ephriam Brumwell and from him it went to his wife the late Mrs. Jane Brumwell and her heirs.

The Winners Of The Annual Nicholls And Gillespie Scholarships

The winners of the Nicholls and Gillespie scholarships which have been won by pupils of the Collegiate Institute at the midsummer examinations this year were announced last night at the Board of Education meeting. The winners of the Nicholls scholarships are as follows:

Faculty of education and honour matriculation, Miss Gladys Crane.

Junior matriculation, Miss Kathryn Burnett.

Normal entrance, Arthur Roseboro.

The scholarship donated by Mr. Geo. A Gillespie for Queen's University was won by Miss Lenore Sanderson.

Little News Of A Settlement Reaches Strikers At Havelock

Examiner Special

Havelock, Oct. 7.—There was a good deal of excitement in town on Monday, when a despatch was received that the strike had been settled and many doubted if the report was true.

Up to this time the strikers here have received no official notice of any settlement in the strike or to go back. There are a great many who think there is some mistake. The G. P. R. may have made that agreement, but they think that the Union may not have accepted a settlement as they wished.

There were about thirty mechanics and car repairers on strike here, and all have remained firm, not a man going back. Their places have been filled by men from Toronto, who board in cars near the shops and who do not come into the village. The supplies for Havelock are brought from Peterborough. The strike have been making pretty good time during the strike, but, although there are some bad engines that need repair, it was the same before the strike. The strikers are not all union men, and it is a wonder some of them have not returned to work before this, as they do not draw anything from the union. There are several good mechanics at present employed in the shops here, and they will likely be retained, and thus some of the old men will not get back.

Where, Oh! Where Did That Little Dog Go When Run Over?

Where did the dog go? That was the tantalising question that perplexed the few persons who witnessed the affair this morning. Car No. 13 was going down George street above Hunter street, and a small dog was running along in front of it. It was barking and jumping in front of the fender, when suddenly one foot slipped on the rail and the animal went under the fender. It was dragged along by the board in front of the wheels, and then suddenly disappeared underneath, and was not seen again.

It was expected by the bystanders and pedestrians that its mangled body would be left behind, but the car continued on its way and the dog had been carried away as securely as if it had been picked up by a sausage-maker. To those who watched the car all along the street nothing more was seen of it, but it is likely that it was caught up in the coz wheels.

CHANGES IN THE SCHOOLS

School Inspector Mowat Presents His Report to The Board Of Education

IMPROVEMENTS ARE MANY

Inspector Mowat presented a general report of the changes in the Public Schools and also mentioned the members on the various staffs. Mr. Crane read the report as follows:

The King Edward School

One new room was opened in the King Edward School, making it an eight-roomed school, and several changes took place on the staff. It now consists of Messrs. Richardson and Kerr, and Misses E. Brown, Stubbs, Tomlinson, Jackson and Martin.

East City School

The only change in this school has been the appointment of Miss E. Smith to the staff. She succeeds Miss Lochhead.

Park Street School

Two changes took place in this staff which now consists of Mr. Boazel and Misses Cairns, Sutton and Thomas.

Kindergarten Classes

The attendance of kindergarten pupils during September has been most gratifying. There are good classes in each of the five schools.

Misses Warner and Gillespie have charge of the Queen Alexandra class. Misses Davidson and Rush have charge of the South Central and East City classes, and Misses Cameron and Deane have charge of the King Edward and Central classes.

The Public School classes throughout the city are not too large, and good work is being done. The number of pupils for each teacher averages between 39 and 40.

The special teachers in art and music have made a good start with their work and their services are fully appreciated.

The teacher of domestic science is taking the work of the supply teacher until such time as the work in domestic science and manual training can be begun.

The city staff of teachers now consists of 43 regular Public School teachers, six kindergarten directresses, and three special teachers (art, music, and domestic science).

Of the 46 Public School and special teachers, 20 hold Provincial first-class certificates, and the rest hold Provincial second-class certificates, with full Normal training.

A. MOWAT.

Central School

When the Board decided to utilize the old Collegiate building for the purpose of the introduction of manual training and domestic science, the classes in the basement of the Central School were transferred to the old Collegiate, and the rooms vacated are being used for recreation purposes.

In order to relieve the overcrowding in the Central School a new class was organized and placed under the charge of the supply teacher, so that now there are ten regular classes in addition to the kindergarten class at the Central School.

The kindergarten class and the two divisions of the primary form have their rooms in the old Collegiate building. The Central staff consists of Messrs. Downey and Smith, Misses D. Brown, Staples, Hallett, Morley, McBride, Peters, Jenkins and Carey.

South Central

Two changes were made in the staff of this school. Misses Linklater and Sloan have taken the places of Misses Watt and Noble. The staff now consists of Messrs. Yanney and Stacey, and Misses Dawson, Linklater, Denne, Thompson, Ross, Sloan and Rannie.

Queen Alexandra

Three new rooms were opened at this school, making it a nine-roomed school and leaving but one room unoccupied. The attendance of pupils at this school is greater than was anticipated, and the classes are of a fair size. The staff consists of Messrs. Dunlop and Walkey and Misses Lochhead, Perrin, Watt, E. Morrow, Carlisle and M. Morrow.

HOW THE CONSUMER SEES IT

IN 1896, ON EVERY $100 WORTH OF GOODS HE NEEDED FROM ABROAD, THE CONSUMER HAD TO PAY $18.28. IN 1907, ALTHOUGH BETTER ABLE TO PAY, HE IS ASKED ONLY $15.66

WISE ADMINISTRATION HAS MADE THE DIFFERENCE

THE REPRESENTATIVES OF FIVE GENERATIONS OF AN OLD DUMMER TOWNSHIP FAMILY IN THE CITY

Here to be Photographed —Mr. Wm. Matthews, Wolfe Street, a Great-Great Grandfather

IS AN UNIQUE EXPERIENCE

Rarely does it happen that one now-a-days has the unique experience of witnessing representatives of five generations in one group. Four generations has always been considered something seldom met with, but few families can boast the survival at one period of time of the five generations.

Yet Mr. William Matthews, Wolfe street, can look down through more than four score years and see his descendants representing four families.

Mr. Matthews is a North Dummer man, and originally an Irishman. As stated above he now resides in Peterborough, being but a few years off the grand old age of ninety.

Following him in the cycle of years is his daughter, Mrs. Wm. Crowe, of Dummer, who, herself, is advancing towards the three score and ten mark. The third generation is represented by her daughter, Mrs. W. L. Dunford, of Dummer. Her son, Mr. Vincent Dunford, is the fourth, and his daughter, little Miss Veeney Viola, is the only one of the five who has not yet the pleasure of realizing that she belongs to a family that can go back some eighty-seven years and recount the pleasures and trials of almost a century of life in Peterborough County. Little Veeney Viola is but four months old and she alone does not realize the importance of the occasion—for this afternoon they all assembled at the Roy Studio where a group photograph was taken.

Rehearsal to-night, in the K. of P. Hall for "All the Comforts of Home"

YOUTH WAS FINED $2.00 FOR RIDING WHEEL ON PAVEMENT LAST WEEK

A young man pleaded guilty to indulging in riding a bicycle on the side walk on the first of October at police court this morning and was informed by the magistrate that it would cost him $2. The fine was paid promptly.

The other day the boy's uncle, who possesses the same name, was charged with the same offence, but was able to get off, because he stated that he had ridden a bicycle neither on the road or sidewalk.

A woman who had laid an information for assault against her better half appeared before the court to state that she had repented of her action and asked the court to drop the charge.

"With the greatest pleasure," replied the magistrate, as he threw the information into the waste paper basket.

FARMERS WHO WON

In Field Crop Competition in South Monaghan — Mr. John Buckham's Good Record

MR. ROBT. FISHER SECOND

The winners in the Field Crop Competitions which included the township of South Monaghan, have been announced. Mr. John Buckham took first prize and it is reported that his field of oats came within four points of the best in the province. The first prize amounts to $15.

Mr. Robert Fisher came second on the list and captured the $11 prize. Mr. Fisher, a short time ago threshed a field of 12 acres off oats which yielded 700 bushels—almost 60 bushels to the acre. The grain weighed 40 lbs. to the bushel.

The above records seem to justify the claim of the farmers of North and South Monaghan that they have the most fertile lands in the province.

THE INCANDESCENT LAMPS IN PETERBORO NUMBER NEARLY 30,000

The Inland Revenue returns of the Dominion of Canada for the year ending March 31st, 1908, show that in Peterborough there are 280 arc lamps in use and 29,000 incandescent lamps. These are divided between the Otonabee Power Company, Limited, and the Peterborough Light and Power Company. In Brantford the total number of arc lamps is 260 and of incandescent 20,000.

Thos Meade, dwelling, Cedar street, $350.

THE INSPECTION OF THE SIGNALLING CORPS TO BE HELD TO-NIGHT

All members of the Signalling Corps are urgently requested to be present at the drill hall to-night for annual inspection.

Major Mundle and Sergt.-Major McGowan, of Kingston, will perform the work of inspection.

Increase In Bell Telephone Subscribers; Throw Away Old Books And Use New

To-day the new telephone directories of the Bell Telephone were delivered to the subscribers. The new book indicates an increase of 65 telephones since the last issue of the directory—six months ago. The Bell Telephone of Peterborough can now boast of having 1,914 subscribers, making a number that has to be written in four figures. The increase since the last directory has been very encouraging. A number of the sixty-five extra 'phones are located in the rural districts.

The officials of the Bell Telephone here desire to remind all subscribers to throw away the old books and use nothing but the new, as several numbers have been changed. Often mistakes occur through this neglect. The directories are supplied free of cost.

Charity Is To Be Distributed More Systematically In City

The members of the Central Charity Board met with representatives of some of the local charitable organizations last night, for the purpose of conferring in regard to the proper distribution of charity in this city.

Relief Officer Miller referred at some length to the cases that come under his notice, in which charity was not administered properly.

Rev. G. W. Henderson, of the Charlotte Street Methodist Church; Staff Captain Goodwin, of the Salvation Army; Rev. Father McColl; Rev. H. M. Manning, of the St. James' Methodist Church; Ald. J. J. Turner, representing Rev. Dr. Langfeldt; Rev. J. G. Potter, and ladies representing Park Street Baptist and Charlotte Street Methodist Churches took part in the discussion.

The following resolution was passed:

"That in the opinion of this united meeting some joint action should be taken regarding persons or families, helpless or penniless, who are strangers, so that the city should not be unduly burdened with such as are not deserving. That the various organizations distributing charity should be notified, and asked to co-operate with the relief officer, and report to him such special cases and that a small emergency committee be chosen by the Charity Board to effectively deal with these.

Plans For Progressive Work As Prepared By Y.W.C.A. Officials

A very successful rally of the young ladies of Peterborough, was held in the Y.W.C.A. last night, the programme presented was the most interesting this season, and the work of this institution is making rapid progress. The chair was occupied by Mrs. Roger, the President, and the evening was opened with devotional exercises. The programme was as follows:

Piano duet—Misses Gladman.
Vocal solo—Master C Dovey.
Address on Educational Work by Mr. Cornish, of the Normal School.
Address—Rev. G W Henderson.
Piano solo—Miss Jean Hill.

A presentation of the work outlined for the year was made by the secretary Miss McCalla. The classes arranged for, besides the gymnasium and domestic science classes which are held nearly every afternoon, are:

Shakspere —Conducted by Mr. A Mowat, B. A., inspector of Public Schools.

Wood Carving—Conducted by Miss Ross.

Informal Social and Reading—Conducted by Miss Weir of the Collegiate Institute class.

Dr. Greer will continue his lectures on First Aid and Home Nursing.

There will also be classes in French, millinery, plain sewing and dressmaking.

Another feature is the invitation to all young ladies to go to the Y. W.C.A. with their Christmas sewing, where they will be assisted and also given ideas.

Most of these classes are included in the year's membership.

On Thursday evening, Miss Johnston, of Rochester, the new domestic science directress, will give her final free demonstration with the fireless cooker. There will also be a picnic table set with everything required for a picnic.

Dr. Elmore Harris, of the Toronto Bible Training School, will be here from the 21st to 25th of October, and will lecture daily on that branch of the work.

The evening was brought to a close with a social hour and refreshments.

An Artistically Decorated Window Showing Camp Scene

The woodland camping scene that is used to display the Peterborough Hardware Company's hunting necessaries is attracting favourable notice to-day. The south window presents an autumn forest scene. The yellowed leaves are strewn on the ground; a deer is peering through a clump of evergreen. A tent is pitched beside a little stream over which there is even a brush crossing. A log on one side is carelessly decked with hunting equipment. A fire is always burning for cooking purposes beside the brook. Mr. Jas. Squires, who planned and carried out the scheme, has been very true to nature, and at night a decidedly pretty picture is obtained.

A Potato Of Huge Proportions Comes From South Monaghan

Potatoes that weigh more than two pounds are seldom met with in this district. To-day, however, there is on exhibition at the Munro House under the care of Mr. John Jayes, a potato weighing 2 lbs. 3 oz., which was grown on the farm of Mr. Louis Byers, of South Monaghan. The potato is of the "Emigrant" variety and is a huge specimen of the potato family.

A HALF HOLIDAY FOR THE COLLEGIATE PUPILS ON FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Friday afternoon the pupils of the Collegiate Institute will have a half holiday to enable them to attend the annual field sports on Nicholls Oval. All the friends of the pupils should make it a point to be present, as it encourages them to better efforts, besides stirring up their interest in the events. The Board of Education granted the sum of $25 last night for the purpose of providing prizes for the various events.

A FALSE IDEA RIGHTED.

In Conservative journals, and by Conservative campaign orators, and private Conservative canvassers, the false statement is made that the Liberal Government is oppressing the people with high taxation; that the bigger revenue under Liberal rule is due to increased taxation. This is plain, unadulterated deception. The customs taxation under Liberal administration is about $2.50 per $100 less than it was under the Conservative tariff. The reason there is more revenue under Liberal rule is because under Liberal rule there has been greater prosperity, the people have had more money, and they could buy, and have bought so much more of goods upon which a tariff is levied, that the total has been nearly trebled under Liberal rule. The Goverment did not compel the people to pay last year's revenue of ninety-six and a half millions of dollars. The Liberal Government fixed the tariff rate, fourteen per cent. lower than the Conservative rate, and the people did the rest. Where the Liberal Government was to blame, if they have been to blame, was in governing the country so that the people were so prosperous and had so much money that they bought the goods.

It is, therefore, quite unfair and misleading to say, as the Conservatives of more reckless relations to the truth are saying, that the increased revenue of the country is due to increased rate of taxation. The highest Canadian Conservative authority in finance admits that, if the Conservative rate of tariff taxation had prevailed last year, last year's revenue of ninety-six and a half millions, on the same imports — same purchases by the people—would have been an even one hundred millions of dollars. The Montreal Gazette admits that the Canadian imports of last year, if taxed according to Conservative standards, would have cost the country three and a half millions more than they actually did cost. The people have the Liberal Government to thank for lessening the burden of tariff taxation.

THE STORY IN BRIEF.

The postage on letters mailed from one point to another in Canada has been reduced by one-third, and the rate on city drop letters by one-half. That is what a Liberal Government has done to facilitate business and social correspondence.

The rate on letters to and from the centre of the Empire has been cut down to the domestic level, and British goods entering Canada pay one-third less in Customs duties than foreign goods are compelled to contribute. That is the encouragement given by a Liberal Government to sane Imperialism.

The passenger rate on hundreds of miles of railway has been reduced by ten per cent., and freight rates have been lowered all over Canada. That is part of what a Liberal Government has done in the way of stimulating internal commerce.

The St. Lawrence canals have been deepened to fourteen feet, and an efficient system of lighting installed. The result is that the Canadian route is now monopolizing the wheat trade of the continent, and the cost of carrying our cheese and bacon to the British market has been greatly reduced.

Bringing the Intercolonial to Montreal has made the people's railway a real competitor with private railways in the moving of freight from the head of the lakes to the sea, and from Halifax to Port Arthur.

The building of the Transcontinental is creating a New Ontario and New Quebec in the North, and is adding breadth to the length of the Western Provinces of Confederation.

With the inauguration of a system of rural mail delivery, now being carried out the isolation of the farm will disappear and rural and urban life will be indissolubly linked together, both socially and commercially, and to the advantage of both.

Under the aggressive and progressive policy of the present Administration trade has expanded in every direction and new life has been infused into the arteries of commerce.

Our exports of farm produce alone for the nine months ending with March, 1907, were $41,000,000 greater than for the whole year of 1896.

The total export of Canadian products increased by $141,000,000 in the last twelve years, as compared with an increase of $90,500,000 in the twenty-eight years previous.

In eleven years 6,000 miles have been added to the length of railways in Canada and $396,000,000 to the capital invested in same.

In five years the number of farms in the three prairie Provinces has been increased from 64,625 to 139,430.

In five years nearly 130,000 immigrants have been settled on farms in the West.

Skilled farmers brought into the Canadian West (from the United States are engaged in the work of making 5,000,000 acres, formerly fallow, add to the wealth of the Dominion.

In five years the output of Canadian factories, employing five hands or more, have been increased from four hundred and eighty-one to seven hundred and six and one-half million dollars.

In five years the amount paid in salaries and wages in these same factories has increased from $113,249,000 to $162,155,000.

Twelve years ago, under a Government containing "a nest of traitors," the country was engaged in race and creed strife, trade was stagnant, and our people were pouring into the United States.

To-day, under an able, progressive Government, peace reigns, commerce is expanding, agriculture flourishes, and the exodus is from the United States, not to, the United States.—Toronto Star.

MR. ROBLIN'S SCANDAL EXPLODED.

When Premier Roblin attacked the editor of the Globe in connection with the Crow's Nest Pass Railway matter, he did not, perhaps, in his ignorance of the facts, intend to stir up a discussion which would show the Liberal Government of the Dominion in the light of public benefactors in connection with the criticized transaction, but he did so.

The Crow's Nest Pass Railway was matter antedating the Liberal access to power, and the different modes of treatment of the conditions represents the difference between the policy and practice of the Liberal and Conservative Governments. Under the Conservative administration an agreement had been made with the C. P. R. By this agreement the Government did not provide for any control over freight rates till the road paid a profit of ten per cent. upon its capital. This worked out so that it was difficult to know what the provision meant, so that the C. P. R. could charge the West what freight it liked.

In 1897 the Liberals changed all that. A subsidy of $11,000 per mile was given the Crow's Nest Pass Railway, or the C. P. R., and there was very little criticism in the House of the terms. In this agreement, the Liberal Government stipulated for, and obtained, a reduction of three cents per hundred pounds on farmers' grain shipped from West to East on the C. P. R. main line, and also a reduction in the freight rates on staple articles. This wisdom, foresight and solicitude for the public welfare had good results. The reduction of freight rates, required by the Liberal Government as a condition of the subsidy, has more than equalled the amount of subsidy to the railway, which was $3,630,000. The saving in freight rates in five years has amounted to $3,750,000, or $75,000 a year. This reduction is for all time and will be greater as wheat-growing and traffic increase.

The Liberal Government of the Dominion had nothing to do with the land grants mentioned by the Conservative scandal-mongers. They were given by the Province of British Columbia. But what the Liberal Government did do for the interests of the country was this. They got back 50,000 acres of valuable coal lands which are to-day the property of the people, and are a buffer between the people and the possible greed of the railway or coal companies, which might otherwise undertake to form a coal monopoly and hold up prices. These—reduction of freight rates and guarantee against a coal combine—were the concessions obtained by the Liberal Government. The C. P. R. got thereby a greater subsidy than it might otherwise have received, but the people of Canada got full value in the form of advantages that will be operative for all time to come, and have already more than repaid the amount of the subsidy.

This is the Crow's Nest "scandal" clothed in the garment of truth and cleansed of the mud with which the political scandal-mongers bedaubed it. This "scandal" had as much and no more foundation than the other scandals exploited by the Opposition orators and journals.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

It seems that the speakers at the Conservative rally on Saturday night agreed that there was victory in the air—very much "up in the air," too.

Our local Conservative friends are a largely logical lot. Hardly had the echo of Mr. Burnham's declaration that the pinch of poverty that was being felt, owing to lack of protection, died away, than Mr. Kendry said "he admired the United States for the progress that country was making; the United States was the most highly protected country in the world." Now anybody that knows anything, knows that alongside the desperately hard times in the United States, the little flurry of depression in Canada is rampant prosperity, in comparison.

MR. KENDRYS GRAFT.

We hear our Conservative friends shouting "graft," "graft" without any clear or justifiable warrant. It remains for Mr. Kendry to give a definition of "graft" that makes it impossible for the Government to escape the charge. Speaking at the Conservative rally on Saturday night Mr. Kendry is reported as follows:

[Mr. Kendry also scored the immigration policy of the Government and also the grafting methods in vogue at Ottawa. The big fellows had the graft first, and now the little fellows were having it. "We have quite a number of grafters over on the canal here," said Mr. Kendry, amid cheers.

Here we have a definition of "graft," as understood by Mr. Kendry—and his Conservative friend also, for his remarks on the matter were made "amid cheers." Mr. Kendry and the Conservative party hold that ever yGovernment office held by a "Grit," and not filled by a "Tory," is "graft." According to this definition it is feared that the Government cannot escape the charge. The Government in the Marine Department had an unfortunate experience in retaining Conservative officials, who, by certifying excessive accounts for supplies as "just and fair," made it possible, whether justifiable or not, for charges of "graft" to be made.

No. Mr. Kendry, even at the risk of being charged with "graft," the Liberal Government will continue to appoint the necessary officials to conduct the public service, and will continue to select them according to the recognized principles of party government in Canada.

CONSERVATIVE CHARGES.

Speaking at St. Mary's, Mr. Borden is reported in the World as saying:

"The Government had wantonly, unblushingly and audaciously misspent the money of the people of Canada, and outraged public decency."

This is strong language—stronger than Mr. Borden was wont to use till he came into intimate contact with Premier Roblin, and, like most strong language to express sweeping generalities, surpasses the mark warranted by the facts.

What justification can be found, even in the unfounded charges of graft made by the Conservatives? Since the Liberal party came into power in 1896 there has passed through their hands, incoming and outgoing, the approximate sum of eight hundred millions, and of this immense sum, only $95,507 has been challenged by the Conservatives as showing what they claim to be "graft," the "rake-off," as they call it, of the middlemen, as represented by the "Moneton land deal," the "Merwin contracts," etc., etc. In the first place, it is not shown that the amounts charged were "grafts." The contractors concerned may have made profits, some large and others smaller, but no contractor, in either public or private affairs performs a contract without expectations of profit.

It is not charged that the money was procured corruptly or dishonestly from the Government, but that the prices paid were in excess of value, and the profits or commissions were excessive.

If this charge has any foundation, can it be regarded as a very serious percentage of excess in prices, in the handling of eight hundred millions of dollars, which amounted, according to partisan charges to, in round numbers, only $100,000? or $1 in every $8,000, or one cent in every $80? Can any private or municipal business show, in even smaller expenditures, so small a percentage of leakage? and it is to be remarked that the profits alleged to be excessive have been found to be, in the main, not excessive, but that the Government paid reasonable prices for land and supplies required. It is also to be remembered that, in so far as items in connection with the Marine Department are concerned, if there was any excess of prices, the excess consisted in accounts certified to as "fair and just" by officials who had been appointed by the previous Conservative Government, and, in a spirit of mistaken generosity, as the outcome shows, retained by the Liberal Government. On the strength of the report of the Civil Service Commission to this effect, the offending officials were at once suspended, and their conduct is now the subject of judicial investigation.

But in all this alleged excess of price of one cent in every $60 expended, there is no hint of a charge against any Minister of the Crown or public official. This shows that the public money has been honestly expended for the provision of public advantages, and that the small leakages charged by the Conservatives, amounting to one cent in $80, have been due to trusted officials appointed by a Conservative Goverament, colluding with teh contractors, if any, who were making excessive profits, by certifying to their accounts as "fair and just."

The Conservative "reaction" still progresses, says the Ottawa Free Press. Mr. Henry Dalby, who was Sir Charles Tupper's organizer in 1900, is to oppose Mr. H B Ames in Montreal; and Mr. Meisear Avery, who was Conservative M.P. for Frontenac in the recently dissolved House, is out as an "Independent Liberal."

LINDSAY CHEESE SELLS AT 12 3/16 CENTS

Local Buyer Was Present—854 Cheese Boarded

Lindsay, Oct. 7.—The regular meeting of the Cheese Board was held on Monday with President Robertson in the chair. The buyers present were Messrs. Flavelle, Brown and Gillespie. There were 854 cheese boarded.

Mr. Brown started the bidding by offering 12c., Mr. Flavelle advancing to 12 3-16. This was accepted by North Verulam, Bobcaygeon and Reaboro.

Mr. Gillespie secured Star, Dunsford, North Ops, Mariposa and North Harvey at the same price.

Mr. Brown at the same offer bought Omemee and Red Rock. Mr. Flavelle offered 12,1-8c. for Maple Leaf and Pine Grove, but both refused.

The board then adjourned until Nov. 5, when the October make will be sold.

Oh, my, how your complexion has improved. Yes, Miller's Compound Iron Pills did it. Sold by J. D. Tully, druggist, Peterborough.

MEETING OF BOYS' CLUB OF KNOX CHURCH

Preparing For the Annual Meeting With All Saints

The Boys' Club of Knox Church held its weekly meeting last night, and the boys had the pleasure of listening to an interesting address delivered by Mr. Hassard, general secretary of the Y.M.C.A. Mr. Hassard was well received by the boys, who showed their appreciation of his efforts by their generous applause. The usual round of indoor games was also indulged in, and altogether the meeting was a decided success.

The boys are rapidly rounding into shape for their meet with All Saints' Club in the annual field day events, on October 17th, on Nicholls Oval. Final arrangements have been made for a concert to be held next Tuesday night in Knox Church, in aid of this event, and a good programme engaging the best talent that has been drawn up; so it is now up to the boys' friends to turn out and give them all the encouragement possible to make the whole affair a decided success.

The following week the Social Committee have the programme in charge and another enjoyable evening is assured.

PARENT ASKS QUESTIONS ABOUT SCHOOL COURSE

To the Editor of the Examiner.

What are the authorized subjects to be taught in a Public School? To what extent are the questions for Entrance Examinations based upon our text books? Should the teaching in a Public School be for the purpose of training pupils for the College's course or rather a practical education for the events of life where there is not ten per cent. take a full Collegiate course? Why should there be a tendency to increase the number of subjects in our Public Schools when the business world demands more specialists? Would it not be well to take a plebiscite vote of the will of the people to lessen the number of subjects taught in a Public School?

The campaign against the "foreign born" is not confined to Hon. W. J. Hanna and to Mr. Thomas Birkett and Mr. J. H. Burnham. In Red Deer, Alberta, the Conservatives are charging it as a crime against Dr. Clarke, the Liberal candidate, that he "was" an Englishman.

ccessful Meeting Held At Bridgenorth Last Night In Interests Of Mr. Stratton ge Attendance, Including Many Ladies---Addresses by Messrs. W. H. Meldrum, D. O'Connell and Hon. J. R. Stratton Received With Great Enthusiasm

Bridgenorth last evening was a meeting in the interests of the Midsey of Hon. J. R. Stratton, the acter and extent of the attenat which gave pretty satisfactevidence that Mr. Stratton has lost any of the favour with which has heretofore been regarded g our neighbours in the country icts. The audience was unusualarge and representative, and its onstrations left no doubt as to e its sympathies lay, and which the activity and influence of its vidual members would be directed. noteworthy feature was the large ndance of the ladies of the vicinand the interest which they took e proceedings.

r. Thomas Young was on motion inted to the chair and in a few sant prefatory remarks introduced first speaker of the evening. He been chairman for many meetings Mr. Stratton. When they voted Mr. Stratton they were supporting new man, and their past experce would assure them that they ld make no mistake in sending to the House of Commons in this tion.

Mr. W. H. Meldrum.

r. Meldrum said he was pleased ave to say 'Ladies and gentlemen" ddressing them, because when the s took an interest on behalf of a or measure, it was a pretty cerindication that success was waitnot far ahead. He himself adssed them with some diffidence as as not a practised public speaker, it was only occasionally when an tion came round, and the Scotch d in him was stirred to action in fray, that he was found taking in public discussions. But he always been glad to be able to do hare in support of the gentleman was now seeking their suffrages, on this occasion he felt it a duty to do what he could in support of Government in whose behalf Mr. tton appealed to them, because to mind, every interest of the public are demanded that at this stage national progress the services of Wilfrid Laurier should be retained helm of the ship of state. When ncess reasons compelled their late ber, Mr. Hall, to refuse again to est the riding, his action had been ttle anticipated that his renewed idacy was regarded as a matter ourse, and his determined withal left those whom he represented out a candidate and without any aration for a campaign. It was in condition that Mr. Stratton had induced to take a stand as he always done, for his friends in e of difficulty. For his own part ad always been a pleasure to him ive Mr. Stratton such support as was able, a pleasure which had seemed to be shared by the majy of Peterborough citizens, who again and again returned Mr. tton to representative positions who had never found their confibe misplaced. (Cheers). He had always supported the party now power at Ottawa. For twenty-five s he had supported Sir John Macald, believing in his distinguished Iotism, his great ability and his eat desire to promote the welfare progress of the country. To-day the same reasons he felt it a duty support the Government of Sir rid Laurier, regarding their conance in power to carry out the t public policies which had alty conferred such great benefits n the people as essential to the interests of Canada. (Applause). ad been said that the great success ch had attended the administraof the country's affairs by Sir rid Laurier had been due to the as alleged that he had stolen the tional policy." Even if this were it could only be admitted that if he results had demonstrated that ad made it a greater success than ad ever been before, that the fact that while the principle which erlay the national policy of Pre- Laurier and that of his predecesswas the same, the great results had followed 1896 were due to rior and wiser methods of applicand to a more intelligent appreon of the needs of trade and comce, and agriculture, and a better erstanding of how to serve their ests. All we had to do was to around and observe the wonderprogress that had been made under administration of Premier Laurier e satisfied with the wisdom and lotiam of the leader and the policy ch had guided the country to a perity far beyond the most sanie expectation. He would briefly attention to some of the means which the Government had been to stimulate the advancement of country along the path of progress. referred to the improvement of itions of transportation in the Lawrence. So serious had been difficulties of navigation for the r vessels of modern type that the rance of cargoes had become diffi- and a burdensome expense. The ernment, however, in the past five had so improved the conditions igation that the rate of insurhad been decreased by 50 per This was a serious and impormatter for the farmer and the ufacturer, because every cent paid transportation had to be deducted the net value of what you have ll and this saving in insurance is d to your income. All production ealth must come from three or sources of which the soil was the . In trade and business, one make money, but he does not e it; it is a profit for which some else must pay. But when the er raises grain and sells it, or oses of the product of his dairy, animal industry, there is wealth ted that had no existence before. difference between the selling e of grain and other commodities, he European market, and the cost ransportation and handling, was what the farmer received for his products. Therefore anything that reduced the cost of carriage correspondingly increased the return to the farmer. Another feature of the advantages which had been provided to promote the farmers' welfare was the splendid facilities which the Government had secured for cold storage in transportation so that our butter and cheese, and apples and eggs could be delivered in Europe in the best possible condition, and so command the highest possible price. He thought that upon such practical advantages as these secured for the farming interest, the Government, and Mr. Stratton in their behalf, could fairly ask the support of the farmer of West Peterborough. (Cheers). He referred to the undertaking of that great national enterprise the Grand Trunk Pacific transcontinental railway. When that had been proposed, there were loud cries of protest and criticism from the opponents of the Government, but to-day, so manifest had become the need for this railway to afford adequate facilities for moving the product of the West, and for the development of that new agricultural empire, that criticism had given way to approval. Those who formerly condemned now admitted that the road was a necessity to the national welfare, but they would like to be entrusted with the job. (Laughter). The Canadian Pacific, when originated by Sir John Macdonald had met the same kind of criticism, from people who did not see as far ahead as he did, and in similar way it had demonstrated not only that it was a necessity to national development, but that it was the greatest boon ever conferred upon the country. And so with the Grand Trunk Pacific. When we looked at the map to-day we found that the enterprise of the Government had rolled up the curtain of settlement along its northern borders for 900 miles farther north than it had ever reached before, and the time would come when even this new artery of transcontinental communication would not be able to handle the enormous product of that Great West—when yet further lines would be needed to realize the future position of Canada as the Granary of the World. Coming nearer home, right in our own locality, we found another means of transportation that had been provided of inestimable value to our people in the future. He referred to the Trent Valley Canal. He recalled when at the end of every Parliamentary term the Trent Valley project bobbed up serenely as an election cry, but nothing ever had been done for its practical undertaking. The present Government had taken hold of it as a business proposition in a business way and to-day contracts were out for its completion in a short time. Then we will be able to have coal laid down here in Peterborough at a saving over present rate, of $1.25 a ton. The cheapening of transportation thus effected for grain and other farm products would increase the returns of the farmer from all that he had to sell. Is not this worth fighting for, and is not the Government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, which is accomplishing these great practical benefits for your advantage entitled to your support? He quoted statistics showing the wonderful expansion in the export of butter and cheese, ham and bacon, grain and fruit that had followed conditions and transportation facilities, which showed the extraordinary progress which this country was making. As Sir William Van Horne had said, in 1896 Canada was on a back street of the Empire, but it was now in the centre of the principal avenue. The Government had made generous expenditure to promote trade and ensure progress, to be returned a thousand fold in the advancement of the material interests of this Canada of ours, which we all love, which we desire to see succeed, and which will succeed. Of Mr. Stratton's opponent in this election, he would only say that a man who asks the suffrages of the people, who wants to represent them in Parliament should at least be able to show that he had done something to identify himself with the progress of the community. The man who during the whole of his life had sat with folded hands leaving to others the work of development had no claim to represent the people. What they wanted, what their interests demanded, was a man on the floor of the Commons who could stand up and through his recognized public influence effectually promote the interests of the people he represents. Mr. Stratton had been before them during his whole life. Starting on less than nothing he had made a success of his own business, and would bring the same qualities and capacity to bear on the business of the public. He had successfully and with great advantage to Peterborough represented its interests in the Legislature, and if sent to Ottawa to promote their welfare there, he was sure they would never regret it. (Cheers).

Mr. Daniel O'Connell.

Mr. Daniel O'Connell expressed his appreciation of so large and interested a meeting, and especially at the presence of the ladies, and their manifest sympathy with the candidature of his friend, Mr. Stratton. He said that on public questions, a speaker could not always expect to find everyone agreeing with him. Men who take an intelligent interest in public affairs come here to supplement their own information with what knowledge they may gather from the facts presented to them, and then they go home to give intelligent consideration to the arguments advanced, and to give them weight according to their judgment in reaching a proper and a patriotic decision in their own minds. Two men were before them for their support, and these men and the issues which they represented must be fully and freely discussed. The two parties which contend for the privilege of administering the affairs of the country have come back to their masters, the people, to receive their instructions, and to ask for support for the policies which they advocate. Any man who comes forward and asks to be sent to represent the people in the highest court of the nation, the Parliament, to assist in the administration of affairs, and the making of laws, must necessarily subject himself to an analysis of his claims, and to whatever criticism his public record exposes him. The Liberal party in the campaign is endeavouring to carry on a clean fight, to make their appeal to the people on a fair, honourable and clean basis. It is for the electors to decide which of the parties and which of the candidates presents the stronger claims to their support. What should he say of Mr. Stratton? There is not a man in the constituency who does not know Mr. Stratton. He has been their representative in the Legislature for eighteen years. Starting with an insignificant majority, he had retained and enlarged their confidence from one election to another till on his last appeal he had been honoured with a majority of 1100, and that in a constituency whose tendencies were largely Conservative. Instead of his popularity waning, as people had experience of his work and his abilities, they had found his standing in public confidence, respect and esteem, continually increasing. Did he not do well? Did he not give constant and able and unremitting attention to the concerns of every man, and every interest, and every section of the county? And have we ever enjoyed the services of a more honest, a more capable or more efficient public servant than Mr. Stratton proved? (Applause.) Mr. Stratton stands as high in the commercial world of this province as any man in it. His enterprise, his skill, his judgment, are largely sought in large affairs outside the county, and these qualities and his capital have been generously employed for the benefit of the public right here in the midst of this community, and have been no small factor in spreading prosperity among the people of this county, to whom he now appeals. On his opponent he (the speaker) did not wish to make any personal reflection, but when he asks the public for support as their representative in Parliament, he must submit to an analysis of his fitness and capability for so high a position. Between these two men we are called on to decide which of them is the better qualified to promote in public position the welfare of the people and to secure for them the greatest share of benefit in the conduct of the public administration. It had been said that Mr. Burnham was a lawyer, and he trusted that that fact would not be treasured against him as a stigma. But the fact remains that no one can point to a single thing that he has done to advance the prosperity of this county or to show an interest in its welfare. He has capital. Has he invested it in industrial enterprises, or given employment to labour? No. In 1907 he transferred his energies to Toronto, and was given a farewell banquet by his friends and it was supposed that the future activities of his life were to be devoted to the financial institution with which he became associated, but in six months he was turned back again to Peterborough. Was it business interests that called him? No; for he had done nothing since any more than he had done before to identify himself with those affairs that concern the best interests of Peterborough. A little more than a week ago this campaign had been practically opened at a meeting in the town of Peterborough, by Mr. Roblin and Mr. Borden. They had there made their declaration of faith and submitted the whole issue upon which the opponents of the Government appealed to the people. This meeting was to strike the keynote upon which the whole campaign was to be conducted. And yet on that occasion there was not one word presented to attack the honesty or the capability of any member of the Liberal Government. No great question was raised which could not be acted upon by the Liberal Government without violence to its principles. Mr. Burnham on that occasion offered no policy, no scheme for public progress, but merely an expression of abuse and slander of his opponent. Mr. Roblin had since left the province an utterly discredited man, confounded by the exposure of the falsehood of his utterances against his opponents. Mr. Borden, who was the mouthpiece of the Opposition, in his Halifax platform had set forth the issues upon which he said the party which he led appealed for public support. It contained just three propositions: For an honest administration of public affairs, an efficent public service, and promotion in that service upon merit alone. That is their policy, and it was in fact the very ideal of the policy which the Liberal party has pursued during the twelve years during which it has administered the country's affairs. He excoriated Premier Roblin of Manitoba for his reckless and unwarranted misstatements and misrepresentation of the Crow's Nest Railway subsidy, and pointed to him as one who had been compelled to leave the province under public scorn, after conviction of slander through the testimony of his own political friends. So far from the Dominion Government, as Mr. Roblin had intimated, having given away the public domain of Canada to political friends, the lands in question came from the province of British Columbia. It was true that a bonus had been given to the railway, but for that bonus the people of Canada received 50,000 acres of the most valuable coal lands. The settlers were assured of an ample and immediate supply of cheap coal, and an agreement had been secured for a reduction of freight rates on that line and the connecting C. P. R. line for all time, while the trade sought to be diverted to American channels was secured to an all-Canadian route.

These advantages, and the prevention of a coal monopoly in the Northwest, were of immensely greater value to the country than the amount of the moderate subsidy that secured them. (Applause.) Mr. Borden, with the historic mantle of a once great party upon his shoulders, had so far forgotten himself as to state that the Grand Trunk Pacific Transcontinental line would impose a burden of $200,000,000 upon the people of this country, and accused the Government of deception in claiming that it would be built at a cost of only $13,000,000 or $15,000,000 to the people. But it was the absolute truth, that the ultimate actual cost of this great enterprise to the people would not be more than $15,000,000, and for this they would secure a line of railway from the Atlantic to the Pacific that would wonderfully develop the wealth and resources of the people of Canada, and one-half of which would be the absolute property of the state. It was the duty of a vigilant opposition in Parliament to criticise and investigate the conduct of the Government, and yet during the past twelve years it had not been shown, it had not even been claimed in Parliament that a single acre of public land had been alienated except to an actual settler, for an honest purpose or in the interest of the people. They could recall the time previous to 1896, when 100,000 acres of the public domain had been given away to political favourites of the then Government, without the payment to the public treasury of a single dollar, and yet these were the men who had the audacity to impute improper motives to the leader of the Government of the present day. Regarding the so-called National Policy, while the Conservative party stands for the highest protection, the Liberal party believes in a tariff for revenue, involving a reasonable protection, cheapening the cost of production by free raw material, and shutting out unfair competition from abroad. Experience of these two kinds of protective policy show us that while from 1875 to 1896 a million and a quarter of the young men of Canada, of the best blood of our country, had been driven to the United States by reason of lack of opportunity and employment in this country. From 1896 to 1908, since a fair protection has prevailed, 1,300,000 citizens had been repatriated, and have come in to take the place of those driven out by the improvidence of the old tariff. In eighteen years, under the old policy, trade had been increased by only $66,000,000, while in the past twelve years it had been increased by $411,000,000. While taxes were reduced, revenue had been increased, and yet the Government had been enabled to expend vast sums in providing public utilities for the convenience and expansion of trade and commerce, such as the Grand Trunk Pacific, the Trent Valley Canal, St. Lawrence improvements, etc. Notwithstanding, they had been able to employ $127,000,000 in great public undertakings, with an addition to the public debt of only $5,000,000. By reason of these things, on account of the success which has resulted from their policy in the construction of public works, provision of improved transportation facilities, the repatriation of the people who had been driven out of the country, the revival of our languishing industries, the Liberal party had deserved well of this country. No greater work had been done by any statesman for his country than that by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Master Builder of the Liberal Party, for Canada—a work which must be continued under his guidance, if Canada is to maintain its place as the brightest star in the constellation of the Empire and to work out its great destiny as the prosperous home of a united, contented and happy people. To this end he urged them to give Hon. Mr. Stratton their hearty support and felt sure that he would be returned by a handsome and emphatic majority. (Great applause.)

Hon. J. R. Stratton.

Mr. Stratton was then called on by the chairman, and was received with a very hearty expression of applause, in the subsidence of which, in behalf of the ladies, a dainty little miss, Freida Maud Jobe, advanced to the rostrum and presented Mr. Stratton with an exquisite bouquet of roses, which was acknowledged by the candidate by a paternal salute. Mr. Stratton expressed his gratification at the presence of so many of the fair sex. The ladies of Peterborough had always been on his side, and he knew the value of their sympathy, support and assistance. With the ladies and the voters in his favour, as they were in this campaign, he was sure of a handsome majority on October 26. He was glad to see his audience the farmers, and the mechanics and workers who constituted the bone and sinew of our land. He had to thank Mr. Meldrum and Mr. O'Connell who preceded him for the expression of their confidence, which he trusted was in some degree merited, and for which he would endeavor, when elected, to give an additional warrant, by the exercise of every power at his command, for the welfare and best interests of our county of Peterborough. (Cheers). At meetings of this kind it might be considered campaign flattery to allude to the importance of the farm and the farmer among the great factors of our national progress and achievement. He had no design to flatter, but rather to emphasize a fact that cannot be too thoroughly recognized, and especially among those who shape the laws and administer the affairs of the country that agriculture is the real backbone of this country and that there is no other interest or industry so important to its prosperity. (Applause). Nowhere is this fact more keenly appreciated than among the bankers and managers of financial and industrial enterprises, and there was no topic affecting the interests they administered than "What will the harvest be?" And when we regard what a government can do, and what the present Government has accomplished by helpful and encouraging legislation and administration, to make the path of progress and the road to prosperity more easy and more satisfactory and more profitable for the farmer, we may be sure that the administration which pursues such a policy, will command the approval and support of every intelligent man engaged in any branch of agriculture. As the result of that wise policy the farmer of Peterborough to-day is able from the products he raises and through the markets that have been provided for him, to meet all his needs and to have a surplus at his command. The value of farm lands had increased in twelve years by forty per cent., and in many sections had been doubled. The market gardens and properties nearer to the demand for consumption in the city had thrived exceedingly and there were few of their owners who were not now in a comfortable and happy condition, and workingmen in Peterborough owned their own homes, who twelve years ago had never dreamed of the possibility of such a possession. He felt sure that none of our people who were sharers in such conditions would consent to return to the deplorable and discouraging state of things which prevailed prior to 1896. Then they had one tall but smokeless chimney, built by one who believed in the so-called national policy of that time and whose experience of failure and disappointment was the common lot of thousands whose judgment had been similarly misled, and their confidence misplaced. The Liberal policy that followed was for a tariff for revenue, adjustable to the varying conditions and the diversified needs that affected interests and localities, giving an opportunity for the conduct of industrial enterprise upon right and proper conditions, ameliorating difficulties by cheaper raw material, and expanding markets by a liberal enterprise in extending transportation facilities. And what had been the result? Look at Peterborough to-day for the answer. The factories that had been established in prosperous business through the readjustment of the tariff, had not only given an impetus to the progress of the City of Peterborough but they had provided, through the needs of those dependent upon and connected with them, through the expansion of the field of labor and employment, right here at your own doors a ready and profitable market for all that you produce on the farm. Recalling the conditions that obtained up to 1896, let us look at those which have followed the adoption of an intelligent, progressive, liberal and common-sense policy. To realize and appreciate its importance to the farmer, let us look at the item of bacon and hams produced for export. In eighteen years up to 1896, the export of those commodities amounted to $17,827,928. In the last twelve years it had reached the sum of $135,156,311. In plain words in this last period the farmers of the Dominion have had placed in their cash boxes from this source alone this vast sum of one hundred and thirty millions and over. Butter exported for eighteen years preceding 1896 amounted to $10,513,348, increased in the last twelve years to $51,686,095, and cheese from $127,611,428 to $247,790,858. Including the exports of wheat we find that in round numbers there has been added to the wealth of the country in the past twelve years the enormous sum of $750,000,000 which has come back from abroad in money as the product of the farms. And there can be no doubt that when the transportation facilities now under way are completed, when the vast arable territory of the West and of New Ontario and New Quebec are opened up, Canada will become indeed the "Granary of the World," and will control the markets of the world for foodstuffs. It cannot be denied that these great results have been and are being brought about by an intelligent application of public policy to our needs and our capabilities, and surely no sane man will ever want to pull down and destroy the methods and the policy that have accomplished so great results for the people of this country. In 1896 some perhaps voted with fear and trembling for a change in the public policy of the country, but to-day no one can doubt the value of the policy that has been pursued. In 1900 $113,000,000 were paid out in wages in this country and in 1905 this was increased to $162,000,000, seven-tenths of which represented actual necessities of life which went directly into the channels of trade, but in bulk, to the purchase of the products of the farm. With the development of the Great West and the expansion of the consequent demand there for the products of the factories, in turn widening the opportunities for employment of labour, these conditions would be accentuated. He wished to say that while in favour of a liberal immigration policy, he also wanted a system of vigilant inspection before intending settlers leave the Old Country, so that we may be sure that only those are brought here who are able to put their shoulders to the wheel and by their industry to hew out for themselves homes on the western prairies, in the new territories of Ontario and Quebec, and on the farms. He pointed out that in the universal depression of the past year no country had suffered less than Canada, and they would be sorry indeed to have to change experiences in that respect with our nearest neighbours, the country to the south of us. It was the man of enterprise and action, of courage, and capacity, who was of use in this country. The man who stands still and does nothing, whose timidity shrinks at possible risk, is of no use to a community. It was those splendid qualities in Sir Wilfrid that had achieved success and commanded confidence—his grit, his courage, his enterprise and his tenacity of purpose, in carrying out great projects for the welfare of his country. (Cheers). He sketched the remarkable progress that had been made with the Grand Trunk Pacific railway, and prophesied that by the time it was completed its resources for the movement of crops and commerce in the Western Empire would be so engrossed by the progress of that country that the people would be clamoring for a third transcontinental line, and that in a short time we shall see the moss-covered rocks of our undeveloped northern country, the virgin forests that had not been yet reached by the hand of industry, the prolific bowels of the earth and its arable surface, in a new domain, but under the impetus to the progress wealth and prosperity of this country. The Temiscaming railway, which, had had a share in originating, would open up vast and inexhaustible resources, as it had already created the means of getting timber to our markets, and making available the wonderful mineral value of that country. And there was yet to be made available just as much nickel and just as much silver as had already been discovered. He dwelt at large upon the record of the postal service, which had reduced the cost of postal communication so greatly, had extended facilities in every direction and in every department of the service, which had converted deficits into surpluses, and was now engaged in preparing one of the greatest boons that had yet been Backache, Headache Internal Pains.

"If every suffering woman would take Peruna, they would soon know its value and never be without it."

MRS. JOSEPH LACELLE, 124 Bronson St., Ottawa East, Ontario, Canada, writes:

"I suffered with backache, headache and dragging pains for over nine months, and nothing relieved me until I took Peruna. This medicine is by far better than any other medicine for these troubles. A few bottles relieved me of my miserable half-dead, half-alive condition.

"I am now in good health, have neither ache nor pain, nor have I had any for the past year.

"If every suffering woman would take Peruna, they would soon know its value and never be without it."

Dyspepsia and Indigestion.

Mde. Joseph Beaudoin, 59 Rue St. Olivier, Quebec, P. Q. Can., writes:

"Peruna is wonderful for indigestion. I eat whatever I want and no longer feel any oppression. Having had dyspepsia for a long time and having tried various other remedies, I decided to try Peruna and with the fourth bottle of it I was perfectly cured.

"For this reason I recommend it to all those who are suffering with that terrible malady, dyspepsia. I hope that all who are afflicted in this way will take Peruna and Manalin as I did."

Chronic Nasal Catarrh.

Mr. Chas. H. Stevens, 128 Sixteenth St., Detroit, Mich., writes:

"It affords me great pleasure to testify to the merits of Peruna as a remedy for catarrh.

"I suffered for some time with chronic nasal catarrh, but after five months treatment during which time I used seven bottles of Peruna I am pleased to say that I am entirely well, there not being the slightest trace of catarrh left.

"Peruna is without a doubt, in my mind, the greatest remedy known for catarrh."

Weak, Tired Feeling.

Miss Marie A. Lesser, 926 W. 39th St., Chicago, Ill., Worthy Secretary I. O. G. T., writes:

"I am glad to give a good word for Peruna, and I hope that all who see this who are troubled with systemic catarrh as I was for years, will profit by it.

"I had tried many remedies, but none did more than give me temporary relief, and some did not even do that.

"I took Peruna at the suggestion of a friend, and was more than pleased and surprised at the results.

"I am now perfectly well and strong. That weak, tired feeling has left me, and I feel like a different person entirely."

The Slavery of Disease.

It is wonderful how many women in Canada and the United States have been practically made new again by the use of Peruna.

Not the victims of any organic disease, but just a half-dead and half-alive, condition.

Miserable, dragging pains that keep a woman always from doing her best work, from being her best self. Cross and petulent, perhaps. Maybe even a slattern in her household, just because her health is continually below par. She never feels quite right. She gets the reputation of being sullen, or morbid, or ill tempered.

Her trouble is not a moral one at all, it is simply a physical one. Make such a woman well and she immediately becomes transformed into a new being mentally.

This is exactly what Peruna has done in a multitude of cases.

Mr. Robinson Says He Was Not Acquainted With Work Done

Queen Alexandra Building Committee Did Work He Had No Knowledge Of---Other Members Repudiate His Statements at Board of Education Meeting---Formal Opening Again Deferred

The Board of Education disposed of an unusually large amount of business at their regular monthly session last night. Mr. Robt. Fair presided, with the following members present, Messrs. Dumble, Ackerman, Nelson, Robinson, Crane, Hayes, Hill, Dr. Burnham and Dr. Morrison. Principal Kenner of the Collegiate Institute was present and also Mr. Mowat, Inspector.

Communications

The following communications were first dealt with:

From O. W. James, secretary of the Department of Education, stating that the Minister of Education will be present on Oct. 14th, at the formal opening of the new Collegiate.

From Albert E. Edkins, chief engineer for the Boiler Inspection and Insurance Company, stating the Central School boiler, when inspected, was in good order.—Received.

From Hon. R. A. Pyne, Minister of Education, giving the following amounts apportioned from the Legislative grants to the local Public School Board.

Regular grant, apportioned on population with attendance	$1,173 00
Special grants, apportioned on the basis of the teachers' qualifications and length of successful experience	625 00
Total	$1,798 00

—Received.

From Rev. J. G. Potter, asking that as Miss Lenore Sanderson was the only matriculant attending Queen's University from the Collegiate, she be entitled to the scholarship placed at the disposal of the Board by Ald. G. A. Gillespie.

On motion of Mr. Dumble and Dr. Morrison, Mr. Gillespie's scholarship was placed at the disposal of Miss Sanderson for use.

From Mr. Duncan Walker, principal of the Normal School, stating that they would commence using the city schools for practise work the week after next. Owing to the size of the classes the Queen Alexandra School will not provide sufficient teachers for the purpose. Mr. Walker said that they required seventeen rooms, including the Kindergarten; the selection of the classes he asked to be left in the hands of the Public School Inspector. It was moved by Messrs. Crane and Robinson that the matter be left with the Supervision Committee, in conjunction with the inspector with power to act.

For Field day

From Mr. H. R. H. Kenner, principal of the Collegiate, inviting the members of the Board to the annual field day of sports, to be held next Friday. He asked the Board to donate, as in former years, the sum of $25 towards the expenses.—Granted.

Date of Opening

In connection with the formal opening of the Collegiate Institute, Dr. Morrison stated that October 14th was out of the question and a later date would have to be chosen. Circumstances had transpired which necessitated a delay of three weeks, and it would be necessary to write Dr. Pyne, asking him to select a date later than October 14th. Mr. Hill suggested that it be deferred until the last week in December. The special committee was left to determine the date.

The reports of the school attendance were received as follows:

Mr. Dumble's Report

Mr. Dumble, as chairman of the Queen Alexandra Building Committee, presented a report dealing with the completed contract of the Queen Alexandra School. It was as follows:

To the Board of Education:

The building committee for the Queen Alexandra School beg to report that this building has been fully completed and furnished, and your committee submit the final report of expenditure in connection with the purchase and labour on lands (the furnishing and leaving to be completed, the payments to the architect) and some small furnishings which the full occupation of the various rooms has made necessary.

The money provided by the Council for this purpose was $25,000. The expenditure was about $25,448.30, including the cost of the additional lands purchased. A statement of expenditure is attached hereto. Your committee will be glad to be relieved of their duty as a building committee.

Mr. Robinson's Demand

Mr. Robinson asked for a typewritten copy of the report to be given to each member of the Board, and also for copies of the original separate contracts. He stated that he was a member of that building committee, but he had never been consulted, good, bad or indifferent, in regard to the work, and as a result he was entirely in the dark. It had been done, he said, by one man (evidently referring to Mr. Dumble). It was not proper, and he had the right to have some knowledge of what was done.

Mr. Dumble said the secretary had all the details, and Mr. Robinson could see them whenever he wished. Moreover, he remarked that all the discussions and work had been passed on by the committee and the Board, and he (Mr. Dumble) did not deserve the flattering compliment which Mr. Robinson had paid him when he said that he had carried out all the work alone without any assistance from the special committee.

Mr. Hill remarked that it was not fair to say that only one man had shouldered the work, as he himself, with the rest of the committee, including Mr. Robinson, had spent hours at it.

Mr. Robinson claimed it was in regard to particular work that he had had no share in the considerations.

Mr. Fair and Dr. Burnham spoke as did Mr. Hill, saying that all the details had been before the Board, and Mr. Hill remarked that he was entirely satisfied and wanted no further report.

Deputation of Astronomers

A deputation from the Peterborough branch of the Royal Astronomical Society consisting of Rev. Dr. Marsh, Mr. H. E. Collier, Mr. D. Easson and Mr. H. O. Fiske was heard, asking for a room in one of the school buildings in which to hold their regular meetings. Dr. Marsh, the first speaker, stated that the society was educational in its work and should therefore receive favourable attention from the Board. During the past the meetings have incurred the expense of paying for the halls in which they were held. Moreover they were held at times in Sunday school rooms, and this seemed to lend the idea that the society was sectarian in some respects. This would be entirely avoided if one of the rooms in the Collegiate Institute was thrown open to the society. The meetings are held every two weeks, and occasionally special addresses are given by visiting speakers. Mr. Collier also spoke a few words supporting Dr. Marsh.

Before an adjournment was called, the heating of the King Edward School received some attention. It is claimed that the boiler is too small to do the work that is now required and a system of double boilers is needed to heat the building. Mr. Robinson pointed out that at the time the heating of that school was being decided he had strongly opposed the use of only the one boiler.

On motion of Mr. Hill and Dr. Burnham, it was decided to have the Property Committee consider the requirements.

Supplies for the Collegiate Institute were also asked for, but a committee has already been appointed to look after the equipping of the Collegiate Institute.

Contractors And Architects Complimented On Their Work

Board of Education Well Satisfied With The New Collegiate Institute Building---Praise for Messrs. Belcher, Sheehy and Langford

REPORT OF DR. MORRISON

The contract of the Collegiate Institute building has practically been taken off the hands of the contractors, Messrs. Sheehy & Langford, and the members of the Board of Education in taking it over feel that a splendid building has been provided for the city at a fair cost. Dr. Morrison, chairman of the Collegiate Institute building committee, has, with his colleagues, given the work a great deal of attention and in bringing in the report at the Board of Education meeting last night he remarked that it had been a pleasure to them during all stages of the construction. His summary of the work is given as follows:

To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Education:

Gentlemen,—Your Collegiate Institute Building Committee beg leave to report that the Architect, having gone through the plans and and specifications, is prepared to recommend that the building be now taken over by the Board of Education, and that the balance due Messrs. Langford & Sheehy be paid, together with the sum of $753.95, being the amount of extras as adjusted by your Committee, and an additional amount of $398.00 for black-boards, bent glass in windows, and on hand.

The bill of extras, and architect's certificate is hereto attached.

Compliments

Your committee wish to congratulate the architect, Mr. Belcher, for the very satisfactory manner in which the construction of the building has been carried forward, evidence of his ability is apparent by the small bill of extras as submitted by the contractors on such a large contract.

We wish also to compliment the contractors Messrs. Langford & Sheehy, on the efficiency with which they have carried out their contract, they have spared no pains, in giving the Board a most substantial, and satisfactory Collegiate building. In some instances going even beyond the conditions of their contract in order to give satisfaction.

Your committee are arranging to have the formal opening of the Collegiate on Wednesday, Oct. 14th, at which the Minister of Education has signified his intention of being present.

On motion of Dr. Morrison and Mr. Dumble the report was adopted.

THE PROVINCIAL EXHIBITIONS

—All cities over the Province are preparing for their exhibition, and Peterborough is no exception to the rule. It is the time we meet our old and new friends, and those who are not our friends. It is also the best time for the introduction of the newest and smartest cuts in fall suits and where they can be shown to the greatest advantage. The New York Ladies' Tailoring establishment have removed their parlours and work shop from 658 George street to 38 Reid street, opposite St. Peter's Cathedral, for the better accommodation of their patrons, and are prepared to take orders in any line of ladies' garments. Lady or gentleman fitter. 'Phone 624. 4tf

Don't make any appointments for Tuesday & Wednesday nights, the 3th, 4th of November. All the Comtorts of Home will be played in the Grand Opera House by local talent on those nights.

Cool Weather Underwear

For Women

Now, more than in the extremely cold Winter weather do Women need the heavier weight and warmer quality of Underwear. In the first place the days are considerably cooler than we have been used to without heavier clothes, yet a coat is too heavy and its warmth would not be appreciated when the cold days strike us. To don a Light Weight Wool Undergarment would about equalize things and prove a great benefit to the wearer, for many colds are contracted in the Fall through such trivial things. Don't neglect your health for the sake of expending the price of a couple of suits of warmer underwear a little earlier than you had planned on.

Warm Weights for Cool Days

Penangle Natural Wools—This well known Canadian-made Underwear is made of beautiful soft, pure wool and is positively unshrinkable. All sizes for Women. Our price $1.20 garment.

Watson's Unshrinkable Underwear—An excellent grade of Underclothing, both Vests and Drawers, elastic ribbed in Grey or White, very neatly finished, our price $1.00. Other qualities 50c and 75c.

Watson's Fine Wool Underclothing, in White only, very light weight, very suitable for this weather, elastic ribbed, all wool, with long and short sleeves. Our special 75c.

Ladies' Black Equestriennes—All wool in a good black dye, very warm, with or without band. Our prices $1.00 and $1.25, also two grades at 75c and 50c.

Watson's Plush-lined Underwear—Special quality, elastic ribbed in White or Grey. Warm Underwear, yet very soft in feel. Price 50c.

Silk and Wool Underwear—Watson's extra fine quality, elastic ribbed Vest and Drawers. These are splendid garments and are most desirable for fine wear. Price $2.25 garment.

Combination Suits for Women and Children—The handiest, neatest form of Underwear. We carry all sizes in Unions, Wools and Silks and Wools. Women's Slip Waists, from 25c to 50c—different goods.

Underwear for Children

Rubens' Vests for Infants—Two lines of the handy little vests, in Cotton and Wool and All Wool, very fine quality. Prices 25c and 35c.

Children's All Wool Vests—Elastic ribbed All Wool Vests, in White, in prices according to size—45c and 50c.

Children's Black Equestriennes—Almost indispensable in the Winter time to wear as over drawers. Price 35c to 60c, according to sizes.

Proper Method for Washing Underwear

1. Use warm, soapy water, no hotter than the hand can bear.
2. Do NOT RUB on washboard.
3. Drain through the hands until goods seem perfectly clear.
4. Rinse thoroughly in clean, warm water, wring out and shake well.
5. Stretch the garment lengthwise as far as possible before drying.
6. Dry as quickly as possible and iron lightly when dry.
7. Would advise using "Pearline" instead of soap.

DONT'S

1. Don't rinse in cold water.
2. Don't hang them out where they will freeze when drying.
3. Don't put garments in boiling water.

SUCCESSFUL MEETING AT BRIDGENORTH IN MR. STRATTON'S INTERESTS

created for the comfort, convenience and advantage of the farmer, in the establishment of rural free mail delivery. (Applause). Every progressive farmer would understand the many ways in which this service would be of profit to him, and would appreciate the policy that sought to place him in as good a position in regard to postal advantages as the merchant and manufacturer. He sketched the consideration which had been given to labour—the abolition of the sweating system, the rule of highest prevailing wages for work in public contracts, the alien labour law, the establishment of a board of arbitration and conciliation, which had been so great a boon both to labour and capital. He quoted statistics showing that $143,000,000 of foreign capital had been brought into this country in six months of this year for use in industrial enterprises, municipal works and public utilities. That influx of capital was due to the confidence abroad in the present policy of the Government, to faith in the future of the country largely due to the efforts of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and the regard in which he is held abroad, and it would be a serious detriment to the country to have that confidence shaken and that capital withdrawn by any unwise and uncalled-for change in the policy of the Government or in its leadership. They had an important duty to perform on October 26, when the people take into their own hands the sovereignty which belongs to them. It was for them to decide who should represent them. He hoped and believed that his past record, the attention that he had given to his public duties, and the measure of success which had attended his efforts on behalf of the people of Peterborough, would lead to a repetition of the confidence with which they had heretofore honoured him. (Cheers). He had grown up among them; his life had been an open book to all, and he was satisfied to leave himself to their judgment. He had taken and he had given hard knocks in politics, but he had defied his opponents on leaving office, and he defied them now, to point to a single improper transaction or a singly wrongfully expended dollar in the administration of the department over which he had presided. (Applause). He hoped they would on October 26 again extend to him their confidence as of old, and he could assure them they would never regret it. (Cheers).

A vote of thanks was passed to the chairman, in tendering which Hon. Mr. Stratton said Mr. Young had presided at nearly every political meeting he had held at Bridgenorth for nearly twenty years, and at many of the meetings he had held giving an exposition of the work of administration between the sessions of the legislation. The meetings had always been successful; the elections that followed had always been decided in his favour and he believed that the same result would follow in this contest. He had ed by a round majority on October 26, and he thanked the people of Bridgenorth in advance for their services in reaching this result.

Three rousing cheers were given for Hon. Mr. Stratton, three cheers for the ladies and three more for the King closed a most successful meeting.

LATEST DOPE ON WARD MARATHON

Longboat is Regarded as Having Best Chance of the Enormous Field

The Toronto Star says: Somehow or other it looks as if Tom Longboat—if he minds his P's and Q's—will win this year's Ward Marathon, and take complete possession of the cup. The big Onondaga's hard campaigning has put him in pretty fair shape, and unless he goes off his feed this week, he should win. There is quantity but little class in Saturday's big race.

His only classy opponent will likely be Fred Meadows of Guelph, the West End Y.M.C.A. runner. Meadows is in grand shape, and if he can last the distance he will give Big Chief the run of his life. But the trouble is—can he last the route. Billy Sherring says that he can. So does Fred Meadows.

Well! Saturday will tell the tale.

Longboat goes to Beaverton for a 10-mile race to-morrow, and on Thursday he starts in a ten-mile race at Caledonia, where Hilton Green and Wesley Peters will be his chief opponents. At Beaverton he meets Reilly, who claims that he finished second to Longboat at Midland, but was disqualified, the judges claiming that he took a short cut.

Tait a Cripple

Outside of Meadows the class of the entry list is Jack Tait and Harry Lawson of the West Ends, Hilton Green and Percy Sellen of the I.C.A.C., Jack Near and Fred Schofield of Central Y.M.C.A., Henry Jackson (the Midland Indian), and Dunn of Barrie, who was second at Midland.

Lawson is not in hard shape, and the chances are he will not start.

Tait finished Saturday's Dunlop race with bloody, bruised feet, and is a cripple. If he starts it will be a surprise. The Big Chief has beaten all the others soundly at 10 miles, and should hand it to them over the 19 1-4 mile course, if nothing goes wrong with his stomach or heart.

FINE FURS

USUALLY the intending buyer of furs does not hesitate long in thinking as to which is the best house to buy Furs from. Lech's will be the first thought, and why? BURNS AND DALY MEET HERE ON FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 6th; A WRESTLING MATCH ARRANGED

November 6th has been decided upon as the date of the meeting of Tommy Daly, the Brantford boxer, and Corney Burns, the local mit wielder, in their fifteen round bout. The affair will be pulled off in the Opera House and promises to be the liveliest event of the kind ever seen here. Both boys are in training, and will be in the best of shape for the encounter. There is a great diversity of opinion in Peterborough as to the outcome of the match, both boys being fancied by a large number.

On the same night there will be a wrestling match between Ned Fitzpatrick and Harry Burridge for $100 a side. This match is also creating great interest in Peterborough and will be a corker. Fitzpatrick has had considerable experience in the mat game, while Burridge will be remembered by the fans by his matches here two months ago.

The two bouts will make up a programme that should attract an enormous crowd.

Ban Johnson's Views Of The Great American League Race

President Ban Johnson has this to say of the American League race:

"As far as the American League is concerned, the baseball season, which closes to-day, was another record-breaker. On account of the close race in the National League I have no doubt that this organization enjoyed the same measure of prosperity.

"The excitement all over the country has been terrific during the last few weeks of the pennant race, interest in the national game having completely put political and other issues in the background. The West is capturing all the honours in the American League, but the eastern team, doubtless will retaliate next year. At least, all of them have been going into the market for new material most extensively.

"While the failure of any one of the sea-board cities to land a place in the first division was a big disappointment to that section of the country, there has been great gratification over the success of the St. Louis Club in maintaining all the season a position so close to the top. The years of time and expense devoted by the St. Louis Club owners have at last been rewarded with a place high among the league leaders.

"New York in the East was a big disappointment. The team led the league for some time in the early part of the season, but fell to the bottom, despite every effort to check its downfall. Philadelphia also was a disappointment. The Bostons were a vast improvement over the past few years and look like serious pennant contenders for next season.

"The champion Detroit team played brilliant ball until August and seemed certain winners, but accidents and a let-down in the pitching department overtook the team the first of August, and its reverses since then have been so frequent as to reduce the chances of the champions to a level with Cleveland and Chicago.

"Both Chicago and Cleveland made brilliant records in the face of long chapters of accidents. The Clevelands were without the services of Flick and Turner almost the entire season. The White Sox were seriously crippled by the desertion of Pitcher Smith when he was needed the most. The failure of one or two of the Sox to hit up to their usual standard was another big handicap. Walsh's great pitching was one of the bright features of the season. He surely has earned the title of world's greatest pitcher.

THE PETES HAD A GOOD WORKOUT

Will be in Great Shape for Their Game Saturday

The Peterborough baseball team are getting in great shape for their game here on Saturday with the All Star team that is to represent the St. Andrews of Toronto in the second game for the Ontario championship. Most of the team had a good workout yesterday at Riverside Park and will be out every day this week, because they realize they have the game of their career before them Saturday. The St. Andrews are going up to Palmerston to play the team in that town a series of games on Thursday and Friday, and will come down here for their great game with the Petes direct from that town. The local boys are waiting patiently for the day to come when they can try and get revenge on Fred Hickey the boy that made the local team all bite the dust last fall at Cobourg, when they were defeated in the final game for the Midland League championship. Hickey will come down here on Saturday to try and repeat the dose he administered to the Petes last year, and with the great team he will have behind him will surely make the local boys go some to beat him.

PHOTOS OF BASEBALL CLUB READY SOON

Will be on Exhibition in a Few Days—Being Done by Neadel

The large group photograph of the Peterborough baseball club will soon be ready, and along with the cup that has just arrived, emblematic of the championship of the Midland League, will be on view in Lang & Maher's store window, on George street. The photo will no doubt attract a lot of attention and also the, which is a fine piece of workmanship.

Music and Drama

A Good Show

Guy Bros. Minstrels was greeted with an overflowing house last night and they certainly put up a fine show. The jokes were new—singing fine—orchestra superb—the dancers the best ever there. Their opening scene was a new idea and with the electrical effects made it a very pretty picture. The clown in the pantomime was as funny as ever. The audience was more than pleased, it was one of the best minstrel shows ever put on the opera house stage.—Press, Troy, N.Y.

This well known company will appear at the Grand Opera House, Saturday, Oct. 10th, matinee and night. Plan opens to-morrow.

STRATTON'S ADDRESS TO THE ELECTORS OF THE RIDING OF WEST PETERBOROUGH

To the Electors of West Peterborough:

Gentlemen,—I have been unanimously selected as candidate, in the Liberal interest, for the representation of West Peterborough, at the elections to be held on October 26th, and I hereby solicit your influence and vote, feeling that, as a supporter of the Liberal Government of the Dominion, I can render the city and riding at large, good, faithful and fruitful service.

All who know me, and after nearly twenty years of representation of the riding, that should include the majority of the electors, know in what manner I have discharged my duty to West Peterborough.

Aside from the policy of the Government on whose behalf a candidate is appealing for support, the determining factor in deciding an elector's support, should be the fitness of the candidate to give efficient representation. The elector should, therefore, choose the man whose known qualifications and record assure the exercise of effort and influence on behalf of the advancement of the interests of the riding, and to procure to it that measure of Government attention to which it is fairly entitled.

Therefore, in setting forth below what has been done under the Liberal representatives of West Peterborough in enlisting the good will of governments in securing substantial benefits, an adequate idea can be formed of how greatly to the advantage of this constituency will be the election of a candidate in sympathy with the Government, which has the power to vouchsafe advantages that may be faithfully presented.

I may, therefore, be permitted to point out a little of what has been accomplished for West Peterborough, through its representatives, by Liberal Governments. First, as my own share:

The work of procuring the construction of the Bensfort bridge, south of the city, is the equivalent of securing distinct benefits to residents of South Monaghan, through shortened distance to reach the market in Peterborough, and to the latter by facilitating the visits of the township people to the city. The building of a road through the township of North Monaghan north also served to lessen the distance the people of South Monaghan had to traverse to reach the city.

The procuring of a grant to assist in digging the Cavan drain, meant a much shortened way of access for the residents of northern Cavan to the Peterborough market, to the mutual advantage of themselves and Peterborough merchants and the reclamation of some thousands of acres of previously valueless swamp lands.

The procuring of large sums to be spent in the construction of new roads in Harvey, Cavendish, Galway, North Smith and Ennismore, represents conveniences to the people of these townships of no little value.

The procuring of legislation for the building of Chemong and Pigeon Creek bridges, and requiring their perpetual maintenance by the city and the Counties of Victoria and Peterborough, in the interests of the district, is another means of facilitating exchange of town and city trade.

The procuring of Government assistance to build the Kinmount bridge of stone and steel, was a means of settling the litigation between Peterborough and Victoria Counties, which had cost, and promised to cost, enough to build a bridge, and another benefit was the removal of a cause of constant friction between the two counties.

The construction of approaches and ferry, and later a permanent bridge, to span Gannon's Narrows, is a shortening of the distance to the city appreciated by the residents and farmers and land owners concerned.

I was fortunate enough to induce the Ontario Government to deed to the city—then town—of Peterborough, the Government reservation along the river front from the C.P.R. bridge to the Hunter street bridge, a great advantage, which has been made greater by being filled in by the dredgings of the river, at once beautifying the shore line and creating sites for manufactures, etc., etc., to be fronted with wharfage now under contemplation.

I will, I believe, be credited with having been instrumental in procuring the lease for Number Five dam, which made possible the establishment of the Otonabee Power Company, and led to the establishment of the Peterborough Cereal Works, and also led to the development of power at the dams further up the river for the use of the Lakefield Cement Works. For this I received at the time no little abuse and imputation of false motives in a course in which I had at heart only the good of the city, without the slightest personal advantage.

I may also fairly take credit for inducing the Ontario Government to consent to the transference of the waters of the northern part of this district to the jurisdiction of the Dominion Government, whose measures for conservation of water have created a steady flow the year round in the interests of canal navigation and power production, whose importance cannot be well over-estimated in relation to our manufacturing interests.

I may perhaps be permitted to suggest that the strong opposition to the legislation necessary to establish the Quaker Oats Cereal Company in Peterborough, with all the advantages and attendant benefits, would, I believe have been successful, if I had not used all my efforts and influence to secure the passage of the necessary legislation, which was bitterly opposed in Committee, and in the Assembly.

My interest in Peterborough, and West Peterborough, and the advance of their material welfare, has not been confined to my course in a representative capacity. In the interests of the city and of its working men I have fortunately been able to be instrumental in reorganizing the Peterborough Lock Works on a prosperous and permanent working basis, and to be of assistance in promoting the establishment of the Peterborough Shovel and Tool Company. As the publisher of the Examiner, I have made it the medium of advocating and aiding all public measures and private enterprises calculated to upbuild Peterborough city and county. In this enterprise, and in the publication of three creditable class journals, The Canadian Dairyman and Farming World, and The Canadian Horticulturist, employment is given to about 100 persons, and Peterborough is given the dignity of a publishing centre.

When the Edison, now Canadian General Electric Works, were being established in Peterborough, the council was being criticized for the assistance the town gave. Owing to the assistance of the council and citizens, the works were established, and have grown and prospered, and I gave not only my moral support, but became financially interested to the extent of my ability.

I trust I may claim, as is the fact, that in the discharge of my representative duties, I have tried to represent the whole riding, irrespective of party affiliation, and that I have met and dealt with all conditions that arose during my several terms without regard to party feeling.

In all these things, if there be any merit, I have only done a duty to be expected of any representative, with the interests of his constituents at heart, and discharged the duties of a citizen; and if, through your support, I am given another opportunity, the assurance may be accepted that what little I have been able to do for West Peterborough, will be supplemented, to the best of my ability, and the extent of my influence, with the Government, and in the world of finance and affairs.

However, the benefits to West Peterborough, from Liberal representation and Government liberality, or rather justice, and deference to fair claims, are not all confined to the realm of the Provincial Government, but the Dominion representative and Government have contributed an important share.

To give prominence to the most prominent and most widely beneficial exercise of administrative function, the work of Trent Canal completion, by the Dominion, may be cited. When the Liberal Government took office in 1896, there were only 51 miles of navigable canal completed. Now there are 160 miles completed, embracing in this distance access to a thousand miles of shore line, and there are 28 miles under contract, leaving only 15 miles of unfinished canal between Georgian Bay and Trenton. During the 18 years of Conservative rule, and in all the years from Confederation, there was spent by that Government in canal construction work the sum of $1,230,030. During the 12 years of Liberal rule, there has been spent, including works under contract and construction, the sum of $4,891,708, out of the $6,121,117 spent since Confederation, or in other words in 12 years of Liberal administration, more than four times the amount spent in the preceding 30 years, has been expended, and, among other things, has given Peterborough steamer connection with the back lakes and northern waters.

Then, in the past twelve years large sums have been used in providing complementary works—to give the fullest benefits from canal construction—such as wharves, capable of enlargement, along the river and Trent waters, in dredging operations at various points. Particular reference might be made to the wharf at the street railway terminus, and the Wolfe street wharf, on which the work of construction will begin immediately.

Other measures in the interests of the riding due to energetic representation and fair government recognition of our claims may be cited.

A sitting of the Tariff Commission was secured for Peterborough, and the claims of Peterborough manufacturers heard and heeded. Representative influence met a ready response form the Post Office Department for the improvement of postal facilities; the interior accommodation of the building was enlarged and improved, city delivery provided, street letter boxes more than doubled in number, with more frequent collections, in addition to reduction of drop letter postage from two cents to one cent, not to speak of the opening of several new post offices, and the increased frequency of mail service.

The Peterborough Armouries represent not only an architectural ornament to the city and a large utility to the several forces of our militia, but a substantial advantage to the city in connection with the acquirement of a site for the Collegiate Institute.

The construction of a new $56,000 dam at Buckhorn, included the building of a new permanent county bridge, at a cost to the county of only $3,000 in lieu of $50,000, if as good a bridge had been built by the county.

The assumption by the Dominion Government of the county swing bridges, and their maintenance and operation, made a saving of about $2,500 per year to the county for all time.

The cold storage act of the Dominion Government intended to promote the construction of cold storage buildings, the Government giving as bonus a grant of a percentage of the cost, was instrumental in the establishment of a first-class cold storage warehouse in Peterborough, a great boon to dealers in dairy products, fruits and perishable articles, and, instead of Lindsay and Belleville, which had such warehouses, being the distributing centre, that advantage rests with Peterborough.

The replacing of the old wooden bridge that formerly spanned the locks at Young's Point, by a new steel bridge, placed so as not to impede wheel traffic while the lock is in use, the construction of a new pier, and the deepening of the lower waters of the lock and channel from five feet to nine feet, are obvious advantages.

The procuring of a parliamentary appropriation of $100,000 to meet claims for damages to lands flooded by the erection of dams in the course of Trent Canal construction, means the settlement of claims, some of them outstanding for nearly forty years, and is a measure of justice due to a Liberal Government, which appreciated the claims of the owners of drowned lands, which are being adjusted with all possible expedition.

All these things bear testimony to the importance and necessity of having a representative of West Peterborough alert and alive to the promotion of its interests.

I need not make any definite promises as to my course if elected. I will only say that I will do as I have done in the past, and serve West Peterborough to the best of my ability.

I think I am justified in saying that it will be to Peterborough's best interests to send a member in support of the present Liberal Government of the Dominion.

Under this Government the country has grown and prospered as it has never done before. It found, on taking office twelve years ago, the tide of prosperity at a low ebb; trade was dull, industry languishing; employment scarce and fitful; the finances were in bad condition, with large yearly deficits. All these things were changed under the Liberal Government; the tide of prosperity began to rise. The revenue, under a lessened tariff rate, grew, and funds were available and used with wisdom and enterprise to provide the means of development we see reflected in an advance of Canadian trade from 230 millions in 1896 to 650 millions now. Much of this is due to the Government's masterly dealing with the transportation problem involving cheap and rapid transport of produce from farm and factory to market, and, to crown all, the conception and construction of the Transcontinental Railway, which will roll back the map of Canada a hundred miles northward and double the cultivated and peopled area of the country. The Government which has done so much to build up Canada in all its varied interests to the status of a nation, is sure to be returned to power as a result of the coming elections, and this will ensure another parliamentary term of nation-building, which will witness the completion of the Grand Trunk Pacific, of the Hudson Bay Railway, and of the Trent Waterway.

I respectfully ask the assistance of your vote and influence to secure my election. If by favour of your kind support I am elected, I shall give my best efforts to all measures that will promote the interests of the country at large, and especially those of Peterborough and West Peterborough.

I have the honour to be, gentlemen,

Your obedient servant,

F. R. Stratton

OCTOBER WEDDING AT ST. JOHN'S; THE ROCH-SUTCLIFFE NUPTIALS

A pretty wedding of unusual interest and significance was solemnized at St. John's, this afternoon. The principals, Rev. Sydney J Roch, M.A., rector of Melita, Manitoba, and Amy Elizabeth Sutcliffe, eldest daughter of Rev. Charles Sutcliffe, Vicar of Holy Trinity, Castlehall, Staleybridge, after an engagement of one year and an absence from each other of five years, came from points separated by 4,000 miles of distance—the bride coming from one of the oldest centres of modern civilization and Christianity, three thousand miles, and the bridegroom coming from one of the newest centres of civilization and Christianity, fifteen hundred miles to Peterborough to be married in one of the oldest English churches in the Dominion. The joining of hearts and hands across a thousand leagues of sea and half a thousand leagues of land, suggests the union of the East and the West, and the growing imperial community in religion and social life.

The ceremony was celebrated at half past one o'clock in St. John's by Rev. Charles Sutcliffe, father of the bride, assisted by Rev. Canon Davidson, Rector. The bridesmaid was Miss Amy Kells, daughter of Mr. T G Kells, of Millbrook; Mr. Horace L Sutcliffe, steward to Miss Agnes Murray, New York City, (and brother of the bride, was best man, and the bride was given to be married by another brother, Mr. Reginald A Sutcliffe, city. The wedding party consisted of the bride's mother, Mrs. Charles Sutcliffe; her sister-in-law, Mrs. Reginald Sutcliffe, and Mrs J C Davidson. The bride was attired in a tailor-made gown of white beaver cloth, lined with white silk; embroidered white silk blouse and white felt hat, trimmed with white ostrich plumes and orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of white roses, carnations and lilies of the valley. The bride's mother wore an elegant gown of black merve silk, trimmed with white lace and toque to match, and carried a shower bouquet of pink carnations.

While the bridal cortege was entering and taking their places, Mr. R J Devey, organist, performed Greig's "Bridal Music," and the Lohengrin bridal chorus, and as the party was leaving the church after the ceremony, Mendelssohn's wedding march, and the hymn, "Lead, us, Heavenly Father" was sung during the service.

After the signing of the register, the happy pair and the bridal party drove to the residence of Mr. Reginald A Sutcliffe, 543 Gilmour street, where the wedding breakfast was served. The bride was showered with a numerous array of presents from the societies and members of the congregation of Holy Trinity and from personal friends in her native city. Numerous other presents from her husband's parishioners and personal friends in Melita, await her arrival there. After the wedding breakfast, Mr. and Mrs. Roch took the afternoon Canadian Pacific express for Toronto, whence, after a few days' stay, they will go to their new home in the West.

Mr. and Mrs. Roch, by virtue of culture and religious training would seem to be happily mated, and well adapted to the work they will now jointly enter upon, officially and incidentally in the Great West of Canada. Mr. Roch is a graduate of Cambridge, Selwyn College. He was Curate for six years to his father-in-law at Holy Trinity, and through giving acceptable service, felt a call to a wider field of church work in the West, and it was literally a "wider field," for his parish, Melita, where he has spent five years, covers an area of 500 square miles. Mrs. Roch has an Oxford educational training of graduate standing, and, born and reared to church work and religious activities, will be a valuable and valued help meet in her husband's parochial work.

Drop In The Price Of Cheese From The Last Meeting

Sold To-day at 12 1-8 Cents—Mr. Gillespie Takes Majority—Final Meeting on Nov. 4th

ARRANGE FOR LECTURES

The regular semi-monthly meeting of the Peterborough Cheese Board was held this morning, the prevailing price being 12 1-8 cents. At the last meeting the highest price was 12 9-16 cents, which indicates a falling off. The total number of cheese boarded this morning was 3,165, of which Mr. G. A. Gillespie secured 1,921 boxes, and Mr. Morton the remainder.

It was decided this morning that the last meeting of the Board would be held on November 4, on which date the local representative on the directorate of the Eastern Dairymen's Association will be appointed.

Mr. G. A. Gillespie stated that he had received notice from Mr. J. A. Ruddick, Chief Dairy Commissioner for Canada, that Messrs. George H. Barr and C. F. Whitley of the Dairy Division, Ottawa, could be secured for lectures at the annual meetings of the various cheese factories.

The buyers present were Messrs. Fitzgerald, Gillespie, Whitton, Cook, Weir, Morton, Gunn and Lanrlois, Riddell.

The Bidding

The bidding began at 11 3-4c by Mr. Whitton. This was raised to 11 7-8 by Mr. Fitzgerald, to 12 by Mr. Gillespie, to 12 1-16 by Fitzgerald, and to 12 1-8 by Gillespie. At this price Mr. Gillespie secured Keene, Warminster, Shearer, Central Smith, Bensfort, Selwyn, Villiers, Westwood, Lang, Maple Leaf, Otonabee Union, King Edward, Myrtle, Cedardale, East Emily, Trewern, Ormonde, Daisy D., Norwood.

Mr. Morton bid 12 1-8c for the balance and secured Warsaw, Oakdale, Lakefield, Pine Grove, Young's Point, Fraserville, North Dummer, Cavanville, Crown, Fleetwood, Oak Leaf, Stony Lake, South Burleigh, Brickley, Shamrock, Killarney.

The Board adjourned for two weeks.

WEDDING BELLS

TERREFF—DAVIDSON

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Davidson, 690 George street, at two o'clock this afternoon when their only daughter, Miss Jean Cora Davidson, was united in marriage to Mr. Richard Terreff, son of Mr. P. Terreff, Toronto. The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. Pogue of St. Paul's church in the presence of only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties. The principals were unattended. The bride wore a gown of apricot silk with all-over lace trimmings.

At the conclusion of the ceremony a wedding dejeuner was served, after which Mr. and Mrs. Terreff left on the 4.48 C.P.R. train for Toronto. They will reside at Weston, Ontario, where Mr. Terreff has gone into business.

The bride's going-away gown was a blue travelling suit, with large picture hat.

A large number of presents were received, testifying to the esteem in which the newly-married couple are held. The gifts included several handsome cheques.

POPE—PICARD

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Peter's Cathedral this morning by Rev. Father McColl when Miss Louise Albina Picard, daughter of Mr. Jos. Picard, 105 Lock street, was married to Mr. George Pope of Lindsay. The bride was assisted by her sister, Miss Eugine Picard, and the groom by his brother, Mr. Frank Pope. After the ceremony a dainty wedding breakfast was partaken of at the home of the bride's parents, and where also there was a beautiful array of presents from many of the bride's friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Pope left on the 11.45 train on their honeymoon trip to Toronto. They will reside in Lindsay.

OBITUARY

ELIZABETH L. BORLAND

After a lingering illness extending over several years, Miss Elizabeth L. Borland, daughter of the late Lewis Borland, passed away this morning, at the family residence, 26 Victoria avenue. The deceased has been until a few months ago in Toronto, where her illness was first apparent.

The surviving members of the family are Miss Edna, at home; and Martha, in Brantford; James O. Borland, Peterborough; Lewis, of Calgary; Alfred, of Kamphek, Sask; and Gilbert, of Toronto; also the mother, Mrs. Borland. The funeral will be held on Thursday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock to the Little Lake Cemetery, from the family residence, 26 Victoria avenue. Rev. Mr. Pogue will conduct the funeral services.

MELVILLE M. MITCHELL

A well known young man passed away this morning in the presence of Melville Milton Mitchell, the youngest son of Mrs. E S Mitchell, 787 Water street. The deceased, who was twenty-three years of age, had been a resident of Peterborough all his life and was respected and liked by all with whom he came into contact. He was an attendant at the George street Methodist church.

The funeral will take place on Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the family residence, Water street, to Little Lake cemetery.

All those interested in the American and National league games will be able to get to-days scores from the Examiner bulletins to-night. If you have a 'phone call up 234 and we will be pleased to give you the scores as they are received.

Messrs. Linton and Scott, Campbellford, spent Sunday in town.

We are sorry to report the serious illness of Miss Loretta Bennett.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrews of Norwood was the guest of their son, Mr. H. Andrews, on Sunday.

Mrs. E. Alarey spent Wednesday of last week with friends at Norwood.

Mrs. Thos. Bray and little daughter, Lillian, returned to their home in London, Ont., on Monday, after an extended visit in town the guests of her mother, Mrs. James Campbell.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Howson of Norwood were guests of Dr. and Mrs. H. Kindred last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Chambers, Miss Bennington and Mr. H. Burnett spent Sunday with friends at Marmora.

Messrs. J. E. Fowler and Andy Armiston attended the Campbellford Fair on Wednesday.

The annual thanksgiving service is to be held in St. John's church on Friday night of this week, and will be continued on the following Sunday. On Friday evening Rev. Mr. Harris of Marmora will deliver the sermon.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Armiston spent Sunday with friends at Norwood.

Mr. Victor Seward of Peterborough spent Sunday in town the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Falkner.

Mrs. Clapp and little daughter, Marguerite, of Michigan, arrived in town Saturday evening and will spend the next three weeks the guests of her mother, Mrs. Hardy.

Rev. Mr. Seward of Peterborough was the guest of Rev. and Mrs. H. Caplan on Monday.

Miss Stella Armstrong returned home on Monday after an extended visit at Muskoka and Toronto.

Mr. Herb Barrie, who has been spending the summer months with friends in town, left on Tuesday morning for Lindsay, Peterborough and Brockville, intending to reside at the latter place.

Council met on Monday night, Oct. 5, in the council chamber at 7.30.

There were present the Reeve and Councillors Campney, Knox, Phillips and Wood.

Minutes of last meeting were read and approved.

Moved by Councillor Knox, seconded by Councillor Wood, that the following accounts be paid:
Electric light..... ... .$60 83
S. Delong..... .... 1 50
R. Carnrite..... .... 5 00
Geo. Sherry..... ....129 29

Moved by Councillor Campney, seconded by Councillor Knox, that the cheque in favour of A. McIntyre for $5.90 be cancelled, and that cheques in favors of P. McNichol for $2 and A. McIntyre for $3.90 be drawn instead.—Carried.

Mr. J. H. Brawn made application for a license for a pool room. The application was laid over until the next council meeting on Monday, October 12.

Council adjourned.

Much interest was taken in police court proceedings here last Monday as a very important case was being heard. There were six charges against prominent farmers of sending watered milk to the cheese factories. The cases were tried here for convenience although most of the offenders do not live in the vicinity. There was only one case heard and judgment was reserved on it till this week when the other cases will be heard.

Mr. F C Caskey, storekeeper at Blairton, has been appointed tax collector for Belmont for 1908.

A large number from town attended the Campbellford Fair on Friday, Oct. 2 and report a very large attendance. A Havelock baseball side was booked to play an exhibition game with Campbellford but was unable to do so.

Although to a certain degree stopped by the recent fire, Havelock still continues to grow and expand. Buildings are going up on every hand. Building operations in Havelock have been very brisk all summer and will continue so, and the town is piercing farther and farther into the land that a few years ago was covered with forest. The recent fire, which, in a short time wiped out $45,000 worth of property, is the cause of the recent activity in building operations.

Mr. S S Joyce's building is nearing completion and will present a good appearance on the corner of George and Oak streets.

The fire ruins have been cleared away and Mr. J V A Coon is erecting a new brick veneer store, 45x50 feet, on the site of the old store. Mr. J C Thompson is erecting a new store adjoining his present one and Mr. J. Watson's, and will be brick veneered. It will be occupied by Mr. McGregor, baker, and Mr. McKay, tailor. Mr. McKay has found apartments in Dr. Denike's old stand.

The new Standard office will also be of brick. The Standard has installed an up to date printing press and is once again in shape for business and last week issued the Standard in its old form but improved in appearance.

Rev. A. W. and Mrs. Mackenzie were in Peterborough on Saturday last.

Mrs. Wigg, of San Francisco, who has been spending the past summer in England, arrived in Lakefield on Friday last, to visit her son, Mr. S. P. Wigg.

Mr. and Mrs. Evans Atwood, of Peterborough, spent Sunday in Lakefield, visiting Mr. and Mrs. C. Atwood, at "Ashesworth."

Mr. R. Sanderson, of Toronto, was the guest of Mr. Roland Johnson for a few days last week.

Mr. G. Gordon, of Bobcaygeon, spent a few days last week in the village visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Gordon.

Miss Edna Fitzgerald, of Peterborough, was in the village on Wednesday last, the guest of Miss Rose Moore.

Miss K. Penny, who has been spending the summer months at Haileybury, Ont., arrived in the village on Monday, on a visit to Mrs. Cumberland.

Mrs. Bell, who has been visiting her son, Mr. Clarence Bell, in Toronto, was in the village on Monday, on her way through to Apsley.

Miss Agnes Strickland, of London, Eng., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Wigg.

Mr. F. E. Darcy started on Monday to run daily trips between Lakefield and Peterborough with his automobile. He leaves the post office here at 7.00 a.m., and returning leaves Peterborough at 4.00 p.m. This will be a great convenience to those wishing to take an early train to Toronto and other western points.

Two new lights have been erected on our streets during this last week—one at Mr. T. Gordon's corner and the other near Mr. R. C. Strickland's residence. The latter is a vast improvement and will be of great benefit to the citizens of Lakefield and vicinity, as this formerly was one of the darkest spots inside the village limits.

Mr. Roland Johnson spent a few days last week in Montreal.

Mr. R. C. Gale, accompanied by his son, Master Willie Gale, who has been spending several months in the Old Country, visiting his father, is expected to arrive in the village early this week to spend a few days, on his way back to Puget Sound.

A most enjoyable day was spent on Tuesday of last week, when the Rev. A. W. Mackenzie chartered the Steamer Stoney Lake and took the Grove boys their semi-annual excursion up the lakes. Nor was this treat limited to the Grove school only, as a great many friends availed themselves of Mr Mackenzie's kind invitation to join them. The boat made a short trip through Stony Lake, mooring for an hour at Fairy Lake landing in order to allow some of the boys to portage their canoes and take a paddle round the little lake, and afterwards returned to Sandy Beach, where the remainder of the day was pleasantly spent by one and all.

The third handicap race for the Seaforth Cup was run on Monday afternoon, It was won on the big side by Mewburn, of Hamilton, and on the little side by Hatton, of West Indies.

Mr. E. A. Tanner Held Very Successful Meeting in Lakefield

The meeting held in the interests of Mr. E A Tanner, Liberal candidate for East Peterborough, in the town hall, Lakefield last night was most encouraging, both in the matter of attendance and in the quality of the speeches made by the various speakers.

The town hall was crowded to the doors, a noticeable feature being the number of ladies who graced the occasion by their presence. Many of Mr. Tanner's Conservative friends in the village were also present, and if the future is to be presaged by the harmony prevalent at the meeting the chances are bright for the candidate receiving a substantial majority from the town for which he has laboured so well in past days.

The speakers supporting Mr. Tanner, were Colonel Thompson, of Ottawa, and Mr. F D Kerr, of Peterborough. Mr. John Hall, acted as chairman.

The opening address was made by the candidate, who in a fluent and thoughtful speech, touched on the main issues of the day, and asked for the support of his fellow citizens not on personal grounds but on that of being the representative of a Government that has done so well for Canada. Mr. Tanner's speech delighted his friends and gives every reason for believing that he will develop into an excellent platform speaker.

The next speaker was Colonel Thompson, of Ottawa, who in a really magnificent speech outlined the past which were to be found in a land work of the Government, the fruits of progressing by leaps and bounds, towards its manifest destiny as a nation, with all its governmental machinery in first class order, and with surpluses in every compartment of the country's exchequer.

Mr. F D Kerr, who was then called upon, immediately caught the attentive ears of the audience and in a spirited address carried them with him until the conclusion of, what, in the opinion of many present, was the most successful political meeting ever held in Lakefield. He expressed his great pleasure in being able to be present to speak on behalf of Mr. Tanner, with whom he had been well acquainted for nearly ten year. Lakefield had an opportunity of doing honour to itself and to one of her sons by recognizing the fact that in the Liberal candidate they had one of their own number in the fore-front of the fight. He felt sure that the other portions of the riding would rally to Mr. Tanners support (and he had no doubt Lakefield would vie with the other municipalities in giving him a substantial majority. The speaker referred to Sir Wilfrid Laurier as the greatest Canadian of the day, a man apparently selected by Destiny to guide this young but progressive country through the early years of nationhood and said that even the most staunch Conservative recognized in Sir Wilfrid Laurier a man worthy to be ranked with that great Conservative statesman, Sir John Macdonald as one of the two great nation builders in Canada.

The Grand Trunk Pacific

Dealing with the Transcontinental Railway, he expressed the opinion that it was certain to be productive of the greatest results for Canada, and taking up the alleged Crow Nest scandal and the Ross Rifle matters, he showed how these matters had been dealt with in the best interests of Canada.

He prophesied for the Laurier Government a triumphant return at the polls and that among those to be found on the right of the speaker would be the candidate of the Liberal party, Mr. E A Tanner.

The meeting concluded with hearty cheers for the King, the Premier and the candidate.

THE BLUE BOWL.

By TEMPLE BAILEY.

Copyrighted, 1903, by Associated Literary Press.

Beverly really knew nothing at all about old china, but after he saw the lady of the blue bowl at the front gate, with a yellow rose tucked into her shining brown hair, he became at once a worshiper at the shrine of old china—and of Clarice.

"The Claibornes are as poor as church mice," his landlady informed him when he asked about the people who lived in the gray mansion on the hill. "The neighbors roundabout here don't think that Clarice and her aunt have enough to eat, and yet they won't sell a thing. And they've got some old furniture that they could get most any price for, and their china—why, one man offered old Miss Claiborne $200 for a blue bowl, and she wouldn't take it."

"I wonder if I could see it?" Beverly asked, thinking of the girl at the gate.

"Maybe," said his landlady doubtfully. "They don't care to meet many people. They used to have money, and now that they haven't the old lady shuts herself up there and Miss Clarice doesn't see anybody."

But Beverly was not to be daunted, and three days later he knocked at the Claiborne front door.

Clarice answered the knock. She was even more beautiful than the first time Beverly had seen her in a faded gown of pink gingham.

"I beg pardon," Beverly said, "but my landlady has told me of a bowl—a blue bowl—I am interested in old china and hoped I might see it."

Clarice looked at him gravely.

"It's not for sale," she said, "and I am not sure that you can even look at it. I'll have to ask Aunt Matilda."

"Of course," Beverly agreed promptly, "and if you don't mind I'll sit on the porch while I wait and look at the view. It's wonderful. You must be able to see three states."

"We can," Clarice said slowly, "and that's the worst of it."

He looked at her in surprise.

"Don't you like the view?" he demanded.

"I hate it," she said vehemently. "It's dreadful to look out into the world—and then to be shut up—here"—

Then she blushed hotly.

"Oh, I beg pardon," she said. "I shouldn't have said that. I forgot I was speaking to a stranger."

"You are not speaking to a stranger," Beverly told her. "Just think for a moment that I am a long lost brother or the ancient mariner or anybody that you'd have a right to tell your troubles to. Why, I feel as if I know you better than any girl I've ever met, and yet we have seen each other only ten minutes."

Clarice sighed. "I feel that way, too," she admitted, "but—now I'd better go and ask Aunt Matilda."

When she came down her cheeks were flaming.

"She says you can't see it," she said mournfully.

"Oh, can't I?" Beverly's tone was stubborn. "Well, I shall see it—and you—as often as I wish."

Clarice shook her head. "You don't know Aunt Matilda," she said hopelessly.

"I know her kind," Beverly stated. "I used to read about dragons and wicked stepmothers and godmothers in my fairy books and of beautiful princesses shut up in castles. This will simply be bringing it up to date. And, while I'm not sure that I will fulfill all the requirements of Prince Charming, I'll do my best."

Clarice gave him a flashing glance.

"Oh, I'm sure"— she began, and then the smile froze as a voice came from above.

"Clarice, Clarice," it said, "come up at once."

"It's Aunt Matilda," Clarice said in a frightened tone and vanished.

Beverly bore himself jauntily as he went down the walk. What was a mere aunt to stand in the way of his intentions? He was thirty-two, rich, and he had waited all these years to find the ideal woman. And here in this quiet town where he had come to rest and to fish he had discovered her, and he should marry her in spite of any old aunt dragon.

But as the days went on he found that it was not an easy thing to conquer Aunt Matilda. In the first place, he could not meet her. She was as invisible as a witch, and, except for her voice calling Clarice from behind the window curtain whenever Beverly stopped at the gate, there was no tangible evidence that she existed at all.

"You see, it doesn't do a bit of good for you to keep coming," Clarice told him desperately one morning when she met him on the way to the postoffice. "She always calls me away, and then she scolds and scolds. She says I haven't any pride." And her lips quivered.

"If I dared ask you to meet me somewhere," Beverly said, "but of course it wouldn't do."

"No," Clarice said. "I couldn't do that—and—you see, Aunt Matilda gets crazier and crazier over her old china—and she ought to sell it. We haven't enough to be comfortable—we haven't always enough to eat."

"Oh, by Jove!" Beverly said. "I can't have her starving you, you know."

Clarice grew a little pale.

"I shouldn't have told you," she said, "but I have thought of a way for you to help"—

"I am always at your service," said Beverly gravely.

"Oh!" She looked up quickly. "I thought you might write to that man who wanted the blue bowl—I have his address, but I wouldn't dare write—and I could give you the bowl, and you could sell it to him, and then—then you could bring me the money"—

"I'll buy it myself," said Beverly promptly. "I have never wanted but one thing in my life more than I want that bowl."

"What's the other thing?" Clarice asked curiously.

Beverly looked down at her unconscious face.

"Oh, well," he said at last, "I won't tell you until I am sure I can get the bowl."

"The man offered us $200," Clarice said hurriedly, "but I shouldn't expect that now. I think $100 will be enough."

"We'll see," Beverly stated. "If you'll bring it I can put a proper price on it."

"Come to the back door while I am getting breakfast," Clarice directed. "Aunt Matilda is always asleep then."

Clarice getting breakfast was wonderful. She wore an enveloping blue apron, and her sleeves were rolled back from her white arms. She was stirring the breakfast porridge as Beverly came in.

"I'd ask you to have some," she said, "but we haven't any cream."

"You wait," Beverly told her and caught up a quaint pitcher, and presently he was back with a basket of strawberries, the cream and some rolls. Clarice protested.

"Oh, you shouldn't"—

Beverly took both of her hands in his.

"Dear child," he said, "surely you will let me do such a little thing."

The blue bowl was, even to Beverly's untrained eye, a thing of beauty. He insisted that Clarice should let him pay the full $200, but she would not, and at last he made out a check for $150 and handed it to her across the table, and just at that moment a sepulchral voice came from the doorway.

"Clarice, what are you doing with my blue bowl?"

And there stood Aunt Matilda, looking as witchlike as possible in her black dressing gown, with her gray hair falling about her shoulders.

Clarice shrunk back. "Oh," she said, "I thought you were asleep!"

The old woman took a step forward.

"I waked early," she said, "and went to look at my china. Something warned me. And the blue bowl was missing. Give it to me at once."

"But it is not your blue bowl," Beverly informed her. "Clarice has told me that it belonged to her father and was left to her with other pieces, and now she has sold it to me."

"What?" Aunt Matilda shrieked. "Did you dare?"

Clarice's head went up. "It was mine, Aunt Matilda," she stated.

"But it breaks the set," the old woman moaned. "Clarice, give him back his money and give me back my bowl!"

She clutched at the coveted piece, but Beverly's hand restrained her.

"There is only one way that you can have it," he said.

"And that?" she demanded eagerly.

"You must let me marry your niece. She will then give you all the china, and I will settle an income on you so that you can live comfortably and hire a woman to stay with you. And then Clarice and I will go out into the great world together—Clarice"—

He turned to the girl, and his eyes pleaded.

"Oh," she whispered, "but I have known you such a short time."

"What is time to us?" he asked. "My mother will come to see you, my sisters, so that you may have no doubt as to my character, my circumstances, and, as for the rest, surely you won't send me away, Clarice?"

He held out his hands to her, and presently she came to him, and he put one arm about her protectingly as he turned to Aunt Matilda.

"And now," he asked, "will you take the bowl?"

Aunt Matilda's eyes gloated over it.

"Yes," she flung out.

"And I will take Clarice," said Beverly joyously, and as Aunt Matilda hugged her treasure to her breast he bent and kissed the lady of his heart.

Her Predicament.

A celebrated divine was to preach in a small village one Sunday where he had been several times. The family who entertained him had a little daughter who was usually fond of attending service. When the other members of the family were ready to go little Nellie firmly refused to go with them.

"I do not want to go to church," she declared.

"Why, what is the matter?" asked her mother, very much surprised. "Are you ill?"

"No, but I heard Parson D. before, and I do not like him," said little Nellie.

"Oh, Nellie, that is a very wicked thing to say!" replied her mother. "Tell me why."

"Well," said Nellie, rather confusedly, "he preaches so long that I cannot keep awake, and he preaches so loud I cannot go to sleep, so there!"—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Truce of God.

In 1032 the bishop of Aquitaine declared that he had been made the recipient of a message from God ordering men to cease from fighting. From this resulted the "truce of God." The first arrangement lasted for seven years, but it was resolved that such peace should always prevail during the great festivals of the church and from every Thursday evening to Monday morning. The regulation was speedily extended over Christendom, confirmed by several popes and enforced by excommunication.—New York American.

The Final Shock.

Patient—Doctor, I don't think I can use the battery any more. Will it be necessary to shock me again? Doctor—Only once more. I'll send in my bill tomorrow.

Wise men read very sharply all your private history in your look and gait and behavior.—Emerson.

ACCEPTED HIS ADVICE.

Then the Tailor Was Sorry He Talked the Lawyer.

The young lawyer had waited many days for clients, and still they did not come. His bills were mounting higher and higher, and, sad to say, some of his creditors were becoming impatient. At this very minute his tailor, whom he owed for last winter's overcoat, was sitting beside his desk uttering all sorts of dire threats.

"I'll pay you when I can," he said.

"Well, that doesn't satisfy me," retorted the tailor. "What would happen, do you think, if I were to take this matter to the courts and sue you?"

"You'd get judgment, of course," said the young lawyer.

"Then, in your opinion, you haven't a leg to stand on," insisted the tailor.

"Not a leg," returned the briefless youth.

"Very well, then, I shall proceed at once," said the tailor, rising.

"I certainly advise you to," said the lawyer, with a gleam in his eye.

"I shall most certainly accept your advice," retorted the tailor sarcastically.

"Good!" said the lawyer. "What is the amount of your bill?"

"Sixty-eight dollars and fifty cents," said the tailor.

"All right," said the lawyer. "Hand over six fifty, please."

"Six fifty!" said the tailor. "What for?"

"You have just consulted me in the matter of a suit at law and have stated that you accept my advice. My charge for that is $75, and the six fifty is the difference between your bill and mine," said the lawyer. "If I don't hear from you by noon tomorrow I shall put the matter in the hands of my attorneys. Good morning, sir!"

And the tailor went out, marvelling much that so ingenious a young gentleman should be a member of the great army of the unemployed.

$50,000 FOR PIPE-LIGHT.

Discarded Lottery Tickets Have Brought People Wealth.

How curiously history can repeat itself is proved by the story told of Charles Gregory, a negro engaged at a music-hall in the Faubourg Montmartre, Paris. A few weeks ago Gregory called at a shop to purchase tobacco, when the shopkeeper jokingly offered him a half-burnt lottery ticket, which had been thrown away by a previous customer, and told him that he was welcome to the prize. The negro took the proffered ticket with a smile and a "Thank you," and has just had the satisfaction of learning that he owes a prize to the jocular generosity of the tobacconist.

Some years ago a very similar piece of good fortune fell to the lot of a poor widow who kept a small shop in a Berlin suburb. One evening, as she was serving a customer, a working man stepped into the shop and asked permission to light his pipe. Drawing a piece of paper from his pocket he twisted it up, and, after lighting his pipe, threw down the spill and walked off with a word of thanks.

When sweeping the floor the following morning the widow took up the charred paper out of idle curiosity, and unfolding it, saw that it was a lottery ticket, only a portion of which had been burnt. She folded it up, put it away in her pocket, and had almost forgotten it, when the result of a large lottery-drawing caught her eye in the paper.

She then remembered the crumpled ticket in her pocket, and on producing it found to her amazement and delight, that it had won a prize of $50,000. She claimed the prize, and although she advertised widely for its original owner, with the intention of sharing it with him, she has been left in undisturbed possession of her fortune.

The Other Version.

Miss Jane Barlow sent a poem of a first contribution to The Cornhill Magazine when James Payn was its editor. Think of the lady receiving a brief line, scrawled in James' tearful chirography, which she interpreted as follows: "I have no use for silly verses."

Of course Miss Barlow indulged in copious tears. There never was such an ill-mannered snub. Then she commenced to study the scrawl. Now came a gleam of light, for she dimly made out what it really was: "I hope to use your pretty verses."

By Way of Comparison.

"You were having a quarrel with the prosecuting witness, were you not?" asked the judge in an effort to straighten out a complicated case.

"Oi wor," was the reply.

"And it was a very severe quarrel?"

"It wor, an' it kep' gettin' worser an' worser."

"Can you give me some idea of how bad it was?"

"Well, your honor, at wan toime Oi t'ink it wor most as bad as what's been goin' on beebune the lawyers in this case."

At Large.

"What is a congressman at large?" was the next question raised at the grocery lyceum.

"One that ain't in jail," suggested a wit on a cracker barrel.

"A congressman at large," asserted Zeb Whittletree, "is a congressman who has been elected, but who hasn't taken his seat."

"Wrong," declared Paleg Haw. "He has served his term. They're always entitled to the floor."

The question was still open when the grocer adjourned the session.

Needed More.

"Here is some complexion powder, auntie," said little Tommy Toddles. "I bought this little box for mamma and the great big box for you."

"But why did you think I needed such a large box?"

"Oh, because I heard papa say you were two faced."

A Lesson.

The Lady — Look here! You said that if I'd give you your dinner you'd mow the lawn for me. The Hobo—I'd like to do it, ma'am, but I gotter teach yer a lesson. Never trust th' word of a total stranger.

Eating Carelessly

frequently causes stomach troubles, but careful eating will never right them. When your stomach is out of condition, it needs help that no food can supply. It must be thoroughly cleansed, settled and strengthened. Food never does this.

BEECHAM'S PILLS

are the greatest stomach medicine human skill ever compounded. Don't attempt to cure your stomach by dieting. You will half starve and get little benefit. Give Beecham's Pills a chance and you will again know the pleasures of a sound digestion. Appetite will return and the stomach again work without any discomfort. The skin will clear, the face plump out, while people will remark "How well you're looking." These are facts, not fancies. Prove it yourself.

Prepared only by Thomas Beecham, St. Helens, Lancashire, England. Sold by all Druggists in Canada and U. S. America. In boxes 25 cents.

MISS RUTH MAYCLIFFE.

A Texas Ranch Girl's Remarkable Success as an Actress.

When Clyde Fitch wrote his last successful play, "Girls," which since early spring has been making crowded audiences in New York forget for a few delicious hours that they have a care in the world, he did a mighty good thing for the amusement loving public, and he also accomplished a clever stroke of "business" when he selected for the portrayal of the dearest, most lovable of all his bunch of girls a little rosebud clip of a maiden from a ranch in the Lone Star State of Texas. To separate the personality of Vi, the heroine of the farce, and Ruth Mayclife, the name of Mr. Fitch's ranch "find," is indeed difficult when you know both of these charming characters. For, as a matter of fact, Mr. Fitch, the most human of our American playwrights, wrote this part for Miss Mayclife, and her quaint mannerisms and funny little tricks of speech were ever before him as the character of Vi grew under his magic pen.

MISS RUTH MAYCLIFFE.

The plot of "Girls" is a simple enough everyday one, that of three talented, ambitious girls living together in a one room and bath apartment in the great metropolis, each in her own line of art, literature and the drama trying to get recognition from an unsympathetic world. So desperately in earnest and in love with their vocations are these girl chums that they form an anti-marriage league, and to keep their spirits up to the man mating mark every night before going to bed they, with tragic intensity of purpose, sing the popular song, "No Wedding Bells For Me." Their makeshifts at keeping body and soul together while waiting for fame to find them out and their final surrender to the tricks of the little god Cupid are screamingly funny, and Vi makes us have most of the good time.

And how did Mr. Fitch find the girl who has made his play the hit of the season?

I will tell the story as it was told to me the other day by Ruth Mayclife herself in the pretty little mission furnished living room of her apartment at the Hotel Portland, New York city. On this visit Mrs. Mayclife, Miss Ruth's mother, received me, and while we were exchanging the usual commonplaces consequent upon a first meeting the door from an adjoining room opened quickly and Vi—I mean Miss Mayclife—with a graceful, boyish kind of stride crossed the room and, holding out one hand to me, struggled with some rebellious locks of the prettiest curly hair you ever saw with the other, saying the while in a soft southern coaxing voice, "I hope you don't mind my coming in to see you with my hair half dry, but I've just washed it."

Now, if a girl can look perfectly bewitching with her hair done up any old way and half dry at that, why, she's a beauty sure enough. But such a negligee coiffure only brought out the golden glints in her wonderful mass of wavy brown hair, and one noticed how particularly blue and lovely were the fun loving eyes and [illegible] nature had given this lucky girl a makeup no rouge pot or cosmetic jar could effect.

She certainly was the incarnation of health, happiness and vivacious beauty, and one had only to substitute a riding habit for the short black plaited skirt and boy's shirt of white china silk and four-in-hand tie she was wearing to imagine her back again in El Paso racing her pony over her father's ranch.

Commenting upon the coolness of her costume, she said: "Oh, yes, I wear these boyish shirts whenever I decently can. Mother calls them the Mayclife livery. Horrid, isn't she? My stage career! How important that does sound. But let me tell you right now I wouldn't have had any career if it hadn't been for Mr. Clyde Fitch. I owe him everything I am or ever hope to be in my profession. If it hadn't been for him I'd be—well, I don't know where I'd be now instead of here in this glorious old New York playing in 'Girls.' Years ago, almost before I could talk straight, I amazed my parents very much by announcing that I was going to be an actress, and the first play I ever saw"—

"Wait a minute, Ruth, dear, and let me tell this part of the story," interrupted her mother. "I think I can make things clearer." Turning to me, she said: "Ruth's papa often had business at Kansas City, and my small daughter and I usually accompanied him on these trips. At the time of this particular visit to Kansas Ruth was almost six years old. The night after we arrived in town John Kean was announced to play 'Othello.' Mr. Mayclife was passionately fond of Shakespearean plays and particularly wanted me to see Kean as Iago. Having no other alternative, we took Ruth along, thinking that she would go to sleep. But not a moment did Ruth spend with her eyes closed. They never left the stage, and when the climax came she folded her arms on the seat in front and kept that position until the curtain fell."

"Now, mother, can I get in a word and say that all through my school life the idea of a stage career was ever before me? I studied Shakespeare; in fact, I committed to memory most of his female parts, and how in those days I did pore over Dante, and even when I took singing and dancing lessons there was always an imaginary audience before me.

"After finishing school at sixteen I went to Kansas City and had a course of training at Georgia Brown's dramatic school. At the end of three months I became a member of a stock company and played emotional roles with them most of that winter. Gaining very little experience and acquiring less salary, I determined to try my luck as an actress in New York. So one morning, with lots of ignorance and plenty of hopes packed in my trunk, I steamed out of the Union station with not a single letter of introduction helping me toward a position to cheer me on my way.

"What did I do when I reached New York? Promptly got myself into a most impossible hotel, the swiftness of which it took me three days to fathom and leave. Then came the exciting days when I got all tangled up looking for theatrical agencies in this big town. And how the New York girls did take my breath away with their style! Knowing what I was up against, I put on my best duds and tried to look as much like Fluffy Ruffles as I could. One blissful morning an agent told me to go down to a vaudeville house on Broadway. They wanted some one for a stunt there. Needless to say I flew. A line of applicants for this one poor place reached about halfway down the square—I mean block—but I shoved myself in and became sick at heart as each girl was dismissed with 'Will let you know.' When it came my turn to be interviewed I plucked up courage and in a brave voice answered that I was eighteen and had a few months' experience with a stock company out west.

"The man, Mr. Fitch's agent, Mr. Magruder, by the way, must have had some heart, for he smilingly held the card on which he had written my name and address and said: 'See, I have put "splendid" against your name. I think I'll make it "very splendid."' I hadn't the faintest idea why he so wrote me up, but I did the next morning when a letter came asking me to appear at Mr. Fitch's office. I was so excited I forgot my Fluffy Ruffles finery and went ragged out as I am now. Mr. Fitch thought me horribly young, but added in a pleasant fashion, 'That is not an unalterable fault.' And, to make a long story short, he engaged me for a small part in a twenty minute sketch of his about to go into rehearsal. He risked my ignorance of stage affairs because I looked like I had never smoked cigarettes or drank highballs and could be depended upon.

"And let me tell you I never have been initiated into these things that the average ingenue seems to think so jolly. It's not because I'm too good. I just loathe that sort of thing, and the more I see of it the more repulsive it is. I dressed a twostep all the way back to the hotel, although it was only a tiny part of eight pages I had in a sketch, 'Miss McCobb, Manicurist.' I studied like anything, and when Miss Georgie Lawrence and I did the stunt—well, it's not a nice thing to say, but I got all the curtains. This piece only ran a month or so. Again the old hunt for a part. How I did hope and work. One manager nearly engaged me, but before committing himself definitely he said, 'Let's go out to supper tonight and talk it over.' And another wretch of this ilk proposed a trip to Boston. There was always the chorus as a last refuge, but I had not dreamed of the stage all my life to be satisfied with a part in the chorus. No; I was going to be a real actress or nothing. In the meantime poor mother was sending me checks, but my stock of patience was at par, and just as I had decided to go to Los Angeles with a stock company my guardian angel, Mr. Fitch, gave me the part of Vi in his new play of 'Girls.'

"I was almost beside myself at the luck. Just to think, I was going to play in a great big theater on Broadway and in a sure enough play. Such happiness will never in this life be mine again. At the time I didn't know it, but Mr. Fitch had to fight the Shuberts to keep me in the play. Lee Shubert said: 'Why, Fitch, you're ruining your chance of success giving the principal part to a girl of eighteen with a few months' stage experience. I tell you, man, you're crazy.'

"This kind of talk went on until after the dress rehearsal, when Mr. Shubert made amends beautifully, squared himself with Mr. Fitch and came to my dressing room an enthusiastic as a schoolboy and, shaking my hand, said: 'You're great. You're the whole show.'

"The morning after our first performance in New York I never closed my eyes, and just as I was about to get forty winks a contract was handed to me asking me to sign with the Shubert brothers for five, eight years—my whole life. I signed for five."

RE-ATHING IS A BUSINESS FOR FAT FOLKS IN HOT WEATHER

Watch a fat man or woman breathe this sultry season and you will see some earnest work. The air goes in with difficulty, and it comes out with still more difficulty. Hot days are "busy days" with fat folks.

If you know one of these victims—help him or her. Tell him tabt exercise (which he wouldn't attempt) and starvation (which few have resolution enough to try) are not insumbent nowadays on those who wish to reduce. Tell him that a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime of this: 1-2 ounce Marmola, 3-4 ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic and 4 3-4 ounces Syrup Simplex have taken their place.

This pleasant home mixture, tell him, gets results on the fat itself without injury to the taker. It doesn't interfere with his habits, afeast his meals, disturb his stomach, or even bother his pocketbook worth mentioning. If it be a lady, you can assure her that, furthermore, although it can remove a pound or more of fat a day, it doesn't cause wrinkles.

"My mother taught me how to bake, and told me why she always used a McClary Range.

"Now I have a 'Pandora', and, as with mother, my troubles are few. After fire is started, I simply bring thermometer to desired heat and leave the oven in charge of the baking. It's built for faithful service.

"While housewives with other ranges are poking fire and changing dampers, I sit and read the 'Joy of Living'.'

MORE GOOD RECORDS MADE

Reports of Recent Tests by the Cow Testing Association

The Dominion Department of Agriculture's report in regard to cow Testing Associations gives some more good records.

In the Culloden, Ont., Cow Testing Association a cow that is rejoicing in the mature age of "sweet sixteen," made a splendid record for June. She calved on 29th May and some days in June gave as high as forty-two lbs. of milk at one milking, and eighty pounds on one day. In twenty-four days she gave 1,870 lb. milk, testing 3.4 per cent fat. Another cow in the same herd gave 1,590 lbs. milk, testing 3.2, equal to 50.8 lbs. butter fat during thirty days. Several cows in this vicinity are twelve and fourteen years old.

A notable record is from a seven year old in the Innerkip Cow Testing Association that calved 25th March and gave 1,590 lbs. milk in July, testing 3.4.

In July a six year old in an Association (near Peterborough, that calved April 8th, gave 1,540 lbs. milk, testing 3.3. In the same herd is a ten year old, calved 28th April, that gave 1,260 lbs. milk, testing 3.0. Both of these cows have given over 4,300 lbs. milk in three months.

In the Spring Creek Association one herd of sixteen cows had an average for July of 1,075 lbs. milk and 37 lbs. fat per cow. Some of these cows have given over 1,000 lbs. each for four and five months. In six months one cow gave 7,440 lbs. milk and 283 lbs. fat. In seven months a seven year old cow in the same herd gave 10,050 lbs. milk, 322 lbs. fat. She calved December 3, 1907.

The above good records are in startling contrast to that of a herd of twelve cows that in July averaged only 386 lbs. milk each. Eight out of the twelve cows freshened this spring. In the same Association a splendid showing is made by a herd of twenty-two cows that average 1,135 lbs. milk each, or just three times as much as the former poor herd. One cow is worth three of the others.

MANY ENTRIES FOR THE KEENE FAIR

Examiner Special

Keene, Oct. 7.—Mrs. Keith, Peterborough, will give an address Sunday morning in the Presbyterian Church on the subject of "Missions," under the auspices of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, in place of the usual morning service. She will also give a similar address at Westwood in place of the afternoon service there.

Miss Fitzgerald, Smith, is the guest of her aunts, Misses Agnes and Alice Lumsden.

Miss Brown, Hastings, is the guest of Miss Mary Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham, Toronto, are visiting at the home of Mrs. Cunningham's uncle, Dr. W. T. Harrison.

Mr. Jos. White, Orillia, is visiting friends in Keene.

Mr. Duncan McFarlane, Port Hope, was in the village Tuesday.

Miss Hurley, Norwood, is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. John O'Keefe.

Mrs. Harry McLachlan returned Tuesday from visiting at the home of Mrs. James Wedlock, Monaghan.

Tuesday was the first day of Keene's fair, and the number of entries is larger, and the character of the exhibits is better than ever before. The directors expect this fair to be a record breaker.

A concert will be held on Wednesday evening, under the auspices of the Village Improvement Society.

Mr. John Lang, ex-M.P., who has been seriously ill, is slightly better.

DANDRUFF CURED IN TWO WEEKS OR MONEY BACK

The above is the guarantee which Wm. Madill, the druggist, is offering for Parisian Sage, the greatest of all hair restorers.

If you have dandruff, take advantage of this offer and kill the little dandruff germs that will surely steal your hair from you if allowed to continue to persistently burrow into the hair roots.

Parisian Sage is also guaranteed to stop falling hair and itching of the scalp.

Don't accept any substitute from any druggist. Parisian Sage is the original prescription of one of the world's greatest scientists, and is manufactured only in America by the Giroux Mfg. Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Fort Erie, Ont.

Parisian Sage is an exhilarating and pleasant hair dressing; it is not sticky or greasy, and it makes the hair soft, beautiful and luxuriant.

Price is 50 cents a bottle from Wm. Madill, or by express, all charges prepaid, by the Giroux Mfg. Co.

STRATTON'S ADDRESS TO THE ELECTORS OF THE RIDING OF WEST PETERBOROUGH

To the Electors of West Peterborough:

Gentlemen,—I have been unanimously selected as candidate, in the Liberal interest, for the representation of West Peterborough, at the elections to be held on October 26th, and I hereby solicit your influence and vote, feeling that, as a supporter of the Liberal Government of the Dominion, I can render the city and riding at large, good, faithful and fruitful service.

All who know me, and after nearly twenty years of representation of the riding, that should include the majority of the electors, know in what manner I have discharged my duty to West Peterborough.

Aside from the policy of the Government on whose behalf a candidate is appealing for support, the determining factor in deciding an elector's support, should be the fitness of the candidate to give efficient representation. The elector should, therefore, choose the man whose known qualifications and record assure the exercise of effort and influence on behalf of the advancement of the interests of the riding, and to procure to it that measure of Government attention to which it is fairly entitled.

Therefore, in setting forth below what has been done under the Liberal representatives of West Peterborough in enlisting the good will of governments in securing substantial benefits, an adequate idea can be formed of how greatly to the advantage of this constituency will be the election of a candidate in sympathy with the Government, which has the power to vouchsafe advantages that may be faithfully presented.

I may, therefore, be permitted to point out a little of what has been accomplished for West Peterborough, through its representatives, by Liberal Governments. First, as my own share:

The work of procuring the construction of the Bensfort bridge, south of the city, is the equivalent of securing distinct benefits to residents of South Monaghan, through shortened distance to reach the market in Peterborough, and to the latter by facilitating the visits of the township people to the city. The building of a road through the township of North Monaghan north also served to lessen the distance the people of South Monaghan had to traverse to reach the city.

The procuring of a grant to assist in digging the Cavan drain, meant a much shortened way of access for the residents of northern Cavan to the Peterborough market, to the mutual advantage of themselves and Peterborough merchants and the reclamation of some thousands of acres of previously valueless swamp lands.

The procuring of large sums to be spent in the construction of new roads in Harvey, Cavendish, Galway, North Smith and Ennismore, represents conveniences to the people of these townships of no little value.

The procuring of legislation for the building of Chemong and Pigeon Creek bridges, and requiring their perpetual maintenance by the city and the Counties of Victoria and Peterborough, in the interests of the district, is another means of facilitating exchange of town and city trade.

The procuring of Government assistance to build the Kinmount bridge of stone and steel, was a means of settling the litigation between Peterborough and Victoria Counties, which had cost, and promised to cost, enough to build a bridge, and another benefit was the removal of a cause of constant friction between the two counties.

The construction of approaches and ferry, and later a permanent bridge, to span Gannon's Narrows, is a shortening of the distance to the city appreciated by the residents and farmers and land owners concerned.

I was fortunate enough to induce the Ontario Government to deed to the city—then town—of Peterborough, the Government reservation along the river front from the C.P.R. bridge to the Hunter street bridge, a great advantage, which has been made greater by being filled in by the dredgings of the river, at once beautifying the shore line and creating sites for manufactures, etc., etc., to be fronted with wharfage now under contemplation.

I will, I believe, be credited with having been instrumental in procuring the lease for Number Five dam, which made possible the establishment of the Otonabee Power Company, and led to the establishment of the Peterborough Cereal Works, and also led to the development of power at the dams further up the river for the use of the Lakefield Cement Works. For this I received at the time no little abuse and imputation of false motives in a course in which I had at heart only the good of the city, without the slightest personal advantage.

I may also fairly take credit for inducing the Ontario Government to consent to the transference of the waters of the northern part of this district to the jurisdiction of the Dominion Government, whose measures for conservation of water have created a steady flow the year round in the interests of canal navigation and power production, whose importance cannot be well over-estimated in relation to our manufacturing interests.

I may perhaps be permitted to suggest that the strong opposition to the legislation necessary to establish the Quaker Oats Cereal Company in Peterborough, with all the advantages and attendant benefits, would, I believe have been successful, if I had not used all my efforts and influence to secure the passage of the necessary legislation, which was bitterly opposed in Committee, and in the Assembly.

My interest in Peterborough, and West Peterborough, and the advance of their material welfare, has not been confined to my course in a representative capacity. In the interests of the city and of its working men I have fortunately been able to be instrumental in reorganising the Peterborough Lock Works on a prosperous and permanent working basis, and to be of assistance in promoting the establishment of the Peterborough Shovel and Tool Company. As the publisher of the Examiner, I have made it the medium of advocating and aiding all public measures and private enterprises calculated to upbuild Peterborough city and county. In this enterprise, and in the publication of three creditable class journals, The Canadian Dairyman and Farming World, and The Canadian Horticulturist, employment is given to about 100 persons, and Peterborough is given the dignity of a publishing centre.

When the Edison, now Canadian General Electric Works, were being established in Peterborough, the council was being criticized for the assistance the town gave. Owing to the assistance of the council and citizens, the works were established, and have grown and prospered, and I gave not only my moral support, but became financially interested to the extent of my ability.

I trust I may claim, as is the fact, that in the discharge of my representative duties, I have tried to represent the whole riding, irrespective of party affiliation, and that I have met and dealt with all conditions that arose during my several terms without regard to party feeling.

In all these things, if there be any merit, I have only done a duty to be expected of any representative, with the interests of his constituents at heart, and discharged the duties of a citizen; and if, through your support, I am given another opportunity, the assurance may be accepted that what little I have been able to do for West Peterborough, will be supplemented, to the best of my ability, and the extent of my influence, with the Government, and in the world of finance and affairs.

However, the benefits to West Peterborough, from Liberal representation and Government liberality, or rather justice, and deference to fair claims, are not all confined to the realm of the Provincial Government, but the Dominion representative and Government have contributed an important share.

To give prominence to the most prominent and most widely beneficial exercise of administrative function, the work of Trent Canal completion, by the Dominion, may be cited. When the Liberal Government took office in 1896, there were only 51 miles of navigable canal completed. Now there are 160 miles completed, embracing in this distance access to a thousand miles of shore line, and there are 28 miles under contract, leaving only 15 miles of unfinished canal between Georgian Bay and Trenton. During the 18 years of Conservative rule, and in all the years from Confederation, there was spent by that Government in canal construction work the sum of $1,230,030. During the 12 years of Liberal rule, there has been spent, including works under contract and construction, the sum of $4,891,708, out of the $6,121,117 spent since Confederation, or in other words in 12 years of Liberal administration, more than four times the amount spent in the preceding 30 years, has been expended, and, among other things, has given Peterborough steamer connection with the back lakes and northern waters.

Then, in the past twelve years large sums have been used in providing complementary works—to give the fullest benefits from canal construction—such as wharves, capable of enlargement, along the river and Trent waters, in dredging operations at various points. Particular reference might be made to the wharf at the street railway terminus, and the Wolfe street wharf, on which the work of construction will begin immediately.

Other measures in the interests of the riding due to energetic representation and fair government recognition of our claims may be cited.

A sitting of the Tariff Commission was secured for Peterborough, and the claims of Peterborough manufacturers heard and heeded. Representative influence met a ready response form the Post Office Department for the improvement of postal facilities; the interior accommodation of the building was enlarged and improved, city delivery provided; street letter boxes more than doubled in number, with more frequent collections, in addition to reduction of drop letter postage from two cents to one cent, not to speak of the opening of several new post offices, and the increased frequency of mail service.

The Peterborough Armouries represent not only an architectural ornament to the city and a large utility to the several forces of our militia, but a substantial advantage to the city in connection with the acquirement of a site for the Collegiate Institute.

The construction of a new $56,000 dam at Buckhorn, included the building of a new permanent county bridge, at a cost to the county of only $3,000 in lieu of $50,000, if as good a bridge had been built by the county.

The assumption by the Dominion Government of the county swing bridges, and their maintenance and operation, made a saving of about $2,500 per year to the county for all time.

The cold storage act of the Dominion Government intended to promote the construction of cold storage buildings, the Government giving as bonus a grant of a percentage of the cost, was instrumental in the establishment of a first-class cold storage warehouse in Peterborough, a great boon to dealers in dairy products, fruits and perishable articles, and, instead of Lindsay and Belleville, which had such warehouses, being the distributing centre, that advantage rests with Peterborough.

The replacing of the old wooden bridge that formerly spanned the locks at Young's Point, by a new steel bridge, placed so as not to impede wheel traffic while the lock is in use, the construction of a new pier, and the deepening of the lower waters of the lock and channel from five feet to nine feet, are obvious advantages.

The procuring of a parliamentary appropriation of $100,000 to meet claims for damages to lands flooded by the erection of dams in the course of Trent Canal construction, means the settlement of claims, some of them outstanding for nearly forty years, and is a measure of justice due to a Liberal Government, which appreciated the claims of the owners of drowned lands, which are being adjusted with all possible expedition.

All these things bear testimony to the importance and necessity of having a representative of West Peterborough alert and alive to the promotion of its interests.

I need not make any definite promises as to my course if elected. I will only say that I will do as I have done in the past, and serve West Peterborough to the best of my ability.

I think I am justified in saying that it will be to Peterborough's best interests to send a member in support of the present Liberal Government of the Dominion.

Under this Government the country has grown and prospered as it has never done before. It found, on taking office twelve years ago, the tide of prosperity at a low ebb; trade was dull, industry languishing; employment scarce and fitful; the finances were in bad condition, with large yearly deficits. All these things were changed under the Liberal Government; the tide of prosperity began to rise. The revenue, under a lessened tariff rate, grew, and funds were available and used with wisdom and enterprise to provide the means of development we see reflected in an advance of Canadian trade from 230 millions in 1896 to 650 millions now. Much of this is due to the Government's masterly dealing with the transportation problem involving cheap and rapid transport of produce from farm and factory to market, and, to crown all, the conception and construction of the Transcontinental Railway, which will roll back the map of Canada a hundred miles northward and double the cultivated and peopled area of the country. The Government which has done so much to build up Canada in all its varied interests to the status of a nation, is sure to be returned to power as a result of the coming elections, and this will ensure another parliamentary term of nation-building, which will witness the completion of the Grand Trunk Pacific, of the Hudson Bay Railway, and of the Trent Waterway.

I respectfully ask the assistance of your vote and influence to secure my election. If by favour of your kind support I am elected, I shall give my best efforts to all measures that will promote the interests of the country at large, and especially those of Peterborough and West Peterborough.

I have the honour to be, gentlemen,

Your obedient servant,

J. R. Stratton

TO "TOSS UP" A SALAD.

Hostess May Express Originality in the Arrangement of Salad Course.

A salad bears to a meal much more significance than merely a separate course, and the style of salad should be determined by the course it is to follow. To serve after a first course, possibly rich with sauces, the salad must be a crisp vegetable with a simple French dressing, and this is also applicable to roasts and the game course. This tends to aid the digestion of the rich food and prepare one's appetite for what is to come. Cucumbers or tomatoes are the preference with fish; escarole, celery, watercress or chicory with game; lettuce, celery or watercress with apple, pineapple or orange, and grape fruit is the choice for roasts. It does not necessarily follow that in serving a light salad with a fish course one cannot serve another salad during the meal. No salad, however, must be served after the one served with the game or roast.

"Tossing up" a salad might indicate to some that a salad could be thrown together hurriedly and carelessly; but, on the contrary, care and time must be expended on any salad to thoroughly mix and daintily garnish it. Potato requires turning over and over in the dressing, and this may be done early and set aside to absorb the dressing, while celery and apple salad should be served immediately after dressing it, as by long standing it wilts and becomes discolored.

The addition of garlic, particularly in potato salad, is very much liked by epicures, and half a clove of it crushed and rubbed around the edge of the bowl will be quite sufficient to give it flavor.

The serving of salad in individual portions has led to great originality in pleasing effects. Lettuce leaves and watercress with minced parsley are a firm standby, but other vegetables, particularly such as supply a strong color note, are also much used. White turnips in their natural state, if washed clean, show a beautiful surface of pearly tints merging into mauve and amethyst. Celery knobs show artistic lines of brown on white when vigorously scrubbed. Peppers are green, tomatoes scarlet, and apples range from pale green to lemon, from pink to ruby red. Scooped out so as to form hollow shells, any one of these serves as a holder for some tasty salad easily heaped within. Sprays of cress and parsley wreathe the outside of the salad cup thus constructed.

Among the various popular dressings for salad are found the favorite mayonnaise dressing, the always popular French dressing and the newer boiled or cream dressing. Heavy salads served with mayonnaise or with egg and cream dressing are much improved by a previous marinading with oil and vinegar or lemon juice before the final dressing.

Need Capital.

In a report to the Trade and Commerce Department, Mr. J. S. Larke, Canadian Trade Commissioner in Australia, said that arrivals of Canadians for settlement in Australia have not been many for the last two or three years, but a number have endeavored to work their passage back to Canada again.

"I have frequent applications for assistance for passage, and in some cases for money in order to purchase food from men who report that they have been unable to get work, and are reduced to the utmost distress. There is not much occasion for the men to go hungry as the Government has made ample provisions whereby man can earn his food for a short time. But Canadians should be advised not to come to this country unless they have sufficient means to keep them for a considerable time after they arrive."

General Moorsom.

The death of Major-General Charles John Moorsom, which occurred at Middleburg, Cape Colony, recently recalls the fact that he saw service in Canada and was married while here, in 1864, his wife being a daughter of James McGill McCutcheon of Toronto. As a lieutenant, General Moorsom went through the Crimean war with the 30th regiment, and was at the siege and fall of Sebastopol, where he was severely wounded. Coming to Canada with his regiment at the close of the war, he went through the Fenian Raid in 1866. He became a major-general in 1883, commanded troops in the Belfast district in 1885, and served from 1895 to 1900 at Rawal Pindi in the Punjab.

Snow Plow Runaway.

It is not often that a railway gets its line torn up by a run-away snow plow in August, but the C.P.R. had that trouble recently between Toronto and Orangeville. The C.P.R. is preparing for its annual tussle with the snow drifts, and during the strike has had a gang of men making plows at Walkerton. One of these plows was on the way to Toronto, when it jumped the track, tearing up a long section and delaying traffic for some hours.

P.E.I. Loses Men.

The population of Prince Edward Island is slowly decreasing, owing to migration to the Canadian West chiefly. Only a short time ago over a thousand young men left in one body for the western harvest-fields. And yet in no part of Canada are the people, as a whole, better (other) living more comfortably than in Prince Edward Island. The migration reduces the selling value of lands, and in consequence, intending immigrants from the Old Country are looking toward the Island province.

Cave-Dwellers Routed.

After an exciting battle Paupers living in caves dug out of the earth at Stoke Heath, near Coventry, have been driven away by a band of youths armed with stones. The squatters gained a living by turning over a refuse heap, and their presence caused much resentment in the neighborhood.

Make yourself a sheep and the wolves will eat you.—Italian Proverb.

THE EXPLOSION OF AN ELEVATOR

Eleven Workmen and Two Women Killed in Richford, Vt.

SPONTANEOUS COMBUSTION

Dry Dust in Canadian Pacific and Boston & Maine Storehouse Blows Up and Building is Burned to the Ground — Village is Shaken by Shock — Loss is $400,000— C. P. R. Line is Blocked.

Richford, Vt., Oct. 8.—With a concussion which shook the entire village a large grain elevator, having a capacity of 500,000 bushels, exploded late yesterday, causing the death of 11 workmen and two women, who were walking in the immediate vicinity.

The explosion blew off the entire roof of the big building, scattering timbers in all directions, and almost instantly flames burst out over the whole structure.

Twenty-one men were employed in the building. Eleven of these perished.

The dead are—Herman Lahn, 50 years old, leaves a family; Lucius Wright, 25 years old, married; Robt. Mandigo, 23, married; W. C. Barney, 50, married, leaves family; Ralph Hains, 20, single; Herman Niles, 25, married; Charles Narrows, 25, single; Louis Papineau, 40 married; Donna La Forte, 21, single; — Tuttle; a workman, name unknown, who is known to have been in the building, and who is reported missing; Mrs. Jelliford; Mrs. Guardo, aged 40.

Mrs. John Jellifore, who was walking with a companion along the Canadian Pacific Railroad track, close to the elevator, was burned to death, and an unknown woman who was with her was burned so seriously that she died last night.

The elevator was owned jointly by the Canadian Pacific and Boston & Maine railroads and was operated by the Quaker Oats Co. of Chicago. It was 150 feet in height, 130 feet long and 80 feet wide.

The exact amount of grain which it contained could not be learned last night, but it is known that the quantity was very large.

So quickly did the flames, which are supposed to have started by spontaneous combustion in the dry dust of the grain, extend throughout the building that the limited fire apparatus of the village was of no avail. Nothing could be done to prevent the entire destruction of the elevator and its valuable contents.

The heat set fire to a flour mill near the elevator and the shed, together with 75 freight cars, which were standing near it, were burned. Every building in the village was shaken as if by an earthquake when the explosion occurred and many people who were on the streets near the elevator were thrown to the ground with considerable violence.

This morning the fire is still burning, but no other property is threatened.

The wreckage from the explosion and fire blocked the tracks of the Canadian Pacific Railway completely for hours, so that it was necessary for trains to make a detour by way of Sherbrooke, Que.

The total loss is estimated at $400,000.

MAKE AN APPEAL TO THE MAYOR

Deputation of Montreal Strikers Say They Cannot Get Jobs.

MANY MEN RETURN TO WORK

Winnipeg Reports That Men Are Going Back to Their Places — Angus Shop Mechanics in Tears in the Mayor's Office Ask Him to Intercede—Ottawa Has Made No Announcement of Settlement.

Montreal, Oct. 8.—A large deputation of C.P.R. strikers called upon Mayor Payette yesterday, and told a pitiful tale. They say that, notwithstanding the announcement made in the paper, when they applied for positions yesterday morning at the C.P.R. Angus shops for reinstatement, they were told that their places were all filled.

They asked the mayor to intercede on their behalf with the C.P.R. They said they had been deceived by the labor leaders, who told them that unless they struck their wages would be reduced. They say they are entirely upon their uppers and that there are hundreds like them, whose families will starve unless they get work at once. Some of the deputation broke into tears, and Ald. J. B. A. Martin was so affected that he broke down himself, and had to leave the mayor's room.

Winnipeg, Oct. 8.—A large number of Canadian Pacific mechanics returned to work yesterday. The men began to register early in the morning. At 8 o'clock a crowd of 200 men gathered at the two offices the company had opened for strikers. Many went in to work immediately their names were placed in the books. A number of strike-breakers left yesterday.

Ottawa, Oct. 8.—The local C.P.R. striking mechanics have not yet definitely decided whether or not they will accept the strike settlement. At a meeting here yesterday it was stated that no official announcement had been received of a settlement. The body of strikers here has remained intact, and the announcement of the settlement is not pleasing to them.

$,000 AT MONTMAGNY.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Party Are Given Splendid Reception.

Quebec, Oct. 8.—Over six thousand persons welcomed Sir Wilfrid Laurier yesterday at Montmagny. As soon as the train arrived at 3 o'clock, bringing about 200 excursionists from Quebec and the surrounding places, the people cheered and applauded enthusiastically, and when Sir Wilfrid stepped down from the train to the platform the band played national airs, while the people joined in the choruses. On the way to the meeting-place Sir Wilfrid Laurier was accompanied by Hon. Charles Devlin and Mr. Lillois. Near the Central Hotel a bouquet was presented to the Premier by a dainty little damsel, who was rewarded with a kiss. While this was going on some enthusiasts unharnessed the horses and Sir Wilfrid was drawn to the Town Hall by his admirers.

Everywhere on Sir Wilfrid's passage the houses were gaily decorated. Inscriptions, flags and banners floated in his honor.

Hon. Charles Devlin, Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Dr. C. E. Cote, Mr. Louis Letourneau, Mr. R. V. Rousseau and Mr. L. Cannon also addressed the meeting.

From Chicago to the Sea.

Chicago, Oct. 8.—A picture of days when stately ships shall carry the rich products of the central states from the great lakes to the Gulf of Mexico through a deep waterway, returning with products of no less value, was conjured up yesterday before the delegates and visitors to the third annual convention of the Lakes to the Gulf Deep Waterways' Association by able speakers, headed by William H. Taft.

Big Shoe Firm Assigns.

Boston, Oct. 8.—Bartels, Thelen & Co., shoe manufacturers of this city and Chicago, made a general assignment yesterday for the benefit of creditors. The liabilities are estimated at between $400,000 and a half million. The amount of the assets is unknown. The firm employs 600 operators.

Will Continue as Mayor.

Ottawa, Oct. 8.—Mayor D'Arcy Scott, recently appointed chief of the Board of Railway Commissioners, will in all probability continue to occupy the mayoralty chair till the end of the year. Should any case in which the city is interested come before the board he will not sit.

Says Thaw Tried Suicide.

White Plains, N.Y., Oct. 8.—After charging that Thaw was still a dangerous paranoiac and recently had threatened to kill himself, District Attorney Jerome withdrew from the case yesterday when Justice Mills refused to transfer the hearing question of Thaw's sanity to New York County.

Thereupon Justice Mills declared that he would name two experts to examine Thaw as to his sanity.

Boy Kicked by Horse.

Stratford, Oct. 8.—George Cotterel, aged 12 years, an English lad, whose father, George Cotterel, resides in Toronto, was kicked on the head by a horse in a runaway yesterday and perhaps fatally injured.

C. W. Webb, B.A., of Medicine Hat, has received the appointment of junior English master at the Collegiate Institute as a salary of $1,000.

Belleville Assizes.

Belleville, Oct. 8.—The trial of Thomas Smart on a murder charge, has been traversed to the next assizes.

Richard Simpson of Bannockburn, a young married man, was found not guilty on a charge of rape preferred by Mrs. Hugh Delins.

UNION AFFECTED WITH GREECE

Cretans Throw Off Government of European Powers.

A BLOODLESS REVOLUTION

Long-Sought Union Which Has Been the Cause of Frequent Disturbances in Mediterranean Island is Accomplished Amid Great Rejoicing—Has Been Nominally Under Rule of Sultan of Turkey.

Canea, Island of Crete, Oct. 8.—A decree announcing the union of Crete with Greece was published last evening.

Events leading up to the climax followed each other throughout the day with dramatic rapidity. The town was bedecked, and early in the morning people began flocking in from all directions. There was much firing of guns and revolvers, together with plenty of cheering, but perfect order prevailed, Musulmans mingled with Christians freely and unmolested.

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon a great demonstration in favor of union with Greece occurred on the military review grounds. More than 10,000 people, one of the largest crowds ever seen here, gathered at this place. All the prominent revolutionary leaders, each with his banner flying, appeared, and they were supported by the heads of the different political parties, the mayors of the town, the clergy and others influential in the councils of the island.

Crete is an island in the Mediterranean, lying to the south of the Aegean Archipelago, which a population of something over 300,000. The island was conquered by the Turks in 1669, but never really submitted, and continually rose in insurrection against them. In 1898 the powers set up an autonomy under the nominal suzerainty of the Sultan, and Prince George of Greece was appointed high commissioner. The prince has since been superseded by M. Zaimis, formerly Prime Minister of Greece. A large proportion of the population is Christian.

London, Oct. 8.—Great Britain would much prefer that the Balkans matters be settled without reference to the signatories of the Berlin treaty, and she is advising Turkey to try to come to some terms with Bulgaria and Austria-Hungary.

The attention of the Austria-Hungarian Foreign Office has been called to the protocol of Jan. 17, 1881, which is attached to the treaty of 1671, and to which Austria-Hungary adhered. In this protocol it is laid down that no power could break its treaty engagements or modify the stipulations of the treaty without entering into friendly agreement with the contracting powers and obtaining their assent.

The British Government, therefore, notifies the Austria-Hungarian Government that it is unable to sanction any infringement of the treaty of Berlin.

Turkey's unexpectedly restrained policy minimizes the possibility of war, which now is considered out of the question, unless some of the minor Balkan states open hostilities.

The English papers unite in praising Turkey's moderation, and in denouncing Austria. The Standard, in a typical utterance, says:

"We are sorry for the aged Emperor. We regret that so late in his long and honorable career he has chosen to sully his name with a deed which will go down in history alongside of the partition of Poland."

Several of the London newspapers question whether or not Emperor Francis Joseph is acting against his will.

Assaulted Girl.

Parry Sound, Oct. 8.—The charge of assault by a married man named Ford on the person of a girl under 16 years of age, resulted in a verdict of guilty, but on the motion of Mr. Godson, the crown prosecutor, in the Assizes, and in view of the fact that the prisoner had contributed toward the maintenance of the child of the girl, and had a delicate wife and small family, the sentence of the court was extremely lenient, being imprisonment in the district jail for six months.

Chinaman Deported.

Halifax, Oct. 8.—A Chinaman named Woo Jin, who claims to belong to Montreal, and who was taken out of jail at North Sydney and put on board a steamer for Mexico belonging to the line by which he is alleged to have been smuggled into Canada, was before Judge Drysdale on habeas corpus proceedings yesterday, but was ordered back on board. He was being deported on an order from the Minister of Trade and Commerce.

THE OTONABEE INDUSTRIAL EXHIBITION HELD AT KEENE YESTERDAY BROKE ALL FORMER RECORDS IN ATTENDANCE AND IN EXHIBITS

People Assembled From Surrounding Country in Large Numbers —Races Were Centre of Attraction and Were Well Contested— A Splendid Fair

A FINE EXHIBIT OF HORSES

Ideal autumn weather—a mild sunshine suggestive of the harvest season and the varied tints of the faded foliage, together with a balmy breeze that warmed rather than chilled—was responsible for the splendid success of the Keene Fair yesterday. The directors of the Otonabee exhibition may well smile, for they have had more proofs than one of the special favours that the weather man has shown them. A better day for a township fair could scarcely have been chosen and the result was that the gate receipts gave strong evidence of an attendance that greatly exceeded that of last year.

Another gratifying feature was the increased number of exhibits. In practically every class there were better entries, and they were more numerous than in the past. This certainly pleased the directors, for while they are anxious to have a large crowd attend, they want to see the farmers manifesting a material interest in the fair by exhibiting their stock, grains, etc.

The Crowd

The elite of Otonabee's farmers drove into the village for the occasion, and it might be casually mentioned that they made a showing in the latest styles of buggies and rubabouts that is hard to equal. There were vehicles in all the sheds, and the exhibition grounds were alive with them. The steamer Rainbow brought a large excursion from points on Rice Lake. Among those who crossed the lake were many Indians from Alderville Reserve, including the band, which enlivened the proceedings by a lengthy programme on the grounds. Peterborough, Hastings and other points were also well represented.

The Entries

As already stated there were many entries, and in the horses and stock classes the following exhibited:

Horses Agricultural Heavy

M. J. Healey, Wm. Whittington, John Lang, Jr., S. F. Redmond, Edgar Wood, John S. Perrin, Peter Drummond, Garner Thompson, Joshua Smithson, Wm. Kempt, P. J. Crowley, S. Harper, W. R. Morrison.

THE CAMPAIGN IN WEST PETERBOROUGH.

We reproduce the following article from the Lindsay Post of October 6th:

"In the adjoining riding of West Peterborough the contest between Mr. Stratton and Mr. Burnham has so far progressed that the development of popular sentiment makes it more than reasonably certain that J. R. Stratton will be the next representative of that constituency in the House of Commons. This conclusion is based upon the manifestation of public feeling at the political meetings, the unusual activity of responsible and influential men in Mr. Stratton's behalf, and the personal reports of our friends in that riding, who, we know, are assured of good foundation for their opinions. The prospective return of Mr. Stratton to the Commons is something upon which the constituency, even more than the candidate, is to be congratulated. It will be undoubtedly a gratification to Mr. Stratton to receive a new manifestation of the confidence of the county in which he was born, and to which the efforts of his life have been mainly devoted, the more so because, it is fair to admit, his choice will not be wholly upon partisan or political grounds, but more largely upon the recognition of his availability by reason of an unrivalled equipment of experience in public life, and of his capacity to effectively serve the best interests of the people of his county. Mr. Stratton has proved his mettle not only in the field of politics but in the more important and responsible domain of financial and industrial enterprise. He is a recognized and an important figure in the great financial world of our Provincial capital. His sagacity in the successful promotion of large industrial undertakings, that expand provincial business and enlarge the area of profitable employment for labor is everywhere recognized. He stands high among our captains of industry. What has given him so enviable a reputation in those important and discriminating fields of investment is his proved fidelity to every trust that has been reposed in his hands, his energy and industry, and his unusual grasp of affairs and sagacious business judgment."

LITTLE RUTH BAKER OF LINDSAY MEETS WITH A FATAL ACCIDENT; DROWNED IN A PAIL OF WATER

Lindsay, Oct. 8.—Special.—A peculiar accident occurred here yesterday morning when Ruth Baker, aged seven months, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Baker, Angeline street, was drowned in a pail of water. Mrs. Baker had left the house to hang out a few clothes, and was only out about ten minutes. On her return she was horrified to see the baby head first in a pail of water. Although everything was done to bring the child around, life was extinct. After working over the child for a long time the doctor failed to resuscitate her.

Her little brother, aged 2 1-2 years, was killed last April by a Grand Trunk train.

CAVAN MAN WAS RELIEVED OF HIS ROLL OF $16 AND WATCH YESTERDAY

Edward Shields a man well advanced in years came into Peterborough yesterday with $16 and two watches, and this morning had nothing to show but one of the time pieces and the remnants of a jag. The Cavan visitor managed to get intoxicated after reaching the city and the result was that his money and watch have evidently fallen into dishonest hands.

Shields, himself, came under police supervision yesterday afternoon, when his conduct was such as to warrant his arrest by P.C Adams. This morning he appeared before Magistrate Dumble on the charge of being drunk. He admitted the truth of the charge and was assessed $2 to be paid in ten days. During the hearing of the case the fact that he had been robbed was brought out. Shields remarked that he had not brought much money with him, only sixteen dollars, and that he thought more of losing his watch than the money.

An Otonabee man who pleaded guilty to gazing too long upon the wine when it was red, was mulcted $2 and was given the usual ten days in which to get his hands upon the money. "They're all rich out in Otonabee," remarked the Magistrate.

FRED SIMPSON IN ACTIVE TRAINING FOR THE MONTREAL HERALD RACE

Fred Simpson is in active training, preparing for the Montreal Herald road race which will be held on Thanksgiving Day in Montreal. Fred has lost considerably in weight and is down to his usual condition. He states that he never felt better and although he is working hard he still has regular jaunts to keep in shape and expects to make a good showing in the coming race. Fred says he would like to be running again in Peterborough over the Examiner course, but Hiawatha will have young Hanlon Howard, son of Madden Howard and brother of the late Ben Howard, start at Lakefield for the Examiner trophy. He is a promising runner but has not yet been trained to a stride that will carry him along easily and with the least exertion. He will likely make a good showing as he has good staying powers.

THE WAR CLOUDS ARE LOOMING UP ON THE EUROPEAN CONTINENT

Examiner Special

London, Oct. 8.—Unless Austria beats an ignominious retreat from her present position, Turkey will declare war, according to the statement made to-day by a member of the Turkish Embassy, who for obvious reasons would not permit the use of his name.

Belgrade, Oct. 8.—The spirit of war with Austria-Hungary is growing here constantly, and scenes of wild enthusiasm are being witnessed on the streets of Belgrade.

Vienna, Oct. 8.—Information has reached the government that Servia is planning the organization of a guerilla warfare in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

A CITIZEN INTERESTED IN EDUCATION OF THE BOYS AND GIRLS

DR. GEORGE BURNHAM, Who Has Presented the Collegiate Institute With Several Splendid Books

THE WATER FRONT PROBLEM TO COME BEFORE COUNCIL

A meeting of the Committee of the Whole Council has been called for to-morrow night when the water front question it is expected will be finally settled. At Monday's meeting of the Council a letter was read from Mr. R E Wood, solicitor for Mrs. Rogers, calling the attention of the Council to the fact that it is now two years since the proceedings were commenced and threatening that if Mrs. Rogers is not paid $1,750 within ten days he would revive the proceedings against the other parties and issue a writ against the city as well.

The Mayor was instructed to interview Mr. Meldrum of the Peterborough Cereal Company and then call a meeting of the whole council which he has done for to-morrow night.

DR. GEO. BURNHAM PRESENTS BOOKS TO THE INSTITUTE

The following is a list of books presented to the Collegiate Institute by Dr. George Burnham:

Life of Lorenzo De Medici—Roscoe.
Life of Benvenuto Cellini—Roscoe.
History of the Saracens—Ockley.
Philosophy of History—Schlegel.
Schlegel's Aesthetic (and Miscellaneous) Works.
Servia, Bosnia and the Slave Provinces—Ranke.
Fesmondi's Literature of Europe, 2 vols.
Mallet's Northern Antiquities.
Literary History of the Middle Ages—Bennington.
Memoirs of Count Grammont and Charles II.
Greek Anthology.
Thucydides Peloponnesian War — Dr. Smith.

THE COMPULSORY SUBJECTS ONLY ARE TAUGHT HERE

In connection with the letter in yesterday's Examiner written by "Parent," Mr. A Mowat, Public School Inspector, states that no subject is taught in the schools in Peterborough that is not compulsory. Every one that is taught is on the curriculum as laid down by the Department of Education in Toronto. These regulations apply to the whole of the province and not to any particular portion.

ASTRONOMERS TO HOLD THE FIRST MEETING TO-NIGHT

A large crowd is expected to attend the first meeting of the autumn term of the Royal Astronomical Society, Peterborough Centre, in St. Paul's schoolroom to-night. Dr. Marsh, the president, will give an address on "A Night in the Skies," illustrated by limelight views. A silver collection will be taken.

ENTRIES FOR OTONABEE ATHLETIC CLUB MEET

Entries are coming in rapidly for the Otonabee Athletic Club meet, which will be held next Wednesday night in the Brock street rink. The sports will certainly be of a particularly interesting character, as several fast men have entered. The running broad jump, the pole vault, and the team relay race will be new. The latter especially will be a feature of the meet. Some fifty or more young athletes are in training every night for the event. Those who expect to participate should leave their names with Secretary B. T. Huston at the Examiner Office. Any who have not registered with the C.A.A.U. may do so at the same time.

UNITED STATES FARMERS IN VAST NUMBERS PEOPLING THE PRAIRIES OF THE GREAT WEST; WONDERFUL ADVANCES IN THE EMPIRE'S GRANARY

Everybody who visits the great Canadian West—the broad granary of the Empire—returns a thorough optimist in the success of its future. It is totally impossible for one who has not had the opportunity of viewing the broad expanse of prairie lands lying between the boundary on the south and the Arctic circle to the north to begin to realize their extensiveness.

The progress being made by the Canadian West is also a matter of wonderment. Mr. W G Turner, 247 Burnham street, East City, who returned a couple of days ago after a five weeks visit, has every reason to know of this rapid advance. He spent the time in the Calgary-Edmonton district, where, he states, the crops are of a most excellent quality. The wheat harvest in Southern Alberta, near Lethbridge and McLeod, has seldom been exceeded. A farm near McLeod holds the record for the present year with the wheat crop averaging 64 1-4 bushels to the acre. The record prior to that was 62 1-2 bushels grown on a farm near Lethbridge. In many places in Alberta the oat crop has exceeded 100 bushels to the acre, and it was quite common to find an average of from 70 to 80 bushels. Little frost has so far been experienced, so that the crops were successfully harvested.

One of the features of Mr. Turner's experiences in the West was the conversations he heard in hotels, trains, streets and parks about homesteading and the purchase of land. "Ninety per cent.," said Mr. Turner, "were United States farmers who had crossed the border from Iowa, Minnesota, Dakota, Nebraska and Washington.

Of such a magnitude is the real estate business in the west that Saskatoon which [illegible] acres of land for sale [illegible] in advertising in a few months.

Great progress has been made on the Grand Trunk Pacific and by December it is expected trains will be run between Edmonton and Winnipeg. At present 600 miles are ready for work. The Canadian Northern is also spreading its web of railways through the vast prairies, and 100 miles of the line between Saskatoon and Calgary are already in use.

Smith Pioneer Passes Away At The Age Of Eighty-Six Years

Unexpected Death of Mr. Stephen Mann—Born On the Shore of Chemong Lake

HE DIES IN PETERBOROUGH

With the death of Mr. Stephen Mann last night at the ripe old age of eighty-six years, there has passed beyond the great divide a pioneer of Peterborough county who has for several years been the only survivor in the family circle of the late James Mann to link the past and present. His death was unexpected although for the past ten years he had been practically an invalid due to a paralytic stroke.

His father, the late James Mann, was a native of Yorkshire, England, who came to Canada in the early days and was one of the first settlers on the shore of Chemong Lake near Bridgenorth. There he wielded the woodman's axe and with the other pioneers of those primitive times aided in hewing out a successful future for the township of Smith.

Born on July 3rd in 1822, Mr. Stephen Mann has seen a good deal of Peterborough County where he has spent his four-score years and six. He was married to Miss Sarah McKee of Smith in 1844 and for 45 years afterwards farmed in that township on the 10th concession. Eighteen years ago he moved to Peterborough to reside.

Mr. Mann was a Baptist in religion and was one of the first members of the Selwyn church in which he was a deacon for many years.

His wife predeceased him thirty-two years ago. Surviving him are two sons, Samuel and William, of San Francisco and eight daughters, Mrs. Wm. Jackson, Peterborough; Mrs. Wm. Rae, Otonabee; Mrs. J A Armstrong, Peterborough; Mrs. Edward Blewett, Lindsay; Mrs. Robt. Rae, Peterborough; Mrs. D H Kernaghen, Peterborough; Mrs. Henry Dunford, Millbrook and Miss Margaret Mann, who lived with her father at his residence, 434 1-2 George street.

The funeral will be held on Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock to Hay's Cemetery near Lakefield, where interment will take place. Rev. J R Webb and Rev. W C Biddiford will officiate.

MR. WEBBER'S WATERMELONS APPRICATED

Mr. Geo. Webber, of the Gravel Road, very thoughtfully remembered his friends that congregate at the market by bringing in half a dozen watermelons, one of which found its way to the editorial room of the Examiner Office. It was all-to-the good and was thoroughly enjoyed.

Brigadier Roberts Began Revival Services At The Barracks Last Evening

Celebrated Speaker From London, England With Many Years' Experience Lectures to a Large Attendance at Salvation Army Barracks

HERE REST OF THE WEEK

Brigadier John Roberts of London, Eng., commenced a series of revival meetings at the Salvation Army barracks last night with an attendance that augurs well for their success. His visit was the result of the request of Commissioner Coombs of Montreal to the headquarters in London that a simultaneous campaign be instituted throughout Canada during the autumn and winter months. Commissioner Cadman was sent to Newfoundland for the same purpose, and Col. Brengle is at work on almost the same lines in Western Ontario. Commissioner and Mrs. Howard are also in Canada, and all these officers from headquarters will attend the 26th annual congress of the Salvation Army in Canada. It will

The County Gaol Statistics Covering The Work Of The Year Gone By Gives Some Very Interesting Information And Statistics

The statistics for the Peterborough jail for the year ending Sept. 30 last have been compiled and they show some interesting figures.

On Oct. 1, 1907, there were nine persons (all males) in custody. During the past year 215 males and 13 females were committed and only one of these was under 16 years of age. Twenty of them had been committed for more than three times. Of the total, three were committed because of unsound minds, 30 were acquitted on trial, 88 were discharged by order of the court without trial, 4 on suspended sentence, 1 is awaiting trial, and 89 have been sentenced. Nine of the latter were sentenced direct to Central Prison and three to the penitentiary.

Of the prisoners who elected to be tried at the County Judge's Criminal Court, three were acquitted and five found guilty.

The Nationalities

Of the total 215 committed during the year, 157 were Canadians, 33 were English, 7 Irish, 4 Scotch, 8 from the United States, and 6 from other countries.

Eighty-three of the number were married, 22 could neither read nor write, 127 were reported temperate and 88 intemperate.

The jail expenditures for the year for food, clothing, fuel and other items of maintenance, except salaries and repairs, were $1060.57; for officers, $1400, and for repairs, $18.30. The daily cost per prisoner for rations was 9 5-8 cents.

The greatest number of persons confined in the jail at any one time was 22, and the least 9.

Offences Committed

One person was committed to jail during the year for obscene language, 16 for assault, 1 for attempted suicide, 1 for bigamy, 1 for carrying unlawful weapons, 1 for cruelty to animals, 1 for wounding, 22 for being drunk and disorderly, 2 for destroying property, 8 for forgery, 1 for fraud, 7 for house-breaking, 4 for indecent assault, 1 for being an inmate of a house of ill-fame, 2 for keeping houses of ill-fame, 57 for larceny, 8 for lunacy, 2 for perjury, 5 for receiving stolen goods, 2 for seduction, 6 for trespassing, and 48 for vagrancy.

CROOKED REASONING EXPOSED

The City of Peterborough, according to aldermen past and present, is well governed, but from the taxpayers' view not so well managed as the Dominion has been administered by the Liberal Government in the past twelve years. In 1896 the rate of taxation of Peterborough was 17 mills in the dollar; the rate is 17 mills in 1908. The average rate of customs taxation imposed by the Conservative Government was 26 per cent. In 1908 the average rate of customs taxation imposed by a Liberal Government is 26 1-3 per cent., a reduction of 3 2-3 per cent. That is where the Montreal Gazette, the most capable Conservative journalistic authority on finance, gets its authority for the statement it made the other day, that if the Conservative rate of customs taxation in 1896 were applied to the customs imports of last year, the revenue collected would have been a straight 100 1-2 millions of dollars instead of the 86 1-2 millions actually collected. Therefore, when Conservative newspaper orators or newspapers tell the elector that the Liberal Government has increased taxation, they are telling what is not true. The fact is that it has decreased taxation at the rate of $3.66 on every $100.

In 1896 the ratepayers of Peterborough paid a tax roll of $74,742.23; in the year 1908 they paid a total tax roll of $159,356.60. As our Conservative friends argue, the taxpayers of Peterborough, because they paid some $85,000 more in taxes in 1908 than in 1896 have had their taxes doubled. This is not the case. The city is not taxed a cent higher now than twelve years ago. The rate is exactly the same in both years—17 mills in the dollar. More taxes, but not higher taxes were paid because the assessment more than doubled.

So with the Liberal Government. There was a larger Dominion revenue in 1908 than in 1896 by about 60 millions, because the people were prosperous enough to buy of goods that had paid duty to make the increase of 60 millions of revenue, though the duty paid in 1908 was $3.66 less per $100 than in 1896.

The elector should get this fact into mind that the people in the days of Conservative rule had only been able to buy goods enough to make a revenue of $36,618,590, when every $100 yielded 30 cents of income; and that in the last year of Liberal rule—a true type of the other twelve years—the people were able to buy goods enough to make a revenue of $96,500,000, when $100 of goods yielded only 26 1-3 cents of income.

The fact is sure that the people paid more revenue under Liberal rule than they did under Conservative rule, because they were more prosperous, had more money and bought more goods upon which a customs duty was levied.

Do we make it plain?

FACTS FROM OUR OWN RECORD.

In the Examiner and Review of today are published the statistics of Peterborough jail, and on their testimony Hon. W. J. Hanna and Mr. Hampden Burnham stand chargeable with perverting the record. Mr. Hanna has been declaring from the public platform that the jails and asylums of Ontario, over which as Provincial Secretary he has charge, are overflowing with criminal and insane immigrants. Mr. Hanna must have been misled by the figures supplied by his officials and Mr. Burnham has been aiding and abetting in a less direct and specific way, but with a marked degree of hostility in intensifying prejudices.

The statistics of Peterborough jail, published in another column, will illustrate how our new comers are unfairly characterized in regard to their criminal record. Last year there were 215 prisoners confined in Peterborough jail, and out of these only 44 were from outside Canada—only 20 per cent. The statistics of Welland jail, published in the current number of the Telegraph of that place, makes a similar showing, though the proportion of new comers is a little higher—49 out of 178. These two instances are taken as convenient examples of refutation of evidently overdrawn statements in regard to our fellow-subjects and fellow citizens. No doubt they represent the general conditions throughout the province, which tell in regard to nationality of prisoners a different story. In 1896 the immigrants coming to Ontario, principally British, were 70,000 and the jail commitments were 11,804. If 20 per cent. of these were new comers only 2,360 out of 70,000 immigrants found their way to the jails.

There, therefore, seems to be very little foundation for the impression created by the statements made that the run of British immigrants seeking the shelter of the flag in Canada are criminal and insane. A political cause and a personal cause must be in a bad way that has to resort to a course that adds to the unfortunate prejudice said to exist against some of our new comers. It is not patriotic, it is shockingly unpatriotic, if Canada with its uncounted millions of unoccupied lands, rejects and vilifies our fellow-subjects of the British Isles, where they can turn for a welcome? The dog in the manger policy is a poor one.

If Mr. Burnham and the Review wished to do the right thing they would follow the example of the Examiner. While the Review, under the control of the Conservative candidate, Mr. Burnham, was busy turning the cold shoulder to our British brethren, the Examiner opened a bureau of employment, and, free of fee or charge, brought new comers and the farmers together, with the result that scores of men found employment and an equal number of farmers got the help they sorely needed. That's one true way to build up Canada. Compare the respective attitudes.

THE ECONOMICAL OPPOSITION.

We hear much and read much of Conservative condemnation of what they call "Liberal extravagance of expenditure." Yet we find Mr. Borden, leader of the Opposition, when in British Columbia practically promising that province if he came into power another increase of Dominion subsidy, though British Columbia had her subsidy increased in common with all the other provinces last year—a bribe reaching into the millions. Mr. Foster speaking in Prince Edward Island, promised the people a tunnel to the main land costing fifteen million dollars at the Conservatives were returned to power. Yet Mr. Borden scores the Liberal Government deeply because they build $500 wharves for inland waters. The Conservatives are great on economy when they haven't the spending of the money, but they are as anxious for little favours for their own ridings as any other members. When possible these conveniences should be provided, but when these small works are condemned so strongly they should not be so eagerly sought by Conservative members. An extract from a speech delivered in the House of Commons by Hon. Mr. Fielding on July 17th, set forth forcibly this little weakness of Conservative members. He said:

"What is to be thought of my honourable friend (Mr. Henderson,) who while he is going to vote for this resolution against expenditures generally, thinks the Minister of Public Works should build an armoury at Oakville in his own county? My honourable friend from Marquette (Mr. Roche)—whom I do not see in his place—joins in this general condemnation of expenditure, and particularly on the militia, but he wants us to build him an armoury at Minnedosa. The honourable member for Beauharnois (Mr. Bergeron) would like to have an armoury at Valleyfield. The chief whip of the Opposition (Mr. Taylor) no doubt will vote for this amendment; he is against expenditure, but he quietly whispers in the ear of the Minister of Public Works: Send us along an appropriation for an armoury at Gananoque. The honourable member for East Elgin (Mr. Marshall) is going to vote for this amendment, but he would like a drill hall at Aylmer West. The honourable member for East Simcoe (Mr. Bennett) wants an armoury at Orillia, and the honourable member for Prince Edward (Mr. Alcorn) thinks we should have an armoury at Picton, while the gallant colonel from Victoria-Haliburton (Mr. Sam Hughes) insists that there should be an armoury in the county he represents. And so we find that honourable gentlemen opposite are against expenditures; but when it comes down to expenditure in their own constituencies they are just as anxious for it as anybody else.

We are putting a good deal of money into improvement of harbours and rivers, and perhaps there is no class of expenditure which honourable gentlemen opposite so generally condemn. But, when they come to consider the matter from the home point of view they see it in quite a different light. My honourable friend from West Hastings (Mr. Porter) is very anxious for improvements at Belleville harbour; the honourable member for Kent (Mr. Clements) wants improvements on the Thames River; the honourable member for Alberta (Mr. Herron) wants a breakwater in Macleod; the honourable member for East Grey (Mr. Sproule) also wants harbour improvements; the honourable member for East Northumberland (Mr. Owen) wants a wharf and shed has also in his constituency. Then the honourable members from New Brunswick (Mr. Crockatt and Mr. Fowler) while they are prepared to condemn expenditures generally, they particularly serve notice on the Minister of Public Works that they want more money for wharves on the St. John River and the inland waters of their province. The honourable members from Prince Edward Island (Mr. Martin, Mr. McLean and Mr. Leturgey,) are champions of economy when you are speaking generally, but all the same they serve notice upon us that they want harbour improvements, and breakwaters, and piers and wharves, and in addition to that they venture to say they would like to have a tunnel. My honourable friend from St. John (Mr. Daniel) has spoken with gratification of the amount of money we are spending in improving the harbour of that important port, and he informs the Minister of Public Works that he had better go on with his expenditure because St. John needs more. My honourable friend from Jacques Cartier (Mr. Monk)—if he were here to-night I suppose he would vote for this amendment—he does not want us to spend money on wharves and so forth in Nova Scotia, but he thinks it highly important that a wharf should be built at Lachine in his own constituency."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Premier Roblin makes the serious charge that Sir Wilfrid Laurier's speeches "were conducted in language only fit for drawing rooms and social occasions." Mr. Roblin need not fear such a charge in respect of his speeches, as those who heard him here can testify.

INDUSTRIAL EXHIBITION AT KEENE YESTERDAY BROKE ALL RECORDS

Yorkshire classes entrie were made by E. Wood, G. Howson and W. B. Stewart.

Poultry

Among the poultry exhibitors were J. C. Hope, Miss A. M. Campbell, T. Taylor, G. Howson, S. Armstrong, A. Humphries, R. Weir, R. A. Nelson, T. Taylor, J. Renwick, Sr., W. Kempt, W. J. Miller, P. Drummond, A. Stewart, S. F. Redmond.

The Judging

The judges had a busy day, especially in the ring, where there was always a large number interested in the decisions. They are found at every fair. Some are held merely by curiosity, others because a neighbour or they themselves have entries. Others, again, consider they know good animals, and they like to see how the judges' decisions compare with their own. A few of the winners are given as follows:

Single horse in buggy, 15 1-2 hands and over—Erastus Wood, Ernest Evans, Edgar Wood.

Pair roadsters—J A Storey, Erastus Wood, W Dawson.

Team agricultural horses, heavy — S. Harper, John Lang, Jr.; S F Redmond.

Pair farm horses in waggon—R A Garbutt, Thos. Davidson, P J Crowley.

Foot Races

During the afternoon Fred Simpson gave an exhibition run, three times around the track. This distance is considered one-half a lap less than a mile. Fred's time was 4.17 1-2 minutes.

A two-mile race brought out three to start. Hanlon Howard of Hiawatha, William Smoke of Chemong and Allen Armstrong of Peterborough. They finished in the order mentioned, Howard's time being 9.47 3-4 minutes. On the fourth lap Smoke blew up and was forced to fall behind. Howard, the winner, finished strong and about half a mile in the lead.

The Horse Races

The horse races proved the big drawing card, and in all the heats the finishes were interesting. They resulted as follows:

Free for all

Harry Direct	1	1	1
Patterson	2	2	2
Minnie K	3	3	3

Time—2.27 1-2; 2.21 1-4.

Jack Gibson drove J J Cunningham's Harry Direct in a clever manner, managing to beat out Patterson in three straights. Eddie Jones drove Mr. Storey's horse.

Green Race

Herkian, Nat Nicholls	1	1	1
Brino, H. Elmhirst	2	2	2
Billie, W A McIlmoyle	3	3	3

Time—2.31; 2.30; 2.32 1-2.

Mr. Martin Connors acted as starter, Mr. R J Munro is timekeeper, and Mr. J. Clancy as judge of the course.

Running Race

A running race, twice around the track was a novelty and was probably the most interesting of the day. The horses were ridden by three young ladies and the pace was hot from start to finish. It resulted as follows:

1—Bessie; Miss Bella Howson.
2—Daisy; Miss Letitia Shearer.
3—Nance; Miss Olive Humphries.

IMPORTANT TO LADIES

It is not often an opportunity occurs at your door to see the latest Parisian and New York styles in Hair Goods, yet such is the case, as Prof. Boreanwend of Toronto is visiting in this town, and invites your inspection of these goods at his private apartments reserved at the hotel.

These Hair Goods styles, when properly adjusted protect and ornament the head, soften and beautify the expression of the face, and consequently tone up an aged appearance. Be sure and see them at the Oriental Hotel on Friday, October 16th.

Gave His Life For Others.

New York, Oct. 8.—After rescuing an aged woman from a burning house Policeman Nicholas Nestor of Jersey City plunged again into the blazing building and met death by suffocation. Firemen found his body four hours afterward in an unburned part of the house.

Woman In Aeroplane.

Lemans, France, Oct. 8.—Wilbur Wright, the American aeroplanist, made a flight here yesterday with Mrs. Hart O. Berg, the wife of his European business manager, as a passenger.

EDITOR ARRESTED.

Calgary Eye-Opener Charges McGillicuddy With Criminal Libel.

Calgary, Oct. 8.—Yesterday afternoon R. C. Edwards, editor of The Calgary Eye-Opener, laid information before the local police authorities, charging Daniel McGillicuddy, editor of The Daily News, with criminal libel.

This action of Mr. Edwards was brought about by an article which appeared Tuesday afternoon on the front page of a paper of which Mr. McGillicuddy is managing editor. The article in question was an unbridled attack on the editor of The Eye-Opener, his antecedents, his personality and his morals.

It branded Mr. Edwards as a man who was unfit for human society, and it did so in unveiled language.

McGillicuddy was arrested in the afternoon, taken to the police station and released on $1,000 bail. The preliminary hearing takes place today.

Letter Carrier Arrested.

Toronto, Oct. 8.—Albert J. Love, a letter carrier, was taken into custody last evening, charged with the theft of two decoy letters addressed to W. W. Dunlop, Indian road. These letters were sent out to try and detect the thief, who had purloined two money letters which had been addressed two weeks ago to a resident on St. Clarens avenue, who is secretary for one of the Sons of England lodges. The letters were never delivered.

Auction Called Off.

Vancouver, B.C., Oct. 8.—It is learned that the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway management, in response to powerful influences brought to bear, has reconsidered the plan of selling lands at Prince Rupert by public auction and will in all probability dispose of them by private sale.

It is understood that the sale will take place in June next. The majority of the selling will probably be done in Montreal and Toronto.

Veiled Milner's Portrait.

London, Oct. 8.—(C.A.P.)—According to a Durban despatch, the Government gave instructions that Milner's portrait in the room wherein the National Convention for Closer Union sits on the 12th, should be veiled by a curtain, supposedly not to offend some of the Dutch delegates. The response was indignant protests by leading citizens. The curtain has been removed.

Broker Disappears.

Vancouver, B.C., Oct. 8.—C. J. Gwynn of Vancouver, a well-known stock broker, has disappeared. The last heard of him was in San Francisco, intending to leave there Sept. 23 for Vancouver. He had about $1,000 in cash with him and may have met with foul play.

His affairs here are perfectly straight.

Object to Tuberculosis Hospital.

Ottawa, Oct. 8.—The civic authorities are meeting with further opposition in their efforts to establish a tuberculosis hospital.

Yesterday an injunction was taken out on behalf of the ratepayers and property owners of Bayswater, to prevent the erection of the hospital in that suburb.

Big Chinese Loan.

Pekin, Oct. 8.—A loan of $35,000,000 for the redemption of the bonds of the Pekin-Hankow Railroad has been provisionally decided upon. The final decision, however, is dependent upon the situation in Europe. The new loan will be issued equally in London and Paris, and the term is to be 30 years.

No Appeal In Czar's Case.

Ottawa, Oct. 8.—The Supreme Court yesterday morning granted a motion to quash the appeal in the case of the Czar of Russia against Priadoriakoff, but refused that in the case of the Northeastern Banking Co. of England v. Royal Trust Co., arising out of the sale of the Baie des Chaleurs Railway

Three Boy Burglars.

Victoria, B.C., Oct. 8.—Three boys, Gibbons, Medina and Watson, all under 17, are under arrest in connection with a long list of robberies here.

Among about twenty houses entered was that of Deputy Attorney-General McLean.

Fatal Runaway.

Belleville, Oct. 8.—Mrs. James Gallagher, who was hurt in a runaway accident three weeks ago, died in the hospital here. She was injured internally. She was 40 years of age and lived in Thurlow.

Fireman Fatally Hurt.

London, Oct. 8.—Fireman Frederick Ryan of the G.T.R., whose home is at Komoka, was fatally injured at five o'clock last night in a collision between a freight engine and a yard engine in the local yards.

Ryan was walking along the footboard when the engines struck. He was caught just above the knees and jammed between the water-tank of the yard engine and the boiler of the freighter.

No hopes are entertained for his recovery.

A Wholesale Murder.

Norfolk, W. Va., Oct. 8.—John Richardson, a young farmer living in the Lamberts Point Section, early yesterday shot and killed his sister-in-law, Miss Josephine Cromwell, his father-in-law, Jessie Cromwell, and committed suicide after he had killed his father-in-law's horse. A shotgun was the weapon used.

Broker's Son on Trial.

Portland, Ore., Oct. 8.—Edward Hugh Martin, formerly lieutenant in the United States Artillery Corps and son of a wealthy New York real estate broker, will be placed on trial to-day charged with the murder of Nathan Wolff, a pawn broker.

Stratton's COMMITTEE ROOMS

History to us that in the career of all s they simply drifted along the of time, till some great crisis and then there would be found some great man, some man of who stepped forward as a to guide the destinies of the y. We in Canada have had this nce. When this country was uted of a heterogenous aggre- of provinces, the problem of tion and the creation of the eration, which resulted in the ion of Canada being created, and then the people looked and found a national leader John Macdonald, a great man, great patriot, whom, despite ors and his faults, the country ized as a great figure in its and a great factor in its de- ent. Sure- is for us to continue, as long ovidence endows him with health trength to serve us, such a man leadership of the nation—a man has so wisely and so well ad- d the common interests of this ry. Referring to the petty scan- dals upon which the opposition based their appeal to the nation, they knew well that it was impossible for the man at the head of affairs to be aware of every detail in the remote parts of the country, as doubtless, as in all human experience, some men at some times would go wrong. We had even that experience in the smaller arena of our municipal affairs. What concerns us most to know is that, when any wrong-doing is exposed and brought to light, Sir Wilfrid Laurier has always promptly and sternly removed the offender from the public service, be he political friend or foe, or whether a Cabinet Minister or an humble employee. (Cheers.) What more could any man do? He deprecated the tendency on both sides of politics to cast odium on their political opponents and believed there were just as good men and as honest and as patriotic men on one side as on the other. The supporters of Mr. Stratton were endeavouring in this campaign to discuss public matters from the public standpoint only, to make a clean contest, to refrain from any personal abuse, and treat public men and public matters in a broad and generous spirit. He referred to the exploited fulminations against the Government on account of the Ross rifle, which had proved to be instead of a menace to the man who used it, the greatest arm of precision in the world, and the Crow's Nest Pass matter, where the charges against the Government had only shown their action to have been a splendid achievement for the country and for the settler. Mr. Kerr was loudly applauded on taking his seat.

Mr. D. O'Connell.

Mr. O'Connell, was accorded a hearty reception, and expressed the pleasure it gave him to see so many ladies in so large an audience. With their aid, so appreciably manifested, there could be no doubt about the result. It was hardly necessary for him to refer to Mr. Stratton. That gentleman had been the faithful and efficient servant of the riding for some eighteen years. He had first come into politics in the interest of justice and fair play, and election after election had demonstrated the increasing confidence with which the people regarded him. No one would dare to say that this confidence had not been entirely and thoroughly deserved. (Applause). They couldn't have a better member, no matter whether on the floor of the Legislature or in the cabinet. They knew that there had not been a time during the eighteen years that he had represented them when he was not accessible to every man and ready to serve every interest that promised well for Peterborough, and that not when he was looking for their votes, but at all times and on all occasions. (Applause). No other county in this province had received greater consideration and attention at the hands of its member than Mr. Stratton had always extended to his constituents of West Peterborough. Aside entirely from the question of politics let them look at the men and their records for West Peterborough. They had had eighteen years of experience of Mr. Stratton, whom they had fully tested and never found wanting; whom they had found of sterling stuff, ever true to the interests of West Peterborough. Would they be justified in deserting their old, well-tried member for a new and untried man? He had nothing against Mr. Burnham, but that gentleman, when he came before them for so great an honour as their representation in the House of Commons, must exhibit his qualifications and show his credentials for so important a position. Mr. Burnham was born in this county. He had had every opportunity and every advantage to be of usefulness to his fellow citizens. But what had he done? Nothing. On the other hand, Mr. Stratton by his force, by his energy, and by his ability and enterprise, and the liberal utilization of his own means had helped to spread prosperity in this county wherever his influence reached, and had been largely responsible for the great measure of financial and industrial progress that we had achieved. (Applause). Between the two men, could there be any choice? If there were no politics affected in this election, would there be found any man of common sense, having regard for his own interests, or having concern for the welfare of the county of Peterborough, who would hesitate for one moment in recognising the duty of voting for Mr. Stratton? He wanted to see men interested in their public affairs. The degree of prosperity in any country could be measured up by the extent of the intelligent interest of the people in their own affairs. The fountain head of authority was the people. These great men, who loomed so large in the public eye in control of the destinies of the country, were after all the servants of the people and they had to come back, as they are doing now, to the source of authority for their approval or condemnation. The prosperity that we had enjoyed during the past twelve years, was, it was true, the result of a wise administration by the Government who had been entrusted with our affairs, but it was primarily due to the intelligence and good judgment which the people had exercised in the selection of leaders for the conduct of their business. It was for them now, again, to make a choice of stewards of their interests. They had the record of achievement, which they could not misunderstand, on behalf of the present Government. Their opponents as a party or in the person of their candidate offered them nothing. What had been presented by Mr. Borden as the three great cardinal principles of his party, was nothing more than had been actually carried into effect and operation during the past twelve years by the present administration, and there was no possible chance for a division of opinion upon anything that had been advanced in that platform. There was to-day really no great public question upon which to divide the people. That which concerned them was the honesty, the efficiency, the enterprise and the capability of the Government to administer the practical business affairs of the nation to the best advantage of the whole country. He alluded to the reckless charges of the Premier of Manitoba, whose gross and unfounded accusations against the Dominion Government had been disproved by his own friends and had sent him back in ignominy to his home. And yet that gentleman was accountable and responsible for the squandering in a single year of 4,000,000 out of 5,000,000 acres of public domain that had been handed over to him by his predecessors as a heritage for the people of that province. Similarly it was the very people who now falsely charge the Government with alienating the timber lands of the nation for the benefit of their friends, who themselves in 1883 had given 10,361 square acres of the most valuable timber lands of the Dominion to political henchmen, without the receipt of a single dollar by the Government. All the timber that had been sold by the present Government had been sold under the regulations created by their predecessors, and after public advertisement. The truth was that not one single acre of public land had been disposed of since 1896, except for consideration, to the actual settler, and not a square mile of timber land except upon public competition. He asked them to remember these things and not to be misled by the gross exaggerations and absolute misstatements which would be presented to them in this campaign. He closed an eloquent speech by a strong appeal to the electors of the riding to send to the Commons in this election their old, tried and true representative, J. R. Stratton. (Loud cheers).

The chairman then invited anyone who desired to speak a word on behalf of Mr. Burnham, to come to the platform, but no one appearing, called upon Hon. J. R. Stratton. He wouldn't attempt to introduce Mr. Stratton. They all knew him, as everyone in the county did.

Hon. Mr. Stratton.

Hon. J. R. Stratton, who was received with an outburst of unmistakable enthusiasm, said that an important election was before them. The Government was appealing to the people for a renewal of their confidence, and Parliament had to seek from the people a new charter of authority and mandate for its future action. The writs had been issued, and as they all knew, nominations would be held on October 19, and the elections held on the 26th. They, the electors, had now the responsibility upon their own shoulders of deciding in regard to their further representation in Parliament what is for the best interests of the county, of the province, and of the Dominion. He had not expected to be a candidate, but Mr. Hall had found himself from business reasons unable to give further attention to the duties of their representative, and had peremptorily declined the nomination. He (Mr. Stratton) had been asked to enter the field and at the request of the convention had consented, and so it was that he was again before them. He had never asked their votes just because he was a Liberal and for no other reasons. He had always sought their support for what he was, and he came to them now in the same old way. (Cheers). If he were elected to be their representative, he would as in the past recognize no division of politics among his constituents, either Liberal or Conservative, but would be the representative impartially of all the people and of their interests. And he trusted they would reciprocate in the same way and give him their votes without regard to party divisions, if they believed that he would capably and faithfully represent their interests in Parliament. He desired to be in a position to vote for measures as they arise in Parliament according to his own judgment of what was best for the interests of his country, of his county and of his constituents. So now they had before them for their choice Mr. Burnham and himself, between whom to choose who should represent them at Ottawa for the next five years. He (Mr. Stratton) had not been born in Peterborough—he was native to the heath of the "Cavan blazers." He had emigrated to Peterborough at a time when he had no control over his own actions, in his mother's arms. He had lived in Ashburnham till he was married, when he removed to Peterborough, and they had since taken Ashburnham likewise into the city of Peterborough. His whole life had been spent in the face of the people of this county, and they knew just as much about him as he knew about himself. Mr. Burnham had been born to affluence; he had never had to work for a living; he was a nice gentleman, but he had never brushed up against the crowd, as it were. Mr. Burnham had means, but he had not employed it in any enterprise in which the public was interested or concerned, or by which any employment could be created, or any benefit conferred. He had invested his means and drew the interest on it as he was entitled to do. For his own part, his heritage had been one of debt: he came into possession of a $6,000 mortgage which within a week he had increased by $12,000 to procure an equipment for the enlargement of his business. He had made a success in business and he had made some money, and now some of the fellows say he stole it. (Laughter). So it was with Mr. Cox. Mr. Cox had a genius for business organization, and he by his energy and enterprise and ability had become rich. But it was only when he entered politics that they began to hear that he "stole it." And that was the common experience of men who by their own unaided industry and energy and by the exercise of the gifts with which God had endowed them, had acquired means, when they came to place their energies and experience at the disposal of the public, and aimed to devote some service to the public welfare, they were always assailed in this way by incompetence and envy and malice and meanness—by men who had made a failure of their own lives and who were no use to themselves or to any one else.

He (Mr. Stratton) had been brought up in this county. All the activities of his life had been expended among them, and there was not a man from Rice Lake to the Monck Road who would not take his word for anything that he asserted, and there was not a man in the county who believed that in any transaction or in any relation of life J. R. Stratton would take advantage of him. (Applause). They all knew him and they knew that whether an election was coming on or not, he had always been glad to meet with them, glad to take counsel with them, glad to help them if he could, and always ready to co-operate with them for the interests of their county. He had told them when he came before them in 1896, that he would, if elected, do the best he could for them in the Legislature, and he had done so to the best of his ability. They had testified their satisfaction with his services by returning him election after election by increased majorities, which had been a source of pride and encouragement to him. He told them the same thing now, and they knew from experience that if elected to Parliament, as he believed he would be (cheers and cries of "you will"), he would exercise every ability he possessed and every influence at his command to promote the interests of the people of Peterborough in the legislation and administration of the country. (Applause). He recognized many things that might be done to promote the welfare of the people of Peterborough. He pointed to what had been done in the past through liberal influence in the Legislature, and in the Dominion, in securing local public improvements, and improvement of the means of communication that had enabled the people of the remote parts of the county to get cheaper and more convenient access to their market town of Peterborough, which had been a source of profit to town and county alike, such as the Kinmount Bridge, and other local public works, with which they were all familiar.

These improvements were solid and substantial improvements that would last for ages. Referring to the Trent Valley Canal he said they could recall when this great project was kept dangling before the hope of the voters as a bait for votes, while the works already in existence were rotting from want of use. The present Government had taken hold in earnest, and progress had been made and contracts for completion let that assured us that within a year or two we shall have vessels passing our doors delivering cargoes from Duluth to Montreal. If things had been allowed to go along as they had gone on before they would no; have this work constructed in a hundred years. He said many of us did not realize the advantages which this county enjoyed in the scenic beauties with which it had been enriched by nature. We were so familiar with them and so accustomed to see them that we did not appreciate them as we might. But every summer there came thousands from less favoured places to admire the rich and romantic scenery, to benefit by the bracing and healthful air, and to enjoy the sport which was here available to the fisherman and the huntsman, and many thousands of dollars were annually added to their income from the necessary expenditures of these visitors. And this advantage might be increased ten-fold by the activity of a representative alive to his business and to his duty, who would secure improvements on the river and lakes that would increase their natural attractiveness. The establishment of a fish hatchery convenient, whence our waters might be readily and inexpensively stocked with millions of fish, affording an unrivalled field to attract the sportsmen, as well as an unlimited supply for the breakfast tables of the people along these waters, would be of profit and advantage. Mr. Burnham sought their support in this election and he had issued an address upon which his claims were presumed to be based, but if any man could understand what he meant by it he must be endowed with a profounder wisdom than the speaker. It set forth no policy and it promised no performance. The public welfare required the services of men of action—men who did things. It is what we are to look forward to for to-morrow, than concerns us more than what we have accomplished yesterday. The present Government did things. By the exercise of wisdom and liberal enterprise, by an intelligent adaptation of the tariff regulation to the needs of agriculture, trade and manufacture, they had created an era of progress that had brought prosperity to the farm, the factory and to the working man. He believed the people of this country and of this county had too much good sense to want to destroy the policy which had accomplished so much for their benefit. (Cheers). By the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific railway there would be a new era of progress and a new field of development opened up, by means of which new sources of wealth would be created, our forests opened up and the timber brought to market instead of being left to be burned, and new opportunities for making homes, in the new territory of our own province and the Great West, that would bring back the boys and girls who had been driven by the old conditions to foreign lands, to the country and the flag they love so well. (Cheers). He referred to the Temiscamingue railway, in the origination of which he himself had a share, which all the way from North Bay had made accessible to the settlers and the miner, and the lumberman, and placed ready to the magic hand of industry and enterprise, illimitable forests, mines of untold wealth, and millions of acres of the finest soil in the world, and which made this Ontario of ours the richest province on the North American Continent, where progress was expanding under the greatest flag the world had ever known. (Cheers). The wisdom of our public policy had been strikingly demonstrated by the stability of our prosperity, and the ability to withstand adverse circumstances in Canada. During the past year there had been a financial and industrial panic in the United States. The suffering of the working classes had been intense and widespread, and the injury to business disastrous. This depression unavoidably in some measure reflected upon Canada, but it had been lightly felt, and had now passed away. Time was when our sole dependence was upon the American markets, but the tide had turned; we were now practically independent of them, and the bulk of our exports was being sent to the markets of the Mother Land. He gave figures from the public statistics showing that the farm products exported in the past twelve years exceeded by $700,000,000 the similar exports of the eighteen previous years. And they knew what these millions that had been brought back to the farmers of this country in exchange for the products of the soil, of the dairy and of animal industry, meant to them. They knew that in this county farm lands had advanced in value 46 per cent. and the town lot in the City of Peterborough had been doubled in value. Look at the factories and forges that had grown up in the City of Peterborough, by means of which the field of profitable employment for industry had been so widened that Peterborough from a town of 9,800 is to-day a city of 17,000, while there is not in all Ontario a better market for the farmer than the market of Peterborough. (Applause). And the splendid achievement of the Government in the improvement and extension of transportation facilities had placed the Canadian farmer in a position superior in its advantage to that of any farmer in the world. (Cheers). He dwelt at length upon the splendid business capacity, the zealous regard for the welfare of the country and the western settler, that had been displayed by Sir Wilfrid Laurier in the Crow's Nest Railway settlement which the Opposition had so falsely and so foolishly, as had been shown by Mr. Kerr and Mr. O'Donnell, sought to put forward as a scandal, and dwelt upon the work of the post office administration by means of which deficits had been converted into surpluses while mail facilities had been extended and the cost of letter postage reduced in one class by 33⅓ per cent. and in another by 50 per cent. He enlarged upon the direct and pecuniary benefit that would accrue to the farmer through rural free mail delivery now being arranged by the Government, and asked them if they were going to turn down a Government that had done so wisely and so well. Now these conditions of prosperity in which they shared did not just happen. They were brought about by the constructive ability of the Premier and his advisers, guided by an earnest desire to advance the welfare and promote the fortunes of the Canadian people. It was the duty of a member to do something for those who returned him to Parliament. He could go to Ottawa and content himself with drawing a sessional indemnity for warming a chair in the house, but that was not his (the speaker's) conception of the duty of their member in Parliament. He wanted to see something going on that would be of benefit to the people of Peterborough, and that was the reason and the only reason why he wanted to represent their interests. There were lots of things to find fault with. It was easy to knock down, and they knew the class of knockers, who he thanked Providence were against him in this election as they had always been; but it takes men to do things. (Cheers). He specified local improvements the construction of which he would insist upon if elected which would improve conditions in and advance the welfare of the county, and asked them not to be led astray by side issues that would be presented by the other side, and to go to the polls as one man and vote for him. (Cheers). The development of this great country under guidance of the man at the head of the nation, the man of courage, whose faith was firm in the destiny of this great country as the future home of many millions of loyal and prosperous subjects of the King, was most important to our future. He was very sorry to hear that in this campaign the only cry raised on behalf of his opponent was the resurrection of mischievous, dangerous, and disloyal sectarian issues that had been supposed to have been long ago buried by the intelligence of this county of Peterborough. This cry is not only repugnant to common sense, but it is at variance with our duty to our country, and disloyal to the constitution and the crown, to which we owe a sworn allegiance which is higher and more binding than any other obligation. I ask you, gentlemen, as citizens interested in the welfare and progress and prosperity of this country, as well as in its reputation before the world, whether you will tolerate that the man who has wrought out, as Sir Wilfrid Laurier has, the destinies of this nation; who has by his great ability, by his force of character, by the power of his eloquence, the sincerity of his loyalty to his flag and country, not only placed Canada upon the pedestal of supremity over all other communities of the Empire, but has even given its repute, its resources and its future, a commanding position in the eyes of all Europe—I ask you, I say, whether such a man is to be deprived of the public recognition which the people of Canada so largely owe him, and of the place that he has won in the respect and affection of his country, on the contemptible and paltry cry of a disgraceful prejudice of race—on the plea, that notwithstanding all his great public services, he is a forsooth Frenchman. What would the people of Europe think of Canada, the people among whom Mr. Laurier's personal efforts have placed this country so high, and who by his means are pouring their millions into Canada for investment and use, if this false cry shall obtain a hearing with the people of Canada? It would be a staggering blow not only to our reputation as a nation of advanced intelligence, but more seriously to our financial credit abroad. Mr. Laurier is a Canadian before he is a Frenchman, or a churchman. "Canada First," is his highest religion, and the man who denies to him confidence and the credit that is his due for what he has done for Canada is unworthy of the name and dignity of Canadian citizen, and disloyal to his King and country. And who are those who are seeking to erect so undesirable, so unpatriotic, so dangerous an issue? Why, the very same gentlemen who year after year solicited your votes for the government of Sir George Cartier, who was a Canadian Frenchman and not a French Canadian; who barely spoke the language of this country which Sir Wilfrid Laurier employs with such incomparable eloquence, who was also the leader of the ultramontanes, who placed the Church before the State, and whose highest allegiance was not to their country. I ask you to repudiate with all the vigor of your self-respect and integrity, and with all the power of your intelligence, and all the force of your sense of patriotic duty, so unworthy and so utterly false an issue in this campaign. (Applause). If the arguments that are being used on the concession lines, if the whisperings that are softly and surreptitiously going about, were to prevail in the minds of the Canadian people, the highest hope of the British Empire would be wrecked, and the fair destiny of this Canada of ours denied of its accomplishment on the very eve of a glorious fulfilment. I speak to you as I do to-night, because we have here a mixed audience, composed of varying, but not hostile elements, among all of whom I number my personal and political friends, and because it is only in an audience such as this that such questions can be suitably discussed, and an appropriate appeal made to all for patriotic, tolerant, and truly Canadian action. (Applause).

Mr. Stratton closed with an appeal to his friends to leave no stone unlined to vote up a handsome majority on October 26.

A vote of thanks was extended to the chairman, and Mr. Kearney in acknowledging it spoke of Mr. Stratton's long conection with and long services to the riding. Three cheers were given for the ladies, for J. R. Stratton, and for the King.

At the close of the meeting Mr. Stratton shook hands with many old friends and received assurances of a splendid vote in his behalf at Young's Point on October 26.

GROWING OF BULBS INDOORS

Instructions for the Planting of Them —Bulbs Recently Distributed

IS VALUABLE INFORMATION

In view of the fact that the Horticultural Society is distributing bulbs to the members for indoor planting, the following instructions from the Canadian Dairyman and Farming World will be valuable:

Among the best of the bulbs for house culture are the Roman hyacinths. In a small box or a five-inch flower pot plant two or three bulbs. Use garden soil in which should be mixed a little sharp sand. Place the top of the bulbs about half an inch below the surface of the soil. Press the soil fairly firm around the bulbs. Water them well once so as to moisten all the soil in the pot or box. The tops of the bulbs should be only just below the surface of the soil when potted. Place the pot or box in a cool place, either out of doors or in the cellar, and cover it with about two inches of coal ashes, sand, or light soil. If put in a cool, damp place they will require no more water until they are taken out. If they are put out of doors, some extra covering of leaves or straw should be given to prevent them being frozen too severely. Keep them in this cool, dark position for five or six weeks, or longer, also are excellent bulbs for house culture, although greater care is required

until the bulbs have rotted well, when they can be brought into the window.

Water must be given now whenever the soil appears dry. Keep the soil always moist, but not soddened, until they have done flowering. If potted in October and treated as described, they should be in flower in January. Roman Hyacinths are of little use to grow the second year, although if kept dry when they have done flowering, they will sometimes flower again the following season, if repotted in autumn.

Dutch Hyacinths, narcissi and tulips with tulips than with the others. Treat them as recommended for Roman Hyacinths but plant the bulbs about twice as deeply in the soil. They will be two or three weeks later in flowering.

CHINESE SACRED LILIES

Dutch Hyacinths can be grown in glasses made specially for the purpose. The glasses should be filled with rain water, so that when the bulb is placed on the top of the glass the water barely touches the bottom of the bulb. The bulbs should be put away in this position for a few weeks in a dark cellar or cupboard to root. When the vase or glass is fairly well filled with roots, the plants can be gradually introduced into the light to flower. The water should be changed occasionally when it looks stagnant or dirty. Rain water or clean water that has been exposed to the sun and air is best for this purpose. The bulbs must not be removed from the vases after they are once rooted, until the flowering is over. Good sound bulbs of best quality are absolutely necessary for success in the culture of hyacinths in glasses.

The Chinese Sacred Lily can be grown by placing a few gravel stones in a dish or deep saucer, and the saucer kept nearly filled with water. Set the bulb or bulbs firmly in the gravel. The bulbs should be placed in a cool, dark place to root, the same as recommended before. When top pebbles in water, in clear glass bowls or in Japanese bulb bowls, it is very interesting to watch the action of root development.

Y. M. C. A. BOYS' SUCCESS

A PROFITABLE MANHOOD

YOU MEN WHO EMPLOY BOYS in your offices and stores and shops want THINKERS, not SHRINKERS—WORKERS, not SHIRKERS. you'd rather keep men who keep pace with your growth, who rise from the rudiments to be the directing heads. Such men are the MOST worth to you. Their scars of experience, once acquired, do not have to be duplicated in a string of successors, each of whom must make similar bulls and mistakes AT YOUR EXPENSE. But atrophied, anaemic frames do not generate STAYING POWER. Stunted, undeveloped minds are not capable of initiative. The man whose moral fibre has not been wrought and shaped is not to be trusted with FULLEST RESPONSIBILITIES—morality is not AN INSTINCT, but a product of ENVIRONMENT. Only the boy who possesses strength WITHIN HIMSELF can lend strength to your organization. While he is giving you his youth, give him the opportunity to give you a broader, a more useful and a more profitable MANHOOD.

The Y.M.C.A. is adding the temper to the characters of hundreds of boys who need its GYMNASIUM for their BODIES, its NIGHT EDUCATIONAL CLASSES, READING ROOM and LIBRARY for their BRAINS, and its ETHICAL INFLUENCE for their CHARACTER UPLIFT. The more men it can help, the better it can help the commerce of the city. But its growth has been so rapid that its present resources are now too small. It needs money to carry on its work. Help YOURSELF by helping the Y.M.C.A. to help YOUR Boys.—Com.

FUNERAL OF THE LATE MRS. O'CONNOR

Took Place in Ennismore to St. Martin's Cemetery—Largely Attended

Examiner Special

Ennismore, Oct. 7.—The funeral of the late Mrs. Owen O'Connor took place from the family residence, Ennismore, on Saturday, the 3rd inst. The funeral procession started about 9.30 a.m. and wended its way to the Roman Catholic Church, where the parish priest, Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, celebrated a requiem high mass, after which the procession proceeded to the new Roman Catholic Cemetery, where the remains were interred.

The funeral procession which was one of the largest which has been seen in Ennismore for some time, was attended not only by the many friends of the family in the township, but also many people from Peterborough, Lindsay and other distant points.

The chief mourners were Owen O'Connor, husband of the deceased, E O'Connor, E O'Connor, J O'Connor, Jos. O'Connor, F O'Connor, Ennismore, and A O'Connor and W O'Connor, of Cobalt, sons of deceased; Mrs. H Killen, Miss O'Connor and Miss Lillie O'Connor, daughters, all of Ennismore; C Callaghan, Lindsay; Ed Callaghan, Montreal; P F Callaghan, Cornwall, brothers; J Callaghan, Lindsay; S Callaghan, Ops, nephews; Miss Callaghan, Ops, niece; Mrs. J W Callaghan, Mrs. C Callaghan, Lindsay, sisters-in-law; J Hartnett, Toronto, brother-in-law, and H Killen, son-in-law, Ennismore.

The Rev. Father Fitzpatrick spoke very feelingly of the great loss sustained, not only by the family, but also by the entire community. He exhorted the members of the family to follow the instructions and example of the exemplary wife and mother, whose life had been one continued succession of sacrifices and charitable acts, and who had assuredly gone to Heaven there to plead at the foot of the throne of Almighty God for the salvation of the souls of her children and friends on earth.

All those interested in the American and National league games will be able to get to-days scores from the Examiner bulletins to-night. If you have a 'phone call up 224 and we will be pleased to give you the scores as they are received.

TRAIN SERVICE AT OMEMEE

The Recent Order of The Board of Railway Commissioners

The Railway and Marine World contains the following: The Board of Railway Commissioners issued order 9260, Sept. 1, as follows: In the matter of the Municipal Council of the Corporation of the County of Victoria and the Township of Emily, Ontario, complaining that by reason of the location of the G.T.R. station at the village of Omemee, Ont., the inhabitants of the village are subjected to great inconvenience, expense and loss; that the railway conditions existing at Omemee are unreasonable, and not in the interests of the community; and asking for such relief as justice to complainants may demand. Upon hearing the representatives for the complainants and counsel for the G.T.R., and what was alleged, and the consent of the Board of Trade and Council of Omemee and the G.T.R. filed—the Board orders that the G.T.R. train service be as follows, namely: That all trains each way stop at the outer or junction station, as at present. That at the inner, or new downtown platform, the following trains stop: The noon train leaving Toronto at 7.50 a. m., via Lindsay and Peterborough. Either the evening mail train leaving Toronto at 6 p.m., or the evening flyer, leaving Toronto later. The morning flyer from Peterborough to Toronto. The evening mail train, leaving Peterborough at 5 p.m. for Lindsay and Toronto. The alternate proposal to be determined by the Omemee council. The Board further orders that the train service herein provided for be brought into operation not later than Sept. 15. And that the platform be placed from the sidewalk on Surgeon street westward.

"BABES IN TOYLAND" AT THE GRAND IN TORONTO

A Mirthful Extravaganza, Says The Globe—Has Lost None of its Old Time Popularity

At the Grand last night that mirthful and beautiful extravaganza "Babes in Toyland," made a positive and distinct hit. That the show, though not new to Toronto theatregoers, has lost none of its popularity was clearly proved by the large house and the unstinted applause that greeted its initial performance. The company is a very capable one and all worked hard to make the offering the success it certainly is. Eddie Redway (Alan), Miss Annie Wilkes (Jane), and Miss Stanley (Contrary Mary), carried off the honours of the evening. They are backed up by an exceptionally vivacious chorus, who dance and march beautifully, and what is more have good voices and know how to use them. The "March of the Toys" was the big hit, followed closely by the songs. "I Can't Do that Sum," "Barney O'Flynn," and "Rock-a-by-Baby." The production is well staged and fairly sparkles with good, clean humour and ludicrous situations.—Toronto Globe, Tuesday, Oct. 6th, 1908.

IS COMING TO LIVE IN PETERBORO

Mr. Duff is Leaving Indian River—Will be Greatly Missed

Examiner Special

Indian River, Oct. 7. — The grain market here is booming, but not a very large amount of grain moving.

Pears brought $1 per bushel on Saturday last, while oats are 50c per bushel. Wheat is 90c for first quality.

The Kidd brothers, who have bought out Mr. John Duff, are prepared to pay the highest price for all kinds of grain. They intend to carry on the same rushing business as Mr. Duff has been doing the past years. Mr. Duff has purchased a fine house in Peterborough and intends occupying it at once. Mr. Duff has been a storekeeper and resident of Indian River for over twenty years, and will no doubt be missed from here by his many friends. Mr. Duff also conducted the postoffice for a number of years, and fulfilled his duties in that respect to the very best of satisfaction.

Mr. John Duff is moving his furniture this week and will be a citizen of Peterborough next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Duff and daughter will be greatly missed about Indian River, as they were obliging in every way.

Mr. Chas. Munn, station agent, is spending a few holidays in Buffalo, N. Y.

SOFTNESS OF SEALSKIN

Is Rivaled by Human Hair Where Dandruff is Eradicated.

Sealskin is admired the world over for its softness and gleaminess; and yet the human hair is equally as soft and glossy when healthy; and the radical cause of all hair trouble is dandruff, which is caused by a pestiferous parasite that saps the vitality of the hair at the roots. Newbro's Herpicide is the only preparation that is fatal to the dandruff germ. Without dandruff there is no falling hair, but a luxuriant growth of glossy, soft hair is certain. Securing the scalp won't cure dandruff. Kill the germ. Thousands of women owe their beautiful suits of hair to Newbro's Herpicide. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10 cents in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Two sizes, 50c and $1.00. DOCTORS PRESCRIBE IT

A Medicine That Appeals to Physicians—They Recognize its Value—Dr. J. E. Ennis of Atlanta, Ga., Tells the Truth About Vinol

"I want people to know that I believe the most valuable cod liver oil preparation, the best body-builder, health-restorer and strength-creator known to medicine to-day is Vinol.

"I advise Vinol in my practice, and find it has no equal for coughs, colds, bronchial troubles and for healing sore lungs.

"I have used Vinol in many cases of indigestion, mal-assimilation, and for patients who have no appetites, were anaemic and run down, with splendid results. I have also found Vinol to be a boon to the aged.

"I believe Vinol to be well worthy of any honest physician's endorsement."—J. E. Ennis, M. D.

For old people, delicate children, weak, run-down persons, after sickness, and for chronic coughs, colds, bronchitis, and all throat and lung troubles Vinol is unexcelled. Those who try Vinol and receive no benefit may have their money back. McDermid & Jury, druggists, Peterborough.

SCHOOL OF COOKERY TO-NIGHT

What the Course Means—All Invited to The Demonstration

The Y.W.C.A. School of Cookery opens its season's work with two free public exhibitions. A successful opening was held last Thursday evening, Oct. 1st, when the programme included a chafing dish demonstration and a ladies' luncheon table. Next Thursday evening, Oct. 8th, a fireless cooker demonstration will be given. The fireless cooker has come to stay. In a Michigan town 1,400 were sold in four months. The U. S. Government issued a bulletin, June 1907, from the Cornell Experiment Station, recommending the Fireless Cooker. They can be bought in the open market from five to thirty-five dollars. The latest cooker bakes, in addition to boiling and stewing. A very satisfactory home-made one can be evolved from a packing box and hay, at little or no expense. The cooking is first started over the fire then transferred quickly to the box, covered tightly and allowed to remain till done. No supervision is needed till the sound of that "toosin of the soul," the dinner bell. Science has proved herself to be a reliable, noiseless handmaiden. Two cookers will be shown at the demonstration this evening—a "bought" one and a home-made affair.

There will also be a picnic table set with good things for the picnic hamper The dainties will be sold at the close of the demonstration. A class in camp cooking, five lessons for $1.00 will be formed for young men and boys, in addition to the regular cookery classes. Miss Johnson, the instructress, will be prepared to begin class work, Saturday, Oct. 10th.

A course of ten lessons will be given before Christmas. The mid-winter term will also be one of ten lessons, beginning Monday, January 4th and continuing till the first week in April. Pupils may register Thursday evening at the close of the programme, or at the Y.W.C.A. office. For further information apply at the Y.W.C.A. office. The public is cordially invited to attend this second opening to-night.

About fifty members of Otonabee and Peterborough Lodges I.O.O.F. attended the funeral of the late Alex. Rutherford last evening. They met at the lodge room at five o'clock and proceeded in a body to the G. T.R. station, and upon the arrival of the 5.30 train, accompanied the remains to the Little Lake Cemetery, where interment took place.

extend from Oct. 13 to 19. It is very evident from these facts that this country is receiving special attention from headquarters, and in the places already visited very gratifying results have been recorded. Even more satisfactory are the reports from those places that the meetings, after the brigadier had continued on his itinerary, were being more largely attended than before, and that a new impetus had been given the work.

Another meeting will be held to-night, when the brigadier will give a special lecture, and a large attendance is looked forward to.

SIGNALLING CORPS INSPECTED BY LIEUT STROUD OF KINGSTON

The signalling corps of the 57th Regiment was inspected at the armouries last night by Lieut. Stroud, of Kingston, the signalling officer for No. 3 military district, and were also examined by Sergt.-Major McGowan. The corps which was out in good strength made a fine impression and at the conclusion of the inspection Lieut. Stroud expressed himself as being very well pleased with the way in which they conducted themselves. The result of the examinations will not be known for some time. The 57th signalling corps is in command of Lieut. Higgins.

Has Hundreds Of Letters From Children Whom He Has Helped

Brigadier Roberts, The Children's Friend and Adviser—Packages Of Letters From Children Who Are Now Fathers and Mothers

GIVES A SPECIAL LECTURE

When Brigadier Roberts became an officer of the Salvation Army in 1870 he realized the wisdom of securing a hold on the children and since then his motto in this respect has never changed. As a result during his long years of active service he has won over many children who have in turn brought their companions and parents to live for Christ. His work has been accomplished chiefly among the poorer and middle classes in the cities in England. Hundreds of these children who have joined the Army as a result of the Brigadier's efforts have written many letters to him telling how glad they are that they followed his advice and keeping him acquainted with their worldly success as well as their advancement in the ranks of the Army.

These hundreds of letters have come to form the subject of a lecture which the Brigadier delivers especially to children. It is divided into three topics as follows: 1, "Children who seek God find Him; 2, Children who find Him love Him; 3, Children who love Him He will love them." This address will be given on Sunday afternoon and adults as well as children are invited to attend.

OLD WILLOW GETS THE AXE

Cut Down Because Cement Walk Had To Be Laid.

It was not a woodman's axe that lowered the willow tree on George street, near Sherbrooke street, but it was severed by Mr. John Thirnbeck's men, who had to remove it to make way for the cement walk that is being laid from the C.P.R. tracks north to King street. This old willow that has for years spread its hundred limbs over the roadway has bitten the dust, and even its very roots have been dug up. The cavity the men made to get at the roots looks as big as the cellar of an ordinary house. It will be filled in, of course, and the work continued as usual.

THE EXAMINER'S SPORTING PAGE

COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE SPORTS WERE CONTINUED YESTERDAY; SOME GOOD JUMPS WERE MADE

The Collegiate Institute sports were continued yesterday afternoon at Riverside Park when a number of jumping events were pulled off. The interest that is being taken in the events was shown by the large attendance, most of the pupils of the Collegiate including the girls, being present in large numbers to cheer on their favourites. The form shown by the competitors was excellent and the different events were contested by large fields, so large, in fact, that two of the jumps had to be postponed until Friday, there not being enough time yesterday to complete them.

Harry Hall was successful in carrying off the senior standing broad jump, while Bruce Lees the diminutive winner of the junior road race, won the junior standing jump. The running broad senior went to Fred Conroy, while M Carlyle won the junior event. Harry Hall secured another first in the standing, hop step and jump, and Dave Hatton carried off the running hop, step and jump. Owing to the lateness of the hour it was found necessary to postpone the junior hop, step and jump events. Following are the results:

Standing Broad Jump, Senior
Hall, 8 ft. 7 1-4 in.
Hatton, 7 ft. 11 1-2 in.
Fred Conroy, 7 ft. 10 in.
The other entries were Marsh, Moore, Armstrong and Perks.

Standing Broad Jump, Junior
G. Lees, 6 ft. 5 3-4 in.
H Laing, 6 ft. 5 in.
Hurley, 6 ft. 5 in.
The other entries were M Carlyle, Hatrick and H Smith.

Running Broad Jump, Senior
Fred Conroy, 15 ft. 3 in.
Harry Hall, 15 ft. 1 1-4 in.
Rankin, 14 ft. 10 3-4 in.
Other entries were Marsh, Gilbert, Hatton, Armstrong, Moore and Perks.

Running Broad Jump, Senior
M Carlyle, 12 ft. 4 1-2 in.
Bruce Lees, 12 ft. 1 1-2 in.
Hurley, 11 ft. 10 1-2 in.
The other entries were Wolte, Hatrick and R Laing.

Running hop step and Jump, Senior
Harry Hall, 23 ft. 2 1-2 in.
Fred Conroy, 23 ft. 2 in.
Rankin, 22 ft. 1 in.
Others who took part were Marsh, Hatton, Perks, Armstrong and Moore.

Running hop step and Jump, Junior
Dave Hatton, 33 ft. 4 in.
Rankin, 32 ft. 9 in.
Marsh, 32 ft. 5 in.
Others who took part were Conroy, Armstrong, Perks and Hall.

Eight Teams To Enter Bowling League At The P.B.C. Alleys; Season's Prospects Are Bright

Eight teams have already entered for the first annual ten-pin tournament of the Peterborough Bowling Club. Though the dates have not as yet been definitely decided upon, the prospects are that the games will be inaugurated some evening in the latter part of next week. The members are working enthusiastically to make the event a success, and a large entry list is assured.

It has been wisely determined to separate the top-notchers, allotting only one or two to each team, filling up the vacancies by rollers of less experience. Thus with the leading lights of the local bowling fraternity well divided, the younger element will have an equal chance for the prizes, which will be of a substantial character in each event.

In addition to the five-men team events, there will also be competitions in the doubles and singles, and these should prove of unusual interest. Prizes will also be offered for the high average, and three high consecutive scores made during the progress of the tournament.

A suggestion that the tournament be thrown open to Ontario has been shelved for the time being, though it is the intention of the club to hold an event of that nature before the season is over. In the meantime, Peterborough is developing a class of bowlers who will hold their own with any in Canada, and scores are being rung up nightly that will compare favourably with any being made in Toronto or any other home of bowling. The sport promises to flourish here this winter, and the prospects are the Electric City will play a prominent part in the next Canadian tournament which will be held in Hamilton, where sixteen new alleys are being installed for the purpose.

Entries for the P.B.C. tournament already include teams captained by the following: C Gutterson, S Baker, Mr. Hemstead, F A Lillie, Mr. Adams, W. Milroy, Tom Savigny, and Geo. Cairns, who at present holds the record for the alleys, having piled up the remarkable score of 264.

It is also expected that two teams will be entered from the C.G.E. Co., comprising such excellent bowlers as Joe Pollard, Mr. Jaffrey, Frank Lawless, and Billy Waram, who for some time held the record for the alleys, until finally supplanted by Tommy Boyd, who in turn had to lower his colours to Cairns.

Altogether the big tournament is being looked forward to with great interest, and the event should prove an unqualified success.

ANNUAL FIELD DAY OF SPORTS AT THE NICHOLLS OVAL TO-MORROW

The annual field day of sports of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute will be held to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Nicholls Oval if the weather is favourable. A cordial invitation is extended to the general public to be present, and they will have an opportunity of seeing an afternoon of excellent sport as the events are sure to be keenly contested. Following is the programme with the records for the different events:—

100 yards dash, senior, 11 1-5 seconds.
100 yards dash, junior, 12 seconds.
Obstacle race, open.
220 yards run, senior, 28 seconds.
220 yards run, junior, 28 1-5 seconds.
Throwing baseball, open, 96 yds., 2 ft. 6 in.
High jump, sr., 4 ft. 10 in.
High jump, jr., 4 ft. 4 in.
1-4 mile run, sr., 1.02 3-5.
1-4 mile run, jr., 1.05 2-5.
Pole vaulting, sr., 6 ft 9 in.
Pole vaulting, jr., 6 ft. 1 in.
1 mile, jr. and sr.
Inter-form relay race, 1.8 2-5.
Standing hop, step and jump, jr., 22 ft. 8 1-2 in.
Running hop, step and jump, jr., 30 ft. 7 3-4 in.

There will be a needle-threading race open to all girls in attendance at the Collegiate, and for which two prizes have been donated by Principal H R H Kenner. The rules for the meet will be the same as those which governed last year. Those who were 15 on or before Sept. 1, 1903, may compete as juniors.

ARTIE EDMUNDS ABOUT TO RETIRE

Announces That He Will Devote Himself To Vaudeville

Toronto, Oct. 8.—"After my match with Abe Attell I will quit the ring and the mat," said Artie Edmunds, the vest-pocket Hercules, last night. "My backers in New York have learned from Attell that he has two or three matches of minor importance now on his hands, and will not take me on until they are disposed of. I got a draw with the champion in six rounds, the only time we ever met. If I can get him into a ring in New York, boxing with one hand free, I am confident that I can beat him. I don't like the six-round affairs, being a slow beginner, and I was just getting nicely started when the draw was declared in New York. If Attell can be induced to go twenty-five rounds or to a finish with me, I will be glad to agree to almost any terms he cares to dictate."

Artie was in New York a day or two ago, and leaves for that city Sunday, where he has been promised a couple of main bouts at athletic clubs pending the final signing up with Attell. When the local boy quits boxing and wrestling he will return to the vaudeville stage, where he was exceedingly successful with his well known physical culture act.

CHIEFTAINS ARE HARD AT WORK

Getting In Shape for the Otonabee Athletic Club Meet Next Week

The Chieftains' Athletic Club are working out faithfully for the big meet, under the auspices of the Otonabee A. C., to be held in the Brock street rink next Wednesday night. Last night the Chieftains had a big squad out at the Brock street rink, when an hour and one-half was spent in working out for the different events. Half a dozen candidates for the sprints were on hand, and others were pole vaulting and jumping, while a mile relay race was an exciting feature. Among the Chieftains out were Harry Moore, (captain), Fitzgerald, Hutchinson, Halpany, Finnegan, Fortye, Barritt, Howden, Hogan and Perks.

There will be a practise of the T. A.S. Rugby Club at the Brock street rink to-night at 7:30 o'clock. Every member of the team is expected to be out in uniform as it is important that the men should get into shape as soon as possible, as it is not yet known when the first game will be played and the T.A.S. do not want to be caught napping.

IMMENSE CROWDS AT BALL GAME

Thousands Witness New York and Chicago for National League Championship.

Special from J. R. Heintz & Co.

New York Polo Grounds, Oct. 8.—It is estimated that there are at least fifty thousand people at the Polo Grounds trying to gain admission to to-day's game. The line from the ticket windows extends away over on to Eighth avenue. That is over four blocks.

Later—The grounds are filled to their utmost capacity and there are 20,000 people still outside trying to get in. The weather is ideal for baseball.

At the end of the first innings the score stood at 1 to 0 in favour of New York.

Batteries—

New York—Matthewson and Bresnahan.

Chicago—Pfeister and Kling.

Second innings—Chance kicked so hard that it looked as though Umpire Klem would put him out of the game, but the noise was so great that no attention was paid to it. Howard put up an awful argument and was suddenly banished. Steinfeldt took three frantic swings and fanned. Howard batted in place of Hofman and also did the whiff act, while the crowd yelled. No runs. Chance went to first all right but still kept up his growling, Howard going to centre.

Second half—McCormick tried to Schulte, Birdwell lined a good looker to right, but Schulte was on that job, too, out.

Tinker got Matty's deep skim and got it to first in time to make a great play. End of second.

3rd—Tinker up, and smote ball far over Seymour's head for three sacks, the ball going not quite to the crowd. Kling up, shot a splendid line single scoring Tinker in a walk. Brown up laid the ball down for another hit, Kling going to 2nd on the play. Score 1-1. Sheckard soaked high to Seymour. Evers walked on four wide ones. Schultz stabbed to left close to foul line for a double and Kling tallied, Evers going to 3rd. Chance cracked out a double to right, scoring Evers and Schultz. Steinfeldt fanned for the second time. Gloom thickens enough to slice. Four runs and two out, 3rd innings.

First half third—3 out, 4 runs.

Last half third—New York at bat—Tenney dropped a single in short left. Hersog fouled to Kling. Bresnahan drove a hot single, sending Tenny to second. Tinker sliding second with Doolin's slow one. Seymour's high fly was easy for Sheckard. No runs.

A HIAWATHA RUNNER TO ENTER

Hanlon Howard Will Likely Run at the Otonabee Athletic Club's Meet

Hanlon Howard, the dusky Hiawatha youth who won the two mile race at the Keene Fair yesterday afternoon will likely be an entry in the five mile event at the meet the Otonabee Athletic Club is arranging for next Wednesday night in the Brock street rink. He is good at that distance and should be well up among the other runners. There is considerable interest being taken in this particular event as many of the local runners have been making a specialty of five miles.

A MILE RACE AT THE ROLLER RINK

Interesting Feature Last Night—won by Parrington.

The attraction at the roller rink last night was a mile race. The first half was on foot and the second half on skates. The contest furnished all kinds of sport and the best part of it was that Percy Parrington, who was last in the foot half of the race got his skates on first and won out. Ben Newton was second. There was a good crowd and a fine evening was spent.

The flashlight photo taken on Tuesday night turned out fine, and the post cards will be on sale on Friday morning.

RUGBY

Ottawa Loses the Kennedys

Ottawa, Oct. 7.—There is a possibility of Ottawa losing her two star backs, Murray and Hal Kennedy, a misfortune that would simply place the team on queer street. Murray, who is captain of the team, and plays centre half, left last night for the west, where he expects to complete arrangements for himself and brother to go into business immediately. He promised to join the team in Toronto Saturday morning. Both boys are just out of college and announce that they cannot let football stand in the way of their business.

T. C. S. 17, Lindsay 9

Lindsay, Oct. 7.—The Rugby football season opened here to-day, between the local team and Trinity College School team of Port Hope, and resulted in a victory for the visitors by a score of 17 to 7. The game is new to this town, and the local boys showed up well in their first match. Before the season is over, they will, no doubt, prove a match for the best team on the circuit.

The Globe remarks that by scoring a touchdown at Ottawa Saturday Dinney accomplished the notable feat of being the first man to cross Montreal's line in two years. Last year the only points run up on the champions were drop kicks and safeties. The Globe is wrong in its dope. Peterborough scored a touch down against Chancer Bissett's Pets in the final game for the Canadian championship played in Montreal last season.

At a meeting of the executive of the Junior City League last night it was decided that the next game in the league shall be played Saturday afternoon at Riverside Park at the conclusion of the ball game. The two teams are in good shape and will put up a fine game.

Chicago Wins The Pennant

BOWLING.

Rolley Parnell was successful in winning the $5 cash prize for September at the Majestic alleys with a very creditable score for the three highest consecutive games, and Mr. Sam Baker a box of cigars for the high single game. Mr. Baker has a very creditable game for the present month, and he maintains it will take some beating.

Contest on Majestic alleys on Oct. 6; Majestics versus Boyd's Fearnots, the former getting a handicap of two strings:

A contest has been arranged for Friday night between the Majestics and Baker's Pets.

BASKETBALL.

The Y.M.C.A. Business Boys last evening played off three more games in their league.

The first game, between E. Hamwell's and A. McWilliams' teams, resulted in a score of 4—0, in favour of E. Hamwell.

The next game, between W. Saxby's and R. Hutchinson's teams, was more exciting, as at full time the score was 4—4, and after playing two minutes R. Hunter scored a basket, making the score 6—4 in Hutchinson's favour, thus putting them into the final game.

The last game between the two winners resulted in a score of 4—0, in favour of E. Hamwell's team, thus making a game apiece for Hutchinson's and Hamwell's teams.

TRUE TO GRAHAM.

Brockville Electors Give Great Reception to Graham and Fielding.

Athens, Ont., Oct. 8.—If the Conservatives of Brockville riding have harbored the hope of defeating Hon. George P. Graham at the coming election that feeling must have been dissipated to a large extent by the splendid meeting here last night. Before the meeting there was a long torchlight procession, and as it passed Brockville's Liberal candidate and his distinguished colleague the streets rang with cheers. The demonstrations in the streets, and subsequently in the Town Hall, provided striking evidence of the place Hon. George Perry Graham occupies in the hearts and affections of his constituents. The audience was most attentive, and as Hon. Mr. Fielding's story of progress, peace and harmony was unfolded there were outbursts of hearty enthusiasm. Mr. Fielding made a new departure in the campaign last night by charging Mr. Borden with attempting to bribe the entire Province of British Columbia in the matter of the provincial subsidy.

CAR STRIKES TRAIN.

Toronto Woman Dies and Three Others Are Hurt In Crossing Accident.

Toronto, Oct. 8.—An eastbound Bathurst car yesterday morning crashed into a G.T.R. freight car at Front and John streets, as a result of which Miss Belle Cummings is dead and three other women are injured.

The car struck the train a glancing blow, as the tracks cross diagonally. Neither car nor train was going fast, but the front of the light, single-truck open street car was demolished.

Of the twenty passengers on the car Miss Cummings died last evening from shock in the Western Hospital. Three others were taken home with lesser injuries.

Attacked Y.M.C.A.

Port Arthur, Oct. 8.—Police Magistrate Dobie and Crown Attorney Langworthy returned yesterday morning from Schreiber, where they were called to conduct the case growing out of a riot alleged to have been the work of C.P.R. strikers ad strike sympathizers. As a result of their investigation, two rioters—F. Rhead and John Randall—were fined $100 each or given six months in jail.

Last Saturday evening the railroad Y.M.C.A. building, where a number of strike-breakers boarded, was assailed by sympathizers. Rocks were thrown through the windows and other damage done.

Manitoba A. C. Appointments.

Winnipeg, Oct. 8.—The board of Manitoba Agricultural College have made the following appointments:

To the chair of field husbandry, S. A. Bedford, formerly director of the Dominion Experimental Farms at Brandon.

To be instructor in mechanics, William Brandon, native of Orillia, Ont., and foreman of C.N.R. tool-room, this city.

Twenty-Year Sentence.

The Vast Country Adjacent To Hudson Bay Road And Advantages To Be Obtained

Railway to Pas Mission on the Saskatchewan River Should Develop a Good Town at That Point---Lumbering Will Be Stimulated---Indians are Prosperous---Surveyors Are Now At Work Towards Fort Churchill

The project of building a railway to Hudson Bay, from which port to ship the wheat of the western prairies by a shorter route to the European markets, is now a matter of great public import, as the federal government have decided to begin construction. With the advantage which a water route from Fort Churchill to Liverpool will give to the Canadian wheat farmer he will secure better prices for the wheat grown and will have a more satisfactory means of shipment. The country to the north in the direction of Hudson Bay has been opening up steadily for the past twenty years and now the railways traverse much of the land where wheat farming is most profitably pursued. The wheat country is now at work producing its millions of bushels of grain which at present goes mostly over the Great Lakes on its way to the old country. In this way it has to be carried from Fort William to the sea in lake boats and is then transferred to the big ocean liners, which take it across the water. In shipping wheat out through Hudson Bay this transfer will be avoided from the fact that the ocean liners will be able to load from the cars at Fort Churchill or from the immense elevators which will assuredly be erected at that point within the next few years. The water route from Fort William is 3,956 miles and from Fort Churchill to Liverpool is only 2,950, making a saving of more than 1,000 miles at the outset. Winnipeg is approximately 400 miles from the lakes and 900 miles from Fort Churchill, so that even from the eastern part of the wheat field there will still be an advantage by the Bay route. From the wheat fields of Saskatchewan and Alberta the Bay route will give an advantage of fully 1,000 miles in addition to the saving in freight rates caused by the facility of shipment on the Bay route. The west has been planning for a great northern water route for many years, but has never before had a federal government take the project in hand with a determination to prosecute it to a successful issue.

A Northern Visit.

The railway to Hudson Bay, which is now assured and the right-of-way for which is now being located by government surveyors, is but a short stretch of line compared with several other railways in Canada. A part of the road has already been constructed by the Canadian Northern as far as the Saskatchewan river to The Pas Mission, which is distant in a straight line 460 miles from the Bay. The line to The Pas connects with the Prince line of the C. N. R. at Hudson Bay Junction and runs in a northeasterly direction for 90 miles before reaching the Saskatchewan. Over this line and through the surrounding country the writer recently made an excursion to see what was being done towards reaching the Bay. The country from which the Hudson Bay runs in Saskatchewan is a rich timber district where mills are in operation and from which lumber is being daily sent to build up the prairie towns of the west. There is but one settlement on the Hudson Bay line and that is the location of the Ruby Lake lumber outfit six miles up the line on the lake of the same name. From there to The Pas there is no settlement, and the country immediately adjoining the road is of the character which precludes the possibility of ever being thickly populated. The timber is small and there is a great deal of muskeg through which the road runs, and even though this be dry the timber growing upon it is scrubby and will not be valuable commercially.

Hudson Bay Junction.

Hudson Bay Junction, or Etiomami as the southern terminus of the road is called, is about two years of age, and has a population of well up to two hundred souls. Business is decidedly brisk during the fall and winter, when large gangs of men are employed in the surrounding lumber camps. The town boasts two good hotels, several general stores, a billiard room, hospital, mounted police barracks, and all that a young town needs. The depot at this town is small, but plenty large enough for the present business needs. Along the line to The Pas the C. N. R. have constructed sidings every nine miles and at every 18 miles they have erected a handsome depot. The depot on the Saskatchewan river is one which would be a credit to any town of 5,000 inhabitants in many parts of the west. It is evident that the builders had faith in the country judging by the investment they have already made and upon which they are still planning.

The 90 miles of the line to the bay runs through a very level country and it will be very easy to handle heavy loads over this line when the stream of wheat turns towards the great natural outlet at the north. Ballasting has already been completed over 22 miles of the road and the gravel has been dumped on the line for ten miles farther. The construction gangs left the road two months ago to continue work on the Goose Lake line, but returned last week and will continue ballasting further north. It is expected by the people at The Pas that the road will be operating as far as the Saskatchewan river before the end of this year. At present the chief mode of conveyance over the line is by hand cars and jiggers(railway velocipedes) which run between Etiomami and The Pas. By means of these conveyances, even without a regular train running, the town at The Pas has been brought fully a month nearer to civilization than it has been for the past half century. Indians now load half a ton of freight on a handcar and carry it northward to the river and passengers go to and fro on the same rigs. It is not the easiest mode of travelling as the writer, who toiled for a couple of days at the pumping gear of a jigger can testify.

The Pas Mission.

The Pas Mission has a most beautiful location on a bend of the Saskatchewan at the junction of the Pasquia, where the river is naturally about 600 feet in width, but by the bend is widened to a quarter of a mile. Out on this splendid expanse of water the townspeople have a magnificent view which they fully appreciate. The town has a population of over 500 people, of whom 400 are Indians. Until two years ago, both sides of the river were included in the Indian reserve of the Northern or Swampy Crees. At that time the Indians surrendered 500 acres on the south side of the river to the Indian department, and this was set aside as a town site when it was seen that the Hudson Bay road was going through and that there would be built up a fine town on the bank of the river. Since then the Indians have all removed to the north bank of the river where they have erected their dwellings and are making a prosperous living. Two or three months ago about 60 acres of the town site was disposed of by auction sale and the lots which are 66 feet frontage brought as high as $375 each indicating what the future is expected to have. This money derived from the sale of the town site is held by the Indian department of Canada and will be devoted entirely to the needs and benefit of the Indians who surrendered the land to the government when it was needed.

The Pas signifies The Pass in the Saskatchewan river alongside the town, where the banks are higher than at other points. When there is high water as has been the case in the past, and the country has been flooded in some parts, the water must pass through the high banks of the river. The Pasquia river which enters the Saskatchewan at The Pas is a long winding stream, which along its upper source crosses the Hudson Bay road about 50 miles from Etiomami, making the longest bridge on the line, some 300 feet in length. To the east of the town and distant about 40 miles runs the long range of the Pasquia hills, or as the old timers call them The Pas mountains.

H. B. Company There.

The Pas is a Hudson Bay company's post more than 50 years old, which, however, would not make it an old post in the history of the company. Their store and big warehouse as well as the dwelling of Gideon Halcrowe, the trader in charge, are located directly at the confluence of the Pasquia and the Saskatchewan, and is eminently the most desirable location in the town. It never was a fortified post as there was never any danger from the Indians, but the buildings all face the river as it has always been from that direction that entrance has been made from boats, canoes or steamers. The company's steamer "Saskatchewan" runs down the river and plies back and forth with freight and passengers. The store is a long building built more than 50 years ago; the big warehouse was erected by two years ago. Recently the company purchased a large lot at the rear of their buildings upon which next summer there will be erected a large up-to-date store. The company recognizes that The Pas has at last come to be a place of importance and as has been their custom they are preparing to hold the business they have. The Pas is at present only an ordinary trading post of the company under the chief factor at Prince Albert, but with the advent of an operating railway it is probable that it will be raised in importance and that the business of a number of the northern posts will be directed from this point. John H. Gordon, a free trader, has the next largest business establishment in the town, having been located there for the past ten years. There are several other stores owned by traders, either French, Scotch, or Indians. The finest residence in the town is the private house of Gideon Halcrowe, erected on the Pasquia in the suburbs. Mr. Halcrowe has been in the employ of the Hudson Bay company for forty years, during which time he has always lived in the woods of the north. He would not care to change his place of residence, where he has lived close to nature, for the hurry and bustle of the busy city life. Fred Fischer is the Indian agent in charge of The Pas agency and has been located there for the past two years. Since 1879 he has been with the Indian department and has been at Fort Pelly, Edmonton, Fort Qu'Appelle, Onion Lake, and also has acted as relief agent at Moose Mountain and Touchwood Hills.

The Pas Indian Agency

comprises the reserve of the Pas, where there are 413 Indians on 7,610 acres of land; Moose Lake reserve, 60 miles northeast, where there are 113 Indians; Chemamawin reserve, 70 miles down the Saskatchewan at Cedar lake, where there are about 100 Indians; Shoal Lake reserve, 90 miles west, where there are 76 Indians; Red Earth reserve, 15 miles up the Carrot river from Shoal Lake, where there are 128 Indians and the Cumberland band with 141 Indians. The Indian agency offices at The Pas are located right in the centre of the town site, with the agent's residence at one side and the agency doctor's residence at the other. Formerly the day school for the Indians was conducted in the office building, but since the removal of the Indians to the north side of the river the school is conducted over there. Dr. Arthur La Rose is the medical officer attached to the agency and has held office for the past six years. The only school at The Pas is that maintained by the Anglican mission, and which is attended by all the white children as well as the Indians. Rev. M. B. Edwards is the rector in charge of the mission. His residence is on what is called "The Island," and is considered one of the most desirable sites on the river. The church is one of the old style, and has been rebuilt and repaired several times. When the Franklin relief expedition went north nearly fifty years ago a part of the company wintered at The Pas, and while there they made some of the furniture now used in the Anglican church. Outside the church on a separate tower is the bell which calls the Indians and whites to service. The Indians in that country are all Christians—a tribute to the good work done by the missionaries during the past half century. At all of the reserves in the agency the established church mountains mission stations, with rectors in charge. These are the only missions on the reserve with the exception of Fort Cumberland, where there is a Roman Catholic mission in charge of Rev. Father Boissin. At all of the reserves there are posts of the Hudson Bay company, the largest ones being at Fort Cumberland and Cedar Lake. The school teachers at the reserves have in charge the supplies of the Indian department which are kept for destitute Indians. The Indian never makes any provision for old age, and when this time comes these wards of the government are cared for from the funds secured by the sale of the lands surrendered by the Indians in years gone by.

Indians Live Well.

The Indians at these northern reserves make a good living and as a rule live in comfort on the proceeds of their own labour. In the winter the majority of them trap and sell their furs to the Hudson's Bay company or to the free traders in the country. The only fur in that section of the country which produces much revenue is the muskrat, which this year is very plentiful. Around The Pas the year's crop of rat skins varies from 500 to 200,000, the latter number being a record year. They are made up in bales and shipped southward in boats in the spring. The Indians who are good boatmen are employed during the summer months occasionally to run the York boats with the company's supplies up to Reindeer lake. In winter there is also of late years considerable fishing for the Northwest Fish Co., which has been securing fish in large quantities for the past seven years from Cedar, Cormorant, Clearwater, Moose, Sturgeon and Cumberland lakes. The Indians also fish and hunt the year round for their own food. Since the Hudson's Bay road went through there are a number of Indians engaged periodically in taking freight through on handcars, and they furnish plenty of motive power for the work. In agricultural work the Indians have not done very much as the land on the reserves is not easily prepared. It requires a good deal of labour to prepare land, but many of them have good patches of potatoes for their own use and they are very fond of this vegetable. The trader in charge of the company's post at The Pas has demonstrated the success of raising garden stuff in that country, and his garden would be a credit to any place several hundred miles south. He has raised garden stuff at all the different posts where he has been stationed in the north, and is sure that there is no difficulty in the work. The Indians on the Red Earth reserve are the most intelligent and most self-reliant in the agency, and they are making good homes for themselves. At The Pas there is but one saw mill. It is owned and operated solely by the Indians, who cut the lumber for their own uses, selling but little. They have built good, substantial houses and are steadily progressing in civilization. At present there is no liquor allowed at The Pas, but with the growth of the country and the town it is feared that this bane will work its way in and will undo some of the good work already accomplished.

The chief timber limits along the Saskatchewan in the vicinity of The Pas are along the Carrot river and it is there that C. H. Smith, of Wisconsin, and Herman Finger, of Port Arthur, have big tracts. Their representative estimates the amount of timber on their lands at 1,200,000,000 feet. At the recent sale of the town site at The Pas these capitalists secured a desirable location for their mill. When there is a regular train operating to the town the firm intend to start a sawmill which will furnish a good deal of material to be hauled out by a railway.

Surveyors Working.

Early in September the surveyors of the Dominion government arrived at The Pas by way of Prince Albert and parties at once started north to locate the best right-of-way to the bay. A survey had already been made for some miles north by the company at present there, but the government surveyors are taking a different course. The two parties go north to the chain of lakes and from there they will separate. Part of the surveyors will work northward to the bay and part will work back to The Pas. Old timers at The Pas who are familiar with the country to the north towards the bay say that the country for 100 miles north from The Pas is similar to that through which the present road passes. From that point to the bay, there is high and dry land with considerable rocks. Prospectors consider that there are valuable minerals in this rocky land and already there have been a number of prospecting parties up through the country searching for the hidden riches. When they return south there is no information to be obtained from them and it is supposed that valuable claims have been located which will be operated with big profit as soon as the railway goes through to carry supplies. There is a great deal of enterprise north of the Saskatchewan, and even along that river, that is lying dormant awaiting the government's line which will open up the great waterway of the north.

When Betty Came Home.

By G. B. Lewis.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

The arrangement was satisfactory all around. Mrs. Hardin, the widowed mother, accompanied by her daughter Betty and maid, was to spend July and August at a seashore resort. Will Hardin, the son, and his college chum, Frank Affleck, were to keep bachelors' hall in the Long Island manor house.

The faithful old servant who had acted as cook for many years past was willing to remain, to care for their vanity and keep the house from being turned into a stable, but she was given two months off with wages and told to make herself scarce.

All went well at home and at the seashore for a month. Then the time was ripe for something to happen, and something did happen. The mother met with a fall, Miss Betty lost the only young man worth flirting with, and the maid came so near being drowned in the surf that she threatened to quit her job unless the family retired to a safe distance from the raging sea.

Miss Betty wrote her brother Will that they would arrive home on a certain date, and the date was put far enough ahead to enable the two campers to get the dishes washed up and their fish poles removed from the parlor. But what is the use of writing letters to a brother who doesn't go to the postoffice for mail? The letter arrived all right, but was not called for.

Then, on the afternoon of the evening on which the family were to arrive home, Will had to go up to Brooklyn on pressing business. It was midnight before the young lady gave an answer to his pressing question, and it was two hours later before he dropped off a freight train at the country station half a mile from home.

Archer was left to fish the time away, cook his own dinner and go to bed at any hour that suited his convenience. That hour was 9 o'clock, and he had sixty minutes to get to sleep when the family arrived. No Will appeared at the depot to meet them, but fortunately they found a conveyance, and fortunately Miss Betty had carried her latchkey away with her and could now make use of it.

As the hour was late no time was wasted looking around—just enough to be satisfied that brother Will wasn't in his bed and that it would take two robust women two weeks to put the house in its former tidy shape. The arrivals had been abed for two hours when Archer woke up. He was dreaming that he had hooked a fish five feet long and was playing it, when he found himself sitting up in bed with his eyes wide open.

He felt that some noise had disturbed him. There had been a great deal of the "Raffles" business in the country. The chums had talked the matter over and decided what was to be done in case he invaded the house under their guardianship.

They were armed, and they were to do their best to kill or capture him. One chum and one revolver being absent on this occasion made a difference, but nevertheless the chum on the spot prepared to die for his host.

Getting softly out of bed and partly dressing, he soon assured himself that Will had not yet returned. Just then he distinctly heard a noise in the lower part of the house—the fall of something.

Raffles had effected an entrance and blundered over a chair. The student of chemistry hesitated no longer. He softly opened his door, and, with a lamp in one hand and a revolver in the other, he stepped out into the hall to descend the stairs.

There had certainly been a noise—two noises in fact. Mother and daughter occupied rooms at the front of the house. After sleeping for a couple of hours the mother had awakened in a nervous condition and called her daughter. This was number one.

The daughter had answered, mixed a sleeping draft and knocked the bottle off the stand to the floor. This noise had brought young Archer from his room into the hall, and he was just in time to encounter Miss Betty as she was returning to her own room.

DOMINION AMMUNITION

Of course she was startled as well. They were not ten feet apart, and as they stood there staring at each other she forgot that Will was to have his chum with him, and it went clean out of his head that Will had a mother and sister anywhere on earth.

Some girls, under the circumstances, might not have been the first to recover their wits. Miss Betty was. She motioned the young man down the hall, and when he could back up no farther she advanced quite close to him and whispered:

"Mother is very nervous, and if she knew you were in the house the shock might kill her."

"I-I-e," replied Archer in some wonderment.

"There is some silver plate downstairs, but I'm afraid it's not very good. Do you take bric-a-brac? If so, there are a few pieces in the parlor worth your bother. Won't you please step down and take what you want and leave us alone up here?"

"But, Miss—Miss"— stammered Archer, who hadn't yet got it through his head that the family had returned unexpectedly.

"We have two watches and three diamond rings up here, but if you must have them let me get them. I won't be gone more than a minute, and I wish you would be very quiet while I'm gone. I wouldn't have mother wake up for a thousand dollars."

"But see here, miss, I—I don't want your rings and watches," the blushing and confused young man managed to articulate.

"Hush! Not so loud!" she cautioned as she raised her hand and entered her room.

He stood there, feeling and looking like a polite idiot for the next two minutes, and then Betty reappeared, held out the watches and rings on her palm and whispered:

"These are all. I have been very honest with you. We are not keen for jewelry. Now won't you please go?"

"Will you tell me whom I'm speaking to?" was asked as the girl continued to hold out her hand with her ear bent to hear if her mother was stirring.

"I'm Miss Hardin."

"Great Scotts!" with a gasp. "Then you must be Will's sister. Let me say to you that I am"—

"Hush! You are Raffles—Mr. Raffles, of course. Please, please go away. I wish we had twice as much to be robbed of, but you will have to be satisfied. Here—I'll put the things in your coat pocket. Now go on tiptoe. You may leave the lamp burning after you get through robbing downstairs, and I'll come down after it. Hush! Softly!"

Young Archer wanted to stop and explain, but she laid one hand on his shoulder and urged him along, and the first thing he knew he was at the foot of the stairs and a white hand was being waved to him from the top. Where should he go? What should he do? There was an awful mistake, but how was it to be rectified?

Will had said that he would be back on the 9 o'clock train. He had missed it, but might be expected at any minute now. The first thought was to go outdoors and wait for him. The second was to turn out the lamp and sit down in the library and wait for Will or daylight or something or somebody to come along and befriend him.

This second decision was final. He stood in the hall, turned the light out, and somehow he felt that eyes were upon his movements. Ensconced in a big leather chair, he had passed away half an hour in calling himself names and hankering after his chum's scalp when he heard a faint rustle outside the window near which he sat.

He cocked his ear toward it, and a moment later he knew that some one outside had his hands on the sash. Sixty seconds had not gone past when the catch was thrust over with a click, and the sash was carefully and slowly raised.

Young Archer was excited, but he was game. It looked as if a kind Providence was sending a Raffles to help him out of his fix. He rose and stood beside the window with his pistol in hand. He meant to shoot the intruder if he stepped into the room, but a sudden thought made him change the weapon end for end. The report of the pistol would arouse the whole house and he had tacitly promised the girl upstairs to keep very quiet. The man who had raised the sash waited thirty seconds and then stepped over the sill to meet a blow that dropped him like a log.

He had just fallen when Will Hardin opened the front door and entered. As he scratched a match to see his way upstairs he noticed the lamp on the hall tree and lighted it, and next instant his sister Betty came running downstairs to gasp out:

"Oh, Will, we had to come home—and you didn't meet us—and mother is very bad—and Raffles has been here and robbed the house—and"—

"Rats!" interrupted the brother.

"But it surely was Raffles. I called him Mr. Raffles, and he didn't deny his identity. I gave him all our jewelry, and then he came down for the plate and—and—and—"

"Rats!" repeated Will, as he caught sight of the prostrate burglar. "Rats! Rats! Rats! Rats! Rats!"

"Will, there has been a comedy of errors, with something like a tragedy to end up with. If your sister will go upstairs and you will come in here, I think that all can be satisfactorily explained."

And all was. It was done in sections and methodically. All with the exception of the arms and legs of the man on the floor, who was beginning to revive, were bound. When the mask was torn from his face, they saw that he was indeed the Raffles who had terrorized the manor houses for long weeks.

Then Miss Betty was brought down and formally introduced to Archer. By this time she had exchanged her wrapper for something more appropriate for receiving company. Then the stolen jewelry was restored. Then the nearest country police station was telephoned to and Raffles was shortly thereafter taken away. Then the mother awoke and said she had had a good night's sleep and felt well enough to come down to breakfast, and she didn't faint away when told of the doings of the night.

Then, as a sort of closing chapter to the events, brother Will hastened his sister to follow him out into the shrubbery, and when they were hidden from sight of the house he turned on her and said:

"Sis, you are a brick—a regular brick."

"Yes?" she smiled.

"And Frank is a brick—a regular brick."

"Yes?"

"And by the great horn spoon, if you two bricks don't fall in love with each other and give him to die for a brother-in-law I'll—I'll"—

And then Betty blushed and laughed and ran away.

WON THE VERDICT.

The Jury Did Its Best to Make Good Uncle Sam's Word.

General Tom Edgar, the first white child born on Galveston island (his birthday was in June, 1837), once narrated his experience as a juror in the case of a negro on trial for stealing a mule. It was in 1865, while United States soldiers were still in charge at Galveston. The negro pleaded not guilty, but the testimony was pretty clear against him. His lawyer, ignoring the testimony, based his defense upon the assertion that the negro could not possibly be guilty.

"Is it not a fact," he said, "that the federal government promised to every freed man two mules and sixty acres of land? No man can deny it, because it is a fact. My client has not received his promised sixty acres of land. He has not received his promised span of mules. The last incident—one mule, as these witnesses have testified, and the United States still owes him another mule and sixty acres of land. I leave it to you, gentlemen," he said, turning to the jury, "if the facts do not prove conclusively that my client is not guilty of stealing this mule and cannot under the circumstances have been guilty."

"That argument," said General Edgar, "tickled us so that we actually returned a verdict of not guilty. I don't believe the darky ever did get the other mule and the sixty acres, but we did all we could to make Uncle Sam's word good."—Success Magazine.

The Chimney.

Where wood is much used as a fuel, according to Suburban Life, considerable soot collects in the chimneys, and it is a source of many fires. The chimney should be burned out once a year at least and the work done on a damp day, or it may be swept out. A chimney is burned out by placing a bundle of straw or similar material in the bottom of the flue and firing it. To sweep out a chimney a small metal ball about four inches in diameter is hung on a thin rope and pulled up and down in the chimney until it is clean. When not too high, the chimney can be cleaned by a brush on a jointed pole.

Birds That Play.

Some birds, like all children, like to play, and Australia and New Guinea produce the "bower bird," which builds regular playhouses. These houses are not a part of their nests, but are constructed usually in the shape of covered archways of little boughs two or three feet long, eighteen inches high and about as wide. They use these houses simply for their games, as if they were clubhouses. Generally these playhouses are decorated with bright colored shells and feathers, just as children decorate their playhouses.

Lucky Future Generations.

There is a saying of Carlyle that the greatest hope of our world lies in the certainty of heroes being born into it. That is indeed a glorious certainty, but the reference might be enlarged. Birth itself, we venture to say, not of heroes only, but of the generations in their succession, is the infinitely hopeful thing. It is the guarantee that the world will never grow old; that it will never stand still; that no halt is to be called in its eternal progress.

Reassured.

Once Sir Henry Irving while playing Macbeth in London was somewhat disconcerted by one of the "gallery gods." He had reached the point where Macbeth orders Banquo's ghost to leave the banquet board. "Hence, horrible shadow, unreal mockery, hence!" exclaimed Irving in his most tragic tones and with a corresponding shudder sank to the ground, drawing his robe about his face. Just as Banquo withdrew an agitated cockney voice from high up in the gallery piped out as if to reassure Irving. "It's all right now, Henery; 'e's gone!"

INSURING ON JUSTICE.

Made One Fail to Shake or Destroy the Judge's Conscience.

An insurance man was trying to break into a banker's cashier on an oriental story with the framework of the second story window to which his dying gave way, and he fell and broke his leg. Limping before the judge the next day, he indignantly demanded that the owner of the house be punished.

"You shall have justice," said the judge.

The owner, being summoned, claimed that the accident was due to the poor woodwork and that the carpenter, not he, was to blame.

"That sounds reasonable," said the judge. "Let the carpenter be called."

The carpenter admitted that the window was defective. "But how could I do better," said he, "when the mason work was out of plumb?"

"To be sure," replied the judge, and he sent for the mason.

The mason could not deny that the coping was crooked. He explained that while he was placing it in position his attention was distracted from his work by a pretty girl in a blue tunic who passed on the other side of the street.

"Then you are blameless," said the judge, and the girl was sent for.

"I admit," said she, "that I am pretty, but that's not my fault, and if the brute fiancée of the mason's attention the dyer, not I, is responsible."

"That's good logic," said the judge. "Let the dyer be called."

The dyer came and pleaded guilty.

"Take the wretch," said the judge to the thief, "and hang him from his own doorpost."

The people applauded this wise sentence and hurried off to carry it out. Soon they returned and reported that the dyer was too tall to be hung from his doorpost.

"Find a short dyer and hang him instead," said the judge, with a yawn. "I'll justice be done at any cost."

ROYAL AUTHORS.

Many European Monarchs Have Written Books of All Sorts.

It is a noteworthy fact that many members of the reigning houses of Europe cannot resist the fascination of writing books, and strive to have their names inscribed on the roll of fame as litterateurs. In many cases, however, with the exception that the books have been penned by a royal hand, they have no other feature to commend them. But, on the other hand, many could write books with ability on any subject. The Queen of Roumania, who writes under the pen-name of Carmen Sylva, the most prolific of royal writers, is a poet, dramatist, novelist and magazine writer. The King of Italy writes books solely on the subject of numismatics, and his wife is noted as a poet. The German Emperor has distinguished himself as a dramatist and poet, while his daughter, the Crown Princess, is a magazine writer. The Queen of Spain also wrote a drama before her marriage. Her mother, Princess Henry of Battenberg, has written several historical plays. The Queen of Portugal devotes her attention entirely to writing novels. Among others of importance who have contributed "copy" is the Emperor of Japan as a poet; Prince Victor Napoleon writes historical memoirs; and the Archduke Ludwig of Austria has written books on travel and exploration.

No Great Punishment.

Jared Wilkins possessed no education and was even unable to read. Harold, his grandson of seven years, learned of this for the first time when he asked him to read a story in his new book.

"Can't you read?" he asked in surprise.

"No, sonny."

"Why can't you, grandpa?"

"Because," the old gentleman replied impressively, "I was a bad boy and wouldn't go to school."

"Were you a real bad boy?"

"Very bad."

"And now you can't read?"

"Not a word."

"Well," said the youngster thoughtfully, "it seems to me you got off pretty easy."

King's Counsel.

King's counsel differ from all other English lawyers. King's counsel are appointed by patent from the crown, on application from the lord chancellor, and can act as judges of assize when named in the commission. They have in many ways precedence over other lawyers and rank among themselves according to seniority. The robes of king's counsel are of silk instead of serge like those of ordinary barristers. It is the established rule of the profession that no king's counsel shall conduct any case without the employment of a junior counsel.

Kaolin.

The name kaolin is said to be derived from a hill near Kingtehchin, in China, called Kaoling, where the clay was found in considerable quantity. The kaolin earth was first sent to Europe by a Jesuit missionary of Kingtehchin about 1712. A similar clay was soon afterward found near Schneeberg, Germany, and used in the manufacture of porcelain, thus laying the foundation of the famous Dresden ware. Kaolin is found in Nebraska and in some of the eastern states.

Youthful Assurance.

"When I was your age," said the stern parent, "I was accumulating money of my own."

"Yes," answered the gracious youth, "but don't you think the public was easier than it is now?"—Washington Star.

Hon. Bowell's Opinion

Was Appealed to by Conservative Machine in North Toronto in the Election of 1904 on Behalf of Geo. E. Foster—The Veteran Premier Speaks Out Plainly.

When Geo. E. Foster was a candidate in North Toronto in the general elections of 1904 his friends in North Toronto found difficulty in getting voters to the polls in consequence of the events of 1903-4 touching the nest of traitors, in which Mr. Foster and others conspired together to overthrow their Premier, Sir Mackenzie Bowell. A letter therefore was written to Sir Mackenzie Bowell asking that he say something which would help out Foster's candidature. Sir Mackenzie Bowell flatly refused, giving his reason. This letter has never before been published, but it was read by Sir Mackenzie Bowell in the Senate on March 1, 1905, and may be found in the Senate Hansard of that date.

A Damning Document.

Belleville, Oct. 28, 1904.

My Dear Sir,—I owe you an apology for not replying to your letter at an earlier date. The fault is I was out of the city when it arrived, but was reminded of its existence on the receipt of your telegram.

If you will take the trouble to read the reports of Foster's speeches as they appear in the "Globe," "News," and "Mail," I do not think you will ask me to write any such letter as suggested by you.

His answers to questions are absolutely untrue. He told the audience that there were differences of opinion in the Cabinet upon questions of policy which led to his and colleagues resignation. This is not the fact. The reasons given by him in the Commons in justification of his action make no mention of differences of opinion upon questions of policy. The best evidence of which, and of the untruthfulness of his statement, is found in the fact that he and his fellow-conspirators were to come back into the fold without any stipulation as to change of policy.

His dragging the Governor-General's name into the discussion is most unwarrantable, knowing as he did, that the Governor-General acted solely on my advice. I have no desire, however, to enter into a controversy upon this subject.

I humiliated myself quite enough by taking them back. It was done in what I considered the interest of the party then, and have regretted it ever since. I do not purpose to repeat by writing such a letter as you suggest. I may be all he and his chums say I am, but I have not yet lost my self respect.

I am content to let him alone to fight his own battles, but decline further to demean myself by asking my friends to put confidence in him, which I do not entertain myself.

You will pardon my writing this plainly. I do so believing it best to be frank with friends.

Yours sincerely,

(Signed) MACKENZIE BOWELL.

This is the opinion of Foster entertained by his former chief, a Conservative Prime Minister of Canada. What standard of political morality can be expected of a public man of Foster's stripe as an adviser of His Excellency? Foster should retire from the public sight.

"Easy Term" Bennett.

Mr. W. H. Bennett of Simcoe has accused the Government of selling islands in the Georgian Bay below their value. This recalls the circumstance that some years ago, when the Conservative Government were in power, Mr. Bennett desired to acquire a certain island. His regard for the public interest was so intense that he made a special plea in writing to the department asking that he be given the land upon "easy terms." Since that time he is known in the House by a certain section as "Easy Terms Bennett."

Tories and Timber.

29,222 square miles granted in eighteen years.

23,000 square miles granted, free.

Geo. E. Foster, the man who talks economy, once had an opportunity of putting it in practice instead of which he spent more than the country had coming in, and borrowed the balance. He did, however, save something, he cut down the wages of the charwomen of the House of Commons. These poor widows often think of Foster who took away from them a few cents a day of their hard-earned money.

The electors should remember that the Crow's Nest Pass land subsidy was given by the Conservative Government of British Columbia, not by a Liberal Government, and the Conservative holders of the charter would do nothing with it. It remained for good Liberals to put in their money and develop the property, and create a great industry in western Canada.

The Postoffice Department ran behind $760,000 the last year of Conservative rule. In the last six years the surplus has been $4,288,219, and last year it amounted to $1,100,000, although $400,000 had been expended in raising the salaries of postmasters, and $750,000 was spent in betterments to the service. The postal rate has been lowered and the drop letter rate reduced in cities to one cent.

Aids to navigation placed in the St. Lawrence river have brought about a reduction of insurance rates equal to $500,000 per annum.

What will Col. Sam Hughes say about that great Tory scandal, the Ross rifle. It may be they are as much mistaken in other matters as in this one.

STRATTON'S ADDRESS TO THE ELECTORS OF THE RIDING OF WEST PETERBOROUGH

To the Electors of West Peterborough:

Gentlemen,—I have been unanimously selected as candidate, in the Liberal interest, for the representation of West Peterborough, at the elections to be held on October 26th, and I hereby solicit your influence and vote, feeling that, as a supporter of the Liberal Government of the Dominion, I can render the city and riding at large, good, faithful and fruitful service.

All who know me, and after nearly twenty years of representation of the riding, that should include the majority of the electors, know in what manner I have discharged my duty to West Peterborough.

Aside from the policy of the Government on whose behalf a candidate is appealing for support, the determining factor in deciding an elector's support, should be the fitness of the candidate to give efficient representation. The elector should, therefore, choose the man whose known qualifications and record assure the exercise of effort and influence on behalf of the advancement of the interests of the riding, and to procure to it that measure of Government attention to which it is fairly entitled.

Therefore, in setting forth below what has been done under the Liberal representatives of West Peterborough in enlisting the good will of governments in securing substantial benefits, an adequate idea can be formed of how greatly to the advantage of this constituency will be the election of a candidate in sympathy with the Government, which has the power to vouchsafe advantages that may be faithfully presented.

I may, therefore, be permitted to point out a little of what has been accomplished for West Peterborough, through its representatives, by Liberal Governments. First, as my own share:

The work of procuring the construction of the Bensfort bridge, south of the city, is the equivalent of securing distinct benefits to residents of South Monaghan, through shortened distance to reach the market in Peterborough, and to the latter by facilitating the visits of the township people to the city. The building of a road through the township of North Monaghan north also served to lessen the distance the people of South Monaghan had to traverse to reach the city.

The procuring of a grant to assist in digging the Cavan drain, meant a much shortened way of access for the residents of northern Cavan to the Peterborough market, to the mutual advantage of themselves and Peterborough merchants and the reclamation of some thousands of acres of previously valueless swamp lands.

The procuring of large sums to be spent in the construction of new roads in Harvey, Cavendish, Galway, North Smith and Ennismore, represents conveniences to the people of these townships of no little value.

The procuring of legislation for the building of Chemong and Pigeon Creek bridges, and requiring their perpetual maintenance by the city and the Counties of Victoria and Peterborough, in the interests of the district, is another means of facilitating exchange of town and city trade.

The procuring of Government assistance to build the Kinmount bridge of stone and steel, was a means of settling the litigation between Peterborough and Victoria Counties, which had cost, and promised to cost, enough to build a bridge, and [illegible] the removal of a cause of constant friction between the two counties.

The construction of approaches and ferry, and later a permanent bridge, to span Gannon's Narrows, is a shortening of the distance to the city appreciated by the residents and farmers and land owners concerned.

I was fortunate enough to induce the Ontario Government to deed to the city—then town—of Peterborough, the Government reservation along the river front from the C.P.R. bridge to the Hunter street bridge, a gr t advantage, which has been made greater by being filled in by the dredgings of the river, at once beautifying the shore line and creating sites for manufactures, etc., etc., to be fronted with wharfage now under contemplation.

I will, I believe, be credited with having been instrumental in procuring the lease for Number Five dam, which made possible the establishment of the Otonabee Power Company, and led to the establishment of the Peterborough Cereal Works, and also led to the development of power at the dams further up the river for the use of the Lakefield Cement Works. For this I received at the time no little abuse and imputation of false motives in a course in which I had at heart only the good of the city, without the slightest personal advantage.

I may also fairly take credit for inducing the Ontario Government to consent to the transference of the waters of the northern part of this district to the jurisdiction of the Dominion Government, whose measures for conservation of water have created a steady flow the year round in the interests of canal navigation and power production, whose importance cannot be well over-estimated in relation to our manufacturing interests.

I may perhaps be permitted to suggest that the strong opposition to the legislation necessary to establish the Quaker Oats Cereal Company in Peterborough, with all the advantages and attendant benefits, would, I believe have been successful, if I had not used all my efforts and influence to secure the passage of the necessary legislation, which was bitterly opposed in Committee, and in the Assembly.

My interest in Peterborough, and West Peterborough, and the advance of their material welfare, has not been confined to my course in a representative c pacity. In the interests of the city and of its working men I have fortunately been able to be instrumental in reorganizing the Peterborough Lock Works on a prosperous and permanent working basis, and to be of assistance in promoting the establishment of the Peterborough Shovel and Tool Company. As the publisher of the Examiner, I have made it the medium of advocating and aiding all public measures and private enterprises calculated to upbuild Peterborough city and county. In this enterprise, and in the publication of three creditable class journals, The Canadian Dairyman and Farming World, and The Canadian Horticulturist, employment is given to about 100 persons, and Peterborough is given the dignity of a publishing centre.

When the Edison, now Canadian General Electric Works, were being established in Peterborough, the council was being criticised for the assistance the town gave. Owing to the assistance of the council and citizens, the works were established, and have grown and prospered, and I gave not only my moral support, but became financially interested to the extent of my ability.

I trust I may claim, as is the fact, that in the discharge of my representative duties, I have tried to represent the whole riding, irrespective of party affiliation, and that I have met and dealt with all conditions that arose during my several terms without regard to party feelings.

In all these things, if there be any merit, I have only done a duty to be expected of any representative, with the interests of his constituents at heart, and discharged the duties of a citizen; and if, through your support, I am given another opportunity, the assurance may be accepted that what little I have been able to do for West Peterborough, will be supplemented, to the best of my ability, and the extent of my influence, with the Government, and in the world of finance and affairs.

However, the benefits to West Peterborough, from Liberal representation and Government liberality, or rather justice, and deference to fair claims, are not all confined to the realm of the Provincial Government, but the Dominion representative and Government have contributed an important share.

To give prominence to the most prominent and most widely beneficial exercise of administrative function, the work of Trent Canal completion, by the Dominion, may be cited. When the Liberal Government took office in 1896, there were only 51 miles of navigable canal completed. Now there are 160 miles completed, embracing in this distance access to a thousand miles of shore line, and there are 28 miles under contract, leaving only 15 miles of unfinished canal between Georgian Bay and Trenton. During the 18 years of Conservative rule, and in all the years from Confederation, there was spent by that Government in canal construction work the sum of $1,230,030. During the 12 years of Liberal rule, there has been spent, including works under contract and construction, the sum of $4,891,708, out of the $6,121,117 spent since Confederation, or in other words in 12 years of Liberal administration, more than four times the amount spent in the preceding 30 years, has been expended, and, among other things, has given Peterborough steamer connection with the back lakes and northern waters.

Then, in the past twelve years large sums have been used in providing complementary works—to give the fullest benefits from canal construction—such as wharves, capable of enlargement, along the river and Trent waters, in dredging operations at various points. Particular reference might be made to the wharf at the street railway terminus, and the Wolfe street wharf, on which the work of construction will begin immediately.

Other measures in the interests of the riding due to energetic representation and fair government recognition of our claims may be cited.

A sitting of the Tariff Commission was secured for Peterborough, and the claims of Peterborough manufacturers heard and heeded. Representative influence met a ready response form the Post Office Department for the improvement of postal facilities; the interior accommodation of the building was enlarged and improved, city delivery provided, street letter boxes more than doubled in number, with more frequent collections, in addition to reduction of drop letter postage from two cents to one cent, not to speak of the opening of several new post offices, and the increased frequency of mail service.

The Peterborough Armouries represent not only an architectural ornament to the city and a large utility to the several forces of our militia, but a substantial advantage to the city in connection with the acquirement of a site for the Collegiate Institute.

The construction of a new $56,000 dam at Buckhorn, included the building of a new permanent county bridge, at a cost to the county of only $3,000 in lieu of $50,000, if as good a bridge had been built by the county.

The assumption by the Dominion Government of the county swing bridges, and their maintenance and operation, made a saving of about $2,500 per year to the county for all time.

The cold storage act of the Dominion Government intended to promote the construction of cold storage buildings, the Government giving as bonus a grant of a percentage of the cost, was instrumental in the establishment of a first-class cold storage warehouse in Peterborough, a great boon to dealers in dairy products, fruits and perishable articles, and, instead of Lindsay and Belleville, which had such warehouses, being the distributing centre, that advantage rests with Peterborough.

The replacing of the old wooden bridge that formerly spanned the locks at Young's Point, by a new steel bridge, placed so as not to impede wheel traffic while the lock is in use, the construction of a new pier, and the deepening of the lower waters of the lock and channel from five feet to nine feet, are obvious advantages.

The procuring of a parliamentary appropriation of $100,000 to meet claims for damages to lands flooded by the erection of dams in the course of Trent Canal construction, means the settlement of claims, some of them outstanding for nearly forty years, and is a measure of justice due to a Liberal Government, which appreciated the claims of the owners of drowned lands, which are being adjusted with all possible expedition.

All these things bear testimony to the importance and necessity of having a representative of West Peterborough alert and alive to the promotion of its interests.

I need not make any definite promises as to my course if elected. I will only say that I will do as I have done in the past, and serve West Peterborough to the best of my ability.

I think I am justified in saying that it will be to Peterborough's best interests to send a member in support of the present Liberal Government of the Dominion.

Under this Government the country has grown and prospered as it has never done before. It found, on taking office twelve years ago, the tide of prosperity at a low ebb; trade was dull, industry languishing; employment scarce and fitful; the finances were in bad condition, with large yearly deficits. All these things were changed under the Liberal Government; the tide of prosperity began to rise. The revenue, under a lessened tariff rate, grew, and funds were available and used with wisdom and enterprise to provide the means of development we see reflected in an advance of Canadian trade from 230 millions in 1896 to 650 millions now. Much of this is due to the Government's masterly dealing with the transportation problem involving cheap and rapid transport of product from farm and factory to market, and, to crown all, the conception and construction of the Transcontinental Railway, which will roll back the map of Canada a hundred miles northward and double the cultivated and peopled area of the country. The Government which has done so much to build up Canada in all its varied interests to the status of a nation, is sure to be returned to power as a result of the coming elections, and this will ensure another parliamentary term of nation-building, which will witness the completion of the Grand Trunk Pacific, of the Hudson Bay Railway, and of the Trent Waterway.

I respectfully ask the assistance of your vote and influence to secure my election. If by favour of your kind support I am elected, I shall give my best efforts to all measures that will promote the interests of the country at large, and especially those of Peterborough and West Peterborough.

I have the honour to be, gentlemen,

Your obedient servant,

W. R. Stratton

Foster's Rake-off

Extract From the Evidence Showing That Foster Added 25 Cents an Acre to the Price of Land Bought From Roblin With Foresters' Money and Put it in His Pocket.

WORKED FOR TWO MASTERS

While Drawing a Salary From Union Trust Company He Caused Them to Pay an Extra 25c Per Acre For His Own Benefit.

When Geo. E. Foster made a deal with R. P. Roblin to buy with the Foresters' money 9,920 acres of land he fixed the matter so that the Foresters would pay 25 cents an acre more than the land could be bought for, for the only reason that he was thereby enabled to make a rake-off of 25 cents an acre

The price offered by Mr. Foster in his letter to Pritchard, the agent for the seller, was $5.25 an acre, as he put it in his letter,

"With 25 cents per acre as commission, this netting you $5 per acre."

In his letter of January 5, 1904, to Roblin's agent at Winnipeg, Foster reminded him that 25 cents per acre was to be paid as "commission on sale," and he says this can be deducted from the cash payment. He said:

"You can send a cheque therefore signed by the vendors in favor of myself."

Mr. Foster actually, in closing the transaction, sent one cheque to the sellers of the land $9,920, or $1 an acre cash payment, and another cheque of the Union Trust Co. (of which he was manager under salary) for $2,480, being the rake-off of 25 cents an acre for himself.

Examine this a moment. There was Foster, the manager of the Union Trust Company, the custodian of the Foresters' money, telling a man from whom he was buying land, "add another 25 cents an acre to the price, and I will pay it, but the money is a commission to myself.

How could an honest man, acting for the company, whose manager he was, compel the company to pay $2,480 more than the lands could be bought for, just for the purpose of putting it in his pocket? This is the man to whom Mr. Borden has given a certificate of character.

This was an underhand transaction from the beginning. Mr. Roblin secured the lands from the Canadian Northern, a company in receipt of favors from the Roblin Government. The land was held by another party for Mr. Roblin. Mr. Roblin explicitly told his agent to offer the lands to Mr. Foster, and it was understood all the time that Foster was to have a commission on the deal. This was established by sworn testimony before the Royal Commission.

This unsavory deal need not be pursued any further. It is shown that Roblin received land on the quiet from the Canadian Northern.

It is shown that he instructed his agent to offer the lands to Foster, who was to get a commission on the sale.

It is shown that Foster added 25 cents an acre for himself, which the Union Trust Company paid.

It is shown that Foster got a cheque of the Union Trust Co. for $2,480, money belonging to the Foresters.

Mr. Roblin has gone back to Manitoba, disgraced and discredited. Mr. Foster seeks to get into the House of Commons. Will the people of Canada allow this man Foster to be placed in a position of trust over them?

A Sorry Spectacle.

Mr. Borden could not find men in his own party capable of taking the stump with him, so he imported Mr. Roblin, the slanderer, who has returned to Manitoba disgraced and discredited, and Mr. Bowser of British Columbia, he of the profane tongue. While Mr. Borden gives Foster a certificate of character, he declines to appear on the public platform with him. What a sorry spectacle for a party hoping to succeed to the Government of Canada.

The Tay Canal was one of the worst frauds ever perpetrated on a country. This is known as Haggart's ditch. Parliament was informed that the canal would cost $300,000. Year after year money was asked until $900,000 had been spent. Someone got in on a steal here of $600,000, and the canal never produced any revenue. This was done by the conscientious party which says "Put us in power and we will stop the stealing and grafting on the public treasury."

The Esquimalt dry dock was built by the Tory Government and the highest bidder got the job for $374,558. He was paid $581,841, and contributed $67,000 to the Tory campaign fund by way of showing his gratitude. This was done by Foster's party, the purity party.

The Levis graving dock cost the people $125,000, a very expensive sum, but out of this amount the Tory campaign fund was enriched to the extent of $22,000. This is an instance of how men who preach clean politics, practice corruption when the necessity arises.

Be careful of the party whose professions of purity are so loud. In practice it is often found they know more about corruption.

The Tory party when in power gave away enough land to railway corporations to supply homesteads for 415,000 people, and take care of a population of 2,000,000. They are the ones who are crying aloud "the land for the settler."

THEIR ANONYMOUS LETTERS.

By C. B. LEWIS.

Copyrighted, 1903, by Associated Literary Press.

Everybody, including themselves, said it was a love match between Kitty Rayne and Harry Smedley and that such love, trust and confidence were seldom to be found. It did not all end with the honeymoon, as a certain crusty old bachelor predicted, but when they had been married a whole year the doves were still cooing.

Then one evening Mrs. Smedley had a lawn party, and as half a dozen people sat together it was announced that the writer of an anonymous letter had succeeded in separating a certain man and his wife. All expressed their sorrow and indignation, but host and hostess felt called upon to go further.

"The husband who will pay the slightest attention to an anonymous letter should be tabooed from association with all sensible people," was the observation of the husband as he placed his arm around his wife's waist. "No one but a coward writes those letters, and no one but a coward would act upon them."

"If I should get a hundred anonymous letters concerning Harry I should only laugh at them," added the wife as she kissed him before them all.

Three mornings later at his office Mr. Smedley received a letter. As it was addressed in the handwriting of a woman he felt quite a bit of curiosity about it. He opened the envelope to find it contained an anonymous letter—no date, no signature, just the words:

"Watch your wife and you will discover"—

The young husband laughed and started to tear up the missive. Then he restrained his hand, and his laugh faded to a grin. It was a good joke to send him such a missive. He would carry it home at noon and laugh over it with his little wife.

When the coward picked him out to receive such a warning he took the wrong man. He whistled and put the letter in his pocket and began his work. It was funny. It would raise a laugh. They would show it to their circle, and others would laugh with them. Five minutes later he was saying to himself:

"Watch your wife and you will discover"—

Discover what? he mentally kicked himself for asking, and yet the query kept bobbing up. A contemptible coward of a woman wrote that unfinished sentence and wrote it to make trouble. If he could find her out she should suffer for it. Discover anything wrong on the part of his pure hearted little wife! The idea was villainous.

He put it aside again and again and felt himself almost as mean as the writer when it bobbed up again. The forenoon was so long that he left the office half an hour before 12 and started for home. He wanted to show the letter to his wife and have a laugh over it, but something occurred to change his plan.

He was within a block of the house when a man came out, gave a look up and down the street and hurried away. Then, too, as he entered the door his wife exclaimed in surprise and almost demanded to know why he was half an hour ahead of his time. He kissed her, but it was a perfunctory kiss. She nestled up to him, but he thought he could feel her trembling.

At 9 o'clock that same morning the carrier had left a letter for her in a man's handwriting. She opened it, thinking that it might be a bill from the grocer, and the next moment her merry laugh rang out.

"Watch your husband and you will discover"— were its sole contents.

Watch Harry? For what? Suspect him of what? It was an anonymous letter, but it was too funny. She felt like running out and showing it to the girl in the kitchen. She would go and show it to a couple of her friends and let them enjoy the laugh with her.

She put on her hat. Then she halted. The laugh had died away. Could there be anything in it? Was it possible that Harry was deceiving her? No, never! She would tear up the letter and never refer to it. No, she would not. She would keep it, and they would have a great laugh over it at noon.

She held to this last resolve for half an hour, and then the missive was hidden away, and she was going about the house with pale cheeks and compressed lips. At 11 o'clock the doorbell rang, and a traveling clock tinker asked if she had anything in his line to do. He set an obstinate clock going and collected a quarter for his skill.

He was the man whom the husband saw glide furtively away. You will always read furtiveness in a clock tinker's movements if the sun happens to shine on him just right.

So it happened that neither letter was produced to be laughed over. There was constraint, and both husband and wife felt it. They were no longer natural in their behavior, and that very fact aroused suspicions.

"She is deceiving me" and "He is deceiving me" were what they were saying to themselves, and the seed planted by the anonymous letter writer had taken fair root. At any moment during the next month had both letters been produced all would have been made plain and the situation would have been cleared up in a few minutes. But they were not produced. They were treasured.

The strained relations became painful, but what could either do? They could not accuse each other on an anonymous letter. They did a great deal of thinking, however.

It so happened that both had been engaged previous to their own engagement. What did "Watch your wife and you will discover" mean except that Kitty's old lover was writing to her, seeing her secretly, persuading her that he could never, never love another and suggesting an elopement to a faraway isle?

The letter carrier was questioned as to what letters he delivered at the house. A private detective was paid $5 a day to search the town for the old lover. The boy that mowed the lawn was instructed to keep watch on all life insurance and sewing machine agents calling at the house, and the husband began to feel himself a Sherlock Holmes.

Something was also done on the other hand. Night after night as the husband lay sleeping—for even jealous husbands do sleep—a form clad in white might have been seen going through his pockets in search of damaging evidence.

His weekly visits to his Masonic lodge had to be verified. If he went out in the evening to order soap at the grocery he was followed. Of course he must in some way be in communication with his old love and have abandonment or divorce in view. Just let him try it! If he ran away he should be brought back in chains. If he applied for a divorce she would fight the case to the last court in the land.

Naturally their set noticed that something was wrong, strive as the couple might before company, but no one knew just what was the trouble, and for once the mutual friend did not interfere and make matters worse.

A more miserable couple did not exist, but no explanations were asked for or volunteered. Anything of the sort would have been taken for falsehoods.

"Watch your wife" and "Watch your husband" were watchwords ever before them. Separation, at least, must have been the ultimate result had not the jokers finally decided to show their hands. One morning as the young husband reached his desk another letter in a certain chirography awaited him. His heart gave a jump. In this he would be told something specific. He dreaded to open it, and yet he thirsted for the solution.

After a hesitation lasting five minutes the envelope was torn away. The next moment a bareheaded man, holding a sheet of note paper in his hand, was running down the street. A block from home he encountered a woman, also on the run and also holding an open letter in her hand.

"Kitty, my darling!"

"Oh, my dear Harry!"

"I just got this by mail."

"And I just got this."

And when they recalled that every woman in the block was watching them they compared notes. He read:

—"that she is using Allen's hair tonic on her hair!"

And hers:

—"that your Harry is getting a bald spot on top of his head!"

And then the doves came back and cooed and never flew the coop any more.

A Strong Hint.

They had met for the first time since their schooldays and were telling each other of their professional careers.

"And how did you come to leave the stage?" asked one.

"I had a hint that I was not suited for it."

"I see. The little birds told you, eh?"

"Well, no; not exactly. But they might have been birds had they been allowed to hatch."

The Way To Raise And Care For Pullets

From The Canadian Dairyman.

After the trials, troubles, and losses of early chicken days are over there is nothing pleasanter than to watch the young pullets grow and develop in symmetry and beauty. After they have replaced their chicken feathers with fresh, smooth, clean plumage, and begin to show a reddening of the comb and wattles, we begin to realise that they have powers and possibilities all their own and our own. There is something particularly attractive about a demure maiden hen that has begun to exhibit motherly ways. We like to hear such an one beginning to talk, in her quaint way, of laying eggs, of adding to her beauty the proof of her ability.

Oftentimes the amateur poultry-keeper gets impatient and thinks the pullets he has raised or purchased ought, at command, to begin to produce the much desired eggs. The birds seem large enough; they eat enough; they have their keeper's best care and attention. Why don't they lay? Well, because they are not ready. They are not egg-machines, although man tries his best to make them such. They are living, organised beings, and they are taking the necessary time to develop normally and completely the organs of egg production, with a definite purpose to bring into the world feathered beings like themselves. To do this the interval reproductive organs, the ovaries and connections, must first be fully formed and perfectly developed.

The pullet has no thought of simply making eggs containing yolk and white to be gobbled as a delicacy by hungry mortals. Her strength and vitality are being turned, in large part, to the developing of the minute, but all important, germs of the eggs, each of which shall contain all the force, stamina, hereditary quality, and life powers necessary for the production of a new chick that shall grow and thrive and mature, and in turn reproduce its kind. This is not a machine process; it is life development. It is Nature's work, deliberately done with definite purpose.

At the same time that the pullet is preparing to furnish the eggs for future flocks of chicks, she has to be completing the formation of her own bones, muscles, feathers, etc. Considering all that the pullet has to accomplish, she is really doing rapid work. Although much can be done to hasten the process, the veteran poultry-keeper does not seek to hurry the maturing of the pullets too fast, knowing well that if he should succeed in getting eggs extra early, especially in the summer, they will be liable to be extremely small in size, and there will very likely come a reaction, resulting in the interruption of egg production in a month or two, perhaps premature moulting, and, possibly, no more laying of eggs to springtime—the natural breeding season of fowls.

The secret of the genuine success is to keep the pullets developing steadily in a natural, healthy way that shall insure perfect bones, muscles, blood-vessels, nerves, lungs, digestive system, and reproductive organs.

After the sexes are separated provide for the pullets sufficient shelter, but do not overdo this part of the business. Close confinement during either day or night is not desirable. As the birds increase in size, the number in each house should be regulated so that there will always be room enough and no crowding. Comfort and ample, well-balanced rations are wonderfully helpful factors in seeking to promote early and rapid egg production. Exercise is essential to the best gradual development.

Green grass, insects, pure water, and grit are desirable for maturing pullets. Fresh growing grass is the best of green food, and the exercise needed in getting the insects and grass is the best of aids to good digestion and steady, healthy growth. If the grasses where the pullets range get tough and withered, fresh green food may be provided by cultivating a part of the yard or range, and planting oats, rye, or barley. A special word of caution as to the drinking water is in order here. See to it that the pullets have pure, fresh water always supplied, and that there is no impure or stagnant water where they can get at it to drink. Pullets show sometimes a very depraved taste, and even stoop to drink from filthy ditches, sink-drains, and other vile places.

Wheat and oats are the best grains for growth, adding maize as the weather grows colder. Nutritious mashes fed once a day will hasten development. A mash may include wheat, bran, and middlings, with a little linseed-meal, adding maize-meal as the season advances.

Skim-milk is exceedingly good food to promote growth and early maturity. Buttermilk and whey also contain valuable protein nutriment which can be utilised in producing eggs. Any supplies of the by-products of milk from the household, the farm, or from a dairy, should be utilised if available and economical to obtain and use. The proportions of the food-stuffs may vary much, according to easiness and cheapness in obtaining them. Use what feeding stuffs are available and economical. Keep in mind the proper balance of the protein and carbonaceous nutriments, and the amount of ash constituents, studying first the standard for a maintenance ration; second, the proportions of the standards for growing chicks, and finally adapting the diet to the standard for laying fowls. If insects or skim-milk are abundant, the pullets will get their protein nutriment without further care, and beef scraps will not be needed. Sun-flower and hemp seed in small quantities give a variation to the diet which is beneficial. Remember the value of bran, because of the phosphate of lime this contains, which is useful in building the fowls' frames, and is considered conducive to early maturity. As laying time approaches, or to hasten its coming, fresh-cut green bone may be used. Feed per pullet, at first, one-fourth ounce per day, increasing gradually to one ounce daily. It is very nutritious and stimulating, and, probably, can be fed at this time with greater effect than at any other time in life of the fowl. If the fresh bone is difficult to get, or is only obtainable and prepared at great cost of funds, or labour, beef scraps, meat-meal, or dried blood may be used in addition to granulated dry bone or bone-meal. Use only sufficient of these concentrated feeding-stuffs to balance the ration according to the standards. When the demand comes for carbonate of lime, of which the egg shells are mainly composed, it is easily and cheaply supplied by means of crushed oyster-shells or well broken egg-shells.

Do not use condiments like red pepper, mustard, and patent and pretended forcers of egg-laying, unless you wish to cause inflammation of the digestive tract and the organs of reproduction. Excessive exciting of these organs does not pay, because a reaction is sure to come, and the tissues are then liable to attacks of disease germs which in health and vigour they would resist and reject.—F. How To Control Moisture In Butter

From The Canadian Dairyman.

At the last convention of Minnesota Butter-makers an interesting discussion took place on controlling the moisture in butter. Mr. Myers, instructor at the Wisconsin Dairy School, gave an account of some tests made by him that may be of help to butter-makers here. He said:

"During the past year I tried many different methods of controlling moisture and found that there was some difference in the churns we used, and quite a difference when all conditions were the same, the workmanship, the temperature of the cream and water, time of churning etc.; found that with certain churns, with no abnormal methods and with only from 10 to 11 revolutions, we could easily get any desired amount of moisture, from 11 per cent, up to 18 per cent., and we had that waxy condition which is very desirable from any point of view, desirable because we cannot spoil the grain so easily as we can if we work it a little softer, or if we work it a little cleaner we have to work it more in order to get the amount of moisture we want to incorporate the salt and avoid mottles. With the Victor churn, churn 30 per cent. cream at 50 degrees with the churn half full and wash the butter with 58-degree wash water; give perhaps only 10 revolutions, do not drain the churn dry, but leave in a pail or a half pail of water, close it up, salt it, work it immediately, or give it perhaps one revolution extra, but not very much on account of having the water in the churn, dissolve the salt and perhaps you will not find quite enough salt in it. I have taken two churnings from one batch of cream, varying slightly the workmanship and methods, and one would contain 11 per cent. moisture while the other churning had 18 per cent. I believe it is simply a matter of getting down to the fundamental principles underlying the controlling of moisture and studying individual conditions, and that every buttermaker has to look out for himself. I cannot tell you how to control the moisture in butter, but I can give you an idea of how to do the thing, and from that with your own energy and your conditions and inside information, you may be able to evolve a system by which you may more easily control the moisture in butter. I would prefer cream with at least 30 per cent. butterfat and would have it cooled at least two hours, not less, before churning. If you churn sweet cream or unripened cream you have to vary your methods. You will have to vary your methods if you hold it 12 hours. There are many factors you have to take into consideration for the control of moisture in butter and it has been said more than once that if all things that have been said and written, or nearly all, on the control of moisture were burned we would be better off to-day, but I do not believe that. It is only by extracting a few ideas out of what we hear and applying them to our conditions that we may come to the best method of controlling moisture in butter without spoiling it in quality."

The Effects Of Pasteurizing Whey

From The Canadian Dairyman.

The many letters we have received from cheese-makers, who have commenced pasteurizing the whey, indicate that one of the chief benefits to be derived from it is, its aid to cleanliness. Patrons, and especially the women folks on the farm, who have to wash the cans are enthusiastic about it. The sour whey flavor, so long a menace to the making of fine cheese and the keeping of the milking utensils clean and sweet, disappears when pasteurizing begins. If this were the only benefit to be gained by pasteurizing whey, the cost of doing it would be worth while. But there are other beneficial effects. The whey is of more value for feed. It can be fed to young stock without any bad effects resulting. The whey tanks can be kept in better condition and the surroundings of the factory made more sanitary and healthful.

The cost is small as compared with the general beneficial effects derived from pasteurising the whey. As one correspondent puts it. The whey from 500 lbs. of milk can be heated to 160 degrees at a cost of one cent. That much milk at present prices will make nearly $3 worth of cheese. The increase in feeding value alone is worth more than this cost to any farmer, let in promoting cleanliness and freedom from bacteriological infection generally.

A great deal is being done these days to induce greater cleanliness on the part of patrons in caring for and handling the milk. Will not pasteurising the whey greatly aid in this direction? A maker who allows his whey tanks to remain in a filthy condition and sends home to his patrons sour and badly flavoured whey, cannot with good grace, ask them to exercise cleanliness in caring for milk. He must show that he is endeavoring to do his part by keeping his factory and surroundings in a clean and sanitary condition.

THE PROVINCIAL EXHIBITIONS

—All cities over the Province are preparing for their exhibition, and Peterborough is no exception to the rule. It is the time we meet our old and new friends, and those who are not our friends. It is also the best time for the introduction of the newest and smartest cuts in fall suits and where they can be shown to the greatest advantage. The New York Ladies' Tailoring establishment have removed their parlours and workshop from 658 George street to 387 Reid street, opposite St. Peter's Cathedral, for the better accommodation of their patrons, and are prepared to take orders in any line of ladies' garments. CHILD'S DEATH IS SAID TO HAVE BEEN DUE TO STARVATION AND NEGLECT; BURIED IN BACK YARD

Neighbours Talk and Body of The Infant is Exhumed---Autopsy Performed Indicates The Above Cause of Death

INTERMENT IN ROUGHLY MADE GRAVE IN THE WOODS BEHIND THE HOUSE

Examiner Special

Lindsay, Oct. 9.—Starvation and neglect is the cause alleged for the death of an infant child in Dysart Township, Haliburton, whose body was buried in a rough grave in the woods behind the house.

County Constable N. S. Smith, of Donald Station, was here yesterday and is the authority for the story. The father of the infant is Edward Lindsay, who works at the Wood Product Co., at Donald, in Dysart. The constable heard of the baby's death from several sources, and he communicated with Dr. Giles, coroner, of Haliburton. The two went to Lindsay's home and made inquiries regarding the infant's death. The father stated that the child had died of inflammation, but he did not secure the attendance of any doctor. It had been buried in the woods behind the house shortly after its death.

The constable and the coroner raised the body and an autopsy was held. Dr. Giles pronounced death to be due to starvation and neglect. The body of the child was taken to Gelert where proper interment took place.

The child was two months sixteen days old, and its death caused considerable talk in the neighbourhood. The parents live on the shore of Coughlin Lake, just beside the Donald works.

No action has been taken by the police yet, Constable Smith having jurisdiction in Victoria County alone.

Officers Of Canadian Club To Be Elected At The Next Meeting

A meeting of the Canadian Club was held last night in the Council Chamber, at which some fifteen or more members were present. Officers were to have been elected, but they were not, owing to the fact that one or two of those selected by the nominating committee could not accept the duties of the offices assigned to them.

In the absence of the president, Mr. F. D. Kerr, which was unavoidable, Mr. R. H. Wood was voted to the chair. The secretary, Mr. H. R. H. Kenner, read the minutes of the last meetings and these were adopted. He also pointed out that the nominating committee appointed in the spring, had selected the officers to represent the club for the year to follow, but that at the annual meeting called in April there was no quorum, and it had to be postponed.

Last night, therefore, a nominating committee, composed of Mr. F. D. Kerr, Dr. Halliday, Dr. Cameron, and Mr. T. F. Matthews was selected to fill the offices of those unable to act and the meeting adjourned to meet again on Thursday, Oct. 29th, to sanction the work of the committee. It was decided to have on that occasion two short addresses by Canon Davidson and Mr. T. F. Matthews—two travelled members of the club.

A vote of thanks was tendered by Canon Davidson and seconded by Mr. Matthews to the retiring officers of the club, and principally to the secretary and president, who had done much to make it a success. In doing so they referred to the good fortune it was to the literary inclined citizens of Peterborough to have a Canadian Club in the city. It was an impetus to creating a distinctive spirit, or an individuality among its members, and was the proper means to create a proper sense of sentiment and loyalty among Canadian citizens.

During the past year the club secured as speakers such prominent men at Professor Adam Shortt, formerly of Queen's College, Kingston; Mr. T. H. Preston, ex-M.P.P. and editor of the Brantford Expositor; Mr. Archibald, Dominion Parole Officer; and Hon. A. B. Morine, K.C., formerly Attorney-General of Newfoundland.

Summer Visitors At Stony Lake From New York Get Married Here

A wedding of interest to Stony Lake summer cottagers and visitors was yesterday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, solemnized at the residence of Rev. J. R. Webb, 344 Rubidge street, when Dr. J. H. Race, of New York, was united in marriage to Mrs. Mary Ellis Sloan, also of New York. Dr. Race has spent the past twenty-five successive summers at his cottage at Bonchink, where he was very well known.

They were unattended at the wedding and afterwards left for New York, where they will reside.

Jim Harrison Is Out After Slater, Hoagland And Co.

Jim Harrison, the local pedestrian, is very anxious to get on a match with some of the walking experts. He is in great shape and feels that he can give any of them a hard run for the money. He would like to meet any walker in Canada or the United States in a 24-hour contest, the competitors not to leave the track during the race. He is willing to fight it out with anyone under these conditions.

Harrison also challenges Tom Slater, the Oswego, N.Y., crack, to a ten-hour grind, the men to start together, and at the same time he issues a challenge to W. A. Hoagland of Auburn, N.Y., to a ten-hour race for $100 a side, Hoagland to give the local man a handicap of two miles.

Even The Water Was Scarce In Keene On The Annual Fair Day

Some one has remarked that Keene is a dry place, but according to reports of those who were at the fair on Wednesday, they could not even get water for the horses. In the hotel yard the pump was apparently dry and just where the animals quenched their thirst is not known—likely in the Indian River.

Everybody was remarking about the scarcity of water, a condition which in a place like Keene is inexplicable.

Indian Goes To Gaol For Week On A Charge Of Being Drunk

George Tobico, the Indian who was arrested some two weeks ago on a charge of being drunk, was this morning committed to gaol on the charge for one week. Tobico has been in gaol ever since his arrest, held by the authorities until the man suspected of supplying him with liquor has been apprehended. Counsel wished to have Tobico's evidence taken this morning, but the Magistrate did not think it fair to take his evidence until the accused was present.

A young man who pleaded guilty to being disorderly on George street last night was fined $1 and costs, with the result that the change from a $5 bill was but fifteen cents.

THE POLICE MAGISTRATE IN A NEW ROLE; WAS COMPLAINANT IN POLICE COURT CASE

Police Magistrate Dumble appeared in a new role at police court this morning, when he was complainant in a theft charge against Jas. McWilliams, who was charged with stealing six cords of building stone from Mr. Dumble. City Clerk A. E. Armstrong was on the bench, and the defendant was honourably acquitted after the evidence had been heard.

Mr. Dumble was the first witness. He testified that he had a quantity of building stone piled opposite his lands on Aylmer street, north. Some of it was split stone and the rest natural stone. A short time ago he had observed that the stone was gone. It was worth, he considered, about $30. He did not know who had taken the stone. He had obtained some of it from the North Ward school, paying for drawing it away.

Henry A Moore who lives in the neighbourhood, testified that he had seen teams drawing away stone six or eight weeks ago and thought Mr McWilliams' team was there, although he could not be positive.

Edward Blakey testified to seeing the defendant drawing stone away from the place. It was, he thought in August last.

For the defence John Thirnbeck, foreman of sidewalk construction for the corporation, stated that Mr. McWilliams was in the employ of the City and was engaged in drawing gravel and stone. The witness had constructed a sewer on Aylmer street north, almost up to Mr. Dumble's property two years ago, and the stones that had been removed during the excavation had been thrown on the side of the road. The witness in August last, when building a sidewalk on King street, had needed stone and had sent the defendant up to Aylmer street, north, to get the stones that had been obtained from the sewer, and he had brought three loads.

Mr. McWilliams gave evidence to the same effect. If he had taken Mr. Dumble's stone he stated that he had no intention of doing so. He had no idea that the stone he removed belonged to anyone but the city.

City Clerk Armstrong honourably discharged Mr. McWilliams. It was evident, he said, that the defendant had no intention of stealing the stone, and that it had been removed by mistake.

THIRTEEN LIVES LOST IN A TERRIBLE EXPLOSION OCCURRING IN QUAKER OATS COMPANY'S ELEVATOR IN RICHFORD, VT.

Mr. Wm. Cavanah, Peterborough, Formerly Assistant Superintendent There---Entire Roof of the Building Blown Off—The Entire Building Shook From The Concussion

C. P. R. TRACKS BLOCKED

The Quaker Oats Company's mammoth elevator at Ritchford, Vt., took fire on Wednesday following an explosion, and during the blaze which followed, eleven men out of the twenty-one employed in it suffered death from the flames. The same company owns this mill as the one in Peterborough, and it is at Ritchford where Mr. W. Cavanah was assistant superintendent of the factory. Mr T. H. G. Dame of the sales department has gone to Richmond.

A despatch gives the following account of the disaster:

With a concussion which shook the entire village, a large grain elevator, having a capacity of 500,000 bushels, exploded late on Wednesday, causing the death of eleven workmen and two women who were walking in the immediate vicinity.

The explosion blew off the entire roof of the big building, scattering timbers in all directions, and almost instantly flames burst out over the whole structure.

Twenty-one men were employed in the building. Eleven of these perished.

Mrs. John Jolifore, who was walking with a companion along the C.P.R. track close to the elevator, was burned to death, and an unknown woman who was with her was burned so seriously that she died Wednesday night.

The elevator was owned jointly by the Canadian Pacific and Boston and Maine Railways and was operated by the Quaker Oats Co., of Chicago. It was 150 feet in height, 130 feet long and 90 feet wide.

The exact amount of grain which it contained could not be learned, but it is known the quantity was very large.

So quickly did the flames, which fire supposed to have started by spontaneous combustion in the dry dust of the grain, extend throughout the building that the limited fire apparatus of the village was of no avail. Nothing could be done to prevent the entire destruction of the elevator and its valuable contents.

Late Wednesday night the fire was still burning but no other property was threatened.

The wreckage from the explosion and fire blocked the C. P. R. tracks completely for hours, so that it was necessary for trains to make a detour by way of Sherbrooke, Que.

The total loss is estimated at $400,000.

EXAMINER SCORES A BIG "BEAT" IN GIVING FINAL SCORE OF BALL GAME IN REGULAR EDITION

Through the assistance of Mr. J. N. Barber, of Hoints & Co., the Examiner was able yesterday to accomplish a journalistic "scoop" of no mean proportions. This was in connection with the final game in the National League between Chicago and New York, the result of which the Examiner was able to announce to its readers in its regular edition yesterday. Not only was the final score given, but a detailed account of the game to the end of the tatat third innings was published, showing just how Chicago had fallen on the mighty Matthewson and carried off the honours for the third time. Not a single other paper in Ontario, not even, excepting the Toronto evening dailies published the final score or a detail of the play past the second innings, and the only paper in Ontario in addition to the Examiner was the Toronto Star in its sporting extra. The Examiner readers no doubt appreciate the enterprise of the feat.

NEW BRIDGE IS NEEDED

While Every Apparent Weakness Has Been Strengthened Others May Appear at Any Time—New Bridge a Necessity

OPINION OF THE ENGINEER

While the Smith street bridge has been thrown open to the public the improvements have not been such as will remove the necessity of building an entirely new structure. In speaking to an Examiner reporter today, Engineer Hay stated that everything possible had been done to relieve any present danger, but that at any time some new weakness might come to light. Mr. Hay considers that a feeling of confidence may be entertained without question only when a new and modern bridge replaces that which is now doing duty.

THE FIRE HALL PAINTED

Dormitories And Other Rooms Upstairs Are Bright in Many Colours—Work Was Done by The Firemen

CLEANLINESS IS NOTICEABLE

The dormitory and other rooms on the second floor at the firehall are being brightened by their first coats of paint. Chief Howard is pleased with the work because of the clean and fresh appearance that is given the whole place. The dormitory walls are finished in a pretty shade of blue relieved by a border which has been tastefully chosen. The ceiling is also painted blue. The battery room upstairs is a dark green, and when finished it will be one of the best arranged gravity batteries in this district. Other rooms are being done in different colours, and as one passes along the corridor the kaleidoscopic effect is very prominent. The entire cost will not exceed $25.

THE EUROPEAN WAR SITUATION IS GROWING DARKER; THE TURKS FIRE ON THE BULGARIAN FLAG

The Servian Reservists Ordered Out---British Warships Are Said Under Sealed Orders to The Turkish Island of Lemnos

AUSTRIAN OPINION IS THAT SERVIAN AGITATION IS BECOMING SERIOUS

Examiner Special

Vienna, Oct. 9.—The Turkish forts at Constantinople have fired on a vessel in the Bosphorus flying the new Bulgarian flag, according to a message just received here.

Budapest, Oct. 9.—The Servian reservists have been ordered to join the colours on October 11. It is reported also that German bands are being formed, and directions, consequently, have been given to guard the roads and bridges on the Bosnian frontier.

Valetta, Island of Malta, Oct. 9.—Several of the British warships here have been instructed to sail under sealed orders. Their destination is believed to be the Turkish island of Lemnos, which is fifty miles west of the entrance to the Dardanelles.

Vienna, Oct. 9.—The opinion in the Austrian capital this morning is that the warlike agitation in Servia has made the situation more serious. For the first time it is really feared that war with Servia may result. The morning newspapers warn Servia not to play with fire, as Austria-Hungary will not stand any nonsense.

Elevator Is Being Built Inside Peter Hamilton Co.'s Building

The elevator at the Peter Hamilton Company's establishment is being placed inside the building because of the fact that a cement walk is being laid on the east side of George street from King street to the C.P.R. station. The old elevator, which was strengthened and renewed at the time of the last fire, has been dismantled, and practically a new one is being placed inside the main door on George street, of easy access to the street and extending from the ground to the third floor.

Some Additional Rewards Are Offered For Capture Of Mr. E

The coming of the Mysterious Mr. E., of the Peterborough Examiner, is creating quite an interest. In addition to securing the $50 in gold offered by the Peterborough Examiner for his capture, there are opportunities for everybody to get more. Mr. Thos. Barrie and J. T. Jackson & Sons have already been mentioned as offering additional reward. Lang & Maher offer $10 to the person who is wearing a Sovereign Brand suit or a Sovereign Brand overcoat, and $5 to the boy wearing a Lang & Maher suit.

Richard Hall & Son other half a dozen rewards to ladies who are in possession at that firm's stamped bills of purchase for various articles. A. E. Stratton offers $2.50 if the capturer has one of Stratton's special lead pencils, and F. J. R. MacPherson offers $10 to the lucky one, if he is in possession of the firm's receipt for any article valued at one dollar or more.

Work On G. T. Pacific Goes On; The Tenders For The Terminals

Ottawa, Oct. 9.—Special.—Tenders were opened by the National Transcontinental Railway Commission yesterday for the construction of carsheds, roundhouses, etc., at the Winnipeg terminus. Four tenders were received for the complete works, with several other tenders for heating plant, etc. The successful tenderers will not be announced for a week or so yet, pending the examination at each tender by the commission's engineers.

The contractors now at work on the various sections of the road under contract all report good progress made during the past summer. Active construction work will be continued all winter, thus providing employment for thousands of men.

The Annual Fair At Lakehurst Is Another Splendid Success

The annual Lakehurst Fair was held yesterday and was largely attended. Many Peterborough people were there and witnessed again the splendid products of the northern townships. Fine horses, cattle, swine, sheep, vegetables, butter, etc., were there and were all a most splendid quality. Mr. E. E. Neary was judge of the horses.

Visitors were there from Ashburnham, Ennismore, Lakefield, Smith and other townships and aided the Harvey residents to make the event one of the best in history.

OBITUARY

JOHN W. TROTTER

The death occurred this morning in the Nicholls Hospital of Mr. John W. Trotter, aged 44 and who lived at 284 Smith street. Mr. Trotter has been for some time a foreman with the Cavedish Lumber Company. A particularly sad feature in connection with the death is that his mother is ill in the hospital and his sister at home.

The funeral will be held on Sunday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock to the Little Lake Cemetery.

WEDDING BELLS

JOHNSTON—O'CONNOR

Ennismore, Oct. 9.—Special. — St. Martin's Church, Ennismore, was the scene of an extremely pretty wedding, the contracting parties being Miss Katie O'Connor, daughter of Mr. Maurice O'Connor, Ennismore township, and Mr. John Johnston, son of Mr. Robert Johnston, Antrim street, Peterborough. The bride was attired in a gown of blue tameline silk, trimmed with cream applique and lace and was assisted by her sister, Miss Mary Ellen, who was also prettily attired in blue. The groom was supported by Mr. John Torpey, Peterborough.

The nuptial mass at 9.30 o'clock was celebrated by Rev. Father Fitzpatrick after which the young couple were driven to the home of the bride's parents accompanied by more than 60 guests, where a sumptuous wedding breakfast was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnston will reside in East City, where their many friends join in wishing them a long and happy wedded life.

LECTURE BY WELL KNOWN CLERGYMAN IN NOVEMBER

Rev. R. E. Knowles, pastor of Knox Presbyterian Church, Galt, who is well and favourably known as pastor, author and lecturer, will be in Peterborough in November to lecture under the auspices of St. Luke's church. Further announcement of the subject of the lecture, and the date, will be made later.

A DIFFICULT PROBLEM.

Perhaps the most important and difficult problem with which a young country like Canada has to deal is immigration. It is important because upon immigration our present prosperity and future growth as a country very largely depend. The very life of a new country is immigration. In the beginning, the people from the old lands displaced the native population, and the process of immigration has continued ever since and will necessarily continue till the unsettled and unoccupied regions are peopled. A new country must have immigration if it is to grow, and not stand still, or, which is almost equivalent, depend for development upon the slow natural growth of population.

The problem is difficult because any considerable influx of immigrants, especially into older settled districts, necessarily causes displacement to a degree, and also dislocates employment conditions, at least until such time as unoccupied and unsultivated lands absorb the local surplus. This displacement and disturbance of conditions are less if one can steer immigration to the unoccupied West and the unoccupied areas of our own Province.

A country like Canada is, in this regard, between the devil and the deep sea. Canada must have population in order to have desirable growth, and our dependence at the present time and for years to come must be placed upon immigration. When the Liberal Government took office, Hon. Clifford Sifton, Minister of the Interior, inaugurated a vigorous immigration policy, which turned the tide of British and American immigration into Western Canada by bold and original advertising over this continent and Europe. The result has been that since January 1st, 1897, there have come into Canada 1,219,943 immigrants. (These immigrants brought into the country, exclusive of personal luggage, effects to the value of $67,442,352, not to speak of their value as producers of soil wealth and consumers of the commercial and industrial products of established sections of Canada. If each immigrant represented the production of even one hundred additional bushels of wheat, that would represent a hundred million bushels, which, exported, and netting sixty cents per bushel, would represent sixty million dollars added to the commercial life blood of the country.

There is, therefore, no gainsaying the advantage of immigration, especially in regard to Western development. In an interivew with a Peterborough gentleman, published in yesterday's Examiner, we learn of the tremendous inpour of United States farmers in search of our fertile lands. Thus do we see a reversal under the energetic immigration policy of the Liberal Government of the conditions which prevailed under Conservative rule. The United States census of 1901 shows that 1,181,255 of the population of that country were born in Canada. For eighteen years under Conservative rule Canada was losing to the United States the flower of her young men. Under Liberal rule, with an intelligently administered immigration policy, the conditions are changed, and we are getting back in volume, if not in person, the population Canada formerly lost to the United States.

The Eastern Provinces depend less largely, of course, upon immigration, and it is here that the problem becomes more complicated. As remarked, new arrivals mean a certain degree of displacement, as must be the case till adjustment ensues. In the process of adjustment and of absorption of new elements of population there is likely to be conflict of interests, and, at times, hardship. This condition is further complicated by the fact that among our new citizens, in spite of the greatest care, there will be found some undesirables who, fortunately, bear but a small relation to the total volume. This, it seems, cannot be avoided. In cheese production we have culls; we have culls in fruit-growing, and in many families there is a black sheep; so that, with a large arrival of immigrants, there is bound to be a certain proportion of never-do-wells, such as we find in every population.—to be a nuisance and burden to the industrious and prudent.

We need population in Canada, but it must be of the kind we want—population that will take to the soil, where there are unbounded opportunities for all that may come, without shouldering anybody aside. But we have enough mechanics, artizans and skilled labourers for our present needs, at least till the growth of population in the West overtakes production and skilled labour capacity.

The undesirable and morally, mentally and physically unfit element may filter in in spite of restrictions, but it must be dealt with kindly, but, if need be, firmly. For our own unfortunate and criminal we must assume responsibility, but it is too much to ask us to accept with gratitude the pauperised and criminal element of even the Mother Country, and we aim to limit and prevent their establishment on our soil.

The Government restrictions as applied to immigration seem to be rigid enough, but it is shown that they are sometimes evaded and persons manage to pass who should not come into the country. Before the advent of cement concrete nobody ever saw the dam that did not have leaks.

The immigration regulations say that no immigrant shall be permitted to land in Canada between Dec. 1, and Feb. 15, who does not have at least $50 in money and after the last date $25. "No immigrant shall be permitted to land," who is feeble-minded epileptic or insane, nor the deaf and dumb or infirm or the afflicted with contageous or loathsome or incurable disease. "No person shall be permitted to land" who is a pauper or destitute. Railway and steamship companies who may succeed in landing any person in the forbidden class is compellable to depart them at their own expense within two years of arrival. Any immigrant, who, within two years becomes a public charge may be deported.

Under these regulations many persons have been deported and are being deported. The immigration laws and regulations do not permit the immigration of undesirables. We need immigration to people our lands and we can only have the population by bringing them in under as strict regulation as possible and it the undesirables slip in they must be dealt with and deported as the regulations provide.

To build up Canada we must have people to occupy our vacant lands. Let us rush in immigrants, industrious and willing to work, by the million, if they will only go on the land. We cannot get too many of that kind.

HOW SIFTON GOT RICH.

No public man in Canada has been more assailed by the glib cry of "graft" and "grafter" than the Hon. Clifford Sifton, Minister of the Interior for many years in the Liberal Cabinet. He is known to be a man of wealth, and the envious and his political enemies assert that he has made it dishonestly—must have done so—made it through his official position.

In another place on this page is an article written by a fair writer—not a personal friend—for there have been hot words between the writer and Mr. Sifton—nor a political friend—but by just a fair, plain, honest writer. It is well worth reading as showing the truth about a much-maligned man. From one end of Canada to the other, Mr. Sifton has been spoken of by his political opponents as the Great Grafter, and, as the facts are, libellously so spoken of. He is again a candidate for the riding of Brandon, and the storm of abuse has again broken out. Mr. Sifton has been silent under these reproaches, because he know that the charges made were false. that he made his money honestly—and rapidly—by utilising the opportunities of profit as a man of ability, enterprise and boldness would use them.

The article referred to shows that before entering public life Mr. Sifton made $10,000 a year from his profession, the law. It shows that, before his entry into official life, he bought at twenty-five cents per share three millions acres of land from the Canada Northwest Land Company, formed before Mr. Sifton became a Minister. This was in the days of the cloud of depression of land values, that rested on the West under Conservative rule. When Mr. Sifton becomes Minister of the Interior, conditions were all changed; the boom days replaced the blue days. Every property holder in the Northwest had his land greatly increased in value. Mr. Sifton, the man, profited, with millions of others, by what Mr. Sifton, the Minister, had done. He sold his lands, bought at twenty-five cents a share, for 280 cents a share, and cleared by the transaction $100,000. By a fortunate purchase of Northern Pacific stock, a matter clearly outside his official jurisdiction, he purchased shares at a low figure, and sold at a tremendous advance—at the top of the market—clearing, in this perfectly legitimate way, $160,000.

These are examples of the way in which Mr. Sifton's well-informed foresight led him to make investments that would pay. They show that the charges of graft flung at Mr. Sifton are without foundation in fact, though they are as well founded as the wholesale parrot-repeated charges of graft hurled against the Liberal Government, without any justification in fact.

The circumstances show the tendency of the popular mind to regard, in common with the political critic, the man who becomes wealthy, especially in public life, as a man who made his money by questionable methods, when he actually may have made it, and very probably did, as Mr. Sifton did his, quite legitimately—made it, as Mr. Sifton did, by looking ahead, seizing the opportunity, and making his turn-over at the right time.

Successes and failures in making money occur in every walk of life—due to business ability and wise use of opportunity, or to slack of these qualities. One man buys a farm on credit, prospers, and grows rich, without "grafting," too, because he took the right way. Another man has a farm given to him; he makes a failure, and grows poor. One has business ability, industry, energy, good judgment; the other lacks business ability and all the qualities that bring success.

AFTER MONTEITH, DUFF.

Sir James Whitney's new title does not make him bold enough to open any of his constituencies to retain Hon. Mr. Monteith's services as Minister of Agriculture. Though Mr. Monteith was unable to control the live stock of North Perth, he was a capable and broad-minded administrator of his department. When he was defeated at the general elections he wished to retire, but Mr. Whitney urged him to remain. Apparently no seat could be safely opened for Mr. Monteith except West Simcoe, which is hopelessly Conservative, and Mr. Duff held that, and evidently would not retire, except to recontest the seat as Minister of Agriculture. In Mr. Monteith's retirement the portfolio of Agriculture loses the distinction of being held by capable men like Dryden and his worthy successor Mr. Monteith. It gains nothing by the change. Mr. Duff's highest qualification for the post seems to be that he represents a safe seat. After Monteith, Duff and the deluge to the Department of Agriculture.

THE ROORBACK CAMPAIGN.

Our Conservative friends are beginning the roorback campaign early, though their campaign literature is stuffed full enough of deception from straight falsification of facts to mandacious innuendo to constitute a chronic roorback. But what was regarded as the grandest stroke of all, the Grand Trunk Pacific lie, has had its sting pulled before it was used. It was to be to the effect that the Grand Trunk Pacific was to be abandoned.

The Toronto News, while preaching purity of election methods on its editorial page, contained on its front news page a hint of the infamous and unpatriotic plot that was hatching—of the mine of mendacity set ready to be sprung when it would be thought the time was ripe. We all remember the La Presse purchase plot, that fizzled in 1904. The plot exposed by Hon. G. P. Graham at Guelph was, though the intention was good, bungled by being from the viewpoint of the plotters, prematurely exposed.

The Conservative party have in this campaign simply continued the policy of scandal they pursued for six months in the last Parliament—charges of "graft" and scandals galore, but no proofs adduced.

From this time the Opposition despairing in the face of defeat, will doubtless bring forth other charges, other roorback, as foundationless as the Grand Trunk Pacific ghost story.

No fear need be felt about the Grand Trunk Pacific. Its building will go on to completion. As if in anticipation of the exposure of the plot, the despatches to-day state that tenders for car shops and round houses for the Winnipeg terminals for the G. T. P., were opened at Ottawa yesterday. On the roadbed work will go on all winter, giving employment to thousands.

The total amount paid out so far by the commission for construction work has been forty millions of dollars. The work is going on, and will go on rapidly.

The electors should pay no head to alarmist stories about this great national enterprising collapsing.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

"I do not believe," says Saturday Night, "that Mr. Borden ever entertained the idea, from the first moment of his entry on the Conservative leadership, that he could possibly reach office until Sir Wilfrid Laurier had run his course."

It was a commission appointed by the Liberal Government that brought in the civil service report, and another commission, two out of three of whose members were appointed by the Government, has just brought in a report showing the injury that results from running the Intercolonial on the plan that has been in use since its construction. At least it can't be said this Government is afraid to let the truth be known.—Montreal Herald.

How Hon. Clifford Sifton Made His Money Honestly

His Home Town, Brandon, Gives The Lie to the "Grafter" Charge Of His Enemies—Mr. E. W. Thompson of "The Boston Transcript" Tells How He Made His Money—A Foundationless Slander Refuted

Boston, Sept. 7.—The Transcript publishes the following interesting and illuminative references to the career of Hon. Clifford Sifton from Mr. E W Thomson, its Canadian correspondent:

Brandon has also, it not the greatest, at any rate almost the best known man in the Dominion. Tories will allege that I should say the most notorious. Certainly the most reviled by the political enemies. Certainly almost the most esteemed as a tower of strength by his political friends. I mean the Hon. Clifford Sifton, formerly Minister of the Interior, the man who turned the tide of European and American immigration into this country by bold and ingenious advertising all over the old world and the new. As I have not been on terms of amiability with Mr. Sifton for about three years past, or since we had hot words about his retirement from the Laurier Ministry, it is conceivable that what I am going to tell about him may be read in Boston and throughout Canada as a piece of mere information arising from no personal prejudice in his favour. There is something in the soul of a fair writing-man which requires him to go out of his way to resist truths creditable to a much maligned individual, even if that person be among his unfriends.

Mr. Sifton's Wealth

From end to end of Canada I have heard Clifford Sifton spoken of as The Great Grafter—of course by his party opponents. An eminent journalist, now of Collier's Weekly, who crossed the Dominion for The Transcript some years ago, was very much impressed by the much reviling of Sifton, a man still in his forties. He is reputed very rich. He lives obviously at the rate of surely not less than twenty thousand dollars a year. He has a very comfortable house in Ottawa, another among the Thousand Islands, a steam yacht, some auto cars, and like Malvolio, everything handsome about him. The question put incessantly by the political opponents is, "How did he get it?" Because he has never once condescended to explain; because he is veritably a Man of Iron in silently enduring attack, his silence has been construed as evidence against him—construed as proof of multitudinous innuendoes and allegations that he "got it" illegitimately, by playing into the hands of friends and cronies who are asserted to have been enabled, by his adroit collusion, to plunder the public lands and timber and mines that were formerly under his administration.

Too Proud to Explain

It has appeared that Mr. Sifton regarded his administrative honour as sufficiently vindicated (1) by the fact that no man has ever ventured to stand up in Parliament and make a direct charge against it on him; (2) by the fact that every transaction under his administration was regular to the minutest item. But that he was not thus sufficiently vindicated a public opinion has long been manifest to many, including the present writer. The average independent elector could not but be impressed by the continual allegation of his enemies that he was silent because he could not satisfactorily explain "how he got it." This silence has given weight to scandal, suspicion, condemnation of "deals" which, perfectly regular and explicable in themselves, came into question only because some of Sifton's party had secured good concessions legally and by putting in the highest tenders at public competition. He was accused of getting "rake-offs," because it was only by that foul theory that his enemies professed to be able to account for his seeming wealth. Point was given to all their insinuations by their constant assertion that he left Brandon in 1896 not only poor, but a bankrupt. In all parts of Canada and even in Boston men have told me this. To this assertion there could be no answer, so far as I knew. The statement seemed true, since it was never denied. Upon that stood all the fabric of allegation against him, as the fabled pyramid stood on its apex. Myself, I believed until yesterday that he did leave Brandon poor and a bankrupt in 1896. It was in vain to say that that might be true, and yet that he might have become wealthy legitimately, while a Minister, by doing what made many other shrewd men wealthy in the nineties, viz., by buying stocks low on margin, or otherwise, and selling them high during the prolonged ten-year boom.

Straight all his Life

Well, I wanted to get to the bottom of this business in Brandon. Therefore I inquired among the business men of the place. They declared that Clifford Sifton has been straight in financial transactions ever since they knew him—viz., since his boyhood. They declared that he was a man of property and considerable wealth in ready money when he left Brandon in 1896 to join Laurier's Cabinet.

Mr. A C Fraser, a wealthy merchant of the place, formerly Mayor, allows me to use his name as that of one who has known Sifton intimately since boyhood, and who says that Sifton had for years before leaving Brandon an income of at least $10,000 a year (as a lawyer, a salary of some thousands as Attorney-General of Manitoba, considerable landed property, and was actually the possessor of $60,000 cash when he moved to Ottawa and joined the Laurier armament.

Where it Came From

As to how Sifton made the rest of his money, Mr. Fraser says that he personally knows of two transactions, both perfectly outside the domain of the Interior Department. Sifton and a few private friends, being convinced that the west was about to see a great and permanent boom, bought up a large part of the stock of the Canada N. W. Land Company at 26 cents on the dollar. This company was formed long before he became a Minister. It bought three million acres of C.P.R. lands. Its managers could not sell. After the boom came, Sifton and his friends, he being the principal holder among them, sold the lands so well that they realised 280 cents for their 26 cents per share. He made about $100,000 profit. No man could gain anything more fairly, since the prescience foresaw the advance his own energy created.

Again, said Mr. Fraser, Mr. Sifton bought Northern Pacific stock, one obviously wholly outside the administrative jurisdiction, very shortly before the immense advance due to the Harriman-Hill struggle for possession. He sold out at $160,000 profit at the top of the market. And Mr. Fraser would call attention to the fact that Sifton, in these affairs, and in others he knew of, though not so intimately of their particulars, had not in any sense been a gambler on the stock market, but had simply invested on what his own well-informed foresight taught him must rise.

A Most Creditable Thing

Now, as to the alleged bankruptcy of Sifton in Brandon. This year, says Mr. Fraser, springs out of a speculative land transaction, into which Sifton, at 21 years old, entered with a number of older men as associates. That was in the boom in 1881-3. They got stuck on the property, which carried improvements. Believing that they might ultimately pull out without loss, they borrowed $10,000 on mortgage from the commissioners of the Winnipeg sinking fund. Because the subsequent depression was much more lengthy and severe than any of the parties had foreseen, the associates could not duly pay up principal and interest to the sinking fund. The commissioners got judgment. Sifton, still a mere boy, was the only one of the lot in the least able to satisfy the judgment. The commissioners offered to take from him the whole mortgaged property and one thousand dollars. He accepted.

Owing to a change of municipal Government in Winnipeg the sinking fund commissioners were changed. The new men delayed the settlement which their predecessors had arranged. Meantime they held the mortgaged property. Mr. Fraser says that had Sifton held it as could probably have sold it at a profit. But the commissioners let its condition run down. Sifton meantime became immersed in politics, and as busy a man as Canada contained. It was not till he was about to join Laurier's Ministry, in 1896, that the commissioners pressed the judgment they had long before held against himself and others. Then they agreed with the lawyers to take $2,500 and the entire mortgaged property in full settlement. Sifton paid the money. Thus he got finally rid of the dead horse his elders had caused him to take a share in when he was twenty-one years old. Where did he do wrong? asks Mr. Fraser. Was the transaction not entirely creditable to him?

Detraction Should Cease

Now, I never saw or heard of Mr. Fraser till Saturday last. He is a man of evidently high intelligence, respected in Brandon, and spoken well of by the lifelong political opponents of Sifton. With this narration of what he declares to be well-known facts, related here, so far as I can remember what he stated, surely the whole pyramid of detraction against Clifford Sifton ought to come rightside up. It cannot but be a matter of some gratulation to the Canadians of Boston that one of the chief men of the Dominion acknowledged by all partisans of the among its foremost intellects, should be satisfactorily cleared of foul imputations under which he has long rested, as it is steely contempt of slanderous attacks on his administrative character.

SELWYN FARMERS ATTEND IN LARGE NUMBERS MR. STRATTON'S MEETING

The Largest in That District of Mr. Stratton's Political Career---Pointed Addresses by Messrs. R. H. Leary, Geo. A. Gillespie, F. D. Kerr and Hon. Mr. Stratton

The largest political meeting that has been addressed by Hon. Mr. Stratton in Twenty years in the Village of Selwyn, assembled in the Temperance Hall on Thursday night, to listen to Mr. Stratton and his friends in a discussion of the political issues of the day, and a presentation of the reasons that should influence the electors of West Peterborough in returning Mr. Stratton to the House of Commons in the present contest.

At eight o'clock the meeting was organized by the election to the chair of Mr. Fred McKee, who in a few pleasant remarks called the meeting to order and invited Mr. T. G. Gillespie to address them.

Mr. T. G. Gillespie.

Mr. Gillespie said they had a large meeting, and there would be a large majority in favour of their old representative, Mr. Stratton, on October 26. (Cheers). They had no excuses to offer, and no apologies to make for the man who had who had represented them for years, who had done more directly for them, and had secured positions for more young men, sons of Peterborough electors, than any other man they had ever had to represent them. (Applause). They had experienced now twelve years of progressive prosperity in the Dominion of Canada, and they would agree with him, that the present was not the time to make a change of policy of leadership in the Government. The farmers had especially benefited by this policy, the dairy interests in particular. By the improvement of transportation facilities, by the system of cold storage on the railways and the steamships, they were now able to have the products of their dairies, their cheese factories, their orchards, and their meats delivered on the docks at Liverpool in the best possible condition, and commanding the highest market value. The Department of Agriculture had certainly deserved well of the interest which it specially represented, and they hoped that it would be continued in the interests of the farmers of the Dominion under its present splendid administration. As for their friend, their old representative, Mr. Stratton, he only trusted and believed that the people of this district would be found united and enthusiastic on October 26, in rolling up a big majority for J. R. Stratton in his old constituency of West Peterborough. (Loud applause).

He had no sympathy with the methods that characterized the campaign so far as it had been conducted on Mr. Burnham's behalf, and by that gentleman himself. The people were vitally and directly interested in public policies that affected their interests in agriculture and business affairs, and they didn't want to have their time consumed by threshing out in this contest of a lot of baseless fabrications that nobody believed, and nobody could be made to believe. They wanted to consider live subjects that concerned their welfare and the conduct of public affairs that affected it. They knew from their experience that the Liberal party in 1896 had pledged itself to reduce the taxation of the country and they faithfully and honourably redeemed that pledge, and that was one among many other reasons why the farmers of this riding felt compelled to extend their confidence again to Hon. Mr. Laurier, so that the work of progress and good government, might be continued uninterrupted. (Cheers).

Mr. R. H. Leary.

The chairman then called to the platform Mr. R. H. Leary, who said that he was always ready to get up and say a good word in a good cause, and they would all agree with him that in working for the return to the House of Commons in this election of their old, tried and true representative, J. R. Stratton, they were engaged in a good cause. (Applause). He had known Mr. Stratton for a good many years; in fact, they had been small boys together, and as they knew, he was the same old Jim Stratton today that he was when he was in knickerbockers. He (Mr. Stratton) had made himself so well known in every quarter of this county, by his personal activity in looking after its interests, that his name was a household word. And they all knew what he was personally—kindly, unaffected, accessible to every decent man, and always ready to do a favour to anyone who asked it, if it was a just request. (Cheers). As they well knew Mr. Stratton, while their representative, had secured for them good roads, had procured the construction of bridges and other public works of benefit to them, and had looked after their interests in every way possible. He had done more for the welfare of the people of West Peterborough than any other man who had ever represented it. And when such a man came before them, it was up to them to get together with a hearty good will and show what they thought of him by rolling up a big majority for Hon. Mr. Stratton on October 26. (Loud applause). And when he was elected they would find that he would represent the whole riding, and give liberal consideration to every man, be he Conservative or Liberal. If there were any favours to be secured, if there were any advantages to be gained for anybody in Peterborough in public employment or otherwise, they would not be monopolized by a few personal friends, but would be equitably and fairly awarded. That was the kind of man they had in Hon. Mr. Stratton, and they would all agree that it was better for them to elect a man whom they all knew and whom they knew all about, than a man who didn't know them and of whom they knew very little indeed. (Loud applause). What had Mr. Burnham ever done for them? But you can go from one end of the county to the other and every where you will find the substantial evidence of the interest that Mr. Stratton has taken, and the successful work that he has performed for your welfare. He alluded to what agriculture owed to the wise policy of the present Government in extending and improving transportation facilities, and favourable tariff regulations that had created an increased value for every product of the farm, and that had been a source of increased prosperity for everyone in West Peterborough. (Cheers). It was for them to see that such a powerful and progressive administration was continued in its work for the country. He did not see how they could help going to the polls October 26, and piling up a substantial majority for J. R. Stratton, to show their appreciation of what he had done for them in the past and their confidence in what they expected him to do for them in the future. (Loud cheers).

Mr. F. D. Kerr.

Mr. Kerr said that he didn't come before them to presume to inform them about matters concerning which they were probably as well informed as himself, but simply to discuss with them in a friendly way public matters in which they were equally and alike concerned. Time was, when possibly the city man could give some pointers to his country neighbour, from the advantage of reading his daily paper and a chance to keep somewhat better posted. But that time had passed, and the people of Selwyn had now their daily mail and were kept in just as close touch with the progress of affairs as their neighbours in the city. They were called upon in this election to decide between the Government in power and the politicians who sought to replace them—between two men who appealed to them for the honour of representing them in the House of Commons, at Ottawa. The Liberal administration had been in power for the past twelve years, and during that time, due to their wise and progressive policy, to their intelligent appreciation of the needs of the people and their understanding of the means to be employed to serve those needs; to their liberal public enterprise; to a statesmanlike adjustment of tariff regulations, and to an energetic and progressive development of our transportation facilities, this country had made tremendous strides in the advancement of its wealth and progress. (Applause). As for the men, referring to their prospective member, most of them here had known him since he was in knee pants, and boy and man, they had always known him for a friend. For twenty years Mr. Stratton had demonstrated to the people of West Peterborough his earnest disposition and his splendid capacity to promote their interests and welfare on the floor of the Legislature, in the Cabinet of the Province, and in the practical details of the administration of provincial affairs. He had made himself familiar with their needs, and had been ever active in devising public means of serving them. He had been ever ready to expend his time and energy and embark his means in promoting the welfare of any enterprise that promised to create employment and forward progress in the city and county of Peterborough, and that was why they found to-day in every quarter of the riding a warm and enthusiastic disposition on the part of the people to show their friendship for the man, and their appreciation of his work at the polls on October 26. (Loud applause). He had no wish to disparage Mr. Burnham personally, but was it not a fact that if he were to enter the room then and now, there was hardly a man present who would be able to identify him, and he (the speaker) doubted if Mr. Burnham would be able to call any one of them by name. Did they not recognize the superiority of Mr. Stratton's claims to their support? The man whom they intimately knew, who had spent his life in active labours in which they were interested, and by which they had benefited, who had kept in close and constant touch with all the affairs that concerned or affected their welfare, would surely prove at Ottawa an active and a powerful agent for the protection and promotion of every interest of the people of West Peterborough? (Cheers). So much for the personality of the candidates. Now as to the political side of it, he believed that there was nothing better for this country than a good Conservative, except a good Liberal. (Laughter). He recognized that there were just as good men, and just as sincere and patriotic men in one party as in the other, and he had no patience with the prejudice, or the ignorance, or the malice, whatever it was, that was always assuming that all the good men were embraced in one's own party, and all the black sheep herded in the pasture of their opponents. (Applause). Let us rather survey conditions as they have been and as they are, and review facts that admit of no dispute or controversy. When Sir Wilfrid Laurier came into office in 1896, the whole country, its agricultural, its commercial, and its industrial interests, were staggering under the weight of universal depression. There seemed to be no future and no hopeful outlook before the country. Millions had been expended upon the Canadian Pacific, and in other ways to get settlement to the Great West, but they had found the settlers sent up here would not stay, and the outlook seemed hopeless. The Liberal Government had recognized the influences that had brought progress to a standstill. They secured the reduction of freight rates and the improvement of conditions in the West that brought back the stream of settlement that had been diverted to the United States. They laid the advantages of the country in an intelligent manner by advertising and other means before the people of Great Britain so successfully that a strong tide of the most desirable class of immigrants soon set in to populate the new country in the West and create prosperity for themselves and for the country. They saw that a great crop was no advantage to the West unless there made that market, accessible at could be found for it a market, and reasonable cost. So in addition to expanding the markets in the Eastern provinces by the revival and extension of manufacturing industries, they gave an intelligent attention to the work of creating and widening the means of transportation, by the erection of lighthouses and other facilities, and by the deepening of the St. Lawrence channels, so that to-day great ocean steamships are able to make Montreal a port of entry. They had devised the preferential trade policy with Great Britain, and the dormant interest of the people of the Mother Country was aroused. As a result, our trade went forward by leaps and bounds. The western prairies were rapidly populated and their enormous products brought wealth into the country, and unskilled thews to supply their great and growing needs from the manufactories of Ontario, creating a great field of occupation for skilled and unskilled labour, that in turn reflected prosperity upon the great agricultural community of this and other eastern provinces. Our exports had increased from $50,000,000 in 1896 to $121,000,000 in 1908, and our total trade with Great Britain today is $280,000,000 a year, against $85,000,000 twelve years ago. Does not such a record speak volumes for the wisdom and the grasp of public affairs of the Government that had accomplished such splendid results? (Applause). They knew that in private enterprises, and even on the farm, a great deal depended upon the kind of man you selected for the job. One man might be honest and fairly capable, but another by his superior ability and enterprise would bring about vastly more profitable results. It was in recognition of this fact, and in deference to the suggestions of good sound business sense that they would keep Sir Wilfrid Laurier in power to continue and enlarge the great work for the people upon which he had engaged with such conspicuous success and to their great advantage. (Applause). In the lives of all nations, there came crises in which their future hung in the balance, and at such times it had always been found some man would be raised up to lead the progress of his country. It was so in our early history, when we were a straggling aggregation of provinces, without harmony or community of interests or action. Sir John Macdonald was the man of the hour, and he had given to his country unification and a national life, and at the head of the statesmen of the day had given Canada a good advance toward the high destiny which he realized was before this young country. With all his faults and frailties, looking back at his patriotism, his faith in his country, and his work for its progress, they must recognize that he was in his day the greatest man of them all. (Cheers). After the passing of Sir John had come an era of smaller men who lacked the large measure of comprehensive and progressive statesmanship that the concerns of Canada demanded, and progress began to flag and interests to suffer. Then providence had raised up Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the greatest man in public life to-day, not only in Canada, but perhaps in the British Empire. (Cheers). Under his sagacious leadership, progressive enterprise, and vigorous activity in the promotion of the public weal, Canada had achieved an unexampled prosperity. In vigorous physical health, sound and true in patriotic devotion to his country, and endowed with a genius that made him a giant in the intellectual world, possessed of a singular faculty for the capable handling of the public affairs, and of an unblemished integrity, he believed that the people of Canada possessed in Sir Wilfrid Laurier a national asset such as few countries of this age enjoyed. (Applause). He sketched the achievements of the Government in the progress of the Grand Trunk Pacific railway enterprise. They had been given a stable Government, and had attained for Canada a credit abroad that was exemplified by the fact that in six months of the present year there had been brought in to this country to be utilized in municipal works, in public utilities and in industrial enterprises the great sum of $143,000,000. And they were now asked by Mr. Burnham to replace the great leader who had accomplished such magnificent achievement for the progress and prosperity of Canada, a man who in the last election had come from his native province from an appeal to the people who knew him best and who could best estimate his character and capacity, without even a seat for himself in Parliament. After devoting some time to the baseless misrepresentations of the Government in connection with the management of the public domain, the Crow's Nest railway subsidy, the Ross rifle charges, showing their absurdity and utter want of foundation, he concluded with a strong appeal to them to return Hon. J. R. Stratton to Parliament to support Sir Wilfrid Laurier in the maintenance of the policy which had done so much to promote their welfare, and resumed his seat amid applause.

Hon. Mr. Stratton.

Hon. Mr. Stratton on coming forward was received with a demonstration of applause that gave convincing testimony to his unabated popularity in this quarter of his old riding. He opened his remarks by drawing attention to the direct advantages which the people of West Peterborough had received from the operation of the tariff and trade policy of the Government, in the notable increase in the value of farm properties, the replacing of the old-time mortgage by the balance in the farmer's bank, and the general prosperity, the evidences of which confronted them every day throughout this country; and this had been the result of the experience of the past eight or ten years. He was glad to meet them, Conservative and Liberal alike, and he appealed to them equally for their support, which he believed would be generously extended to him on this occasion as it had always been during the eighteen years that he had had the honour of serving them in the Legislature and the Government of the province. When he was running for the Legislature he had told them that when elected he would represent the whole people of the county, irrespective of their political proclivities, and as they knew, he had devoted his efforts and his energies to the promotion of the interests of the county, and of the people as a whole. He repeated the same assurance to them now, and would promise that if elected to the House of Commons, as he undoubtedly would be (cheers), he would faithfully and impartially represent the whole of his constituents and not any section of them. He would vote at all times for what in his judgment was best calculated to advance the interests of the county and to develop the progress of West Peterborough, and if at any time his action should not meet the approval of the people of this riding, if his course should not command their support, he would, on sufficient evidence of this, feel it his duty to return into their hands the commission which they entrusted to him. (Applause). He had travelled the roads of this county in political campaigns pretty extensively during the past twenty-five years, before he was before them as a candidate and during the 18 years that he had represented them in public life, and at no time had he been favoured with better attended of more representative meetings, or a more general and generous an expression of confidence in him, in the sincerity of his ambition to serve their interests in Parliament, and in his capacity to give performance to the pledges with which he came before them. In the two addresses which he had sent out to the electors, and at his public meetings, he had set forth what he believed to be the duty and what ought to be the course of the member who represented them in Parliament. While reserving the right to exercise his independent judgment upon questions as they came up, and as in his view they might operate to the welfare or otherwise of the people of Peterborough, he had set forth an outline of constructive work, of practical matters, for the advantage and development of the local interests of Peterborough, which he would insist upon in the administration of the departments of the Government. His opponent, Mr. Burnham, had also issued an address, of which he would simply say, that it was beyond his (the speaker's) comprehension and, he believed, either too deep or too empty of meaning to convey to any elector of this county where Mr. Burnham stood and what his intentions were with regard to the concerns of the people of Peterborough. The only definite thing in it was that he desired the people for some mysterious and unexplained reason, to send him to Parliament. His (Mr. Stratton's) opponents, in their campaign had sought to introduce matters that concerned solely the Home Life Insurance Company, and had no connection with or bearing upon the issues that were before the people in this election. He explained this matter in detail, showing that it involved simply the loan of money to the insurance company, which they had subsequently paid back. In securing this money for the company, he had procured upon his own check the sum of $90,000, of which $60,000 had been used in the transaction by which the amalgamation of the companies had been secured. The remaining $10,000, which like the $60,000, was his own money, he had deposited to his own credit in his bank. That was all there was to it, and since that time he had been elected and re-elected to the presidency of the Home Life, whose directors were mainly leading Conservatives and leading public men of the Province of Ontario. Now, with regard to what really did concern them in this campaign he wanted them to carry their attention back to the period of 1896, and to recall the conditions that prevailed then and compare them with the conditions under which they were living to-day. They realized the splendid progress and prosperity that had come into their lives since 1896, through the construction of public enterprises and the intelligent readjustment of the tariff, and he cared not what they called the policy that had effected these results, whether a "National Policy" or what not—"a rose any other name would smell as sweet"; what they were interested in was the conditions that affected them and the tangible solid results that had been produced, and he was sure that, looking at the situation from that point of view, regarding it from an intelligent consideration of their own personal and material interests, they would hardly land their votes to the pulling down of the policies and the instruments which had done so much to forward their interests—to deliberately kill the goose that was laying golden eggs in the Ontario barnyard. (Applause). Sir John Macdonald's so-called National Policy was simply a horizontal protection of the highest kind, and it had proved a failure, either in promoting industry or in producing revenue. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, with rare sagacity and business acumen, had realized the deficiencies that had made this policy a failure, and he at once set about to remedy the defects. He so shaped the revenue policy of the nation that instead of looking to the United States, we looked to Great Britain for a market; he improved the conditions of the great channels of navigation and enlarged and made more convenient and accessible the means of transportation for trade and produce, and cheapened the cost of carrying to the markets of the world the products of our farms and factories. He caused to be perfected and extended the system of cold storage by rail and by water so that the products of the farm were delivered in Europe in the highest condition and commanded the highest prices in the markets there, and what was the result? Let us look at the record from the revenue returns of the country. In 18 years, to 1896, we sent abroad $18,827,928 worth of bacon and ham. In 12 years following 1896, that is to say under a Liberal administration, there were exported no less than $135,136,311 worth of these products. Similarly the exports for corresponding periods of butter were increased from $10,513,348 to $51,680,095; of cheese from $247,700,332—(Canada to-day leads the cheese trade of the world); and of wheat from $45,338,791 to $212,677,650, or in round numbers, in the aggregate of the products of the farm, from $200,000,000 to $640,000,000. Now, the farmers know what this meant to them—that this enormous sum of money had during the past twelve years been brought into this country, placed at their disposal, and by them expended, during the past twelve years. Those fluids did not go to the manufacturers but to the common sense, and to the pocket of the farmer. Would they lightly dispense with the agency and the agents by whose means, in the tariff policy and the public administration of the country, these great results had been achieved? He thought not. (Applause.) Then, they found that the capital invested in Canadian manufacturing establishments had increased in five years, from 1900 to 1905, from $446,916,487 to $833,616,833, or practically double. Then, we were going some on the road of progress. And how did that affect them? They had only to look at the industries that had been built up in Peterborough, such as the Lock Company, the Shovel and Tool Company, the Auger and Bit Company and other enterprises. Why even in his own Examiner business, a staff of ten employees had grown to ten to-day. The bulk of the wages of all the labour employed in all these enterprises went to create a market for the farmer, and into his pocket in return for the products of the farm and market garden. (Applause.) Now, there were no real political questions upon which to divide as of old. It was simply whether they preferred the present prosperity to the prospect of a return to the old conditions of stagnation and depression; whether they [illegible] capacity and enterprise in [illegible] men, or the restoration of [illegible] of careless incompetence; and on which of the two men before the could better serve the business interests in which their welfare and future progress were bound up. And in a candid review of these considerations we can appeal to their common sense, as to what was best for them, and who could best serve them. He thought it could safely be said that J. R. Stratton would be the next member for West Peterborough. (Loud cheers.) He reviewed the progress made in the postal service, which had doubled the usefulness, increased the revenue and reduced the cost of the system, and dwelt upon the practical advantage to the farmer of the rural free mail delivery, which they were about to enjoy, if no such unexpected calamity as the election of Mr. Burnham should befall them. (Laughter and cheers.) He referred to the disastrous panic which had visited the United States this year and caused so much suffering, and said Canada's light visitation from this cause had been due to the stability that had been given to our interests by the wise policy of the Government. He referred to the Temiscamingue Railway, in the organization of which he had no small share, and showed what it had done to make available vast new resources in a New Ontario, in the farm, the forest, and the mine. He spoke of the vast unproductive area in the west that was being made available for agricultural settlement by means of irrigation, and briefly described the features of the old age pension system. In conclusion he appealed to their support. He desired to go to Ottawa simply and solely in order that he might do something of a practical and profitable character to develop resources and public facilities and utilities in West Peterborough, by compelling attention to their wants and action in their behalf by the Government and by Parliament. He felt that he still retained undiminished the confidence which the people of this riding had for years extended to him, and that they would make his election sure in the present contest. He could assure them that all his effort and influence and all the ability he possessed would be employed, with all the energy of which he was capable, to demonstrate that they will have made no mistake in their choice. (Loud and prolonged applause.)

A vote of thanks was then tendered to Mr. McKee, and the meeting closed with three cheers for J. R. Stratton and three cheers for the King.

THE TROUPE DISBANDING.

Mr. Borden is, in this campaign, playing largely a "lone hand," and the party managers are working him to death. True, they furnished him an oratorical body guard of four provincial premiers and Hon. Mr. Hanna, Sir James Whitney's proxy, is the only stayer in the field. We may conclude that the last has been heard of the Borden group of travelling provincial premiers. Mr. Hazen was the first to be seized with home-sickness. Then Mr. Roblin suddenly awoke to the fact that, as the Globe points out with evident enjoyment, Ontario had no use for political descendants of Americus, even though they happen to be premiers, and now Mr. Bowser is on his way back to British Columbia, where many Conservatives are wishing he had remained. Mr. Bowser left last night for Vancouver, and Mr. Hanna is left blooming alone. British Columbia's Attorney-General is very confident that Mr. Borden is going to win, but how much reliance is to be placed on his prophecy may be gathered from the fact that he believes the Conservatives will gain six or seven seats in Nova Scotia. Strange to say, Mr. Bowser was not so cocksure about his own province.

MEETING OF EAGLE LAKE HUNT CLUB

To Be Held To-morrow Evening at Mr. Fitzgerald's Shop.

The Eagle Lake Hunt Club will hold a meeting on Saturday night at Mr. Geo. Fitzgerald's carriage shop at 7 o'clock. With the advent of the autumn season the members of the Club have caught the hunting fever and they will make plans for their pilgrimage to the north.

George Rowntree bought on Wednesday and Thursday 250 cattle for the Harris Abattoir Co. at following quotations: Steers and heifers, $3.75 to $4.75; cows, $2.50 to $4; canners and bulls, $1 to $2.50 per cwt. Mr. Rowntree stated that few cattle brought the higher quotation in each class.

Feeders and Stockers.

H. & W. Murby report a fair demand for feeders, 350 to 900 lbs. each this week, that is of good quality, and they further report that common stockers are plentiful and hard to cash, even at prices quoted. Messrs. Murby handled 250 cattle during the week at following quotations: Best feeders, 950 to 1050 lbs. each, at $3.60 to $3.85 per cwt.; best feeders, 800 to 950 lbs. each, at $3 to $3.30; best stockers, 650 to 800 lbs. each, at $2.50 to $3; medium stockers, 500 to 600 lbs. each, at $2.25 to $2.60; common stockers, 500 to 700 lbs. each, at $2 to $2.25 per cwt.

Milch Cows.

The number of cows sold during the week has been large, as will be seen by prices below. Prices ranged from $30 up to $70 each, there being four during the week that brought the latter price. Dealers report the average price at about $50 each, but it must be remembered that the quality of cows offered was better than usual.

Veal Calves.

Receipts during the week were light, with prices firmer for all of good quality. Prices ranged generally from $3 for inferior to $4.50 for good to choice. Extra choice new milk fed calves are worth $7 per cwt.; but there are few of them on sale.

Sheep and Lambs.

Receipts of lambs was large. Prices ranged from $4.25 to $5 per cwt., the latter price being for ewes and wethers of good quality. Export ewes $4.25 to $4.50; rams, $3.50 to $4 per cwt.

Hogs.

Receipts moderately large. Prices are quoted unchanged, but market easy with tendency of lower quotations. Selects $6.60, and $6.15 for lights.

Cheese Markets.

VANKLEEK HILL, Oct. 8.—There were 1041 boxes cheese boarded on Kanklook Hill Cheese Board here to-day. The price offered was 12c, and at this figure about five hundred boxes were sold on the board. The balance was held over, the salesman would not accept the price, but it was reported later that they sold on the street at the above price.

BROCKVILLE, Oct. 8.—At the weekly cheese board meeting here to-day, 3450 boxes colored and 1965 white, a total of 5415, were offered. The best offer was 12½c. None sold.

KINGSTON, Oct. 8.—There were 1200 boxes of cheese registered to-day, of which 1125 were colored. The sales made were at 12c to 12½c. A year ago the price paid was 14 1-16c.

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 8.—There were 1000 boxes white and 1125 colored offered at to-day's cheese board; 225 white and 775 colored were sold at 12½c, 370 at 12 1-16c and 280 at 12c.

CHATEAU PLANS IN SUIT.

Hon. Chas. Murphy Retained by New York Architect.

New York, Oct. 9.—The Herald says that Bradford Lee Gilbert, an architect with offices at No. 30 Broadway, had engaged Charles Murphy, the new Secretary of State in the Cabinet of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, to take legal action concerning the rejection of Mr. Gilbert as architect of the new Terminal hotel and station of the Grand Trunk Railway Co. in Ottawa, Canada, became known Wednesday.

Friends of Mr. Gilbert familiar with the facts said that he had worked for two years on plans for the Chateau Laurier, as the new hotel was to be called, and on the railroad station which was to form a part of it. These friends said that Mr. Gilbert has been engaged by a building company to design a structure to cost $2,500,000.

After the plans had passed into the custody of the building company Mr. Gilbert was informed that they were not satisfactory. In their stead appeared plans drawn by Ross & McFarlane, architects, of Montreal. It is asserted by friends of Mr. Gilbert that the Canadian architects prepared in two months plans strikingly similar to those on which Mr. Gilbert had worked for two years.

GO BACK AT HIGH WAGES.

Maximum to Be Paid to Returning C.P.R. Strikers.

Winnipeg, Oct. 9.—The following important notice was posted in the C.P.R. shop yesterday:

"It has been decided that all men returning to work shall receive the maximum rate of pay according to their classification.—P. G. Armstrong, general car foreman."

Nearly every mechanic who went out on strike in the C.P.R. shops two months ago has returned to work.

Ottawa, Oct. 9.—The majority of the local C.P.R. strikers have practically decided to ignore terms of settlement upon which Bell Hardy of the general committee called off the struggle. They are not only thoroughly disappointed with the terms of settlement, but have not as yet received any official circular from Hardy announcing just what those terms are, consequently they declare that they require more information on the matter before they return to work. They expected also to be given right to vote upon the question of acceptance or rejection of the conciliation board's award.

Struck by Trolley Wire.

London, Ont., Oct. 9.—As John Johnson of 86 King street and J. J. Coleman of the Pipe line road were crossing Dundas street on Wednesday night a trolley wire broke and fell, striking Mr. Johnson on the head. Mr. Johnson did not appear to be seriously hurt, but later he was again prostrated and had to be removed to Victoria Hospital, where he now lies in a precarious state. Coleman was not hurt.

Postmaster Gets Bail.

Cobourg, Oct. 9.—Richard Ralls, postmaster at Venelia, was brought here yesterday under arrest on charges of non-delivery of mail matter.

He was admitted to bail in the sum of $2,000, provided $1,000 by himself and $500 each by Charles Webster and John Field.

CARING FOR ELECTRIC MOTOR

Runs Under All Sorts of Discouraging Conditions—Should be Kept Clean

Special Electric News Service.

Schenectady, Oct. 9.—Of all the power giving engines invention has ever produced the electric motor requires the least attention. It will run under all sorts of discouraging conditions for days and days, and even years, with absolutely no attention beyond an occasional oiling. But, while the electric motor is a very rugged machine, it will, like any other machine, suffer from abuse and neglect.

The life of a steam or gas engine is a matter of a few years but an electric motor will run practically forever if it is well oiled. Motors, even after being the victims of fires floods and other disasters, have been cleaned up and set running just as good as before.

By observing the following hints says one of the General Electric engineers, electric motors will do their work long after their owners are dead:

The electric motor should be kept clean. Keep all dust and superfluous oil wiped off. See that the brushes bear firmly and evenly on the commutator. Occasionally wipe off the commutator with a cloth upon which a few drops of oil have been placed.

If for any reason the commutator gets rough, smooth it down with a piece of fine sandpaper. The commutator, when operating under the best conditions, will assume a glossy light chocolate colour.

See that the oil rings in the bearing revolve freely, and occasionally draw the oil off from the reservoir, clean it out with gasoline and refill with fresh oil.

After the brushes have once been set for sparkless commutation under normal load, they should not be changed.

In starting a motor, move the starting lever of the rheostat forward slowly and steadily. Never try to stop a motor by forcibly moving the rheostat lever backward. Always open the main switch first.

Occasionally feel of the various connections. If one is heated it indicates a loose joint and should be remedied at once.

Music and Drama

"BABES IN TOYLAND"

There are so many very delightful incidents occurring during the action of "Babes in Toyland," Victor Herbert and Glen MacDonough's great musical extravaganza, that one has to see this play, which was the one consequenously brilliant success of New York to properly appreciate it. Among the stage pictures which have attracted universal attention is the scene of Allan and Jane lost in the woods. This scene shows the children deserted by their false friends, who send them into the woods, hoping that they may get into the vale of Spiders and be destroyed. After they have wandered about for hours Allan sees a beautiful moth imprisoned in a spider's web. He releases the moth. This moth proves to be the Fairy Queen, who takes the form of a moth in order to take care of her subjects. The Fairy Queen flies away, and when Allan and Jane are sleeping in the mouth of the cave, causes a great spider to come down and weave a web over the cave's mouth to keep the bears from eating Allan and Jane up.

Every child as well as every grown person who does not see this magnificent extravaganza at the Grand next Tuesday, October 13, will miss the chance of seeing the most superbly artistic creation of years, which was so much the rage in New York that it filled the Majestic Theatre to overflowing for one year and a half.

There are twenty-two stage pictures in "Babes in Toyland," showing fairyland, and every one is the acme of art, the work of the celebrated scenic artist, John Young. These pictures are all so lovely and intricate in design that to decide which is the most gorgeous, one must judge for one's self.

Rev. Dr. Marsh's Fine Lecture On An Evening In The Skies

President of Astronomical Society Speaks to Large Audience at St. Paul's Church—Subject Was Greatly Enjoyed

WAS WELL ILLUSTRATED

Probably the most entertaining and instructive lecture ever given in Peterborough was that of the Rev. Dr. Marsh last evening at the opening meeting of the Royal Astronomical Society.

To accommodate the expected large audience, St. Paul's schoolroom was selected, thus affording every facility for the limelight apparatus. The pictures were of a most unique character, consisting mostly of photographs taken through the world's greatest telescopes. As each picture was thrown on the canvas the speaker directed attention to the main features and presented the most interesting information regarding them.

The telescopic photographs of portions of the heavens showed millions of stars never seen by the unaided eye. One of these pictures was most unique. It was of a piece of the Milky Way, equal to about that covered by the moon. To count the stars in this wee space would require days of laborious effort.

The chair was occupied by the vice-president of the society, Mr. Herbert Collier, who told of the progress they were making, and mentioned in particular the work of several of the members. Mr. H. O. Fisk had fitted up at his home a most complete observatory for the taking of time, and his work was so accurate that errors of but one-fifth of a second had been made. In connection with this work the longitude of Peterborough had been determined exactly.

Rev. Dr. Marsh's deep knowledge and familiarity with his subject and the ingenious faculty he possesses of making clear his statements, have the tendency to transplant the voluntary mind into the regions beyond the earth. On the imaginary journey conducted by the reverend doctor, his hearers in imagination travelled over the surface of the moon, the various plants and the stars, and looked upon the fiery face of the sun. Photographs were displayed upon the canvas of the heavenly bodies, bearing testimony to the changes brought about by the ages of the past.

The speaker dwelt chiefly upon the moon and sun, with their changed, colossal surfaces, giving facts and figures, substantiated by eminent authorities, as well as his own personal observations. His address was delightfully interspersed with humour, making a pleasing contrast to the instructive and much appreciated address.

In the initial stages of the lecture Rev. Dr. Marsh showed views of the earth, explained its motions and its relation to the various other planets and then passed on to the other bodies. The eclipses of the moon were shown and described. The penumbra and the umbra—the partial and total shadows—were plainly visible upon the canvas. The introduction of all the planets on the screen was an interesting part of the programme. Mercury, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, Neptune and the earth, accompanied by their satellites, were all commented on by the speaker, who gave their relative sizes and distances from the solar body around which they revolved.

The opinion entertained by many that the planet Mars is inhabited, was questioned by Dr. Marsh. No astronomer of note, he said, would now make the statement that it is in that respect, similar to our earth. However, from the best observations conducted by men of science it has been demonstrated that the conditions existing on the distant planet are somewhat like those of our own. The fact that it is surrounded by an atmosphere for instance, and seasons come and go, although they are twice as lengthy as ours. Jupiter, from its intense indirect light and heat, could not possibly be inhabited.

Many excellent photographs of the surface of our satellite, the moon, were displayed. The mountain ranges, the river channels, the sea beds, the craters of the volcanoes were all distinctly shown. There is a mountain on the moon 27,000 feet high, and a crater of a volcano 1,,700 feet deep and scores of miles in width.

In connection with the sun the speaker showed drawings of the hydrogen flames which are constantly shooting off from that great source of light and heat. These flames, he termed, the grandest sight one could wish to see, and he also displayed on the canvas photographs of sun spots due to the explosion of gases.

The reverend doctor concluded his lecture by reference to a few of the constellations. The "Ursa Minor" and "Andromeda" were presented upon the screen, and last, but not least, the giant "Orion," which is considered the finest constellation visible in the heavens. He explained that it took light, travelling at the rate of 186,000 miles per second, 10,000 years to come from the latter named constellation, so great was its distance from the earth.

These are but a few of the many interesting statements made last night by the speaker, who more than satisfied his intelligent audience.

PRACTICAL WORK WITH HOLSTEINS

New York Farmer Makes $92.36 Per Cow—His Experiments

E. A. Whitford, of Adams Center, N.Y., makes known the following statistics concerning his dairy of Holsteins for the year 1907. The farm comprises 80 acres, and there were 21 cows in the herd until October, when three were sold. Four of the 21 were farrow. The figures follow:

Number of pounds of milk 174,645; average price per hundred pounds $1.27 1-5; daily yield of milk for the year, 405 pounds; calves sold when three days old, $59.95; average income per cow, selling 21 for the entire herd, $92.36.

Included in the dairy is a six-year-old cow, Pet of Edgeton, which freshened December 27th, 1907, and from January 25th to March 9th included, has given 3,099 3-5 lbs. of milk, or an average of 70 44-100 lbs. daily. Under tests her milk showed the presence of 4 high per cent. of butter fat.

During last winter three experiments on this point were made at the Dairy Department of the Ontario Agricultural College, with the following results: From 7,298 lbs. of milk were made 735 lbs. of green cheese. The whey remaining was separated, and the cream ripened and churned in the usual way. The product was 20 1-4 lbs. of butter, or at the rate of 3 lbs. of butter per 1,000 lbs. of whey. Assuming that there is all in the plan which its most ardent advocates say there is, it would appear that a factory handling less than 10,000 lbs. of milk daily would not find it profitable.—J. H. The Labour Conditions In The City Of Peterborough For The Month Of August

Public Improvements Under Way—Building Trades Active

CHURCHES ARE GOING UP

The report of Ald. W. J. Johnston on the general conditions of the labour market in Peterborough, for the month of August, is as follows:

During August activity prevailed in the city and district. Outside work, particularly in the building trades, was more active than in any previous month of the year. While none of the industries were rushed with work they were all running full time, and in nearly all instances employing full staffs. Many public improvements are under way. A considerable number of houses and barns are being erected throughout the district. The Normal and Collegiate School buildings are now completed and ready for occupation, but the armouries are still under construction, also the Roman Catholic Church. The contract has been let and work started on the construction of a new Methodist Church; a new curling rink is also under construction. The boats plying here were very busy. Banks reported conditions active and business was becoming so with wholesalers and retailers. Market quotations on some kinds of lumber were reported less than at the beginning of the season. The labour market was free from any unrest. A number of immigrants were returned to Great Britain.

Local Industries

Agriculture—Farmers have been very busy harvesting and threshing; a good yield was reported in nearly every part of the district.

Lumbering—Conditions were active. Owing to trade this year not being as good as in previous years, there will not be so many camps; this will materially affect the employment of a number of men.

Manufacturing — In some lines manufacturing was fair, but in the iron trades dullness prevailed, and it has been a task to keep the shops running full time.

Mining.—Conditions were dull. In the northern part of the county a large shaft is being sunk.

Railroad construction and employment—Work consists chiefly of repairing. Engineers have completed the surveying of the new branch line of the Canadian Pacific Railway from Parry Sound to the line here.

Particular Trades

Active conditions prevailed in the building trades, with stonemasons busy. Iron workers and helpers were active, with a large number employed at other occupations; this condition also applies to machinists. Steam engineers, electrical workers, linemen, bicycle workers, horseshoers and jewellers were active, but others engaged in the metal trades were more or less inactive. Activity was the rule in the woodworking trades, excepting that the coopers were busy and upholsterers somewhat dull. Dullness prevailed in the printing and clothing trades, but prospects were improving with the former. Activity was the rule with boot and shoe workers, and in the food and tobacco, leather, miscellaneous and transport trades, excepting with furriers, theatre employees, cabmen, hackmen and carters, who were somewhat dull. Unskilled labour, in the majority of cases, was well employed, although a number were unemployed.

District Notes

Bridgeton — Work is steadily progressing on the canal, giving employment to about 50 men and teams. Work is also progressing favourably on other sections of the canal.

A SHAMEFUL PLOT IS EXPOSED

Hon. Mr. Graham Charges Conspiracy to Steal Country.

ATTACK ON NEW RAILWAY

He Says a Booklet Slandering the G.T.P. and Its Officials Is Being Prepared by an American Journalist to Be Launched on Canada When It Is Too Late For Refutation—Rally at Guelph.

Guelph, Oct. 9.—That the leading workers of the Conservative party in the present campaign have had prepared by a clever young journalist from the United States an attack upon a great public work, the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, and several public men, to be sprung at the eleventh hour in the present campaign, too late for refutation, was the grave charge made last night against the Conservative party by Hon. George P. Graham at a Liberal rally held in the Opera House in the interests of the Liberal candidate for South Wellington, Mr. Hugh Guthrie.

"I charge the leaders of the present Conservative campaign with imitating in a lesser degree that outrageous attempt at the last election to steal the country," said Mr. Graham. "They have engaged and are paying a clever journalist, not a Canadian, to introduce certain United States campaign methods into Canada, and under an arrangement with them he has prepared copy for a booklet that is to contain nefarious charges concerning the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, as well as some of the men connected with it."

N.T.R. TENDERS OPENED.

Carshops and Roundhouses at Winnipeg Terminals To Be Built.

Ottawa, Oct. 9.—Tenders were opened by the National Transcontinental Railway Commission yesterday for the construction of carshops, roundhouses, etc., at the Winnipeg terminals. Four tenders were received for the complete works, with several other tenders for heating plant, etc. The successful tenderers will not be announced for a week or so yet, pending the examination of each tender by the commission's engineers.

The contractors now at work on the various sections of the road under contract all report good progress made during the past summer. Active construction work will be continued all winter, thus providing employment for thousands of men.

SERVIA WANTS WAR IT APPEARS

Feeling Runs High in Favor of Fighting Austria-Hungary.

LONDON PEELS PESSIMISTIC

Major Surrenda Servian Royal Palace Clamoring For Revenge For Seizure of Herzegovina and Bosnia—Troops Guarding Roads and Bridges of Hungarian Frontier—Austrians Are Happy.

Vienna, Oct. 9.—War between Austria-Hungary and Servia is a recognized possibility, although it is believed here that it will be averted.

King Peter is in a difficult position on account of the clamor of the Servians for war, particularly since his tenure on the throne never was very safe.

The Austrians on their part have a new feeling of nationalistic enterprise on account of the forward movement in the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina and would be more ready for further adventures now than they were a week ago.

That the Government recognizes the possibility the military precautions in Hungary show. All the bridges over the Save and the Danube near the Servian frontier are strongly guarded by patrols and four Danube river monitors were concentrated at Budapest yesterday.

The Government explains that this manoeuvre was planned some time ago, but the Austrians would have Belgrade at the mercy of their guns if that were necessary.

Belgrade, Servia, Oct. 9.—Great crowds again surrounded the palace last night, shouting for war and calling for the king to appear. Finally King Peter, accompanied by the Crown Prince, came to the balcony, and implored the people not to cause disturbances. He said: "Trust me and my Government; both will do their duty."

The crowd cheered the king, but continued to shout "war with Austria."

All of the Belgrade newspapers threaten King Peter with the loss of his throne unless he takes up his sword. One paper says:

"Woe to you and yours if Bosnia is not rescued."

The Politica says: "We can depend on 1,000,000 in all Servia, all of Montenegro and all of Bosnia."

London, Oct. 9.—More pessimistic feeling prevails here to-day with regard to the possible early settlement of the near eastern question. The demands of the Cretans for annexation to Greece and the protest of the Servian Government against the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina, have introduced further difficulties. These, it is believed, will be finally overcome by the British Government, but are delaying the negotiations. Great Britain has no objection to the annexation of Crete to Greece at the proper time if the Cretans desire, but she considers that the present moment is inopportune.

With regard to Servia the Foreign Office has just received the Servian note of protest and has not had time to consider it.

Vienna, Oct. 9.—Information has reached the Government that Servia is planning the organization of a guerrilla warfare in Bosnia and Herzegovina. It is purposed to flood these two provinces with armed bands.

Austria is taking precautionary steps to protect her frontier. The railroad tunnel near the fortress of Peterwardein, Hungary, is now held by troops.

Sailors Must Not Be Contaminated.

Tokio, Oct. 9.—There is great suffering among the Christians in Japan because the authorities have decided to eliminate dancing girls and liquor from the receptions planned for the American sailors when the battleships fleet reaches Yokohama.

The Young Men's Christian Association, the Seamen's Mission the English speaking churches and the mission school students are co-operating for the purpose of holding religious meetings and furnishing guides who will not lead the visiting sailors into temptation.

Double Drowning.

Halifax, N.S., Oct. 9.—Two residents of Eastern Passage, a fishing village at the entrance of Halifax harbor, James Nagle and C. Conred, were drowned last night while returning from the Government works at McNab's Island to their homes on the opposite shore in a fishing boat.

STRANDED IN ALASKA.

Three Canadians Have Thrilling Experience in the Northland.

Vancouver, Oct. 9.—The annals of the north furnish nothing more thrilling than the recent experiences in the wilds of Alaska of Mr. George B. White of Ottawa, Canadian representative on one of the American parties engaged in the Alaska boundary survey, and his assistants, Mr. D. V. Ritchie of Ottawa and Mr. Archie Runnels of this city.

The three Canadians were marooned on an island in the swift-running Alsek river, owing to their boat escaping from her moorings. The craft virtually contained all their food, with the exception of a few supplies landed for use while in camp. Mr. Runnels volunteered to go for assistance. Breathlessly his companions watched him struggle through the rapids, never expecting him to reach the shore. Then, after a four days' walk across the mountains without food, he dragged himself into the main camp of the expedition. It was on the tenth day after his departure that he brought help and food to the famished Canadians, who were found utterly exhausted. A delay of another day would have proved fatal. Mr. Runnels has not yet recovered from his heroic ordeal.

NEGRO IS ACCUSED.

Coroner's Jury Finds That He Slew Mrs. Peake.

Stratford, Oct. 9.—Evidence was taken all afternoon in the Peake murder inquest, and the jury returned the following verdict to-night:

"That the said Mary Peake came to her death in her house on lot 15, con. 1, Downie, on Sept. 30, 1908, at the hands of the negro known as Frank Roughmond."

Roughmond will be arraigned on the charge of murder in a few days. His doings while in Stratford have been traced and evidence is at hand to prove that he left there alone and went unaccompanied to the Peake home. Roughmond was not in the Police Court at the inquest yesterday.

Medical evidence showed that Mrs. Peake's death was caused by "shock from violence and mental emotion."

BOUGHT DEATH UNDER CAR.

Toronto Man Attempts Suicide Under Wheels of Trolley.

Toronto, Oct. 9.—Those who saw the incident say that Arthur Tipling deliberately dived to get himself under the rear wheels of a southbound Yonge street car opposite Collier street at 11 o'clock yesterday morning.

He was yanked out by H. Ainsworth, 31 Scotland street, before the wheels had hurt him. The car was barely moving.

Tipling, who is 51 years of age and lives at 902 Yonge street, was carried into No. 5 police station.

His family say that he has been ill and that his mind is affected. They have applied for his admission to an asylum.

An Ovation For Bryan.

Chicago, Oct. 9.—The second session of the Lakes to the Gulf Deep Waterways Association was attended yesterday by as great and enthusiastic attendance as that listened to W. H. Taft on the opening day.

William J. Bryan was the magnet of the second session and his appearance on the platform and introduction by David Francis of St. Louis was the signal for a tumult that forced the Democratic candidate to bow repeatedly and wait many minutes before delivering the first sentences of his speech.

Brantford Girl's Narrow Escape.

Brantford, Oct. 9.—While riding along Market street on a bicycle this noon yesterday, Marian Bluing, aged 19 years, student at Brantford Business College, was struck by a street car.

She fell on the track, her limbs going under the fender, but with rare presence of mind she grasped the fender, throwing the bulk of her weight on it. She was dragged half a block through the mud before the car could be stopped, but escaped unhurt.

Killed the Editor.

Sabetha, Kas., Oct. 9.—Angered because of a news item printed in The Morrill News Thursday, Perry Royer, marshal of Morrill, Kas., shot and killed J. H. Schmocker, editor of The News, and then committed suicide. The shooting occurred in the main street at Morrill.

Non-Combatant Shot.

New York, Oct. 9.—Robert Quiley, the 14-year-old school boy shot while standing innocently in front of his home during a clash of striking and non-union chauffeurs, died in the hospital.

GRAND OLD VETERAN ON STUMP

Sir Richard Cartwright Heard by Packed House in Toronto.

NEW MINISTER WITH HIM

Prospective Secretary of State Murphy Shares Platform With Old Warhorse—Two New Ontarios Added to List, Says Sir Richard, and Crop Area of West Is Greater Than All Old Provinces.

Toronto, Oct. 9.—The political campaign, rich though it has been in incident, has presented nothing more dramatic or inspiring than the appearance in the fighting line of that grand old Roman of the Liberal party, Sir Richard Cartwright. Full of years but young in spirit, physically crippled but showing all his old-time alertness of mind and vigor of intellect, the veteran Minister of Trade and Commerce last night held, as under a spell, an audience which packed the Association Hall to overflowing.

Sir Richard delivered a vigorous address, despite physical infirmities, which made it necessary for him to use two canes in taking his position on the platform. As cheer upon cheer greeted his appearance a slight smile of gratification played about his lips, as though the demonstration recalled battles of other days, when figures that have since crossed to the great beyond stood before him in the armor of political combat.

Hon. Chas. Murphy has improved as a campaigner since his initial appearance with the Prime Minister at North Bay a fortnight ago. His address followed the chairman's, and was followed with close attention throughout.

Sir Richard declared that under Liberal administration two new Ontarios had been added to the Dominion of Canada. The western provinces had nearly one million acres more under crops than all the other provinces of Canada put together.

Much of the expenditure he indicated was simply paying out of one pocket into another as for example the postoffice, railway and provincial subsidy outlay.

Hon. Charles Murphy was received with cheering which was prolonged for some moments. He referred to Sir Richard Cartwright as the man who carried the fiery cross of Liberalism into the lines of the enemy when Liberalism had fewer friends than it had to-day.

ELEVEN YEARS UNWASHED.

Pittsburg Woman Gets Divorce Because Hubby Feared Bath.

Pittsburg, Oct. 9.—Alleging that her husband, William F. Erny, a rich farmer of Pine township, had not, to her knowledge and belief, taken a bath in the entire eleven years she had been married to him, Mrs. Mary Erny obtained a divorce from him, with alimony, yesterday. The report of the Master was made public yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Erny in her testimony explained that the fact that her husband would not go near a bath tub had caused her much worry and pain.

Costly Explosion.

Windsor, Oct. 9.—On the approach of the fall Assizes, the Michigan Central Railway has settled four damage actions arising out of the Essex explosion of last year.

Miss Lela Beattie and Rev. S. R. MaVitty get $2,500 each, while Wm. Buhler will receive $100 and Miss Elizabeth Brown $2,000. Including a fine of $25,000, damage to rolling stock and property, and personal actions, that explosion cost the railway easily $100,000.

Boilermakers Stay Out.

Montreal, Oct. 9.—It developed yesterday morning that one class of workmen, the boilermakers, have determined to continue the strike against the C.P.R. They have refused to accept the terms agreed to by the leaders of the union, and will continue the strike on their own account.

Tolstoi's Health Returns.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 9.—The health of Count Tolstoi is completely restored. He has resumed his long walks and rides in the country around Iasnaya, Poland, and is hard at work at his books.

Wants a High Tariff.

London, Oct. 9.—(C.A.P.)—Chiozza Money, M.P., says regarding the woollens preference, that all the Canadian manufacturer really cares for is the height of the minimum tariff.

Signed Arbitration Treaty.

Washington, Oct. 9.—The proposed arbitration treaty between China and the United States was signed at the State Department yesterday.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

The death list of the grain elevator explosion at Blaisdell, Va., is 14.

Leslie Ogden, who was struck by a G.T.R. train, had his arm amputated at Belleville.

St. Catharines' population is 12,205 an increase of 10, and the assessment $6,436,433, an increase of $39,000.

Wilbur Wright has fulfilled the terms required to secure the award of $100,000 offered by an aeroplane syndicate.

Rev. G. B. Beamish, rector of St. Thomas' Church, Belleville, has declined the rectorship of Kemptville, Que, at $1,500 per year.

Garrett Kelly, a C. & W. I. locomotive fireman was shot and killed in his cab in the Chicago yards. William Duford, colored, confesses to having fired six shots at a man riding on a freight train near the place.

Committed For Trial.

St. Catharines, Oct. 9.—Police Magistrate Biggins yesterday committed Arthur E. Bull for trial before County Judge Carman on two charges of theft, totalling $80, from George Cane, proprietor of the Beamsville Brick Co.

Crown Attorney Brennan was present at the trial, which took place at Beamsville. There are more charges than the above mentioned two pending against Bull.

Saw Fleet In Mirage.

Honolulu, Oct. 9.—A marvelous mirage was witnessed here Wednesday, an exact reproduction of the Pacific fleet appearing in the southern skies. The fleet is now approaching this port from Samoa, but its distance from Honolulu is not known.

Tripped Over Gun.

Kamloops, B.C., Oct. 9.—Edward Sperry, printer, employed in The Standard office, tripped over a loaded rifle and the latter discharged, sending the bullet through his body below the heart. He is in a precarious condition.

Sues Hotelkeepers.

Chatham, Oct. 9.—Two most peculiar and unusual writs, each for $500 damages, have been entered in the Chatham registry office. Mrs. James Carswell is the plaintiff, and one is against Balke & Elberts, proprietors of the Grand Central Hotel, while the other is against Peter Toulouse, proprietor of the Idewild Hotel. Mrs. Carswell alleges that the hotel proprietors mentioned sold her husband liquor, and that Mr. Carswell, as a result, came home unruly and ill-treated her. As the husband is on the "Indian list," the wife considers that she has just cause of complaint against the hotelkeepers.

Many Entries Are Coming In For The Otonabee Athletic Club Meet To Be Held On Wednesday Night

Already some of Peterborough and Otonabee's best athletes, junior and senior, have entered in the events to be held next week at the meet in the Brock street rink by the Otonabee Athletic Club. Among them are Ernest Wilson, Chas. Thorpe, Jimmy McMartin, Walter Perks, Jack Bailey, D. Rose, J. E. Creugh and George Fowler.

The boys are all hard at practice and some splendid contests are in store for those who attend. The meet will call out the majority of those runners who will participate in the annual Thanksgiving Day road races of the Examiner. It is expected that several Indians from the Hiawatha and Chemong reserves will be present for the one and five mile events.

There will be no handicaps whatever in the meet, which will, of course, be run under the sanction of the C. A.A.U. Features of it will be the running broad jump, the pole vault, and the team relay race.

Entries may be made by calling on the secretary at the Examiner office.

SCHEDULE FOR JUNIOR LEAGUE; ONE GAME FOR TO-MORROW

The following schedule has been decided upon by the executive of the Junior City League. The first game was played last Saturday, when the Rough Riders defeated the P.C.I. by 3 points to 0:

Oct. 10—
Y.M.C.A. v T.A.S.

Oct. 17—
Rough Riders v T.A.S.
Y.M.C.A. v P.C.I.

Oct. 24—
Rough Riders v Y.M.C.A.
T.A.S. v P.C.I.

Oct. 31—
P.C.I. v Rough Riders.
T.A.S. v Y.M.C.A.

Nov. 7—
T.A.S. v Rough Riders.
P.C.I. v Y.M.C.A.

Nov. 9—
Y.M.C.A. v Rough Riders.
P.C.I. v T.A.S.

The officials for to-morrow's game between the T.A.S. and the Y.M.C.A. will be R. F. McWilliams, referee, and Jas. D. Clarke, umpire.

Suggestion To Have A Friendly Meet Of Local Horses At Track

Those who saw the free-for-all race at the Keene Fair on Wednesday were more than pleased with the showing made by Harry Direct and Patterson. While J J Cottingham's black won three straight heats it was by a narrow margin in each case and the finishes were full of excitement. It has been suggested that a good afternoon's sport might be arranged among the local horsemen before the cold weather comes and a feature event would include Patterson and Harry Direct. This was only a suggestion casually made but it is not known whether the owners of these two horses are anxious to meet on the local track.

BRIG. ROBERTS IN A SPECIAL LECTURE TO-MORROW NIGHT

One of the prominent characteristics of Brigadier Roberts, who is conducting the revival services at the Salvation Army Barracks is his genial disposition and unfailing good humour. His conversation and address is most entertaining, and he is as interesting in private as he is in speaking before public meetings.

Last night he spoke before a large gathering at the Barracks, and tonight he will also hold an evangelistic meeting. Saturday night he will give a special lecture that should fill the hall. It is entitled "A Farmer's Daughter of Christchurch," being an interesting story founded on facts, with a moral that will reach home. The revival meetings are pleasing the local officers. They will be continued until Monday night.

NO BALL GAME HERE TO-MORROW

Saints Cannot Make Train Connections From Palmerston.

Local baseball fans will be sorry to learn that there will be no game here to-morrow. Saint Andrews, of Toronto, were expected here with an all star team that was to have included Bill O'Hara, Fred Hickey, Cadman, etc., but the Saints took up the challenge hurled at them by Palmerston, champions of some two by four league and went there yesterday for a series of two games, the second of which is being played today. After reaching Palmerston they found that they could not make train connections for Peterborough in time to get here for the game, and accordingly they wire the locals that they would be unable to be here. It is not likely that the Saints will be here again this season, as it is getting too late but the Petes may go to Toronto to accommodate them with a game.

ZAM-BUK SAVES A FARMER'S ARM

Some Sensational Proofs of It's Healing Power

Every day brings interesting instances to light of the wonderful healing power of Zam-Buk, the herbal balm. Mr. Wm. Snell, a Langenburg, Sask., farmer, says: "I saved my arm by using Zam-Buk. I had a terrible scalding accident, and the arm, after the injury, 'took the wrong way.' When I started to use Zam-Buk, it was all swollen up and discoloured, and I feared it would have to come off. In a few days Zam-Buk killed the poison, reduced the swelling, and finally healed the arm completely."

ECZEMA CURED. Mr. J. E. Cusick, 249 Wilson street, Hamilton, says: "Every winter I used to have eczema on the back of my hands. Last winter I was especially bad—so bad that I had to be off work for three weeks. While suffering acutely I was advised to try Zam-Buk, and did so. I could not have believed anything could have healed so quickly! It just seemed to dry up and clear away the sores, and in a wonderfully short time my hands were quite cured."

PILES CURED. Mr. Neil Daven of Webbwood, Ont., says: "For eight years I tried all kinds of things for piles, but I got nothing to do me any good until I struck Zam-Buk! That quickly worked a complete cure."

Zam-Buk heals all skin diseases, cuts and bruises, eczema, scalp sores, ulcers, chapped places, scrofulous ailments, poisoned wounds, swollen glands, boils. As an embrocation it cures rheumatism, sciatica, etc. All druggists and stores sell at 50c a box, or from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. Three boxes for $1.25. Send 1c stamp for dainty trial box.

THE PARLOUR CROQUET TOURNAMENT

Now In Progress at Y. M. C. A.—Much Interest in the Games.

A parlour croquet tournament is in progress at the Y.M.C.A. for the championship of the Boys' Department. Last night twelve games were played. A great deal on interest was shown by the boys, and before the tournament is over there promises to be some well contested games. Any member who is not entered in the tournament should hand his name to the secretary at once. Last night the standing for the first section was as follows:

	Won.	Lost.
Harold Armstrong	4	0
H Knapman	4	2
R Langford	2	4
D Pearson	2	4

As yet only one section in the junior school boys has been played, and the other sections, and also the Collegiate boys, and Business boys' sections will be played at once.

PRACTICE OF Y. M. C. A. RUGBYISTS

To be on Hand To-night and Saturday Afternoon

The Y.M.C.A. Rugby team request the following men to be out for signal practise at the Y.M.C.A. tonight at seven o'clock. No uniforms are required and all these men are also requested to be on hand Saturday afternoon after the baseball match, to play in the game against the T.A.S.

WINNERS OF 50 YARD DASH AT Y.M.C.A.

B. Taylor Negotiated It In 6 Seconds—Next Event is 220 Yard

The 50-yards dash, the first event of the Business Boys' athletic contest, was run off last night on the indoor track, twenty-two of the boys competing.

The results were as follows:
1—B. Tayler, 6 seconds.
2—E. Hemwell, 6 1-5 seconds.
3—M. Lang and B. Hunter, tied, 6 2-5 seconds.

The next event to be run off is the 220-yards.

MORE ENTRIES IN THE BOWLING TOURNAMENT

At P. B. C. Alleys—Captains To Meet On Monday Night.

A couple of additional entries have been received for the ten-pin tournament to be started next week on the P.B.C. alleys and the prospects are that at least ten teams will participate in the big event, constituting one of the most extensive entry lists on the record of Canadian bowling for cities in Ontario outside Toronto. The fact that the more expert bowlers are to be distributed has greatly stimulated interest, and there has been a hearty response from the less experienced trundlers, who recognize the fact that they will all have an even chance to carry off the valuable prizes which will be offered for competition. There has also been a rush of entries for the double and single events, and these competitions give every promise of developing into exceedingly keen and close contests.

Low McCarroll's Fearnots and Munro's Celts are among the latest entries, while a team may also be entered from the Cereal Co. There is plenty of promising material available for the latter team, and they should make a good showing.

A number of entrants are already getting in shape, and are hanging up very creditable scores. Sam Baker had Wally Parnell and a couple of the other members of his team out last night for a preliminary workout, while Low McCarroll was also along to keep an eye on his rivals. They hung up some figures which, it maintained, should give them a prominent place in the tourney.

The most remarkable development of the week, however, has been the superior form shown by Ernie Bruce of the Bell Telephone Company. Mr. Bruce has been bowling only a few weeks, yet on Tuesday night, in competition with Messrs. Macrae and Linton he had a score of 211, thus exemplifying in a striking way the fact that luck is an important factor in the game, and that with a fair degree of good fortune the less experienced bowler may at any time hold up his end with the top noteher.

Such masters of the art as Messrs. Hamstead, Jeffray, Cairns, Sam Baker, Parnell, Gutterson and Lillie have been after Mr. Bruce's score all week, but so far the new beginner is still high for the box of cigars which is offered as a weekly prize, the next best score being 208, rolled by Mr. Hamstead.

A meeting of the captains of the various teams entered for the tournament will probably be held on Monday night, when all arrangements will be completed and the date of the opening will be finally decided upon.

LIVES IN A COFFIN.

Massachusetts Lady Is Not First of the Sort, However.

There is a grim suggestiveness in the story that is being told in the papers of a wealthy Massachusetts lady who, for reasons of health, travels about in a glass coffin, 6 feet long and 2 feet wide and high, fitted with mattress and cushions, electric light and a telephone.

Mrs. Tryon, however (for that is the lady's name), is by no means the first person who has had a similar gruesome sleeping chamber. There was, a good many years ago, a Cornish vicar who, during the latter part of his life, invariably slept in the coffin which was to be his final resting-place; and it is said that Mme. Sarah Bernhardt has enjoyed many a refreshing slumber in a very cosy and luxurious coffin, specially designed and made for this purpose.

Gabriele d'Annunzio, the famous Italian author, does not actually make a resting-place of his coffin, but it has, we understand, long been ready for its future occupant; and not long ago we read that Tommaso Salvini, the great tragedian, was seen occupied in varnishing a magnificent walnut-wood receptacle for himself after death.

There are many persons who, while not going so far as to have their coffins prepared for them, appear to find pleasure in anticipating their departure from this world. Before his death Mr. Pottle, a Bournemouth organist, composed an impressive march for his own funeral; Mr. Albert Pell, a one-time M.P., wrote his own epitaph, and had it inscribed on a tablet in Hazelbeech Church many years before his worldly activities ceased; the Rev. William Dodd, who was hanged at Tyburn for forgery, preached an eloquent funeral sermon for himself shortly before his execution; and Signor Leopoldo de Gressig, an Italian doctor, wrote his own death certificate in the last few moments of his life.

UNIQUE WEDDING PRESENTS.

These Gifts Step Outside the Beaten Track of Nuptial Presentation.

There is usually such a monotony in lists of wedding presents that it is quite refreshing to read that among the gifts to a young couple, recently made one at Hampton Wick, was a bag containing three hundred three-penny-pieces, the present of Mr. T. Wheaman, late parish clerk of Hampton Wick.

This unconventional nuptial present reminds us of some others, many of which must have been as welcome as they were original. It is not long since the proprietor of the Russian newspaper, Novoe Vremya, dowered his daughter on her wedding-day with the profits for life of one of the advertising pages of his paper, which represented an income of about £3,-000 a year.

Another generous parent, Mr. H. Hodgson of St. Louis, gave to the first of his three daughters to find a husband her weight in gold; to the second, her weight in silver; and to the third and last to be led to the altar, her weight in copper.

When the daughter of Frau Becker, a menagerie proprietor, was married to Herr Schneider a few years ago, she took to him as dower an elephant, a lion, and several other wild animals, to form the menage of a rival show.

But perhaps the most original of these unconventional gifts was that of a well-to-do London tradesman who presented to his son, on the eve of his marriage, a small and modestly bound volume. Its apparent value was a shilling at the outside; but, on opening it, the lucky recipient found that each of its pages was a banknote for £100. The use of the volume was explained in the preface, which directed that one note was to be removed and spent at will on each anniversary of the wedding-day.

Mexican Proverbs.

He who never ventures will never cross the sea.
There's no gain without pain.
Flies cannot enter a closed mouth.
Behind the cross is the devil.
A cat in gloves will never catch rats.
To the hungry no bread is dry.
A book that is shut makes no scholar.
A good laundress washes the shirt first.
No evil will endure a hundred years.

PARLIAMENT'S POET.

Only Real Highlander in Commons Was Dr. Angus, [illegible]

Canadian public life lost a picturesque figure when [illegible] struck down Dr. Angus McLennan of Inverness recently. The Liberals of Inverness mourn the loss of their local leader, but a higher tribute to the memory and worth of the dead is the deep feeling of bereavement felt by all the people of the country. Many of the people here, perhaps most of them, are of Highland extraction. Dr. McLennan was a typical Highlander, and blood is thicker than water, and while the public heart is sound, much thicker than the narrow feelings of the political partisan.

Dr. McLennan was, perhaps, the only real Highlander in the last House of Commons. He had the fire of the race, their courtly but somewhat condescending manner, their lofty pride, their fearlessness and almost contempt for opposition. To see him stride through the crowded corridors of the House, tall beyond most men and straight as a grenadier, with head thrown back, looking neither to the right nor the left, one could easily imagine that had the Doctor lived in the days of Prince Charlie he too, like many of his countrymen, might have staked life and fortune on the issue of that fatal day on Culloden Moor.

He often spoke in the House—that is as often as a well-[illegible] private member should—and he always acquitted himself well. His style was peculiar and it was wholly his own, for he was a man of too much character to copy another. There was something about it to remind one that the speaker had a classical education, and yet there was at times a peculiar use of words and construction of sentences that suggested that English was not his mother tongue. And then the voice had a wonderful range from deepest bass to shrill piping notes somewhat like the music in which the men of the hills and heather take so much delight. He was popular in Inverness, so much so that in 1896 he was able to take the seat from a Highlander and a doctor like himself and put it in the Government ranks. At one election Dr. McLennan's majority exceeded a thousand.

ACTING UNDER DIFFICULTIES.

Hamlet's Accident and Line Proved to Be Appropriate.

Some years ago a very amusing incident occurred in a strolling Shakespearian company in Alberta. The hero of the incident was a Shakespearian actor of considerable distinction. Arriving at Calgary, all preparations were made for an elaborate production as the facilities allowed. The first scene passed off with success, and up went the "drop" in the darkness to reveal in a sentiment "another part of the castle" whereon Hamlet was to meet the ghost of his father and receive from him the dread story of his uncle's crime. The star's position when the lights came dimly on was supposed to be on top of a platform made of four parallels surmounted by a loose flooring of boards, but the stage carpenter in his hurry had failed to fasten that top securely down firmly. To the unspeakable horror of all behind the scenes it was noticed that the star's leg had slipped into an unprotected corner of the wobbly affair and was there securely pinioned. But the Bard of Avon simply stood at his elbow that night, and in his mental perplexity and the agony of his position he delivered brokenly the first line of his part.

"Speak," he cried to the ghost, using the actual lines of his part, "speak, for I can go no further."

Cattle Had Rabies.

A colt and a steer belonging to Gideon Hoover, township of Raleigh, died recently from a sickness in which they foamed at the mouth and showed signs of having an infectious disease. Since then two steers have had to be shot.

Having feared that he might have become inoculated with the disease through abrasions received while handling the animals, Mr. Hoover has gone to the Pasteur Institute at New York and Henry Urmy, who received foam on his face while assisting at shooting one of the animals, also has gone to the institute.

The animals are believed to have had rabies. It is not known how they contracted the disease, but it was reported some weeks ago that animals not far from Cayuga had been bitten by a mad dog.

Our Canadian Peers.

Not one of our three Canadian peerages has an heir male to continue it. Lord Strathcona's title, presumably, will one day descend to his daughter, Mrs. Howard, who in that case will add another to the small and select company of British peeresses in their own right. Lord Mount Stephen, though he has been twice married, has no children; and of the other Canadian peerage, that of Macdonald of Earnscliffe, is now held by the widow of the first Lord Macdonald, and as yet no provision has been made for its inheritance by her only daughter.

Leaves "Pen" at Ninety.

One of the oldest convicts in the penitentiary has been discharged, after completing a four-year term. He was Charles Storms, aged 90, convicted of horse-stealing at Belleville. He is quite vigorous.

Conservative Campaign Plot Meets Opportune Exposure

A Plot to Discredit The Grand Trunk Pacific Is To Be Sprung Later---A Yarn Written by Yankee Journalist Now In Type in Toronto---Endorsed by Leading Toronto Conservatives

Guelph, Oct. 8.—That the leading workers of the Conservative party in the present campaign have been prepared by a clever young journalist from the United States in an attack on a great public work, the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, and several public men to be sprung at the eleventh hour in the present campaign, too late for refutation, was the grave charge made to-night against the Conservative party by Hon. Geo. P. Graham at a Liberal rally held in the Opera House in the interests of the Liberal candidate for South Wellington, Mr. Hugh Guthrie.

After referring to the Tory plot on the eve of the last election, when certain methods were introduced in the eleventh hour to stampede the electors, but a plot which, through the prompt action of capable Liberals had been left to cry its life out upon the doorstep, Mr. Graham made his charge.

A Shameful Plot

"I charge the leaders of the present Conservative campaign with imitating in a lesser degree that outrageous attempt to steal the country. They have engaged and are paying a clever journalist, not a Canadian, to introduce certain United States campaign methods into Canada, and under arrangement with them he has prepared copy for a booklet that is to contain nefarious charges concerning the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, as well as some of the men connected with it.

"That copy has been put into type, it is now standing in the city of Toronto ready for printing, the proofs have been submitted to and read by certain Conservative leaders, and approved of by them on behalf of the party.

"They are to be circulated broadcast throughout the country at a time when it is considered by the plotters it will be too late to allow the Liberal party to overcome the falsehoods and refute them before election day.

Let the Electors Beware

"This I submit to you voters as one of the plots to beware of. Conservative leaders call this a pure and clean campaign. I ask the people of Canada to beware of these scandals, which have been prepared at a price and with a purpose."

The Conservative big campaign gun has gone off at half-cock.

FARMER SOLD A LOAD OF HAY FOR $15.00

Fifteen dollars was offered a farmer for a load of hay this morning before he reached the weigh scales, and as it was a little off colour he accepted the offer at once. There are not many loads being brought in, and the farmers are therefore receiving good prices. The time spent in ploughing keeps the farmers from coming into the city.

GAME WILL BE PLAYED AT 2.30 O'CLOCK

Senior City League Fixture Will be played at Riverside Park.

As there will be no ball game tomorrow the junior city Rugby league game which was to have been played at the conclusion of the match will be started at 2.30 o'clock sharp at Riverside Park and the teams are asked to bear in mind this change in the time for starting. Both teams are in fine shape and an interesting contest should be the result.

A full practice of the T.A.A. athletes and juniors will be held in the Armouries this evening at 7.30 o'clock and every man is expected to be on hand. The seniors will also have a practice at Recreation Park to-morrow afternoon after the city league game. As the seniors will likely have to play on Monday next week it is important that their players should be out in uniform.

LORD MILNER, THE FORMER DISTINGUISHED COMMISSIONER FOR SOUTH AERICA, NOW IN CANADA ON A VISIT TO HIS OLD FRIENDS

Travelling From Coast to Coast Through the Vast Dominion—A Man in the Front Rank as a British Statesman — No Birth Advantages

HIS REMARKABLE INDUSTRY

Lord Rosebery, that happy phrase-maker-in-chief to the empire, summed up Lord Milner when he wrote that "he has the union of intellect with fascination, which makes men mount high." Already the prophesy has been strikingly verified, and the future, no doubt, holds its complete fulfillment.

Lord Milner knows a great deal about the British Empire but he has not before been in Canada, his experience as an administrator having been confined chiefly to South Africa. Before leaving for Canada a few days ago Lord Milner said: "My object in visiting Canada is to go over as much as possible of the country whereof I have heard so much, but have never yet seen. I have friends there whom I have not seen for years."

It is confidently believed that there is in store for this British visitor a brilliant political career and it will undoubtedly be an advantage to the Dominion to have her conditions and aspirations thoroughly understood by a man who will in all probability have a hand in the shaping of the destinies of the empire and its component parts.

When he entered the House of Lords a few years ago an English writer said of him.

"Lord Milner is still, as statesmen go, a young man, and he has, we may all hope, many years before him of distinguished service to his King and country. Rumour has already sent him prospectively to India to fill the highest position under the crown. The advent of a Liberal Government, however, will keep him at home for some years to come. He may choose indeed to throw in his lot with the Unionist Party, and there are at least three offices in the British cabinet for which he would be admirably suited. Lord Milner's name is familiar enough to the British public, but personally he has yet to be introduced to it, for it is twenty-five years since "Alfred Milner, master of arts," contested Harrow in the Liberal interest. It cannot be doubted, however, that the more he is known the more popular he will be. Certainly the Unionist Party will gain in Lord Milner a valuable recruit to the numbers of its first-class fighting men."

A Bachelor

Lord Milner, as everyone knows, is a bachelor. His name has never been associated, even in rumour, with any "not impossible she." Viscount Kitchener has been married again and again in popular report. But gossip has been compelled to leave Milner severely alone. It is said indeed that he has never been in love. A story is told how the subject of matrimony arose when Lord Milner was once riding with a party of friends near Capetown. The high commissioner surprised his fellow-cavaliers by saying, with a twinkle in his eye, "Well, you know I am engaged." Thereat there was a general burst of spontaneous hilarity. Lord Milner turned with affected indignation on his friends saying, "What, do you think I am too ugly?" One little trait of Milner's personality has never been mentioned. He seems to be entirely devoid of any taste in dress. For corpulitude of costume he seems to have not the faintest concern. He will wear a frock coat and a necktie without any mutual kinship or congruity whatever. Many of his portraits illustrate this defect, which he shares with a large number of other distinguished men. Well-groomed of course he always is, but his indifference to dress is quite remarkable.

In person Lord Milner is tall and spare though not too slightly built. The magnetic charm which he quite unconsciously exercises on all who are brought into contact with him has often been remarked. During his official life in London he seems to have been something of a mystery. Those who remember him in those days, and are not favourably disposed towards him, say that there was something cryptic and reserved about his personal bearing, as though he were the repository of profound secrets

CHATS ABOUT FAMOUS BOOKS AND THEIR AUTHORS

By F. M. D.

Just as Alexander Cruden was a man who practised what he preached, and whose life was in direct keeping with his writings, so Rousseau, a man of far higher mental calibre, was an example of one whose life was almost a direct contradiction to the noble principles, which he so beautifully expressed. Rousseau, in his philosophical writings, was by some, regarded as superior to Voltaire, but however high he stood as a thinker, he occupied a much lower place in the estimation of even his easy-going world, as a man. Judging from his "Confessions," which in many ways is an unpleasant though remarkable book, Rousseau was made up of a queer mixture of good and bad qualities. He was not only highly immoral in his social relations, as seemingly most of the society was in which he moved, but he was selfish, abnormally suspicious and a thorough-paced ingrate. The father of five children, he sent each one in succession to the foundling hospital, and never once took the pains to enquire into the welfare of any of them, after they got there. This was the sort of man who wrote glibly on the beauties of virtue, and whose writings even to this day, have influenced the minds of a certain section of our modern thinkers and statesmen.

It is not the paramount duty of any one to delve into the life of an author, for the simple purpose of bringing what mud he can to the surface. It has to be remembered, however, that eminence brings with it certain disadvantages. When a book of special distinction captures the world's attention, readers are curious to learn something of its author's personality, and very few, indeed, with the Roentgen Rays of publicity turned on them, come through the ordeal with a registered verdict of being wholly immaculate. The fact is that no author ought to be judged wholly by his life. Swift wrote much that was absolutely foul, and yet his writings, though some of them are thoroughly repulsive, have done much owing to the vivid colours in which vice is painted, to deter succeeding generations from peering too closely into the pitfalls of society.

Genius, also, has intermittes and tribulations altogether unknown to the commonplace, everyday toiler of the world. Irritable, anxious, enthusiastic, emotional and full of visionary illusions, the lives of those who possess genius go in great measure to prove the truth of the lines:

"Great wits to madness, sure, are near allied
And thin partitions do their bounds divide."

As a matter of fact, there is, and always has been a great tenderness evinced towards the moral deficiencies of authors. The reason is that, whereas few are hurt by their vices, multitudes derive pleasure from their art, and thus the murmurings of the few are lost in the plaudits of the many. Indeed the debt which humanity owes to its authors is incalculable. To quote the words of Lord Macaulay: "They have guided us to truth; they have filled our minds with noble and peaceful images. They have stood by us in all vicissitudes, comforters in sorrow, nurses in sickness; companions in solitude. There are the old friends who are never seen with new faces, who are the same in wealth and in poverty, in glory and in obscurity." We have also to remember that as in literature so in our daily life. "Many things are true and some are new, but very few are both true and new. So in life, many men are great, some men are good, but very few men are both great and good."

It is not the purpose of the writer of these chats to enter very largely into the literature of the present or immediate past, for whilst the literature of the immediate past presents names as glorious as any in the whole realm of literature, it is too well known to need special introduction here. With regard to the literature of the present it would be very hard to particularize any one author whose works bear evidence of a chance of achieving more than an ephemeral popularity. Without wishing to be unduly captious the writings of the present are on one side so insipid (as to remind one very forcibly of porridge with the salt omitted, and on the other, of having altogether too much of that condiment shaken into the pot. My intention, in brief, is to hark back to the literature of the long distant past and to endeavour to bring once more to the reader's notice the beauties of a literature which, unfortunately, seems to be succumbing to the incursions of the sands of time."

The Ways ...Of Fate.

By Zelia Margaret Walters.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

When it became an established fact that Daniel Forbes would never go wooing on his own account, his mother undertook to manage the delicate affair for him. She selected Lucy Wilson, a capable girl.

"Now, you go over there tonight," she directed her son. "Lucy's willing, and the old folk have given their consent, so there's nothing to be afraid of. Lucy's so lively and runs on so I guess you won't have to do much talking."

Although David turned pale under his tan, he prepared to obey. He drove past the Wilson farmhouse twice, but on approaching the third time, just as he was about to enter recklessly, he saw Lucy on the porch, and, turning his horse about, he fled.

Thus abruptly ended David's first advance toward matrimony. Indignant, Lucy quickly accepted another swain, and David settled down to what seemed hopeless bachelorhood.

One morning in midsummer when the first luscious blueberries were ripe Mrs. Forbes asked David to take a half day from the farm work and go to the mountain for blueberries. David agreed and started off with a basket on either arm. Many berry pickers were at work on the lower slopes and near the path, but David, who had suffered often from their rough wit, went farther on, circling around to the wilder, steeper side of the mountain.

He found a place yet unvisited and settled to picking where the bushes were loaded with fruit. But even in this lonely place he was disturbed by some one approaching through the brush.

He caught a glimpse of a woman's gown and started to retreat noiselessly. Then he noticed that it was a pink gown and paused. The farmer's daughters and the village girls did not wear thin pink dresses when they went berrying on the mountain side.

David had observed more than his friends gave him credit for, so he waited a moment to see who this girl was. Quite unexpectedly she stepped into full view, scarcely five yards from him. There was no retreating then. David bent over the bushes industriously.

The fair stranger (in the one brief glance David found that she was both fair and a stranger) was picking too. She had half filled a fanciful little basket. David wondered why she was alone so far from the frequented paths.

The girl examined the big, handsome farmer through downcast lashes, and she was at once interested.

"Why doesn't he speak?" she thought. "The others all do. I wonder who he is. I haven't seen him anywhere. I'll just stay until he does say something," she reflected as she watched him.

David was chained to the spot. His diffidence urged him to flee, but something stronger held him almost within arm's length of the girl. In his wildest daring, however, he never thought of doing more than glance in her direction. Nothing less than a miracle would have made him change his attitude.

Fate, which one time in a thousand is unexpectedly kind, interposed with something very like a miracle. There was a jarring and a reading of the earth, followed by a muffled roar. The ground yawned in an awful gulf at their feet.

Man and maid, clutching wildly at each other, slid down, down, blinded and choked by the flying dust. Through it all David had kept his arm about the girl, whom he had seized when the nature of the calamity had burst upon him.

His first thought when the uproar ceased was that he still held her. He moved cautiously to assure himself that he was yet in the body and then opened his eyes and found that he was not buried, as he had expected to be. At a distance above his head he saw the branches of a tree barring the blue of the sky. Then he looked at the lovely stranger lying in his arms. Her eyes opened, fixed on his in terror.

To David's own everlasting surprise he found himself stroking her hair soothingly. His tongue was unloosed.

"Don't be afraid," he said. "The danger is all over now."

"You saved my life," she said in a hushed voice.

"Not at all," he answered briskly. "I only held you when I saw that we were going down. We're mighty lucky that we came out on top."

For David knew that they had fallen into an abandoned pocket of the coal mine. The supports had rotted away, and the pocket had run too near the surface or the mountain side for safety.

The girl, weeping softly, clung to David. The surest way to win her gratitude would be to get her out as soon as possible. He racked his brains for a plan of escape. Crawling up the perpendicular sides of the pit was out of the question.

"Some of the berry pickers may have heard the noise," he said cheerfully, "and your friends will soon be looking for you."

"No," she said; "they are so far from here. Besides, I ran away from them, and they will think I have gone home."

"They'll search for me when I don't come to supper." Though he spoke laughingly to reassure her, he knew the futility of this hope. The territory to be searched was very large. They might have to pass the night in the awful dread of fresh earth falling at any moment. But in the gloom of his reflections a sound familiar, though muffled, came to his ear. He turned to his companion, laughing.

"Help is at hand," he said in mock heroics. "Prepare for the most romantic happening of your life. We are about to be rescued by a mule."

His cheer was contagious, and she lost her fear.

"Since the mule is no near there must be but a thin wall of earth between us and a passage of the mine," he went on. "I'm going to dig through, and we'll walk till we find some miners."

Although he had nothing but a rough, broken bough to work with, he attacked the wall vigorously. The girl stood beside him.

Soon he could thrust his arm through the opening he had made. Then he worked furiously until it was large enough for them to creep through. The fear of more earth falling was upon him every moment. An astonished mule thrust his head out into the light and then fled wildly back into the mine.

"Come," said David, taking her hand and drawing a long breath of relief. She clung close to him as they went into the darkness. Their progress was tollsome, for David had to feel his way step by step and shield his companion.

It seemed that hours of this maddening groping went by, and yet David was exultant, for, though panic fear dogged the footsteps of the girl, he was able to keep it at bay by his touch and voice.

She cried out when a point of light showed far ahead of them. A moment later a voice with a rich Welsh accent exclaimed: "Here comes that bludy runaway mule outen the old pocket. And I'm domned if here be'ant a lady comin', too—and Davie Forbes, as I'm a livin' sinner."

The miner listened to David's story of the cave-in and then conducted them to the shaft, muttering softly, "Well, I'm domned!"

When they stood on firm earth in the welcome sunlight David again asserted his newly discovered mastery. "You're too tired to walk back to town. It's miles from here and rough walking. I'll get a horse and buggy somewhere around here and take you up to our place. Then after you have supper and rest I'll drive you to town. My mother will be glad to have you come."

Oh, David Forbes!

And they thought you knew nothing of women.

The stranger assented with a meekness as unusual in her as imperiousness was in David.

Never before had David been so anxious that his fine house and well kept farm should make a good impression. Mrs. Forbes received the girl with eager hospitality. When she heard of the accident her sympathy was boundless. The visitor recovered her spirits quickly. She told them that her name was Marion Hillis and that she was visiting an aunt in town. She assured Mrs. Forbes that David was positively the bravest man in the world. Mrs. Forbes looked at her son in helpless wonderment. While waiting for supper Marion demanded that David show her about the farm.

"I've always longed to visit a farm," she said as with mutual satisfaction

Period Pianos.
That the aesthetic sense of our people is undergoing rapid development, is shown by the demand for what are known as Period pianos. That is to say, if "My Lady" has the decorations of her drawing room done in the style of Louis XIV., XV., XVI., or in the days of the Empire, then she has a piano made to correspond. Or if she is a lover of the Antique, then she has a Chippendale or Sheraton piano to match the chairs, etc. "Dens," club rooms and bachelors' apartments, furnished with Mission furniture, likewise have Mission Pianos. The New Scale Williams Pianos are made in these Art Cases. The Williams Piano Company will submit designs and estimates free of charge to those who wish special Period Pianos not carried in stock. The reputation enjoyed by the famous New Scale Williams is a guarantee in itself that Period Pianos, made to order, will be eminently satisfactory. Many styles here. 6

A Little Home Talk.

"Willie!"
"Yes'm."
"Have you been in swimming?"
"No'm."
"How did you get your shirt so wet?"
"I perspirated on it—honest, I did."
"What?"
"Yes'm. That's what done it. I run so fast to get away from where I would be tempted to disobey you that I got all wet with sweat."
"Willie!"
"Yes'm."
"Come here."
"Yes'm."—Judge.

No Need To.

"Do you know that Mr. Thompson I was just speaking to?" asked the lady at the tea party of the one standing next to her.
"Oh, yes."
"I suppose he says those sweet things to all the women he meets?"
"No. He never says them to me."
"Indeed! And you know him?"
"Oh, yes; I'm his wife!"—Stray Stories.

Mean Insinuation.

"Here is a book of love poems," said the leading lady. "I have kept them under my pillow for seven moons."
"How thoughtful!" laughed the low comedian.
"Thoughtful?"
"Yes. You know they say all poetry improves with age."—Los Angeles Times.

When the Lights Go Out.

Mrs. Baker—Isn't it odd that, according to the newspaper accounts, most of the people who are very sick seem to die during the night?
Mrs. Barker—The sick men my husband sits up with seem to drop off about 3 a. m.—Bohemian Magazine.

Not Worth It.

The Minister—I guess you made no mistake when you married that woman.
The Deacon—Oh, yes, I did.
"You did?"
"Yes. Don't you remember I gave you $10?"—Yonkers Statesman.

The Masculine Idea.

He (absently)—She dresses with such taste!
She (surprised)—What! That scrawny figure?
He (hastily) — No; the dishes she cooks.—Baltimore American.

Beginning Modestly.

Dowager—So you are commencing a practice here. You're rather young, aren't you?
Young Medico—Oh—er—well, I only expect to start on children first, you know.—Punch.

Food For All.

After a certain jury had been out an inordinately long time on a very simple case they filed into the courtroom, and the foreman told the judge they were unable to agree upon a verdict. The latter rebuked them, saying the case was a very clear one, and remanded them back to the jury room for a second attempt, adding, "If you are there too long, I will have to send you in twelve suppers."

The foreman in a rather irritated tone spoke up and said, "May it please your honor, you might send in eleven suppers and one bundle of hay."—Everybody's Magazine.

Lengthy Lineage.

In "Leaves From the Notebooks of Lady Dorothy Nevill," edited by Lady Dorothy's son, Ralph Nevill, there is an amusing story of an old peer whose considerable family pride was agreeably tempered with humor.

One day he was surprised to be told by his sister that she had conceived a great affection for a well known although eccentric man of science who, although generally esteemed, was of very humble Semitic origin.

Not quite determined as to what course of action he should take, he sent for the prospective bridegroom with the intention of talking matters over. After some conversation he said: "And now, sir, I should like to know something about your family."

"I think," replied the other, "that it will be sufficient to say that I am of the descent of the illustrious blood of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob."

"Oh," said the peer, "of course our family has nothing to compare with that. If my sister really likes you, you had better take her."

Some Queer Trades.

"Smellers" and Professional Best Men Are Found In London.

Few people are aware of the existence of some novel occupations out of which many an enterprising man is making a lucrative living. One of the queerest of these, given in a recent London directory, is that of the expert "smeller." Scent-makers need someone with a very delicate sense of smell to aid them in blending the ingredients of perfumes in proper proportions. Queen Alexandra's favorite perfume—violets—costs £10 per ounce bottle, and in order that it may be correctly blended before it is passed for Her Majesty's use, it has to run the gauntlet of five professional "smellers" from £5 to £6 weekly, and they are insured against cold and the loss of their sense of smell. Contractors for the lighting of streets, large public buildings, and pleasure-grounds often employ "smellers" to trace escapes of gas, 1s. being the sum paid for every leakage reported.

Another occupation which is distinctly prominent on the register of Mr. Chesterton's Club of "Queer Trades" is that of acting as "best man" at weddings. He is in great demand during this season of the year, and on account of this he is classed with the minister, and his fee is not fixed. Sometimes he secures as much as £5 at a single wedding, besides a handsome present from the bridegroom. But in the majority of cases he is not nearly so fortunate, and his usual fee may be classed at about £2 2s. At this rate he makes more than enough to yield him a fair income. He must be suave, adroit, nimble-witted, and patient. He never gets rattled, never allows the groom to commit any glaring error, and keeps a watchful eye upon the bride and her maids to see that everything passes off in proper style. Then, if his engagement extends to entertaining the guests at the luncheon or party afterwards, he must be able to sing and dance, be conversant with the latest of card games, and reply to many of the speeches on behalf of his clients.

Huge Succession Tax.

Estate of Late Lord Derby Must Pay Two and a Half Millions.

The will of the sixteenth Earl of Derby, K.G., formerly Governor-General of Canada, who died on June 14 last, has been proved, the total value of his estate, both real and personal, being estimated at close on $19,000,000. More than $2,500,000 will be paid in death duties on the estate in accordance with the rate introduced by Mr. Asquith in the Budget before last, under which ten per cent. is paid on the first million, and 15 per cent. on the remaining three and three-quarter millions in English pounds sterling. The late earl had seats at Knowsley, Prescot; Holwood in Kent; Witherslack, near Grange, over Lands Lancashire, and Fairhill, near Torbridge, with the town residence at Derby House, St. James square, London. The personal estate has been sworn at $4,461,745 gross, and $3,760,675 net. One hundred and fifty thousand dollars are left to the earl's widow, and one hundred thousand dollars to the trustees of the settlements made on each of his younger children in his life time. Other legacies include two months' wages to each servant for every year of service. The residue of the estate is given to the present Earl of Derby absolutely, who were better known as Lord Stanley, who held the Postmaster-Generalship in the late Balfour administration.

Didn't Marry Family.

The story is told anent South Sea marriages of white traders to native girls that one man gave a magnificent feast to some score or so of his native wife's relatives on the occasion of the wedding. These relatives are famous for their propensity to live at the expense of the newly-allied white man. At what we might call the coffee and liqueur stage, he left the scene, to reappear a moment later with a particularly formidable double-barrelled gun in the crook of his arm. "You have had your feast, and now I know you, every one," said the trader, "and if any mother's son of you crosses my threshold again I'll let daylight through him good and quick. Good-bye, all!"

Cards Cut From Deerhide.

A remarkable collection of nearly 600 packs of playing-cards of all ages and all nations has been presented to the Company of Makers of Playing-Cards. The collection includes English cards illustrating proverbs, heraldry, fortune-telling, and items of topical interest. The Indian are the most interesting in the collection. Cut from what is presumably deerhide, the forty skin cards used by the Canadian Sioux Indian are weirdly attractive. The pack contains four suits: butterflies, fish, sticks, and annular ornaments. For the game of "Gunjfa," the Hindu made use of 120 circular cards, which are hand-painted and lacquered.

A Knight Bellringer.

Southwold, Eng., possesses a charming little church which dates from a very early year. At the east end of the church, just before the chancel is entered, a figure may be observed standing in the wall. This figure represents a knight who, on the stroke of eleven, rings a bell by a movement of his arm. The motion of the arm is caused by an official pulling a rope in the vestry. The sudden ring, coming immediately before the service, gives many visitors no small fright.

HEADACHE Versus HEARTACHE.

By GRAHAM BOYD.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

Neil noticed the girl as the car came to a stop. She was undeniably pretty, though her clothes were a little too pronounced in color and cut, and her hat was distinctly "loud." The white parasol, however, softened the high coloring of clothes and complexion and moved the man in the seat ahead to the audible reflection that she was a "peach."

There was a trifling delay to the car ahead, and Neil was about to turn her attention to the trouble when Vance Joslin dropped lightly from the rear end of the car and approached the girl.

For an instant she seemed to resent his address, but as he spoke her manner changed, and a moment later they moved off up the street together. The man in front remarked to his companion that "the Johnny had his nerve with him."

The vulgarity of the remark emphasized the shock Neil had felt when she had seen Vance speak, and with a crimson face she turned her head away from that side of the car that she might not see them as the car, now in motion again, overtook them.

She had not seen Vance board the car, and she was certain that he had not seen her, else he would have made his way to her side. They had been engaged just three days. Only that morning he had told her over the telephone how sorry he was that a business engagement prevented him from asking her to lunch, and yet he had apparently left the car to take this girl to lunch.

Neil had meant to stop off at the little restaurant where she had so often lunched with Vance. He would probably take his client there, and he would have a chance at least to speak to her. And when one is but newly engaged even a word and a look are worth the while. Now she decided that she did not want any lunch. She only wanted to get home and have a good cry.

But she was not permitted to enjoy this luxury, for at the transfer corner she ran into a party of her old school chums. The solitaire told its own story, and Neil was carried off to a fashionable restaurant, there to be the guest of honor at an impromptu banquet.

As she entered she gave a start, for, though Vance was sitting with his back toward her, she had no difficulty in recognizing him, and the girl was unmistakable. While she had been chatting with the girls he had probably passed them. His order had been given.

She led the way to a table at the other side of the room that she might not be compelled to recognize him, but the precaution apparently was needless. When the girls were leaving the place, Vance and his guest were still absorbed in each other. Vance was drinking coffee, and the girl was consuming highly colored cordials. Neil led the way from the place, thankful that none of the other girls knew Vance.

The luncheon had been an ordeal for her. She wished that she had slipped off the ring when the first impulse came to her to do so. Then she would have been saved the humiliation of accepting a celebration lunch at which she sat and planned the letter which she should write to accompany the ring. As it was, the lunch had broken her nerves completely, and, hurrying home, she wrote the fateful letter, then took to her bed. She was crying her heart out in comfortable feminine fashion when her mother opened the door.

"Vance is downstairs and wants to see you," she said gently. "I told him that you were ill, but he insisted on seeing you just a moment."

"I'll see him," said Neil, with sudden determination. "Tell him I will be right down."

She sprang from the bed and began to dress. While lying there she had thought of many things to say that were even more bitter than the things she had said in the letter, and in her present mood she wanted to hurt him as much as he had hurt her. She wanted to taunt him with his choice and to see him shrink from her description of the girl as seen through a woman's eyes. The anticipation gave her strength, and with head proudly erect and shoulders militantly braced back she entered the parlor.

Joslin came forward eagerly.

"It was good of you to see me," he cried. "I was afraid, from what your mother said, that you were too ill to receive any one."

"I had a headache," she explained listlessly, keeping the table between them that he might not kiss her. Probably he had kissed that other girl.

"It's too bad about the poor head," cried Vance. "I wanted you to come to dinner with me. We will go to the Trocadero and have just the best we can, that, or we'll go to the Alhambra if you prefer that. The music is better there, but the cooking is not as good."

For a moment Neil could only stare dumbly. He wanted to take her to the Trocadero, where he had taken that woman for lunch. The thought was impossible. Probably his conscience smote him and he wanted to compromise with it.

"I don't think that I care to go to the Trocadero," she said, adding meaningly: "I was there this afternoon for lunch. I met some of the girls, and they insisted upon my going with them."

"Then we'll go to the Alhambra," he offered. "What time did you have lunch?"

"About 2 o'clock," answered Neil, watching his face closely for signs of confusion. Instead he merely gave a whistle of surprise.

"I was there about then," he declared in mild astonishment.

"I know you were," admitted Neil. "I saw you."

"I don't blame you for not speaking," he said, with a short laugh. "But why didn't you send the waiter for me? I would have come over to your table."

"It seemed a pity to disturb you," retorted Neil. "You two seemed so much interested in each other that I did not like to interrupt. You told me on the telephone that it was a business engagement."

"But that was not the engagement," explained Vance. "You see, I was to lunch with old Mr. Bingham to talk about that infringement case. I was on the car on my way to get him, and a blockade brought us to a halt. I got off to walk, as I was late, and Bingham's office was only a couple of blocks away, and I ran right straight into this girl."

"She didn't know me at first, but I told her who I was, and she accepted my invitation to go to lunch, so I slipped in and excused myself to Bingham and took her over to the Troc. I knew that she would appreciate the chance to show off all her finery in a place like that, and I guessed right. She was tickled to death."

"You seemed well pleased yourself," suggested Neil maliciously.

"Why not?" asked Vance. "That was Sadie Webster, the girl who could—and did—tell me all about that Mylius case. We'll win that now, and it means that we live in our own home instead of in a flat. That's why I want you to come out and celebrate."

"I'll get my hat in a minute," promised Neil. Then she paused as the remembrance of that letter she had written came back to her. "I'll go on one condition," she added.

"On any condition," promised Vance laughingly. "You have but to name it."

"You mustn't read a letter I send you this afternoon," she stipulated, while her cheeks grew crimson. "You must throw it away unread."

"Jealous?" he asked curiously. "Was that the headache, Neil? Couldn't you trust me, dear?"

"I wasn't exactly jealous," sobbed Neil, seeking the refuge of his shoulder to hide her flushed face, "but I could see that she didn't know you, and a man in the seat in front said it was a flirtation, and—and I was so miserable."

Gently Vance raised the tear stained face to his own.

"It's a lesson that comes to every wife, dear," he said softly. "She has to learn that she must trust her husband, even though appearances are against him. I'm glad, sweetheart, that it was no worse. Now get the hat and we'll celebrate the meeting with Sadie if the poor head is well enough."

Neil threw her arms about his neck and kissed him.

"Vance," she said penitently, "you are just the best headache cure that ever was."

Decline and Fall of Wisdom.

He was very near the end, but when at last the information had been conveyed to him that an interviewer was below he rallied. I was led in on tiptoe by a muffled nurse.

"To what," he quavered, "do I owe my success in life? To this, young man—to never forgetting the proverbial philosophy of Lounshire, my native county."

I asked him if he could remember any of the more helpful of the sayings by which he had guided his long and eminent career. He rested for awhile and then repeated a few, truly the wisdom of many and the wit of one, and how racy of the soil:

"You must hold your hat in a high wind."

"Don't lean against wet paint."

"The deepest flagon is empty at last."

"Steady reaches the goal."

"Look twice at a penny and twelve times at sixpence."

"The sun will come out."

"Old birds are the toughest."

"You can't dive for pearls without getting wet."

"It is ill sitting on thorns."

He could remember no more and sank back exhausted, although still watching me as I wrote.

SHEEP DOGS PERFORM.

Marvellous Assistants of Westmoreland Shepherds Show Abilities.

Three short, sharp whistles from the Westmoreland shepherd on the hill-top and the long-haired sheep dog at his heels raced away down the slope to round up three stupid, staring sheep and drive them through many obstacles to a pen a quarter of a mile away in six minutes.

It was at the agricultural show at Petworth, on the Sussex (Eng.) uplands, that this sheep dog trial took place. Six shepherds from the dales of Westmoreland had come to show their fellows on the South Downs how to drive sheep. They brought with them twelve dogs—dogs that can do everything but speak, and can do the work of two men in shepherding.

The twelve courses were run first through a confined gap with a line of hurdles, then along a narrow flag-marked track. This was the way the sheep had to be driven. Three sheep went to each dog, the shepherd being roped to a stake in the centre and controlling his dog by whistles of differing length and quick gesticles of the arms.

The result was marvellous. The dogs understood the language of whistles as well as a human being comprehends words. They dashed backward and forward behind the sheep, steered them through the gap and then round the sweep of the course until the finishing pen was reached.

One graybeard of a shepherd interpreted his whistles thus:

Three whistles, drive on.

One long, one short, run outside to sheep.

A long whistle, lie down and stop.

Two short whistles, drive straight.

"One man," said this old shepherd, "with two good dogs can manage two thousand sheep. They are better shepherds than men. I have known one of our sheep dogs rescue a sheep from a bog where no man would venture. We train our dogs from puppies, and in sixteen months they are usually good at work. They are specially bred, and show an instinct for shepherding from the first. They are the best dogs in the world."

The fastest time for the quarter-mile course was 41-2 minutes, and the next fastest 5 1-4 minutes. No sound of any kind was made by the dogs when running their trials.

COCK OF THE OCEAN.

Indomitable Has Had Trophy Vane Made Commemorating Trip.

An appropriate symbol of the prowess of the record breaking Indomitable has been adopted. Every man aboard, from the captain to the domestic, is proud of the ship, though the run from Quebec necessitated an endurance far more severe than the ordinary conditions of naval life. A resplendent cock has been manufactured with a comb consisting of the Prince of Wales' feathers, and the trophy is mounted as a vane at the mast-head to indicate that the Indomitable is the cock of the ocean. The King and Queen, accompanied by Prince Edward of Wales, Princess Victoria, with Princess Henry of Battenberg and her sons, went on board the Indomitable soon after her arrival to welcome the Prince of Wales. This was the King's first acquaintance with the ocean greyhound, which made so wonderful a run from Quebec. The Queen visited the ward room and the gun room, and, in fact, went all over the ship, and throughout the inspection she and Prince Edward were busy taking photographs. A number of distinctions were conferred. Capt. King Hall received the C.V.O., and the King presented Commander Fisher, Navigating Officer Webster, Engineer Commanding Ayers and Mr. Gracie, managing director of the Fairfield Shipbuilding Co., with the M.V.O. The King personally congratulated Capt. King Hall on the fine performance of the Indomitable across the Atlantic. The Prince of Wales was photographed at his own request with the entire ship's company, and the picture will constitute a happy memento of the fastest run a battleship has ever made.

$50,000 For Heroism.

Carrying a wounded officer on his back, across fields burning from the heat of a tropical sun, with only the thought of reaching medical aid before the gaping wound brought death to the sufferer, has finally brought its reward to Harry Dalley, of Waukesha, Wisconsin, formerly a soldier in the British army.

While serving in one of the colonies Dalley took part in many skirmishes until one day the commanding officer fell, shot down in a country familiar only to the enemy, where settlements were few. The officer's fall was noticed by Dalley in the heat of the fight and the wounded man rescued.

A month ago Dalley was called abroad by the news that this officer had willed him $50,000, one-third of his fortune, and he returned to Waukesha a short time afterward with the money.

Preferred Pavement.

Thackeray's crossing-sweeper who kept his carriage was not entirely a creation of his imagination. "I knew a man," says Dagonet, in The London Referee, "who took his stand daily outside a public-house, fetched cabs, and did odd jobs. His relations were very well off indeed, and a year or two ago they persuaded him to go and live with them. After leading a life of luxury for a couple of months he reappeared one day outside the public-house. I—knowing his circumstances—asked him why he had left comfort for the cold pavement. 'I had to,' he said. 'I stood it as long as I could, but when they wanted me to dress for dinner every time they had company I chucked it.'"

Penny Postage to France.

The movement in favor of penny postage to France has received a check from the Postmaster-General of Great Britain. The proposal was forwarded by a number of business organizations, including the Glasgow Chamber of Commerce, but Mr. Buxton has informed the supporters that no alteration can be made.

CAUGHT BY THE GRIP--
RELEASED BY PE-RU-NA

La Grippe is Epidemic Catarrh.

THE disease now known as 'grip' used to be called 'influenza.'

It very closely resembles a cold, but is more tenacious in its hold upon the system and produces more profound disturbances.

Grip is in reality epidemic catarrh. When it once begins it spreads over the country very rapidly.

People do not catch the grip from each other, but each one catches it from the atmosphere.

"Most Effective Medicine Ever Tried for La Grippe."

Robt. L. Madison, A. M., Principal of Gullowhee High School, Painter, N. C., is chairman of the Jackson County Board of Education.

He is a writer of occasional verse and has contributed to a number of leading papers and magazines,—religious, educational and secular.

In speaking of Peruna, Mr. Madison says:

"I am hardly ever without Peruna in my home. It is the most effective medicine that I have ever tried for la grippe.

"It also cured my wife of nasal catarrh. Her condition at one time was such that she could not at night breathe through her nostrils.

"In consequence, an inflamed condition of the throat was brought about, getting worse and worse and yielding to no remedy until Peruna was tried."

Healthy Mucous Membranes.

Those who are fortunate enough to have perfectly healthy mucous membranes ordinarily do not catch the grip.

The mucous membranes lining the nose, throat and lungs, when in a normal state, are an effectual barrier against the invasion of grip.

But, if there happens to be the slightest catarrhal derangement of the mucous membranes, then the victim becomes an easier prey to the grip.

This in part explains why some people get the grip, while others do not.

The rational thing to do is to keep the system free from catarrh. In attempting to do this most people have found Peruna to be invaluable.

Systemic Catarrh, the Result of La Grippe. Pe-ru-na Receives Credit for Present Good Health.

Mrs. Jennie W. Gilmore, Box 44, White Oak, Ind. Ter., formerly Housekeeper for Indiana Reform School for Boys, writes:

"Six years ago I had la grippe, which was followed by systemic catarrh.

"The only thing I used was Peruna and Manalin, and I have been in better health the last three years than for years before.

"I give Peruna all the credit for my good health."

During an epidemic of grip Peruna should be used. The dose recommended on the bottle are sufficient.

After the grip has once been acquired, Dr. Hartman recommends the use of Peruna in teaspoonful doses every hour during the acute stage, after which the directions on the bottle should be followed.

Experience has shown that the people who use Peruna as a remedy for grip generally recover sooner and are less liable to the distressing and long-continued after-effects of the grip.

When Peruna has not been used during the course of the grip and the patient finds himself suffering from the after-effects of this disease, a course of Peruna should be resorted to.

Suffered Twelve Years From After-Effects of La Grippe.

Mr. Victor Patnesande, 826 Madison St., Topeka, Kan., member of Knights and Ladies of Security, writes:

"Twelve years ago I had a severe attack of la grippe and I never really recovered my health and strength—but grew weaker every year, until I was unable to work.

"Two years ago I began using Peruna and it built up my strength so that in a couple of months I was able to go to work again.

"This winter I had another attack of la grippe, but Peruna soon drove it out of my system. My wife and I consider Peruna a household remedy."

Pneumonia Followed La Grippe.

Mr. T. Barnecott, West Aylmer, Ontario, Can., writes:

"Last winter I was ill with pneumonia after having la grippe. I took Peruna for two months, when I became quite well, and I can say that any one can be cured by it in a reasonable time at little expense."

Pe-ru-na—A Tonic After La Grippe.

Mrs. Chas. E. Wells, Sr., Delaware, Ohio, writes: "After a severe attack of la grippe, I took Peruna and found it a very good tonic."

Mrs. Jane Gift, Athens, Ohio, writes: "Six years ago I had la grippe very bad. I read a testimonial of a woman who had been cured of grip by Peruna. My husband bought me a bottle of Peruna. I was soon able to do my work. I continued using it until I was cured."

Forehanded.

Little Katherine had been boarding on a farm, and many of the rural expressions were wholly unfamiliar to her. One day she chanced to hear her country hostess praising the good qualities of a thrifty neighbor.

"He really ain't got much compared to some folks," said the farmer's wife, "but he makes out wonderful well. He's so forehanded."

That evening the man thus lauded happened to drop in, and Katherine immediately sidled up to him, with curious eyes. Slowly she revolved about the chair in which he sat, and so persistently did she gaze at him that the farmer's wife finally noticed it.

"Well, Katherine," she said, "you seem to find a good deal to look at in Mr. B., don't you?"

"Why," replied the child, her little forehead wrinkling in perplexity, "I did want to see his two uvver hands, but, I can't. Is he sittin' on 'em?"

He Got the Ad.

"You're not on that horrid paper, are you?" cried the girl who speaks her mind, "though I did once meet a reporter from it who was rather nice. He came to see about getting an advertisement— What! Not a reporter? Why, I thought he was. Well, anyway, I had lost a dog, and he said he had heard of it and wanted to know if I didn't want to advertise in his paper for it. I told him I didn't believe I liked his old paper, and he said he didn't think much of it himself, but he thought it was pretty apt to reach the class of people who stole dogs. And so since he was so polite about it I thought I might as well advertise in it. But I didn't get the dog."

Libels on Dogs.

After all, man does not remember the dog's good qualities as he should. Look at the similes he uses—"as lying hound," "mean as a hound dog," "dog" and "low down cur." Man hardly can think of a lower name than one connected with dogs. And in horse racing the worthless ones are called "dogs." It seems a little ungrateful when one remembers all that a dog will bear from a man and still love him.

Rich Coal Discovery.

A remarkably rich seam of coal has been discovered at Coombs Wood, North Worcestershire, England. The seam lies at a depth of 300 yards from the surface, and is no less than 10 yards thick, while it covers an area of 400 acres. Other valuable seams are said to exist both above and below it. It is estimated that in this one mine there is sufficient coal to supply the manufacturing needs of the district for half a century.

Cow's Strange Meal.

A farmer named Michael Pension, who took some grazing land at Arklow county, Wicklow, Ireland, found that the manes and tails of his horses had been cut, and informed the police. A strict watch was kept, with the result that a cow was discovered in the act of eating what remained of one of the horse's tails.

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Port Burwell Breakwater Extension and dredging", will be received at this office until 4.30 P.M. on Tuesday November 3, 1908, for the construction of an Extension to the Breakwater, and Dredging at Port Burwell, Elgin County, Ontario, according to a plan and specification to be seen at the offices of J. ALL PLOT OF THE KAISER

Parisian Journal Says Emperor Wilhelm Raised Whole Trouble to Humiliate Britain and Check Reform In Turkey—Servian Restlessness Continues and Movement is on Foot to Force War.

Paris, Oct. 10.—The Journal des Debats publishes a letter from what it calls an unusually well-informed source, describing the Balkan situation as a veritable plot of which Emperor William is the real author, with Baron Von Aehrenthal, the Austro-Hungarian Foreign Minister, a willing tool. It was the Emperor's object to humiliate Great Britain as a friend of the new regime in Turkey and at the same time to inflict a blow on the "Young Turkey," whose ascendancy threatened the German influence in the Empire. Ferdinand and Bulgaria were drawn in, the writer of the letter declares, in order to involve Russian sympathy and paralyze opposition from that quarter.

Valetta, Oct. 10.—The battleship Prince of Wales, flagship of Prince Henry of Battenberg; the battleship Glory, the cruisers Diana and Suffolk, and the torpedo-boat destroyers Angler and Banshee sailed yesterday for the Aegean Sea. The squadron will be followed later by the battleship Canopus and the cruiser Minerva.

Buda-Pesth, Oct. 10.—An explanation is being demanded of Belgrade regarding the reported calling out of the Servian reserves.

In the meanwhile Austria-Hungary has notified the signatory powers of the necessity adequately to protect her frontiers, including that of Bosnia and Herzegovina.

Baron Von Aehrenthal, the Foreign Minister, in view of the more pacific tone of yesterday's despatches from Belgrade, is hopeful that Servia will refrain from any further hostile action.

Belgrade, Servia, Oct. 10.—Theatre Square yesterday was the scene of renewed demonstrations by the populace. They were directed mainly against the Government, the demonstrators demanding the resignation of the Cabinet.

The already strong movement against King Peter is growing in strength, and the organizers of it are demanding that he either declare war against Austria-Hungary or abdicate in favor of his son, Crown Prince George.

The members of the National Assembly are arriving for an extraordinary session of that body, to be held to-day. This session is being awaited with intense interest.

The Austro-Hungarian legation here is strongly guarded by gendarmes.

Averted Balloon Catastrophe.

New York, Oct. 10.—A special to The Times from Springfield, Mass., says:

A balloon catastrophe was averted yesterday by Leo Stevens, who, at the height of 1,900 feet, climbed from the car into the rigging of the balloon Boston, and, poising himself on his elbows, opened the safety valve with his teeth. Five thousand people literally held their breath during the feat.

Floyd B. Smith of Yonkers and Harland T. Pierpont, a newspaper man, were in the balloon with Stevens.

Deported Crippled Boy.

London, Oct. 10.—(C. A. P.)—Last July a family named Wheeliker, one of whom, a boy, was crippled, emigrated to Canada. Before sailing Wheeliker was assured by the Canadian Government agent at Liverpool that there would be no difficulty about the boy's admission on account of defectiveness, but the boy was deported, in consequence of which the whole family returned.

Royalty Witnesses Flight.

Lemans, Oct. 10.—Wilbur Wright the aeroplanist, made several flights which were witnessed by Dowager Queen Marguerita of Italy, and among his passengers were LA.-Gen. Baden-Powell of the British army, Count Serge Kaznakoff, a chamberlain to the Russian Emperor; H. Hebolte and Commandant Boutsleaux, director of the military aerostatic park at Meudon.

British Yukon Gold Co.

Ottawa, Oct. 10.—Incorporation has been granted to the British Yukon Gold Mines Co., Ltd., with headquarters at Toronto and a capitalization of one and one-quarter million dollars.

The provisional directors are: Jas. Crawford Mitchell, Charles Wesley Mitchell, George Tilley, James Hopeson and William Kelly.

Fine Bank Building.

Winnipeg, Oct. 10.—The Bank of Montreal has purchased the Canada Permanent block on the corner of Portage avenue and Main street, and will erect a structure to cost about half a million dollars. The property has a frontage of 128 feet on Main street and 238 on Portage avenue, and the price paid was approximately $300,000.

THE MARQUIS OF RIPON STEPS DOWN

Lord Privy Seal Retires Because of Advanced Age.

CREWE WILL SUCCEED HIM

Veteran British Statesman Has Reached Eighty-First Year, After Busy Career In Various Cabinets and Many Capacities — Crewe Will Still Hold Portfolio of Secretary For the Colonies.

London, Oct. 10.—The Marquis of Ripon, Lord Privy Seal, has resigned, owing to his advanced age.

The Earl of Crewe succeeds to the office, and, in addition, will retain the portfolio of Secretary of State for the Colonies.

George Frederick Samuel Robinson, first Marquis of Ripon, son of the first Earl of Ripon, and nephew of first Earl de Grey, was born on Oct. 24, 1827, and succeeded to both peerages in 1859. He was first returned to the House of Commons in 1852 as member for Hull, represented Huddersfield, 1853-57, and the west riding of Yorkshire until he entered the Upper House. In 1859 he was appointed Under Secretary for War, and in 1861 was transferred to the Indian Office. In 1863 Lord Ripon entered the Liberal Cabinet as War Secretary, later becoming Indian Secretary. He sat in Mr. Gladstone's first Cabinet as Lord President of the Council, and during his tenure of that office was chairman of the joint commission for drawing up the Treaty of Washington. He was grand master of the Order of Freemasons between 1871 and 1874, and in the latter year became a Roman Catholic.

The marquis was Governor-General of India from 1880 to 1884, and his administration was conspicuous for sympathetic treatment of native questions and grievances, a course which prompted strong criticism from the older officials. In 1886 he had charge of the Admiralty, and was Secretary for the Colonies in 1892-1895. On Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman's appointment as Premier, Lord Ripon became Lord Privy Council and acted for a time as leader of the Ministerialist party in the House of Lords. On his resigning the latter duty he was succeeded by the Earl of Crewe. Lord Ripon has always been a staunch Liberal, and was on close terms of intimacy with Mr. Gladstone. Lord Ripon has always held a high place in the esteem of his party.

Carnegie Gives $20,000.

New York, Oct. 10.—The fact that Andrew Carnegie has contributed $20,000 to the campaign fund of the Republican national committee was announced yesterday by Chairman Timothy L. Woodruff.

Mr. Woodruff also announced that Mrs. Russell Sage had contributed $1,000 to the same fund.

There have been no other large contributions, Mr. Woodruff said.

The committee has decided to ask $50 from 10,000 business men interested in the principles of the party.

Ready in Six Years.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—The Panama Canal, the completion of which is anxiously awaited as an event of international import, will be open to navigation in six years, after a sum of $356,000,000 has been expended on its construction.

This statement was made yesterday by Representative James A. Tawney of Minnesota before the thirty-ninth annual meeting of the Fire Underwriters' Association of the Northwest.

Must File Claims.

Ottawa, Oct. 10.—Notice is given in The Canada Gazette that under the winding-up order creditors of the Bank of Ontario are asked to file their claims with the Royal Trust Co., Toronto, liquidators of the bank.

If they fail to do so they will be excluded from the benefits of the winding-up order.

The report of the liquidators on the claims of creditors will be made to the official referee on Oct. 30.

Four Days In Open Boat.

New York, Oct. 10.—After having abandoned their dismasted and waterlogged vessel, and passing four days in a small open boat on a storm-swept ocean, Capt. Charles F. Hines and the crew of seven men of the Baltimore schooner, J. A. Matheson, were brought into this port yesterday on the steamer Seminole, returning from San Domingo.

General Shot at Fight.

Askabad, Turkestan, Oct. 10.—During manoeuvres of the Turkestan army corps yesterday in the vicinity of Askabad, Gen. Mistchenke, who played a conspicuous part in the Russo-Japanese war, and who is now governor-general of Turkestan, was wounded in a sham battle. A revolutionist plot is suspected.

A Week in a Dory.

London, Oct. 10.—(C.A.P.)—Two Nova Scotian fishermen, Burke and Bourbine, members of the crew of the schooner Bohemian, landed at Liverpool, rescued after spending a week in a dory, suffering terrible privations. Burke saved his comrade, who was demented, twice from suicide.

Just Won't Work.

Ottawa, Oct. 10.—Walter Herbert, aged 50, an English immigrant, has worked only one week since March last, though several jobs have been procured for him.

Magistrate O'Keefe sentenced him to three months' hard labor.

Murdered by Filipinos.

Manila, Oct. 10.—Charles H. Trotter, an Americans, and Vincento Toledo and Jose Canayan, Spaniards, were killed last Wednesday near Lubao, in the Provinces of Pampagna, by a party of Filipinos.

The men were murdered with bolos and their bodies were mutilated.

Americans Fishing In Canadian Waters Are Ordered to Heave to and Refusing Fusillade Is Opened With Rifles—Splinters Fly From Boat, But No Word Has Been Received of Any Casualties.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Oct. 10.—According to reports brought down to the Soo from up Lake Superior, there is something doing that will interest the Fishery Departments of Canada and the United States.

For some days Game Wardens Calbeck and Hand have been on a tour of investigation up the lake, with authority from the respective Governments to apprehend certain Americans who, it is alleged, have been fishing in Canadian waters.

Report has it that Thursday the Canadians surprised the Americans opposite Whitefish, or a little west, and upon the Americans refusing to heave to when requested to do so, the Canadians opened fire on them with rifles. The Americans apparently escaped, but it is not yet known whether the fusilade from the Canadian boats resulted in any casualties.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Belleville's population is 9,808, an increase of 293.

The postoffice at Rossisle, Man., was robbed of $280.

The body of Mitchell Moulton was found drowned, near Fredericton, N.B.

The public hall at Orville was burned and the people believe it was set on fire.

About half the striking machinists have gone back to work at Port Arthur.

Clement Lyons, aged 5, accidentally shot himself dead at Fredericton, N.B.

Seventy British mechanics arrived and were taken to the Angus shops at Montreal.

Charged with forging two checks, a 16-year-old boy named Godfrey is in jail at Belleville.

The next annual convention of the Lakes-to-Gulf Deep Waterways Association will be held in New Orleans.

Friends of Jas. P. Dent, who disappeared from Montreal, believe he is still alive and has gone away to escape an unhappy home life.

Borrowed Money By Force.

Vancouver, B.C., Oct. 10.—Magistrate Williams yesterday morning sentenced Marachino Yoshida to twelve months' imprisonment at hard labor for borrowing money from a number of his compatriots after sending them threatening letters and forcing his demand for funds by displaying and firing a revolver.

Censures the Officers.

London, Oct. 10.—The presentment of the grand jury of the fall Assizes in connection with the case of Private Moir, censures certain officers at Wolseley Barracks for carelessness in allowing such large quantities of ammunition to be available to the soldiers.

Earl Takes Third Bride.

London, Oct. 10.—The Earl of Rosslyn has taken for the third time a venture upon matrimony. The bride is Miss Vera Mary Bayley, a beautiful young Irish girl, and the marriage was celebrated at the registry office in Buckingham Palace road.

The new and third Lady Rosslyn is not wealthy, while Lord Rosslyn is practically broke, his creditors allowing him a scant $5,000 a year. Lord Rosslyn's first marriage was to Violet Vyner, whom he divorced for desertion, and the earl's second wife was Anna Robinson, who divorced him.

Veterans to Meet In Ottawa.

Ottawa, Oct. 10.—Representatives of all South African Veterans' associations throughout Canada, from Halifax on the east to Victoria in the west, will assemble in Ottawa on Monday next for the purpose of forming a Dominion association and discussing many matters in the interests of the volunteers who served in the late war. These associations represent over seven thousand of the 8,700 men who went to South Africa with different Canadian contingents.

Grey Returning.

Winnipeg, Oct. 10.—Earl Grey is returning to Ottawa from a perilous trip over the Rocky Mountains.

He traveled on horseback through the southern part of British Columbia. Reaching the summit of the mountains near Argunta, the party was compelled to go on foot with packs on their backs over risky paths till the foothills were reached. The party were taken to Cranbrook, B.C., on a handcar.

Strike-Breaking Papermakers.

Livermore Falls, Me., Oct. 10.—Twenty-six strike-breaking papermakers arrived here yesterday from Albany, N.Y., to go to work in the mills of the International Paper Co., which have been closed on account of the strike for over two months.

Miss Stanley of London was elected president and Miss Snively, Toronto, vice-president; Miss Lewis, Montreal, second vice-president, and Miss Brent, Toronto, secretary.

They have decided to affiliate all local and provincial units and to form a Canadian association and to join the International Council of Women.

Suffragettes Appeal to Public.

London, Oct. 10.—The suffragettes have issued an appeal to the public to help them rush the House of Commons when it meets on Oct. 13.

The leader of the suffragettes, Mrs. Drummond, says that they expect the help of 50,000 persons in storming the House.

Carter Is Grand Master.

Columbus, O., Oct. 10.—W. S. Carter of Peoria, Ill., was Thursday night elected grand master of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, to succeed John J. Hannahan. Mr. Carter has been secretary of the organization for a number of years.

Col. Leslie Acquitted.

Toronto, Oct. 10.—In the sessions yesterday morning Col. J. K. Leslie came up for trial on the charge of obtaining $2,080 from Charles H. Dee by false pretences and Judge Winchester dismissed the case without sending it to the carefully-selected jury.

Was Borden In the Deal?

Fowler Wrote Lefurgey to "Keep it Mum" From All Except Borden and Bennett.

Mr. R. L. Borden recently stated that in the Moncton land deal Hon. Mr. Emmerson enriched himself. There is not a shadow of foundation for this statement, and absolutely no evidence pointing to such a conclusion. The property was purchased upon the certificate of value signed by Mr. Sumner, who is the Conservative candidate opposing Mr. Emmerson at the approaching election.

Take a case in which Mr. Borden's name appears. When Messrs. Pope, Fowler, Lefurgey and Bennett were planning the purchase of Northwest lands, there is no doubt whatever that Mr. Borden contemplated joining them in the deal. The evidence of that is found in the famous "Keep it mum" letter written by Fowler to Lefurgey, after everybody had been fixed. It will be remembered that the president of the C. P. R. had been seen. Mr. D. Mann had been seen, everything and everybody had been fixed, and Lefurgey was enjoined to keep it mum, but to tell just Borden and Bennett.

What did this mean? Unless Mr. Borden contemplated joining in the deal why was he to be told about it, and "mums the word" with everybody else? There is much more evidence to connect Mr. Borden with the unsavory Pope, Fowler, Bennett, Lefurgey, Foster land scandal in Northwest lands than there was to connect the name of Mr. Emmerson with a transaction in which his name does not appear at all.

How Foster Hedged.

The session before last Mr. Foster announced that he would speak on the financial policy of the Government, charging extravagance in the public service. About this time the pension bill to ex-Cabinet Ministers was passed under which Foster got $5,500 a year for doing nothing. He promptly dropped his attack. Shortly after the Government repealed the act taking Foster's pension away from him. Foster promptly returned to the attack and charged the Government with extravagance. Foster is only human. He was willing to put $5,500 a year of the people's money in his pocket for nothing, but he was also willing to drop his attack on the Government as a mark of appreciation.

Pure Innocence.

David Marshall of East Elgin has written a letter to The Toronto News and among other things, speaking of the summons served upon Mr. Hepburn, he says:

"I did not know that a summons had been served on Mr. Hepburn on nomination day until after it was done."

This is delightful. It is quite possible there were others who did not know the summons was served until the event had taken place. The Conservatives do say strange things at times, to explain difficult positions.

They Flocked Around Him.

It is a fact worthy of comment that no sooner did Foster get his hands on the money of the Foresters than there flocked around him a horde of hungry politicians of the Conservative persuasion. Dr. Montague, Robt. P. Roblin, Attorney-General Campbell of Manitoba, Geo. Fowler, Rufus Pope, Lefurgey, Bennett—all of them dipped into the trough, and Foster raked in the shekels from both ends of the deal.

The McGreevy-Langevin steal will not soon be forgotten. The cost to contractors for work done was $3,184,250; cost to the country, $3,138,234; contractors' profits, $953,975, a large part of which went into the Tory corruption fund. The country was robbed of at least $700,000 in this deal alone, or seven times as much as the Liberals are charged with in twelve years of office.

The party of purity is doing quite well and whiskey and money were plentiful in Colchester, N.S. The man who found a basket of booze on his doorstep in the morning did not know where it came from, he only remembered supplying the basket.

The Curran bridge was estimated to cost the country $182,000, it really cost the country $430,000. There was a clean rake-off here of $270,000. This by the party who denounce rake-off, but did not hesitate to make it when they had the chance.

When in power the Conservatives bought a piece of land in St. John, N.B., for $200,000. The owner swore it was worth $93,401, and the assessed value was $60,000. At least three prices were paid for this land—This was done by the party of purity.

Mr. Borden has not yet explained how whiskey was sent into Colchester to elect John Stanfield, and labelled "choice tomatoes." This reminds us of the story of "Come along, John, and help us to put down bribery and corruption, we have lots of money."

In the Cross-Wall contract the contractors were paid $382,448, or $70,000 more than the lowest tenderer would have done the work for. The contribution to campaign funds out of this steal was $25,000. How is this for a party of purity?

The original estimate of the cost of the Galops Canal was $300,000. The actual cost to the country was $900,000. This was done by the party of economy.

Tories gave away more timber in one year free than the Liberal party disposed of in twelve years by public competition to the highest bidder.

Too Rapid Trouble.

Edyth—Mr. Wisewall seems to be a cautious young man.

Mayme—You bet he is! They say he never kisses a girl without first obtaining her written consent.—Pittsburg.

AUTHOR--TRAMP--M.P.

BELLOC ONE OF CLEVEREST OF BRITISH LEGISLATORS.

His Literary Work Ranges From Delightful Nonsense Books to Deep Criticism and His Nimble Wit Is Bane of Liberal Government—He Is an Energetic and Whole-Souled Legislator.

Hilaire Joseph Peter Belloc is an all-round man with an all-round brain. He is broad enough to sit on the Liberal benches in the British House of Commons, and at the same time worry the Liberal Government.

His gift of speech got him out of a tight corner one day in a remote part of Italy. He was indulging in one of his beloved pastimes—tramping. He strode into the village, a knapsack on his back, a care-for-nobody look in his deep-set eyes, a beam of quiet pleasure on his Napoleonic-looking face. The untraveled Italian peasants crowded round him. They took him for a spy. They flashed their knives. They gave him the choice of being stabbed there and then, or tied up and locked in. But he began to talk. He spoke Italian. They liked his voice. He smiled. He told them about Hilaire Belloc. They let him go.

Perhaps the broadest feature about him, next to his square compact frame, with its tight indications of physical strength, is his authorship. Hilaire Belloc has written a book about a saunter from Toulon to Rome, centre of his faith. He has written prose poems about Sussex, where he lives. He has written a book of English topography; a novel of irony, called "Emanuel Burden"; a volume of deep criticism on the poets of the French Renaissance; a quaint book on literary journalism; a work on Makers of the French Revolution, and several light books of fooling. Twelve years ago, when still very young, he wrote a lovely thing called "The Bad Child's Book of Beasts."

He has pored long over many books, burned much midnight oil. But he has kept his strong frame in tone and condition by the swinging delights of exercise in the open air. He has walked thousands of miles in English lanes, and along the by-paths of France and Italy. He has tautened his muscles and cleared his brain by working hard before the mast on the good salt sea.

In the House of Commons he has an extremely serious style of speaking. He feels strongly. When he gets the ear of the House on a subject close to his heart, he throws up vehemence with the energy of a volcano in action. He raises his eyebrows, he draws down the corner of his lips, he grips the top of his head with his strong hands, and tousles his hair with the gesticulatory accompaniments of his eloquence.

The House likes him. He is frank, traces are irksome to him. Now and then he kicks over them. Then the House of Commons sees him at his best.

When Mr. Belloc was returned for Salford he wrote to a friend, "I am now a member of Parliament. That is a fine thing for the British Empire, but rather bad for the little Belloc." Mr. Belloc earns his living by writing books—two a year—and there are six or seven little Belloes.

Like all men of deep convictions and great enthusiasm, Hilaire Belloc is capable of an occasional mistake. But, unlike most, he is not above admitting it.

"Withdraw!" came the cry of anger one night last session from a section of the House where the members of a group who thought themselves unjustly accused by Mr. Belloc were seated.

He rose immediately, and said quietly, "I withdraw." Mr. Belloc sat down.

"Apologize!" roared the crowd.

He stood up, said "I apologize," and sat down. The whole House cheered. The House of Commons likes a man.

Twentieth-Century Crusade.

A new crusade, intended to unite art, religion, and the country life, has been started at Hindhead, Surrey, England. The founder of the movement is Mr. Godfrey Blount, an artist and social reformer. He has been working on the project for eight years, and has now built his first church. He hopes to see others erected throughout the provinces. "The Country Church," as it is styled on a carved notice-board, is a small building standing in a meadow. Mr. Blount holds simple services in it every morning at a quarter to nine, and means to follow with evening services at an early date. Incense is burnt, but the liturgy is as simple and unpretentious as possible. The services are attended by young work-girls from the villages round about, where handweaving is practiced. The founder announces as the object of the movement the restoration of faith in God, the country life, and land-work.

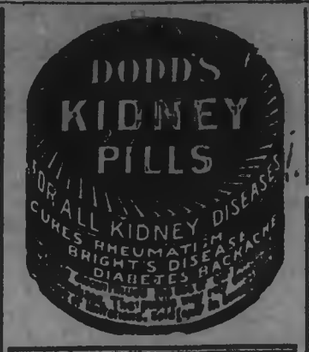
Biblical Scholar In Welsh Police.

Ex-Inspector Henry Roberts, of Pentraeth, Wales, who has been a member of the Carnarvonshire police force for over thirty-four years, possesses an interesting record. In the course of his duties as police officer he has walked over 280,000 miles, and visited every town, village, church, shop, smithy, public-house, quarry, mill, and factory in the county. He has collected over 80,000 Welsh proverbs, over 1,000 trials, and has read the Bible six times over. He has also begun a Concordance of the Welsh Bible, and has got as far as the letter "O."

Unlucky "13."

J. Darlow, of Cambridge, Eng., the eastern counties' cyclist, was expected to carry off the chief prizes at the King's Lynn sports, but, riding under No. "13," he was thrown out of his three races by accidents. He was numbered "13" at a sports meeting a few days previously, and was similarly unfortunate.

What will Col. Sam Hughes say about that great Tory scandal, the Ross rifle. It may be they are as much mistaken in other matters as in this case.



"No Last Words."

Hon. Sydney Holland, who has written over eighteen miles of letters on behalf of the London Hospital appeal, tells a good story of someone who was sent for hurriedly to see his father, who was in extremis in the London Hospital. When he arrived he was met at the door of the institution by his sister, who told him that the patient had just passed away. Very much distressed, he asked, "What were father's last words?" "He had no last words," was the answer. "Mother was with him to the end."

An Elm With a History.

Up on Gallows' Hill, Toronto, is a mighty elm which, from the northern ridge, has watched the passage of two centuries.

Ten feet from the ground a horizontal limb shoots out like an arm from the gigantic trunk. During the rebellion of 1837 a string of dead rebels dangled along its sinister length, their ghastly corpses swaying on the natural gibbet, while the trembling leaves at the top sighed in chorus. While the troubled city below surged in the agonies of civil war, the grim sentinel on the hill watched the conflict, contemptuously beckoning with eager arms fresh victims to its mighty gallows.

Bad Water In Quebec.

It has always been the boast of the city of Quebec that its water supply is of the purest, but recent reports show that for some time past they have been under a delusion. During the celebrations there the water pipes broke. The death of Major Henderson, which was at first attributed to eating green peas while on service at the tercentenary, is now known to have occurred through the infected water which he drank. There are at the present time over sixty cases of typhoid fever there. Several wells have been closed.

The Obliging Flamingo.

THE BOY WHO DIDN'T.

And Now He Probably Regrets His Little Plan.

"Please, sir," said the office boy, "may I get away this afternoon?"

"What's wrong?" asked the great financier. "Is your grandmother dead?"

Little Willie had been taught that honesty was always the best policy. He was a good boy. He never sneaked stamps from his employer, and he never threw the pretty typewriter into fits by whispering to her that he had just seen a mouse scoot under her desk. Being a truthful boy, little Willie replied:

"No, sir. I ain't got no grandmother. But the club that's in first place is going to play here today, and I'd like to see the game."

The old gentleman stared at him helplessly for a moment and then drew from his pocket $2, which he handed to the boy.

Ah, reader, you have already guessed that the great man felt in duty bound to encourage such frankness—but wait.

"Here," said Henry Hardrocks, "here's your week's wages. Don't come back any more. A boy that can't get up even a poor excuse on such an occasion as the present one would never amount to anything in this business."

Thus do we learn that in being its own reward virtue continues to have few competitors.—Chicago Record-Herald.

A Love Scene.

"Before I went away you seemed to love me."

"Yes?"

"And now you are different."

"You are mistaken—utterly mistaken."

"Are you not different?"

"No; I am indifferent."

But even that did not seem to satisfy him. Some men are hard to please.—Cleveland Leader.

Summer Barnstormers.

"What's them thar actor folks doing prowling around in the hot sun?" asked the postmaster of Bacon Ridge.

"They say they want to get the lay of the town," said the village cutup.

"Waal, they needn't to be in any hurry about that. They'll get the lay of the town and the country both tonight. The boys are out buying up every egg within four miles."—Detroit Tribune.

Gloomy Outlook.

"What are you worried about, Rastus?"

"I's worried 'bout rain, dat's what I's worried 'bout, an' I reckons I's gwinter keep worried all summer."

"But it is almost sure to rain before long."

"Yessuh. But when it do it's almos' sure to be too much or not enough."—Washington Star.

The Human Mimeos.

"Closely is such a stingy chump. He goes around rattling the dollars in his pocket, but he never spends a cent."

"Yes, I have noticed that too. Do you know why he reminds me of a sensitive plant?"

"No. Why?"

"Why, he wilts every time you touch him."—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

He Spoke Too Soon.

"Look here, old chap, forgive me for speaking of it, but you really ought to know. Your wife doesn't play a square game of bridge."

"My dear fellow, that's a compliment to you. It shows that you play such a corking game that she couldn't afford to."—New York Life.

UNHAPPY MARRIAGES.

Secret of Happiness Lies in Holding One's Tongue.

"It is the little rift within the lute," sang Tennyson, "which by and by shall make the music mute." And it is the little quarrels, the disagreements allowed to multiply and prolong themselves, that end by spoiling married life altogether and make havoc and ruin of what began with such fair promise.

Some people seem to hold the opinion of an old English ballad, "That falling out of faithful hearts, renewing, is of love." They think that quarrels made up draw people closer together, but this is one of the greatest mistakes possible. Every quarrel makes it easier for the next to follow and harder for the breach to heal.

But after the first quarrel all does not at an end. There is an unexpressed feeling that there is nothing more to lose, and nothing can be more fatal to mutual respect and affection than this. The small barrier which has served to keep one's worst side in check has been thrown down, and after this the worst side has it all its own way.

A friend of mine was once about to marry a widower whose first marriage had turned out an unhappy one. Everybody knew that the cause had been the perpetual quarrels that went on between himself and his wife, and when my friend asked me to wish her joy I am afraid I did it in a half hearted kind of way. My friend noticed it, for she was very quick, and she rather took me aback by saying quietly:

"I see you don't think it very much a matter of congratulation. You are thinking of Harry's last attempt. But I mean mine to turn out very differently."

"How are you going to insure that?" I asked.

"Easily enough. Harry and his first wife were neither of them ill tempered. They only got into a confirmed habit of wrangling because neither would give in to the other. Now, I am going to try quite a different method. It takes two to make a quarrel. I am not going to be the second. If Harry finds I never respond he will soon give up his foolish habit of squabbling."

As she had prophesied, he soon began to find quarreling a poor amusement, and, having no one to argue with, he gradually got out of his argumentative ways. When I used to remark to his wise little wife on the success of her course of treatment she only smiled and said quietly:

"Ah, if people only knew what a secret of happiness lies in holding one's tongue!"

NOVEL KITCHEN REMINDER.

Ingenious Device Saves Time and Thought For Busy Housewives.

A Tennessee genius has invented a kitchen reminder that should earn him the thanks of busy housewives. Like many time saving devices, it is simpler than the system it supplants. A card or board is notched on two sides, and opposite each month is written the name of some household article or article of food, such as soap, starch, sugar, eggs, etc. A series of strings or rubber bands are then tied around the card, loosely enough that they may be moved into any notch desired. Instead of writing out a daily list for tradesmen the housewife needs simply to attach the string in the notches indicating the article required. The same results can be obtained by having a bundle of strings tied in a knot, in the center, with their free ends long enough to be fastened in the slits on the edges of the card.

STRINGS MAY MARK THE NEEDS.

Names of Dances.

The position taken by the dandom gives the name to the "quadrille"—literal English for "a little square" in the French tongue. From the French we get also "country dance," which, as a matter of fact, has no reference to rural frolics. "Contredanse," which has reference to the position of the couples opposite each other, is readily corrupted into "country dance."

"The polka" is a Polish dance, the name being derived from the Bohemian word "pulka," meaning half, and refers to the half step which occurs in this measure.

The old time and stately "minuet" derives its name from the Latin minutes—small, applying to the short steps peculiar to this dance.

The "waltz" is German—waltzen, meaning to revolve—the circular motion of the couples easily explaining the connection. The "reel" is suggestively obvious. "Jig" is, of course, from the French gigue.

Railway Play Boxes.

Railway play boxes are making their appearance in England on the Grat Northern Co.'s line in time for the holiday rush. Children can be kept amused and quiet during the longest journeys—while mother and father reads the newspaper or fall asleep in their corner seats—by wonderful little models of trains and railway systems which can be bought for 2s. each.

WHAT SWORDS COST.

Anything From £4 4s. to £700 Can Be Paid For Good Weapon.

In the first place, remarked the Sword King, as we walked through his big London factory, we make 70,000 swords a year, and hope to go on making more, in spite of all the Peace Conferences in the world. You must know that all our steel comes from Sheffield in 14 foot lengths, each 1 1-2 inches wide; none of your German stuff for me.

Every first-class sword takes ten days to make, and goes through sixty or seventy different processes. It is then tested by being screwed into a kind of toy cannon, and brought down flat with great force on a steel table, which is covered with a wire cage in case of any accident.

After the surface has been proved the back and edge are struck against a small block of oak, the final test being that of bending, and the Toledo proof of thrusting against solid iron.

The regulation sword for an infantry officer costs £4 4s. Cavalry swords are much more expensive, the regulation weapon even for troopers in the Hussar regiments costing £6. Hussar officers also wear full-dress Mamelukes scimitars at £12 12s. each, and must possess court swords, with hilts of cut steel, which usually cost £60.

The Dragoon's sword costs as much as £8 10s., although the highly ornamented weapons worn by generals and admirals of the fleet cost but £7 to £8 each.

The same price is paid for the weighty claymores used in all Highland regiments; but the Scottish officer of expensive tastes may pay from £30 to £80 for his dirk if he desires and let with real cairngorms.

Of course, presentation swords run into a lot of money. Some time ago we had an order from the Foreign Office for a sword for a dusky monarch.

The pattern of the blade was specially designed and inscribed; the scabbard was of fish-skin, mounted with 22-carat gold, and the weapon cost £80. Many swords costing over £100, however, are made for foreign officers, and a superb weapon, ornamented with ivory, gold, silver, and precious stones, which was recently ordered for the King of Siam, cost no less than £750.—Tit-Bits.

RAILWAY LAW COURTS.

How English Employes Are Tried For Derelictions of Duty.

Regularly about once a week the head offices of big British railway companies are transformed into miniature law courts. When anything happens—such as a collision, for example—engine-drivers, guards, shunters, and platelayers are all cited to appear at the offices, so that the directors may find out who is to blame. When the man who is being charged is found guilty, they do not, as a rule, dispense with his services. His name and the nature of the offence are placed upon a kind of black list.

Should the guilty person lose his situation later, he finds it extremely difficult to get a similar one, because the manager usually refers to the "black list" when writing out the man's character.

Every engine-man concerned in a mishap must report the circumstances in writing, and also send part of the broken material to show whether the breakage is due to careless handling of the train or faulty metal. The courts-martial take a long time in coming to a decision. The officials are armed with microscopes, and the pieces are thoroughly examined. Very often the question of guilt or innocence is a knotty one, owing to the nature of the smash.

Sometimes a large number of employes are called upon to give evidence; still, the guilt is invariably fixed all the same. The men's evidence is listened to and taken down just as carefully as in a case at the Central Criminal Court.

If a man thinks he has been condemned wrongly he may appeal. A special appeal court will listen to him, and—not hurry him. If the accident in question, however, is one which the Board of Trade have inquired into, an appeal will be of no avail. The Government inspector's decision is final.

Oranges In Lindsay.

There are not many people who would believe that oranges would grow in Lindsay, Ont., and if you were to tell them that you had an orange tree that was bearing real oranges they would be inclined to think that you were joking or qualifying for the dippy house.

Mr. E. E. Spalding, who resides at the corner of Colborne and St. Paul streets, has, however, a fine orange tree which has, all told, about ten oranges on it. He has it growing right in the centre of the garden, and it is growing just as fast as any of the other trees.

The Dramatic Competition Instituted By Earl Grey

Rules And Regulations Governing The Event—System of Marking To Be Used—Will Peterborough Be Entered?

MR. O'HARA IS SECRETARY

Mr. F. C. T. O'Hara, Honorary Secretary of the Earl Grey Musical and Dramatic Trophy Committee, and whose address is in care of the Department of Trade and Commerce, Ottawa, has sent the following circular to the Examiner, referring to the competition:

The third annual Competition for the Trophies, offered by His Excellency the Governor-General, will take place at His Majesty's Theatre, Montreal, during the week commencing April 19th, 1909. The competition is open to all amateur companies in Canada and Newfoundland. The Executive Committee, however, reserve the right to reduce the number of entries from any one city or province in case the total number of entries exceeds the number which can be conveniently accommodated during the week of the competition. All entries must be filed with the honorary secretary on or before April 1st, but it is especially desired (1) that all companies intending to compete should notify the honorary secretary at the earliest possible moment, and (2) that no entry should be made until the company is reasonably certain of being able to compete. Serious embarrassment heretofore has been caused by companies dropping out at the last moment. Each company must state for which trophy it desires to compete, and comply with the rules applicable thereto.

Miss Margaret Anglin, the well known Canadian actress, has generously offered a bracelet to the lady who, in the opinion of the judge, is the best actress taking part in the competition. The length of each entertainment should not be less than one hour and not more than one hour and a half, including all intervals for changes of scenery, encores, etc. The character of the entertainment (musical or theatrical) shall be subject to the approval of the Executive Committee. The maximum number of performers in each musical or dramatic company shall be limited to 100. In the case of a dramatic production, the minimum number of speaking parts shall be 6.

Each company entering the dramatic competition shall comply with the following conditions:

No person who has within the past five years lived by the profession of the drama is eligible. It is not intended to exclude players who, while the drama is not their main calling, have accepted nominal pay from amateur dramatic associations. The stage manager only may be a professional.

Each company entering the musical competition shall comply with the following conditions:

Companies of from 25 to 50 members inclusive, may include 4 professional singers or 8 professional instrumentalists, or both in the same proportion, and companies of from 60 to 100 members, 10 per cent professional singers or 20 per cent. professional instrumentalists, or both in the same proportion, provided these professionals are bona fide members of the organization entered for the competition, and are not paid for their services in the competition performances or the rehearsals therefor. Companies under 25 must not have any professionals.

(a) Any person who has within the past five years lived by the profession of music, or been paid for services as soloist at concerts is to be classed as a professional.

(b) Musicians who, while music is not their main calling, have accepted nominal pay from church choirs or amateur musical organizations, may be classed as amateurs.

Orchestras, bands and choirs which, as such, have been paid at any time for performances, either private or public, shall be excluded.

Conductors, so long as they are the regular conductors of the organization entered, may be either professional or amateur, and be paid for their services.

Choirs or opera companies may have either professional or amateur orchestras as accompaniment, but if the former, the orchestral work shall not count in the score except for general effect.

The choral or instrumental programme (subject to rule 7) shall be left to the choice of the competing organizations, but it is suggested that choirs should choose some choral work, or part of one.

The Executive Committee will, however, select one short piece of music for choirs (for male, female, or mixed bodies), and another for instrumental organizations (string or brass), which shall be included in the programme. The selection will be made in ample time for the necessary rehearsals.

This clause does not apply to opera companies.

The following are the principal qualities by which the Dramatic competition will be judged:

1—Excellence of the company in acting together as a unit.

2—Grace or ease of carriage, and manner.

3—Diction.

4—The promptness of entrances, exits, and the picking up of cues.

5—Dress.

6—Make-up.

The following will be the system of marking in the Musical Competition:—

Orchestral—Intonation 20, technical proficiency 20, attack, precision, accuracy, 10; expression, shading, 10, balance of instruments 10, interpretation, reading, 10; bowing and phrasing, 10; general effect 10. Choral—Intonation, quality, 20; enunciation, 20; attack, precision, accuracy, 10; expression, shading, 10; balance of voices, 10; interpretation, reading, 10; technical proficiency, 10; general effect, 10.

Each entry must be accompanied by the following information:—Title of production, author or composer, synopsis, caste, estimated number of performers, night preferred during the week, time desired for rehearsals.

It would save much trouble and possible misunderstanding if competing companies could arrange to send their stage manager a few days in advance. This, however, is merely a suggestion. Opportunity will be given for rehearsals in the theatre as far as possible commensurate with the number of competing companies requesting the same privileges. The theatre is equipped with the usual scenery and properties, a list of which will be supplied to the competing companies upon application to the honorary secretary. Any additional expenses incurred by the respective companies for rent of extra furniture and stage requirements, etc., must be upon their own responsibility. The executive committee has assumed all the expenses in connection with the rent and attendants of the theatre, programmes, and the theatre orchestra for the competition week.

As soon as possible after making entry, companies intending to compete should give the honorary secretary some idea as to what hotel accommodation will be required; a list of the hotels will be furnished on application. As soon as possible after their arrival, competing companies should leave at the box office of the theatre a list of the names and addresses of their members. Each competing company is expected to pay its own expenses, and as the various companies are representing their respective cities or towns for the honour of winning His Excellency's trophies, it is possible that municipalities sending such representative companies may assist in defraying all or a portion of their expenses. The active members of all competing companies who have travelled more than ten miles will be given free admission to all performances. Heretofore, the railways have given a rate of a single fare for the round trip to competing companies, and it is expected that this will also be arranged next year.

The following gentlemen constitute the executive committee: Chairman, Sir John Hanbury-Williams, K. C., V.O., C.M.G.; Competition, John S. Ewart, Esq., K.C.; Reception, C. Berkeley Powell, Esq.; Finance, J. W. Woods, Esq.; Transportation, Lt.-Col. J. Lyons Brydges; Publicity, E. Norman Smith, Esq.; Music, Charles A. E. Harris, Esq.

LORD MILNER, FORMER COMMISSIONER FOR SOUTH AFRICA, NOW IN CANADA

which in no circumstances would he reveal. This is not the impression of the Milner as he was known in South Africa. Most people must have been struck with the astonishing frankness, possibly of course, a form of "new diplomacy," with which he would discuss all the problems of imperial politics. Nobody seemed to be less afraid of opening his heart and mind than the high commissioner.

Lord Milner was intensely hated by the Dutch as a body. But this hatred was entirely political. One could scarcely imagine how any mortal, whether British or Dutch, could feel any personal dislike of Lord Milner. Those who heard him speak in the House of Lords must have been agreeably surprised with his oratorical ability. But in the capacity of public speaker he was well known in South Africa. He has a beautiful modulated voice, and his sentences, without being too literary and pedantic, are always perfectly turned. "I admit," he once said, "that there are many questions on which I have not been able to form an opinion at all; and in that Greek state in which, if I remember rightly, a man was bound to take one side or the other on pain of death, I should have had my head cut off before I was 25."

Remarkable Industry

Everyone knows that he achieved exceptional distinction at Oxford. But the great secret of Milner's life is that he has always been ready to accept and do justice to the positions of honour and responsibility in which he has been successfully placed. His industry has always been remarkable. Work has been to him not only business, but recreation. He seems to have been quite without hobbies, athletic, or musical, or artistic. It is not certain that he has ever played any game of any kind. In South Africa he rode much on horseback. But even in this art he made very little progress. He rode, it is true, fearlessly and recklessly, often to the no small anxiety of the members of his staff who accompanied him. But his seat was always of the loosest. It is said that on one occasion, when receiving a deputation of Boers, he suddenly fell from his horse, thereby spoiling the impressive dignity of the occasion.

Many stories have been told of his mode of life when he was chairman of the Board of Inland Revenues. He would work at his official duties fifteen or sixteen hours of the day. Four or five hours' sleep sufficed for him, and his only exercise was a brief early morning ride in the park. He carried these habits with him to South Africa, where severe application becomes more and more irksome, owing to the climate, to persons of European birth. Almost the first task he imposed on himself was to master the Dutch language and to acquaint himself thoroughly with all the habits, idiosyncrasies, and prejudices of the Cape Dutch. His conscientious devotion to this task aroused some anxiety among the Cape Britons. They suspected that it meant an undue sympathy on the part of the Imperial representative to one section of His Majesty's subjects. Of course, nothing could be more absurd. Sir Alfred Milner was simply qualifying himself as usual in every possible way for the great responsibility he had assumed.

No Birth Advantages

Lord Milner owes his success mainly to his own abilities and industry. He began life without any advantages of wealth or birth or family influence. His father was a physician who had settled in Stuttgart, in Germany, and to this fact is due the statement, so often repeated by Lord Milner's enemies that he is a German. His mother was a Miss Ready, one daughter of an English major-general who was at one time Governor of the Isle of Man. Both parents died long before young Alfred Milner had entered public life. He had neither brother nor sister, and has, it is said, no near relative at all.

Like other distinguished men, Lord Milner served his apprenticeship to statecraft in the school of journalism. Thirty years ago Mr. Stead and Alfred Milner were writing "Occasional Notes" for the Pall Mall Gazette. In those days Milner was a long, thin, apathetic young man. He affected no sports, such as an Oxford graduate might aspire to, but was an accomplished and persistent swimmer. Of the "copy" Milner used to turn out, Mr. Stead says it was "the most untidy I have ever had to deal with. He sprawled all over the paper." As a rule, Milner went about his daily tasks bareheaded. It is said that the only light article he ever wrote for the newspaper was an imaginary diary of a number of South African savages on a visit to London. He did it so well that many readers considered it the work of a savage chief.

When Joseph Chamberlain resigned the Colonial Secretaryship, Lord Milner was asked to succeed him; but he declined, believing his duty at that time was to remain in South Africa.

In the Front Rank

Nearly two years ago now Lord Milner delivered an important address at Manchester, embodying a strong plea for Imperialism and social reform, which it was instantly asserted placed him in the front rank of British statesmen.

The London Times, referring editorially to the Manchester speech, said:—

"It is remarkable, because at a time when party feelings rune high, he made no reference whatever to the party polemics of the moment, for which he declared himself to have neither aptitude nor taste; and also because he discussed the questions which really interest him—those affecting the permanent interests and the very existence of the British Empire—with a breadth of view, a gravity of statement, and a comprehensive sobriety which are only too rare among our public men. His speech is welcome, not only on account of its intrinsic value, but also because it marks the entry of Lord Milner, after a necessary and well-earned period of repose, upon a field of political labour in which workers are few. In the great self-governing states which for want of a better word we still call colonies, the speech will be read with a keen interest which the accepted orators of the day have little chance of arousing, and will do as much as one man not in office can do to inculcate patience in the present, and hope for the future."

PUNT SPRINGS A LEAK

Two North Monaghan Young Men Have Narrow Escape --Were Viewing The Cavan Swamp Drain

FRIENDS ON SHORE ASSIST IN RESCUE

Examiner Special

North Monaghan, Oct. 10. — The story of the narrow escape of two North Monaghan young men is spreading throughout the township. The accident occurred on the Cavan Swamp drain which also runs through North Monaghan. About a dozen of the young men went out to inspect the progress of the work on the drain when unfortunately their craft turned turtle.

Two of them boarded an old punt known as the "Lily Rainbow" among the lot, but before they had proceeded far up the stream the boat sprung a leak. It gradually filled up with water and sank, leaving its occupants, Messrs. Wm. Andrews and L. Morrow, in mid-stream.

They swam to shore gasping for breath and it was only with the assistance of friends that they were extricated from their perilous positions.

DISPLAY WINDOW OF SELECT EATS AT THE DELICATESSEN

A display of fresh meats in one of the windows of Mr. A. E. Talbot's "Delicatessen" is attracting attention to-day by the dainty manner in which it has been arranged. The various cuts of fresh pork, lamb and beef are set in a pretty trellis work, which is relieved with roasted. The window was decorated by Mr. Thos. Gaselin, who thus obtained a splendid setting for the select cuts that are shown.

You won't have a sympathizer in town if you miss Babes in Toyland.

SEWER CONSTRUCTION IS BEING RAPIDLY PUSHED FORWARD

The city's operations in sewer construction go steadily on. After concluding the difficult stretch up the hill on Sheridan street, Mr. Martin Neary's men have commenced work on London street between Bewley and Park streets. It is understood that there is still considerable work to be done before the cold weather consolides it.

Oh, Mabel, ain't it awful, Charley didn't invite me to Babes in Toyland

THE SUCTION HOSE WAS DEFECTIVE AND CHIEF HOWARD PROVED IT

The fire brigade had a drill at Spaulding's Bay this morning, for the purpose of testing the new suction hose purchased from the Canadian Rubber Company. Chief Howard had reported the hose to the company as defective, and the company sent a representative here, hence to-days trial. The engine and other fire apparatus were taken down to the bay and made a fine showing as they proceeded down the street. Two streams were attached to the engine which operated splendidly, but the suction hose did not work properly and the representative of the company admitted that such was the case. The matter will be remedied.

THE CENTREVILLE FAIR WAS GREAT SUCCESS THE LIVE STOCK FINE

The annual Fair of the South Monaghan Agricultural Society was held at Centreville yesterday and was a most successful event. The weather was all that could be desired and the attendance was fairly large. The exhibits, especially of live stock, were excellent. According to President Leary of the Peterborough Industrial there was lots of stock and of a splendid quality. About a dozen Peterborough people attended the fair and thoroughly enjoyed the afternoon.

WAR IN SERVIA NOW BELIEVED TO BE UNAVOIDABLE BY THOSE OFFICIALS ON INSIDE TRACK

London, However, Reports Passing Over of War Clouds---German Ambassador Makes Denials---The Belgrade National Assembly

Examiner Special

Belgrade, Oct. 10.—In official circles it is now believed that war is unavoidable. M. Pasics, Minister of War, in an interview declared the situation most critical, adding "hostilities can hardly be avoided."

London, Oct. 10.—The war cloud in the Balkans is believed by British officials to be passing. The prospect of danger is with the emotional Servians and their king, who would welcome the opportunity of making his family popular by leading his soldiers to battle.

Belgrade, Oct. 10.—The extraordinary session of the National Assembly summoned to deal with the existing crisis, was opened this morning amid scenes of great excitement.

Constantinople, Oct. 10.—The German Ambassador has denied the supposition that recent events in Turkey were the result of an understanding between Germany and Austria, or any other country.

Erection Of A Bridge At Smith Street May Lead To Street Car Line Being Run Into East City

Substantial Structure Needed for The Line—Necessity of Street Railway To Lift Lock—Depends Partly on City's Action

A BOON TO THE PEOPLE

Linked with the Smith street bridge question which is now occupying the attention of the City Council, is the possibility of a street car service for East City. It is admitted by all those officially connected with civic concerns that a modern structure is needed to span the river at Smith street, and the sooner the work is begun the better. The city engineer's estimate is between $40,000.00 and $50,000.00, but precise

ON A BIGAMY CHARGE

Arrest of A Bancroft Couple Who Had Previously Run Away---Marriage Celebrated Two Years Ago

THE ATTORNEY INSISTS ON TAKING UP CASE

Examiner Special

Bancroft, Oct. 10.—James Hawley and Mrs. Pearl Lott were arrested on Saturday on a charge of bigamy. The marriage took place about two years ago and the parties were arrested at the time. Hawley was given his liberty for a short time on his promise to appear when called upon, but he made himself scarce, and Mrs. Lott left the country with her parents. They came back a short time ago and the Crown Attorney insisted on the case being taken up again. The police magistrate committed them for trial and they were taken to Belleville.

LIVELY RUNAWAY ON WATER STREET CAUSES EXCITEMENT TO-DAY

Considerable excitement was caused on Water street at 1 o'clock to-day by a runaway which threatened to have serious results, but which, fortunately, terminated in no damage. A team attached to a delivery rig became frightened at something and ran away at a lively clip, finishing up by smashing into the pavement, with the result that both horses fell off their feet. Neither was hurt, however, and the vehicle escaped undamaged.

THE THANKOFFERING SERVICES AT ST. PAUL'S W. F. M. S. THURSDAY

The annual thank offering service in connection with the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of St. Paul's Church was held yesterday afternoon and proved a most enjoyable and interesting session. The president, Miss C. Dickson, was in the chair. Mrs. Burns of Lakefield, president of the Peterborough Presbyterial, gave a comprehensive and profitable address on "Missions," which was followed with close attention by the large attendance. During the afternoon Mrs. S. Dickson Hall rendered a solo in excellent voice.

A Sixteen Year Old Boy Is Accused Of Forging Cheques; Shot Brother Two Years Ago

Succeeds in Passing One in Bancroft Store---Arrested When He Tried to Get Rid of Second---Suspicions of Store Keeper Aroused---An Unenviable Record

Examiner Special

Bancroft, Oct. 10.—A young lad named Godfrey, aged 16 years, son of Marshall Godfrey, of the Monk road, has been arrested and locked up on a charge of forging two cheques — one on John Young for $10 and the other on Robt. Campbell for the same amount. One of the cheques was made payable to Frank Baumhower and the other to Fred Baumhower. He succeeded in getting rid of one of the cheques at Kelusky's store in payment for goods, but when he attempted to use the second one in Mr. Reynold's store the latter's suspicions were aroused and his inquiries which resulted in young Godfrey's arrest. This is the same boy who shot his brother a couple of years ago while the two were alone in the house, but the coroner decided there was not sufficient evidence to prosecute. He was committed for trial by Police Magistrate Jarman and was taken to Belleville on Monday.

WATER FRONT PROBLEM

The Committee of the Whole Council did not arrive at any decision regarding the water-front problem owing to the absence from the city of several of the directors of the Peterborough Cereal Company. Mr. Meldrum was present but was not in a position to say anything definite which would be binding to the other directors.

The city fathers assembled around the rectangular table were Mayor Rush, Ald. Morrow, Morgan, Elliott, McIntyre, Johnston, Neill, Turner, Tovey and Phelan.

The next question was the Smith street bridge, of which, concerning the recent repairs, Engineer Hay had handed in a report.

As read by Ald. Phelan it pointed

WIRING IN CENTRAL BUILDINGS TO BE INSPECTED BY THE FIRE CHIEF

The regular inspection of the electric wiring in all the buildings in the centre of the city was the method of fire protection brought out by Chief Howard in his recent paper before the Board of Trade. The question has not become dormant, and has, in fact, been kept alive by many prominent business men who are interested in the matter. At the committee meeting of the whole council last night, Ald. Neill broached the subject, stating that Chief Howard was qualified for the work and had done it in Berlin.

Ald. Elliott also favoured the idea, and the Fire, Water and Light Committee will likely take up the question at once.

CHIEF HOWARD TO GET MORE WORK; WILL LIKELY SEE TO THE LIGHTING

The council have begun to take steps to increase Chief Howard's duties. It is not because they consider him unoccupied or without sufficient responsibility, but it is because he stated that he had more to do in the other cities in which he was head of the fire departments.

Ald. Phelan referred to the fact that frequently lamps go out in different parts of the city, and it is some time before they are put in condition again. He said that the chief had stated that he could shoulder this work, making regular rounds at night. This would be made easier when the chief receives the light vehicle ordered for him. Ald. Phelan is anxious to have the people secure all the light they pay for.

The other work the chief may be given is that of examining the electric wiring.

IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY OF LAYING CORNER STONE OF THE NEW ST. JAMES METHODIST CHURCH WAS PERFORMED THIS AFTERNOON

This afternoon the impressive ceremony of the laying of the corner stone of the new St. James' Methodist church was performed. A large number assembled at two o'clock to see it "well and truly laid" and to listen to the addresses of those in charge of the ceremony.

It had been arranged to have the Hon. Geo. A. Cox, of Toronto and Peterborough, present to perform the important duty, but owing to his inability to be there his place was taken by Mr. W. G. Morrow, of Peterborough. Rev. Mr. McCulloch, of Omemee, the president of the Bay of Quinte Conference, and Rev. H. J. Keith, president of the Peterborough Ministerial Association, assisted in the ceremony, the full particulars of which will be given in Monday's issue.

The Exterior

The building is being erected on the southern part of the lot. It fronts along Aylmer street 42 feet and extends back 66 feet. Provision has been made for a pretty stretch of sward on the front and both sides. The accompanying cut gives a good idea of the appearance of the church when finished. The foundation has been substantially laid and that portion above the ground is of Longford free stone and the buttresses are of the same material and are capped with cut stone. All the trimmings are of Longford stone and the facade is particularly ornate in this respect. The large arched memorial window and the main entrance on the northwest corner are set in the same stone. The building is of red brick and the walls are 14 inches thick. Red mortar is being used and the ensemble effect promises to be artistic and beautiful. On the south-west corner a tower is planned, providing for a belfry and the building when finished will be of that quaint old English style which gives a quiet charm that is most appropriate.

The Interior

The basement comprises a large hall that may be used for meetings, socials, etc. There is also a kitchen and the rest of the space is devoted to the furnaces. The auditorium occupies nearly all the first floor. The platform organ and choir lofts are on the north side. Five class rooms are also found. The vestry is on one side of the choir loft. There is a wide gallery looking down on the auditorium. It also provides five class rooms and an aisle around the railing where seating accommodation may be had when the seats on the ground floor have all been occupied. The ten class rooms for Sunday school purposes will meet all requirements for the present. It is believed. The library is located as a part of the gallery which extends around all sides but the north.

Interior Decoration

The wood used in the interior will be Georgia pine and will be seen in a natural finish. The church will have modern systems of heating, plumbing and wiring. The heating will be done by hot air, and the electric fixtures will be appropriate for the church.

The Cost

The land was purchased from Mr. D. W. Dumble for $1,800, and the entire cost of building and ground is estimated at between $14,000 and $15,000. The contractors are Messrs. Finnie and Gordon, who sub-let the stonework to Messrs. Sherwood and McFadden, the brickwork to Messrs. Goodwin and McFadden, the painting to Mr. Hall, Carton, and the plastering to Mr. W. J. Henry. The work is expected to be finished by March 1, 1909. Mr. H. C. Stubbs has been appointed inspector by the committee who have charge of the work. The personnel is as follows—Messrs. H. C. Stubbs, chairman; D. W. Dumble, A. W. Trueman, E. F. Ackerman and Geo. Morrow. When the church has been placed on a firm footing after its opening this committee will, it is understood, resign in favour of members of St. James' Church.

INSPECT FIRE HALL

Fire, Water and Light Committee Saw The Wagons in Their New Quarters---Made Fine Impression

DORMITORIES UPSTAIRS HAVE BEEN DECORATED

Mayor Rush and the Fire, Water and Light Committee met at the fire hall yesterday afternoon for the purpose of inspection. The chief had the men don their new uniforms, which have been excellently made by Mr. Huff, and lined them up in front of the fire hall, where the city fathers had a good look at them. The new suits are of the best and add much to the appearance of the men.

The chief then sounded the gong and both teams were hitched and went out on a little run. The hose waggon went to the corner of Hunter and Hall streets, where the firemen attached the new controlling nozzle and showed the mayor and aldermen the advantage of it over the old ones. The men made excellent time and after several members of the committee tried the new nozzle, all they pronounced everything very satisfactory.

The aldermen looked over the new apartments upstairs, which have been fitted up by the men themselves.

The large room on the south side will serve as the sleeping room. It contains the men's cots, and everything is very clean and bright. The walls and ceilings have all been painted a pretty blue, while an attractive border has been put on the wall. The beds and the smaller spaces have also been painted, and fixed up by the men and they did a job which is certainly a credit to them.

THE TROWEL IN LAYING CORNER STONE—FINE PIECE OF WORKMANSHIP

The silver trowel with which the corner-stone of St. James' Methodist Church was laid this afternoon was obtained from Mr. F. S. Schneider, the George street jeweller, and is a splendid piece of work, attracting much attention while on display in the window of the establishment during the past few days. The trowel bears the following inscription: "With this trowel Hon. Geo. A. Cox laid the corner-stone of St. James' Methodist Church, Peterborough, Oct. 10, 1908."

SPECIMEN BRICK.

"Mr. J. H. Burnham, Conservative candidate," as we are informed by the Review, opened his campaign in this county (sic) at Bensfort last night. "Among other marvellous things he is reported as saying:

The extraordinary increase in national expenditure was the theme of general disapproval in Great Britain, where our last Dominion loan was only half subscribed, while an Irish loan of large proportions was subscribed seventy-nine times over.

To say that this statement is a false statement would be rude, but not so rude as true. Read and remember what Mr. Burnham says, and then read the truth as stated in this paragraph, taken from the financial page of the last issue of the Toronto Saturday Night, under the heading "A Contrast":

"The Dominion Government last week floated a loan in London of £5,000,000, bearing 3 1-2 per cent. at par. This loan, like the July issue, of similar amount, but bearing 3 3-4 per cent. is partly for the conversion of 4 per cent. borrowings, there being £2,250,000 of such maturing in November. The present low rate indicates that something was gained by having recourse to short term notes rather than to ordinary long-term issues during months of extreme monetary stringency. Russia also obtained a loan last week. It was floated in Paris, and the terms were IN STRIKING CONTRAST to those of the Canadian loan. The Russian loan bears 4 1-2 per cent., and was floated at 91, as compared with ours of 3 1-2 per cent. at 100. An American financial journal, in commenting on these issues, says:—"The higher rate and lower price of the Russian issue compared with the lower rate and the higher price of the Canadian issue, indicate not only the price which has to be paid for an overworked credit in the case of Russia, but also measures the premium which a developing country of a comparatively small public debt like Canada enjoys in the money markets of the world. Although Canada and Russia are very different countries in their history, their state of economic development is in some respects similar and they are both possessed of enormous natural resources. But it is not simply people and natural resources that give strength to a country's credit. Much depends on the conditions under which the population is permitted to work out its own salvation by the exploitation of these resources."

Now, Mr. Burnham, the Conservative candidate, is chargeable with a four-ply offense. First, decrying the credit of his country; second, falsifying the record to do it; third, attempting to deceive the electors he was professing to instruct and asking to trust him; and, fourth, insulting their intelligence in so doing. But let us give Mr. Burnham a chance—the chance to say whether he was stating what he knew to be, as in fact it was, untrue; or whether he didn't know what he was talking about. Even that won't help him much, for if he knew what he said was untrue, he shouldn't have said it; if he didn't know what he was talking about he shouldn't talk.

The weight of what Mr. Burnham said, (we are dealing with him as the Conservative candidate), is not important—it won't interrupt diplomatic relations between Parliament Hill and Downing Street—the importance lies in the fact that, at the very threshold of his country campaign, at his opening meeting, he discredits the character he assumes and that which his fellow-stumpers give him. In the Review, Mr. Burnham, the candidate, has been prating columns of hypocritical cant about lofty morality, political honesty, etc. At Bensfort the only qualification advanced in support of Mr. Burnham's fitness for a representative was that he was an "honest man with an unblemished character." What is an honest man? A man who tells the truth and scorns to deceive. Did Mr. Burnham tell the truth about the last Canadian loan? We shan't say; but leave it to higher authority: "Saturday Night says he did not; this Insurance and Finance Chronicle, which published an article about the loan on all fours with that of Saturday Night, says he did not; London despatches say he did not; the records of the Finance Department, Ottawa, say he did not. Mr. Burnham's four fold offence has a four fold punishment.

But why make such a fuss over so small a matter? It might be considered a small matter for a common honest man, but it is a great matter for a man who claims superlative honesty and square dealing; a man whose sole political capital is his professions of honesty; who seeks to plod into Parliament on the hobby horse of honesty; a man whose sole plan of campaign is to blacken his opponent's character in order that his own honesty may shine the brighter.

Will a man who begins his platform campaign by deceiving the electors in one thing, stop at that?

MR. STRATTON'S CITY MEETING.

Liberals are asked to remember the usual Saturday night rally in Mr. Stratton's committee rooms tonight. The usual interesting addresses including reports of progress in the country as developed by the week's platform campaign.

The electors are also reminded of the mass meeting to be held in the Grand Opera House on Thursday evening, Oct. 15th. Addresses will be given by Hon. Senator Cox, Messrs. R. B. Hall, D. O'Connell, G. M. Rogers, A. Macfarlane, and the candidate, Hon. J. R. Stratton. Boxes and gallery will be reserved for ladies and their escorts. A cordial invitation is extended to the public, generally.

MAKING A MAGPIE.

Col. Miller, speaking in South Monaghan, scored a magpie—the furthest possible point from the bull's-eye. He condemned the Ross rifle. The Review report states that "Col. Miller dealt with a subject with which he was perfectly familiar." Is that so? No. What does Col. Miller know about the Ross rifle? He may have had one in his hands, but he knows nothing about the mechanism of it, or its accuracy. He never fired a shot with it. Col. Miller speaks with a positiveness which his knowledge does not warrant. The Ross rifle is a good rifle, a splendid arm of precision. Does Col. Miller presume to know more about it than British Army experts, who reported to the British press the triumphs of the Ross rifle at the late Bisley meet? We have before us as we write copies of about a dozen Old Country journals, and their reports are full of praise of the wonderful work of the Ross rifle. The London Standard, the ne plus ultra Tory journal, of July 15, among other things, says: "Triumph for Ross rifle. Ross beats all the world's rifles; Lee-Enfield now obsolete; scrap it." The Morning Post of July 15 says: "Ross rifle renders Lee-Enfield obsolete." The Sphere of July 25 prints a picture of F. W. Jones of the London Rifle Club, who, with a Ross rifle, made the wonderful score, at 900, 1,000 and 1,100 yards, of 53 bulls'-eyes in sixty shots. Will Col. Miller place his word against these authorities? Will he dispute the authority of Col. Sam Hughes, a rifle expert and enthusiast, and late president of the Dominion Rifle Association, who is a Ross rifle champion to the hilt? In the House he stood alone of his party and withstood the political pea-shooters to their face in defence of the Ross rifle. Will the hero of South Monaghan dispute the word of the hero of South Africa?

Col. Miller says, as reported, that "the Ross rifle farce" is a "huge piece of graft." This is more rant, for a minute before in his speech he was pleading to build up Canada. Canadian skill gave us the mechanism of the Lee-Metford and the Lee-Enfield rifles, now used by the British Army, which will soon be using the Ross rifle. Canadian enterprise and public spirit and patriotism on the part of Sir Frederick Borden, against whose administration, Col. Miller, deep-dyed Conservative as he is, has never been heard to say a word, gave the militia of Canada a rifle "made in Canada," the product of Canadian brains and Canadian mechanical skill. Col. Miller and his "crowd" want everything that can be produced in Canada made here, but when the Canadian Liberal Government brings out a world-beating rifle and procures the investment of capital and gives employment to workers of the highest skill, he and they raise the cry of "graft." Is Mr. Kendry grafting when he demands sky-high protection for woollen mills? Is every act of government that permits a man to make money, and gives employment to labour, "graft?" Nonsense.

MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING.

(New and revised edition with explanatory notes by J. Harapdan Burnham.)

The Review, poor thing, is guilty of the most ludicrously hysterical attempt to make political capital in its attempt to convict the Examiner. The attempt is so ridiculously imbecile that, as an example of simon pure puerility, it is worth wasting a little space upon. In yesterday's Review, on the editorial page, the following appeared in this form:

THE EXAMINER AND THE UNEMPLOYED

Who will ever forget the Examiner's angry remonstrance with the British upemployed, when it advised them to go to work and weed in the vacant lots and streets of the city? It was a noble invitation to a body of men brought out here at a bonus of $5 a head from the Laurier Government! What is the Examiner thinking of? Can't it see the whirlwind absurdity of its position and the Government's immigration policy? First of all, it admits that there is no "work" for the unemployed. Then it admits that there are unemployed, even under a regime that never tires of boasting. Then it follows up its great and glorious immigration policy with a reference to weeds. It should have said mourning weeds, for that is what they are considered. Don't bring men out here from Britain on false pretences. It simply produces unhappiness all round, but, above all, don't insult them with a direction to go and WEED. Then also, and moreover, do not give the people of our neighbouring towns the idea that Peterborough is a city of weeds, for it isn't.

On another page of the same issue of the Review appears the following in this form:

WORK FOR THE UNEMPLOYED

(The Peterborough Examiner.)

Many of the streets of the city and nearly every vacant lot are overrun with noxious weeds. The spread of weeds, such as burdock, thistle, dandelion, oxeye daisy, wild oats, etc., became so alarming some years ago that the Provincial Legislature enacted a law in the endeavour to remove or minimize the evil, and it is provided that municipalities may appoint inspectors to see that the law is enforced. That it is not enforced is evident to anyone moving about the city or driving along the roads in the country districts. If systematic and businesslike means were employed to destroy and check the growth of noxious weeds in the townships, better crops could be obtained. Sending out a man with a scythe once or twice a month in the season does not meet the case nor fulfill the requirements of the law. If this work were being competently looked after in Peterborough, something worth while might be accomplished—the owners of vacant property would find a field for employment of some of those out of work. Drastic legislation for securing the destruction of noxious weeds has been placed on the statute books of Manitoba. If the Ontario law were properly observed and enforced, much land that is now practically useless might be made to produce valuable crops, and those whose property adjoins vacant lots would not have their property injured by those who ignore the requirements of the law in respect of their own property. The Mayor and Council have a duty to perform in connection with noxious weeds growing upon many lands and on the streets, and they should perform that duty.

Now, this is the article from the Examiner upon which the Review builds the bosh, buncombe, bluster, balderdash and banality about the "British unemployed." The only sentence in the Examiner's article that could furnish the ghost of an excuse, not to say foundation, for Mr. Burnham's remarks through the Review, is this harmless sentence, which, by the way, reflects upon, or insults, the owners of vacant lots more than anybody else:

"If this work (destroying noxious weeds) were being competently looked after in Peterborough, something worth while might be accomplished, THE OWNERS OF VACANT LOTS WOULD FIND A FIELD FOR THE EMPLOYMENT OF SOME OF THOSE OUT OF WORK."

A mere, incidental, harmless suggestion, which—but the thing — the political capital abortion — is ridiculous enough to make a tombstone smile.

Some newly-aroused Rip Van Winkle waxing in the Review, calls for a strong protective tariff on the grounds that it will bring prosperity. Who tried the protective plaster for Canada's weak back for eighteen long years, but the backbone grew weaker—to the point of collapse in 1896.

Saturday Night has the following splendid depreciation of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway—"That work looks large at present, but not for long. In twenty, fifty years, it will be one of many railways crossing this vast country. In time to come the original C.P.R. and G.T.P. will be lost, especially west of Winnipeg in a veritable tangle of lines."

SELF CONDEMNED.

Mr. Borden and other less valuable authorities, as the Mail and Empire refers, when speaking in Ontario, but not in New Brunswick, where the truth is better known, to the purchase of land in Moncton for Intercolonial Railway purposes, as a "deal," as a "graft," etc.

What are the facts of the case? The Intercolonial Railway wanted, owing to the increase of its business, to secure additional land for trackage, yard and shop purposes at Moncton. As is always the case with the Intercolonial, the management went about the purchase of the land in a business-like way. It employed a real estate dealer to get prices from the owners of various pieces of land suitable by location and otherwise for the purpose required. He presented a list of properties to the department, and that list was submitted for approval to an expert valuator, Mr. F. W. Sumner, of Moncton. That gentleman certified that the prices were fair and just, and upon his report, and upon his report only, the terms of the sellers were accepted and the money paid over.

NOW THIS SAME MR. SUMNER IS TO-DAY THE CONSERVATIVE CANDIDATE IN WESTMORELAND, N. B., AGAINST HON. H. R. EMMERSON. He is a general supporter of Mr. R. L. Borden, but he has not dared to state upon the platform that there was anything wrong in the prices paid for the land, because being an honourable man he acted in honour and gave his opinion of the value of the lands just as if they were being sold to a private individual. In Moncton and New Brunswick generally there is nothing said about the Moncton "deal," in which the Conservatives assert an exorbitant price was paid, "the public chest plundered, etc." Now, if there were anything in this would not the Conservative in Westmoreland, who made the valuation upon which the price paid by the Government was based, know the facts? Would he not, if there were anything wrong, exploit the "deal," to show the crookedness and graft of the Government and to show that in respect of such a Government it is "time for a change?" In the person of their candidate who does not support its tohary the Conservative scandalmongers stand self condemned.

This is a sample of the charges that are flung broadcast by Conservative sheets and stumpers, and there is just as much justification for the others as for the Moncton "deal," to which the Conservative candidate never refers, which he would do if there were any truth in it and make good political capital out of it, too.

It is to be noted that these "scandals" are not exploited on the spot where the facts are matters of popular knowledge. Mr. Borden, when he was in the West, did not refer to the western land deals, where the allegiquities of the Liberal Government were alleged to have been committed. The nearer the electors live to the scene, the less stock they take in these alleged "scandals."

SLANDER INSTEAD OF CONSTRUCTIVE POLICY.

In an interview in the Montreal Witness, Mr. Henry Dalby, formerly managing editor of the Montreal Star, and chief Conservative organizer for the Dominion in the campaign of 1900, gives utterance to some pointed truths in condemnation of the campaign of slander which is being waged against the Dominion Government. "The quinquennial clamour wanging which always breaks out before a Dominion election," says Mr. Dalby, "has been organised and systematised this time, to such an extent that it is calculated to defame the character, and injure the financial credit of the country. I think some of the gentlemen who solemnly announce that purity is the chief plank in their party platform are doing themselves an injustice. To speak of purity as a party policy is suggestive of nothing so much as a tentative trial at an unfamiliar virtue." Mr. Dalby lays his finger on the fatal weakness of the Conservative party in the present campaign, namely, that, it has nothing in the way of constructive policy, but is, on the contrary, destructive.

SUBJECTS FOR THOUGHT.

Hon. Sidney Fisher, in one of his campaign speeches, gave the farmers of Canada, and especially of Ontario, something that they can think about with profit. He said:—"Before you farming men I want to take up new questions affecting my own department. When the Conservatives left Ottawa they had done nothing for you in the way of cold storage ships, save for a few rough experiments with an ice system. Australia, New Zealand and the United States were driving Canada out of the English market because they had proper refrigeration. In the years 1876-1896 under the Tories we exported $22,750,000 in butter; in the decade from 1896 to 1906 it dropped to $8,250,000. In 1897 the Department of Agriculture placed the first mechanical cold storage plant in operation, and in the next ten years we shipped $16,500,000 in butter. That was due absolutely to the cold storage facilities. There was no change in other conditions. As a result farm land has increased in value, the number of farmers has grown, and now the great proportion of our young men and women are staying on the farms. They left them in the old days, and no wonder. But to-day they remain because our Government have made the lot of the farmer different."

NO TIME FOR CHANGE.

The parrot cry that it is "time for a change" is best answered by the record of Canada's progress under Laurier.

Read these figures and then ask why you should vote to transfer the control of the affairs of Canada to the men who made such a bungle of things prior to 1896:

The population of Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan, which was 419,512 in 1901, was, in 1906, 808,863.

In 1896 there were 54,625 farms in the Western provinces. In 1906 there were 190,429.

The public debt of the Dominion which was $99.83 in 1896, was only $40.50 per head in 1908.

The capital invested in Canadian manufacturing establishments was $446,916,427 in 1900. In 1905 it was $633,916,155, an increase of $186,999,728.

The wages paid to labour in manufacturing establishments, which totalled $113,249,356 in 1900, had risen to $162,155,578 in 1905, an increase of $48,906,228.

The value of the products of the factories of Canada increased by $393,203 between 1900 and 1905.

The bank deposits of the people which only increased by $100,686,760, in the twelve years of Conservative rule from 1884 to 1896, have increased by $405,697,989 during the twelve years of Liberal rule from 1896 to 1908.

The exports of forest products in the last twelve years of Conservative rule reached a total of $283,379,901. In the twelve years of Liberal rule they have totalled $396,709,109.

The exports of Canadian manufactured goods in the last twelve years of the Conservative regime totalled $69,281,235. From 1896 to 1908 they have reached a total of $214,448,075.

The total exports of Canada since 1896 have reached the enormous sum of $2,445,580,746. During the last twelve years of Conservative administration they totalled only $1,223,369,829.

The foreign trade of Canada in the last twelve years of the Tories aggregated $2,626,221,818. In the twelve years under Laurier the total has been $5,152,259,709.

Do these figures give you any cause to say it is time for a change of rulers?

Are they not rather reasons why the Liberal Government should be allowed to continue its great work of nation building?

The above are only a few of the things which will justify the electors in retaining a Government which does things. If a newspaper were a book the records of the Liberal Government might be fully set forth, it would require a volume to tell the whole story of progress and how it was brought about.

MR. E. A. TANNER HOLDS A LARGELY ATTENDED POLITICAL MEETING IN DOURO

Addresses by Mr. Tanner, The Candidate, Mr. D. O'Connell and Hon. J. R. Stratton Enthusiastically Received by The Constituents Present

At Douro on Friday evening, a large and influential meeting was held in the interests of Mr. E. A. Tanner, the Liberal candidate for the East riding. The gathering was a large one, and for a live interest in the issues of the hour could give pointers, and good ones, to some of their neighbours.

The meeting was organized by the election of Mr. Dennis Moloney, to the chair. Mr. Moloney briefly thanked the audience for the honor, and alluded to the importance of the issue they had gathered to consider. He believed the interests of the country and their own welfare should urge them to do all in their power to see that the present Government, that had done so much for the improvement of their condition, should be kept in power. The reasons for this conviction ifi his mind, and in the minds of his neighbours, would be presented by Mr. Tanner, who was their candidate, and by Hon. Mr. Stratton, who was the candidate in the West riding, whom they knew as their friend and the faithful supporter of public policies or anything else that would help to do good to the people of Peterborough. He called upon

Mr. E. A. Tanner.

Mr. Tanner, who received a hearty ovation on taking the platform, said that the people of East Peterborough and the electors of this locality of Douro, had an important duty before them to perform, a duty to the country, a duty to the county, and a duty to themselves and which they owed to their own interests, and he believed that that obligation could best be met, and only be fairly and conscientiously met, by voting to sustain the Government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, which had rescued them from evil conditions they would remember, and given to them and to all the people of Canada an era of progress and a condition of prosperity. He had been selected as the candidate of the Liberal party in this contest that meant so much for them all, and by the help of the good sense and the exercise of the reason of the electors of East Peterborough, he believed that he would be elected, because the people realised that the best interests of the country, of the province, and of the county, required that this riding should send a man to Ottawa to support the great leader who had done so much to carry forward the progress of the country and to create the prosperity in which they all had a share. (Applause). If he were honoured by his fellow electors with their confidence and support, he would, when elected, devote all the energy that he possessed, and all the influence which, as their representative, would pertain to him, to promote every measure that was calculated to be of benefit to East Peterborough; and in attention to the local interests of the county, in all matters in which they were affected in the course of administration, they might be sure that the welfare of Douro would not be overlooked, because as they knew he was himself a Douro boy. (Cheers). They had now at Ottawa a strong, a stable, and a capable Government, which had given to the people of the whole country an administration that had been of direct, appreciable and unmistakable benefit to the welfare of every man in Canada, in the Province of Ontario, in the County of Peterborough, and in this Township of Douro. (Cheers). Their interests required, he believed, that the good work for the people in which this administration had been engaged should be continued, and that East Peterborough should send to Ottawa a man who would help to hold up the hand of Sir Wilfrid Laurier in his splendid efforts to give a good Government to Canada, and also to push forward its interests toward the great destiny which we believed lay before us. (Applause.) They knew well what had been done for the people of this country, and the people of this country, in the prosperous condition of things that had been introduced by Sir Wilfrid Laurier. But in order to appreciate the value and the importance of what had been done in their behalf, they should recall the condition of things in 1896, the dark days of expiring Conservative rule, just before the dawn of brighter conditions, under the Liberal administration of our Government. They would remember that at that time trade was stricken, the artisan idle, and the labourer unemployed; prices were unremunerative, and in the midst of it all the Conservative government were squabbling among themselves—it was the time of the "nest of traitors"—and the interests of the country were neglected if not betrayed. These were the conditions of which Sir Wilfrid Laurier had to take hold, the difficult situation with which he had to contend, when he was called in 1896 to direct the destinies of the nation. They knew what Mr. Laurier did—he cleared away out of the administration of the departments all the rubbish of perish politics that had accumulated, and set about to do something practical for the benefit of the people. He exercised the influence of the government upon those who controlled the transportation facilities of the country, and gave the steamship companies to understand that if they did not provide adequate cold storage facilities by which our meats, our fruits, our butter and eggs, and our cheese could be delivered in the English market in the best condition, the Government would be compelled to provide that advantage for the people. And at once conditions were changed so that our perishable products were delivered in Liverpool and London in a condition that not only commanded the highest market price, but established a reputation for them that placed them in the highest demand and the greatest favour. That was something for East Peterborough to keep in mind, because our people had benefited in a large measure by the efforts of this sagacious and statesmanlike policy. (Applause). Then the Liberal Government had given them the preferential tariff in favour of the goods of the Mother Nation, that was of benefit both to the Old Country and the new. The English manufacturer found a friendly market for the produce of his factories, and that opened up his heart and gave favour in his mind to the things that on our part we had to sell to the people in Great Britain. As they said in England: "We've got the guns, we've got the men, and, we've got the money too," and it seemed to our people that these were the kind of folks we wanted to do business with, and so a great trade had grown up with the Mother Country, and we were becoming independent of the markets of the United States, upon which we had formerly relied, and which had had us at their mercy. He gave statistics which demonstrated the great advance that had been made under the Liberal policy since 1896, in everything that concerned the welfare of the farmer, in the prices that he obtained for his products, in the demand abroad for them, and in the cheapness and facility with which he was enabled to reach a profitable market. He spoke of what had been done for the labour interests in the increase of their wages and the betterment of their conditions. They remembered when contracts had compelled men to labour on the Trent Valley canal for from 90 cents to $1.00 a day. Mr. Laurier had said that would not do—that a labouring man could not do justice to his family on such wages, and he caused the introduction of the fair wage clause in all public contracts, which required that at least not less than $1.25 a day should be paid the labouring man. (Cheers). He reviewed the administration of the post office department. For years the Conservative Government had been appealed to for a two-cent letter rate. But they had said no; it was impossible; that it would involve an annual burden of three-quarters of a million on the country and that Parliament would not stand for it. But Sir William Mulock took a different view. He applied the sound principle of business enterprise to the problem, and as a result they had an expansion of mail routes and increase of facilities everywhere, a reduction by one-third on one class and one-half on another class of mail matter, and yet the deficits of the Conservative policy had been gradually reduced till they were replaced by an annual surplus, which had now reached such proportions that the Government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier was going to "give the farmers the great advantage of rural free mail delivery. He dwelt at length upon the work of the Government in expanding our system of communication in railways and canals, referring to the great work of the Transcontinental Railway, and the completion, which was in sight, of the Trent Valley Canal, by means of which we would be enabled to get our coal at a more moderate price and at the same time attain by cheaper transportation, a better price for the products we have to sell. (Applause.) He was before them as a candidate in support of the continuation of the policies of the present Government, by the grace of the convention which had honoured him in his selection as the standard-bearer of the party in this important campaign. If they favoured him with their confidence, he pledged himself to faithful and diligent service in the interests of the country at large, of the County of Peterborough in particular, and, as they might be sure, not forgetting the good people of Douro. (Loud applause).

Mr. D. O'Connell.

Mr. D. O'Connell, who was warmly welcomed, addressed the audience in an extended and eloquent speech in the course of which he dwelt upon the fact that the leading issues of the campaign were such as strongly appealed to the interest of the farming community. Never, it seemed to him, had there been a time when the people of this county should exercise greater care and caution and good judgment in the exercise of the franchise, than in the present election, and the people of this riding were particularly concerned in selection of a representative to whom to entrust their interests for the ensuing parliamentary term. There were before them no great political issues. The question was upon a choice between the administrative policy of the Government, in the good results of which they had participated, and the advantage and desirability of retaining in executive offices the public services of men whose worth and patriotic statesmanship had been proven to them, and, on the other hand, of putting into power new men of whom they could only judge by the platform which their leader, Mr. Borden, had submitted for their approval. That platform embraced three propositions which had been presented as the cardinal principles of the Conservative party. They were: Honest administration of public affairs; an honest and economical expenditure of the public money; appointment to the public service, and promotion in the service on the ground of merit alone. Now, it was not possible for the country to be divided upon these issues, because not only were they all agreed upon them, but they presented the very ideal, the very essence and distinguishing feature of the policy that had during the past twelve years been carried into practical effect in every department of public service by the administration of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. (Applause). Apart from these propositions, upon which there could be no division of sentiment among reasonable men, to which the present Government had already given effect, the Opposition presented nothing to the people as a reason why they should be put into place instead of the present administrators, but a series of charges of graft and extravagance, which upon intelligent analysis and careful investigation, were found to be either gross misrepresentations or absolutely baseless fabrications. He illustrated this by the charges of Mr. Hodgins, who had been a Grand Trunk Pacific engineer, who had brought allegations of corrupt favouritism in the management of that great enterprise. His charges had been preferred in the House of Commons and an investigation ordered, when under oath Mr. Hodgins had been compelled to admit that there was no warrant whatever for the injurious allegations against the Government which he had been the means of promulgating. And so it had been in all these charges, when the truth was sifted out. It was inevitable that among tens of thousands of public employes, entrusted with the handling of public money throughout the country, there should now and then be found a weak member who would abuse his trust, but in each such case, when it was developed to the knowledge of the Government, prompt investigation and swift punishment of any guilty person had followed. (Applause). They had had, as they would remember, charges of corrupt administration of the public lands while he was Minister of the Interior made against Hon. Clifford Sifton. Mr. Sifton was a member of Parliament, and he had challenged investigation before the public accounts committee, and ample opportunity had been given for the authors of these charges to prove them, if they were capable of doing so, before Parliament. But they had shirked investigation because they had no evidence upon which to support their charges, but while they were thus ready to evade responsibility for these slanders, that did not prevent them from continuing to repeat them in their newspapers and before the electors. He went into the false charges that had been brought before the public concerning the management of the public domain and the Crow's Nest Railway subsidy by Premier Roblin, of Manitoba, showing that that gentleman had been proven a falsifier by the evidence of the editor of the Toronto News, a leader of his own party, and had been sent back in ignominy, a discredited politician, to his own province. He ridiculed the contention of Hon. Mr. Borden that the people were to be saddled with a debt of $225,000,000 in connection with the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific, while the absolutely incontestible fact was that the ultimate cost to the country of that great enterprise would not exceed $15,000,000, for which they would absolutely own one half of that railway. He compared this with the Canadian Pacific Railway engagements, by which a Conservative Government had given to that railway $35,000,000 of cash, and lands worth at the least valuation $150,000,000. And even at that, they knew, the Canadian Pacific Railway had been an enterprise of incalculable profit and advantage to the country. He concluded by saying that it was the duty of every man who appreciated the welfare of his country, who wished to see the tide of prosperity maintained, who had the interests of this county, and his own interests at heart, to take off his coat and see that East Peterborough sent to Ottawa in this election, a member who would support Sir Wilfrid Laurier in the splendid policy of national development, progress and prosperity, which he was so successfully engaged in carrying forward. (Loud cheers).

Chairman Moloney said he would now call upon their old and esteemed friend, who needed no introduction to any one in that audience,

Hon. J. R. Stratton.

Mr. Stratton on coming forward received a very flattering demonstration from the men of Douro. He was pleased to meet with his old friends in this township and glad to have been afforded an opportunity of speaking a word in favour of his old friend, Mr. Tanner. He had known Mr. Tanner for years, and had found him a man of intelligence and enterprise, a man with a thorough grasp of public affairs and a proper appreciation of the needs of the public, a man who had the courage of his convictions upon public questions, and, in short, just the kind of man that East Peterborough needed to represent its interests in Parliament and before the various departments of public administration with the active industry and aggressive energy that were the qualities that enabled a member to be of practical use to his constituents. (Applause). Mr. Tanner would make them an excellent and an influential representative, and if he (Mr. Stratton) were returned in the West Riding, as he had no question but that he would be, he would gladly co-operate with Mr. Tanner in pushing to the front the legitimate claims of the whole county of Peterborough. (Cheers). Two weeks from Monday the tale would be told, and he hoped and believed that the two ridings of Peterborough would send representatives to Parliament to sustain and support the best Government this Dominion had ever had, and the grand statesman, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who, without disparagement to any of his predecessors, must be regarded as the greatest figure in the history of Canada. (Applause). It was to be regretted that some few men of unreasoning and unreasonable prejudice had endeavored to inject into this contest a spirit of sectional and social contention, but he was confident that the intelligence and good judgment and self-respect of Peterborough voters, would frown down and put aside, as unworthy of their consideration, so mischievous and irrelevant an element, that had no place in our political affairs, and no place in the mind of any good Canadian citizen. (Cheers). It was one of the proudest boasts of this nation, and one feature of our public life that had given us dignity and respect in the eyes of people abroad, that Canada was a country of equal rights and liberty, of freedom of speech and of creed, of religious and political toleration. (Applause). He asked them, before considering the great and universal prosperity that prevailed throughout the land, in which the people of Peterborough enjoyed a large share, to carry their minds back to the days of 1896, when the calamitous conditions prevailed that had been so fully described by Mr. Tanner, a period of settled gloom and hopeless despondency. The Conservatives had made an effort to remove this cloud from our industrial, commercial and agricultural welfare, by means of their "National Policy," but owing to their mistaken methods of applying the protective principle, their efforts proved futile, and, finally the party itself went into decay. Their attempt to revive the stricken trade of the Dominion, ended in their own collapse, reminded him of the tale of a Scot who was overpowered on his way home from the village by the influence of too copious potations, and succumbed in the ditch by the wayside. A neighbour, who had also been quaffing the flowing bowl, but who was not quite so far under the influence, passed by and the prostrate victim of too much conviviality hailed him lustily for assistance. Now Sandy was barely able to navigate on his own account, and after exercising the best efforts of which he was capable, was compelled to give up the task of getting his neighbour on his pins, but he proved his friendship and good faith by [illegible] "Jamesy, I'll [illegible] beside ye!" (Laughter). That was the position in which Sir Wilfrid Laurier found the Government [illegible] the business interests of the country on assuming office in 1896. (Laughter and loud applause). They knew no one better—what followed. Prosperity was brought back by the intelligent adaptation of the "National Policy" to the varying needs of all the diverse elements that make up the national industry and enterprise. The wheels of industry were set in motion, employment was provided for labour, and a profitable market met only for products of our toothing, but also for the products of the farm. The boys and girls who had been leaving the country to seek opportunity elsewhere, began to return, the mortgage on the farm was replaced by a balance to the credit of the farmer in the bank; in our own county the value of lands had increased by 40 per cent., so that the farm which was valued at $5,000 in 1896, would now bring $7,000. Town lots in Peterborough were worth double, and hundreds of workmen were engaged in permanent and profitable employment, and most of them owned their homes. And they had a market for the farmer and market gardener in Peterborough to-day that was not surpassed by any in the Dominion of Canada. Now this change did not come about by any accident. Taking into consideration, and making due allowance for the bounty of providence and the industry of the people, which equally existed during the eighteen years before 1896, the prosperity we enjoyed was directly and unmistakably due to the wisdom and sagacity of the Government, their grasp of affairs and true appreciation of conditions and of what was needed to promote progress and promote prosperity, and very largely indeed, to the genius and patriotism of the statesman at the head of the Government, Sir Wilfrid Laurier. (Loud applause). Hon. Mr. Stratton continued at length, giving statistics demonstrating the extraordinary progress that had been made, and the extent of the prosperity we enjoyed, and exploded some of the bubbles of criticism that had been presented by Opposition politicians, and concluded by an earnest appeal to the men of Douro to give their hearty support to E. A. Tanner on October 26, and concluded amid the applause of the audience.

A vote of thanks was tendered to the chairman, three cheers for E. A. Tanner, for Hon. Mr. Stratton, and for King Edward, who all seemed to be equally popular with the crowd, closed a most successful meeting.

Shoots One, Wounds Another and Is Himself Killed.

Manassas, Va., Oct. 10.—As the result of husband's jealousy, two men are dead and another seriously wounded at the Old Fair Farm at Canova, six miles from Manassas, today.

Edward Fair and his wife, and brother, Allen Fair, called on their neighbor, Tucker Posey. While there Edward Fair's attention was attracted to what he regarded as unusual friendliness between his wife and his brother Allen.

Angered by their conduct he hurried from the Posey home and procured a gun to avenge his fancied injury. Upon his return to the Posey home he shot and instantly killed his brother and turned the gun upon his wife, but was prevented from shooting her by the interference of Tucker Posey who received the shot intended for his wife.

During the struggle that followed Posey took the gun from Fair and striking him upon the head killed him instantly.

Government to Inspect Road.

Montreal, Oct. 10.—Sir Thomas Shaughnessy starts this morning on what is to be a most thorough inspection of the whole system of the C.P.R., including coal lands, irrigation systems, hotels and everything else connected with the railway. Sir Thomas will spend some time inspecting the two mammoth spiral tunnels in the Rockies, one on each side of the Kicking Horse river. One thousand men are engaged in this work, and the estimated cost is over $1,500,000. The completion of these tunnels will mean that two engines can pull at 20 miles an hour trains, which it formerly took three engines to pull at five miles an hour.

Jury Favor Newspaper.

Ottawa, Oct. 10.—Before Chief Justice Meredith yesterday morning, J. T. Cromwell sued The Ottawa Citizen for damages for alleged libel in an article in which it was stated that one of the plaintiff's houses was unfit for habitation. The article was written on a case that came before the Division Court. The jury decided to favor of The Citizen.

The chief justice in his charge to the jury said there had been only two cases like this before—one in Manitoba and one in England. The newspapers were not bound to publish every word of the evidence in order to escape such actions for damages.

Virginia Harned Refused Divorce.

Reno, Nev., Oct. 10.—Judge Pike on Thursday refused to grant Virginia Harned Sothern a divorce from her actor-husband, Edward N. Sothern, saying:

"This, I think, is a unique proceeding for a party to attempt to secure a divorce without appearing in court. I think I will deny the decree. If the interested parties do not deem it of enough importance to grace the court with their presence, I don't see why their family disturbances should be aired here."

Britain's Unemployed.

London, Oct. 10.—The general federation of trades unions has issued a manifesto declaring that there are 1,500,000 unemployed in the United Kingdom with dependents numbering 7,500,000 suffering thereby.

The federation recommends the creation of a Minister of Labor and a permanent "unemployment" board and that all members of labor unions refuse to work overtime.

CUPID COMES.

Alphabetical Game in Which the Most Silliest Wits Win.

Cupid comes is an alphabetical game played by any number of persons, each of whom tells how Cupid comes in answer to a question. The answers must begin with the letters of the alphabet in order and must all end in "ing."

Thus, the first player says to his neighbor, "Cupid comes." The neighbor asks, "How does he come?" and the first player replies, for instance, "Ambling." The second player then says to the third, "Cupid comes," and in answer to the same question replies, "Balling." So the game goes on till the alphabet is exhausted. Sometimes it is repeated with the answers ending in "ly." Cupid is then said to come "appealingly," "bravely," "crookedly," etc. Sometimes the letter A is used by all in the first round, B in the second, and so on. This makes the game last longer. Any one giving a word already used must pay a forfeit.

Magic Lantern Pictures.

It is said that an ingenious Frenchman has invented a device by which magic lantern pictures may be made to appear "in the round" as they do when looked at in a stereoscope. The principle of the stereoscope, you know, is the placing of two pictures side by side, one taken as seen by the right eye and the other as seen by the left. The lenses of the instrument are so arranged that they carry the two pictures to the eye as one, thus making the object appear solid, as it appears in life. The Frenchman has applied the stereoscope principle to the magic lantern by furnishing the observer with a pair of spectacles fitted with lenses set at the proper angle and letting him look at two pictures on the screen. Then the figures appear to stand out from each other and the surroundings as they do when looked at in the natural way.

Invisible Ink.

An invisible ink may be made from saffre, which is a crude cobalt oxide. Dissolve the saffre in nitre muriatic acid until the acid extracts from it the metallic part of the cobalt, which gives the saffre a blue color; then dilute the solution with common water. If you write with this liquid on paper, the writing will be invisible, but when you expose it to a sufficient degree of heat it will become green. When the paper cools, the writing will disappear again. The heat must be applied carefully, for too great a degree of it will fix the writing so that it will not disappear.

Kinship.

Dear little flower with the golden head,
Growing so tall in my garden bed,
Sweeter than any other,
The same sun shines on you and me,
The same stars burn for us both to see,
And I'm sure, as sure as I can be,
That I am your little brother.

Oh, little bird, just learning to fly,
I've seen you flutter your wings and try
To follow your pretty mother.
I love to watch you there in the tree,
And I know you never afraid would be,
For my heart has whispered it all to me
That I am your little brother.

The Heavenly Father bends o'er you
And he bids the weary blossoms rest
Nor whisper to one another.
And he leans close over my crib to hear
The prayer that I whisper for his ear—
We are all his little children dear,
So of course I'm your little brother.

Three Records Were Broken At Annual Field Day Of Sports Of Collegiate Institute Yesterday

Harry Hall Took Big Slices Off the 220 Yards and Quarter Mile Marks and Won the Senior Cup

Three records broken and another equalled, large fields and desperately-fought contests, a splendid attendance and an ideal October afternoon, bright, clear, sunshiny weather, were the outstanding features of the annual field day of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute, held yesterday afternoon at the Nicholls Oval. The meet was undoubtedly the most successful in the history of the school, pupils and teachers alike uniting in working towards that end. The staff entered heartily into the spirit of the event and did everything in their power to help things along. With such enthusiasm shown the result could be nothing else but a grand success. There was a fine attendance, the greater part of the pupils of the school, including the girls, turning out, as well as many of the citizens, and great interest was displayed in the results.

For the second time, Harry Hall was successful in carrying off the senior championship cup. On two other occasions he has been winner in the event. His score yesterday was 26 points, made up of first in the standing broad jump, standing hop, step and jump, 220 yards, and quarter mile, and second in the running broad jump, and 100 yards. Garnet Rankin was second with 18 points, getting first in the mile, and tying for first in the pole vault, second in the running hop, step, and jump, and quarter mile, and third in the running broad jump, standing hop, step and jump, and 220 yards senior. Fred Conroy was close behind with 17 points, getting first in the running broad jump, and 100 yards, second in the standing hop, step and jump, and 220 yards, and third in the standing broad jump.

Bruce Lees, the diminutive 14-year-old winner of the junior road race, cleaned up the junior championship in grand fashion. His plucky work was one of the features of the meet. The little fellow started in nine events, and succeeded in getting five firsts and four seconds, which gave him the most creditable total of 32 points, making the Macdonald Cup, emblematic of the junior championship, his for a year. The little fellow won the road race, the standing broad jump, the pole vault, and the mile, and was second in the running broad jump, the 100 yards, the 220 yards, and the quarter mile. V. Fessenden, by taking first in the 100 and 220 yards and the quarter mile, was second with 15 points, and H. Laing, with second in the standing broad jump, high jump, and mile, and third in the quarter mile, was third, his total being 10.

As has been stated, three records went by the board. Harry Hall was responsible for smashing two of these. He clipped a big slice off the 220 yards, lowering the mark from 28 seconds, to 25 1-5, 2 4-5 seconds' difference, which is sure going some. On top of that he went out and hammered the quarter mile mark from 1.02 3-5 to .58 4-5, taking 3 1-5 seconds off the old mark. During the afternoon, too, Hayes and Rankin did things to the pole vault, tying at 7 ft. 6 in., which is just 9 inches better than the record.

The senior sprints, especially the hundred, were exciting. In the final heat of the hundred, Hall and Conroy had a great battle right to the tape. Hall got a bad start, but fought his way up and lost by inches in a desperate finish. He had a comparatively easy thing of it in the 220 and the quarter mile. In the latter he lay back behind his field to the last 100 yards, and then came strong, winning by a comfortable margin in record time.

The senior mile was another good race. Ten started, and the pace was hot from the start, so fast that the greater part of the field were killed off early and the struggle condensed into a battle between Rankin, Quinlan and Marsh. The three battled hard in the last lap, but Rankin had more in on and and won out in 5.09 3-5, remarkably good time.

The junior sprints were cleaned up by V. Fessenden, who showed splendid form in the 100, 220, and quarter mile. Bruce Lees was his closest competitor and was second in all three. The mile was easy for Lees. The little fellow led from the start, and although Fessenden stayed with him for a lap, the pace was too hot and he dropped out, Lees finishing with a fine sprint, and winning by 150 yards from Laing, who had an even greater lead on Hattrick.

The senior pole vaulting was an interesting feature. There were eight entries and the excitement was keen, as most of the squad cleared the first jump easily, starting at six feet. However, they dropped out one by one as the bar was raised, until at last Garnet Rankin and Vernon Hayes were left to fight it out. They cleared the bar at 7 ft. 6 in., but failed at 7 ft. 8 in. In making his last attempt, Hayes, whose plucky work made him a favourite, had the misfortune of spraining his right wrist, which was the only disagreeable feature of the afternoon.

The obstacle race provided plenty of amusement by reason of the conditions. The contestants started at one end of the Oval, had to go over a row of benches, crawled beneath another row, leaped over a bar, ran to the other end of the Oval, received a problem in multiplication, worked it out, and then ran down the track to the finishing point. Only three of the large field had the correct answers and H. Giroux won easily.

The needle-threading contest for girls was another amusing event. A dozen or more girls entered and the race was won by Miss Denne, with Miss Mewat a close second. The competitors had to walk or run fifty yards, receive a needle and thread at the other end, thread the needle, and return to the starting point.

The inter-form relay race, which concluded the programme, was exciting, and resulted in a victory for Form 2B.

THREATENS TO SERVE THE CITY WITH AN INJUNCTION

out that the bridge was serviceable for light traffic and is now in better condition than it has been for some time. He stated that it should be carefully watched and regularly inspected.

Will Place Placards

Ald. Phelan stated that he had asked those who drive over the bridge with loads of brick to use Hunter street bridge when they were to be taken south of that street.

Ald. Neill and Johnston remarked that it would be well to have placards placed at either end in order to prohibit heavy loads from being drawn over it.

Ald. Johnston moved to that effect.

Ald. Morgan Objects

Ald. Morgan offered an objection, stating that it was an imposition on Mr. Curtis to give him extra trouble in going around by Hunter street. The inspector, Mr. Evans, had stated that he considered the bridge safe for the present. The sidewalk has been removed to the north side.

Ald. Turner remarked that Curtis' Bros.' loads of brick were not the only strains to which the bridge was subjected, as farmers drawing grain have equally heavy loads. He agreed with the placard idea.

Ald. Johnston acknowledged that he considered a certain amount of danger existed, and anything that was to be done in the way of constructing a new bridge should be done at present.

The discussion then settled into the question whether the bridge should be closed. Ald. Morgan remarked that because the engineer brought in a report the "hair stands on some people's heads around here."

Ald. Turner seconded the motion, to which was added the clause "that the question be submitted to the people next January."

Sherbrooke St. Lamp

Dr. Gray was present and read a petition signed by himself and other residents on Sherbrooke street, asking that the arc lamp between George and Aylmer streets be not cut down. Ald. Morgan and Tovey moved that the request be granted. Ald. Turner explained the position of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, stating that it was their intention to place an arc lamp at the corner of Aylmer and Sherbrooke streets, thereby illuminating both streets, and to substitute an arc lamp half way down Sherbrooke street.

Dr. Gray was greatly opposed to this and said so in no uncertain terms. If the city carried it out the Sherbrooke street people would assert their rights, Dr. Gray stated, and would serve an injunction on the city. They did not want that street lapsing into the condition it was before the light was secured.

The motion was withdrawn, and Ald. Morrow suggested that the Fire, Water and Light Committee settle the question. This finished the matter for the present.

ERECTION OF BRIDGE AT SMITH STREET

details have not been planned. It may be of the reinforced concrete style or of iron trusses on cement or stone piers.

The work will not likely be put under way until next summer when the water is at a low level. It was intimated last night by one of the aldermen that with the erection of a new bridge, it was very probable that the Street Railway Company would extend its line through East City. On inquiry this morning the manager was found to be out of the city and nothing definite could be learned. However, it is known that the company intends to stretch their line across the river and one of the drawbacks was the condition of the Smith street bridge.

It is acknowledged that the railway circling through East City and returning by Hunter street would be a great benefit to the people there and would make the Lift Lock easy of access to the larger number of visitors who come here during the summer. While a bridge at Smith street is practically assured there is not the same likelihood of proper provision being made at Hunter street. However, the former structure offers a chance of getting to the Lift Lock. The action of the Street Railway is therefore dependent on the facilities for getting into East City.

If you haven't the price, borrow it, for Babes in Toyland, Tuesday night.

SMOKE IS COMING FOR THE OTONABEE ATHLETIC CLUB MEET

Mr. Dan Whetung, Chemong, was in the city to-day and he states that Albert Smoke, the fast Indian runner of the reserve, will be here for the Otonabee Athletic Club meet on Wednesday night. Smoke will run in the one and five mile events and many predict that he will win the former.

Neat, Clean, tuneful and witty is what they say of Babes in Toyland.

Here's a tip, say nothing. The Mysterious Mr. E. will occupy a reserved seat to see Babes in Toyland, Tuesday night. Spot him and you get your admission refunded and a ticket to the next Opera House Show. Be wise.

Stunning Fall Hats

From $6.00 to $10.00

¶ Any woman who wants a becoming, smart and exclusive hat at a very moderate price will be delighted with our new and beautiful styles at from $6.00 to $10.00. These are fresh from our own workroom and our talented milliners have exerted themselves to see just how much of beauty and worth they could crowd into hats for selling at these popular prices, some of them are splendid copies of high priced Parisian and New York models, others are original designs by our own milliners and there's not one of them which is not a very remarkable value.

¶ The variety includes dozens of styles in all the favoured shapes, sizes and colours, variously trimmed with Ribbons, Wings, Chamois, Quills, etc., in smart, new effects.

¶ We cheerfully invite you to compare them with hats which others consider good value at from $3.00 to $5.00 more, knowing that such a comparison will impress you with the extraordinary nature of the value.

GOOD NEW BLOOD HERE.

The Globe in a review of the political field in Ontario, has the following, under the above heading:

One of the most interesting fights in the Province is being waged in North Waterloo by Mr. W. L. Mackenzie King, for years past distinguished as the Deputy Minister of Labour, and successful mediator in many troublesome strikes. Mr. King's high type of manhood and his unselfish renunciation of an important Government position that he may serve the people in a wider sphere have attracted attention to this riding, and thousands of Conservatives as well as Liberals will look upon his election there with satisfaction.

The Provincial Legislature gives up a number of strong men who have entered the Dominion arena with good hopes of success. Among these are Dr. Morley Currie, formerly member for Prince Edward county; Hon. J R Stratton, for years a member of the Ross Government, and now a candidate in West Peterborough; Mr. A B McCoig of Chatham, one of the brightest of the new members of the Legislature in the last Provincial Parliament; Mr. Archie Mislop, the sturdy young East Huron farmer, who represents so typically the newer generation of agriculturists, and Mr. J A McMillan who redeemed Glengarry for the Liberals in the avalanche of January, 1905. Another recruit from a lesser political arena is Dr. W E Harrison, of Toronto, member of the Board of Control for several years, a faithful public servant, and a native of Halton county, where he is now running.

Of course times are hard, but you can't miss Babes in Toyland, even if you don't pay your board.

THE MOON AND MONTH OF FEBRUARY

Editor Examiner.

Dear Sir,—I do not pretend to know anything about astronomy, but perhaps the accompanying extract just copied from a small miscellany may interest those of your readers who make a study of the starry firmament:

A MONTH WITHOUT A MOON.

"The month of February, 1866, was in one respect the most remarkable month in the world's history. It had no full moon. January had two full moons, and so had March, but February had none. Do you realize what a rare thing in nature it was? It had not occurred since the creation of the world. And it will not occur again, according to the computation of astronomers, for 2,500,000 years."

ATHLETE WAS INJURED IN POLE VAULT

Vernon Hayes, son of Mr. J. E. Hayes, the contractor, was the victim of a very painful accident during the Collegiate Institute sports yesterday afternoon, at Nicholls Oval. He was taking part in the senior pole vault, and in attempting to vault 7 feet 8 inches fell from the top of the pole to the ground, with his right wrist doubled up beneath him. It was thought at first that his wrist was broken, but Dr. King, who happened to be on hand, examined him and pronounced it a bad sprain. He was taken home in a carriage.

THE MEN'S MISSIONARY MOVEMENT CAUSE IS STRONGLY ADVANCED BY THE BRIGHT YOUNG MEN AT KNOX CHURCH

Banquet Held Last Night---Address by Rev. Mr. Pogue---Work on New Roman Catholic Church Going Ahead Rapidly ---Religious Work in Connection With The Y.M.C.A.---Laying Of Corner Stone of New Methodist Church To-day

Front View of THE CHURCH OF THE SACRED HEART, The Construction Of Which is Progressing Rapidly.

The Skirl Of The Bagpipes Heard At Banquet Given By Men's Guild At Knox Church

Profit and Pleasure Combined—Eloquent Address By Rev. Robt. Pogue on Why Men Need the Church

EIGHTY YOUNG MEN THERE

The missionary movement among men is rapidly spreading in Peterborough as well as in other parts of the Dominion. Last night at Knox Presbyterian church some seventy-five or eighty young men assembled around the banquet board and joined together in a common brotherhood to listen to an address by Rev. Robt. Pogue on the relation of men to the church. Other clergymen present were Rev. H J Keith, who acted as chairman and toastmaster; Rev. J G Potter of St. Andrew's church, and Rev. O L McClennan, of Norwood Presbyterian church.

The banquet was tendered to the young men of the church by the members of the Young Men's Guild. The tables in addition to being laden with the best of good things were prettily decorated with ferns, carnations and miniature flags, several ladies of the church were waitresses and diligently attended to the wants of the sterner sex. For this they received several complimentary remarks of appreciation.

During the post-prandial portion of the programme Miss Annie Wilson, the organist, played at the piano, and provided some excellent accompaniments for the banquetters. Rev. Mr. McClennan, who possesses a splendid tenor voice, sang a solo entitled "The Engineer's Toast" and the banquetters joined for an encore. Mr. Roland Common played his accompaniments.

The post-prandial part of the pleasant and profitable function was introduced by Rev. Mr. Keith and all first honoured the toast to the King in the usual loyal manner. Messrs. Enos Maybee and Kenneth Dancey also proposed the cause of the ladies in choice phrase.

Rev. Mr. Potter was glad to see such an organization of young men at Knox church, because it was to them that to a large extent we owed the success of the church. It was also essential that we have the brotherhood of the young men banded together. It was necessary that they have the degree F. M.—Fishers of Men—to reach out and aid in the uplifting of their fellowmen and the betterment of the world.

At this juncture Mr. Coleman sang two humorous solos which were heartily applauded. Something of a novelty in concerts in Peterborough then followed. Mr. MacKay, a Scotchman, gave a couple of bagpipe selections which seemed to arouse the sentiments of the merry company to a marked degree. He played in such a manner that left no skeptic wondering why the Scotch warriors of old rallied round the bagpipes and marched to battle and to victory at their skirling.

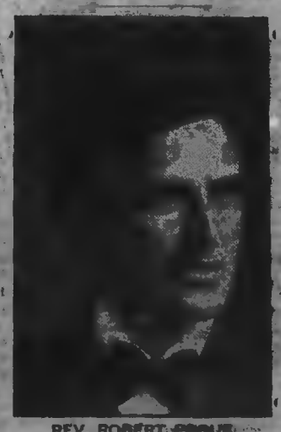
The next toast was proposed to the guest of the evening in suitable words by Mr. Gordon Hall. Rev. Mr. Pogue, in responding, after thanking the gentleman for the words of welcome and expressing his delight at the presence of such a large gathering of young men, spoke on the text "Why Men Need the Church."

He pointed out that only a small percentage of the men, particularly in the larger cities, are actively identified with the church. That the church was the depository of salvation was one of the reasons why men need it. It was true that men can be saved outside the church—as Saul of Tarsus was—but having found salvation they were needed on the inside. The church is the pathway of life, the gateway to salvation and it is the reservoir of power. It gives fellowship—and the sort of fellowship needed for the daily life. The church was not always true to itself; sometimes it was not the place of good society and true fellowship.

But the motive in attending church that appeals to most men who do, was different from any mentioned so far. Men need the church because it is a place of service and Mr. Pogue believed that when the proper appeal is made the men will go to church.

Messrs. Andrew McKenzie and Wm. Carruthers moved a vote of thanks to the speaker which was heartily endorsed and before concluding Rev. Mr. Keith referred to the appreciation of the splendid work accomplished at Knox church by the ladies and the young men. The objects of the banquet had been to bind the young men of the congregation by bonds of fellowship and love so that a united effort would be made for the good of mankind.

The event closed with the singing of Auld Lang Syne.



REV. ROBERT POGUE,
Who addressed the young men at Knox Church last night.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON QUESTIONS

The suggestive questions on the Sunday School Lesson by Rev. Dr. Lincott for the International Newspaper Bible Study Club for October 11th. Subject—God's Promise to David.—I Chron. xvii. Golden Text—Thou hast not failed one word of all his good promise.—I King, viii 56.

Verses 1-2—Should we be as careful for the sanctity of God's House as we are of our own?

Should God's House be as good or better than the average home of the people?

Verses 3-4:—Why did the Lord speak to Nathan to give his message to David, and not to David direct?

Give your conception of how God spoke to Nathan. Did He use actual words which sounds which struck the outward ear, or did He use words of any sort?

If A gets a message from God for B, how may B know that the message is from God?

Why would God not permit David to build Him an house?

Verses 5-6— What sort of place of worship did the Israelites have up to this time?

So far as God is concerned, and other things being equal, is a tent, or a concert hall, or the open air, just as sacred a place for a devout people to worship God in, as a church formally built and dedicated for that purpose?

Verses 7-10—A babe born in a humble cottage just as dear to God, as one born to a queen in a palace?

Is a young man blacksmith or machinist, or farmer, or daily labourer, personally just as dear to the heart of God as one who is rich and in an exalted position?

Are the chief positions in the country to-day held by those of exalted birth and training, or by men who have come up from the ranks?

To what extent is success, or a prominent position due to God's appointment and to our own efforts?

This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.

Verses 11-14—To what general cause was the wanderings of Israel, and the "wasting of their enemies due, and why could God promise them rest, and victory over their enemies in the future?

What are the general causes of our troubles, and why does God permit them?

Verses 15-17—Does God know the time when we shall go to sleep with our fathers" or is that a matter contingent upon our own actions?

Where are our fathers, who have passed away?

Does the future of our sons depend most upon us, upon them, or upon the appointment of God?

Were these promises to David concerning his personal children absolute and unconditional, or were they contingent upon the actions of Solomon?

What is a vision, and to what extent are visions possible to a true Christian today?

Verse 16—Where is God, and how may we "sit before Him?"

Is it right for us to realize our littleness, and to declare it when we pray

Verses 17-19—Does God regard us as "children of the dust" and "worms", or as His own sons and daughters; so to speak, "bone of his bone, and flesh of his flesh"?

Is God as interested in our "house" and its welfare, as a loving father is in the welfare of his only son?

To what extent does God guarantee our future earthly welfare?

Verses 19-20—What is the dominant note in the thought and prayer of every real Christian?

What help to us are the recorded experiences which the godly men of the past have had with God?

Verses 21-22—To what extent was David right in thinking that God had favoured Israel more than he had any other nation?

What is real patriotism?

Is it necessary, or wise, that we should think more highly of our country than the facts warrant, in order to true patriotism?

Verses 23-25—Should our prayers be taken up so much with our own personal matters, as this prayer of David appears to be?

Verse 27—When God blesses our home need we fear any evil?

Lesson for Sunday, Oct. 18th, 1908, David's kindness to Jonathan's Son—II Sam. ix.

THE GEORGE STREET CHOIR AT WESTWOOD

Present Programme at Methodist Church Concert There

The Westwood Methodist church held its annual supper and entertainment Friday night in the town hall at Westwood. After the bountiful supper which a large gathering partook of, the George Street Methodist Church Sunday School Orchestra gave a splendid programme, composed of solos, cornet solos, quartettes, readings, and several selections by the orchestra.

The crowd evidently enjoyed it all, thoroughly, if one could judge by the applause that was given. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the orchestra by the Rev. Mr. Frost, the pastor. Mr. W. H. Cunningham, the leader, responded on behalf of the orchestra, after which the crowd dispersed. A bus load of young people, friends of the orchestra, went down, with them and they all certainly enjoyed a splendid moonlight drive, arriving in Peterborough about 1 p.m.

LAYMEN TO SPEAK AT KNOX CHURCH SERVICE

A Special Service of Interest to the Young Men

To-morrow night at Know Church the service will be especially interesting for men. Arrangements have been made for two prominent Peterborough laymen to speak for ten minutes each. In view of the laymens' movement throughout the city and country, this new departure should be particularly profitable.

REV. H. U. KEITH, of Knox Church.

BRIGADIER ROBERTS TO SPEAK TO-MORROW

Special Address in Afternoon to Parents and Children

At the Salvation Army Barracks tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock there will be a special address by Brigadier Roberts to the parents and children, which will be doubly prover very interesting. The usual classes will be dispensed with on this account.

The lecture will be given in the auditorium, a portion of which will be reserved for children.

WORK OF COMMITTEES AT Y.W.C.A.

Bible Class Last Night—Reading and Social Circle—Meeting Sunday Afternoon

One by one the Y.W.C.A. classes are being opened and it is hoped that before the end of the month the young women of Peterborough will have taken advantage of every class on the comprehensive programme prepared by the Educational Committee.

Last evening the Weekly Bible Class conducted by the general secretary, held its opening meeting. It was decided to take up the study of representative women of the Bible. Each Friday evening a Bible character will be studied.

The Reading and Social Circle, which meets in the room from each Monday evening, and is under the supervision of Miss Weir, of the Collegiate Institute, promises to be full of interest. This gathering is intended largely for social development and a thoroughly good and helpful time is anticipated.

The every day practical side of life is, by no means, to be overlooked in the years work, for on Tuesday the dress making class will assemble for organization, and in all these gatherings there will always be room for one more.

The Sunday afternoon meetings at 4.15, announced specially for mothers, but for all young women, will be of special interest. At the close of the meeting, which will be brief, bright and helpful, a cup of tea will be served. Miss McCalla, the general secretary, will have charge of the meeting to-morrow.

NEW ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH

Walls Are Completed And Girdles Placed For The Roof

The beauty of the new church of Sacred Heart is now manifest. The walls are entirely built and the tower and rear work are nearing completion. The heavy beams which will support the roof are nearly all in place and it will be covered before the snow flies. The dark red granite is relieved by the white limestone with splendid effect, making the new church of decided architectural beauty.

The Otonabee Meet Next Week Will Be A Grand Success; The Athletes Are In Active Training

The greatest interest is being displayed in the athletic meet to be held in the Brock Street Rink on Wednesday night next, under the auspices of the Otonabee Athletic Club. Nearly all the local athletes will compete, while outside entries are expected as well, and the result should be a grand evening's sport. All the Y.M.C.A. runners are in training for the meet and they will have entries in nearly every event, including a team in the mile relay race. Ernie Wilson, Chas. Thorpe, Peter Wallace, Geo. Fowler, Leonard Dobson and the rest of the blue and white jerseyed boys are working hard to get in condition. The newly-organized Chieftains will have a number of entries in the sprints, pole vault and relay race.

The relay race promises to be one of the big features of the programme. The teams will consist of four men each, to run one-quarter of a mile, and an exciting struggle should ensue.

Much interest will undoubtedly be taken in the pole vault. Since the performance of Archibald here at the Harriers' meet, the local athletes have been practising this branch of of sport, with good results as will be seen on Wednesday night. The "vault" is a feature always of interest to spectators.

The programme includes 50 yard dashes for juniors and seniors, 220 yard dashes for juniors and seniors, one mile junior and senior, five mile open, mile relay race open, pole vault open, and running broad jump open.

Another Indian "phenom" will make his debut on Wednesday night, in the person of Hanlan Howard, of Hiawatha, a brother of the late Ben Howard. Hanlan won the two mile race at Keene on Wednesday in handy fashion, and expects to make a good showing in the mile and five mile races. He will have plenty of competition in both events.

Altogether the meet promises to be a great success, and the Otonabee Athletic Club are to be congratulated upon their enterprise in arranging the event.

LIBERAL LABOUR LEGISLATION RECEIVES ATTENTION IN MR. STRATTON'S THIRD ADDRESS TO PETERBOROUGH ELECTORS

To the Electors of West Peterborough,—

In my addresses previously issued, I aimed to specify what had been accomplished by the Liberal Governments of Ontario and the Dominion in promoting the local interests of this riding, and what had been done to promote the progress and prosperity of Canada as a whole.

The records of the Liberal Governments in these two respects are closely connected with, and have a large bearing upon what the Government has done for the promotion of an interest which lies at the foundation of national development and progress—an interest which cannot be helped or injured, as a whole, without benefitting or impairing the general national condition—I refer to the interests of Labour.

The Liberal Government of the Dominion has, ever since it assumed the responsibility of administration, showed an earnest and practical interest in the cause of Labour.

This interest has been exhibited in both specific acts of legislation and administration, and by its general policy; the two combined having the effect of creating conditions eminently favourable to the welfare of the working man.

The Liberal Government has, while recognizing the rights of all classes of the community, done much in a direct way to benefit Labour without undue assumption of protection or patronage, feeling that the working classes as a body asked no favours above any other section of the community—that all they sought was fair play, and concession of their rights as citizens, and a due share of consideration in the legislative and administrative functions which Parliament and the Government are empowered to exercise.

Before referring to the direct acts and provisions in the interests of Labour, I might point out that the general administrative policy of the Liberal Government, while promoting the general welfare, has incidentally benefitted the wage earner.

The tariff adjustment made by the Liberal Government, by cheapening the raw material used in industrial operations, by removal or reduction of duties, directly benefitted the manufacturing industries of the country, and, through them, the working population. The interests of Capital and Labour, rightly adjusted, are so bound up together that what helps or hurts one helps or hurts the other.

When manufacturing industries are prosperous and busy, Labour is well employed at good wages; and under the Liberal policy of improving the condition of industry, the growth has, as everybody knows, been astonishing.

In 1896, the exports of Canadian manufactures amounted to only nine millions of dollars; the first full year of Liberal Government they increased a million and a half, and every year since there has been an increase of from two to three millions till last year, when there was a sharp advance of five and a half millions to a grand total of exported manufactures of $28,507,124, three times the figures of twelve years previous.

The capital invested in Canadian manufacturing establishments increased from 446 millions in 1900 to 833 millions in 1905—the latest census figures.

In the same period the wages paid to labour in manufacturing establishments, increased from 113 millions in 1900 to 162 millions in 1905, an increase of ten million dollars a year.

In the benefits of this great growth of manufacturing industry, Labour and its interests had its share.

In their tariff adjustment the Liberal Government, by lessening or removing tariff obstacles to the provision of supplies and machinery required by the miner and the farmer, stimulated these industries into greater activity, with the result of larger and more profitable and productive operations—an increased output swelling the traffic of shipping and railways; and in every step of these advances Labour had its share of activity and reward.

So the vigorous immigration policy of the Liberal Government, which has increased the population of the West to over a million, has increased our home market, and created new and enlarged demands upon the eastern manufacturer, with, of course, increased demands for the assistance of labour.

Every man who toils knows that in the past twelve years, the conditions of the labouring man and artizan has been splendid—employment plentiful and wages high.

Not only has the prosperity that has attended the application of the general policy of the Liberal Government conduced to the bettering of the condition of the wage-earner in pocket and property, but the specific Labour legislation of the Liberal Government has safeguarded his rights, protected his person, and promoted his health.

A brief reference to the specific provisions made in the interests of our working people, will show that the Liberal Government's policy in this regard has been of the most energetic, progressive and liberal character; and will also sustain the claim that practically all the legislation enacted—with the single exception of "Labour Day"—has been passed and applied by a Liberal Government of the Dominion within the past twelve years.

Prior to the elections of 1896, the Conservative Government appointed a commissioner to investigate the existence of an alleged sweating system. He reported that there was no such system.

When the Liberal Government came into power it looked into the matter and found that an odious sweating system, ten years old, existed in connection with government contracts for Mounted Police clothing, etc.—men, women and children forced to work long hours in foul, stuffy rooms, at starvation wages. Regulations to put a stop to this white slavery were adopted by the Liberal Government, and have since been carried out with successful results.

This condition of things led to the Liberal Government's fair wage policy, applied to all Government works. It required that every Government contractor must give a fair day's wage for a fair day's work—he must pay the "going" wages in the district where the work is being done.

In contracts for uniforms of soldiers, mounted police, and letter carriers and other uniformed officials, it is provided that work must be done under sanitary conditions, that current wages shall be paid for work done, in proper hours of labour, and a fair wage officer was appointed to see that these conditions are complied with.

In scores of cases where contractors have defaulted in payment, the Government has paid the workmen, thus saving them from loss, and deducted the amount from what was due the contractor.

In 1900 the Liberal Government did what the Conservatives had merely talked about for years—especially before the elections of 1889, 1891 and 1896—established the Department of Labour, directly identified with the interests of working men and working women, the greatest single factor in the building up of the Dominion of Canada.

In addition to all the benefits accruing to Labour through the working of this department, the greatest compliment ever paid to Labour consisted in erecting this Department into an independent Department under an independent Minister of Labour, as we have Ministers of Finance, of Railways, Trade and Commerce, the Premier Minister of Canada declaring that the Department has enough work, and is important enough to require, and have, the whole time, energy and attention of a Minister of the Crown.

The splendid record of the Department of Labour for the past eight years, is a foretaste of what will be accomplished under the added dignity and efficiency represented by a responsible Minister, and under a continuance of Liberal administration.

Under the Conciliation Act of 1900, for the settlement of Labour and Capital disputes, within only four or five years many threatened strikes, some of them of ominous character—like that of the Valleyfield cotton mills—were settled through the Act, and disastrous idleness prevented in the case of 15,000 or 20,000 employees. The saving in capital and wages amounted to thousands of dollars.

An expansion of this legislation was the Act known as the Lemieux Act, to aid in the prevention of strikes and lock outs in all industries connected with public utilities, which makes compulsory an investigation before a strike or lock out can be legally declared.

This extremely beneficial act together with the Conciliation Act of 1900, has been instrumental in saving, to both employers and employees, hundreds of thousands, if not millions, of dollars, in lost business and wages, and in saving immense sums of money, and great inconvenience to the public dependent upon the regular operation of public utilities.

Up till August of this year, the Lemieux Act has been invoked in over forty cases affecting 40,000 employees, and millions of capital, and in only two cases have strikes followed investigations. The Dominion Trades and Labour Congress held in Winnipeg in September last year, voted 59 to 22 in favour of bringing all trades under the Act.

The Railway Labour Disputes Act of 1903, provides for an inquiry under oath into the causes of disputes between railway companies and employees. The result is that railway strikes and the public inconvenience attendant upon tie-ups of large systems are rare, though conciliatory legislation to prevent all strikes, seems to be hardly possible.

The Liberal Government was the first in Canada to pass—in 1897—a law prohibiting the importation of Alien Labour under contract. By appeal to the Privy Council, the Department has proved the Act constitutional; and it has been the means of protecting Canadian Labour from alien competition. In the recent strike of the C. P. R. employees, but for this Act the strike-breakers would have had easy work—the railway shops would have been flooded with idle mechanics from the United States.

In 1905, the Liberal Government procured the passing of an Act making it a criminal offence for any one to induce workingmen to come to Canada on false pretences, and create formidable competition to home labour.

The danger of the invasion of Canada, by the cheap labour of the hordes of Oriental countries, to the detriment of white labour enlisted the interest and intervention of the Liberal Government. The head tax of $100 to exclude Chinese imposed in 1900, was advanced to the prohibitive figure of $500 per head, and additional measures of exclusion were adopted.

Hon. Mr. Lemieux, Minister of Labour, was sent to Japan, and made arrangements for a limitation of Japanese labour satisfactory to Canada, and Mr. Mackenzie King arranged with the British Government for practical cessation of immigration from India of cheap labour.

Acting on the report of a commission which investigated the terrible condition of workmen in railway construction camps on the Crow's Nest Pass Railway, the Liberal Government in 1898, procured legislation permitting the Government to make regulations, providing for the proper housing of workmen in railway construction camps, sanitary conditions, proper medical attendance, and hospitals for contagious diseases, and anything necessary for the comfort and well-being of the men.

Among the legislation enacted by the Liberal Government for the protection of the life and limb of workingmen, in response to the wishes of labour organizations, is an amendment to the Railway Act, requiring all trains to be equipped with appliances, such as automatic car couplers, outside car ladders, hand-grips, etc., so as to minimize the danger of accident, which according to statistics gathered by the Labour Department, amounts to 1000 deaths a year, and three times that number affected with disabling injuries.

A special officer was also appointed in connection with the Railway Commission to inquire into and report the causes of accidents on railways, and the best means for their prevention.

Further evidence of the solicitude of the Liberal Government for the interests of railway employees, is found in the fact that last session the Minister of Railways and Canals had rescinded the clause of the Railway Act, making railway men liable for prosecution for any accident that might be laid at their door, when under nervous strain of such a responsibility and fatigue from long hours without sleep.

The abolition of the sweating system by the Liberal Government, protected women and children, and the investigation made into the excessive hours of telephone girls in Toronto in 1907, brought shorter hours; and inquiry last summer into conditions in regard to the employment of children in cotton factories, will lead to legislation in keeping with the unremitting efforts of the Liberal Government, to protect the wage earner.

Such are the salient points of the record of the Liberal Government in the matter of Labour Legislation and Administration, and no elector, who has at heart the interests of this city and this country, bound up, as they are inseparably, with the interests of Labour in all its departments, can hesitate as to a choice between the government he should support upon this, as upon general questions.

There is no opportunity for comparison of records, for as far as I can recall, there was not a single act of legislation, passed by the Conservative Government in 18 years, in the interests of the Labour element of our population, except the Act setting apart Labour Day as a statutory holiday.

Contrast that with the splendid record of achievement of twelve years I have the honour of outlining above, and no one will doubt the far-reaching and effective nature of the Liberal policy of practical dealing with the interests of Canadian Labour.

I need only add that I am in hearty sympathy with that policy, and if you honour me with election, I shall use my best efforts to assist in promoting the work in this regard of a Government which has done as much in the way of effective legislation and administration in the cause of Labour as in the progressive and prosperity-producing administration of the general interests of all classes of the people of this great Dominion.

Personally, I may claim that I have not been wanting in interest in the welfare of Labour in Peterborough, and elsewhere. As a supporter and member of the Liberal Government of Ontario, which has placed so splendid a mass of legislation in the interests of Labour, on the statute books of the province, I have had my share in doing what has been done; and I have, to the best of my ability, endeavoured, on the more practical and material side, to bring both Labour and Capital into mutually profitable relations, and to contribute, in an humble way, to the material upbuilding of all the substantial interests of Peterborough.

If the electors think that I will be able, as their representative, to give them effective and energetic service, with, as I have striven to do in the past, no discrimination as to class, creed, or political persuasion, I invite, and expect, their support to secure my election as representative of West Peterborough in the Dominion Parliament.

I have the honour to be, gentlemen,

Your obedient servant,

W. R. Stratton

The Difficulties Attending The Study Of Medicine

From The Canadian Dairyman.

We will suppose that the young man desires to study medicine. The laws of nearly all the states now require three and in some cases four courses of lectures to be attended, before a diploma is granted a student; and then, before beginning to practice, he must pass a state examination. The course of studiy is long, and by no means easy, and the amount of money required is not small. And yet, any ambitious young man or woman in good health may secure this education.

If the young person has a friend who will loan the needed money, on the security of a life policy of insurance, the money may be raised in that manner. But it is a better plan for him to earn at least a portion of the money himself. A good stepping stone to the learned professions is teaching school. The salary must be carefully saved, and in a few years the young man can begin to attend lectures. Before he leaves home, he should have secured funds sufficient to meet all his expenses for at least one or two years. As the lecture courses usually extend over but about six months, he ought to be able to make enough during vacations to carry him over the remaining years of student life. The professors often are able to place favors in the way of young men who have proven themselves reliable, industrious, and possessed of pleasing manners. But no one should ask for or expect such favors until he has earned them by his work in the college during one or two years. Hundreds of young men are every year securing a medical education and at the same time are paying all their own bills.

To enter the profession of law, it is not necessary, though desirable always, to attend lectures. Having secured a good English education, the young man may enter a law office where he is often able from the start to earn all his expenses. A knowledge of stenography and typewriting may be of great value to a young man desirous of earning expenses in a law office. The time required to be spent in the study of law before being admitted to practice is generally from two to three years.

To aid students to enter the ministry, all the churches have "aid societies." The young candidate's pastor is the proper person to consult in reference to these societies. Prospective ministers are however informed that it is no more difficult for a young man to pay his own way into the ministry than it is for his comrades to do so in entering law or medicine, and he is respectfully urged to pay his own way the same as they are doing.

Teaching, at least in the higher institutions, and in the responsible positions in the public school systems, is now recognised as a profession. A young person may begin with only enough education to teach a school of lowest grade, and gradually work up to the highest positions. Or he may attend an academy, normal school, college, university, one or all, and then enter upon the highest work he can attain. It is always advisable, however, to secure practical experience in the schoolroom as soon as possible. A few months there may unmistakably show him and all others that he is not intended for a teacher, which would be an unpleasant discovery after spending many years in preparing for this profession. Moreover, the normal school or university graduate can secure a much better situation if he has testimonials showing that he has successfully taught. No one desires teachers without experience. At present, normal school graduates find their earliest positions in the rural public schools, from which they gradually rise to higher places. College graduates become teachers in normal schools, academies, seminaries and in the higher positions in town and city public schools.

The profession of forester should be peculiarly adapted to a farmer's boy. Quite a number of the American states are now committed to the policy, of caring for their remaining forests, and even of increasing the extent of these. Wherever forests are to be grown and protected, there must exist intelligent oversight. The necessity for the forester is seen. Pennsylvania has on state officer designated "Commissioner of Forestry," who receives $2500 per year, and has an office at Harrisburg.

Insect pests ought to be watched and studied by state officials, and in every well endowed college or university. A large number of the states now have state entomologists, nearly every United States Agricultural Experiment station has one or more entomologists, and all the larger universities have officers so designated.

Horticulture is being developed to such an extent that professors of the art are in demand. They are needed in the universities, in the government experiment stations, and by the large seed and plant growers. The national and state departments of agriculture all have, or soon will have, competent horticulturists as regular and permament officers.

There has recently arisen a demand for dairy experts. These are needed in the agricultural colleges, the experiment stations, and the larger butter and cheese manufacturing establishments. The work is promising and should be profitable. There is no reason why a young woman might not just as well succeed as a dairy expert as a young man should. She needs the same thorough preparation, the same determination to succeed, and the same good health—nothing more.

The profession of veterinary surgeon within a couple of hundred of miles There are excellent colleges where the profession is scientifically taught, and

Our great manufacturing enterprises has affected somewhat the country person.

We have heard a great deal in some our farmers do not know what the crop on record. In the east, a drouth commotion is all about. They are well off and as well able to buy now The Canadian Dairyman and Farming some cases is fairly well remunerated. try to be sound. "In the west," said Mr. Fisher, "we have had the greatest the graduates of which are more of the country are in good circumnew subscribers. I do not see how and women, although of late it would seem that there was on foot an effort a great many practical chemists. The and in technical schools. The work is around Ottawa but nevertheless crops and cultivating, but the harvesting and storing for winter use. From experience I find that a good way to pull them is as follows: Take three rows at a time; pull and top by hand by twisting off the tops. If the tops are cut off the mangels are more easily decayed.

Having gone across the field in this way turn and take three rows back putting these with the previous rows; thus making six rows in one row of piles.

This will leave the rows of topped mangels just about the right distance apart to allow the wagon or cart to go through to load. By this method, also, two rows can be loaded at the same time. Haul in the same day as pulled, unless there is no danger of frost. A good plan when unloading is to run the mangels over a slatted grate to get off any earth that may be adhering to them.

They will keep better when free from earth, as the earth hinders more or less in the free circulation of air through them.

The safe-keeping of roots of any kind, depends a great deal upon proper ventilation. It is well to leave open any windows that may be in the root cellar; or if they are put in from the top by trap doors, leave those open, until cold weather sets in.—"A. Helper."

Unconventional Broadland.

The great charm of the Norfolk Broads to the worker is the absolute change it is able to give. There is no hurry—one must go with the wind. There is no noise—the only sound above the restful hum of a summer's day is the clack-clack-clack of the sheet running out, or the rattle of the blocks as the jib flaps, and, perhaps, helps somewhere bid away, the pop of a cork or the happy, careless laughter of a holiday party. Broadland is synonymous with independence and unconventionality. Everyone "throws starch." Provided you conform to the few simple unwritten laws of the district there is nothing [illegible]

An Expert.

In one of the interior towns there lives a farmer who brings butter, eggs and produce to market, and, being illiterate, also brings with him his son to do the "figuring."

The other day the son was ill and the old man had to venture alone. For awhile he got along pretty well by letting his customers do the figuring, but presently he sold two rolls of butter to a woman who could not figure any better than he.

The farmer was much puzzled, but, being resolved that she should not know that his early education had been neglected, he took a scrap of paper from his pocket and began. He put down a lot of marks on the paper and then said:

"Let's see; dot's a dot, figure's a figure, two from one and none remains, with three to carry—$1.50, madam, please."

She paid over the $1.50, took the butter home, had it weighed and "figured up" by her daughter, who discovered that the price should have been $2.10 instead of $1.50.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Little dogs start the hare, but great ones catch it.—Italian Proverb.

Gruesome Spectacle.

Capt. Coleman and several policemen went out into the Lachine Rapids a few days ago and removed the dead body which had been caught on one of the rocks in the centre of the rapids, affording a gruesome spectacle to the passengers on board the R. & O. steamers daily coming down the river. Identification was impossible.

IRELAND

Rev. C. S. Lyons, minister of the Reformed Presbyterian Church, Newry, was run over and killed by a train on the Great Northern Railway, a short distance from Goraghwood station.

The people of Armagh, Keady and Castleblayney are now receiving produce by rail, as on the new line just constructed goods trains are running daily, so that Dublin, Belfast and Newry merchants are able to deliver goods direct. It is hoped that October or November will see passenger coaches running also.

At Belfast police court Alfred Moore was charged with a series of thefts from lodging houses in Ballymacarrett and Donegall Pass. The prisoner's modus operandi was to take lodgings and then disappear with articles from the houses, including coats, medals and razors. He was given a sentence of six months.

The Rev. Dr. W. M. Dill Macky, Supreme Grand Chaplain of the Grand Orange Council of Australasia, and ex-Moderator of the General Assembly of New South Wales, arrived in Belfast last week. Dr. Macky, who is widely known and honoured throughout Australia as the founder and enthusiastic leader of the Protestant Defence Association of that colony, was born at Liafanan, County Donegal.

Extensive inquiries in Belfast show that there is no immediate prospect of any general improvement in the linen trade. Reports that some of the mills were going on full time and which had given rise to an optimistic feeling in some quarters, turns out to be scarcely accurate. Few factories have gone on full time, but unfortunately the same cannot be said of any of the establishments in the spinning end.

At the Brunoana Petty Sessions Mrs. Elizabeth Porter, alias Mrs. Brooking, was charged with having knowingly made a false declaration on the occasion of her marriage to her present husband, Mr. Brooking. Subsequent to the second marriage it transpired that Brookins, the present husband was a full nephew by blood of her deceased husband, and therefore clearly within the prohibited degrees of consanguinity. The case was later dismissed.

The work of restoration executed on Dunderave Castle, near Inverary is about completed. The ancient pile has been re-roofed, and other work done to preserve it.

THE TORTURES OF NERVOUSNESS

The Sufferer Feels That Unless Relief Comes Insanity Will Follow

There is no torture more intolerable than nervousness. A nervous person is in a state of constant irritation by day and sleeplessness by night. The sufferer starts at every noise, is shaky and depressed. Often although in a completely exhausted state is unable to sit or lie still. For trouble of this kind absolutely the best thing in the world is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The nerves are jaded and jangled because they are being starved by poor watery blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make new rich blood which feeds and soothes the irritated nerves. There is absolutely no doubt about this; thousands can testify of the blood-making, nerve-restoring qualities of these Pills, among them is Mrs. Thos. Harpell, Wallace Bridge N.S., who says:—"Some years ago I took sick and the doctor pronounced the trouble nervous prostration. To describe the tortures of it is impossible. God and myself only know what I endured. The doctor gave me medicine but it did not seem to help me. Then he ordered me away for a change, but I was afraid to go, as I always seemed to fear some impending calamity, and was afraid to spend the night alone, as I used to think each night that I would die before morning. I tried different kinds of medicines but with no better results, and finally decided I would go to my parents to see if the change would benefit me. I went to their doctor but with no better results. My mother urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and got me a box, of course I did not expect a box would help me, but I continued taking them and in about a month began to feel better. From that on there was an improvement in my condition every day, and in the course of about three months I was again enjoying the great blessing of perfect health. I gained about twenty pounds in weight and my friends could hardly believe I was the same person. I believe I would have been in my grave long ago if it had not been for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are good for any disease due to bad blood or weak nerves. That is why they cure such troubles as anaemia, indigestion rheumatism, neuralgia, St. Vitus' dance, paralysis, and the ailments of girlhood and womanhood. Sold by medicine dealers at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 or may be had by mail from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE LATEST REPORTS OF THE WHEAT MARKET

Winnipeg, October 9.—(Special.)—The close of another week shows immensely increased receipts and a market from 1⅞ to 2¼c higher than it was at the end of last week for all the options and cash wheat 2⅝, with a good demand for everything that can be considered spot wheat. Indeed, very high premiums have been paid for cash wheat in order to fill space already chartered. One feature is noticeable, and that is that all vessel agents state that few if any charters are being made for later in the month and this suggests that when the present chartered space is filled there may be quite a break in the market. Of course it can be said that the bears have been talking a break for some time, and that no real break has occurred. This is quite true, but in the face of heavy receipts everywhere, there must be a most tremendous shortage if all the wheat can be absorbed without a lowering of the prices. Certainly the market has shown remarkable strength right along and it may not break, but it will be a surprise to a good many people if it does not. When the returns from the terminals came out on Monday morning and dealers realized that some seven million bushels had reached the lake front, there was a general query as to who had secured this wheat, as it was freely admitted that no such quantity had been handled by the brokers here. It would seem that a good deal of the farmers' wheat, especially the one and two northern, is going into storage at the lake, awaiting higher prices later in the season.

World shipments for the past week were very heavy and the amount on passage and visible both showed a good increase. The news from Russia is no worse, but the political situation in Turkey and Roumania was certainly a factor in the higher prices in Liverpool and on the continent. In the Canadian West the heavy rains of the past few days have put an end to threshing for the present, and the grain that is in stack will now probably be left until the fall plowing is done. This will help to relieve the congestion in country elevators and give the railways a chance to clean up the stock on hand. The fact that one-tenth of the estimated crop of wheat has already passed inspection is a new record in the history of the wheat movement. It is generally understood that this took a number of the C. P. R. work trains worn off the double track construction and will be requisitioned for wheat. This and the closing of the strike should all tend to the rapid movement of the wheat in the elevators, and may be a factor in bringing lower prices.

The Free Press still holds the opinion that prices later in the year will be higher than they have yet been, but is still looking for a considerable break before that time arrives. If this break does not come it will only go to prove that the world's stock of wheat was more nearly exhausted than any one dreamed of before the new crop came on the market.

There is a decided keenness among millers to get one and two northern wheat, and at some points competition has waxed so keen that as high as 4c premium has been paid, and in some cases track prices are being paid for wheat going into store. It is these tactics on the part of the millers that has created dissatisfaction at points where millers are not competing.

The whole market situation in the west at the moment is more edifying to watch than it is profitable to take a hand in.

HOW TO READ AN ELECTRIC METER.

Schenectady, October 10. — Of all the mechanical arrangements ever introduced in the home the recording wattmeter is the most mystifying. Although this little device decides on the amount of the monthly electric light bills, its ways are so dark, and mysterious, that the ordinary layman cannot even read it, let alone tell how it works.

After all it is a very simple device, consisting essentially of a tiny motor which actuates the dial pointers by means of a train of gears. The motor is in circuit with the lamps and revolves at a speed proportionate with the current being used. If only one lamp is turned on the motor revolves very slowly, increasing in speed with every additional lamp. Or if a number of lamps are in use and one is turned off the motor diminishes in speed and will continue to do so for every lamp that is extinguished.

The reading of a meter is as simple as its construction and any user of electric current can read his own meter and check his electric light bills, by following a few simple directions. Electricity is measured by the kilowatt-hour or by the watt-hour, one kilowatt being equivalent to one thousand watts.

First. Note carefully the unit in which the dials read. On all meters made by the General Electric Company, the figures above or below the dials indicate the value of one complete revolution of the pointer, therefore one division indicates one-tenth of the amount marked above or below.

Second. Note direction of rotation of dial pointers. Counting from the right the pointers of the first, third, and fifth dials of the General Electric Company's meters rotate in the direction of the hands of a watch, whereas the pointers of the second and fourth dials move in the opposite direction.

Third. Read dials from right to left, setting down figures as read.

Fourth. Always read the figure on each dial which has been last passed or is just covered by the pointer.

Note carefully. Each dial reading depends on the reading of the one next to it on the right. Unless the one before it has completed a revolution or passed the 0, the pointer which is being read has not completed the division upon which it may appear to rest, and still indicates the figure last passed over.

Fifth. See if the register is direct reading, i.e., has no multiplying constant.

Some registers are not direct reading but require that the dial reading be multiplied by a constant in order to obtain the true reading. If the register face bears the words, "multiply by ½," "multiply by 2," etc., the actual reading should be divided by 2 in the first case or doubled in the second, and similarly for other constants.

Sixth. Subtract from the present reading the reading of last month, multiply the difference in kilowatt hours by the rate per kilowatt hour you are paying, and you have the amount of your bill in dollars and cents.

THE PROVINCIAL EXHIBITIONS

—All cities over the Province are preparing for their exhibition, and Peterborough is no exception to the rule. It is the time we meet our old and new friends and those who are not our friends. It is also the best time for the introduction of the newest and smartest outs in fall suits and where they can be shown to the greatest advantage. The New York Ladies' Tailoring establishment have removed their parlours and workshop from 658 George street to 387 Reid street, opposite St. Peter's Cathedral, for the better accommodation of their patrons, and are prepared to take orders in any line of ladies' garments. Lady or gentleman fitter. Phone 431.

THE WRINGER

Wring out, wild Belle, with swish and swash,
With clouds of steam and rub-a-dubs,
With squeak of wringer, creak of tubs—
Wring out, wild Belle, the weekly wash.

Wring out the old, wring out the new;
Wring lightly, Belle, and have a care—
That sheet is tearing. Let it tear;
'Tis thus we tell the false from true.

Wring out that shirt waist, home despised;
It ne'er shall vex my spirit more,
I'll send it to the heathen poor
To help redress some womankind.

Wring out that slowly fading frock,
Of ancient form and last year's sleeves;
That shirt quite a la mode of Steve's,
And Maud's new-fangled fancy stock.

Wring out odd shapes of every size—
The ever-narrowing undervest,
The worn-out socks, and all the rest—
Wring out, wild Belle, to the wild skies!
—Judge.

IMPORTANT TO LADIES

It is not often an opportunity occurs at your door to see the latest Parisian and New York styles in Hair Goods, yet such is the case, as Prof. Dorenwend of Toronto is visiting in this town, and invites your inspection of these goods at his private apartments reserved at the hotel.

These Hair Goods styles, when properly adjusted protect and ornament the head, soften and beautify the expression of the face, and consequently tone up an aged appearance. Be sure and see them at the Oriental Hotel on Friday, October 16th.

The Mutual Life OF CANADA

Bigger Profits to Policy-holders

It is easy to see why a policy in this Company is an excellent investment as well as a protection.

Last year, the new business amounted to $7,081,402—a gain over 1906 of $1,577,855. Yet the operating expenses were about the same as last year.

For the last five years, the actual mortality was only 47% of the amount expected. And the interest income exceeded the mortality by $198,103.

With an expense ratio to income smaller than its competitors, with a yearly expanding interest income, and a favorable death rate, it is but natural that The Mutual Life of Canada is earning more profits, which go to the policy-holders in reduction of their premiums.

DRESS-MAKERS

The nervous strain through which dressmakers have to pass at certain seasons of the year seems almost beyond endurance, and frequently brings on nervous prostration, fainting spells, dizziness, sleeplessness and a general breaking down of the feminine system, until life seems altogether miserable.

For all overworked women there is one tried and true remedy.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

restores the feminine system to a strong, healthy, normal condition.

Mrs. A. D. Trudeau, Arnprior, Ontario, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I suffered terribly from ulceration of the feminine organs for eight years. I tried four doctors but got no relief, and thought I would have to die.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has entirely cured me. I hope every suffering woman will take my advice and try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

The moment Struve disappeared into the outer room Helen darted to the window. It was merely a single sash, nailed fast and immovable, but seizing one of the little stools beside the stove she thrust it through the glass, letting in a smother of wind and water. Before she could escape Struve bounded into the room, his face livid with anger, his voice hoarse and furious.

But as he began to denounce her he paused in amazement, for the girl had drawn Cherry's weapon and leveled it at him. She was very pale, and her breast heaved as from a swift run, while her wondrous gray eyes were lit with a light no man had ever seen there before, glowing like two jewels whose hearts contained the pent up passion of centuries. She had altered as though under the deft hand of a master sculptor, her nostrils growing thin and arched, her lips tight pressed and pitiless, her head poised proudly. The rain drove in through the shattered window, over and past her, while the cheap red curtain lashed and whipped her as though in gleeful applause. Her bitter abhorrence of the man made her voice sound strangely unnatural as she commanded:

"Don't dare to stop me!" She moved toward the door, motioning him to retreat before her, and he obeyed, recognising the danger of her coolness. She did not note the calculating treachery of his glance, however, nor fathom the purposes he had in mind.

Out on the rain swept mountain the prostrate rider had regained his senses and now was crawling painfully toward the roadhouse. Seen through the dark he would have resembled some misshapen, creeping monster, for he dragged himself, reptile-like, close to the ground. But as he came closer the man heard a cry which the wind seemed guarding from his ear, and, hearing it, he rose and rushed blindly forward, staggering like a wounded beast.

Helen watched her captive closely as he backed through the door before her, for she dared not lose sight of him until free. The middle room was lighted by a glass lamp on the bar, and its rays showed that the front door was secured by a large iron bolt. She thanked heaven there was no lock and key.

Struve had retreated until his back was to the counter, offering no word, making no move, but the darting brightness of his eyes showed that he was alert and planning. But when the door behind Helen, urged by the wind through the broken casement, banged to the man made his first lightning-like sign. He dashed the lamp to the floor, where it burst like an eggshell, and darkness leaped into the room as an animal pounces. Had she been calmer or had time for an instant's thought Helen would have hastened back to the light, but she was midway to her liberty and actuated by the sole desire to break out into the open air, so plunged forward. Without warning she was hurled from her feet by a body which came out of the darkness upon her. She fired the little gun, but Struve's arms closed about her, the weapon was wrenched from her hand, and she found herself fighting against him, breast to breast, with the fury of desperation. His wine burdened breath beat into her face, and she felt herself bound to him as though by hoops, while the touch of his cheek against hers turned her into a terrified, insensate animal which fought with every ounce of its strength and every nerve of its body. She screamed once, but it was not like the cry of a woman. Then the struggle went on in silence and utter blackness, Struve holding her like a gorilla till she grew faint and her head began to whirl, while darting lights drove past her eyes, and there was the roar of a cataract in her ears. She was a strong girl, and her ripe young body, untried until this moment, answered in every fiber, so that she wrestled with almost a man's strength and he had hard shift to hold her. But so violent an encounter could not last. Helen felt herself drifting free from the earth and losing grip of all things tangible, when at last they tripped and fell against the inner door. This gave way, and at the same moment the man's strength departed as though it were a thing of darkness and dared not face the light that streamed over them. She tore herself from his clutch and staggered into the supper room, her loosened hair falling in a gleaming torrent about her shoulders, while he arose from his knees and came toward her again, gasping:

"I'll show you who's master here!"

Then he ceased abruptly, cringingly, and threw up an arm before his face

as if to ward off a blow. Framed in the window was the pallid visage of a man. The air rocked, the lamp flared, and Struve whirled completely around, falling back against the wall. His eyes filled with horror and shifted down where his hand had clutched at his breast, plucking at one spot as if tearing a barb from his bosom. He jerked his head toward the door at his elbow in quest of a retreat, a shudder ran over him, his knees buckled and he plunged forward upon his face, his arm still doubled under him.

It had happened like a flash of light, and although Helen felt, rather than heard, the shot and saw her assailant fall, she did not realize the meaning of it till a drift of powder smoke assailed her nostrils. Even so, she experienced no shock or horror of the sight. On the contrary, a savage joy at the spectacle seized her and she stood still, leaning slightly forward, staring at it almost gloatingly, stood so till she heard her name called, "Helen, little sister!" and turning, saw her brother in the window.

That which he witnessed in her face he had seen before in the faces of men locked close with a hateful death and from whom all but the most elemental passions had departed, but he had never seen a woman bear the marks till now. No artifice nor falsity was there, nothing but the crudest, intensest feeling, which many people live and die without knowing. There are few who come to know the great primitive, passionate longings. But in this black night, fighting in defense of her most sacred self, this girl's nature had been stripped to its purely savage elements. As Glenister had predicted, Helen at last had felt and yielded to irresistibly powerful impulse.

Glancing backward at the creature sprawled by the door, Helen went to her brother, put her arms about his neck, and kissed him.

"He's dead?" the Kid asked her.

She nodded and tried to speak, but began to shiver and sob instead.

"Unlock the door," he begged her. "I'm hurt, and I must get in."

When the Kid had hobbled into the room she pressed him to her and stroked his matted head regardless of his muddy, soaking garments.

"I must look at him. He may not be badly hurt," said the Kid.

"Don't touch him!" She followed, nevertheless, and stood near by while her brother examined his victim. Struve was breathing and, discovering this, the others lifted him with difficulty to the couch.

"Something cracked in here—ribs, I guess," the Kid remarked, gasping and feeling his own side. He was weak and pale, and the girl led him into the bunkroom where he could lie down. Only his wonderful determination had sustained him thus far, and now the knowledge of his helplessness served to prevent Helen's collapse.

The Kid would not hear of her going for help till the storm abated or daylight came, insisting that the trails were too treacherous and that no time could be saved by doing so. Thus they waited for the dawn. At last they heard the wounded man faintly calling. He spoke to Helen hoarsely. There was no malice, only fear, in his tones:

"I said this was my madness—and I got what I deserved, but I'm going to die. O God—I'm going to die, and I'm afraid." He moaned till the Bronco Kid hobbled in, glaring with unquenched hatred.

"Yes, you're going to die, and I did it. Be game, can't you? I sha'n't let her go for help until daylight."

Helen forced her brother back to his couch, and returned to help the wounded man, who grew incoherent and began to babble.

A little later, when the Kid seemed stronger and his head clearer, Helen ventured to tell him of their uncle's villainy and of the proof she held, with her hope of restoring justice. She told him of the attack planned that very night and of the danger which threatened the miners. He questioned her closely and, realizing the bearing of her story, crept to the door, casting the wind like a hound.

"We'll have to risk it," said he. "The wind is almost gone and it's not long till daylight."

She pleaded to go alone, but he was firm. "I'll never leave you again, and, moreover, I know the lower trail quite well. We'll go down the gulch to the valley and reach town that way. It's farther, but it's not so dangerous."

"You can't ride," she insisted.

"I can if you'll tie me into the saddle. Come, get the horses."

It was still pitchy dark and the rain was pouring, but the wind only sighed weakly, as though tired by its violence, when she helped the Bronco into his saddle. The effort wrenched a groan from him, but he insisted upon her tying his feet beneath the horse's belly, saying that the trail was rough and he could take no chance of falling again; so, having performed the last services she might for Struve, she mounted her own animal and allowed it to pick its way down the steep descent behind her brother, who swayed and lurched drunkenly in his seat, gripping the horn before him with both hands.

They had been gone perhaps a half hour when another horse plunged furiously out of the darkness and halted before the roadhouse door. Its rider, mud stained and dishevelled, flung himself in mad haste to the ground and bolted in through the door. He saw the signs of confusion in the outer room, chairs upset and broken, the table wedged against the stove and before the counter a shattered lamp in a pool of oil. He called loudly, but, receiving no answer, snatched a light which he found burning and ran to the door at his left. Nothing greeted him but the empty tiers of bunks. Turning, he crossed to the other side and burst through. Another lamp was lighted beside the couch where Struve lay, breathing heavily, his lids half closed over his staring eyes. Roy noted the pool of blood at his feet and the broken window; then, setting down his lamp, he leaned over the man and spoke to him.

When he received no answer he spoke again loudly. Then, in a frenzy, Glenister shook the wounded man cruelly, so that he cried out in terror:

"I'm dying—oh, I'm dying." Roy raised the sick man up and thrust his own face before his eyes.

"This is Glenister. I've come for Helen—where is she?" A spark of recognition flickered into the dull stare.

"You're too late—I'm dying—and I'm afraid."

His questioner shook Struve again. "Where is she?" he repeated, time after time, till by very force of his own insistence he compelled realisation in the sufferer.

"The Kid took her away. The Kid shot me," and then his voice rose till it flooded the room with terror. "The Kid shot me, and I'm dying." He coughed blood to his lips, at which Roy laid him back and stood up. So there was no mistake, after all, and he had arrived too late. This was the Kid's revenge. This was how he struck. Lacking courage to face a man's level eyes, he possessed the foulness to prey upon a woman. Roy felt a weakening physical sickness sweep over him till his eye fell upon a sodden garment which Helen had removed from her brother's shoulders and replaced with a dry one. He snatched it from the floor and in a sudden fury felt it come apart in his hands like wet tissue paper.

He found himself out in the rain, scanning the trampled soil by light of his lamp, and discerned tracks which the drizzle had not yet erased. He reasoned mechanically that the two riders could have no great start of him, so strode out beyond the house to see if they had gone farther into the hills. There were no tracks here, therefore they must have doubled back toward town. It did not occur to him that they might have left the beaten path and followed down the little creek to the river; but, replacing the light where he had found it, he remounted and lashed his horse into a stiff canter up toward the divide that lay between him and the city. The story was growing plainer to him, though as yet he could not piece it all together. Its possibilities stabbed him with such horror that he cried out aloud and beat his steed into faster time with both hands and feet. To think of those two ruffians fighting over this girl as though she were the spoils of pillage! He must overtake the Kid—he would! The possibility that he might not threw him into such ungovernable mental chaos that he was forced to calm himself. Men went mad that way. He could not think of it. That gasping creature in the roadhouse spoke all too well of the Bronco's determination. And yet, who of those who had known the Kid in the past would dream that his vileness was so utter as this?

Away to the right, hidden among the shadowed hills, his friends rested themselves for the coming battle, waiting impatiently his return and timing it to the rising sun. Down in the valley to his left were the two he followed, while he, obsessed and unreasoning, now cursing like a madman, now grim and silent, spurred southward toward town and into the ranks of his enemies.

CHAPTER XXI.

DAY was breaking as Glenister came down the mountain. With the first light he halted to scan the trail, and, having no means of knowing that the fresh tracks he found were not those of the two riders he followed, he urged his lathered horse ahead till he became suddenly conscious that he was very tired and had not slept for two days and nights. The recollection did not reassure the young man, for his body was a weapon, which must not fail in the slightest measure now that there was work to do. Even the unwelcome speculation upon his physical handicap offered relief, however, from the agony which fell upon him whenever he thought of Helen in the gambler's hands. Meanwhile the horse, groaning at his master's violence, plunged onward toward the roots of Nome, now growing gray in the first dawn.

It seemed years since Roy had seen the sunlight, for this night, burdened with suspense, had been endlessly long. His body was faint beneath the strain, and yet he rode on and on, tired, dogged, stony, his eyes set toward the sea, his mind a storm of formless, whirling thoughts, beneath which was an undeviating, implacable determination.

He knew now that he had sacrificed all hope of the Midas, and likewise the hope of Helen was gone; in fact, he began to realise dimly that from the beginning he had never had the possibility of winning her, that she had never been destined for him and that his love for her had been sent as a light by which he was to find himself. He had failed everywhere; he had become an outlaw; he had fought and gone down, certain only of his rectitude and the mastery of his unruly spirit. Now the hour had come when he would perform his last mission, deriving therefrom that satisfaction which the gods could not deny. He would have his vengeance.

The scheme took form without conscious effort on his part and embraced two things—the death of the gambler and a meeting with McNamara. Of the former, he had no more doubt than that the sun rising there would sink in the west. So well confirmed was this belief that the details did not engage his thought; but on the result of the other encounter he speculated with some interest. From the first McNamara had been a riddle to him, and mystery breeds curiosity. His blind, instinctive hatred of the man had assumed the proportions of a mania; but as to what the outcome would be when they met face to face, fate alone could tell. Anyway, McNamara should never have Helen—Roy believed his mission covered that point as well as her deliverance from the Bronco Kid. When he had finished, he would pay the price. If he had the luck to escape, he would go back to his hills and his solitude; if he did not, his future would be in the hands of his enemies.

He entered the silent streets unobserved, for the mists were heavy and low. Smoke columns arose vertically in the still air. The rain had ceased, having beaten down the waves which rumbled against the beach, filling the streets with their subdued thunder. A ship anchored in the offing, had run in from the ice of Sledge Island with the first lull, while midway to the shore a tender was rising and falling, its oars flashing like the silvered feelers of a sea insect crawling upon the surface of the ocean.

He rode down Front street heedless of danger, heedless of the comment his appearance might create, and, unseen, entered his enemy's stronghold. He passed a gambling hall, through the windows of which came a sickly yellow gleam. A man came out unsteadily and stared at the horseman, then passed on.

Glenister's plan was to go straight to the Northern and from there to track down its owner relentlessly, but in order to reach the place his course led him past the office of Dunham & Struve. This brought back to his mind the man dying out there ten miles at his back. The scantiest humanity demanded that assistance be sent at once. Yet he dared not give word openly, thus betraying his presence, for it was necessary that he maintain his liberty during the next hour at all hazards. He suddenly thought of an expedient and reined in his horse, which stopped with wide spread legs and dejected head while he dismounted and climbed the stairs to leave a note upon the door. Some one would see the message shortly and recognise its urgency.

In dressing for the battle at the Midas on the previous night he had replaced his leather boots with "mukluks," which are waterproof, light and pliable footgear made from the skin of seal and walrus. He was thus able to move as noiselessly as though in moccasins. Finding neither pencil nor paper in his pocket, he tried the outer door of the office, to find it unlocked. He stepped inside and listened, then moved toward a table on which were writing materials, but in doing so heard a rustle in Struve's private office. Evidently his soft soles had not disturbed the man inside. Roy was about to tiptoe out as he had come when the hidden man cleared his throat. It is in these involuntary sounds that the voice retains its natural quality more distinctly even than in speaking. A strange eagerness grew in Glenister's face, and he approached the partition stealthily. It was of wood and glass, the panes clouded and opaque to a height of some six feet; but, stepping upon a chair, he peered into the room beyond. A man knelt in a litter of papers before the open safe, its drawers and compartments removed and their contents scattered. The watcher lowered himself, drew his gun and laid soft hand upon the doorknob, turning the latch with firm fingers. His vengeance had come to meet him.

After lying in wait during the long night, certain that the vigilantes would spring his trap, McNamara was astounded at news of the battle at the Midas and of Glenister's success. He stormed and cursed his men as cowards. The judge became greatly exercised over this new development, which, coupled with his night of long anxiety, reduced him to a pitiful hysteria.

"They'll blow us up next. Great heavens! Dynamite! Oh, that is barbarous. For heaven's sake, get the soldiers out, Alec."

A BACHELOR DINNER.

It Began With Medicated Soup and Ended With Olive Tarts.

One often reads of the tremblings and anxieties which accompany the first dinner parties of the young wife and housekeeper. Mr. Gerald Gordon in "Life In the Mofussil" gives a bit of experience which shows that a youthful bachelor makes his debut as an entertainer with similar feelings of trepidation. Feeling almost as nervous as a girl for the success of his initial social enterprise in India, he entered the dining room with his guests:

"The table looked very well. In the centre was a large citron melon, with the thick rind cut into ornamental shapes. The flowers were prettily arranged. When I viewed the dining room before the arrival of the guests I felt well contented.

"The critical moment was when we sat down. I was prey to a hundred and one anxieties. These fears were not allayed by seeing my right hand neighbor only making a show of eating his soup. Then I saw the colonel take one spoonful and order the servant to take it away. My own turn arriving, I found, to my horror, a strong flavor of castor oil in the concoction. On looking round the table it was clear that every one else had discovered it.

"The consomnah, standing by the sideboard, was totally unconscious that anything was wrong, and I had to tell him twice to remove the soup.

"Later the horrible mystery was explained. It was the custom of the native cooks to strain soup through a cloth, and a clean one was provided every day for the purpose. In my establishment we burn castor oil in the lamps. The duty of straining the soup that day was given to a wretched undercook, who took a cloth which had been used for cleaning the lamps.

"This was trying, but every one tried to make the best of matters. The dinner went smoothly after this until dessert. Among the dishes was one of greengages with a lot of fluffy cream on top. I felt rather proud of this delicacy. The colonel tasted it.

"'Goodness! Olives!' he shouted.

"Alas, it was too true! At the time I had given out a bottle of greengages I had also given one of fine Spanish olives. Now, for the first time, I noticed the greengages lying innocently in a cut glass dish where the olives should have been.

"This was too much for the guests' power of self restraint, and they laughed loudly and long. It was the best way to get over it, but I did not soon hear the last of these olive tarts."

An Expensive Baby.

The most expensive baby in the world is little Alexis, the three-year-old son and heir of the Czar Nicholas. On the day of his birth the council of state conferred upon him an appanage of £400,000 per year on condition that with this sum "all running expenses" must be paid until the boy reaches his fifteenth year, after which further appropriation will be made. A considerable part of the money goes to pay for life insurance premiums. The Crown Prince of Russia is insured for £800,000, and pays higher premiums than any other person in the world on account of the many dangers surrounding him. The sums expended for special guards, detectives, and secret police in the interest of the Russian Crown Prince are likewise very considerable, "enough to keep a hundred families," said an official connected with the Ministry of Finance recently. It is not fear that anybody would be cruel enough to hurt the beautiful and lovable child, but what the Czar and especially the little boy's mother fear is kidnapping.

His Bright Idea.

Pat was digging a ditch. On the first day of the job he dug and dug, but made small progress. He went back next morning only to find that what he had done the day before was entirely wiped out by a cave-in. Then a brilliant idea occurred to Pat. Half burying his pick and shovel in the earth, leaving only the ends sticking out, he carefully threw his coat and dinner pail over the edge of the cave-in and then hid. In a short time people came along, took in the situation at a glance, jumped at the conclusion that the laborer had been caught in the fall of the bank and went to work hastily trying to uncover his body. Half an hour later three sweating and puzzled men stood by the nearly completed ditch and wondered where the buried man was. Then Pat came out from his retirement and said: "Thank ye, gentlemen. I knowed you'd bite on that."

Advance Knowledge.

The disadvantage of too much knowledge in advance in his auditors was experienced by that university preacher of whom all have read. Knowing the lesson which he would read, irreverent undergraduates pasted together the pages of the Bible which he would open. The result was that read aloud, "When Noah was an hundred and twenty years old he took unto him a wife who was"—and here he turned over—"one hundred and forty cubits long, forty cubits wide, but of gopher wood and covered with pitch inside and out." Naturally the dear old gentleman was puzzled. "This is the first time I have noticed this in the Bible, but I accept it as an evidence that we are fearfully and wonderfully made," was his mild comment.

How Printing Began.

Laurentius of Haarlem invented the art of printing about A.D. 1430 and practiced it with separate wooden types. Gutenberg afterward invented cut metal types, but the art was carried to perfection by Peter Schoeffer, who invented the mode of casting the types in matrices. Frederick Corsellis began to print at Oxford in 1468 with wooden types, but it was William Caxton who introduced into England the art of printing with fusile types, in 1624.

He Knew.

"I suppose you know why you are here?" asked the judge severely.

"Yes, sir," answered the prisoner. "I was drug here."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Penurious English Employer Gets Application and Lecture.

It is remarkable what some people want for their money. There was an advertisement in The Manchester Guardian recently for a clerk in an insurance office, "with some experience in fire and employer's liability business; salary £30."

Some wag, who knew the conditions, answered the advertisement, and in offering his services said: "My experience of employer's liability dates from the beginning. I have made a study of insurance law in all its branches. In addition to my vast knowledge of insurance law I converse fluently in many languages, among which I may mention French, Greek, Latin, Gum Arabic, Boer, Germano, Sausago, Italiano, Dutch (Gorgonzola), Billingsgate, Deansgate, Basque, Hindu, and Doodo, and most of the dead languages, in the resuscitation of which I have played no little part. I write shorthand (300 words), long-hand, left-hand, right-hand, and can write with both hands at once, thus getting through a vast amount of work in my working day of twenty-three hours."

This was pretty telling, but more remained. This sarcastic applicant went on:

"My ordinary handwriting speaks for itself. I can supply my own typewriter, if necessary, and may mention that I can type half an hour in ten minutes without straining myself. I am willing to devote my whole time to your service, and give my life, if necessary, if you still adhere to your generous offer of £30 per annum. I am only twenty-seven years of age, but feel quite capable of taking the position offered. I would be willing also to let you have the services of my large family of boys, and if agreeable to you my wife would be pleased to clean your office regularly without extra charge. My references are irreproachable, and if you consider my application favorably I would forward them to you per goods train. The cost of postage for your answer to me can be deducted from my salary."

SIEVIER'S CAREER.

Famous London Publisher and Editor Is a Born Gambler.

Someone has said that the very salt of sport lies in having "a bit on your fancy," whether it be a horse or a jumping beetle. And doubtless Mr. Robert Sievier, who emerged so successfully from the recent sensational trial, readily agrees with the assertion.

"If there was nothing more important going on, I am afraid I should be tempted to bet on a match between two tame white mice," he has said.

It is not, therefore, surprising to hear that he had a bet on his trial, and that he took £4,000 to £1,000 that the jury would find him not guilty. Mr. Sievier went on the stage in his early days as a general utility man at 30s. per week, and, speaking of his experiences on the stage, he says:

"There is a great majority who imagine that they are possessed of histrionic ability, but the principal part they play on the world's stage is the fool. We have yet to learn that talent is hereditary, though the fool usually begets his like."

Mr. Sievier's marriage was quite in keeping with his romantic career. His wife was sister to the late Marquess of Ailesbury, and was engaged to a Mr. Crosbie. Indeed, the date of the wedding was fixed and the guests actually invited, when the lady broke off the match and was married quietly one morning to Mr. Sievier at St. James's, Piccadilly, the late marquess giving away the bride.

CLEVER FISHING.

Australian Aborigines Work Wonders With Single Spear.

The aboriginals of the Australian coastal regions, like most of the native South Sea Islanders, are extremely clever fishermen. In the case of the Australian native, tackle is often confined to a slender hard-wood spear, grotesquely carved. Armed with such a weapon, the "black fellow" will take a perch upon some convenient rock and gaze steadily into the wonderfully transparent blue water. Intuition and long observation seem to supply an almost uncanny knowledge as to the habits and haunts of different fish at stated times, and it is no uncommon feat for this type of fisherman to rise suddenly to his feet and send his rude spear hurtling through thirty feet of space before it enters the water to pierce clean through the body of a big schnapper, a fine mullet, or a jew-fish, almost as long as the fisherman is tall. Then the native leaps into the water, and wades or swims ashore, dragging his prize after him by the gills.

Village Lock-Ups.

Several villages in the English Midlands possess in more or less ruined state their old parish lock-ups, commonly known as round-houses. Breedon, a Leicestershire village, close to the South Derbyshire border, possesses its "lock-up," a quaint stone building 18 feet high and 8 feet 5 inches in diameter inside. The walls are 15 inches thick. The door is of stout oak, studded with many large iron nails. The lock is very strong, and the keyhole is covered with an iron plate, which itself has to be unlocked by a spanner before the door-key can be inserted. Ventilation is afforded by small holes punched in an iron plate, 6 inches by 7 inches, fixed in the centre of the door. There is no window.

Bulls.

"Ladies and gentlemen," said an Irish manager to an audience of three, "as there is nobody here I'll dismiss you all. The performance of this night will not be performed, but will be repeated tomorrow evening."

Without danger danger cannot be surmounted.—Publius Syrus.

Household Hints.

Discolored cups and dishes used for baking can be made as new by rubbing the brown stains with a flannel dipped in whiting.

If a short strip of kid from a glove is sewed to the center of a necktie the roughness of the leather will hold the pin in place against a polished collar.

SWEET LAVENDER.

Old-Fashioned Perfume Now Popular Thanks to Queen Victoria.

"Oh, will you buy my sweet-scented lavender," sings the vendors in the quiet London squares, leaving one of the most charming impressions on the mind of the visitor who ever afterward has a tendency to swell the demand for the old-fashioned herb. "The most beautiful and romantic harvest reaped during August," says The London Sphere, "is that of lavender, the very name of which suggests memories of old world gardens and prim loveliness. Lavender is extensively cultivated in the neighborhood of Mitcham and Merton and the country around Croydon and Carshalton. Some of the fields devoted to the cultivation of this fragrant plant are very large, and one grower has upwards of sixty acres covered with its purple blossom this season. It is grown mainly for the purpose of converting the blooms into that delightful old-fashioned scent which was so indispensable to our grandmothers, sweet lavender water.

"Lavender-growing as an industry to-day owes its prosperity to the patronage which Queen Victoria lavished upon it. Twenty years ago the trade in English lavender water was practically killed by German competition, and scents obtained from different chemicals. Only a few old ladies who resided in Mitcham and Merton continued to grow the plants and distill the scent as their mothers used to do.

One of these ladies, Miss Sprules by name, conceived the idea of presenting her late Majesty with a bottle of the home-made scent. Queen Victoria was charmed with her present and sent the donor one of those characteristically gracious letters for which she was famed and directed that in future Mitcham lavender water should always be used in the royal palaces. A demand for this old-fashioned perfume consequently arose, and lavender-growing has since been carried on on a large scale.

"The plant is three years old before it is ready to cut, and when in flower the stalks are nearly as high as wheat. It is reaped with an ordinary sickle, and great dexterity is required to cut a whole bush in one sweep without in any way loosening the roots. After the lavender is cut it is tied into bunches, loaded on wagons and taken to the distilleries, where the essential oil is extracted by boiling and distillation. The harvest lasts about a fortnight."

IRISH PHANTOM CITY.

Beautiful Mirage Off Coast of "Green Isle" Lasts Three Hours.

A strange story of a mirage, which reminds one of "The Spectre Island" or "The Phantom City," comes from Ballyconnesly, a town on the wild Connemara coast, some miles beyond Clifden.

A small town well studded with houses was observed one evening on the sea about six or seven miles westward. The beautiful spectre showed lovely and dim, being first seen by some young persons.

Soon hundreds gathered to witness the enchanting spectacle, which they state was composed of different sizes and varying styles of architecture. Here and there was a dismantled dwelling, as if even this strange land of sunshine had been visited by the crowbar brigade.

The phantom city was visible from 3 p.m. until 6 p.m., when it gradually vanished from view, leaving dismayed spectators, many of whom had begun to believe that it was a small town that had come to stay.

It disappeared slowly and mystically. The golden clouds curtained the deep where it lay, and the phantom city was seen no more. The peasants wondered if their eyes had not betrayed them, but they had all seen the vision in broad daylight only a few miles from the shore, and they now regard the legend of O'Brazil as no longer an imaginative story from the region of fable.

Reflections of shipwrecks have hitherto been witnessed among the clouds in clear, warm weather, and no doubt this phenomenon is the reflection in the water of some city far away.

London's Strange Religions.

The new Mormon "temple" at South Tottenham, which has just been dedicated, is the latest addition to the abundant facilities which Greater London provides for the exercise of what perhaps we may call strange religions. In the East End there are at least two Chinese joss-houses, where the wearer of the pig-tail can burn his incense-stick; the Malays can worship in their temple near St. George's Street East; the Parsees bow down to the sun in an upper room in Bloomsbury; and the Mohammedan has a choice of mosques in different parts of London. Among the 300 sects in London, all professing Christianity, are such little-known bodies as the Sandemanians, a sect sprung from the Glassites; the Cokelers, whose founder was a Walworth shoemaker; the Seventh Day Baptists, whose Sabbath is Saturday; the Peculiar People, who have a rooted objection to doctors; the followers of Joanna Southcott, domestic servant and prophetess; and the Shakers, whose numbers are now pathetically small.

Weak Little Boys
may become fine strong men. Some of the strong men of to-day were sickly boys years ago. Many of them received
Scott's Emulsion
at their mother's knee. This had a power in it that changed them from weak, delicate boys into strong, robust boys.
It has the same power to-day. Boys and girls who are pale and weak get food and energy out of Scott's Emulsion. It makes children grow.

The "Hecla" Furnace
Each one of these four grates can be shaken separately

The outer edge of a furnace fire burns up quicker than the center.
This raises a wall of ashes between the fire-pot and the coals, just where the hottest part of the fire should be.
To heat the house properly and economically, these ashes must be removed whenever the furnace is attended to.
In most furnaces, all the grates are geared together. They must all be shaken together. As the coal burns unevenly, either good coal must be shaken down with the ashes, or the fire slightly shaken and the ashes and clinkers raked down with a poker.
In the "Hecla" Furnace, each of the four grate bars can be shaken separately. When ashes accumulate on the sides of the firepot, shake only the side bars. This means getting rid of all the ashes—saving coal—keeping the fire clean—and doing away with sifting ashes.

When the furnace is almost out, you can shake down the ashes farthest from the fire without disturbing the live coals, and quickly have a blazing fire.
Clinkers cause no trouble, as they do with grates that are fastened together and must all be shaken together.
It is certainly easier to shake one grate than four.
An Automatic Lock holds each bar in position. This Lock opens as the shaker is put on and locks when released.
"Hecla" Triangular Bar Grates may be removed in an instant and each bar replaced separately.
Our new catalogue describes the "Hecla" Bar Grates, Steel Ribbed Firepot, Fused Joints and other exclusive features. If you are going to put in a new furnace this year, write for a free copy. 56

Sally's Iron.

In describing some of her associates of the stage, Ellen Terry, in McClure's Magazine, tells of her dresser, Sarah Holland. She had an extraordinarily open mind, writes Miss Terry, and was ready to grasp each new play as it came along as a separate and entirely different field of operations.

She was extremely methodical and only got flurried once in a blue moon. When we went to America and made the acquaintance of that dreadful thing, a "one night stand," she was as precise and particular about having everything nice and in order for me as if we were going to stay in the town a month. Down went my neat square of white druggot. All the lights in my dressing room were arranged as I wished. Everything was unpacked and ironed.

One day when I came into some American theater to dress I found Sally nearly in tears.

"What's the matter withyou, Sally?" I asked.

"I 'aven't 'ad a morsel to eat all day, dear, and I can't 'eat my iron."

"Eat your iron, Sally! What do you mean?"

"'Ow am I to iron all this, dear?" wailed my faithful Sally, picking up my Nance Oldfield apron and a few other trifles. "It won't get 'ot!"

Until then I really thought that Sally was being sardonic about an iron as a sustenance for victuals.

MONEY IN SMALL IDEAS

MOST OF NECESSARY THINGS REMAIN TO BE INVENTED.

Wealth and Fame Await Man Who Will Discover a Method of Cold Soldering For Lead Pipes and Affluence For Inventor of Something Instead of Putty For Window Panes.

It is agreed on all hands that invention offers one of the surest roads to fame and fortune, and one of the shortest too. Now there is no lack of inventive genius; there never were so many clever people in the world as there are to-day, but somehow their energies are not always applied in the right direction, and so they fail. It is just the old story of eyes and no eyes; you cannot see what is wanted.

There is a plumber laboriously pouring melted lead over a pipe joint and smoothing it down with a leather pad. Can you not think of a way to join those pipes cold, and to do it quickly and thoroughly? If you can there is a fortune waiting for you. And there is a nice easy little invention guaranteed to bring in thousands; just a simple and effective means of fastening panes in window frames. Surely it is a slur on the inventive genius of the age that we should still have to resort to putty in this enlightened twentieth century. Then there is the parlor carpet. Have you ever thought what an insanitary institution that carpet is? However diligent a housewife may be, she cannot keep it clean. The dust goes through the fibre, and whole worlds of microbes are safely entrenched in its soft pile. Now just think out a cheap and sanitary covering for floors, soft and warm to the feet, and you will have no need for an old-age pension.

Have you ever seen a tram-driver leaning over with a long crowbar to shift the points at a junction, or a man at the corner with a lever for the same purpose? Very clumsy and primitive, don't you think? Devise a plan whereby the driver, by simply pressing a footplate on the car-platform, might move the point which ever way he desired, and every tramway company in the country will take up your invention.

Tramways suggest roads. The wealth of a Rothschild is waiting for the inventor of a satisfactory paving material. At present the rule seems to hold that what is good for the wheels is bad for the hoofs, and vice versa. That is to say, where the road is smooth and the wheels run easily there is no grip for the hoofs; and where it is rough the vehicle is hard to drag. Then there is the motor to consider. Propelled by the back wheels, it is bound to skid if the surface be at all greasy. What is wanted is a smooth, hard, absorbent surface, with at the same time a perfect grip. If this is too hard for you, try to invent a spike that could be quickly fixed on a horse's shoes—by the driver—to give grip in time of frost.

These are scores of little things urgently wanted, which would certainly be used, and for the invention of which no technical knowledge is required. One of them is a really good tin-opener, something that would cut the tin open with one round sweep, without risk of gashing the fingers or ruining the temper.

Then there is a crying need for an envelope that would serve for sending small articles through the post. There is nothing of the kind in existence. And an envelope that could not be opened without detection would be hailed with wild enthusiasm by lovers and all those whom circumstances have placed at the mercy of inquisitive landladies.

The bottle that cannot be refilled is still wanted. There are several on the market, it is true, but the right one is yet to come. And how about a boot and glove fastening? Think how much time you spend in lacing your boots, and how annoying it is when the lace breaks, and you know that you have lost your morning train in consequence of the delay caused. A neat, quick, and simple little device is wanted—something that would cost little to produce and could be easily replaced when worn out. Invent it, and you are wealthy for life.

Stones In Queer Places.

A round stone is found in the joints of certain kinds of bamboo. This is called "tabasheer" and is supposed to be deposited from the siliceous juices of the cone. Another curiosity of this kind is the cocoanut stone, which is found in the endosperm of the cocoanut in Java and other East Indian islands. It is pure carbonate of lime and is sometimes round, sometimes earshaped, while the appearance is that of a white pearl without much luster. Some of these stones are as large as cherries and as hard as feldspar or opal. They are rarely found and are regarded by the orientals as precious stones, the lower classes using them as charms against diseases and evil spirits. Stones are also sometimes found in the pomegranate and in other East India fruits.

AS OTHERS THINK.

Everyone in Peterborough Has a Right to His Own Opinion.

While everyone has a right to his own opinion, yet it is wise to always consider what others think, and profit by it.

Nothing makes life so miserable, or interferes so widely with the usefulness of the average person, as indigestion, and it is fair for us to give fair consideration to what others think about this remarkable affliction.

Wm. Madill is positive that in Mi-o-na stomach tablets he has an absolute cure for indigestion and the many disagreeable symptoms that follow this disease, such as distress after eating, coated tongue, bad taste in the mouth, dizziness, flatulence, and nervousness.

He sells Mi-o-na with satisfaction guaranteed or money back. He believes in it, and so may you.

A PICTURE ROMANCE.

The Frame That Startled Delacroix in the Paris Salon.

Eugene Delacroix, founder of the French romantic school of art, was very poor in his youth. His first picture of note was his "Dante and Virgil," painted when he was only twenty years old. It was extremely large, containing several figures the size of life, and to buy the canvas and colors took all the money Delacroix had. A frame was out of the question, but a good natured carpenter gave the young artist four strips of lath, of which Delacroix made a rude framework for his masterpiece, which he then sent to the salon. But he had hardly a hope that his picture would be accepted.

On opening day Delacroix went to the salon, but failed to find his painting. He was wandering disconsolately about, when he noticed a great crowd before a picture. He drew near. It was his "Dante and Virgil." But it was in a magnificent, richly gilded frame, as fine a product of the picture mounter's art as could be found in Paris. Astonished, he sought Baron Gros, head of the examining committee. As soon as young Delacroix introduced himself Gros seized his hand and congratulated him with true Gallic enthusiasm. "But," stammered Delacroix, "how about that splendid frame? I had no money to frame it, and"—

"Make your mind easy," said the baron. "Your lath frame fell to pieces, but the committee was determined that such a chef-d'oeuvre as you have painted should be placed on exhibition, and we framed your 'Dante' at our own expense."—Exchange.

HISSING AND ENCORES.

Origin of These Two Customs of the Playhouses.

Hissing in playhouses had its origin in Paris in 1680 on the occasion of the presentation of Fontenelle's tragedy, "Aspar." Prior to that time suffering audiences were wont to yawn audibly and fall asleep when the apathy of the actors and performances justified that course. But on this occasion the indignant audience, driven to desperation by the platitudes of Aspar, voiced their anger by hisses, which drove the actors into temporary retirement, according to the testimony of the poet Roi, who alludes to the incident in his "Brevet de la Calotte." Hissing thereafter became fashionable.

The first encore noted in the annals of the stage was accorded to Livius Andronicus, a Roman actor. He was popular with the masses and was called back so often to repeat his speeches that he in self defense brought a boy to declaim for him while he himself applied the gestures. While encores became the rage in subsequent ages, it is known that Andronicus' plan of hiring an understudy before him before the audience to share his honors has not generally been adopted by Thespians.—Show World.

Women Barbers.

In Gay's "Journey to Exeter," published in 1715, it is told how after passing "Morcombe's lake" the travelers reach Axminster, where they sleep. The next morning—

We rise; our beards demand the barber's art.
A female enters and performs the part.
The weighty golden chain adorns her neck,
And three gold rings her skillful hands bedeck:
Smooth o'er our chin her easy fingers move,
Soft as when Venus stroked the beard of Jove.

—London Notes and Queries.

American Success.

The reason of the enormous success of the Americans, the reason of their growing wealth and power on the continent of Europe, is their willingness to take risks. They are brave and are prepared to shoulder responsibility. When a merchant fails in business, banks are found to advance him money to put him on his feet again. Not so in England. A bankrupt is a pariah; the banks will not give him the least help. His failure creates a terrible fuss.—Frenchman in Pall Mall Gazette.

His Last Question.

The counsel for the opposition had been bullying the witness for an hour or more when he finally asked:

"Is it true that there are traces of insanity in your family?"

"It would be folly to deny it," replied the witness. "My great-grandfather, who was studying for the ministry, gave it up to become a lawyer."

His Case.

Mrs. Spenders—Oh, John, I saw a sign in Bargain & Co.'s window today that reminded me of what I am most in—

Mr. Spenders—(interrupting hastily)—I, too, saw a sign in their window that reminded me of what I am. It read, "Reduced to 49 cents."

Two Styles.

Thug—I'm going to lead you one in de mug, see?

Professor—Ah! How surprising it is that the clarity of expression so necessary to literary diction may at times be attained by the veriest paucity of those descriptive elements which have so enriched our language!

Saw the Sights of the Town.

Resident—Have you seen the sights of the town?

Stranger—Yes. All morning I sat in the hotel front window watching them walk by.—Lippincott's.

No man who will not make an effort for himself need apply for aid by his friends.—Demosthenes.

One Secret.

Lawyer—I must know the whole truth before I can successfully defend you. Have you told me everything? Prisoner—Except where I hid the money. I want that for myself.

FERNIE WAS CURSED.

Old Story Says Squaw Laid Malediction Upon Burned B.C. Town.

Some of the western papers are publishing a queer story about Fernie—a legend that has been revived since the recent disaster there. It is told this way:

Years ago a lonely prospector toiled through the East Kootenay mountains, living on the flesh of the animals of the woods and hills. He cared but little for the companionship of man, and save for a brief meeting with an occasional Indian his life was indeed a solitary one, spent in ceaseless pursuit of wealth from nature's vast storehouse.

One day there came to him an Indian woman. She was the typical squaw, not unlike all others of her race. She wore, however, a string of ornaments of a peculiar sort. They were jet black and very shiny. The prospector's interest was aroused and after considerable difficulty he succeeded in persuading the Indian woman to guide him to the spot from which she brought the ornaments.

Following the woman, the prospector came upon a scene that revealed to him the possibility of untold wealth. The woman's ornaments were small pieces of coal, and before the prospector's astonished eyes there lay vast deposits of the mineral. Mining rights were applied for and later the place became known as Coal Creek, where to-day the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co. have an enormous colliery.

Having obtained great wealth, the prospector determined to enjoy the fruit of his labor, and accordingly he journeyed to Victoria, the capital city of British Columbia. Presenting a claim to be his lawful wife, the Indian woman demanded that she be taken to Victoria also and placed in a proper light before the world. The prospector to whom the great wealth had come and in whose honor the town of Fernie was named, spurned the woman and caused her to be returned to Fort Steele, where she again became a member of the tribe which she had deserted to join Fernie.

A vengeful spirit seized the woman and upon failing in her appeals to Fernie, she cursed Fernie and all who might later reside in the city bearing the name of her white companion. Heaven was called upon to witness that the city would be destroyed and that all who lived there would suffer also.

Sure enough Fernie has suffered more than her share of disasters. Three times within recent years there have been big fires there, and twice the city has been practically destroyed. The sensible people of Fernie, however, are not likely to concern themselves about the curse of a dead Indian.

Chinese the Best.

Mayor Bethune of Vancouver has been through the prairie provinces. In an interview he made some interesting observations on the question of Oriental immigration as it affects Canadians beyond the Rockies. "There are about 5,000 Japs, 2,000 Hindus, and 6,000 Chinese in Vancouver at the present time," he said. "We don't want any more of them, because we want a white British Columbia. There is plenty of white labor now at the coast, and there is no further need for the Asiatics. The caste system prevails among the Hindus in Vancouver, as it does in India. These people, even when working in the mills, may be seen eating in separate groups. They never eat meat. They usually carry with them a bannock made of flour and water, and when hungry eat this. No people can do much work on that kind of food. The Japs are more progressive and energetic, and will be a success anywhere. They are entering all kinds of business, and have even established a bank of their own in the city. The Chinamen are the best class of Asiatics we have at the coast.

"Running a Blind Pig."

A story is told in Peterboro illustrating the difficulty which new arrivals from Great Britain have in understanding some of the local words and phrases with which we have grown familiar. A citizen was charged in the Police Court with having liquor on his premises with intent to sell same without license. He was fined $50 and costs by the police magistrate, and that night one of the Peterboro dailies stated that this fine had been imposed on him for "running a blind pig." The news was thus announced on the bulletin board in front of the newspaper office.

"My word," exclaimed the newly-arrived Englishman to his friend, as they read the bulletin, "'ow they do punish them in the colonies! Here's a man fined $50 for running a blind pig. I bet the next time 'e'll let that pig walk.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS WILL CURE YOUR BABY

If your little ones are subject to colic, simple fevers, constipation, indigestion, worms or the other minor ailments of childhood, give them Baby's Own Tablets. This medicine will give relief right away, making sound, refreshing sleep possible. Better still an occasional dose will keep little ones well. Guaranteed to contain no opiate or poisonous soothing stuff. Good for the new born baby or the well grown child. Mrs. Ronald L. Seafield, Palmer Rapids, Ont., says: —"Baby's Own Tablets are the most satisfactory medicine I have ever used, and I would not like to be without the Tablets in the house." Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Andromeda Nebula.

One of the most astonishing objects in the heavens, especially when photographed, is the great nebula in the constellation Andromeda, which is visible as a misty speck to the naked eye. It has long puzzled astronomers, because while its structure—a series of vast rings surrounding a central mass—suggests a gaseous constitution, its spectrum is continuous, resembling that of the sun. It has been suggested that it may be composed of stars constituting a universe external to ours. Recent studies of its parallax, however, indicate that it is nearer to us than some of the well known stars, such as Capella, and Mr. J. Ellard Gore, the English astronomer, points out that if the Andromeda nebula were assumed to be an external universe, having a diameter comparable with that of the Milky way, its mass would be forty million million million times the mass of the sun. This is regarded as incredible and so may be taken as an additional argument in favor of the view that this nebula is a member of our system.—Youth's Companion.

A Curious Superstition.

There is a curious superstition common to Shetlanders and Cingalese. How islanders so wide apart—some 15,000 miles—managed to adopt each other's views one does not know, but here is the fact. The rice cultivators of Ceylon and the fishermen of Shetland resemble each other in one or two rather remarkable points. They refrain from speaking of the implements of their calling by their names. They call them something else, by names known only to themselves. The reason is that if the evil spirit were to think that they were speaking of spades and rakes or of nets and hooks he would be tempted to damage them or even to appropriate them. The train of thought is the same with both races: "There is an evil spirit always on the lookout for opportunities of doing mischief. He even hears what we say. If we let him understand that we are talking about our implements and tools, we shall direct his attention to them and shall suggest to him a way of doing an injury. Therefore we will agree to call a boat or a spade by some fancy name known only to ourselves."

Coronets.

The coronet of a duke consists of alternate crosses and leaves, the leaves being a representation of the leaves of the parsley plant. The princes of the blood royal also wear a similar crown. The state headgear of a marquis consists of a diadem surrounded by flowers and pearls placed alternately. An earl, however, has neither flowers nor leaves surmounting his circlet, but only points rising, each with a pearl on the top. A viscount has neither flowers nor points, but only the plain circlet adorned with pearls, which, regardless of number, are placed on the crown itself. A baron has only six pearls on the golden border, not raised, to distinguish him from an earl, and the number of pearls render his diadem distinct from that of a viscount.

A Bit of Blue Sky.

Professor John Tyndall, who, with many great gifts, possessed a singular skill in devising and conducting beautiful experimental illustrations, actually produced in 1869 a bit of blue sky in the lecture room. In a glass tube three feet in length and three inches in diameter he exhausted the air until it was less than one-tenth the density of the atmosphere we breathe and represented the rarer air high overhead. Into this exhausted air he introduced nitrite of butyle vapor, which is extremely volatile. Then a strong beam of light in a room otherwise dark was passed through the mixture, and in the glass tube there glowed a beautiful blue cloud, rivaling in color the finest Italian sky. Here was blue sky brought down to earth.

According to History.

A woman who belongs to a community called the Sisters of St. John the Baptist not long ago spent a month in a backwoods district. Shortly after her arrival she went to the local postoffice and inquired if any letters had come for Sister Bernardine. The rural postmaster looked bewildered.

"Sister who?" he asked incredulously.

"Sister Bernardine," repeated the lady, "a sister of St. John the Baptist."

"I think not," he answered. Then, after some reflection, he added, "Say, ain't he been dead pretty near a hundred years now?"—Harper's Weekly.

Her Limitations.

"These pianos look too cheap," said the young woman, her brows contracting slightly. "Show me some of the best you've got."

"Yes, ma'am," said the salesman. "May I ask how high you care to go?"

"Me? Oh, I only go to G, but I want one with all the octaves just the same."—Chicago Tribune.

Let Him Try.

"I fear no foe in shining armor," sang the man at a concert.

"Don't you, old chap?" grumbled the bachelor in the front row. "Then you try to open a sardine box with a pocketknife."

Making It Worth While.

There was a man who dropped a penny down a crack in a board walk. With a wire and a stick he tried to recover the penny for a long time. Then, shaking his head sadly, he went home. But the next morning he returned early to the spot, and he was bending over the crack with a quarter in his hand when a friend happened along and said:

"Hello, Joe! What are you doing there?"

"Well, I'll tell you," said the other. "Yesterday I dropped a penny down this crack. Now, I reasoned that it wasn't worth while to pull up four or five boards to find a penny, but last night in bed an idea struck me, and I'm going to drop a quarter down to make it worth my while."

MEN'S SOCIAL ADULT BIBLE CLASS

The Nature of The Work Carried On by It at George Street Church

The Men's Social Adult Bible Class of the George Street Methodist Church, which meets every Sunday afternoon in the church parlour at 2.30, had a fairly good attendance yesterday afternoon. The lesson, "God's promise to David," I. Chron. 7th chap., was discussed with much interest. This class organized along the new movement lines some time ago, has been keeping quiet but is now going to let everybody know who they are in a lively manner.

Everybody knows what a Bible class is. A good many, perhaps, don't know what a Social Adult Bible Class is, what its aims are and why it is called a Social Adult Bible Class. Well, all Social Adult Bible Classes are organized classes of the young and old alike. There are men's classes and ladies' classes. The George Street S. A. B. C. is a men's class, and like all others, its aim is to get the men and young fellows who live in and visit Peterborough to come and learn more about God an His love and help the other fellow.

The teacher, Rev. E. A. Pearson, is a favourite with the class, and the interest taken by the members can best be shown by the fact that the class has had the best average attendance of any Bible class in Ontario. That's saying a pretty big thing, perhaps, but if you heard the way the lessons are discussed you couldn't help but think of it being any other way.

The S.A.B.C. is just what the name says. It is a class where all join in good fellowship and have a good sociable time on the evenings set apart for the entertainments.

An idea of the work that has been done on a small scale heretofore, and the work that is going to be done on a somewhat larger scale in the future can be gained from the following list of officers:

Hon. President—S. A. Armstrong.
President—W. B. Warne.
1st Vice-President—L. A. Turner.
2nd Vice-President—R. McGill.
Teacher—Rev. E. A. Pearson.
Assistant Teacher—F. C. Moore.
Secretary—H. McCarll.
Assistant Secretary—C. D. Briggs.
Treasurer—S. A. Oke.
Chairman Membership Committee—R. G. Howland.
Chairman Visiting Committee—Mr. Deprose.
Chairman Reception Committee—T. M. McFadden.
Chairman Devotional Committee—S. G. Clark.
Chairman Social Committee—G. T. Proctor.
Chairman Literary Committee—R. J. Soden.
Chairman Athletic Committee—Dr. G. E. Marshall.
Librarian—A. E. Micks.
Class Artist—F. A. Sisson.
Class Reporter—C. D. Briggs.

The rest of the class work on the different committees.

Everybody in the class is a worker, the hardest one of which is R. G. Howland, called "Colonel Bobs" by the class because he is the head of the Membership Committee.

The next entertainment will be held October 23rd, in the Sunday School, particulars of which will be given out later. Mr. R. J. Soden has a surprise in store for all who come.

The "glad hand" is held out to all who come to class, so don't be backward—Skino.

GOSPEL TEMPERANCE MEETING AT CRYSTAL

Address by Rev. Robt. Pogue—Special Music

The first of the series of Sunday night Gospel Temperance meetings was held in the Crystal Theatre last night and there was a good attendance. The chair was occupied by Mr. H. P. Lindsay, and Mr. W. Shiner lead the song service. During the evening, Mr. Percy Mulheron sang "I Will Go Where You Want Me To Go."

Rev. Robt. Pogue was the speaker of the evening, and he took as his subject, "Gospel Temperance." He pointed out the great power of the Gospel in saving men from intemperate acts. The address was very interesting.

Rev. Mr. Pearson closed the meeting with the Benediction.

EUROPEAN WAR CLOUD IS DARK

Complications of Balkan Problem Far From Solution.

SULTAN MAY QUIT HIS JOB

Servians and Bulgarians Clamor For Trouble But King Peter Promises to Avoid Hostilities If Possible—Grey and King Edward Confer With Russian Ambassador But Result Is Not Known.

London, Oct. 12.—The beginning of another week finds the situation in the Balkans and among the great powers that have interests as complicated as at any time since the declaration of Bulgaria's independence and the annexation of two provinces by Austro-Hungary.

Special despatches received from Constantinople say it is rumored that the Sultan, under pressure from the committee of union and progress, will abdicate in favor of his brother, Mohammed Reshad Effendi.

Servia is in a warlike mood and has stepped into the breach to contest Austria's right to Bosnia and Herzegovina, and in this Servia is being backed strongly by Montenegro, whose reigning prince declares that he would not shrink from any sacrifice in defence of the Servian nationality.

In Belgrade popular excitement is at a fever heat, which seems to be shared by the crown prince, who, in an address before thousands of patriots, declared on Saturday that he hoped within a few days they would be able to offer their lives for the King and the fatherland.

Enthusiasm marked the meeting of the Servian National Assembly, which on Saturday elected as its president a man well known to be in favor of a war with Austria-Hungary. The sitting of the Assembly was held in secret and continued for many hours, the question of opposing Austria being angrily discussed. King Peter, however, has notified the British Government and other friendly powers that he is using every effort to keep the country out of war. Nevertheless there has been a call to arms in Servia, although the official explanation of this is that forces are needed in the interior to preserve order.

Austria-Hungary has served notice upon Servia that she is prepared for all eventualities and will tolerate no further provocation.

Great Britain, while striving to maintain the integrity of the Berlin treaty and conserve the interests of Turkey in the Balkans, is endeavoring to find a way out of the difficulty short of a conference with the powers, less the scope of such conference might not be confined to the questions now at issue.

As a consequence, the meeting of the British Foreign Secretary, Sir Edward Grey, and the Russian Foreign Minister, M. Iswolsky, was devoid of result Saturday. These two diplomats dined with King Edward on Sunday, when the King, who is recognized as "the greatest diplomat in all Europe," may have had a directing influence.

To-day the Ministers will meet again, and probably a definite program of action will be announced.

Russian diplomacy has been directed towards persuading Austria to be a party to an international conference for a review of the whole situation, but Austria refuses to give way on the points of her responsibility, to the signatories of the Berlin treaty, and maintains her right to have the annexation of Bosnia accepted as an accomplished fact.

Despatches from Rome state that Italy adheres to the principle of an international congress, but at the same time the Italian fleet, which has just completed its fall manoeuvres, has received orders to remain concentrated at Spezia.

Newspapers Too Bulky.

New York, Oct. 12.—That the increasing cost of pulp will eventually force publishers over the world to reduce the size of their newspapers or to charge more for them is the opinion of Lord Northcliffe, head of the Harmsworth Corporation, which owns and controls The London Daily Mail and 15 other English publications, who arrived here on the Lusitania with his mother, Mrs. Harmsworth, Lady Northcliffe, and Mrs. Algernon Douglas-Pennant, for two months' holidays in America.

Truant Is Married.

Windsor, Oct. 12.—Michigan authorities are trying to figure out whether they can compel a married "woman" who is 14 years of age to attend school or not.

For several days a truant officer in Bay City has been searching for Bertha Groves, who was reported absent from her school class by the teacher. Finally he located the girl, but completely lost his nerve when she told him that she had married John Black, 18 years of age, in Windsor.

Forgot Boy In Cupboard.

Peabody, Mass., Oct. 12.—In the excitement over being bridesmaid for her best friend, Miss Catherine Reynolds, a teacher of this town, forgot all about Manuel Silva, one of her pupils, whom she had locked in the school room closet Wednesday morning, until late Thursday night after the wedding. The boy was in a serious condition from his confinement.

Winnipeg, Oct. 12.—It is reported from The Pas that James Oliver Curwood, the well-known American author of Detroit, Mich., who recently went into Hudson Bay wilds for the Bobbs Merrill Publishing Co., has been killed by Indians in Lac La Bonge country.

BALOON WRECKED AT BERLIN

Gas Bag in Race Bursts at Altitude of 4,000 Feet.

AERONAUTS ESCAPE DEATH

Starters in Big Race Have Amazing Delivery From Being Killed—Envelope Breaks and Terrible Descent is Made in Safety — Dropped Faster Than Articles Thrown Out—Child's Narrow Escape.

Berlin, Oct. 12.—The international balloon race, which started yesterday from the suburb of Schmargendorf, was the occasion of a thrilling accident, two American aeronauts having a miraculous escape from death. The American balloon Conquerer, the only American-built craft in the contest, having on board A. Holland Forbes and Augustus Post, less than 2 minutes after the start, burst at an altitude of 4,000 feet.

For 2,000 feet it shot down like a bullet, and then the silk assumed the shape of a parachute and the rapidity of the descent was checked. Coming close to the earth, however, the basket smashed into the roof of a house, but the two men escaped with but slight injuries.

The race, at which twenty-three balloons participated, representing Great Britain, France, Germany, the United States, Switzerland, Italy, Belgium and Spain, started at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the presence of at least 50,000 spectators.

A. Holland Forbes, who appeared to be very little the worse for his experience, except that he was suffering somewhat from shock, gave a thrilling account of the accident.

"We have some difficulty, he said, "in getting away, but once we left the ground, everything seemed to be right. We mounted almost perpendicularly to an altitude of 4,000 feet. As I looked at the recording instrument to make a note of the altitude, I heard a peculiar swish and said to Post, 'that sounds dangerous.' Immediately I saw that the envelope was rapidly deflating. Instantly I threw the appendix clear of the basket and the ropes, and drawing my jack-knife, cut the ropes that were attached to the thirty-nine bags of sand hanging around the basket.

"Then in the meantime threw over everything portable. We could see, however, that we were falling more rapidly than some of the ejected articles. But later when the descent of the balloon was checked, we observed one bag of sand fall into a baby carriage, which was smashed to pieces, but fortunately the nurse snatched out the baby and saved its life.

"Both of us sprang up and held on to the ring above, hoping in that way to avoid the crash. Then above us could be seen the envelope gradually spreading out. It continued to fall with terrific speed until a sort of parachute had been formed, and then we knew that unless a further mishap occurred we would probably be saved from death."

ARMED FOR BATTLE.

Fishermen Fired on By Wardens Go Home For Rifles.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Oct. 12.—Further trouble between United States and Canadian officials in Lake Superior is threatened.

It was alleged last night that a party of fishermen came to the city in the afternoon, secured a number of rifles and left immediately for the last return trip. Their boat carried several bullet holes, alleged to have been received in the recent battle.

Game Warden L. A. Hand of the Canadian Soo, who has returned from up the lake, says that he was not with Warden Calbeck when the fight took place, although he heard of the trouble.

To Honor Milner.

Toronto, Oct. 12.—Lord Milner, who will pass through Toronto shortly, will receive the degree of LL.D. at a convocation of Toronto University on Wednesday, Oct. 21. At the same convocation the same degree will be conferred in absentia upon Lord Roberts.

The board of governors of the university has appointed E. H. Haultain to be associate professor in the faculty of mining in succession to Prof. Mickie, who has resigned. Dr. S. Morley Wickett and S. A. Cudmore will this session carry on the work of Prof. S. J. McLean, who resigned to go on the railway commission.

Piano Factory Burned.

Listowel, Oct. 12.—The town of Listowel was visited by a very serious fire early Saturday morning, when the splendid factory of the Morris Piano Co. took fire.

The conflagration started in the fourth floor.

The building used for tuning and readjustment department, general offices, etc., remains intact, being only slightly damaged. About 75 men are thrown out of employment.

The loss will probably amount to $75,000, mostly covered by insurance.

Bodies Bound With Wire.

New York, Oct. 12.—A tragic mystery came to light Saturday when the bodies of a well-dressed man and woman, bound securely together with wire, were found floating in Jamaica Bay. The bodies have not yet been identified. They were found by two fishermen.

Both victims had their valuables intact; the woman's chatelaine bag was even wired to her wrist.

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN

LYDIA E. PINKHAM

No other medicine has been so successful in relieving the suffering of women or received so many genuine testimonials as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

In every community you will find women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Almost every one you meet has either been benefited by it, or has friends who have.

In the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., any woman any day may see the files containing over one million one hundred thousand letters from women seeking health, and here are the letters in which they openly state over their own signatures that they were cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved many women from surgical operations.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is made from roots and herbs, without drugs, and is wholesome and harmless.

The reason why Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is so successful is because it contains ingredients which act directly upon the feminine organism, restoring it to a healthy normal condition.

Women who are suffering from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

A Narrow Escape.

By MARTHA C. SANFORD.

Copyrighted, 1903, by Associated Literary Press.

Curtiss Rollins dashed breathlessly into the Central station just as the man behind the megaphone announced, "Incoming 3 o'clock up state express on track 14." He made his way nervously through the anxious crowd surging toward the gate and took up his position in the line behind the guard ropes.

Then, serene in the consciousness that he was, after all, on time, his mind lapsed into contemplation of the business problem from which he had wrenched himself but ten minutes before. The passengers, hurrying by from the train, made no individual impression upon him. He stood there as one waiting to be recognized and set in motion. Suddenly he was aware that he was being spoken to.

"You don't remember me, I'm afraid, Mr. Rollins."

His bewilderment as he looked at the girl was quite evident.

"I'm afraid I don't," he began stumblingly. Then in a flash his face lighted up, and he grasped her hand cordially. "Yes, I do," he retracted. "I remember you perfectly, but I can't recall your name."

"Eloise Kimball," the girl informed him. "I'm Margaret's roommate."

"To be sure," he assented genially, though in reality the recollection of that distant day spent in a whirl and flutter of endlessly accumulative girls momentarily dismayed him.

As he bent down quite as a matter of course to take up her suit case he remembered that this wasn't the girl he had come to meet after all.

"Great heavens," he exclaimed in dismay, "I'm afraid I've missed my sister! Did you happen to see her on the train, Miss Kimball?"

At this Eloise could hardly keep from laughing outright. The man was certainly living up to his reputation. "An irreclaimable freak" was Margaret's sisterly way of describing him.

"She isn't coming until the 10:36 train tonight," Eloise informed him.

"I'M MARGARET'S ROOMMATE."

"She asked me to tell you. That's why I was so very indecorous as to speak to you."

Rollins looked dumfounded.

"Got me up here for nothing," he asked in amazement. "Couldn't she have telegraphed? Really, Miss Kimball, I can't see what good four years at college have done Margaret if they haven't taught her to realise the relative importance of things. The idea of making me come way up here in the midst of business hours for nothing! I"—

Suddenly he stopped short. A pair of mischievous brown eyes were laughing at him.

"I mean, of course," he amended humbly, "that Margaret might have telegraphed and saved us both this trouble."

At this the laughter bubbled over.

"I fear we are a pretty thoughtless lot," she admitted demurely. "But we learn very easily. That's where our education benefits us perhaps. Now, don't let me keep you away from business another second. I feel very guilty."

This sympathetic little apology had its effect on Curtiss Rollins. He became all at once aware of the girl's extreme prettiness. It would be brutal to leave her in that big station alone and helpless.

"Hang business!" was his unexpected reply. "Do you have to cross the city, Miss Kimball?"

"Yes. I leave by boat from the East river side. But please don't bother about me, Mr. Rollins. I'm quite used to crossing the city alone, really."

"What time does your boat leave?" he inquired pertinently.

"At 6 o'clock."

"It's about 3:30 now," Rollins said, consulting his watch. "That will give us time for a little fun. What would you like to do most, Miss Kimball?"

"Have a college sundae and ride down the avenue on top of the bus," she announced unhesitatingly.

CORNS. CURED IN 24 HOURS

Dron can painlessly remove any corn, either hard, soft or bleeding, by applying Putnam's Corn Extractor. It never burns, leaves no scar, contains no acids; is harmless because composed only of healing gums and balms. Fifty years in use. Cure guaranteed. Sold by all druggists 25c. bottles. Refuse substitutes.

PUTNAM'S PAINLESS CORN EXTRACTOR

"...seriously," urged Rollins.

"That's serious," protested Eloise. "Have you outgrown such simple forms of amusement?"

"Not outgrown, just forgotten," he assured her heartily. "I think it will be a jolly lark. Now for the college sundae. What is your favorite flower?"

Oh, shades of solemn stocks and bonds! If Margaret could have seen them now! Eloise described a complete revolution on her rotary stool at the thought of it.

And the ride down on the bus, hats off, with the brisk breese blowing through their hair and everywhere the exhilaration as of a holiday about them!

"I never had so much fun in my life!" Rollins exclaimed, with unaffected enthusiasm.

"It's because you're playing truant," Eloise assured him. "Aren't you having fun?" he asked her.

"Of course! I could squeal I'm so happy."

"But you aren't playing truant. What"—

"I'm just playing," interrupted Eloise quickly. "And that's more fun than anything else in the world."

Rollins was the first to break the little conscious silence that followed.

"I was awfully rude to you at the station, Miss Kimball. I hope you'll forget it. I don't know what you thought of me."

"Margaret had prepared me for the worst," she said.

"What had she told you?" he demanded. "It will probably do me good to hear."

Eloise let him have the merciless truth.

"And I suppose you agree with her?" he questioned, half in jest, half in earnest.

"Margaret doesn't half know how irreclaimable you are," Eloise answered without a perceptible flicker of mockery.

* * * * * * *

It was with a strangely new sensation that Curtiss Rollins stood watching a ship sail out to sea long after the flutter of a certain little handkerchief had become indistinguishable before he turned his face toward town again, which, he had decided, had grown suddenly dull and lonely. In the days that followed he was absorbed and preoccupied to a noticeable degree.

"Curtiss has grown freakier than ever," wrote Margaret to Eloise in desperation. "I did hope the sight of such a refreshing creature as you, my dear, would wake him up, and I'm sure he did enjoy the afternoon he spent with you. In fact, after I first got home he spoke of you several times voluntarily, called you 'intelligent and sympathetic,' which is the very acme of admiration from Curtiss.

"On the strength of this before we left town I told him all about you and your family (tactfully, of course) and what a charming summer place Cliffville is, adroitly suggesting that he'd find it an ideal spot to spend his vacation. But all to no purpose, my dear Eloise. A telegram has just come from him saying he's been called away on an urgent matter and will be gone indefinitely.

"That means that when he gets back he'll plunge into business harder than ever, and all the romantic influence of the summer season will have spent itself in vain, so far as Curtiss is concerned."

This letter Eloise hugged ardently to her until the felicitous moment should come when she could laugh over its contents with Curtiss.

"You see," she told him when the moment did come, "I suspected your motive from the very day of your arrival in Cliffville."

"Margaret is a most remarkable girl," Curtiss commented, glancing again at the letter. "She understands people. I have always said so."

"Especially 'irreclaimable freaks,'" Eloise reminded him roguishly.

Curtiss made a wry face, then laughed in spite of himself.

"What made you think me worth reclaiming, dearest?" he asked her tenderly.

"Three little words," she answered mysteriously.

Curtiss waited to hear them.

"'An irreclaimable freak, but a dear'—that's what Margaret always called you."

For a moment Curtiss' expression was as gloomy as the fate his imagination depicted.

"Just three little words!" he repeated solemnly. "What a narrow escape! Suppose Margaret had not said them?"

"Why, I should have discovered them myself," Eloise answered him.

"How wonderful!" exclaimed her lover, reverently clasping her to him, and Eloise let him think so.

Dogs in Restaurants.

Most restaurants have a rule which forbids a patron from bringing a dog to the table, but in Brooklyn one eating house proprietor has found it profitable to cater to women who have a fondness for dogs and a desire to have them for table companions. Any day at luncheon hour three or four women may be seen eating at this place, their pets sitting beside them on special high chairs. Doggie's dinner is served on a special plate, which is placed on a ledge in front of the chair.—New York Sun.

SQUARED HIS OBLIGATION.

How "Private" John Allen Proved His Capability For Business.

The wonderful advance in the price of town lots and farms in the new state of Oklahoma recalls the fact that when Oklahoma was first organized as a territory the boomers arranged a special train and invited a number of congressmen to make a trip down there. Some of the development companies made it a point to sell town lots at nominal rates to the visiting statesmen. Among those who became purchasers some fifteen years ago was the famous "Private" John Allen of Mississippi. Allen was never credited with being anything of a business man in those days. He has a millionaire brother in St. Louis nicknamed "Ugly Jim." The latter used to try hard to make a financier out of John and offered him at one time a tempting salary to quit congress and attend to his law business. But about then "Private" Allen was not fond of work. His funny speeches kept him in congress for sixteen years, and he used to say that he could worry through the year on a congressman's salary because it was so "powerful regular!" Every now and then "Private" John would need extra money, and he would borrow from "Ugly Jim." The millionaire advanced more than he thought John should owe him or any other man, so he pressed the witty congressman for a settlement. He told him that, while he could afford to wipe the account off the slate, he did not propose to do so and John must pay. It was for his own interest. He would never become a business man unless he met his obligations more promptly.

John thought of a scheme by which he would prove to "Ugly Jim" that he was more of a business man than he imagined. He wrote to numerous people to make him fancy offers for his town lots in Oklahoma. Then he had folks down in the territory advise him that he should not think of selling for any such ridiculously low figures. "Hold for six months longer," they said, "and you will get 50 per cent more." All this information John sent to "Ugly Jim." He frankly informed him that the best he could do was to take him in with him on the Oklahoma deals. "Ugly Jim" was convinced, and funny John unloaded on the millionaire and squared his account with him, and "Ugly Jim" had to reluctantly admit that "Private" Allen wasn't the "fool he looked."

A Hardy Hickory.

C. G. Bates of the United States forest service has found in western Arkansas a species of hickory, locally known as "bull," or "alligator" hickory, which exhibits remarkable resistance to the effects of drought as well as to forest fires. Its small, thick skinned leaves are assigned as a principal cause of its drought defying powers. Like other hickories, it also sends down into the soil a long, strong taproot. Mr. Bates suggests that this tree would be useful for planting in prairie states and in dry situations in other localities. Where fires frequently occur the alligator hickory is the sole survivor.—Youth's Companion.

A Prediction.

One hundred and ninety-nine years ago the English—no; let us go away back—299 years ago the French—no; that isn't right—399 years ago the Indians—oh, pshaw—499 years ago the mound builders took Ticonderoga from the cave dwellers. Then the Indians took it from the mound builders, and the French took it from the Indians, and then 199 years ago today the English took it from the French, and then Ethan Allen, with the aid of the Great Jehovah and the Continental congress, took it from the English, and now you can take it from me that no one else is ever going to take it from anybody.—Boston Journal.

She Recalled an Instance.

"Mrs. Peddicord," said that lady's husband, "did you ever say anything that you afterward regretted saying?"

"Certainly. I said 'Yes' once and have been sorry for it ever since."

Penurious English Employer Gets Application and Lecture.

It is remarkable what some people want for their money. There was an advertisement in The Manchester Guardian recently for a clerk in an insurance office, "with some experience in fire and employer's liability business; salary £30."

Some wag, who knew the conditions, answered the advertisement, and in offering his services said: "My experience of employer's liability dates from the beginning. I have made a study of insurance law in all its branches. In addition to my vast knowledge of insurance law I converse fluently in many languages, among which I may mention French, Greek, Latin, Gum Arabic, Beer, Germano, Sausage, Italiano, Dutch (Gorgonzola), Billingsgate, Deansgate, Basque, Hindu, and Doodo, and most of the dead languages, in the resuscitation of which I have played no little part. I write shorthand (280 words), long-hand, left-hand, right-hand, and can write with both hands at once, thus getting through a vast amount of work in my working day of twenty-three hours."

This was pretty telling, but more remained. This sarcastic applicant went on:

"My ordinary handwriting speaks for itself. I can supply my own typewriter, if necessary, and may mention that I can type half an hour in ten minutes without straining myself. I am willing to devote my whole time to your service, and give my life, if necessary, if you still adhere to your generous offer of £30 per annum. I am only twenty-seven years of age, but feel quite capable of taking the position offered. I would be willing also to let you have the services of my large family of boys, and if agreeable to you my wife would be pleased to clean your office regularly without extra charge. My references are irreproachable, and if you consider my application favorably I would forward them to you per goods train. The cost of postage for your answer to me can be deducted from my salary."

SIEVIER'S CAREER.

Famous London Publisher and Editor Is a Born Gambler.

Someone has said that the very salt of sport lies in having "a bit on your fancy," whether it be a horse or a jumping beetle. And doubtless Mr. Robert Sievier, who emerged so successfully from the recent sensational trial, readily agrees with the assertion.

"If there was nothing more important going on, I am afraid I should be tempted to bet on a match between two tame white mice," he has said.

It is not, therefore, surprising to hear that he had a bet on his trial, and that he took £4,000 to £1,000 that the jury would find him not guilty. Mr. Sievier went on the stage in his early days as a general utility man at 35s. per week, and, speaking of his experiences on the stage, he says:

"There is a great majority who imagine that they are possessed of histrionic ability, but the principal part they play on the world's stage is the fool. We have yet to learn that talent is hereditary, though the fool usually [illegible]

Mr. Sievier's marriage was quite in keeping with his romantic career. His wife was sister to the late Marquess of Ailesbury, and was engaged to a Mr. Crosbie. Indeed, the date of the wedding was fixed and the guests actually invited, when the lady broke off the match and was married quietly one morning to Mr. Sievier at St. James's, Piccadilly, the late marquess giving away the bride.

CLEVER FISHING.

Australian Aborigines Work Wonders With Single Spear.

The aboriginals of the Australian coastal regions, like most of the native South Sea Islanders, are extremely clever fishermen. In the case of the Australian native, tackle is often confined to a slender hard-wood spear, grotesquely carved. Armed with such a weapon, the "black fellow" will take a perch upon some convenient rock and gaze steadily into the wonderfully transparent blue water. Intuition and long observation seem to supply an almost uncanny knowledge as to the habits and haunts of different fish at stated times, and it is no uncommon feat for this type of fisherman to rise suddenly to his feet and send his rude spear hurtling through thirty feet of space before it enters the water to piece clean through the body of a big schnapper, a fine mullet, or a jew-fish, almost as long as the fisherman is tall. Then the native leaps into the water, and wades or swims ashore, dragging his prise after him by the gills.

Village Lock-Ups.

Several villages in the English Midlands possess in more or less ruined state their old parish lock-ups, commonly known as round-houses. Breedon, a Leicestershire village, close to the South Derbyshire border, possesses its "lock-up," a quaint stone building 18 feet high and 8 feet 5 inches in diameter inside. The walls are 15 inches thick. The door is of stout oak, studded with many large iron nails. The lock is very strong, and the keyhole is covered with an iron plate, which itself has to be unlocked by a spanner before the door-key can be inserted. Ventilation is afforded by small holes punched in an iron plate, 6 inches by 7 inches, fixed in the centre of the door. There is no window.

Postmaster Gets Bail.

Cobourg, Oct. 9.—Richard Ralla, postmaster at Venella, was brought here yesterday under arrest on charges of non-delivery of mail matter.

He was admitted to bail in the sum of $2,000, provided $1,000 by himself and $500 each by Charles Webster and John Field.

RAT CATCHERS.

Once of the Methods by Which They Make Big Hauls.

"Rat catchers, like horse tamers, try to make a mystery of their trade," said a zoo keeper.

He pointed toward the large gray rats that played about the corners of the carnivora house.

"But they can't mystify me in any phase of the rat question," he went on. "Living as I do, surrounded by an army of the largest, finest rats, I know the animals too thoroughly. I could set up as a successful rat catcher tomorrow.

"This is the way the men work. They go to the infested place late at night with a pair of tongs, a powerful lantern and a lot of bags.

"They walk softly about in the darkness, and they make a low, chattering, whistling noise, like this."

At the sound all the rats in the corners of the big room looked at the keeper inquiringly. He went on:

"This is the signal whereby a rat tells his mates that he has hit on good feeding. That sound made in the dark gathers rats as molasses gathers flies. The catcher, having made it, opens his strong lantern, the rats are dazed by the light, and he picks them up with his tongs and drops them in his bag.

"Of course there are other ways to catch rats, but of the secret, mysterious ones this is the best."—Exchange.

A CEYLON PLAGUE.

The Land Leeches Are Worse Than the Snakes or Mosquitoes.

It is nearly always the case that exceedingly beautiful countries are overrun by different kinds of pests. Beautiful Ceylon has mosquitoes said to be the most adroit and audacious in the world and snakes and a thousand more plagues of poor human beings, but the worst of them all is a species of leech. The Ceylon land leech is a thin creature about two inches long and very nimble and flexible. It will crawl up a man's leg and, traveling underneath the clothing, will climb as high as the throat. These leeches do not crawl like the leeches that are known to medicine, but rear themselves up on their tails to watch for prey and walk off to attack it with amazing rapidity. In walking through the jungle hosts of them may be seen by the roadside, where they wait to victimize cattle. Horses, it is said, are driven half wild by them, as also are palanquin bearers and coolies, whose bare legs are their favorite resort, the men's hands being too engaged to pull them off. The leeches may be seen hanging round their ankles, from which tiny trickles of blood run over the foot.—London Standard.

Paid Up.

A year or two ago the son of a prominent banker of Iowa undertook, with all the brashness and confidence of youth, the launching of a new morning paper in a town already well supplied with newspapers.

It was understood by his friends that the young man had, in fact, started his enterprise on "a shoestring"—a few hundred dollars advanced by his father. So it was with much facetiousness that the youthful proprietor and editor was approached from day to day by the aforesaid friends. "So you call yourself an editor?" exclaimed one of them, with affected contempt.

"Of course I do," returned the brash young owner. "I'm the whole thing on this paper. And I don't owe a cent therefor."

"Everybody knows," continued his tormentor, "that you got $200 from your father to start the thing."

"Sure!" said the proprietor and editor. "Furthermore, the old man's subscription for the Beacon is marked paid a hundred years ahead on my books."

Long Flights of Birds.

Birds of passage make their longest flight somewhere near Bering Straits. A naturalist says that probably the longest continuous flight made by the feathered travelers in their peregrinations is accomplished by some of the shore and water birds that nest in the islands of Bering sea and spend the winter at Hawaii and Fanning island, 2,200 miles away. As some of the birds live entirely on the shore and are probably unable to rest on the surface of the water, they must accomplish the whole distance in a single flight, yet they make their way to their destination with absolute precision.

Cheese Crackers.

Cheese crackers are better when made the day they are to be eaten. Use American grated cheese and saltine crackers. For each two tablespoonfuls allow one of creamed butter, rubbing them together till perfectly smooth. Spread evenly on the wafers and set them in a moderate oven to glaze the cheese. Watch carefully to prevent burning. There is nothing nicer to serve with a plain salad.

No School.

The teacher was giving an exposition on culpable homicide.

"If I went out in a small boat," he said, "and the owner knew it was leaking, and I got drowned, what would that be?"

After a few minutes' silence a little boy stood up and said:

"A holiday, sir!"

An Invitation.

HOLES IN GLASS.

They Are Too Tiny to See, but Air Can Work Through Them.

Ordinary tumblers will hold water because the globules of water are too big to squeeze through the glass. But glass is as full of holes as a sponge, and air blows right through it because the specks of air are smaller than the holes.

Put a bell into a big globe of glass, seal up the vessel, pump out all the air, then ring the bell inside, and you hear nothing. There is not air enough in the globe to carry a sound. But lay the globe aside for a month or so, and, no matter how carefully you have sealed up the neck, you will find that you then can hear the bell when you ring it. Air has got into that globe. Enough anyway to carry a sound has leaked in through the substance of the glass.

The ordinary incandescent lamp is a glass globe with the air pumped out, and after a few months sufficient air leaks through to dim the light which comes from the thread of electrified charcoal inside.

We can make plenty of vessels to hold water, but nothing has been made which will hold air without any leakage. The air sneaks in through holes which are too small for the human mind to imagine.

In fact, everything leaks.—London Answers.

THE END OF THE WORLD.

A Theory That It Will Come by Fire Caused by Friction.

As to the length of time the earth is likely to last, the calculations are that it will not cease to be active for a good many millions of years, such activity not, however, necessarily supposing that life as we know it now will always be possible, the eventuality of a universal ice age being always a contingency that may occur again in the history of the globe.

It is interesting to note that in this connection a Swedish mystic called Stromberg has declared that the world would never know another ice age, but that it was now running out its course to the end. Its existence, he declared, would endure as long as fire burned in the earth's bowels—that is, until the whole mass shall have become solidified. The internal fires, he said, provided the link which maintained the earth in the sun's sphere of attraction. When this attraction shall fail, the earth, according to the Swede, will cease to revolve and will fall away, only to disappear by fire caused by friction, thus verifying the Biblical prophecy. As, however, the process of cooling down entirely will take some billions of years, the nervous person will note that there is really no immediate cause for alarm.

Pepsin, Saliva and Gastric Juice.

Pepsin, the principal agent in the digestion of food, is a powerful solvent stored up in the walls of the stomach and only poured forth when its assistance is needed. When pure, this fluid is perfectly neutral, neither acid nor alkaline, and appears to be unable to exert any action without the presence of an acid. Such acid is supplied in the gastric juice, secreted by the gastric follicles covering the coating of the stomach. The saliva is merely for the purpose of moistening the food, thus preparing it for the action of the pepsin and gastric fluids.

Shawls.

An Indian or a Persian shawl used to be considered one of the finest feminine possessions in the world, and they were handed down from mother to daughter as prized heirlooms. But now if you gave a young woman even a very elegant shawl, costing possibly hundreds of dollars, as many did, she would turn up her beautiful nose at it and if she used it at all would make a portiere out of it for her cosy corner. She would never think of wearing it, even if it were the only thing she had. —Argonaut.

That Voice.

Before Marriage—"Oh, my darling, your voice is as musical to me as a vesper bell whose tones fall softly on the perfumed air. Speak again and say those words, my beloved, for I could listen to your voice until the stars are extinguished into everlasting night."

After Marriage—"I've had enough of your clapper, old woman, and if you don't shut up I'll leave the house."—London Globe.

His Glasses.

Once that genial comedian Peter Dailey consulted an oculist about his eyes. His nose was small, and he couldn't keep on the glasses with which the oculist was trying to fit him. "You are not used to glasses, Mr. Dailey," said the oculist. "Oh, yes, I am," replied Mr. Dailey, "but not so high up!"

Wearing Apparel.

Customs Officer (to woman traveler from the continent)—I thought you said, madam, there was nothing but wearing apparel in your trunk. What about these three bottles of cognac?

"Oh, those," said the lady, "are my night caps."—Tit-Bits.

Our Canadian Peers.

Not one of our three Canadian peerages has an heir male to continue it. Lord Strathcona's title, presumably, will one day descend to his daughter, Mrs. Howard, who in that case will add another to the small and select company of British peeresses in their own right. Lord Mount Stephen, though he has been twice married, has no children; and the other Canadian peerage, that of Macdonald of Earnscliffe, is now held by the widow of the first Lord Macdonald, and as yet no provision has been made for its inheritance by her only daughter,

The Other Version.

Miss Jane Barlow sent a poem and a first contribution to The Cornhill Magazine when James Payn was its editor. Think of the lady's feelings at a brief line, scrawled in Payn's powerful chirography, which also interpreted as follows: "I have no use for silly verses."

Of course Miss Barlow indulged in copious tears. There never was such an ill-mannered monk. Then she commenced to study the pencil. Now came a gleam of light, for she dimly made out what it really said: "I hope to use your pretty verses."

By Way of Comparison.

"You were having a disagreement with the prosecuting witness, were you not?" asked the judge in an effort to straighten out a complicated case.

"Oi wor," was the reply.

"And it was a very severe quarrel?"

"It wor, an' it had [illegible] an' weapon."

"Can you give me some idea of how bad it was?"

"Well, your honor, all I can [illegible] t'ink it wor most as bad as what's been goin' on between [illegible] in this case."

At Large.

"What is a congressman-at-large?" was the next question [illegible] the grocery lyceum.

"One that ain't in jail," suggested a wit on a cracker barrel.

"A congressman at large," remarked Zeb Whifflestraw, "is a congressman who has been elected, but who hasn't taken his seat."

"Wrong," declared Pete Hawk. "He has served his term. They're always entitled to the floor."

The question was still open when the grocer adjourned the meeting.

Needed More.

"Here is some complexion powder, auntie," said little Tommy Twiddles. "I bought this little box for mamma and the great big box for you."

"But why did you think I needed such a large box?"

"Oh, because I heard papa suggest we were two fools."

LADIES, WHY NOT PRESERVE YOUR YOUTH AND BEAUTY?

Parisian Sage, the quick-acting hair restorer, is now for sale in Peterborough at the drug store of Wm. Madill, and is sold with a rigid guarantee at 50 cents a bottle.

Parisian Sage has an immense sale, and here are the reasons:

It is safe and harmless.
It cures dandruff in two weeks by killing the dandruff germ.
It stops falling hair.
It promptly stops itching of the scalp.
It makes the hair soft and luxuriant.
It gives life and beauty to the hair.
It is not sticky or greasy.
It is the daintiest perfumed hair tonic made.
It is the best, the most pleasant and invigorating hair dressing made.
Fight shy of the druggist who offers you a substitute; he is unworthy of your confidence.

APPLES, ORANGES FIGS AND PRUNES

The God-given Cure for All Diseases of Bowels, Liver, Kidneys and Skin.

Few people seem to realize how important—how absolutely necessary—it is to keep the Bowels, Kidneys and Skin in proper working order.

They wonder why they have Sallow Complexions — Indigestion — Headaches—Rheumatism — while all the time their systems are clogged and poisoned with waste tissue and indigestible food which these organs should have removed.

What they need are Fruit Juices—nature's provision for keeping the eliminating machinery of the body working right. "Fruit-a-tives" are the concentrated juices of fresh, ripe fruits, combined in such a way that their medicinal action is greatly intensified. They stimulate and regulate the action of Liver, Bowels, Kidneys and Skin, thus clearing the system of the accumulated waste and poison, purifying the blood, and banishing those distressing troubles that make life miserable.

No other remedy has ever been discovered that does this so effectively as "Fruit-a-tives." 50c. a box — 6 boxes for $2.50. Trial size 25c. Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

WAS HEAVILY MORTGAGED.

There Were Twenty-five Loans on Goods Worth $2.

I had a seat on the veranda of a hotel in a southern town when an old colored man came along and removed his hat to say:

"Mars', don't you want to help a po' ole cull'd woman a bit?"

"Is she ill?" I asked.

"No, sah, not mactly ill, but she's ole an' feeble, an' de sheriff am gwine to sell her furniture on a mortgage."

"How much is the mortgage?"

"Fifty dollars, I believe."

I said I'd go along with him, and he took me to a dilapidated old cabin about six blocks away. There we found the old woman mentioned. I also saw at a glance that the furniture consisted of a shackiety old cook stove, a wretched bed and a rocking chair ready to fall to pieces.

"You said this stuff was mortgaged for $50?" I said to the old man.

"Yes, sah."

"But I don't see how anybody would advance over $2 on it."

"No, sah, dey wouldn't."

"Then how do you make the mortgage $50?"

"Why, sah, dere am twenty-five mortgages at $2 apiece."—Detroit Tribune.

Angel Without Wings.

"So you have come in answer to my advertisement for office boy?" said the old broker briskly. "Do you smoke cigarettes?"

"No, sir," replied the saintly youngster in the doorway.

"Chew gum or read novels?"

"Never, sir."

"Play juggler with the paperweights or talk nonsense through the telephone when your employer is absent?"

"No, sir."

"Ever go to the circus?"

"Never saw a circus in my life, sir."

"How about baseball? Do you take two or three afternoons a week to see the game?"

"Don't like baseball, sir."

The old broker bit the end off his cigar.

"My boy," he said quietly, "this is the twenty-ninth story, isn't it?"

"I think so, sir."

"Well, it is not high enough for you."

"Not high enough for me, sir?"

"No; you belong up in paradise."—Chicago News.

Small Boy's Theory.

"I wonder why the bride is crying," remarked one of the guests at the wedding. "Can it be because she is leaving home?"

"No, I guess it ain't that," answered the bride's small brother. "She's in love with the fellow she married, and I guess she's crying 'cause she feels sorry for him."—Chicago News.

Appearances.

"You provide especial conveniences for photographers, do you not?"

"Yes," answered Farmer Corntassel. "It's a very good idea to encourage summer boarders to get their photographs took. They're sort of in duty bound to look pleasant, an' the mosquitoes never show in the pictures."—Washington Star.

Mining Deal Out in Colorado Upset by Providence.

"Sir," he said to the man on his right in the street car, "may I ask if you believe in Providence?"

"Why—why, there is such a thing as Providence, of course."

"It seems to take care of certain people at certain times."

"It does."

"Well, I think I have a case of it. Just before the hard times set in the people were crazy after mining stocks and oil wells. You could dig a hole in the ground anywhere, issue a prospectus and sell stock like hot cakes."

"I know."

"A friend and I clubbed together and 'discovered' a silver mine in Colorado. We raised $5,000 between us to advertise and pay office rent, and we were just about to begin business when the crash came and things went a-kiting. If we'd gone ahead we should have lost every dollar we put in. Would you call that a case of Providence?"

"Um! Hardly."

"Then what would you term it?"

"I should say it was a miscarriage of Providence. If you had gone into the thing and swindled about 5,000 people and raked in a couple of hundred thousand dollars and got away with it to the last cent that would have been more like Providence—that is, Providence might have stepped in to aid your election to the senate as an honest, incorruptible man. No, I wouldn't say that Providence was on your side. I should rather say that it was looking out for the suckers just about that time. Perhaps you ought to have tried a Texas oil well."—Chicago News.

Appropriate Mourning.

Irishman (to shopman)—I want somethin' for mournin' wear, but I don't know exactly what the costeme is. What do they be wearin' now for mournin'?

Shopman—It depends a little on how near the relative is for whom you wish to show this mark of respect. For a very near relative you should have a black suit, a black band on your hat and black gloves. For some one not so near and dear you may have a broad band of black on your left arm or a somewhat narrower one for somebody more distant.

Irishman—Och, is that it? Well, thin, gimme a shoestring. It's me woife's mother.—Tit-Bits.

Sorry He Spoke.

Barber—You certainly needed a hair cut.

Customer—Yes. Been away. Hair in bad shape, eh?

"Fierce. Must have been in the country."

"Yep."

"Cut by a farmer?"

"That's right."

"He certainly didn't know the business."

"That's so."

"Where was it done?"

"You did it before I went."—New York Life.

Without Limiting Mark.

In ten minutes the battle would begin. The enemy outnumbered them five to one.

"Boys," said the captain solemnly, "we have hard work before us. See that you are all armed to the teeth."

Far down the line little O'Flarity nervously held up his hand.

"Please, captain!"

"Well, O'Flarity?"

"I—I haven't any tathe."—Ally Sloper.

A Slap.

Miss Passay—Yes, we're engaged. Some people are mean enough to say he's too young for me.

Miss Knox—Ridiculous!

Miss Passay—Isn't it, though?

Miss Knox — Certainly! He'll age fast enough after he's married to you. —Catholic Standard and Times.

Johnnie Knew.

"Don't cry, Johnnie," said the mother. "You know it hurts your father more than it does you to have to whip you."

"Yes, ma'am," sobbed Johnnie. "That's what I'm cryin' for. I hate to see pop hurt!"—Yonkers Statesman.

Burns and the Children.

A characteristic story of John Burns is told by the master of a London secondary school. A colleague on the staff of the school was accustomed to take his boys to Battersea Park for games of football and cricket. A small tip to the policeman, it is said, was found to secure the best pitches, and the small children of the neighborhood were turned off to allow the boys to play. One day the policeman saw the master and his class approaching and began to clear the ground. A stentorian voice from a neighboring tree cried, "Leave those kiddies alone. The park is for them, and they shall not be turned off." And down clambered the indignant champion of the children's rights.

DRAWING MADE EASY.

Device Enables Any One to Draw in True Perspective.

With this device any one, no matter how little his artistic ability may be, can draw accurately and quickly any little bit of scenery or other subject and get everything in the true perspective and in the correct proportion.

No lens is required for making this camera, just a plain mirror set at an angle of forty-five degrees, with a piece of ordinary glass underneath, a screen with a peak hole and a board for holding the drawing paper. The different parts may be fastened together by means of a boxframe or may be hinged together to allow folding up when carrying, and a good tripod of heavy design should be used for supporting it. In order to get the best results the screen should be blackened on the inside, and the eyepiece should be blackened on the side next to the eye. A piece of black cardboard placed over the end of the eyepiece and perforated with a pin makes an excellent peak hole.

In operation the rays of light coming from any given object, such as the arrow AB, strike the inclined mirror and are reflected downward. On striking the inclined glass a portion of the light is again reflected, and the rays, entering the eye of the operator, produce the virtual image on the paper as shown. The general outlines may be sketched in quickly, leaving the details to be worked up later. This arrangement may be used for interior work when the illumination is good. —Popular Mechanics.

A Story of Saint Gaudens.

The eminent and lamented sculptor Saint Gaudens while living in Rome had a fountain in his studio which he declared to be the source of his inspiration, and when he returned to America he missed the sound of the trickling waters. It occurred to him that a substitute for the genii in the fountain might be obtained by tying down the faucet in the lavatory and thus having a constant flow of soul inspiring aqua, a delightful accompaniment to hard work. The arrangement worked very well, and the delusion was perfect, so far as sound, if not sight, was concerned. Work progressed rapidly and well with the inspiration of the genii in the faucet, and the day came when the finished work must be removed to other quarters, which removal required the assistance of the janitor. The sculptor rang the bell for that dusky person, and after repeated summons receiving no reply Saint Gaudens descended to the regions below, where he found the man of all work pumping away for dear life.

On Saint Gaudens inquiring why he had received no reply to his summons the negro replied that he was sorry not to be able to answer, "but somehow I can't keep no watah in this hire tank, sir."—American Art News.

Colored Underwear.

The war department is preparing to experiment on the enlisted men in the Philippines with a new sort of underwear to determine whether the color of those garments in any way serves as a protection against the heat. Five thousand suits of underwear are being dyed a blood orange hue at Philadelphia and will shortly be sent to the islands for actual test. In the same way an orange red hat lining is being prepared as an experiment.

Passing of Old Brussels.

It is disappearing, our old Brussels. They are passing away, the buildings which bear witness to an artistic past, the good houses which spoke in intimate whispers to the heart of the sons of the good city, so picturesque and particularist. Intrusive cosmopolitanism dictates the law to the stupid pickaxes, and the officials of the public demolition department assist unmoved in the work of devastation.—Brussels Petit Bleu.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS

ANY PERSON who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother, or sister of intending homesteader.

DUTIES—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

YIELD ESTIMATED TO BE LESS

Latest Crop Figures Are Below August Estimates.

BAD WEATHER INTERVENED

Climatic Conditions Occurring After the Estimate of Standing Wheat in Manitoba and Saskatchewan in August is Responsible For Decrease in Yield of 9,033,000 Bushels or 3 1-2 Per Acre.

Ottawa, Oct. 12.—A statement of the estimated yield and quality of field crops and the condition of live stock in Canada is given out by the census and statistics office. Returns are based on the actual threshing results so far as they have been obtained.

The average yield of wheat is estimated at 17 1-2 bushels per acre, indicating a total production of 115,651,000 bushels; oats, 33.7 bushels per acre, a total of 267,651,000 bushels; barley, 29.0 bushels per acre, a total of 50,723,000 bushels, and, rye, 18.8 bushels per acre, a total of 1,589,000 bushels; peas, 17.4 bushels per acre, a total of 7,178,000 bushels; buckwheat, 25.3 bushels per acre, a total of 7,365,000 bushels; mixed grains, 32.9 bushels per acre, a total of 19,113,000 bushels; potatoes, an average of 145.4 bushels per acre, a total of 72,928,000 bushels; turnips and other roots, 309.7 bushels per acre, a total of 84,975,000 bushels; hay and clover, 1.4 tons per acre, a total yield of 11,642,000 tons; fodder corn, 10.9 tons per acre, a total of 2,835,000 tons.

The yield of wheat, as estimated from the condition of the crops at the end of August, is not maintained by present threshing results, the total yield of wheat—as now estimated—being 3 1-2 bushels per acre less, or a diminution in the total production as then estimated of 9,039,000 bushels.

The drop is almost entirely due to returns from the provinces of Saskatchewan and Manitoba, where climatic influences appear to have had greater effect upon the yield than were indicated by the appearance of the crops at the end of August. In Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta the estimated yield of wheat is 95,818,000 bushels; of oats, 105,481,000 bushels, and of barley 26,362,000 bushels.

Live stock is reported to be in fairly good condition.

MAN DISAPPEARS.

Had Bought Saloon But Sold It Back at Once For Less.

Walkerville, Oct. 12.—Edward Turner, for several years an employe of the Canadian Bridge & Iron Works here, has been missing a week and the provincial police are looking for him. Just before he disappeared Turner bought a saloon in Detroit, but almost immediately he sold it back to its former proprietor for less money, it is said, than he paid for it. He is said to have had upwards of $2,500 in his possession when he went to Detroit to buy the saloon. It is claimed that the greater proportion of all the money belonged to his wife, who is a member of a well-to-do family near Tecumseh and to whom Turner was married three months ago. Neither his wife nor any of his friends has heard from him since he left Detroit after selling back the saloon.

Signs of Prosperity.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—Rapidly increasing indications that the business conditions are fast turning to their normal state and that the railroads are experiencing a steady growth in their traffic, are seen in the fortnightly report of car surpluses and shortages, issued by the car efficiency committee of the American Railway Association.

NOT LONG IN JAIL.

Toronto Burglar Soon Escapes From Whitby Lock-Up.

Whitby, Ont., Oct. 12.—Frank Charles, apparently a wholesale burglar and thief, was arrested here yesterday, and escaped a few hours later.

He was caught on board a gasoline launch stolen from R. W. Clements of Toronto. With the launch was a canoe. Both were laden with the spoils of many thefts. Gold and silver watches, furs, fine rugs, overcoats and other wearing apparel, gramophone, articles from the R.C.Y.C. and boat Vida, pictures postcards addressed to Mrs. R. B. Brown, Balmy Beach, and Mrs. F. J. Smith, and a miscellaneous collection of small and less valuable articles.

If Charles was good at getting into houses and other buildings he knows how to get out also, for he made his escape from the town lock-up soon after his incarceration therein.

He escaped by tearing up the floor of the corridor and getting into the adjoining room and town firehall.

He is a short, powerful fellow about 26 years of age, red moustache, dressed in grey suit, grey cap, and wearing rubber boots. As this appeared to be an important capture the police everywhere will no doubt keep a sharp lookout for the man with rubber boots.

Charles is probably one of the men responsible for a number of burglaries around Balmy Beach during the last fortnight.

MURDERS HIS FATHER.

Michael Celouri of Montreal Slays Father and Host.

Montreal, Oct. 12.—Two Italians were murdered last night at 31 St. Hypolite street. One of the dead men was shot by his son. All had been enjoying themselves, and intoxicating drink had been used freely.

Once or twice Michali Celouri, Jr., a youth, had been restrained from quarrelling, but he finally broke loose. His first victim was his father, who tried to pacify him. The old man, whose name is Micheli Celouri, after being shot, walked out into the yard, where he died. The crazy youth then shot Francisco Martelli, his host, who had returned with money from the lumber camp. The murderer was arrested. He is thought to have had some kind of grudge that urged him, while drunk, to do the foul deed. A fourth man, who is supposed to have had something to do with the trouble, escaped.

Capt. Richmond Hobson will sue Representative J. H. Keliher for slander for having said: "Mr. Hobson tells the people that he comes here entirely because of his stand on naval issues. When he says that he tells an untruth, for he comes here for his regular fee of $150 a night, his railroad bill, an oyster stew, and an hour's talk with Martin Lomasney."

Three-to-One on Taft.

New York, Oct. 12.—The Herald (Independent) thus sums up the political prospects in a despatch from Washington:

Persistent betting in favor of Taft of 3 to 1, 31-2 to 1 and even 4 to 1 would indicate that some persons with a great deal of money were fully convinced that the Republican Presidential candidate was going to be elected. The market has been held up just as stiffly as it was in 1904 and 1900.

Must Quit Home or Go to Prison.

Paterson, N.J., Oct. 12.—Judge Francis, in the Court of Special Sessions, ordered Samuel Band of No. 84 Governor street to stay away from her under penalty of a state prison term of one year. By the decision of the court he is practically divorced from his wife.

ENGINE OF THE LAUNCH REFUSED TO WORK AND PLEASURE PARTY OF EIGHT HAD TO WALK ELEVEN MILES

The "Hobo" Balked at the Second Bridge and Despite All Efforts Could Not Be Coaxed to Proceed —Footed Roads of Otonabee to The City

A WALK IN THE MOONLIGHT

To sail down the Otonabee in a comfortable yacht as far as the second bridge on a pleasant Sunday afternoon, to have the engine suddenly refuse to work, to spend an indefinite time in vainly trying to make it work and lastly to walk home to Peterborough, a distance of 11 miles, arriving about midnight was the experience of a party of young men yesterday. They were eight in number and started on what promised to be a fine trip down for walnuts and butternuts. The "Hobo" merrily churned the water until the second bridge was reached, and then like the New York Giants in their last game, it went ballooning. Well, to make a long story short there was a walking contest in the "evening by the moonlight," "when the frost was on the pumpkin." It was a crisp, sharp evening and the moon shone large and round and golden as the eight wanderers started for home. There were no Fentons in the group, they were all Hoegiands and after a day of unforeseen adventures the octette arrived in sight of the city, welcoming the houses and buildings of business nestling still and gray in the bright October moonlight.

KINGSTON CAPTAIN IS DROWNED OFF WHARF

Kingston, Oct. 12.—The body of Capt. J H Scott, aged about 70 years, one of the oldest lake captains was found floating near Swift's wharf this morning. He was leaving for Ottawa and it is supposed lost his footing and fell into the water. Capt. Scott was for many years owner and captain of the steamer Persia. One son survives.

WAS UNABLE TO COME TO FUNERAL

Mr. Edgar Isaac Has Been Seriously Ill From Scarlet Fever

A particularly sad feature in connection with the death of Mr. W H. Isaac last week was the fact that the deceased's son, Mr. Edgar Isaac, who has been seriously ill in the West from scarlet fever, was unable to come to Peterborough to attend his father's funeral. He started out but had travelled seventy miles when the doctors decided that he was physically unfit to come any further, and he had to remain at Vegreville, Alta. The circumstances make the bereavement even more hard to bear than it would otherwise have been.

Many Improvements Have Been Made To Aylmer Street This Year

Aylmer street during the past two summers has probably received more attention from the city than any other in the corporation. It has for a long time been in a rather dilapidated condition and hence required considerable care to put it in good condition. Among the improvements are the grading of the street in many places and the road roller has been over it from end to end. Cement walks have been laid throughout the entire length and many properties have increased in value by the money the city spent in the changes. Between McDonel and Dublin streets the residents are following up the construction of new sidewalk and drain and are making it one of the prettiest stretches in the city. The walk has also been laid on the west side, between Murray and Brock streets, and this vacant lot provides a good location for new houses.

Peterborough Amateur Operatic Company Is In The Competition

Entered in the Earl Grey Dramatic Competition, the conditions governing which were published in Saturday's Examiner, will be the Peterborough Amateur Operatic Company, under the leadership of Mr. R J Dewey. Just at present it has not been decided what opera they will present, but it will be one that will be given this winter in Peterborough. The taking part in the competition depends largely on the support of the public of Peterborough.

Mr. Dennistoun Thanks Police For Rounding Up The House Breakers

Chief Ressel has received the following letter from Mr. R M Dennistoun, Winnipeg—

Chief of Police Ressel, Peterborough, Ont.:

Dear Chief,—I write to congratulate you and the Peterborough force upon the manner in which you rounded up the persons who broke into my mother's house. You have certainly done good work as usual. I do not imagine that the articles which you have recovered are very valuable, but my sister, Mrs. MacDonald, will be in Peterborough, shortly, and will have a look through the house to try and determine what has been stolen, and will communicate with you.

With kind regards to yourself and remembrances to my old friends on the force,

Yours faithfully,

R. M. DENNISTOUN.

Vagrant Begged Magistrate To Send Him To Gaol For A Term

With tears in his eyes, Patrick Tarr, charged with vagrancy at the police court this morning, pleaded with Magistrate Dumble to send him to jail for a month or two.

"Do me a favour and send old Paddy up to the little place on the hill to sober up," he begged, and the magistrate responded to his request with an order on the county jail for the maintenance of Mr. Tarr for a month.

The broken down old man stated that he had been a river driver all his life.

Four young men who pleaded guilty to being disorderly on George street last week were fined $1 and costs.

One Of Lakefield's Prominent Citizens Has Passed Away

Lakefield lost on Friday last one of its most respected and most influential residents in the person of Mr. John Isbister. For forty years or more Mr. Isbister had lived in Lakefield, where he was known to everybody. He was one of the "village blacksmiths" of Lakefield until some months ago, when he became ill. He was born in the Orkney Islands, to the north of Scotland, and came to Canada while a young man. He had resided in the Lakefield district ever since. Mr. Isbister is survived by his wife, six sons and a daughter. The sons are David and John of Vancouver, William of Davidson, Sask., and James, Thomas and Anderson of Lakefield, and the daughter, Mrs. Fred McKee, of Selwyn. His brother, James, of Woodstock, was in Lakefield yesterday for the funeral, which was held in the afternoon to Lakefield cemetery. It was in charge of the Foresters of Lakefield and is said to have been the largest ever held in the village. It was under the auspices of the Canadian Order of Foresters. Court Lakefield, in which Mr. Isbister was one of the charter members.

"MYSTERIOUS MR. E." BEGINS AT MYSTIC HOUR OF MIDNIGHT HIS SLEUTH-DEFYING OPERATIONS; PRIZE MONEY NOW TOTALS SUM OF $208.00

Sharp on the stroke of midnight, to-night, at the fateful hour when most good people are in bed, the Mysterious Mr. E. of the Examiner, the perplexingly clever man about whom all Peterborough has been talking for days, starts out from the vicinity of the Examiner Office. From that hour until he is captured, he will roam about our streets, visit our public buildings, talk to our police, our merchants and other prominent individuals, and still attempt to maintain his identity. People of Peterborough, can he do so? It's up to you. He is particularly clever without a doubt. But can a smooth-faced man wearing no facial disguise, paint, wigs or powder, and depending on clever character impersonation, defy the cleverness of Peterborough people for any length of time? He admits he expects an exceedingly difficult time in evading detection here, but stoutly declares he can escape capture for some days. Come, now, everybody, and join in the chase. Throw his defi back in his face and capture him red-handed. Everybody stands an equal chance with his neighbour of capturing the Mysterious One, regardless of age or sex. Let everybody, without exception, join in the fun. Comply with the conditions of the contest. Keep a copy of the latest edition of the Daily Examiner on your person constantly study the contest thoroughly in all its features, and you are just as liable to be the lucky captor as any of your neighbours. You'll be surprised at the fun you'll have. Pluck up courage, tackle every smooth-faced man whom you think might be the perplexing one, give him the salutation, "You are the Mysterious Mr. E of the Peterborough Examiner," touching him on the right shoulder, produce your Examiner, and if he is the right man, he will immediately accompany you to the Examiner Office, where one of the handsome prizes offered by The Examiner for his capture will be paid you—and then gladly. Remember also the additional $158.00 offered by local merchants respectively for his capture. Comply with all the conditions of the contest and you will have a splendid chance of winning. Just think of it. Don't you think it's worth while?

Mr. E. was in the City on Sunday

Mr. E. visited Peterborough on Sunday and spent the day in getting a line on the layout of the city. He completed his plans for his capture-evading tactics and while he believes that he will have a harder time of it than he first expected, he maintains that he will give Peterborough people the time of their lives before someone eventually lands him. He is very much impressed with this handsome little city and wishes to compliment its citizens on its appearance. To help "Mr. E" carry out his trying duties he stipulates always that he must have an automobile at his disposal. He has a preference for the McLaughlin Buick car, and the managers, Messrs. O'Connor and Green immediately called upon Mr. G. L. Stevens, 631 George street, the local agents for the McLaughlin Buick automobiles, who immediately consented to place his brand new car at the disposal of the Mysterious "Mr. E." "I don't care," said he, "how particular or exacting your 'Mr. E' may be, he will find the McLaughlin Buick will meet his every wish." Keep your eye on the automobile.

To give everyone an opportunity Mr. E wishes to state that his height is about 5 feet 10 inches, and his weight about 152 pounds.

In to-morrow's issue he will personally write of his movements of to-night and Tuesday a.m., and will definitely state where he will likely be at certain times to-morrow night and Wednesday. You must read the Examiner daily for any and all information regarding the Mysterious One and his movements, as in its columns alone can any information be found—and you'll find plenty of it there.

Don't fail to read about the perplexing one in to-morrow's issue.

"Out Of His Own Mouth"

MR. BURNHAM'S TRIBUTE TO Hon. Mr. Stratton

Recognizing the tide of public favor in behalf of Mr. Stratton, Mr. Burnham and his friends have resorted to the throwing of mud, by despicable instruments, in the hope that some of it may stick. Mr. Stratton refuses to follow him into the gutter, and Mr. Burnham is effectually answered in his own words:

SPEECH OF J. H. BURNHAM AT BANQUET TO PRINCIPAL HUTTON, NOV. 20, 1903

REPORT:—"Mr. Hampden Burnham proposed the toast of the "Political Institutions of Canada," and named as responder to the toast HON. J. R. STRATTON, who he said, had done much for the Town of Peterborough, and his constituency. He further said that the constituents of Mr. Stratton felt that the course of abuse to which he had been subjected had about reached the limit, and he felt, as he was sure all Mr. Stratton's constituents felt, that it was time the Conservative Party brought forward some policy that would be more creditable to it than that of abuse and affidavit producing, which had recently characterized it."

ONE MONTH IN GAOL FOR WALKING IN A MUSICAL PROCESSION THIRTY YEARS AGO; BRIG. ROBERTS TELLS OF EARLY PERSECUTIONS WHICH THE ARMY SUFFERED

Brigadier Roberts will conclude his series of revival meetings this evening by an address that will probably be the most interesting of those he will have delivered here. It is entitled "A Month's Experience in a Prison Cell." It is highly interesting on account of it being based entirely on fact. When 33 years of age, Brigadier Roberts, then a major in the Salvation Army, was arrested at Torquay, Eng., because he had taken part in a musical procession. It was none other than the procession through Union street to the Salvation Army Hall. Orderliness was preserved, and the only reason for the major's subsequent summons to court was that the Army was undergoing a trying time and was being persecuted everywhere. Brig. Roberts was sentenced to a fine of $25 or one month in jail. Defaulting in the payment of the fine on principle, he was arrested, and spent a month in jail. The brigadier tells a graphic story of his experiences in those times and should be heard by a large audience.

Corner Stone Of St. James Methodist Church Was Laid On Saturday Afternoon By Mr. W. G. Morrow, Acting By Proxy For Hon. Geo. A. Cox

Although performed on the bushest day of the week, the ceremony of the laying of the corner stone of the new St. James' Methodist Church on Saturday afternoon was witnessed by a large assemblage. The weather was all that could be desired at this season and contributed largely to the success. It was generally regretted that Hon. Geo. A. Cox, who had been chosen to officiate, was at the last moment, called to Cleveland on imperative business. He is manifesting a material interest in the erection of this church, and had been the unanimous choice to perform the principal part of the cere-

THE FARMERS IN O'S TOWNSHIP ARE LOSING HEAVILY AND OFTEN FROM THE WORK OF NOCTURNAL DEPREDATORS

Grain and Other Articles Are Departing Mysteriously From The Farms—Owners Are Agitated Over The Matter and Are Nonplussed

A FIELD OF POTATOES DUG

Several farmers in South Ops have been the victims recently of smooth thieves, who prey upon them in the midnight hours. Residents on the township who have suffered the loss of grain, garden produce and poultry are considerably agitated over the matter and have decided to guard their property with shot guns.

A few days ago a well known farmer of the township, decided to dig his late potatoes, but on going to the field he was surprised to find that his crop had disappeared — in fact there were not enough potatoes left to supply a meal.

Another resident reports the loss of grain, the intruders entering his barn and purloining several bags of clover. Besides the theft of grain, ducks, and hens have mysteriously disappeared. Patience has ceased to be a virtue with these people, and woe betide the nocturnal prowlers who fall into their hands.

UNFORTUNATE LOSS OF TWENTY-TWO DOLLARS

A Peterborough lady whose husband is away and will not return for some time, unfortunately lost her purse on Friday last which contained the sum of $22. This was all the money the lady had in her possession to maintain the household and the loss has been a serious one to her. If the finder will return the money to the Examiner office he or she will be doing a kindness worthy of more regard than what at first might appear.

OBITUARY

DANIEL HAGGART

Daniel Haggart, a former well-known citizen of Peterborough, died at his residence, 4 Division street, Toronto, on Sunday, at the age of 71 years. Mr. Haggart, a son of the late John Haggart, Sr., was born and raised in Peterborough, where he lived well-known and well-respected till 28 years ago when he removed to Toronto. Then he was engaged in the real estate and insurance business. He leaves behind him a widow and two children, a son and daughter. The funeral takes place from the family residence at 2 o'clock to-morrow to Mount Pleasant Cemetery, Toronto.

Hay Was Sold On The Market To-day At $16.50; May Increase

A farmer on the market to-day sold a load of hay for $16.50 and he was waiting around for orders for other loads to sell at $17. This is certainly a big increase in the price and is rather hard to explain. It cannot be that with a larger amount of hay in the country the price is going to stay at this figure.

Girl Injured While "Cracking The Whip Lash" At Lake Street School

While playing "crack the whip lash," at Lake Street School this morning with a number of girl companions, Lily Cleney injured one of her arms, which at the time was believed to have been broken. She was taken home and a doctor summoned.

A PIONEER RESIDENT PASSES AWAY

Death of Mrs. John McWilliams at Residence Roger St. East City.

An illness extending over the past year resulted this morning in the death of Agnes Rutherford, relict of the late John McWilliams, East City, and the city thereby loses one of the most widely known and highly respected members of its pioneer stock. To the large number of friends of the family the report of the demise was not unexpected, as the deceased had gradually declined during the last few months until relieved by death this morning.

The late Mrs. McWilliams was 78 years of age and was born near Peterborough. About fifty years ago she was married and the family has always resided in East City. She was predeceased by her husband a year ago. The surviving children are William, of Winnipeg; Mrs. L. Constantine of New York; Mrs. W Carter, of Peterborough; Mrs. Robert Carter, Lakefield; Adam, of Bridgenorth, and Mary and John at home. A sister, Mrs. Roinbough, lives in Toronto, and Ald. Morgan, East City, is a nephew.

The deceased was a member of St. Paul's Church, taking an active interest in its welfare. The funeral arrangements had not been completed at the time of going to press.

THIRD ANNUAL CONFERENCE ON NOVEMBER 7, 8 AND 9

The third annual autumn conference of older boys of the Y.M.C.A.'s of Ontario will be held here on Nov. 7th, 8th, and 9th, at the local Y.M.C.A. The conference was held at Brantford last year, and at Hamilton the year before, and has been a great success.

It is expected that there will be over 100 delegates from the different Y.M.C.A.'s in the province, and it will give the members of the local Y.M.C.A. some idea of the work that is going on in the other Associations. This conference will be something new for the local Y.M.C.A., and the Peterborough public, and no doubt it will be the means of giving the work among the boys a big lift, and will no doubt be a great benefit to them.

THE FURNITURE FACTORY IS NEARING COMPLETION

The new furniture factory being erected by Mr. S. W. Oke, in East City, is rapidly nearing completion. The brick work has all been completed, the roof is on and the interior is now ready for the installation of machinery. Mr. Oke has purchased a new motor from the Canadian General and is having it set up. He expects to begin work in the new building by next Monday morning.

St. Luke's Church

The Girls' Auxiliary of St. Luke's church will meet to-night at the Rectory.

To-morrow night at 8 o'clock a meeting of the Committee of the A.Y.P.A. will be held at the rectory to make the necessary arrangements for the Social Evening to be held on Friday for the purpose of entertaining the Normal School students of the Anglican Church, and the young of the church.

A meeting of the Senior Chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew will be held in the Infant class room, to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock.

IMPORTANT TO LADIES

It is not often an opportunity occurs at your door to see the latest Parisian and New York styles in Hair Goods, yet such is the case, as Prof. Dorenwend of Toronto is visiting in this town, and invites your inspection of their goods at his private apartments reserved at the hotel.

These Hair Goods styles, when properly adjusted protect and ornament the head, soften and beautify the expression of the face, and consequently tone up an aged appearance. Be sure and see them at the Oriental Hotel on Friday, October 16th.

HON. MR. HANNA'S SLANDERS DEALT WITH.

The Conservative Candidate, though he has made heroic efforts and, for him, prodigious efforts, in the way of exertion to vilify and insult the natives of England, Ireland and Scotland who seek homes in Canada, lumping good and bad together in one broad denunciation, felt constrained to call to his aid a more capable man. Therefore, Hon. Mr. Hanna was brought to Peterborough at great expenditure of advertising and touting, to tell the 'Foreigners" of British birth how bad they were and how much of a menace they were to Canadian civilisation, and to demonstrate that the flag that shelters every subject of the King in every part of the Empire does not protect British "foreigners" from insult under the folds of the Union Jack in Canada, which has homes for millions.

Saturday night Mr. Hanna made the same sweeping charges in regard to British immigrants into Ontario. They were denounced in mass as paupers, idiotic and insane, diseased and dissolute, and Mr. Hanna was not generous enough to admit that any of them were good—no, not one. He sought to make capital against the Liberal Government of the Dominion Government of the alleged increase of expenditure in Ontario for the maintenance of jails, idiot asylums and insane asylums of the province.

The Examiner on Friday showed by the statistics of the Peterborough jail that Hon. Mr. Hanna had been extravagant and misleading in his slanderous statements. Peterborough is a fair sample in condition of the province generally, and reasoning from analogy it is fair to assume that overdrawn statements as disproved by Peterborough jail statistics, would apply to the province at large. Mr. Hanna, speaking at Pembroke, though he did not include this statement in his general denunciation here, said that the statistics of his department showed that in the past five years the foreign element had increased in the Province of Ontario by 20 per cent. If the Dominion Government had exercised reasonable supervision of the class of immigrants coming to the country the increase in the foreign element at the asylums and at the Central Prison would be 20 per cent. But instead of such an increase it was shown that in the five years between 1903 and 1908 the increase had been about 90 per cent.

Taking these figures as his basis and using the calculation that each of these "foreign-born" unfortunates would require attention for twenty years at an average cost of $200 a year, Mr. Hanna asserted that, as a consequence of the increase in the "foreign-born" population of our asylums and jails, the Province was burdened with a liability of $1,200,000 for the last year alone.

At the outset it must be stated that the Provincial Secretary, according to his own statement, places all persons born out of Canada within the category of "foreign-born." Any man or woman who has been unfortunate enough to lose his or her reason, or who has been guilty of an infraction of the laws of the country to such a degree as to warrant commitment to prison is, if born in England, Scotland, Ireland or any other country classed as ("foreign-born," no matter how many years he or she may have been in the country. A resident of Canada for fifty years is placed on the same footing as a resident of fifty days.

What are the facts of the case as gleaned from the official records? In the first place Mr. Hanna complains that the Dominion Government has not exercised efficient supervision over immigration. As a matter of fact, it was not until the year 1902 that any system of inspection of immigrants was instituted in Canada. Previous to that during all the eighteen years of Conservative rule, and during the first five years of Liberal Administration there was no adequate system of inspection. To-day there is an efficient body of inspectors both at all the ocean ports and along the international boundary, until the point has been reached where Canada has a much more stringent system of inspection than has the United States.

The census of 1901 gave 3.3 as the ratio per thousand of the insane in Ontario of whom 22.5 were in asylums. In 1906-07-08 there arrived in Ontario 155,460 immigrants. In those years the insane immigrants numbered 130, so that assuming that all of these arrived since 1906 it is seen that the ratio of insane per 1,000 is only 0.7 instead of the Ontario average of 3.3, and this in spite of the mental stress of leaving home, of getting new work in a country, with all the inevitable disappointments and homesickness.

And it is important to note that of these 130 insane admissions, 64 were deported, leaving only 4 per thousand of insane. The United States had an immigration in the year 1906 of 1,285,349, and only deported 367 as insane, thus proving clearly that the system of inspection in Canada is much more stringent than it is across the border.

An examination of the records of the individual asyaums of Ontario proves the falsity of Mr. Hanna's statements. Mimico asylum had an insane population of 530 on January 1. 1907. From January 1, 1906, to May 1, 1908, 28 months, 304 patients were admitted into this asylum, of whom 212 were natives of Canada, 39 English, 20 Irish, 8 Scotch, 4 from the United States and 21 from other countries, making a total of 92 born outside of Canada. Of these 12 were deportable under the Immigration Act and were deported; and 8 other cases are being investigated. THE BALANCE OF 77 WERE NOT DEPORTABLE, AS THEY WERE OLD PEOPLE WHO HAD LIVED LONG IN CANADA, IN SOME CASES as LONG AS 30 AND FORTY YEARS.

In Brockville Asylum on January 1, 1907, there were 661 inmates. From January 1, 1906, to May 1, 1908, twenty-eight months, 344 people were admitted. Of these 317 were natives of Canada, 10 were English, 4 Irish, 4 Scotch, 8 from the United States, and 6 from foreign countries. ALL OF THESE, WITH TWO EXCEPTIONS, HAD BEEN IN CANADA FOR MANY YEARS.

Hamilton Asylum had an inmate population on January 1, 1907, of 1,083. From January 1, 1906, to May 1, 1908, 385 were admitted. Of that number 271 were Canadian born and 114 were born in other countries. Of these five were deported and arrangements were made for deporting another. THE BALANCE, 108, WERE NOT DEPORTED, HAVING BEEN IN CANADA FOR MANY YEARS. For instance, of the 22 Irish admitted in those 28 months only three were younger than 40 years and 16 were over 50.

In Toronto Asylum on January 1, 1907, the inmates numbered 882. About 600 were admitted during the 28 months, taken as a basis of calculation. Of these 167 were born out of Canada. Three of these died in the asylum, 39 were deported; 37 had been in Canada too long to deport; 18 had families resident in Canada, and 173 had been many years in the country, certainly over 20 years.

Even more striking are the statistics in reference to the commitments to jails in Ontario.

In 1901 the immigration into Canada totalled 49,149. Of these Ontario received 6,208, and in that year the jail commitments were 8,546.

In 1902 the figures were: Total immigration, 67,379; immigration to Ontario, 9,798; jail commitments, 8,280.

1903—Total immigration, 128,364; to Ontario, 14,554; jail commitments, 9,261. 1904—Total immigration, 130,331; to Ontario, 21,265; jail commitments, 10,146. 1905—Total immigration, 146,296; to Ontario, 35,811; jail commitments, 11,035. 1906—Total immigration, 189,064; to Ontario, 52,746; jail commitments, 10,810. 1907—Total immigration, 252,038; to Ontario, 76,980; jail commitments, 11,804. SO THAT WHILE THE INCREASE OF IMMIGRATION INTO ONTARIO FROM 1901 TO 1907 WAS 110 PER CENT., THE INCREASE IN THE JAIL COMMITMENTS WAS ONLY 12 PER CENT.

Another analysis of the asylum figures shows how baseless are Mr. Hanna's statements. In Toronto asylum in 1901 the proportion of Canadians was 58 per cent., and "foreign-born" 42 per cent. In 1907 the figures were: Canadians, 56 per cent.; "foreign-born," 44 per cent. In Hamilton the proportions were: 1901, Canadians, 80 per cent.; others, 20 per cent.; 1907, Canadians, 72; others, 28. At London the proportions were. 1901, Canadians, 70 per cent.; others, 30 per cent.; 1907, Canadians, 73 per cent.; others, 27 per cent. At Brockville the proportions were even more striking: 1901, Canadians, 82 per cent.; others, 18 per cent; 1906, the last date available, Canadians, 92 per cent.; others, 8 per cent.

Thus proving clearly that THE RATIO OF INSANE POPULATION HAS NOT KEPT PACE WITH THE INCREASE IN IMMIGRATION.

It is the sturdy English, Irish and Scotch that laid the foundation of civilization on this continent. Nine-tenths of the people of Canada have English, Irish or Scotch blood in their veins, and it is rather late in the day for Hon. Mr. Hanna and the Conservative candidate to denounce the races that have made Canada, as paupers, and to deny them a chance to earn a livelihood on the fertile acres of this country. The depths to which some petty politicians will descend to gain a petty political advantage are

HON. MR. HANNA AS A TEACHER OF POLITICAL MORALITY.

Mr. R. L. Borden presents Hon. W. J. Hanna, Provincial Secretary of Ontario, as a shining example of high political integrity, and on Saturday night denounced the Liberal Government on this score. Mr. Hanna declared at Halifax that he accepts the Borden platform. Now, who is Mr. Hanna, and by what right does he accuse any other politicians of maladministration? What is his own record as a civil service reformer? He has chosen to reflect on the moral character and probity of other men, but what answer does he make when called by a fellow-Conservative "the Rockefeller Boy," or when challenged in a Conservative newspaper as the solicitor of the Standard Oil Company? How many Liberal office-holders has he dismissed and replaced with Conservatives? What about the notoriety of his administration of the license laws in Ontario? And is it not notorious in his own county that he has compromised his position as Provincial Secretary either for counsel fees or for political power?

Leaving aside for the present the more notorious instances, take one example of Mr. Hanna's high political honour. One of the most important obligations of the Provincial Government in Western Ontario is the administration of the drainage laws. There are many drainage disputes involving both private individuals and municipalities. These cases are tried before the Official Referee appointed by the Provincial Government. This judicial officer holds office not for life, but only on the pleasure of the Government, and may be dismissed on the recommendation of the Provincial Secretary. Now, the complaint is that Hon. W. J. Hanna has appeared again and again as counsel in disputed cases tried before his own subordinate official. He has done so deliberately, persistently, and to the very serious disrepute of the law in the St. Clair counties. Here are instances from the court records:

1. Township of Metcalfe v. Townships of Adelaide and Warwick, tried at Strathroy May 22-25, 1906. Hon. W. J. Hanna acted for Metcalfe.

2. Private citizen v. Tp. Sombra, at Sarnia, Nov. 8, 1905. Hon. W. J. Hanna for Sombra.

3. Private citizen v. Tp. Sombra, at Sarnia, Nov. 8, 1905. Hon. W. J. Hanna for Sombra.

4. Private citizen v. Tp. Sombra. Hon. W. J. Hanna for Sombra.

5. Private citizen v. Tp. Sombra. Hon. W. J. Hanna for Sombra.

6. Private citizen v. Tp. Sombra. Hon W. J. Hanna for Sombra.

In each of these five cases, which lasted several days, the Provincial Secretary and A. Weir acted for the municipality against the claims of the private citizens.

7. Tp. Sombra v. Tp. Chatham, tried June 18, 1906. Hon. W. J. Hanna for Sombra.

8. Private citizen v. Tp. Plympton, tried Nov. 20, 1907. Hon. W. J. Hanna for Plympton.

9. Private citizen v. Tp. Brooke, Sept. 9, 1908. Hon. W. J. Hanna for Brooke.

And that list could be enlarged by cases from Enniskillen and other townships in which the Provincial Secretary acted as solicitor or as counsel before his own subordinate official, and in which it is complained his position and influence were used to the serious embarrassment of justice.

Is it not a question of the honour and integrity of the Official Referee? He may be as wise as Solomon and as just as Daniel. The private citizens and the municipalities who find their claims opposed by a member of the Government, who holds in his hand the official life of the Referee, not unnaturally feel, when their cases are lost, that they have not had a square deal. They feel aggrieved, and have a right to feel aggrieved, not at the Official Referee, but at the Provincial Secretary, who, by his presence and paid advocacy places him in such a compromising position. The thing is intolerable.

That is only one illustration of Hon. W. J. Hanna's high political morality in real practice. For completing a few cases, unfinished when he entered politics, Hon. A. B. Aylesworth was denounced by Tory politicians and Tory newspapers all over the country. But here is the Provincial Secretary of Ontario persistently, year after year, interfering as paid counsel in cases tried before, not a Judge holding office for life, but before a judicial official who can be dismissed offhand on the word of the very man who argues before him as counsel. And Mr. Borden presents this man as his idea of political morality and public service! And this is the gentleman who was imported to teach the local Conservatives straight political methods and tell the honest electors of West Peterborough how to vote.

THE TROUPE DISBANDED.

The great, long-heralded and tremendously-touted, double-ring Conservative circus advertised for Saturday night hardly came up to expectations; it degenerated into a side-show with minstrel features. The people who hungrily hurried to the Opera House and Market Hall to see the lions feed and to chew up the political adversaries of the Conservative candidate, were treated to a minstrel offering not quite up to the mark of the Guys—in fact the artists were the guys in an impenetrable form of dis-Guys. The lions, imported and captured at great expense after thrilling and hair's-breadth escapes, by the Conservative candidate and his staff, were in a somewhat sulky mood—off their feed—and did not respond with scheduled obedience to the trainer's whip. In the side-show minstrel line, the interlocutors, "Jim" Kendry—who is always funny without trying — and "Eric" Bradburn, were in their old-time form, but the end men, "Bill" Hanna — there seemed to be something the matter with Hanna — and "Bob" Gamey, were disappointing — they merely "doped out" the old stuff: the local "gags" were as dull as ditchwater while the song and dance turn of the Conservative candidate was more like a funeral march than a buck and wing burst of speed. The whole affair was certainly hardly worth the money, and it is reported that if it had not been Saturday night the whole outfit would have gone into liquidation. As a matter of fact, the troupe disbanded, and the star performers went west on the first train possible. Thus a great attempt at statesman-making petered out before a sign of pay dirt showed up.

THE BURDEN ON THE MAN WHO BUYS.

Taxation by tariff is voluntary taxation. No man has to contribute a dollar to the public treasury through the tariff if he does not want to do so. He may buy the goods from the home maker if he is adverse to buying abroad and paying duty. Under the lowest tariff the home manufacturer has the protection of convenience. It is much more convenient to do business with Toronto than with London. Importing means buying far in advance and in larger quantities than required in the handling of local manufactures. It requires larger capital, and eternal vigilance is the price of keeping the stock always up to the demand and never in excess of it. If a wholesale firm go into the importing business, it is because they see money in it; and if they see money in it that means that the prices for the home-made commodities are high enough to reward them for the additional capital and inconvenience of buying abroad, and to leave them a larger profit than they would have from handling domestic products.

Canadians do not buy abroad without substantial reason. Other things being equal they would much sooner patronize the home-maker. Their national sentiment is sufficiently strong that they would even sacrifice something to do business with a fellow-countryman rather than with an outsider, This is another item of protection which tariffs cannot make and cannot take away. It is no reflection on Canadians that they buy goods abroad. They do so from no lack of national spirit or local patriotism, but for the quite valid and obvious reason that they effect a material saving by doing so. If they did not save money by it they would not do so. They would not do so if they did not save very considerably by it. To proclaim therefore that they buy heavily abroad is simply to proclaim that the local manufacturers are not put on the market at prices which the consumers consider fair to themselves and their interests. If they buy a million dollars worth of woollens in England that means that they have decidedly more money left in their pockets than if they bought them at home—enough more to make it worth their while to purchase abroad and to counter balance their inherent preference for buying at home.

No Government can increase the burden of taxation by reducing the tariff, however much the income from the tariff may be increased by doing it. People do not have to pay duty. Every dollar they pay through the tariff is a witness that they are saving money by buying abroad. If they pay more dollars under a low than a high tariff this simply means that they are saving money under the low tariff and because it is a low tariff. A Government cannot increase the proceeds of taxation that go into the treasury by raising the duties, though they may thus increase, and usually do thus increase, the burden borne by the public. Mr. Foster has said many incorrect things. He said a correct one when he declared the purpose and effect of a protective tariff was to increase the prices of home manufactures. Under a tight tariff a Government cannot force people to pay more taxes, but it can, and does, force them to either pay more taxes or pay more for the home-made article. A Government cannot, therefore, increase the taxation which goes into the public chest by raising the tariff, though they do increase the burden borne by the people. The people pay more, but the "more" does not go into the treasury of the country. It goes mainly into the pockets of the manufacturers who, by reason of the higher tariff, raise the price of their goods.

Extremes exhibit tendencies. Suppose the tariff which Mr. Foster opposes and that which he advocates were carried to the extreme, what would be the result? Suppose the low tariff of the present Government were carried to its extreme — free trade. Would the burden of tariff taxation be increased or reduced? Suppose high protection were carried to its extreme — a prohibitive tariff. Manifestly the taxation which went into the public treasury would be decreased because there would be no imports, and hence no income to the treasury at all. But would the burden borne by the public be reduced? According to Mr. Foster, when the tariff is raised, prices are raised, too. Then, if the tariff were made prohibitive, prices would soar to the height of, say, "Hanna's gallows." Would, then, the burden on the man who had to buy be increased or decreased by the operation of the prohibitive tariff? The results of these extremes show the tendencies of the policies which lead to them. Low tariff decreases the burden on the man who buys, while in doing so it may incidentally increase the revenue which the State receives from the tariff. High tariff cuts off importation and thus depletes revenue, while it enables the home-maker to raise his prices—that is, to increase the burden on the man who buys.—Edmonton Bulletin.

THE GREAT GRAIN ARMADA.

The Port Arthur Evening Chronicle has the following excellent bit of campaign ammunition:—

"One of the big outstanding results of the Liberal policy on transportation has been the upbuilding of a magnificent fleet of Canadian-owned steamships operating on the great lakes.

"When the Conservatives were thrown out of power in 1896 the number of Canadian-owned freighters on the great lakes could be told off on the fingers of one hand. At that time the steamships Algonquin, Rosedale and Bannockburn were about the only vessels engaged in exclusively freight business in Canadian waters.

"The Liberal Government adopted the advance policy with respect to immigration and the development of the west, with the result that there grew up traffic for many more vessels. Canadians were found who would respond to this demand, and the result is that 66 magnificent freighters, engaged almost exclusively in the grain business, are now ploughing the Canadian lake waters, and are extending their voyages into many United States lake ports, carrying therefrom grain and ore, which go to find employment to Canadians at the receiving ports and Canadian outports.

"This season Canadian vessels had taken out of Cleveland on June 30th 268,000 bushels of wheat, and from Duluth 450,000 bushels. At the present time the Canadian lake grain fleet numbers 66, has a capacity of 8,340,000 bushels, and a valuation of $9,405,000. This magnificent record of growth is due to the policy of the Liberal Government, a policy which builds not only for the present, but for the future.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Mr. Burnham, the Conservative candidate, jumps on the Grand Trunk Pacific with both feet. Mr. Roblin, speaking in Peterborough said the railway was needed in the interests of national development and Mr. Borden at the same time and place endorsed what Mr. Roblin said in this regard, and later on promised, if given office, to finish the G.T.P. Where does Mr. Burnham, the Conservative candidate stand? Does he support Mr. Borden or not? At Benstort both Mr. Kendry and Col. Miller advocated the highest form of taxation; Mr. Burnham advocates the abolition of all taxation. And, as the celebrated Mr. Hennessey says, "there y'are."

BRIGADIER ROBERTS' LAST MEETING TO-NIGHT

Officers Leave To-morrow for Toronto To Attend Conference.

Rev. Robt. Pogue will be the chairman at the Salvation Army barracks to-night when Brigadier Roberts will conclude his evangelistic meetings. Yesterday's services were attended by large numbers. In the evening the Brigadier spoke from the text, "Prepare to meet thy God."

To-morrow morning Staff Captain Goodwin, Staff Captain Jennings and other officers will go to Toronto to attend the annual conference there, which will last for one week.

The T.A.A.C. Club of Toronto, are very anxious to secure a game with the local T.A.A. Athletic Club's team, and this morning made overtures to have the local team play in Toronto on Saturday next. The locals have not yet decided upon what course to adopt, but are seriously considering the offer. The T.A.A.C. have a strong team and the locals will have to get into shape at once in the event of a game this week.

THE BIGGEST AND BEST SATURDAY NIGHT STRATTON RALLY OF THE CITY CAMPAIGN

The Spirit of Victory Prevails --- Inspiring Addresses by Liberal Workers---Stirring Speeches by Messrs. J. J. Hartley, Jacob Dawson, Wm. Yelland, R. R. Hall, Thos. Reid, Toronto and Hon. J. R. Stratton

The weekly rally of the supporters of Hon. J. R. Stratton which was held in the spacious hall on Simcoe street on Saturday evening, despite the "rival attractions" and the presence in the city of the widely advertised Conservative meetings of a provincial minister, took on the dimensions of a public meeting. Over two hundred citizens gathered to listen to the speech-making at the close of the committee work, and the earnest enthusiasm for the candidate and high confidence in the result were of that temper that always accomplishes results. The spirit of victory pervaded the air, but none the less was there the evidence of determination to abate no energy and relax no effort till the close of the polls on election day.

Mr. McFarlane took the chair and opened the meeting with one of his characteristic and inspiring speeches, so well calculated to inspire courage and imbue confidence.

Mr. J. J. Hartley

referred particularly to the splendid progress that had been achieved in the conditions of the mechanic and workingman, as the result of a policy that was sincere and sympathetic, that recognised the true place of labour among the elements of national progress, and its claims to consideration in legislation and in administration. It had remained for the Government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier for the first time in the history of the country to give practical recognition to the demands of labour and to take measures that had resulted in elevating the dignity of industry and at the same enhancing its rewards. He gave figures showing wages that had obtained before 1896 and that had prevailed since and now, not only on the public works of the country, by the operation of the fair wage stipulation in public contracts, but in the advancement of the wage scale in private enterprise made possible by the prosperous conditions which the policy of the government had been the means of creating for the manufacturers and other interests in which labour was an element. Referring to the "rival attractions" by which it was sought to influence the electors of Peterborough, he said they could fill all the halls and bring in all the Hannas they wanted to, and all they could say would not amount to a hill of beans, and would not change the vote of a single elector in this riding. (Cheers). J. R. Stratton would be the next member for West Peterborough. (Applause). Go where you will throughout this county and you may see the proofs of what had been done by Mr. Stratton for his constituents, and always and everywhere you would find the best men in the community with the glad hand of welcome out to that gentleman. Ham. Burnham was all right; he was a good fellow—at the golf links or tennis court, or to carry a lady's basket at a picnic—(laughter), and just the man in his place. His place was at home. (Applause). The people of Peterborough wanted a representative at Ottawa who could do something, who would be able to exercise influence for the benefit of his constituents, who possessed the experience, the ability, and the determination, to impress his views upon the Government and to get for the county the consideration and the share of the public expenditure to which they were entitled. They knew that Mr. Stratton would be elected, but they would not relax any effort. They should put their shoulders to the wheel, and leave no stone unturned, and no energy unemployed, to see that Mr. Stratton was not only returned, but returned by a good big majority. (Applause).

Mr. Jacob Dawson.

Mr. Dawson, who was then called to the platform, said he was one of the Englishmen who had come over here with the desire and intention of becoming good citizens of this country. They did not go about with their eyes shut, and they were capable of recognizing where their interests lay in the public life of the country. He was one of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's immigrants, and he had come into this country with clean record, and some means to invest here. They had been told in the Old Country that they would be received with open arms, and through the policy of the Government, they had been accorded the privilege of earning their bread which every man who had a wife and children to protect ought to enjoy. They had come to Canada because the policy of a Conservative Government there had forced them out. (Applause). Some had said, "What right have you to take part in Canadian politics." He claimed the right of every good citizen of this country to lift his voice in favour of continuing the administration of Sir Wilfrid Laurier in power to carry on good government in Canada, and of casting a vote to aid in the return of so able and worthy a friend as J. R. Stratton to represent them in Parliament. (Loud applause). If Hon. Mr. Hanna had not not been misrepresented in the newspapers of his party, he had stated that the asylums and gaols of this province were being filled with English immigrants. He (the speaker) did not believe that this was true, and was satisfied that Mr. Hanna had either been grossly misrepresented, or was seeking to create a false impression by unfounded statements. He believed that if you went to Peterborough jail you would not find there any English immigrants, and that you would find few indeed of these immigrants in our insane asylums. Such expressions were unfair and unjust to the large class of British subjects who had been attracted to Canada by the advantages which the policy of the present Government had opened up, who were almost wholly men of character and integrity, of sobriety and industry, who would make, what they aimed to be, as good subjects of the King in Canada as they had been at home. (Cheers). Now and then, doubtless, some undesirable might slip past the vigilant inspection to which immigrants were properly subjected, but he protested against having a large class of intelligent men branded in this unfair and unwarrantable manner by any man, much more by a man who had taken oath as a Minister of His Majesty. (Loud applause).

Mr. William Yelland,

in response to the invitation of the chairman, took the platform. He said he had been in this country for fifty-seven years, and he had always voted the Liberal ticket, but upon one occasion, for personal reasons, and he believed he had always been with the people in being with the Liberal party. The Reform Government had always been true to the cause of the people. He was an old man now, and didn't read a great deal of politics, but he was convinced that they were living under a good government, and that it was to the interests of the people to keep them where they were. (Applause). He intended to vote for J. R. Stratton. He had always supported Mr. Stratton, and he had never been sorry for it. (Cheers). He had sometimes differed with him; he had not always done just as he would have liked him to do, but he believed in his honesty and sincerity in the courses which he pursued. They would have to elect him. There was something about Mr. Stratton that even the Tories appreciated and even they wouldn't be sorry after he was elected. (Laughter and applause). It was their duty and their interest—the interest of Peterborough—to elect Mr. Stratton and as Mr. Hartley had said they should put their shoulders to the wheel and elect him by a good old-fashioned majority. They all knew what Mr. Stratton had accomplished in the past for the practical welfare of the city and county, both in our business life and in securing recognition of our requirements from the Government, which we had seen attended to in the public works of the county. (Applause). Mr. Stratton, no doubt, had his faults, as we all had, but they would all recognise his great business ability, his personal integrity, and his devotion to the interests and welfare of Peterborough, of which he had given him such solid and substantial proofs, and if Mr. Stratton were sent to Ottawa, as he would be (Applause), he would not only be a tower of strength to the Liberal party, but would be found an active, zealous and effective advocate of the claims of this county upon the attention of the departments in the expenditure of money upon public improvements. Every interest of Peterborough in the present situation called for the election of J. R. Stratton, and the people would be on hand on October 26 to respond to the call. (Loud cheers).

Mr. Thos. Reid,

of Toronto, said he had always heard their candidate spoken of as one of the best campaigners of the country, and he wished that his city of Toronto had such a candidate at their disposal. (Applause). He was glad to see the extent and the spirit of this gathering; to see at their headquarters a veritable bee-hive of political industry, and he wished that he were able to transplant some of the methods and effectiveness that were apparent here to Toronto. It seemed that in Toronto they could never get started right, and the election was over before they got under way. If they had a candidate in Toronto like the gentleman who was before the electors of West Peterborough, they might have some chance of success. (Cheers). He knew something about their candidate, who had interests in Toronto, perhaps as great as in Peterborough, and where his ability and sterling worth were as fully recognized as here at his own home. He deprecated the introduction of personal matters in politics, because the tongue of slander was able to pile up lie upon lie, which the truth did not always overtake and confute. If the Angel Gabriel were to come down and go through a political campaign in Ontario, he would hardly escape unmirched. Who among us is in a position to point the finger of scorn at his neighbour? If some of the men who have been injecting scandal and slander in this campaign had reflected, perhaps they might not have been so ready to give the excuse for uncovering their own reputation. Perhaps Mr. Roblin would not have been led into the error into which he had fallen. It was not his opponents, but the leaders of his own party, who had been reluctantly compelled to admit that the things which Mr. Roblin had alleged against the Liberal Government were untrue. He (the speaker) had some personal knowledge of Mr. Stratton's relation with the Home Life, that perhaps were not known to them here, and which had been the subject of foolish misrepresentation before them. The whole business was simply the matter of amalgamating two large institutions. Difficulties had been encountered, and through Mr. Stratton's means, through his influence and ability, these difficulties had been removed. Mr. Stratton had advanced temporarily the means by which the consolidation of the companies had been effected, and if there had been any irregularity if there had been any action of Mr. Stratton that had not been to the interests of the shareholders; had there been the slightest question of not only the propriety, but the advantage of Mr. Stratton's action, and of the assistance which he rendered on that occasion, do you not think that the shareholders of the company, who alone are really interested, would have been prompt to complain and protest? But the fact is that that these men, whose money was concerned, who had invested their capital in these enterprises, and who were best qualified to judge of anything that affected their welfare in this transaction, had not offered one word of criticism, but after full knowledge of every feature of the transaction, after the publication of the insurance report, they had by unanimous action, without one dissenting voice or vote, elected Hon. Mr. Stratton President of the Home Life, and also, because of the faithful service which he rendered to that institution, because of the advantage to them of that conspicuous business ability which Mr. Stratton possessed, because of their confidence in his integrity, they had re-elected him as the head of that company. Was there anything more to be said? (Applause). But how different was the case of Hon. Mr. Foster, whom Mr. Borden and Mr. Burnham presented as a coming Finance Minister, who on account of his actions in the handling of their affairs, of his dealing with trust funds, had been compelled to relinquish his position as treasurer of the Union Trust Company, and was retired in disgrace, and it now only remained to carry him out to the place of political oblivion. (Applause). He referred them to Hon. Mr. Stratton's connection with the Trader's Bank, one of the greatest financial institutions in this country, of which he was the vice-president. It had been the custom of banks, at their annual meetings, to vote to their president a sum of money as an honourarium, in recognition of his care and concern for and prudent administration of the interests of the bank, but he believed that there was no instance where a vice-president or other officer of a bank had been so honoured, except in the case of the stockholders of the Traders' Bank with their Vice-President, Hon. J. R. Stratton. (Applause). And this tribute had been given to Mr. Stratton for the ability which he had displayed in his services to the bank, and the business which he had been the means of adding to the scope of its affairs. He referred to the Trusts and Guarantee Company, of which Mr. Stratton was the president. That company had increased its capital, under Mr. Stratton's guidance from $2,800,000 to $6,000,000. Now, this is live testimony. It cannot be gainsaid or controverted, or misrepresented without falsification, and it seemed to him inconceivable and absurd that any man should have the hardihood to seek to question the trustworthiness, or impeach the integrity of a man who was able to present such a record. (Cheers). He couldn't conceive that any constituency would not be glad to seize the opportunity of securing the services of such a man to represent them in Parliament —of grasping the advantage which the experience, the ability, the influence, and the aggressive energy of the candidate presented by the Liberal party to the people of West Peterborough placed at their service. (Cheers). What their interests called for, and what Mr. Stratton's candidature placed at their disposal, was the services of a man who understands business, who knew where and when and how to present matters affecting the interests of the county before the departments of the Government which had to deal with them, and who would have the ability and the influence to ensure that the business interests of the county would get fair treatment from a business administration. (Applause). He discussed at length and effectually punctured the absurd misrepresentations of the Opposition regarding the cost of the Grand Trunk Pacific. He continued to remark that it required a man of genius to look into the future with the clear vision which had given to Sir Wilfrid Laurier years ago that comprehension of the great destiny of Canada which now, to-day, the people of the country were beginning to appreciate, and which they had already to some extent realised. (Cheers). Sir Wilfrid Laurier had told them when he first assumed office that he would give them a policy that would produce for the country a prosperity which they would not need to put forward argument or theory to substantiate, because the people of Canada would find the evidence and the proof of it in their pockets. (Cheers). And that had been their experience, as it was unnecessary to say to those who had shared in it. It is a well-known fact that when Mr. Stratton retired from his post as the Provincial Secretary of Ontario, it was not only a matter of common consent and of universal acknowledgment, even from political opponents and from Conservative newspapers, that the province had never before had in that important post a man so thoroughly qualified and capable. The large interests entrusted to his care were managed with prudence, with sagacity, with absolute fairness and impartiality, and to the best interests of the province. Every question that came before him was treated upon its merits strictly, and it was a common remark that in matters of a litigious character, he brought to the solution of disputes a judicial mind and a strong common sense, that enabled him to reach the just conclusion. He brought to the solution of such questions a fairness of judgment, and a clear and intelligent comprehension and a grasp of the proper application of considerations of equity, that would have done credit to any judge on the provincial bench. And in all his speeches upon public conditions there were manifested a breadth of mind, a liberality of spirit, a well-poised and critical judgment that was above the mere declamation of the partizan, and appealed to the higher and nobler and more patriotic sentiments of the public mind. He has now been succeeded by Hon. Mr. Hanna, who is in Peterborough this evening. Mr. Hanna was a strong and bitter partisan, and if he could have found in any corner of the Provincial Secretary's office the slightest evidence of an irregularly in Mr. Stratton's administration, or even anything that could be twisted or contorted or construed into an irregularity, he would have lost no time in laying it before the public to sustain the charges which his friends had made against the Ross administration, which they were possessed of an eagerness to prove, but of which they could not, and never would be able to prove one jot or tittle. Mr. Stratton's record was impregnable against any assault of honest criticism. (Cheers). I don't mean to convey that in the course of thirty years Mr. Stratton may not have been responsible for some mistakes; he does not claim for himself or his friends for him that he is infallible; but what is true is, in every such error of judgment as may have been made, his motives have been honest and his action candid and sincere. (Applause). He asked them not to be stampeded from their work or to permit their attention to be diverted by false issues, but to give their support to Mr. Stratton, who was engaged in helping on the work of building up this great country—not one walking around looking for a job. He urged them to sustain the great work of Sir Wilfrid Laurier by rolling up for Hon. J. R. Stratton on October 26, a majority of over 1,000. (Loud applause).

The chairman said no one need be alarmed about the result of this election. Mr. Stratton was as good as elected to-day, and they would see that his majority, when the polls were closed, would reach four figures. (Cheers).

Mr. R. R. Hall,

who was next called upon, was given a warm reception, and proceeded to say that he had just returned from a trip to the West in the course of which he had had a suggestive experience. He had been delayed on the route at one point for twenty-two hours, a circumstance that was not calculated to put a traveler who had business in view in a cheerful frame of mind. He had found that the delay was occasioned by the occupation of the line by trains for the east, which were being put through at the rate of 1,000 cars a day, which meant 1,250,000 bushels of grain from the western fields that were on their way to the eastern markets. Now, what did that mean? Why that $1,250,000 in cash was coming back from the European markets to enrich the people in that new empire, a good share of which would come back to the people of Ontario to pay for the products of our factories which were requisite to the needs of the western settlers. And while detained on this wait, he had found that there were at that point six trains of cars from the east which for the same reason as had delayed him were stalled at that point. He had naturally supposed that these were "empties" going back west for new cargoes of grain, but upon examination which he had an enforced leisure to make he found that these six trains were laden with the products of the factories of Ontario, which were going west to supply the needs of the settlers. (Applause). We in Ontario enjoyed the benefit of a network of railways that made transportation and distribution easy. But in the west, owing to the splendid manner in which the policy of the Government had been fitted to the needs and requirements of the settlers, they had seen constructed hundreds of miles of internal railway, which had resulted in the wonderful development of Winnipeg of Calgary, of Edmonton, and other towns where the benefits of western progress were focused. And now, they had the prospect of the new Grand Trunk Pacific which would open up an entirely new territory just as rich and productive as that which made the Great West to-day. Mr. Burnham had stated that this railway would be a burden upon, and the new settlements that it would open up a menace to the welfare of the people of Ontario. Poor man, he didn't know what he was talking about. Where would our factories in Peterborough get the market for their goods, if the Great West were not opened up? Why each new settler would add something to the area of the market for our products. They would require, and our factories, right here in Peterborough, would supply, the very shovel which was to dig the cellar of the settler's building; and they would require nails and glass in its construction, and locks for its doors. They would require windmills, and ploughs, and harrows, seeders, and reaping machines, all of which would open up a widened market for our Ontario factories, and give a greater and more profitable field for employment. (Applause). The people who shared Mr. Burnham's dismal views, who saw injury, and not the great prosperity which it was going to produce, in the development of the Great West, through the policy of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Government, were living in the past; they were living in a dream, and they did not realize the elements of progress that were operating to make this country, under wise and patriotic guidance, great. But the people of West Peterborough had the intelligence to appreciate what was being done for the country and for them in the progressive policy of the Government, and they would vote to ensure its continuance for the man so well qualified to aid our great leader in his patriotic work for the nation, and would elect Hon. J. R. Stratton by a good big majority. (Loud applause). They had heard the statements attributed to Hon. Mr. Hanna, that immigration was filling our jails and asylums. He did not believe it; he thought Mr. Hanna was simply making misstatements for political effect. But if in any measure it were true, if Mr. Hanna, who had charge of and was responsible for the conduct of those institutions, found that an insane immigrant had been delivered to one of our asylums, he knew well that he had only to call attention of the immigration authorities to the fact and the undesirable visitor would under the law be promptly deported. So that if what Mr. Hanna depicted were true, the responsibility was up to him, and the allegations he presented would, if true, only show that Hon. Mr. Hanna had neglected his sworn duty. (Cheers). He believed Mr. Stratton's election was a foregone conclusion. He was the man the people of West Peterborough wanted, and who was called for by the requirements of their interests, and he had no doubt he would be elected by a handsome majority. But nevertheless they should all take off their coats from now till October 26, to ensure a triumph that would leave no doubt about the sentiment of the electors of this riding regarding Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and Hon. J. R. Stratton. (Great applause).

Hon. J. R. Stratton.

Hon. J. R. Stratton was greeted with tumultuous applause on being called forward by the chairman. He said he was glad to see so unexpectedly large a gathering on this occasion. This was the largest meeting of the campaign in that place, and it showed the growing interest and determination of the voters. They had heard of other meetings in the city for this evening at which it was sought to boost the tottering prospects of the Conservative candidate. He hoped that the voters who attended those meetings, either out of interest or curiosity, would be told "Where the money came from." (Applause.) The people of Ontario had never yet been favoured with that information, but when they were, and the signs were that it might yet come out, the Whitney Government would not last twenty-four hours. There were rumours that if so-and-so were not accorded by the Government, disclosures would be made, and that an explosion was liable to occur at any moment. When that time came, as come it must sooner or later, it would effectually relieve him (the speaker) from undeserved odium that had been sought to be cast upon him by unworthy and unscrupulous men, but which, he was proud to say, had never found a lodgment in the minds of the people of Peterborough, who knew him well. (Loud applause.) The truth will out in its own good time, and that time would absolve from all reproach the coming member in the House of Commons for the riding of West Peterborough. (Loud applause.) This meeting, by its extent and the spirit that was displayed, showed the feeling that existed in the county, and that there would be a large vote and a large majority for Liberal candidate on the 26th of October. (Cheers.) The Conservative candidate had made the opening address of the campaign the other day at Bensfort, and he had made use of language and presented views so utterly idiotic and preposterous, that if they were presented on the floor of the House of Commons the representatives of the Canadian people would be stricken with wonder at what kind of a constituency it was that would send such a man to Parliament, and the electors of this riding would have cause to hang their heads in shame at such a caricature of their intelligence and common sense. (Cheers.) Mr. Burnham, from stenographic notes of his address, had said regarding the Canadian Pacific Railway: "The Canadian Pacific was inexcusable as a Canadian enterprise." Is it possible that he really means or comprehends what he is saying? The C. P. R. enterprise was the pride of Sir John A. Macdonald's life, and the greatest monument of his public services. Notwithstanding the errors committed in the inauguration of this project which had been justly condemned by the people of Canada, all to-day admitted and realized the tremendous advantages which this railway enterprise had conferred upon the country in the development of a great empire in the west, which added so much to the visible wealth of the country in its annual product of grain, and had opened up within our own borders a great market which was the foundation of prosperity for manufacturing enterprise in Ontario and the Eastern Provinces. (Cheers.) Mr. Burnham had also said: "What is the matter with all this folly about building a railway, and bringing in a great host of immigrants?" I am quoting his own words. The country had approved by their votes of the embarking of the nation upon this great enterprise, which was to be the foundation of, and the main factor in producing, the great destiny to which every Canadian looked forward. Each single settler who went into that country, which was made accessible by this great railway enterprise, would add something to the expansion of the market upon which the progress of prosperity in our factories in Ontario, in Peterborough, depends; would add to the profitable demand for the employment of labour, and would extend the local markets for the farmer. (Applause.) Mr. Burnham had gone on to say, "What is the necessity, in a country like Canada, of you Eastern people developing Western Canada?" Well, they would remember the days when the best elements of the native population of this province had been driven away by the misdirected policy of the Government, previous to 1896, to Dakota and to Minnesota, to seek opportunities that had then been denied them in their own land. Now, we have had all this changed. (Cheers.) Our young men who seek to make homes for themselves under the old flag, were going to British Columbia, to Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba, and soon would be seeking the great opportunities that the Grand Trunk Pacific is developing in the New Ontario that is to-day being opened up, as wide in extent, as fertile in soil, and as rich in its varied resources of the forest and the mine, as this old Ontario, of which we are so proud. And the sons and daughters of our people, who had been exiled by the mistaken policy of a Conservative Government, were coming back under the new conditions that Sir Wilfrid Laurier had created, to the land that we believed, and they believed, to be the brightest land beneath the sun. The industry that was being poured into this new land of opportunity, by its development of wealth from the soil; the access which this great railway would give our enterprise to the vast resources of the forests of northern Ontario; the inexhaustible supplies of mineral wealth that only awaited the touch of enterprise and the means of transportation to add untold riches to our province, all these would combine, by the population that would accompany their development, and by the needs of this population for the things which we in Ontario, and in Peterborough, produce in our factories, so that he felt justified in predicting that in the near future our province of Ontario would become not only the greatest manufacturing centre of the Dominion, but the greatest field of manufacturing enterprise on this continent. (Loud applause.) He had said, when he entered upon this fight, that he would go through it single-handed, that he would not invite into the county the aid of any member of the Government, or ask the help of any outsiders. He felt that if he could not be elected by the free will of the voters of Peterborough upon his record, and upon the confidence which his friends and neighbours reposed in him, he didn't want to be elected at all. (Cheers.) And he did not believe that all the Bordens and all the Hannas they could import into the county of Peterborough would swerve the people of this riding from an intelligent appreciation of where their interests lay in this election. (Applause.) They had with them in Peterborough to-night his successor in the Provincial Secretaryship of this Province, in the opera house, and his mentor and political adviser in the market hall. When he (Mr. Stratton) left the office which Mr. Hanna now occupied—and he might say that on leaving it he had received a high tribute, as unexpected as it was unsolicited, to his management of it, from the Conservative press of Toronto—he had not only left his former officials and employees free from all sense of obligation to him, and had even suggested to them their duty, if they knew of any deficiencies in the management which he had given to the administration of the department, to place it at the disposal of his successor in office who was now Hon. Mr. Hanna. Mr. Hanna had now full knowledge of every detail of the management of that office in the past. Nothing was hidden from him, and if he had any knowledge of any wrongdoing in the conduct of that office during his (Mr. Stratton's) administration, it was his duty to present it to the people. It was his opportunity to do so here, before the people of Peterborough, and he trusted that Mr. Hanna would unbosom himself of all the proof that he possessed of graft, or dishonesty, or wrongdoing of any kind under the regime of J. R. Stratton. He invited him to do so, and if he did not make good on this occasion the charges which his political friends had put forward, they would stand in the minds of the electors of Peterborough for the base and groundless slanders that they were. (Cheers). He would appeal to them to judge if his friends in this contest were not putting up a clean, a decent, an intelligent and an educational campaign. They had resorted to no prejudices, and sought to arouse no passions, but simply upon plain and incontrovertible facts, appealed to the common sense and manifest self-interest of the people. And they would find in the result in the West Riding of Peterborough, that the people were behind him in this election, and would return him by a greater majority than ever before. (Great applause.)

The meeting closed with cheers of loyal enthusiasm for the candidate and the King.

A LIFE MEMBER OF THE R. A. SOCIETY

Recognition of Mr. S. W. Lowry's Ability As an Astronomer

Mr. S. W. Lowry has recently been elected a life member of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada. This places him on the correspondence list of the Society in Toronto, and enables him to attend all meetings there, gives free access to their splendid library which contains a very large number of books and star maps together with a fine collection of photographs of the moon and planets. The last regular meeting of the society was held on Wednesday evening, the 7th inst., when Mr. John A Patterson contributed an excellent paper. It was a mathematical treatise on "Weighing the Planets."

THE STOMACH IS VERY EASILY UPSET

Why Not Take Some Diapepsin Now and Have All Stomach Misery Over With

When your stomach is weak or lacking in Gastric juice, anything that you eat, no difference what it is, will sour on your stomach, raise the bile and acids to cover your food like oil on water, causing Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Stomach Nervousness and Belching of sour poisons which produce foul odours, nasty taste, bilious headache, heartburn, intestinal griping and make you an object of misery. This is stomach trouble which can not be overcome with ordinary digestive medicines. It is caused by fermentation of your food, which will be remedied at once by Pape's Diapepsin, a preparation pleasant to take and as harmless as candy, though it will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat.

Indigestion is a result, not a cause of your trouble. If the Stomach is sour and unhealthy your food becomes tainted, and that's what is causing the Indigestion and gas on stomach and other miseries. Pape's Diapepsin is an Antacid, most powerful digestive and thorough regulator for weak stomachs. These Triangules will digest any kind of food you eat and will cleanse the stomach and intestines in a natural way, which makes you feel fine five minutes afterwards.

Any good Pharmacy here will supply you with a case of Pape's Diapepsin for fifty cents. Just reading about this remarkable stomach preparation will not help. You should go now and get a case. Put your stomach in full health, and by tomorrow you will forget the misery of Stomach trouble. Your case is no different from many others. It isn't Stomach Nerves or Catarrn of the Stomach, or Gastritis, or Dyspepsia. It is Food rotting—Food Fermentation—that's all—and takes about five minutes to overcome.—1.

Curious Crowds Attend The Two Conservative Meetings

The Visiting Speakers Give Their Version of Some Dominion Political Questions

HANNA AND IMMIGRATION

The political meetings in the market hall and opera house on Saturday night were well attended. Hon. W J. Hanna, Provincial Secretary for Ontario, and Mr. R R Gamey, M.P.P., were the alleged attractions, and it was evident that curiosity, not political interest, was the drawing factor and accounted for the attendance with which the meetings were favoured. The Peterborough Band played a few selections in front of the market arcade.

At the market hall the chair was occupied by Mr. T E Bradburn, M. P.P., and by Mr. Jas. Kendry at the opera house. Mr. J H Burnham spoke at both meetings and Mr. W J Thornton, Conservative candidate for Durham, was one of the speakers at market hall.

Hon. W J Hanna professed to be very optimistic so far as the Conservative party's prospects were concerned in the result of the coming Dominion elections. He believed Mr. Borden would have majorities in the Maritime Provinces—Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick, and also in the Western Provinces. His majority in Ontario would more than offset that in Quebec for the Premier. Mr. Hanna thought that the record of the Liberal Government had been fair between 1896 and 1900 but that with the beginning of the new century it had fallen somewhat from his good opinions. He said that prior to coming to power the Liberals promised to lessen the expenditures but they had not done so.

A voice—What about your own Government?

There was no reply!

He did not oppose the construction of the Transcontinental Railway. Mr. Borden had never opposed it, but he did oppose the duplication of the Intercolonial in the east by the eastern end of the Transcontinental.

Immigration, the pet subject of Hanna, formed the next basis of attack. He said that the organization of the North Atlantic Trading Company in the Old Country by Mr. Smart, a former Deputy Minister of the Interior, which brought out many immigrants, had meant the expenditure of large sums of the people's money. The timber limit deals in the West were unclean and they could be followed back to the doors of the Council Chamber at Ottawa. The disclosures were only made by Mr. Borden with great difficulty in spite of the Government. The immigration question affected us in Ontario. In 1907 burdens were imposed on us that will take $2,000,000 to discharge. It was affecting the West where immigrants had to be kept at the expense of the government so we are face to face with a serious proposition.

Mr. Gamey said that if the electors of West Peterborough were satisfied with the course adopted by the Liberal Government, they should vote for it. Because the Canadian Government has no duty on lumber coming from the United States, the lumber men will not employ so many men in Canada this year. The United States Government has a duty of $2 per thousand on lumber from Canada. The speaker condemned the action of employees of the Government in connection with the supplies for the ice boat on the St. Lawrence River. He accused them of making money at the expense of the Government in the purchase of these supplies and others. His address was almost entirely confined to alleged charges of graft on the part of employees of the Liberal Government (but he did not say that they were Conservative appointees), and of reasons why he believed the Conservatives should be returned to power on Oct. 26th.

The meetings closed shortly after 10 o'clock with the usual cheers.

SERMON ON WHY MEN NEED THE CHURCH

At St. Paul's Church by the Rev. Robt. Pogue

"Why Men Need the Church" was the subject of a sermon delivered by Rev. Robt. Pogue in St. Paul's church last night and which attracted a large number. Mr. Pogue dealt with his subject in a very able and interesting manner. In opening his remarks, the pastor stated that conditions in Peterborough and in Canada were vastly different from what they are in any other part of the world. He instanced Chicago, where only seven per cent. of the men went to church at all, and of every hundred of those, only twenty-three took any active part.

It is common everywhere that women are more active in the work of the church. This is not only because they are better and purer than men, but, Mr. Pogue said, he could prove that it was because of their greater intelligence, and for a man to say that "Only women and children go to church" only proves himself less worthy of a woman.

The men who are doing the greatest work in the church, both in Christian and heathen countries, are those possessed of the very highest degree of intelligence. Men need the church and the church needs men.

LAYMEN SPEAK AT KNOX CHURCH

Attentive Audience Listens To Their Addresses.

The two laymen, Mr. Cornish and Mr. A Mowat, who spoke specially to men last evening in Knox Church, were greeted by a large and attentive audience. Mr. Cornish used the characters of Jacob and Esau to impress this point upon this hearers. Esau was a man of the present; Jacob was a man of the future, who regarded religion as essential and therein lay the secret of his success and power as it is still the secret of the true success of any man today.

Mr. A Mowat followed, drawing his illustration from Tennyson. His theme was self-knowledge, self-reverence and self-control. Man might seek pleasure or power, but if he would seek the best and highest it could only be achieved by self-discipline and giving himself to the service of his fellow-men. This was possible only by relating oneself first to Christ, and this he urged his hearers to do.

CORNER STONE OF ST. JAMES METHODIST CHURCH WAS LAID ON SATURDAY

mony. However, his absence being unavoidable, he deputed Mr. W. G. Morrow to get in his stead.

It was also a matter of regret that Rev. H. M. Manning was unable to be present, owing to illness that confined him to his home. He is the first minister of this church and has been unceasing in his efforts to establish St. James' Church, recognizing as he did the present requirements of the Methodist people in the south ward, and the demands that the future will surely bring.

Clergymen Present

A feature of the occasion was the presence of a large number of the ministers of the city. Some of them assisted in the formal prayers, and all spoke words of encouragement to the Methodist people of the south end and expressed the hope that the church would prosper in its work. Among those present were Rev. Mr. McCullock of Omemee, president of the Bay of Quinte Conference; Rev. H. J. Keith; Rev. J. R. Webb; Rev. Robert Pogue, Rev. C. H. Coon, Rev. W. S. Riddiford, Rev. J. G. Potter and Rev. H. R. Trumpour. Communications from Rev. Canon Davidson, Rev. G. W. Henderson and Rev. E. A. Pearson were read, in which they expressed their regret at being unable to be present.

Introductory

Rev. Mr. McCullock opened the ceremonies and Rev. Mr. Pogue offered up prayer. Rev. Mr. Coon, Rev. Mr. Riddiford and Rev. Mr. Keith read parts of the form. Mr. D. W. Dumble, at this stage gave a brief address. Saturday had been chosen, he said, in order to meet the convenience of Hon. Geo. A. Cox, and he regretted that business that required immediate attendance should have presented itself, thus preventing him from assisting in the ceremony. Continuing, Mr. Dumble stated that the George Street Church had been the mother of Charlotte Street Church, and each was of the same size as when opened. At that time Peterborough had a population of 7,000, now there are 17,000 living in the city. No accommodation had been provided for this large increase. The south ward had developed particularly, and to accommodate the people the Anglicans and Baptists were building larger edifices, and the Catholics and Presbyterians had new churches. It was also necessary that the Methodist people should be provided for, hence the erection of St. James' Church. For the present it is Sunday School size and one of the most commodious and modern in the country. As time goes on and the congregation grows a church will be built, Mr. Dumble explained, but for the present the Sunday School would meet the demands of the church work.

Rev. Mr. Keith

On being asked to address the people Rev. Mr. Keith stated that we had a long way to go in church building to catch up with those devoted to business. On every hand they have gone ahead, and palatial structures had been raised. The Church of Jesus Christ, he remarked, has followed the principle of going after its people and it should also go ahead. He thought that the people are not yet ready for church union. The erection of a new church was a sort of criticism on the ministers and the people. There was no reason why the spirit of the Master should be carried out, unless we are unwilling. Rev. Mr. Keith then dwelt on the necessity of having the influence of the church in our every day life. Unless God is at the head of our work, is leading us in our home life as well as in business we are bound to fail.

During the afternoon the other ministers gave short addresses, congratulated the Methodist people on the erection of the church and wished them success in the work.

Corner Stone Placed

The corner stone was then lowered into its place on the fresh mortar and Mr. Morrow stepped forward as it settled in position, striking the stone three times (with the special trowel of silver, he spoke the following words: "In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, I lay this corner stone for the foundation of a house to be builded and consecrated to the service of Almighty God, according to the order and usages of the Methodist Church. Amen."

The ceremony was concluded by Rev. Mr. Cragg pronouncing the Benediction.

Mr. C R D Booth, Reeve of Burleigh and Anstruther, has been appointed by the Provincial Government, Police Magistrate for Anstruther, Chandos, Burleigh and part of Methuen Townships.

"SOUR GRAPES"

The Review, evidently "sore" on account of the beat scored by the Examiner last Thursday in publishing the final score of the Chicago-New York ball game in its regular edition, undertakes to chastise the paper for calling attention to the fact, and in so doing puts itself on the back as it were, with the somewhat doubtful statement that the "Review has easily the best sporting page in Peterborough." The sporting fraternity of Peterborough will be somewhat loath to endorse that wild boast. Is not the Examiner the recognized medium for sporting news in Peterborough; just as the Examiner office is one of the head-quarters for all branches of athletics and the proprietor of the Examiner is one of those who have dealt most generously with sporting organizations in this city?

The actual use of a pair of scissors undoubtedly gives the Review an abundance of sporting news, such as it is, and some of it is exclusive as far as the Examiner is concerned, for which our readers will no doubt be thankful.

Last week the people of Peterborough didn't care to know whether Cyclone Burns was wrestling in Kalamazoo or South America; it didn't matter to them whether Hoagland was dying to walk here, as the Review has been informing its readers daily for two weeks, or not, but they did want to know who won the National League pennant and that was what the Examiner was able to tell them with a detailed story covering the climax of the game. The Review didn't, nor did any other paper in Ontario on Thursday, except the Toronto Star in its sporting edition. It was a notable "scoop" and the Examiner felt justified in referring to it.

The Review's vapourings in Saturday's edition read very much like an aggravated case of "sour grapes."

Many Entries For The Otonabee Athletic Club's Meet Wednesday; Three Indians Are In The List

Judging by the entries that have been received and the interest that is being taken in the event, the success of the athletic meet under the auspices of the Otonabee Athletic Club in the Brock street rink on Wednesday night is assured. Local athletes are enthusiastic over the prospects and have been working hard to get into shape with the result that there should be a grand night's sport.

The five mile race should be a feature. It will bring together no less than three Indian runners, Albert Smoke of the Otonabee A.C., Geo. Copaway, a new phenom discovered by Dan Whetung at Chemong and Hanlon Howard, of Hiawatha, who opened up the two mile race at the Keene Fair. With the three redskins battling it out with Ernie Wilson, Charlie Thorpe and Geo. Fowler, of the Y.M.C.A. Harriers, the race should be a grand one. The wise ones will have troubles of their own in picking the winners.

The mile relay race is another event that promises to be a decided success. Each team will consist of four men each of which will run a quarter of a mile which insures almost a continuous sprint and the excitement should be intense. The Y.M.C.A. Chieftains and Otonabees will each have a team and the competition will warm from the start.

The events are filling up well, as the following list will show:

50 Yards, Junior

Walter Perks, Chieftain A.C.
Geo. Minorgan, Chieftain A. C.
Frank Halpany, Y.M.C.A. Harriers.
W J Montgomery, unattached, North Monaghan.

DETROIT CRAZY OVER VICTORY OF TIGERS SAYS LOCAL TICKET AGENTS WHO HAVE RETURNED

Messrs. W. McIlroy, C.P.R. ticket agent, and W. Bunton, G.T.R. agent, returned to the city on Saturday after attending the annual meeting of the Canadian Ticket Agents' Association, reporting a grand time and splendid treatment at the hands of Detroit people. The annual meeting was a most successful affair and was attended by some one hundred and forty agents from all parts of Canada. Messrs. McIlroy and Bunton were re-elected to positions on the executive, which meets in January next, to decide on the next meeting place for the association.

Mr. Bunton, speaking of the celebration on Tuesday night last, when it was known that the Tigers had triumphed over the White Sox and had won the American League championship, states that it was one of the greatest demonstrations he had ever seen. Thirty-five thousand people congregated on the square known as the Hub, and the noise was something that baffled description. Old and young alike took part in the celebration.

Mr. McIlroy states that Hugh Jennings' famous battle cry, "Wee Yah," was all that could be heard in the "Tiger" City. The excitement of the fans kept them shouting it at all hours and in all places.

The railwaymen were most pleasantly entertained. On Wednesday morning they were passengers on board the steamer Promise and enjoyed a two-hours' sail along the Detroit and Windsor waterfronts from Lake Erie to Lake St. Clair.

In the afternoon special cars left the Cadillac, at which the delegates were quartered, conveying the party to the "Bath City," Mount Clemens, going via the Shore Line through the magnificent Grosse Point farms and summer home district along the shore of Lake St. Clair. At Mount Clemens the party was met by the members of the Board of Trade and escorted through the famous hotels and bath houses of this great health resort.

In the evening the party visited the Lyceum, when they saw Cole and Johnston, the famous coloured entertainers, in the new musical bit of nonsense, "The Red Moon."

Thursday morning the railwaymen were taken around the pride of Detroit, Belle Isle," in automobiles, and Mr. C. M. Hayes, the artist photographer, took a picture of the party at the Detroit Yacht Club.

T.A.S. Juniors Defeated Y.M.C.A. In A Hard Game On Saturday

Won by Score of 3 Points to 1—Game Protested by the Losers—Was a Hard Fought Contest From Start to Finish

WERE AHEAD ALL THE WAY

The T. A. S. juniors won from the Y.M.C.A., in the second Junior City League game played at Riverside Park on Saturday afternoon by three points, making two games in which neither team has scored a touchdown. The Total Abstainers were in the lead throughout but the game was a desperately-fought one and the honours were about even. It was two teams of pretty husky juniors that lined up, and the result is a protest from the Y.M.C.A. against six T.A.S. men as being over the age limit, while the T.A.S. have a counter protest against three of the Y.M.C.A.

The T.A.S had the advantage in weight, and their wing line made up in aggressiveness what it lacked in experience, and that is what defeated the "Y." The latter's wings failed to hold at critical moments and gave the backs poor protection, with the result that the rear-guard became nervous and handled the ball badly towards the end of the game. It was not good Rugby at any stage but it was close and hard fought and always interesting. The "Y." relied on a running game, while the Abstainers depended upon punting and fast following up, and that's all there was to the game. The tackling on both sides was bad and appeared in sharp contrast to that shown the week before when the Collegiate and Bengh O Brien... Riders clashed. Nearly every man on either team tackled high, and as a result there were some hard spills and several penalties were handed out. The small crowd present, however, appeared to enjoy the contest, which was certainly exciting.

Playing a kicking game, the T.A.S. back division did not get a chance very much except on the defensive, but they made a good showing considering that it was the first time they had been out together. Craig at centre did most of the punting and ground was made on his kicks. Fitzgerald at quarter passed well and was always aggressive, while McGill and Denoon were the best of the wings.

Ray and Seymour were the best behind the line for the "Y." the former hitting into the limelight with several long runs, once carrying the ball out from behind his own line through the whole T.A.S. wing line. Ecclestone in the scrimmage and Wade and Long on the wing line were always working hard, and did the best tackling of the day.

The officials were R. F. McWilliams, referee, and W. E. Meagher, umpire.

The teams lined up as follows:—

T. A. S.—	Y. M. C. A.
Backs
Derocher	Munro
Halves
Hayes	Ackerman
V. Craig	Seymour
Hickey	Ray
Quarter
Fitzgerald	Turner
Scrimmage
Garvey	Ecclestone
Davidson	Reid
Cottrell	Haskill
Wings
Denoe	Wilmot
Neary	Elliott
Dorris	Latimer
O Donnell	Long
McGill	Wade

The play was even from the start. The T.A.S. kicked off to the south but there was little advantage in this respect, as what wind there was blew directly across the field. Within a few minutes the Abstainers scored a rouge when O'Donnell broke through and dribbled on a fumble by Ackerman. The ball went over the line, and a try seemed certain, but a Y.M.C.A. man dropped on it. The "Y." had the Abstainers on the defensive for some time after this, but the T.A.S. booted the ball away from the danger zone.

In the second quarter the T. A. S. notched another rouge and came close to scoring more. Craig dropped a goal from the 30-yard line but it was disallowed on account of interference. The Abstainers had the ball on the "Y.s" line a moment afterwards but Referee McWilliams called them back. Just before half-time Hickey was sent away for a high tackle. Immediately after the rest, Fitzgerald was also ruled off and for five minutes the Abstainers were short two men. At that, however, the T. A. S. held their own, although Derocher was forced to rouge, giving the "Y." their only point of the game.

The Y.M.C.A. made a big effort in the last quarter to win out and the finish was exciting. The Abstainers added another rouge, but after that their opponents came back strong and made things interesting. They were held off, however, and the ball was in mid-field when time was called. During the last quarter McGill and Latimer were penalized for scrapping.

The T.A.S. made a creditable showing considering that two-thirds of them were playing the game for the first time, and that they never had a practice together.

TOM LONGBOAT WINS WARD MARATHON FOR THIRD TIME

Toronto, Oct. 12. — Special.—Tom Longboat is winner of the Ward Marathon Cup for the third consecutive time, the trophy now passing into his permanent possession. In the presence of a great gathering of 20,000 within the exhibition enclosure the Onondagan romped in an easy winner, he having his closest rival, Jack Roe, West End Y.M.C.A., by eight minutes. The Indian was given a tremendous ovation as he entered the western gate, and as he circled the track and swung down the stretch in front of the grand stand there was a deafening roar of applause. An enthusiastic Irish-Canadian Club member thrust a Union Jack and a green ensign of Ireland into his hands, and Tom finished fresh and strong, with a fine spurt. A crowd, wild with enthusiasm, surged over the track and the winner was only rescued from their clutches by being bundled into an automobile. He was cheered again and again.

The Indian covered the distance of 19 1-4 miles in 1 hour, 51 minutes, 29 seconds.

THE PRACTICE OF T.A.S. ATHLETES

To Be Held To-night—Entries For O.A.C. Meet

The members of the T.A.S. Rugby and track team are requested to turn out for practice to-night at 7 o'clock at the rink. The officials desire to find out all those who will enter in the events of the Otonabee Athletic meet on Wednesday night. Mr. L J Picard will be at the rink to take the entries.

DIDN'T KNOW "BOOK."

Field Marshall Was Challenged and Stopped by Soldiers.

Lord Roberts, who attended a reception one day at Quebec dressed in a quiet grey suit, and looking very much like an ordinary gentleman, attempted to pass in his carriage the corner turning up from the Garnde Allee to the Citadel. The mounted troops failed to recognize him and the carriage was stopped.

In vain did the famous field marshal attempt to explain who he was, and the redoubtable warrior jumped out and began to tramp home. His lordship, however, had not gone far when he was recognized by Chief Detective Duncan of Toronto and Detective Carrington of Montreal, who were passing in their special automobile.

In a moment they invited the great soldier to join them, which he did, shaking hands with the detectives in great glee.

Lord Roberts conquered the heart of one small Quebec lad during his stay there. The youngster had a camera and had vainly tried to get a snap shot of his hero. One day he got the chance. He got directly in front of the field marshal, who, when he saw what the little fellow was after, stood still, straightened up and lifted his hat.

"Get a good one," he said, and waited patiently. Then he added, "Now, don't forget to send me one."

Shivers In Summer Time.

A man, humming at his work, reached up and took a heavy short coat off a nail, adjusted it over his sack coat, turned up the collar and buttoned it up tight.

Then he pulled his cap down on his head, pulled a pair of fur-lined leather mitts snug over his hands, and took up a heavy box.

"Phew, but it's cold," he exclaimed, "but I'll have a chilblain."

A few feet from his people on the street were walking about, wilted under a heat of 91 degrees.

The man in question is a foreman in one of the cold rooms of a cold storage company where 230,000 cubic feet is devoted to storage of perishable products, the brine circulation system being used instead of ammonia. Chickens frozen stiff, have roosted 3 below zero there for thirteen months. Butter, eggs and produce are mainly stored.

The degrees of cold vary from 10 above zero to 3 below.

While the mass of citizens of Toronto have been going about with parched tongues, clinging clothes and lowered pulse, moving in a blistering atmosphere leading to sunday quick runs for the place where ice is sold in drinks, the men in the cold storage places have had to wrap up to keep warm, and even then they weren't warm.

It might be a good idea to cut this out and read it when the sun again gets the range.

TO-NIGHT

ON THE STROKE OF TWELVE

THE MYSTERIOUS

"MR. E"

Of The Peterboro Examiner

Commences his Sleuth-Defying Operations— The Prize Money for his capture has reached $208.00

IN GOLD

Sharp at Mid-night to-night the Mysterious one about whom all Peterborough has been talking for weeks, will start out from the vicinity of the Examiner Office, before doing so he will appear before a committee of prominent local persons and swear upon oath to conduct his duties honourably. Let everybody join in the fun. Look out for "Mr. E's" McLaughlin-Buck Automobile.

Messrs. O'Connor and Green have made arrangements with Mr. G. L Stevens, 631 George St., City, representing the McLaughlin-Buck Automobiles for the use of one of his cars during the competition, keep your eye on it as some interesting clues may come your way.

REMEMBER

From the time of "Mr. E's" escape to-night he will mingle with our people, visit public buildings, talk to prominent local figures and still attempt to conceal his identity. Tackle every stranger you meet.

Clever Character, Impersonation is what this shrewd knowing man will depend on to evade detection.

Are Peterborough people sharp enough to catch him redhanded? We think so.

Everybody will be asked:

"DID YOU NOTICE HIM"

NORTH BAY HOTEL BURNS.

Atlantic and Two Residences Are Destroyed by Fire.

North Bay, Oct. 12.—At 1 o'clock yesterday morning fire broke out in sheds at the rear of Atlantic Hotel, and the hotel and two valuable residences were completely destroyed with sheds and stables at a loss of about $35,000.

The Atlantic Hotel is owned by a local syndicate, who paid $8,000 for the property. The hotel has been unoccupied of late, as only a three months' license was issued at the spring meeting of the commissioners, and no renewal was granted. Neighbors state that the hotel sheds were used by vagrants for sleeping quarters.

Only the absence of wind prevented the flames from spreading over a wide area, as the water pressure was very weak on account of the intake pipe of the waterworks system being blocked.

Occupants of the residences fled from the burning buildings in their night robes, and very little could be saved. The Atlantic Hotel loss is about $7,000; insurance $6,000. Dr. McMurchy's office, residence and outbuildings were burned, and only the furniture in the front of the house was saved. Loss $7,000, with $3,000 insurance.

H. Trelford's residence and outbuildings were leveled to the ground, and very little furniture saved. Loss $7,000; insurance $4,500. John Ferguson's residence was on fire several times, but was saved.

HID IN VAULT.

Chicago Youth Starved Four Days to Steal $700.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—Edward Wieren, 19 years old, confessed yesterday to the theft of $700 from the vault of the W. & D. Allen Manufacturing Co., where he had been employed.

The youth said that he had secreted himself in the vault four days before the robbery and had remained there without food or water until the day on which he knew the money would be deposited.

After emerging from his place of concealment Wieren pocketed the money, he said, and awaited the opening of the vault door, which had been locked when the money was placed in the receptacle. He then struck down Henry Gibbs, a superintendent, who opened the door, and escaped with the money.

Wieren placed $680 in a Chicago bank. Saturday when he appeared at the bank to withdraw it he was arrested.

PARLIAMENT'S SCOT.

Only Real Highlander In Commons Was Dr. Angus McLennan.

Canadian public life lost a picturesque figure when paralysis struck down Dr. Angus McLennan of Inverness recently. The Liberals of Inverness mourn the loss of their local leader, but a higher tribute to the memory and worth of the dead is the deep feeling of bereavement felt by all the people of the country. Many of the people there, perhaps most of them, are of Highland extraction. Dr. McLennan was a typical Highlander, and blood is thicker than water, and where the public heart is sound, much "thicker" than the narrow feelings of the political partizan.

Dr. McLennan was, perhaps, the only real Highlander in the last House of Commons. He had the fire of the race, their courtly but somewhat condescending manner, their lofty pride, their fearlessness and almost contempt for opposition. To see him stride through the crowded corridors of the House, tall beyond most men and straight as a grenadier, with head thrown back, looking neither to the right nor the left, one could easily imagine that had the Doctor lived in the days of Prince Charlie he too, like so many of his countrymen, might have staked life and fortune on the issue of that fatal day on Culloden Moor.

He often spoke in the House—that is as often as a well-intentioned private member should—and he always acquitted himself well. His style was peculiar and it was wholly his own, for he was a man of too much character to copy another. There was something about it to remind one that the speaker had a medical education, and yet there was at times a peculiar use of words and construction of sentences that suggested that English was not his mother tongue. And then the voice had a wonderful range from deepest bass to shrill, piping notes somewhat like the music in which the men of the hills and heather take so much delight. He was popular in Inverness, so much so that in [illegible] Highlander and a doctor like himself and put it in the Government ranks. At one election Dr. McLennan's majority exceeded a thousand.

ACTING UNDER DIFFICULTIES.

Hamlet's Accident and Line Proved to Be Appropriate.

Some years ago a very amusing incident occurred in a traveling Shakespearian company in Alberta. The hero of the incident was a Shakespearian actor of considerable distinction. Arriving at Calgary, all preparations were made for as elaborate a production as the facilities allowed. The first scene passed off with success and up went the "drop" in the darkness to reveal in a moment "another part of the castle" whereon Hamlet was to meet the ghost of his father and receive from him the dread story of his uncle's crime. The star's position when the lights came dimly on was supposed to be on top of a platform made of four parallels surmounted by a loose flooring of boards, but the stage carpenter in his hurry had failed to fasten that top section down firmly. To the unspeakable horror of all behind the scenes it was noticed that the star's leg had sunk into an unprotected corner of the wobbly affair and was there securely pinioned. But the Bard of Avon supplied at his elbow that night, for in his mental perplexity and the pain of his position he delivered bravely the first line of his part.

"Speak," he cried to the ghost, using the actual [illegible] "speak, for I can go no further."

Cattle Had Rabies.

A colt and a steer belonging to Gordon Hoover, township of Hainhar died recently from a sickness which they foamed at the mouth and showed signs of having an infectious disease. Since then two steers have had to be shot.

Having feared that he might have become inoculated with the disease through abrasions received while handling the animals, Mr. Heaver has gone to the Pasteur Institute in New York and Henry Urmy, who received foam on his face while assisting at shooting one of the animals also has gone to the institute.

The animals are believed to have had rabies. It is not known how they contracted the disease, but it was reported some weeks ago that animals not far from Cayuga had been bitten by a mad dog.

COOLNESS IN BATTLE.

Bismarck's Test of Von Moltke at Koniggratz.

Then he came to speak of the battle of Koniggratz and especially of the "anxious moment" in it before the arrival of the crown prince in the rear of the Austrians, when some Prussian attacks had failed and there were signs of disorder among the repulsed troops.

"It was an anxious moment," said Bismarck, "a moment on the decision of which the fate of the empire depended. I confess I felt not a little nervous. I looked at Moltke, who sat quietly on his horse and did not seem to be disturbed by what was going on around us. I thought I would test whether he was really as calm as he appeared. I rode up to him and asked him whether I might offer him a cigar since I noticed he was not smoking. He replied that he would be glad if I had one to spare. I presented to him my open case, in which there were only two cigars, one a very good Havana and the other of rather poor quality. Moltke looked at them and evidently handled them with great attention in order to ascertain their relative value and then with stupendous deliberation chose the Havana. 'Very good,' he said coolly. This reassured me very much. I thought if Moltke can bestow so much time and attention upon the choice between two cigars things can not be very bad. Indeed, a few minutes later we heard the crown prince's guns, we observed unsteady and confused movements on the Austrian positions, and the battle was won."—Carl Schurz in McClure's.

Ship Collision In a Fog.

Hamburg, Oct. 12.—The German steamers Pretoria and Nipponia have been in collision in the fog off Scheveningen. Thirteen of the Nipponia's crew, including the captain, were drowned. The Pretoria was not damaged.

EIGHTY YEARS OLD

Joseph Bankson, a Prominent Insurance Man and Much Esteemed Citizen of Bethany, Ill., Strongly Recommends

VINOL FOR OLD PEOPLE.

"I am past eighty years of age and for some time I had been losing strength and suffering from a chronic cold and lung trouble, until I was seriously ill and could not go out of doors. My son sent me some Vinol. I commenced to take it and it has simply worked wonders for me. I feel better and stronger than I have for years, and my cough is all gone. There is no other medicine equal to Vinol to build up health and strength for elderly people." Joseph Bankson, Bethany, Ill.

This is because Vinol is the best cod liver and iron tonic in the world. It creates a healthy appetite, strengthens the digestive organs, makes rich, red blood and replaces weakness with strength. The beneficial effect of Vinol in cases of feeble old people is simply remarkable.

We invite all old people, delicate children, weak, run-down persons, convalescents, or those suffering from chronic colds, coughs or bronchitis in this vicinity to try Vinol on our offer to return their money if it does no good. We make this offer to show our faith in Vinol. McDermid & Jury, druggists, Peterborough, Ont.

GEO. SPOTTON, Principal

LIBERAL LABOUR LEGISLATION RECEIVES ATTENTION IN MR. STRATTON'S THIRD ADDRESS TO PETERBOROUGH ELECTORS

To the Electors of West Peterborough,—

In my addresses previously issued, I aimed to specify what had been accomplished by the Liberal Governments of Ontario and the Dominion in promoting the local interests of this riding, and what had been done to promote the progress and prosperity of Canada as a whole.

The records of the Liberal Governments in these two respects are closely connected with, and have a large bearing upon what the Government has done for the promotion of an interest which lies at the foundation of national development and progress—an interest which cannot be helped or injured, as a whole, without benefitting or impairing the general national condition—I refer to the interests of Labour.

The Liberal Government of the Dominion has, ever since it assumed the responsibility of administration, showed an earnest and practical interest in the cause of Labour.

This interest has been exhibited in both specific acts of legislation and administration, and by its general policy; the two combined having the effect of creating conditions eminently favourable to the welfare of the working man.

The Liberal Government has, while recognizing the rights of all classes of the community, done much in a direct way to benefit Labour without undue assumption of protection or patronage, feeling that the working classes as a body asked no favours above any other section of the community—that all they sought was fair play, and concession of their rights as citizens, and a due share of consideration in the legislative and administrative functions which Parliament and the Government are empowered to exercise.

Before referring to the direct acts and provisions in the interests of Labour, I might point out that the general administrative policy of the Liberal Government, while promoting the general welfare, has incidentally benefitted the wage earner.

The tariff adjustment made by the Liberal Government, by cheapening the raw material used in industrial operations, by removal or reduction of duties, directly benefitted the manufacturing industries of the country, and, through them, the working population. The interests of Capital and Labour, rightly adjusted, are so bound up together that what helps or hurts one helps or hurts the other.

When manufacturing industries are prosperous and busy, Labour is well employed at good wages; and under the Liberal policy of improving the condition of industry, the growth has, as everybody knows, been astonishing.

In 1896, the exports of Canadian manufactures amounted to only nine millions of dollars; the first full year of Liberal Government they increased a million and a half, and every year since there has been an increase of from two to three millions till last year, when there was a sharp advance of five and a half millions to a grand total of exported manufactures of $28,507,124, three times the figures of twelve years previous.

The capital invested in Canadian manufacturing establishments increased from 446 millions in 1900 to 833 millions in 1905—the latest census figures.

In the same period the wages paid to labour in manufacturing establishments, increased from 113 millions in 1900 to 162 millions in 1905, an increase of ten million dollars a year.

In the benefits of this great growth of manufacturing industry, Labour and its interests had its share.

In their tariff adjustment the Liberal Government, by lessening or removing tariff obstacles to the provision of supplies and machinery required by the miner and the farmer, stimulated these industries into greater activity, with the result of larger and more profitable and productive operations—an increased output swelling the traffic of shipping and railways; and in every step of these advances Labour had its share of activity and reward.

So the vigorous immigration policy of the Liberal Government, which has increased the population of the West to over a million, has increased our home market, and created new and enlarged demands upon the eastern manufacturer, with, of course, increased demands for the assistance of labour.

Every man who toils knows that in the past twelve years, the conditions of the labouring man and artizan has been splendid—employment plentiful and wages high.

Not only has the prosperity that has attended the application of the general policy of the Liberal Government conduced to the bettering of the condition of the wage-earner in pocket and property, but the specific Labour legislation of the Liberal Government has safeguarded his rights, protected his person, and promoted his health.

A brief reference to the specific provisions made in the interests of our working people, will show that the Liberal Government's policy in this regard has been of the most energetic, progressive and liberal character; and will also sustain the claim that practically all the legislation enacted—with the single exception of "Labour Day"—has been passed and applied by a Liberal Government of the Dominion within the past twelve years.

Prior to the elections of 1896, the Conservative Government appointed a commissioner to investigate the existence of an alleged sweating system. He reported that there was no such system.

When the Liberal Government came into power it looked into the matter and found that an odious sweating system, ten years old, existed in connection with government contracts for Mounted Police clothing, etc.—men, women and children forced to work long hours in foul, stuffy rooms, at starvation wages. Regulations to put a stop to this white slavery were adopted by the Liberal Government, and have since been carried out with successful results.

This condition of things led to the Liberal Government's fair wage policy, applied to all Government works. It required that every Government contractor must give a fair day's wage for a fair day's work—he must pay the "going" wages in the district where the work is being done.

In contracts for uniforms of soldiers, mounted police, and letter carriers and other uniformed officials, it is provided that work must be done under sanitary conditions, that current wages shall be paid for work done, in proper hours of labour, and a fair wage officer was appointed to see that these conditions are complied with.

In scores of cases where contractors have defaulted in payment, the Government has paid the workmen, thus saving them from loss, and deducted the amount from what was due the contractor.

In 1900 the Liberal Government did what the Conservatives had merely talked about for years—especially before the elections of 1889, 1891 and 1896—established the Department of Labour, directly identified with the interests of working men and working women, the greatest single factor in the building up of the Dominion of Canada.

In addition to all the benefits accruing to Labour through the working of this department, the greatest compliment ever paid to Labour consisted in erecting this Department into an independent Department under an independent Minister of Labour, as we have Ministers of Finance, of Railways, Trade and Commerce, the Premier Minister of Canada declaring that the Department has enough work, and is important enough to require, and have, the whole time, energy and attention of a Minister of the Crown.

The splendid record of the Department of Labour for the past eight years, is a foretaste of what will be accomplished under the added dignity and efficiency represented by a responsible Minister, and under a continuance of Liberal administration.

Under the Conciliation Act of 1900, for the settlement of Labour and Capital disputes, within only four or five years many threatened strikes, some of them of ominous character—like that of the Valleyfield cotton mills—were settled through the Act, and disastrous idleness prevented in the case of 15,000 or 20,000 employees. The saving in capital and wages amounted to thousands of dollars.

An expansion of this legislation was the Act known as the Lemieux Act, to aid in the prevention of strikes and lock outs in all industries connected with public utilities, which makes compulsory an investigation before a strike or lock out can be legally declared.

This extremely beneficial act together with the Conciliation Act of 1900, has been instrumental in saving, to both employers and employees, hundreds of thousands, if not millions, of dollars, in lost business and wages, and in saving immense sums of money, and great inconvenience to the public dependent upon the regular operation of public utilities.

Up till August of this year, the Lemieux Act has been invoked in over forty cases affecting 40,000 employees, and millions of capital, and in only two cases have strikes followed investigations. The Dominion Trades and Labour Congress held in Winnipeg in September last year, voted 59 to 22 in favour of bringing all trades under the Act.

The Railway Labour Disputes Act of 1903, provides for an inquiry under oath into the causes of disputes between railway companies and employees. The result is that railway strikes and the public inconvenience attendant upon tie-ups of large systems are rare, though conciliatory legislation to prevent all strikes, seems to be hardly possible.

The Liberal Government was the first in Canada to pass—in 1897—a law prohibiting the importation of Alien Labour under contract. By appeal to the Privy Council, the Department has proved the Act constitutional; and it has been the means of protecting Canadian Labour from alien competition. In the recent strike of the C. P. R. employees, but for this Act the strike-breakers would have had easy work—the railway shops would have been flooded with idle mechanics from the United States.

In 1905, the Liberal Government procured the passing of an Act making it a criminal offence for any one to induce workingmen to come to Canada on false pretences, and create formidable competition to home labour.

The danger of the invasion of Canada, by the cheap labour of the hordes of Oriental countries, to the detriment of white labour enlisted the interest and intervention of the Liberal Government. The head tax of $100 to exclude Chinese imposed in 1900, was advanced to the prohibitive figure of $500 per head, and additional measures of exclusion were adopted.

Hon. Mr. Lemieux, Minister of Labour, was sent to Japan, and made arrangements for a limitation of Japanese labour satisfactory to Canada, and Mr. Mackenzie King arranged with the British Government for practical cessation of immigration from India of cheap labour.

Acting on the report of a commission which investigated the terrible condition of workmen in railway construction camps on the Crow's Nest Pass Railway, the Liberal Government in 1898, procured legislation permitting the Government to make regulations, providing for the proper housing of workmen in railway construction camps, sanitary conditions, proper medical attendance, and hospitals for contagious diseases, and anything necessary for the comfort and well-being of the men.

Among the legislation enacted by the Liberal Government for the protection of the life and limb of workingmen, in response to the wishes of labour organizations, is an amendment to the Railway Act, requiring all trains to be equipped with appliances, such as automatic car couplers, outside car ladders, hand-grips, etc., so as to minimise the danger of accident, which according to statistics gathered by the Labour Department, amounts to 1000 deaths a year, and three times that number affected with disabling injuries.

A special officer was also appointed in connection with the Railway Commission to inquire into and report the causes of accidents on railways, and the best means for their prevention.

Further evidence of the solicitude of the Liberal Government for the interests of railway employees, is found in the fact that last session the Minister of Railways and Canals had rescinded the clause of the Railway Act, making railway men liable for prosecution for any accident that might be laid at their door, when under nervous strain of such a responsibility and fatigue from long hours without sleep.

The abolition of the sweating system by the Liberal Government, protected women and children, and the investigation made into the excessive hours of telephone girls in Toronto in 1907 brought shorter hours; and inquiry last summer into conditions in regard to the employment of children in cotton factories, will lead to legislation in keeping with the unremitting efforts of the Liberal Government, to protect the wage earner.

Such are the salient points of the record of the Liberal Government in the matter of Labour Legislation and Administration, and no elector, who has at heart the interests of this city and this country, bound up, as they are inseparably, with the interests of Labour in all its departments, can hesitate as to a choice between the government he should support upon this, as upon general questions.

There is no opportunity for comparison of records, for as far as I can recall, there was not a single act of legislation, passed by the Conservative Government in 18 years, in the interests of the Labour element of our population, except the Act setting apart Labour Day as a statutory holiday.

Contrast that with the splendid record of achievement of twelve years I have the honour of outlining above, and no one will doubt the far-reaching and effective nature of the Liberal policy of practical dealing with the interests of Canadian Labour.

I need only add that I am in hearty sympathy with that policy, and if you honour me with election, I shall use my best efforts to assist in promoting the work in this regard of a Government which has done as much in the way of effective legislation and administration in the cause of Labour as in the progressive and prosperity-producing administration of the general interests of all classes of the people of this great Dominion.

Personally, I may claim that I have not been wanting in interest in the welfare of Labour in Peterborough, and elsewhere. As a supporter and member of the Liberal Government of Ontario, which has placed so splendid a mass of legislation in the interests of Labour, on the statute books of the province, I have had my share in doing what has been done; and I have, to the best of my ability, endeavoured, on the more practical and material side, to bring both Labour and Capital into mutually profitable relations, and to contribute, in an humble way, to the material upbuilding of all the substantial interests of Peterborough.

If the electors think that I will be able, as their representative, to give them effective and energetic service, with, as I have striven to do in the past, no discrimination as to class, creed, or political persuasion, I invite, and expect, their support to secure my election as representative of West Peterborough in the Dominion Parliament.

I have the honour to be, gentlemen,

Your obedient servant,

J. R. Stratton

His Work Is Feared

Latest Faked Story, Circulated by the Tory Press, is to the Effect That the Grand Trunk Pacific Are Anxious to Withdraw From Their Contract With the Government---Wish Is Father to the Thought.

LAURIER'S WORK IS TOO GOOD

The Only Way to Embarrass Him is to Make It Appear That He Has No Work to Do — Tories Are In Desperate Straits.

The latest political fake put forward by the Conservatives is that the Grand Trunk Pacific Co. are anxious to withdraw from their contract with the Government.

The Opposition have tried scandal, and it has failed. They have tried the importation of several Provincial Premiers and the experiment resulted in undeniable failure; and now they attempt to cast discredit upon, and embarrass a great national undertaking.

It has been asserted over and over again that the Conservatives were not constructors but destroyers, and this latest canard is a glaring example of the truth of the charge.

What good can possibly result from the publication of such a pernicious fabrication? It carries its own denial on its face. The Grand Trunk Co. deposited $5,000,000 of security with the Government as an evidence of food faith, and even Mr. Foster admitted that the securities were in excess of that sum. Is it probable that the company would forfeit this colossal sum, as would be the case if they withdrew from the contract?

The very fact that the company would be in a position to stand a debit of $5,000,000 before the road paid its way would indicate that the fact of this huge deposit operates as an insurance to the Government that the contract will be lived up to in its entirety. Why should this immense loss be sustained without even a chance to preserve the money? The idea is too ludicious for reasonable men to entertain, but it is no more ludicious or unreasonable than the many methods adopted by the Conservatives to distarb public confidence.

Why all this row about it anyway? If the Government took over the road and operated it this would be exactly what Mr. Borden and his followers say should be done, and the Government would pocket a cool $5,000,000 in the bargain.

It proves the desperate straits to which the Conservative party is driven to, produce an argument likely to influence people.

It has become so abundantly evident that the people have decided to let Laurier finish his work that the only thing left for the Tories was to attempt to take it away from him, or make it appear that there was no work for him to do.

The Grand Trunk Pacific will pay a profit from the drop of the hat—with the driving of the last spike the road will be busy day and night in removing the immense products of the west to a market, and carrying the manufactures of the east to the consumers of the great west.

The Grand Trunk Pacific will be the great highway over which British trade will find its way to the antipodes and Japan. Trade with Canada and countries across the Pacific will be carried over this road, which is shorter by many hundreds of miles than any other crossing the continent, and which brings the markets of Japan and China many hundreds of miles nearer Eastern Canada than any other transcontinental railway.

There were those in the days of the building of the Canadian Pacific who asserted that the railway would not pay for axle grease, but they lived to change their minds.

The Conservatives are men of little faith in the future of Canada, no proper appreciation of the boundless resources of the country, no ability to construct, or courage to face the future, or knowledge to solve the great problems confronting Canadian statesmen.

Canada is to be congratulated upon having at the head of affairs a man of unbounded faith, tried wisdom and honesty of purpose, who had the foresight to arrange for transportation facilities equal to the demands of our growing necessities, and who has the courage of his convictions and stands ready to finish the great work, the crowning effort of a long and useful career, the completion of the Grand Trunk Pacific. The Tories are afraid that Laurier will finish his work.

HE IS NOW ALONE.

Mr. R. L. Borden started out very bravely with Mr. Hazen, Mr. Roblin, Mr. Bowser and Mr. Hanna. He is now left with Hanna, all the others have thought it wise to return to their respective provinces. Mr. Hazen quickly realised that he was out of his element and left early. Mr. Roblin was driven out under fire, and Mr. Bowser arrived at an appreciation of the fact that bar-room stories of a profane kind were not welcomed by the people of Ontario. Mr. Hanna remains over to explain away his insult to British immigrants, which he found difficulty in doing. Mr. Borden's tour resembles a rocket, brilliant at the start, but finishing with the drop of the stick, in darkness.

Roblin In the Deal

Sold Land to Foster Which Was Paid For by the Money of the Widows and Orphans of the Foresters---Foster Raked in a Commission on the Side.

Mr. Roblin's anxiety to help a cause with which Hon. Geo. E. Foster is connected may be explained on grounds of ordinary gratitude. Roblin got his hands on $50,000, being the price of sale of 9,920 acres at $5 an acre, money provided by the Foresters, and dealt out by Mr. Foster with such a lavish hand where his friends were concerned.

This is a case in which Foster swiped a concealed commission on the side of $2,480 for himself. He had just concluded a deal in which Mr. Campbell, Attorney-General of Manitoba, was concerned, and out of that Foster got his hands on $5,000 illegal commission. In the Roblin deal he only got $2,480 on the side. Roblin had to do something for his friends who found him the money for his lands.

Mr. Roblin would do well to return to the west, his methods may be better understood there, in this part of the country we give the cold shoulder to a liar and a slanderer.

The cry from New Brunswick (where $25,000 had been sent by Conservatives into one constituency), to repeat the dose, reminds one of the famous telegram of Sir John Macdonald, to Hugh Allan, "Send along another ten thousand; last time of asking."

In eighteen years the Conservative Government voted $6,000,000 acres of land as bonuses to railway corporations. In twelve years the Liberal Government has not given one acre of land to a railway corporation.

Scandals and Tories

Investigation Reveals That With Respect to the Various Alleged Scandals Which Form the Campaign Cry of the Tories a Tory is Found Connected With One or the Other of Them—Public Records Condemn the Conservatives.

SOME STARTLING EXPOSURES

The Campaign of Scandal Has Resulted in Unbevering Deeds Done in Past Years by the Party of Purity.

Scratch any scandal alleged against the Liberal party or Government, and you will find a Tory near the surface. Agitate, ever so gently, any transaction, in respect of which a graft is insinuated against the present Administration, and a Tory will bob up at once.

TIMBER SCANDAL.

Take first the subject of timber and the so-called scandal as to timber. No sooner was the investigation in hand than it was found the Tories, when in office, had given to themselves and party friends in one year, for nothing, more timber by 4,000 square miles than the Liberal Government had disposed of by public competition to the highest bidder since coming into power twelve years ago.

FREE TIMBER LIMITS.

When the suggestion was made by Foster that Mr. Turriff, when Commissioner of Dominion Lands, disposed of timber for less money than it was worth, lo and behold, the records revealed that that paragon of virtue, Geo. E. Foster, was himself in good old Tory days an applicant for 50 square miles of timber, free.

DIVERTING THE MONEY.

When Mr. Foster intimated that Mr. Brodeur, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, had taken money from one vote and used it for another purpose, behold the Hansard proved that Mr. Foster had done precisely the same thing when in office, and his explanation was "well it all comes out of the same pocket."

ARCTIC SCANDAL.

When Dr. Reid, Mr. Taylor and other Tories in the House made the allegation that $1.03 per man per day for outfitting the Arctic was shameful extravagance, the records showed that when Mr. Foster was Minister of Marine and Fisheries, he outfitted a vessel for precisely the same object as the Arctic and the cost of same, at a time when supplies were cheaper, was $1.30 per man per day.

SASKATCHEWAN VALLEY CO.

When the Saskatchewan Valley Land Co. was referred to as a case in which the Government gave away land for $1 an acre which was worth $8 an acre, it was found that this very land had been given to E. B. Osler's (Tory M.P. for Toronto) company, as a bonus, and he had refused to accept it from the Government upon the ground that it was not land "fairly fit for settlement."

LANDS FOR SPECULATORS.

When R. P. Roblin, prospective Minister of the Interior in Mr. Borden's Cabinet, charged that the Laurier Government had favored the speculator at the expense of the settler, it was found that the official records proved Roblin had sold thousands of acres in Manitoba to the speculators, and utterly ignored the settlers rights.

LAND FOR OFFICIALS.

When this same man Roblin implored his hearers in Ontario to turn out the Liberals and install in power himself and Tory friends because they dealt honestly with the public domain, it was proved that he had sold 6,841 acres of land to a furnace man in the employ of his own Government for $1,633 cash, which land found its way into the possession of another Government employee who sold it for $60,412.75 just five weeks after the Government of R. P. Roblin parted with it for $1,633. Roblin has gone back to Manitoba, and no person is surprised.

JAPANESE IMMIGRATION.

When Mr. Bowser, Attorney-General of British Columbia, made his attack on the Laurier Government, and charged that they had made it easy for Japanese to enter the province, his words carried some weight until Hartley Dewart, K.C., found that Bowser's firm had drawn the agreement between the Japanese agent and the C.P.R. under which the Japs could enter Canada through the back door, by way of Honolulu. Mr. Bowser, who earned the title of "profane babbler" has also gone back to British Columbia.

HALIFAX LAND DEAL.

When the "Halifax land deal" was heralded as a great scandal throughout Canada, the fact that the land was purchased from J. R. Henderson, one of the most prominent Conservatives in Halifax was overlooked. There is nothing heard of this any more.

MONCTON LAND DEAL.

Much political capital was made of the "Moncton land scandal" by Mr. Borden and his followers and this is placed in a conspicuous page of Tory campaign literature. When it became known, however, that the land was bought by the Government upon the valuation of Mr. Sumner, the Conservative candidate against Mr. Emmerson in this election, the bottom dropped out of it, and this scandal died a natural death.

BRITISH DISCRIMINATION.

The charge made that the Liberal Government discriminated against British immigrants in favor of those from the continent dropped to the ground, when it elicited the retort that under the Conservative Government a bonus of $1.75 was paid on British immigrants, and $5 a head on continental immigrants.

LAND FOR THE SETTLER.

The charge that the Laurier Government did not give the land to the settler is not repeated now that the figures prove that the Conservatives gave 56,097,072 acres to railway corporations while in office, and that the Liberal Government has not given one acre of land to a railway company since coming into power.

LAND FOR HOMESTEADER.

The charge that the west was not settled by the farmer but that the Liberal Government had given the land to the speculator vanished into thin air when the figures show that in eighteen years the Conservatives gave 9,922,840 acres to homesteaders, and in twelve years the Liberals have given 25,561,666 acres to homesteaders.

RAKE-OFF ON THE SIDE.

Mr. Foster was loudest in denouncing rake-off on the part of those dealing with the Government. He had little to say after he was found guilty of putting in his pocket rake-off when manager of the Union Trust Co.

ILLEGAL COMMISSIONS.

Mr. Foster likewise denounced the taking of commissions upon business done with and for the Government. His tongue was silenced after it had been shown that he took commissions on the side of $2,480, $5,000 and $2,500 when managing trust funds of the Foresters.

TURN ON THE LIGHT.

Mr. Borden's campaign is based upon the above so-called scandals. Examine the connection of the Tories with these incidents.

Farmers Prospered

Results After Twelve Years Show It Would Be Well to Let Sir Wilfrid Laurier Go On With His Work.

The exports of staple products from Canada during twelve years of Conservative rule, and during twelve years of Liberal rule, show a marvelous condition of prosperity under the present Government. The following table gives the figures under Conservative rule:

EXPORTS 1885 TO 1896.

Bacon and hams	$ 18,827,928
Butter	10,513,348
Cheese	127,611,428
Wheat	45,336,791
Total	$202,291,495

Now compare the above figures with the exports for the twelve years of Liberal rule, and note the great gains:

EXPORTS 1897 TO 1908.

Bacon and hams	$135,156,311
Butter	51,680,086
Cheese	247,790,332
Wheat	212,677,659
Total	$647,304,387

Excess during twelve years of Liberal administration, over last twelve years of Conservative rule

$445,012,902

Would it not be a good thing for the farmers to let Laurier go on with his work?

TORONTO NEWS AND LAURIER.

The Toronto News referring to the period before this Government came into power says: "The sanguine expectations of rapid settlement of the west fell lamentably short of realization. The early eighties witnessed a tremendous boom in Manitoba but the era of inflation was brief and frenzied, and the results disastrous and enduring. Millions of acres of land were granted to colonization railways. There was an immense waste of the public resources upon eager speculators and greedy partizans." This offers a marked contrast to the policy of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, by which not a single acre has been given away to a railway corporation.

The Montreal Star, Conservative paper, refers to T. M. Daly, the opponent of Hon. Clifford Sifton in Brandon, as "one of the most open, aggressive and insulting obstructionists who ever fought an attempt to bring out the truth before a parliamentary committee."

Laurier's Good Work

Showing How the British Preference Has Stimulated Trade Between Canada and Great Britain.

The better feeling produced in consequence of the trade preference given to Great Britain is reflected in the great increase of both imports and exports. The following tables prove this.

IMPORTS FROM GREAT BRITAIN:

1896	$32,824,505
1908	94,382,383

EXPORTS TO GREAT BRITAIN:

1896	$ 62,717,941
1908	126,194,124
Total increase in trade with Great Britain in 12 years	$125,014,061

After glancing at these figures, is it not reasonable to ask that Laurier be allowed to continue his work?

What's In a Name?

"Ah simply calls him dat becuz Ah has sech hahd wuk gittin' him filled."—Judge.

Malicious and False

Toronto Mail and Empire Misrepresents Official Records.

PUBLISHES FALSE RETURNS

Alleges That the Government Paid $5 a Head to North Atlantic Trading Co. Upon Every Immigrant Arriving From Continental Europe.

The Mail and Empire will soon earn for itself the title of champion liar of the Dominion.

Having falsely stated the Saskatchewan Valley Land case, but from a view point which fits in with the misstatements made by Mr. Borden and his followers, this unreliable sheet devotes attention to the North Atlantic Trading Co., and under the heading "Shall we continue" says:

"In 1902, the Laurier Government conceived the idea of paying $5 a head to 'The North Atlantic Trading Co.' for every immigrant coming into Canada from the continent of Europe."

This statement is a brazen lie from beginning to end. The sworn evidence proves it so to be, and The Mail has simply dropped deeper into the mire in which it gropes to find calumny and scandal, to use in its venomous and dirty campaign.

The following table which is copied from a return brought down in Parliament, and is therefore official, proves The Mail to be all we have stated:

FROM CONTINENTAL EUROPE.

The contract with the North Atlantic Trading Co. was made first on November 4, 1899, and not in 1902, as stated by The Mail. The following table shows the total arrivals from Continental Europe from 1899 to 1907, the entire term during which the contract with the North Atlantic Trading Co. was in force:

Year.	Arrivals.	Allowed.	Paid.
1899 and first 6 mos. 1900	32,949	3,433	$ 5,992.35
1900-1901 ...	19,352	7,540	23,817.59
1901-1902 ...	23,739	10,445	35,916.00
1902-1903 ...	37,099	14,873	34,553.33
1903-1904 ...	34,728	12,991	18,983.33
1904-1905 ...	37,255	11,881	87,173.88
1905-1906 ...	44,349	8,741	79,684.54
1906-1907 ...	34,917	1,050	61,234.83
Total	262,881	70,953	$367,245.85

Therefore it appears that out of 262,881 immigrants coming from the countries covered by the contract of the company the Government only paid bonus upon 70,953, which stamps the statement of The Mail as a malicious and deliberate untruth, published for the sole and only purpose of discrediting the Government and bolstering up a cause so weak that despicable tactics such as these must be resorted to.

To show the particular falsity of The Mail's statement that the Government paid $5 on every immigrant coming from the continent of Europe another reference to official figures will be convincing.

Since 1899, when the contract came into force, there arrived in this country 330,152 immigrants from the continent of Europe; at $5 a head the sum paid would amount to $1,650,760, and according to The Mail's own figures only $367,245 was paid; therefore it is clear that the Government only paid bonus on 70,953 out of a total of 330,152 immigrants coming from the continent of Europe.

FOSTER ALSO LIED.

The Mail incidentally gives the lie to Mr. Foster, who in the House stated "that the Government paid $5 a head upon every immigrant arriving in the country. On this basis the Government would have paid out $3,577,565, because 1,115,517 immigrants arrived during the time the North Atlantic Trading Company's contract was in force.

What does The Mail hope to gain by trying to deceive the people? All the effect is to demonstrate what an unreliable, foolish paper The Mail is.

Leading to Crime.

"Some years ago in Hartford," said Mark Twain, "we all went to church one hot, sweltering night to hear the annual report of Mr. Hawley, a city missionary who went around finding people who needed help and didn't want to ask for it. He told of the life in cellars, where poverty resided; he gave instances of the heroism and devotion of the poor. When a man with millions gives, he said, we make a great deal of noise. It's a noise in the wrong place, for it's the widow's mite that counts. Well, Hawley worked me up to a great pitch. I could hardly wait for him to get through. I had $400 in my pocket. I wanted to give that and borrow more to give. You could see greenbacks in every eye. But instead of passing the plate then he kept on talking and talking and talking, and as he talked it grew hotter and hotter and hotter, and we grew sleepier and sleepier and sleepier. My enthusiasm went down, down, down, down—$100 at a clip—until finally, when the plate did come around, I stole 10 cents out of it. It all goes to show how a little thing like this can [illegible]"

He Changed Many Things

From a Condition of Stagnation and Discontent Laurier Made a Prosperous and Contented Country.

In 1896, when the Laurier Government came into power, the most disgraceful condition of affairs prevailed in this country. Manufacturers were discouraged, farmers were dissatisfied, the northwest was empty, the annual expenses were growing, the public debt was increasing, the revenues were diminishing. Many grave scandals had been brought home to members of the then Government, who were fighting among themselves.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier came into power, and gathered about him some of the brightest intellects in the country. What was the result—manufacturers were flooded with business, farmers became contented and prosperous, the northwest was peopled by sturdy cultivators of the soil, the public debt was kept on an even basis, the revenues increased, and from that day to this no charge of corruption has ever been made against any member of the Government.

In 1900 the people saw it was good to let Laurier go on with his work. In 1904 they issued to him a mandate to build the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, and in 1908 they see it is good to let him go on and finish his work. The people are satisfied, and therefore there exists no necessity for a change of government. Neither will there be any.

Lucky Future Generations.

There is a saying of Carlyle that the greatest hope of our world lies in the certainty of heroes being born into it. That is indeed a glorious certainty, but the reference might be enlarged. Birth itself, we venture to say, not of heroes only, but of the generations in their succession, is the infinitely hopeful thing. It is the guarantee that the world will never grow old; that it will never stand still; that no halt is to be called in its eternal progress.

Twenty-five years ago it was difficult to sell spring wheat flour for pastry at any price.

People didn't want it—they were using soft, winter wheat flour, and saw no reason for changing.

But hard wheat flour was persistently pushed and prejudice has been overcome. The women tried it, succeeded with it and appreciated it.—To-day hard wheat flour is the favorite for pastry as well as for bread.

The flour that is doing the most for the reputation of hard wheat flour is the brand known as.

Ogilvie's Royal Household

It is hard wheat flour at its best—milled by modern methods, retaining all of the good of the wheat and none of the bad—it is without an equal for every kind of baking in which flour is used.

Talk to your grocer about it—if he isn't enthusiastic it's only because he isn't informed.

ACCEPTED HIS ADVICE.

Then the Tailor Was Sorry He Tackled the Lawyer.

The young lawyer had waited many days for clients, and still they did not come. His bills were mounting higher and higher, and, sad to say, some of his creditors were becoming impatient. At this very minute his tailor, whom he owed for last winter's overcoat, was sitting beside his desk uttering all sorts of dire threats.

"I'll pay you when I can," he said.

"Well, that doesn't satisfy me," retorted the tailor. "What would happen, do you think, if I were to take this matter to the courts and sue you?"

"You'd get judgment, of course," said the young lawyer.

"Then, in your opinion, you haven't a leg to stand on," insisted the tailor.

"Not a leg," returned the briefless youth.

"Very well, then, I shall proceed at once," said the tailor, rising.

"I certainly advise you to," said the lawyer, with a gleam in his eye.

"I shall most certainly accept your advice," retorted the tailor sarcastically.

"Good!" said the lawyer. "What is the amount of your bill?"

"Sixty-eight dollars and fifty cents," said the tailor.

"All right," said the lawyer. "Hand over six fifty, please."

"Six fifty!" said the tailor. "What for?"

"You have just consulted me in the matter of a suit at law and have stated that you accept my advice. My charge for that is $75, and the six fifty is the difference between your bill and mine," said the lawyer. "If I don't hear from you by noon tomorrow I shall put the matter in the hands of my attorneys. Good morning, sir!"

And the tailor went out, marvelling much that so ingenious a young gentleman should be a member of the great army of the unemployed.

$50,000 FOR PIPE LIGHT.

Discarded Lottery Tickets Have Brought People Wealth.

How curiously history can repeat itself is proved by the story told of Charles Gregory, a negro engaged at a music-hall in the Faubourg Montmartre, Paris. A few weeks ago Gregory called at a shop to purchase tobacco, when the shopkeeper jokingly offered him a half-burnt lottery ticket, which had been thrown away by a previous customer, and told him that he was welcome to the prize. The negro took the proffered ticket with a smile and a "Thank you," and has just had the satisfaction of learning that he owes a prize to the jocular generosity of the tobacconist.

Some years ago a very similar piece of good fortune fell to the lot of a poor widow who kept a small shop in a Berlin suburb. One evening, as she was serving a customer, a working man stepped into the shop and asked permission to light his pipe. Drawing a piece of paper from his pocket he twisted it up, and, after lighting his pipe, threw down the spill and walked off with a word of thanks.

When sweeping the floor the following morning the widow took up the charred paper out of idle curiosity, and unfolding it, saw that it was a lottery ticket, only a portion of which had been burnt. She folded it up, put it away in her pocket, and had almost forgotten it, when the result of a large lottery-drawing caught her eye in the paper.

She then remembered the crumpled ticket in her pocket, and on producing it found to her amazement and delight, that it had won a prize of $50,000. She claimed the prize, and although she advertised widely for its original owner, with the intention of sharing it with him, she has been left in undisturbed possession of her fortune.

A Trying Moment.

Professor Leopold Schroetter was called to see the Crown Prince Frederick in 1887 before Sir Morrell Mackenzie had reached San Remo. The prince, evidently suspecting the worst, turned to Schroetter after the examination and said, "I request the truth as to my ailment." Schroetter hesitated and made an effort to direct the conversation in another direction, but Frederick insisted. "I am a soldier," he said, "and can look death in the eye. I ask you now plainly, to the point. Is my complaint cancer?" Schroetter could hardly contain himself, and years after the scene when he recalled it he spoke of it as the most painful in his life. He conducted the crown prince to a chair and asked him to be seated. Then he said, "Your imperial highness, you are suffering from a serious complaint, and it is possible that it may develop into carcinoma, but that cannot be determined positively at this moment." Frederick became deathly pale, but never for a moment lost his self control and smiled grimly when he thanked the physician for his honesty.

INSISTED ON JUSTICE.

Would One Had to Suffer to Satisfy the Judge's Conscience.

As a burglar was trying to break into a house of a citizen of an oriental city the framework of the second storey window to which he clung gave way, and he fell and broke his leg. Limping before the justice the next day, he indignantly demanded that the owner of the house be punished.

"You shall have justice," said the judge.

The owner, being summoned, claimed that the accident was due to the poor woodwork and that the carpenter, not he, was to blame.

"That sounds reasonable," said the judge. "Let the carpenter be called."

The carpenter admitted that the window was defective. "But how could I do better," said he, "when the mason work was out of plumb?"

"To be sure," replied the judge, and he sent for the mason.

The mason could not deny that the coping was crooked. He explained that while he was placing it in position his attention was distracted from his work by a pretty girl in a blue tunic who passed on the other side of the street.

"Then you are blameless," said the judge, and the girl was sent for.

"I admit," said she, "that I am pretty, but that's not my fault, and if the blue tunic attracted the mason's attention the dyer, not I, is responsible."

"That's good logic," said the judge. "Let the dyer be called."

The dyer came and pleaded guilty.

"Take the wretch," said the judge to the thief, "and hang him from his own doorpost."

The people applauded this wise sentence and hurried off to carry it out. Soon they returned and reported that the dyer was too tall to be hung from his doorpost.

"Find a short dyer and hang him instead," said the judge, with a yawn. "Let justice be done at any cost."

ROYAL AUTHORS.

Many European Monarchs Have Written Books of All Sorts.

It is a noteworthy fact that many members of the reigning houses of Europe cannot resist the fascination of writing books, and strive to have their names inscribed on the roll of fame as litterateurs. In many cases, however, with the exception that the books have been penned by a royal hand, they have no other feature to commend them. But, on the other hand, many could write books with ability on any subject. The Queen of Roumania, who writes under the pen-name of Carmen Sylva, the most prolific of royal writers, is a poet, dramatist, novelist and magazine writer. The King of Italy writes books solely on the subject of numismatics, and his wife is noted as a poet. The German Emperor has distinguished himself as a dramatist and poet, while his daughter, the Crown Princess, is a magazine writer. The Queen of Spain also wrote a drama before her marriage. Her mother, Princess Henry of Battenberg, has written several historical plays. The Queen of Portugal devotes her attention entirely to writing novels. Among others of importance who have contributed "copy" is the Emperor of Japan as a poet; Prince Victor Napoleon writes historical memoirs; and the Archduke Ludwig of Austria has written books on travel and exploration.

No Great Punishment.

Jared Wilkins possessed no education and was even unable to read Harold, his grandson of seven years, learned of this for the first time when he asked him to read a story in his new book.

"Can't you read?" he asked in surprise.

"No, sonny."

"Why can't you, grandpa?"

"Because," the old gentleman replied impressively, "I was a bad boy and wouldn't go to school."

"Were you a real bad boy?"

"Very bad."

"And now you can't read?"

"Not a word."

"Well," said the youngster thoughtfully, "it seems to me you got off pretty easy."

King's Counsel.

King's counsel differ from all other English lawyers. King's counsel are appointed by patent from the crown, on application from the lord chancellor, and can act as judges of assize when named in the commission. They have in many ways precedence over other lawyers and rank among themselves according to seniority. The robes of king's counsel are of silk instead of stuff like those of ordinary barristers. It is the established rule of the profession that no king's counsel shall conduct any case without the employment of a junior counsel.

Kaolin.

The name kaolin is said to be derived from a hill near Kingtihchin, in China, called Kaoling, where the clay was found in considerable quantity. The kaolin earth was first sent to Europe by a Jesuit missionary of Kingtihchin about 1795. A similar clay was soon afterward found near Schneeberg, Germany, and used in the manufacture of porcelain, thus laying the foundation of the famous Dresden ware. Kaolin is found in Nebraska and in some of the eastern states.

Wrecking Windmills a New Industry.

The passing of the windmill in England, antiquated by such recent power producers as the gas engine and electric motor, has given life to a new industry—windmill wrecking. The old windmill builders understood their business and meant their handiwork to last, and so the demolishing of such structures is no simple task. Many of the old mills stood 100 feet high and had eight or nine floors fitted with four runs of stones and contained tons upon tons of brick. Often these huge mills stand close to other buildings, and accidents would be inevitable if the wreckers did not have experience in their trade.—Popular Mechanics.

LIVES IN A COFFIN.

Massachusetts Lady Is Not First of the Sort, However.

There is a grim suggestiveness in the story that is being told in the papers of a wealthy Massachusetts lady who, for reasons of health, travels about in a glass coffin, 6 feet long and 2 feet wide and high, fitted with mattress and cushions, electric light and a telephone.

Mrs. Tryon, however (for that is the lady's name), is by no means the first person who has had a similar gruesome sleeping chamber. There was, a good many years ago, a Cornish vicar who, during the latter part of his life, invariably slept in the coffin which was to be his final resting-place; and it is said that Mme. Sarah Bernhardt has enjoyed many a refreshing slumber in a very cosy and luxurious coffin, specially designed and made for this purpose.

Gabriele d'Annunzio, the famous Italian author, does not actually make a resting-place of his coffin, but it has, we understand, long been ready for its future occupant; and not long ago we read that Tommaso Salvini, the great tragedian, was seen occupied in varnishing a magnificent walnut-wood receptacle for himself after death.

There are many persons who, while not going so far as to have their coffins prepared for them, appear to find pleasure in anticipating their departure from this world. Before his death Mr. Pottle, a Bournemouth organist, composed an impressive march for his own funeral; Mr. Albert Pell, a one-time M.P., wrote his own epitaph, and had it inscribed on a tablet in Hazelbeech Church many years before his worldly activities ceased; the Rev. William Dodd, who was hanged at Tyburn for forgery, preached an eloquent funeral sermon for himself shortly before his execution; and Signor Leopoldo de Gressig, an Italian doctor, wrote his own death certificate in the last few moments of his life.

UNIQUE WEDDING PRESENTS.

These Gifts Step Outside the Beaten Track of Nuptial Presentation.

There is usually such a monotony in lists of wedding presents that it is quite refreshing to read that among the gifts to a young couple, recently made one at Hampton Wick, was a bag containing three hundred threepenny-pieces, the present of Mr. T. Whenman, late parish clerk of Hampton Wick.

This unconventional nuptial present reminds us of some others, many of which must have been as welcome as they were original. It is not long since the proprietor of the Russian newspaper, Novoe Vremya, dowered his daughter on her wedding-day with the profits for life of one of the advertising pages of his paper, which represented an income of about £3,000 a year.

Another generous parent, Mr. H. Hodgson of St. Louis, gave to the first of his three daughters to find a husband her weight in gold; to the second, her weight in silver; and to the third and last to be led to the altar, her weight in copper.

When the daughter of Frau Becker, a menagerie proprietor, was married to Herr Schneider a few years ago, she took to him as dower an elephant, a lion, and several other wild animals, to form the nucleus of a rival show.

But perhaps the most original of these unconventional gifts was that of a well-to-do London tradesman who presented to his son, on the eve of his marriage, a small and modestly bound volume. Its apparent value was a shilling at the outside; but, on opening it, the lucky recipient found that each of its pages was a banknote for £100. The use of the volume was explained in the preface, which directed that one note was to be removed and spent at will on each anniversary of the wedding-day.

Birds That Play.

Some birds, like all children, like to play, and Australia and New Guinea produce the "bower bird," which builds regular playhouses. These houses are not a part of their nests, but are constructed usually in the shape of covered archways of little boughs two or three feet long, eighteen inches high and about as wide. They use these houses simply for their games, as if they were clubhouses. Generally these playhouses are decorated with bright colored shells and feathers, just as children decorate their playhouses.

A HEALTHY HAPPY FAMILY

Since Child's Life was Saved by Psychine.

Mrs. E. Obediah of Ohswekin, Ont., declares that Psychine saved her child's life. It was then suffering from Pneumonia. This was in March, 1907. On August 11th, 1908, 17 months after, she wrote:

"The condition of my family's health is decidedly good. I give Psychine to each member of my family, eight in number and I consider their good health is due to Psychine which we recognize and believe to be the greatest of Tonics. My husband and myself pin our faith to Psychine because it has done so much for us in times past when hard pressed with sickness. I would be glad if you referred me to any skeptical person and you can use my name for this purpose."

"MY KIDNEYS HURT ME ALL THE TIME"

Gin Pills Cured Them. Free Sample Box Leads to Cure.

Only those who have been tortured with Kidney Trouble can appreciate how Mr. Trumper suffered. Being a railroad man, he was called upon to do all kinds of heavy work. The constant strain of lifting, weakened the kidneys.

I received the sample box of Gin Pills and was greatly benefitted by them. My kidneys were in such bad condition I could not lift or stoop without pain. In fact, they pained me nearly all the time. I have taken three boxes of Gin Pills, working all the time at heavy work on the railroad and did not lose a day.

A BAD PLAN OF TRAVEL.

The Scheme That Worried One Woman on Her Trip Abroad.

"When I hear of people joyfully making plans for their first trip abroad," said a man who has made many a transatlantic voyage, "I am tempted to give them a little bit of advice, based, of course, on my own observations, but particularly upon a remark made to me by a middle aged woman whose seat in the saloon was next to mine on my return trip last summer. This woman had a husband, and it was to him that she referred in answering my question one day. I asked her what she had been doing on the other side. She looked half quizzically, half reproachfully, at her spouse and said, 'Well, my principal occupation was trying to keep track of John.'

"It developed that her concern was not over what John might do in European capitals, but simply related to the difficulty each had in meeting the other after pursuing their several ways in a strange city, she to browse among the shops and he, an inveterate sightseer, to visit this, that and the other spot of interest. Their general scheme, as I was informed, was to diverge, say, in the morning, following their respective bents and arranging to meet at a certain place at a certain time. The plan sounds feasible, but it is experimental, and, as both of them found, it was an experiment that didn't work well. First one would be delayed and then the other, and if you have ever waited for a person in a foreign city you can appreciate the particular variety of anxiety that comes in about ten minutes. There's a feeling that something has happened to the missing person, for one thing, and, for another, there's an increasing realisation that you yourself are wasting time. If you start out to look up the delinquent, the case becomes practically hopeless. The needle in the haystack is easy compared to that search. When the reunion does come at dinner time in the hotel or pension, explanations are received with tears or haughty disdain. Oh, I know; I've been through it."

A Kaleidoscope of Fashions.

For my part I commend a quick changing fashion and could I have chosen my period would have fixed on the fickle years of the first empire, when fashions shifted from week to week, and that, too, with such fine shades of difference that only the most frivolous could follow them. Then the great conqueror brought to Paris finery from the ends of the earth, muslins from India, garlands of roses from Bengal, stuffs shining with gold and silver from Cairo; from Turkey, of course, turbans, and from the far east shawls—shawls from Kashmir, from Persia and from the Levant; shawls particolored, blue—bright blue—and red and green and black and the clear yellow of the sun; shawls patterned with all the interlacings of Asian caprice and fit not only to hang from the shoulders of the fair, but to give a coquette of eastern fancy day long visions of the orient. From the past, for all time as well as all the earth was then Napoleon's, came the fashion of the troubadours—chapeaux a Creneaux, sleeves a la mameluk, cheveux a l'enfant, lending to a very modern period who can say what charming Gothic airs? How do not such revolutions of fashion enlarge the feminine heart and teach it to live in all ages and all climates!—Lucy M. Donnelly, in Atlantic.

The Midget Snakes.

"I see by your paper," says a correspondent, "that you want to find a man who can tell a snake story with the sound of originality to it. Here it is: Nearly forty years ago in the woods of Indiana I captured three snakes, each less than three and one-fourth inches in length, a combined length of less than ten inches, a little longer and a little larger in the middle than an old fashioned wool darning needle. Although these snakes were so small they would crawl around with their heads up and dart out their tongues like larger snakes, I put these reptiles in an eight ounce bottle, and they had plenty of room to crawl around on the bottom of it without crowding. These were not the kind of snakes generally seen in bottles, but genuine snakes. Among those who saw them was a minister of the gospel, and he had not been taking anything to make him see snakes either."—Emporia Gazette.

The Pirates.

The Chicago News fails to name the hero of this story, but has it that the visitor to the home of a well known Hoosier State author found his three youngsters romping in the hallway.

"What are you playing, boys?" he inquired.

"We are playing pirates," elucidated the smallest.

"Pirates? Why, how can you play pirates in Indiana? There are no seas bordering on this state."

"Oh, we don't need any seas. We are literary pirates, like pa."

And five minutes later a chorus of yells from behind the barn told that the hand that wields the pen can also wield the shingle.

Outside of His Practice.

"All that is the matter with you, sir," said the eminent physician after a thorough examination, "is lack of nutrition. You don't eat enough."

"I eat all I can hold, doctor," said the attenuated caller.

"Then you need to have your capacity enlarged, and that's a case for a surgeon. Five dollars, please. Good morning."—Chicago Tribune.

Overstudy.

Books are pleasant, but if by being overstudious we impair our health and spoil our good humor, two of the best pieces we have, let us give it over. I, for my part, am one of those who think that no fruit derived from them can recompense so great a loss.—Montaigne.

WHAT THE KIDNEYS DO

What Booth's Kidney Pills are Doing for Peterborough, Ont., People.

All the blood in the body passes through the kidneys every three minutes.

The kidneys filter the blood.

They work night and day to daily remove about 500 grains of impure matter. If they fail some part of this impure matter is left in the blood, bringing on pain in the back, headache, dizziness, irregular heart, hot, dry skin, rheumatism, gravel, dropsy, deposits in the urine. Booth's Kidney Pills make the filtering right and overcome kidney trouble. Hundreds of Peterborough County residents have found this out.

Mrs. John Wallace, of No. 323 Water street, Peterborough, Ont., says: "I had suffered with many painful and annoying symptoms of kidney trouble for over two years and could find nothing that would benefit my condition. My back was weak and a dull, heavy pain settled across the small of it, extending into my sides and shoulders. I could not sleep at night as the kidney secretions were so frequent and irregular that I would have to leave my bed a number of times. I was dizzy and weak and would usually awake with a dull headache. Booth's Kidney Pills procured at McDirmid and Jury's drug store, cured me when all else failed. I am stronger and feel better generally. I can conscientiously recommend Booth's Kidney Pills, and I would not be without a box in the house."

THE INNOCENT FOX.

Blamed For Offenses Committed by His Wicked Cousins.

We are often told of the fox as a destroyer of grouse, but I should like to hear the story of some eyewitnesses as to his work in this direction. It is very easy to find fox tracks about the remains of a bird and then say a fox did it. I believe that many of the offenses laid at his door are committed by weasels, mink and wildcats, or lynx.

During a part of the year I have known foxes to spend a part of each day digging among potato hills in a retired hollow for white grubs or mice in the adjoining fields and to return to the mountain at nightfall, passing a farm which was almost covered with young poultry out for grasshoppers. From an experience of about ten years in a locality where foxes abound I am convinced that this animal destroys but few, if any, chickens. Our troubs there was, first of all, hawks, then skunks, owls and raccoons. The fox never invaded the chicken coops or broke up the sitting turkeys out at the base of the mountain. Of course in winter a fox may sometimes trap a grouse in the snow at night, but who has ever seen a fox actually catch a grouse? Come, now, brothers of the forest, be honest and own up. I would be glad to learn how the fox does the trick, if any one has seen it done.—Forest and Stream.

Famous Floggers.

Among English schoolmasters whose names have come down to posterity with the dubious reputation of great floggers Dr. Busby of Westminster school is the generally acknowledged chief.

Of him it is recorded that, one of his head boys having insulted a young French viscount who came to the school to demand satisfaction, he flogged the viscount first for the bloodthirsty intentions and next his friend who was the bearer of his challenge.

Dr. Valpy, too, who edited an edition of the classics, was a potent wielder of the rod. Archdeacon Groom, who was a pupil of his, tells a story in illustration of his prowess. One of the boys had been flogged by the redoubtable dominie, and the lad's father came to complain.

"Sir," said Valpy to him, "I flogged your son because he richly deserved it. If he again deserves it, I shall flog him again, and," rising, "if you come here, sir, interfering with my duty I shall flog you."

The parent fled.

A Famous Architect's Trick.

When Sir Christopher Wren was building the town hall of Windsor, a fidgety member of the corporation, so the story goes, insisted that the roof required further support and desired the architect to add more pillars. In vain did Sir Christopher assure him that the danger was imaginary. He knew better. The alarm spread, and the great architect was worried into adding the desired columns.

Years passed, and in later times, when architect and patrons were dead, cleaning operations in the roof revealed the fact that the supposed additional supports did not touch the roof by two inches, though this was not perceptible to the gazers below.

By this ingenious expedient did Wren pacify his critics, while vindicating his own architectural skill to future generations.

I'm Telling You.

Pat Murphy, who was in lodgings, was greatly annoyed by the landlady helping herself to his provisions. She began by taking a piece of his butter, and when Pat came home she said:

"Pat, I'm taking a little of your butter, but I'm not like other landladies—I'm telling you."

Next day it was an egg, and so on. Every day there was something taken and put off with the remark, "I'm not like other landladies—I'm telling you."

Of course there was never any reduction in Pat's bill. One Saturday his bill came to a larger amount than usual. Pat looked at it, bundled up a few things in his handkerchief, walked to the door and said:

"Landlady, I'm hoping. I'm not like other lodgers—I'm telling you."

FEMININE VANITY.

The Jewish and Egyptian Women Were Arrant Coquettes.

Feminine vanity is not the product of our effete civilisation, but is as old as the history of the world.

The Jewish and Egyptian women were arrant coquettes and well versed in the artificialities of the toilet. When Jezebel learned of the approach of Jehu she sought to enhance her charms by painting her face and blackening her eyes with antimony.

Judith before she proceeded on her murderous mission to the tent of Holofernes bathed and perfumed her person with infinite care and wrapped herself in a splendid veil, in whose voluminous folds she concealed her cruel weapon. The Roman belles of the empire dyed their hair blond, red and even blue, according to the caprice of the moment. They used cosmetics of every kind to excess and, like the Moorish women, augmented the luster of their eyes by means of antimony. They also pencilled their eyebrows with a bodkin blackened in the smoke of frankincense.

Wealthy women bathed in asses' milk and slept with their faces poulticed with bread steeped in asses' milk in order to efface wrinkles. Even poets sang the praises of certain cosmetics, and Ovid wrote a laudatory poem on the merits of a preparation which, he asserted, preserved the freshness of the skin to old age. It was a curious mixture and was compounded of lily roots, yolks of eggs, hartshorn, gum benzoin, flour and honey, which were all boiled together.

Pliny mentions a species of face powder made of earth from the island of Chio dissolved in vinegar. Juvenal writes that the countenances of the Roman women were disfigured with this supposed beautifier. Among the Roman ladies it was the fashion to be very pale, as red cheeks were not deemed aristocratic. To attain this desirable pallor a quantity of chalk was rubbed on the face.

Many of the cosmetics in use in Greece and Rome have been discovered among ancient relics. Antimony, the oldest of them all, has been found in the utensils belonging to the stone age.

Beautifully Arranged.

Brown—Well, you've got the quarter. Is your sister coming down?

"I've arranged it beautifully, old chap. I told her it was you first, and she said to tell you she was out, and then I said I was fooling and that it was Charley Jones, and you ought to have seen her hustle to get into a clean shirt waist! She'll be right down!"

Practical Scaling.

"Look here, Lucy," exclaimed Mr. Yardapple; "this is no time to be practicing on the piano. It's time to prepare dinner."

"But, pa, I am interested in scales," pouted Lucy as she pounded the keys.

"Interested in scales, eh? Well, I've a task for you. Go down in the kitchen and help your ma scale fish."—Detroit Tribune.

Their Achievements.

"He had three daughters. One married a French chauffeur"—

"I see! Quite romantic."

"The second married an Indian, a descendant of a chieftain"—

"I see! Quite aboriginal."

"But the third married a plain American business man."

"H'm! Merely eccentric, I should say."—Puck.

Accounted For.

Mrs. J.'s patience was much tried by a servant who had the habit of standing around with her mouth open. One day as the maid waited upon the table her mouth was open, as usual, and her mistress said:

"Mary, your mouth is open."

"Yassum," replied Mary; "I opened it."—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Long Story.

Ascum—Say, old man, what did your wife say to you when you got in last night?

Wrounds—Oh, are you just starting on your two weeks' vacation?

A MODERN PIRATE IS AT LARGE

Fred C. Wheeler Identified as Toronto River Robber.

AUTHOR OF MANY CRIMES

Young Englishman Who Broke Jail at Whitby on Sunday Is Now Known as Man Who Robbed Summer Residences—Wrote Home Saying He Was Millionaire With Own Yacht—Robbed Church.

Toronto, Oct. 13.—"Frank Charles," arrested at Whitby Sunday as a lake-front pirate of no mean capabilities, and who straight-away broke jail by hammering the boards from the ceiling above with the bench in his cell in the town lock-up, has been fully identified by Provincial Constable Burns as Fred C. Wheeler. Wheeler's photograph was found more than a month ago among the effects at the Humber "River Pirates" camp, and it was instantly recognized yesterday by Whitby officers.

Wheeler, who is about 24 years of age, is 5 feet 6 inches tall, 170 pounds in weight and of fair complexion with a slight moustache and was last seen yesterday morning near Oshawa,

FRED C. WHEELER.
Toronto River Pirate Who Is at Large In the Province.

when he was wearing a gray cap and coat with dark trousers and long rubber boots. He had on a grey overcoat with a deep collar.

He is believed to be the man guilty of all the thefts and house breakings laid at the door of the river pirates.

At Whitby he is said to have robbed a church Saturday, and to have held up a lad in the street there with a revolver, securing $6.

Wheeler, who comes from Ipswich, England, had written letters home, saying that he had become a millionaire and had a yacht of his own.

Locked up in the Whitby jail he forced the boards at the top of his cell with a bench and escaped by climbing over the rafters, getting out through another part of the town hall.

The police are searching for him in automobiles and with rigs, but have not yet located him.

Botha Loudest Cheered.

London, Oct. 13.—(C.A.P.)—The Durban union convention opened yesterday. The King sent his good wishes for success of the deliberations.

In the town's formal welcome, Botha was singled out for especially enthusiastic cheering. Replying to the mayor's speech, Merriman said the delegates had put behind them the petty jealousies and memories of a painful past.

THE RUSSIAN VIEW IS ADOPTED

Iswolsky and Grey Agree on Balkan Conference.

CUSTOMS' HOUSE IS SEIZED

Servian Officials Take Violent Possession of Bulgarian Office and Officers of Belgrade Have Offered Another Insult to Austrian Flag—France and Great Britain Said to Be Pledged to Support Servia.

London, Oct. 13.—M. Iswolsky, the Russian Foreign Minister, has succeeded in impressing upon Sir Edward Grey, the British Secretary of Foreign Affairs, the necessity not only that a conference of the powers should be held to settle the crisis in the near east, but that this conference should take under advisement other questions besides those involved in the annexation by Austria of Bosnia and Herzegovina, and the declaration of Bulgarian independence.

This change of front on the part of Great Britain, which has caused great surprise, was announced by the Foreign Office at the conclusion of a long conference between Sir Edward Grey and M. Iswolsky, following a meeting of the Cabinet in the morning, at which Sir Edward set forth the position he had taken and explained the views of the Russian Foreign Minister.

Sir Edward's secretary, in making the announcement, said:

"It may be affirmed with certainty that both Ministers concur in the necessity for a conference, and that the pour parlers at the Foreign Office, following as they do upon the Franco-Russian negotiations on the same subject, has smoothed away some of the difficulties which were in the way. It is now regarded as probable that the latest events in the near east also necessitate the enlarging of the scope of the questions to be discussed at the conference."

Further than this nothing could be ascertained officially as to the questions M. Iswolsky desires to include.

It is doubtful whether Russia is anxious to re-open the Dardenelles for the present, for if this is done it must be for all nations, and Russia is not likely to desire that while her fleet is so weak. Besides, other treaties in addition to the treaty of Berlin, would be involved.

The only point in her previous stand Great Britain is continuing to insist upon apparently is that no modifications of a treaty can be permitted without the consent of all parties to that treaty, and at her proposal the powers have instructed their ambassadors at Constantinople to re-affirm this principle. What end can be served by this is not stated by the Foreign Office, but it can hardly be expected that either Bulgaria or Austria-Hungary will consent to restore the legal status in Bulgaria and Bosnia and Herzegovina before the questions of independence and annexation are considered, as the powers have decided must be done with respect to the Island of Crete."

Berlin, Oct. 13.—The Lokal Anzeiger publishes a despatch from Belgrade saying that Servian customs officials on the frontier have taken forcible possession of a Bulgarian custom house and that the people of Belgrade have burned another Austrian flag on the public square.

Belgrade, Servia, Oct. 13.—It is said in political circles that Great Britain and France have promised Servia their moral support if she maintains a peaceful course, and have suggested also that Servia might be given the Sanjak of Novipazar, with Turkey's consent.

Prince Peter of Montenegro, son of the reigning Prince Nicholas I., has telegraphed to Crown Prince George of Servia, saying:

"I am delighted at the spirited and very practical words you yesterday spoke to an equally enthusiastic gathering of our dear brethren. I cordially embrace you, dear cousin, and pray God we soon may meet on the crimson field."

Vienna, Oct. 13.—The inflammatory speeches of Crown Prince George of Servia, who is inciting the people to war, while his father, King Peter, has observed an attitude of caution, causes considerable uneasiness in official circles in Belgrade, according to despatches received here. There is less fear of a war than of a dynastic crisis and an attempt to place the crown prince on the throne.

The Servian Premier has tried vainly to suppress the crown prince, for it is feared that he may lead bands of volunteers against Bosnia, or do something equally rash.

Gompers Latest.

Washington, Oct. 13.—"In performing a solemn duty at this time in support of a political party, labor does not become partisan to a political party, but partisan to a principle," declares President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor in a circular issued yesterday regarding labor's attitude in the campaign.

The circular is addressed to "men of labor, lovers of human liberty."

Thirty-One Speeches In a Day.

Lincoln, Oct. 13.—Mr. Bryan has returned home from his trip through Missouri and spent most of the day sleeping and resting.

"I made 31 speeches yesterday," he said, "and I felt just as fresh when I made the last one as when I made the first one."

His voice showed not the slightest trace of the tremendous strain upon it.

British House Opens.

London, Oct. 13.—The autumn sessions of the British Parliament was opened yesterday.

The entire ten weeks of the sitting will be taken up with consideration of Government measures, the most imperant of which is the Licensing Bill.

Some Strikers Barred.

Ottawa, Oct. 13.—Orders have been received from Montreal that some twelve of the C.P.R. strikers are not to be re-engaged. It is presumed because they were leaders in the strike.

RALLY OF LIBERALS AT FARNHAM

Farmers of Eastern Townships Gather to Hear Premier.

CAN'T FIND TORY PLANKS

Lack of Platform Charged by Conservatives Is Interesting. He Says, Since They Have Lost Their Own—Five Thousand Hear Speech Despite Sharp Weather—Big Meeting at Granby at Night.

Farnham, Que., Oct. 13.—Nearly five thousand of the French and English-speaking farmers of the eastern townships gathered here yesterday afternoon to greet Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his two lieutenants, Hon. Messrs. Brodeur and Fisher. Despite a decided autumnal nip in the atmosphere the meeting was held in the open air, and such was the interest of the crowd that the whole audience stood around the temporary platform until the very end. The Premier was in splendid form, his voice in good trim, and he evidently enjoyed addressing the crowd as much as they appreciated him. He spoke at first in English and then in French.

Dealing with general politics Sir Wilfrid said no one could find what sort of policy the Conservatives were offering. Last year there was the Halifax platform of Mr. Borden, which proved a stillborn infant forgotten as soon as born, and in this election it was not heard of.

HON. L. P. Brodeur,

The Liberals in 1903 called a convention and laid down a policy, and this was still being followed.

"It is charged by the Conservatives," said Sir Wilfrid, "that we have abandoned our principles. That is a strange objection. If our own followers had made it, it might be reasonable, but why should the Conservatives, when they have nothing better to offer?"

As the charges of extravagance Sir Wilfrid argued that there had been an increase of revenue which fully justified increased expenditure.

Sir Wilfrid was accorded a very warm welcome at Granby on his arrival there from Farnham. He was met at the station by Mayor Milner and a committee of citizens. A procession of 500 torch-bearers was lined up, headed by the town band. Sir Wilfrid and Messrs. Brodeur and Fisher were escorted to a carriage, and the procession paraded the principal streets.

Can Steal Your Own Goods.

Hamilton, Oct. 13.—Jeff Brown, one of the racetrack followers, sneaked a suit out of the shop where it had been cleaned without paying the charges. Police Magistrate Jelfs refused to issue a warrant for his arrest on the charge of theft, and a county constable secured a warrant from a justice of the peace. The arrest was made yesterday morning, and Brown was taken to the Police Court, where he was immediately discharged, the magistrate holding that a man could not steal his own clothes. The shopman, he said, had a right to retain the clothes until the charges were paid, but the fact that Brown had succeeded in getting the suit, broke the lien.

New Medical Officer.

Ottawa, Oct. 13.—Lieut.-Col. Jas. A. Grant, son of Sir James Grant, has been appointed temporarily medical officer of the Western Ontario command, succeeding the late Lieut.-Col. William Nattress.

"Mysterious Mr. E." Makes Good His Escape At Midnight; Has Close Shave From A Young Man On His Tracks Who Challenges His Manager

Starts on His Sleuth-Defying Rounds At the Sound of the Whistle—The Great Game is On—A Visit to the Roller Rink To-night

A DECLARATION IS MADE

Easy Money For Some Fortunate Citizen—Watch For the Smoothest of the Smooth Faced Men On the Street

Sharp on the first stroke of midnight last night the Examiner's Mysterious "Mr. E." made good his escape in the vicinity of the Examiner office. Everyone should now keep an eye open for the smooth-faced individual—it means handsome money prizes for someone.

At 7.30 p.m. last night the Mysterious "Mr. E." entered the Examiner office and interviewed a committee of five business men of Peterborough who identified "Mr. E." and before whom the following declaration was sworn:—

Examiner Office, 7.30 p.m.
Oct. 12th, 1908.

"I hereby swear upon my solemn oath not to reveal my identity to any person or persons or impart any information whatever that might permit any person or persons to claim the whole or any part of the reward offered for my capture.

(Signed) R. C. S.

THE MYSTERIOUS MR. E.

Witnessed—
C. S. GRAHAM,
JOHN MOLONEY,
GEORGE LENTON,
E. M. GLOVER,
G. A. GILLESPIE.

Let everybody understand that immediately they arrest Mr. E. and give him the correct salutation and have complied with the simple conditions, he will reveal his identity to you. Last night one to "Mr. E's" managers was tackled by an anxious young fellow who gave the salutation correctly but would not be entitled to win even if he had had "Mr. E", because he did not produce the latest edition of the Examiner. Mind you he may have had it on him but it could not be seen at the time. We have received the following letter from the sleuth-defying "Mr. E."

Dear People of Peterborough,—Well, at last the fun commences, that is, fun for you, but very hard work, indeed for me. Just fancy for one moment how you would like to be chased by 17,000 people. Although I have played this part times without number, yet on each occasion when I hear that whistle at midnight telling me the game is on, I begin to feel like a guilty criminal. I heard that same whistle last night—had that same feeling. A moment later I heard another blow telling me to be careful as there were some amateur detectives on the grounds. I obeyed instantly and watched a young fellow come running up behind my manager and challenge him. If that same boy had run another 100 yds. he would very likely have been depositing some surplus cash in the bank today. Well, it was pretty cold last night and I simply made my way for bed. To-night I shall visit the Roller Rink. I may skate, I may not; just depends upon conditions. This is what you call taking a chance, and I would have preferred this visit later, but still it has got to be done. I believe I am going to have a hot time with the people at Peterborough all right, but will do my best to give you a great chase. I shall visit the Otonabee Athletic Club's meet at the Brock street rink on Wednesday night, it unaspired re-night."

The only pictures of the Mysterious Mr. E. are on exhibition in Mr. Thos. Barrie's windows, George street. Don't fail to study these.

TWELVE YEAR OLD BOY WAS FOUND SLEEPING IN A DRY GOODS BOX

P. C. Meharry, while making his rounds at 2.30 o'clock this morning discovered a young boy 12 years of age who gave his name as Jones, sleeping in an empty dry goods box in the alleyway at the rear of H. LeBrun & Co's store. The little fellow, covered with packing and old paper, was sound asleep when the officer, his attention attracted by his deep breathing, found him. The boy informed the officer that he had run away from home on Saturday because he was afraid of being whipped, and had slept on Saturday and Sunday in an hotel yard. The little fellow, was taken to the police station and afterwards sent to the Children's Aid Society Shelter. His case is being investigated.

57th Regimental Band Was Secured by the Otonabee Athletic Club---A Splendid Musical Programme

ONE OF MOST POPULAR OF SPORTING EVENTS

The Otonabee Athletic Club have arranged to have the 57th Regimental Band attend their athletic meet to-morrow night in the Brock street rink. Every detail has been completed, and with the band and the Mysterious "Mr. E." present there is an enjoyable evening in store for those who attend. There are now almost a hundred entries for the meet, and the list includes some of the best athletes in the city and county.

You'll be sorry if you miss Babes in Toyland.

COMMUNICATION RECEIVED

Fire Chief Howard has received a communication from Mr. John A Robertson, Toronto, secretary of the Canadian Fire Underwriters' Association, referring to the discussion on improvements in the City of Peterborough that will lessen the chances of disastrous fires. The necessity for looking into the wiring system would appear from the tone of the letter to be something for immediate consideration. Chief Howard, however, has written the Underwriters' Association asking the staying of proceedings until something definite is done. The letter is as follows:

Dear Sir,—I am in receipt of your favour of yesterday and have also received the copy of your newspaper giving the gist of your address and of the discussion that it brought about. It would appear that you have been successful in arousing considerable interest in the fire protection question in Peterborough and I hope that you will continue this good work by endeavouring to arouse the interests of the public and those in authority to the necessity for some stringent supervision of the electric wiring in Peterborough. Our inspectors have repeatedly reported on the bad conditions there, and I think it is likely that some action in the course of a week or two will be taken by the Association in the direction of increasing rates for this defect.

JOHN A. ROBERTSON,
Secretary.

BLACKMAIL IS CHARGED

By Hon. Wm. Pugsley Against Mayes and Read—He Had Refused to be Held Up by Them

NOTE FOR PROFESSIONAL SERVICES GIVEN MAYES

Examiner Special

St. John, N.B., Oct. 13.—Hon. Wm. Pugsley denounces as a sensational attempt at political blackmail the affidavit by contractor May and Read at last night's Conservative meeting by Premier Hazen. The scheme had its purpose. Mr. Hazen declares the sale of the Mayes dredge was made to the Public Works Department for $40,000 more than the department superintendent of dredging said it was worth. Mr. Pugsley says he knew absolutely nothing of the business arrangements between Mr. Mayes and Mr. McAvity until recently, when an attempt was made to compel him to purchase the dredge under pain of dreadful disclosures. He absolutely refused, however, to be held up. Mr. Pugsley explains the note given him by Mr. Mayes as being on account of professional services rendered in connection with several matters in which he was Mr. Mayes' adviser.

Origin Of The Famous Fife Wheat; Springs From Three Heads Grown In Otonabee

Nearly a century ago, says Outing Magazine, David Fife, a Scotchman, of Otonabee, Ont., sent to a friend in Glasgow for a small bag of seed wheat to try in a cleared patch of the backwoods. The friend obtained some seed from a vessel just in from Dantzic.

Unfortunately it was fall wheat and reached David Fife in the spring. Nevertheless, David Fife sowed it in the spring. Only three wheat heads survived till the fall, but those three wheat heads were entirely free of the rust that had ruined his neighbour's crops, and really represented a new variety of wheat, a fall wheat turned into a spring wheat.

David Fife treasured the three heads and planted them in the spring. Such was the beginning of Fife wheat in America. It is thought it must have come originally from Russia, for crossed with Russian Ladoga, by Dr. Saunders, of Ottawa, it has produced a wheat splendidly adapted for the cold climate and long summer sunlight of the Northwest.

THE PETERBOROUGH CAMPAIGN AS VIEWED BY AN OUTSIDER

A representative of The Post was in Peterborough on Saturday, and reported that the political fight there is a warm one. In West Peterborough Hon. J. R. Stratton is putting up a grand fight. The Liberals are splendidly organized and are enthusiastically working for their candidate.

Mr. Stratton is surrounded by a splendid galaxy of local speakers and is conducting a clean campaign. He is receiving the support of many of the leading Conservatives, who realize that he is a man with large interests in the city, and who will look after the interests of the constituency at Ottawa.

The Conservatives, on the other hand, are conducting a campaign of slander and abuse, which has disgusted many prominent Conservatives, and which is proving a boomerang. Gamey's appearance there on Saturday proved a "frost." He did not attack Mr. Stratton, much to the chagrin of those who heard him. It is said that the presence of the member from Manitoulin made many votes for Mr. Stratton, who, it is expected, will carry the riding by a majority of 700 or 1,000 votes.

A BROOM PLANT GROWN IN SIMCOE STREET BACKYARD SUGGESTS AN INDUSTRY FOR CANADIAN FARMERS

A High Price Is Paid For It in American Farmers Who Cultivate It Successfully—Can it Be Raised Here?

LOCAL FACTORY USES IT

An Examiner reporter this morning was shown a stalk of the broom plant, almost matured, which had grown in the back yard of Mr. J. McMillan, Simcoe street. He is a broom manufacturer, having a factory at the rear of his premises, and the plant had grown from seed which had been carelessly thrown out with other waste material. The soil in which it had germinated and sprouted is gravelly and dry. On inquiry, it was learned that the broom has to be imported from the United States and is valued at from $30 to $110 a ton. This sample, although not fully developed, as it was cut down on account of excavations for a new building, is twenty inches in length and could be used as the filler in the manufacture of the broom. It must be understood that two qualities of material are used in an ordinary broom. There is the superior broom plant which forms the outside, and the centre is filled with an inferior article. The gentleman who showed the sample broom plant to the reporter suggested that if it had grown without attention in a back yard, it could, with care, be successfully grown on farms. The best quality broom plants are grown in Illinois, and the farmers are said to realize big profits from it. It is not known whether any farmers have ever tried to grow the broom plant here, but the feeling at the market this morning was that it would prove a success.

Travellers Were Not "Mr. E."

How would you like to be a smooth-faced traveller in town these days. According to the report of one, they need some Rugby pads on their shoulders. A stranger telephoned to the Examiner this morning that he had been accosted by one of Mr. Adam Hall's clerks with the necessary qualifications to obtain the money, but, of course, the wrong man was present.

Again, while conversing with another traveller from Toronto, in front of A. W. Creseman's store he observed a young man scrutinizing him closely. When he walked away he was grabbed by the shoulder and again he had to explain.

A local barber was shaving a man whom he thought was the Mysterious Mr. E. of the Examiner. Unfortunately he hadn't a paper with him, so he states, he clipped a piece out of his chin in order to again recognize him on the street.

Another traveller at the Oriental told the Examiner to-day of having been held up by a young Peterborough man with a flowery name. The enthusiast, however, who had a vision of a fifty dollar gold piece, was sorely disappointed.

MANIAC FIGHTS POLICE ON ROOFTOP HOLDING THE FIVE WITNESSES SPELLBOUND WITH HORROR

Examiner Special

New York, Oct. 13.—At the top of the tower from tower of the Brooklyn end of the Williamsburg bridge a mad thrilling struggle took place to-day, while hundreds of people looking from below, an insane man, who had climbed the tower weighmen, climbed an iron stairway to the top of the tower, 335 feet above the East River, and was preparing for a leap into the river when two policemen climbed up after him. The man turned upon the officers with a rush, and rushed to the attack, and on the narrow footing at the dizzy height, a ten-minute battle took place, which held all the witnesses spellbound with horror. Finally, the man was handcuffed to a policeman, and taken, still struggling, down the tower ladders, trying at every step to throw himself and his captors into space. He was placed in a padded cell.

A KILLBROOK MAN IS CHARGED WITH THEFT OF HORSE AND BUGGY

Claims That He Was Intoxicated and That He Didn't Know Anything of the Theft—Appeared This Morning

P. C. MILLER'S CAPTURE

John Carroll, a man well advanced in years, who lives near Millbrook, appeared before Magistrate Dumble at the police court this morning on a charge of stealing a horse, buggy, set of harness and other equipment from John H. Fowler.

It appears that Mr. Fowler, who lives on Conger street, left his horse and outfit in the New Oxford Hotel yards at 4.30 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, while he attended a funeral. When he returned at 6.45 o'clock horse and vehicle had disappeared and it is stated that some one had seen Carroll driving out of the yard with the outfit. Constable Tom Miller, of Millbrook, was in the city at the time and was notified of the theft. When he reached home he made inquiries, with the result that he found the horse and rig at Carroll's place, but the man himself was missing. The constable obtained a warrant for his arrest, and on going back found the outfit gone again. Yesterday a man named Armstrong found the horse wandering on the road, but the buggy has not been recovered.

This morning Carroll pleaded not guilty and elected to be tried at the sessions, although he afterwards changed his mind in regard to the latter point. He said that he was under the influence of liquor at the time and did not remember anything in connection with the horse and rig. He did not need them, he said, as he had an outfit of his own.

Carroll was remanded until next Tuesday.

NEW BRIDGE OPENED

Buckhorn County Has One of The Finest Structures ---Is Artistic As Well As Strong

WAS CONSTRUCTED BY LOCAL EXPERTS

The splendid bridge which has just been thrown open to the public at Buckhorn is complete and modern in every detail according to a local man who recently saw it. Not only has it every appearance of strength, but its lines have been artistically proportioned and the whole design is one of beauty. Inspectors are now reported to be examining it, and so far have found it practically perfect, even in detail. The contract was carried out by Mr. D. Conroy & Sons, who are said to have executed the work well. Not only is the bridge itself a splendid work, but the approaches are long and add to the appearance of the whole structure. The old wooden bridge is being torn down and also the coffer dam that was raised temporarily while the work on the new bridge was being done.

RAINBOW BRINGS A LOAD OF HOGS TO PETERBOROUGH

Mr. W. A. Stabler & Sons loaded 145 hogs at Buckhorn yesterday to be towed down by the steamer Rainbow to Peterborough for the Matthews Company. The price paid to the farmers was from $6 to $6.25.

IS PAY-MASTER OF THIRD DRAGOONS WITH CAPTAIN RANK

According to militia orders received to-day by Major Young, Mr. E. S. Clarry has been appointed paymaster of the 3rd Dragoons, with the honorary rank of captain. Captain Clarry's advancement has just been gazetted.

FIRE IN MATTRESS FACTORY GIVES THE BRIGADE A RUN

The fire brigade had a run to East City at 11.28 this morning, when an alarm was sent in from Box 24. A blaze had broken out in the picking machine shop of the Peterborough Mattress Company, just east of the Hunter street bridge. The brigade made a speedy run to the spot and despite the fact that a section of hose split, had the fire extinguished in a few moments. Little or no damage was done to the building or contents, so there will be no loss. The origin of the blaze is unknown.

MR. WM. BAILEY STILL TAKES HIS PLUNGE IN RIVER

Mr. Wm. Bailey, a postcard contributor to the local press, still continues his favourite summer pastime of bathing. Despite the October chill that tingles in the blood and stirs us into action, and which has slowly cooled the water, Mr. Bailey is undaunted. According to those who have seen him, he takes his plunge as naturally as if it were the hottest days of July.

MASS MEETINGS IN THE OPERA HOUSE ON NEXT SUNDAY

At the Opera House on Sunday there will be two mass meetings in the interests of temperance reform. The City Templars and Moral Reform League are taking advantage of a number of Toronto clergymen being in the city, and have secured their services. In the afternoon at 4.15 the first meeting will be held. Addresses will be given by Mrs. Hitchcocks, Rev. Mr. [illegible] and Rev. D. H. Spence. In the evening at 8.30 Rev. Mr. Spence will give an address which will be illustrated by stereopticon views, under the direction of Mr. Dyer.

ANNUAL FAIR DAY AT NORWOOD WILL ATTRACT CROWDS

The Norwood Fair's big day is to-morrow, and the Asphodel village will have its usual enormous crowd to swell the treasury of the East Peterborough Agricultural Society. Many local people will go down, and with good weather a success is assured. The horse races should be good. Patterson and Harry Direct will meet in the free-for-all, thus guaranteeing an exciting brush as far as these horses are concerned.

SLEUTHS AFTER THE MYSTERIOUS "MR. E" MANY CHALLENGED

The pursuit of the Mysterious "Mr. E." of the Examiner passed merry on George street this afternoon when many amateur sleuths armed with copies of the Examiner were out looking for the smooth-faced stranger, about which every person is talking. Commercial travellers were "nailed" as soon as they appeared, and the male members of the show troupe in the city were challenged time after time. One gentleman who is here preparing an advertising scheme was followed by a score of the amateur detectives, and the McLaughlin-Buick automobile which "Mr. E." will use was the centre of attraction.

MANY AMERICAN FARMERS ARE SETTLING IN SASKATCHEWAN AND THE GENERAL PROSPECTS OF PROSPERITY ARE BRIGHT AND ENCOURAGING FOR THE SEASON OF NEXT SPRING

Mr. P. E. Rutherford has returned recently from a four months' visit in the West, during which time he was located for the most part at Winnipeg. He was interested in real estate having large holdings near the Manitoba Metropolis. His opinion is that the farmers have done well this season and the feeling is one of contentment with the crop that has been harvested. The grain is now being handled by the railways and from report there seems to be no scarcity of cars, although at times there is a rumour that here and there a shortage is experienced. Referring to real estate Mr. Rutherford remarked that business in this respect had not deteriorated with the temporary slump that had been otherwise experienced. The money is freely offered for property and especially the farm lands are changing hands to greater extent than heretofore.

The influx of Americans who are said to be farmers from the states along the border is swelling the population of the West, particularly Saskatchewan where they are settling in largest numbers. Their presence is helping to strengthen the feeling of security. They are said to have brought with them complete effects and being for the most part experienced farmers they should rapidly develop the country. There have also been increased numbers from Eastern Canada and on the whole the condition is most promising.

Many Visitors

Mr. Rutherford states that there was an unusually large number of people who took western trips for their holidays this year. They travelled through the country, stopping off here and there for the purpose of satisfying themselves regarding the actual conditions.

The weather has lately been satisfactory for fall work and the farmers have taken every opportunity to get it well advanced. The feeling is that next spring the country will start out with renewed energy, and prosperity. The many Peterborough people in Manitoba are doing well and some of them intend to return on visits this winter. Mr. Rutherford before coming home took a trip into North Dakota.

COMPARISON OF TRADE.

Conservative campaigners have suddenly developed a tremendous interest in the progress of trade in Great Britain and the United States, which they declare has rivalled that of Canada. As a matter of fact, says the Toronto Star, in neither country has the percentage of increase in trade been nearly so great as in Canada. But the comparison to be made by the electors is not between Canada and the United States, but between Canada under Liberal administration and Canada before 1896.

The increase in Canada in the last twelve years has been 411 millions. In the previous eighteen years the increase was $66,620,000. In twelve years of Liberal administration the increase was six times as great as in eighteen years of Conservative administration.

At Confederation the trade of Canada was 131 millions. Between 1867 and 1896 — thirty years, of which twenty-five were under Conservative rule—the trade increased by 108 millions. In the next twelve years, under Liberal rule, the increase was 411 millions, that is to say, in the last twelve years the increase was four times as great as in the previous thirty. This comparison is more to the point than a comparison between our trade and that of Great Britain and the United States.

HOW TO GET OFFICE.

The Conservative Opposition in this election are shouting "graft," howling "corruption," and claiming office. Why don't they take the right way to get office? Let them formulate their charges and bring them to the proof, and their way to the Treasury Benches would be wide open.

If one in ten of the cries they circulate were one-tenth proven, no government could stand. But the weak point in their plan of campaign is that they neglected in Parliament to bring implied and suggested charges in such a way that they could be proven or disproven, and an authoritative decision as to their truth or falsity arrived at. In every case where they have been forced into making half-hearted charges of wrong-doing, their pressing of the charge has been equally half-hearted, and in no case has a charge been proven, and in more cases than one the investigation has been abandoned.

None of the wholesale charges of "graft," etc., have been proven, and in the vast majority of cases there has only been loud-mouthed assertion, and no attempt to bring proof.

This won't go down with the decent electorate. The electors are the national jury, and will not convict on hearsay evidence. In a court of law no case is decided on the statement of claim or indictment. There must be investigation, and the facts on both sides brought out.

What our Conservative friends want to do to get office is to bring their charges in such a shape that they can be investigated. Let them prove one in ten, and the electors would do the rest.

But they never think of proof, nor care for proof. Slanders disproved to the hilt are repeated. It has been done in this campaign; it has been done in this riding, and is still being done. In Peterborough and West Peterborough, slanders that no one dares to make publicly, are whispered and retailed with bated breath, intended to poison the minds of electors. Let the honest elector take these yarns with a grain of salt.

GREATER DEMANDS TO MEET

The Dominion Government has provided liberally for the Provinces and increased the annual subsidies from $4,235,564 in 1896 to the sum of $9,032,774 in 1908. The increased amount given to each Province over the amount in 1896 is found in the following table:

	Increased Subsidy.
Ontario	$789,184
Quebec	599,865
Nova Scotia	177,653
New Brunswick	137,865
Manitoba	283,901
British Columbia	279,387
Prince Edward Island	98,920
Alberta	1,212,458
Saskatchewan	1,217,683

The above figures show that the Provinces of the Dominion have had returned to them for use within each Province, large sums paid in to the general Government by way of taxation. The sum of $4,797,110 more than was given in 1896 has been divided among the Provinces in the proportion given above.

BENEFITS OF TRANSPORTATION

Another evidence of the value of Canadian transportation interests. An official estimate of the Department of Railways and Canals states that at the present time one-fifth of the population of the Dominion is winning its daily bread from our transportation interests. And yet the short-sighted Conservative candidate, narrow gauge in his parochial outlook on the national future, condemns the building of the National Transcontinental Railway, which will open a new empire to population and the plough. Mr. Borden, his leader, and Mr. Roblin, of Manitoba, say the line is needed; common sense says the line is needed; progress says it is needed. Twenty-eight years ago there was not a single mile of railway in Manitoba and the West. Today, 8,000 miles are completed and in service. These railways have poured in population to occupy new lands. This population has pumped this year 120 million bushels of wheat from the soil. These railways will ship out these millions of bushels to the market, and in the process will give employment to railway and elevator workers, stevedores, sailors and stokers. Millions of money—new wealth turned up with the plough and gathered by the reaper—will be brought to Canada to enrich the current of commerce. Western farmers will have money to pay for supplies, products of our factories, and in a thousand population centres every workingman's home will owe added comfors to added miles of railway and other transportation. Cause and effect—Canada growing more rapidly than any other country, and Canada, with more railway mileage to population than any other country on earth—go together. In these suggestions of the advantages, future and permanent, of transportation advance, no account is taken of the present and temporary advantage of the expenditure of millions of money — foreign capital converted into a part of the crust of our Canadian continent; millions spent in supplies in Canada — food, clothing and shelter for 60,000 workmen now engaged in building new railway lines. The Little Canadians will have to go a far "way back" to "sit down." The building of the Grand Trunk Pacific will roll the map of Ontario and Quebec 200 miles further north, and give these Provinces breadth and strength as well as length.

BE ON THE WATCH.

Liberals have a double responsibility placed upon them in the present campaign, to an extent greater than in previous general election contests. They have to present the merits of the present Government and that is an easy task and an agreeable one, for it is a pleasure to present to the electors a record of advanced legislation and progressive administration in the form of results that have never before been equalled in Canada. It is a pleasure to present a programme of development which means the doubling of Canada, in territory subject to improvement and development, the creation of a new nation in resources and commercial potentiality, in population and product.

The friends of good government have also to meet the arguments of their opponents, the legitimate arguments as to administration; and specious as these are, and misleading as they are, they are easy to meet. But the friends of the Government have to watch the underground railway campaign, the attacks of whispered scandals, shunning the light of publicity, but poured into the ears of the lone elector. The publicly presented scandals and defamations have not been proved and have therefore, largely spent their force. Energy is especially devoted to the secret canvass on the street corners, in the shops and along the country highways. There the false statements, the broken-winded scandals and the stale platform and press scandals are secretly repeated, and with a recklessness and disregard of truth which immunity from public exposure gives. In such a form of canvass, no man's reputation is safe, no truth respected, no lie too gross to be pressed into service. These secret forms of attack, these whispered scandals and other corrupt methods must be watched for by Liberal workers.

The Conservative machine element shouts "scandal," "graft," and "corruption" in the face of a record, recent and more remote, which does not justify the claims to purity they thus make. When a man professes exceptional honesty, and shows little fruit thereof, he may be put down as doing so for a purpose. The machine element of the Conservatives is never so ripe for close watching as when it shouts "purity of election methods." Colchester bye-election, won by the Conservatives, by the help of money galore, rum shipped in disguised as "Choice Tomatoes," and whisky, is a fresh case in point.

We may not expect to escape the work of the Conservative machine in Peterborough. We had a pretty strong taste of it in the general elections last June, and we have reason to expect in this present contest that the machine is and will continue to be busy. The machine procured the nomination of the present candidate, by what disgusted Conservatives, unconnected with the machine, call a "packed convention." From such methods to begin with, the succeeding methods may be estimated. The safe way is to keep on the watch.

WHAT CANADA IS DOING—IN PART.

Canadians will find an article in the current issue of Putnam's Monthly, a high class literary New York magazine, an illuminative, inspiring and politically significant article about Canada's West. Here is part of it:

"When I went into the Canadian North and West to investigate what had been described to me as the greatest railway-building epoch in the history of any country, I was in reality unprepared to meet with what I found. I discovered sixty thousand men engaged in building lines of steel. I found them working almost night and day; crossing prairies, tunnelling mountains, cutting their way through primeval forests where the sound of the axe had never before been heard; I found a great transcontinental line building as no other line had ever been built before; I found a vast country, almost virgin in its wilderness and desolation, completely webbed with contracted and projected lines. I found, in short, that nine thousand miles of railway are to be built or got under way in Canada in 1908.

220 Towns a Year

"And this was not all. I discovered that during the next year two hundred and twenty-two towns are to be plotted, named and probably settled in the Dominion West. One railway official said to me: 'I will show you how towns and cities are born as they have never been born in any country in the world before; I will show you how within a year or two a vast wilderness, a thousand miles in width, is to be civilized, so that from one town you may almost see the smoke of the next.' And he did.

"This railway-building and town-building in Canada are, I believe, the most wonderful and at the same time the least known of the great projects now under way in various parts of the world. Even Canadians themselves do not realise the magnitude of the work which is progressing before their very eyes. Most of them know more about the digging of the Panama Canal or prospective voyages of discovery to the Pole than they do about the greatest railway enterprise in the history of the world. On the new Grand Trunk Pacific westward from Winnipeg to the Rocky Mountains, a distance of 960 miles, a town is to be located during the next year at a distance of every eight miles, or one hundred and twenty towns for the whole distance. On the mountain division of the same road, which is to terminate at Prince Rupert on the Pacific, thirty-five new towns will be plotted and named. On the main line and branches of the Canadian Northern in Saskatchewan and Alberta, thirty new towns are to be brought into existence, and on the Canadian Pacific in the same provinces thirty-five more —a total of two hundred and twenty towns in a single year.

Nothing to Equal It

"The building of the Panama Canal, the spending of a hundred million dollars on the new Erie Canal, or any other of the present great projects of the earth, is not comparable in human interest with this winning of an empire. It is going on quietly, 'without blare of trumpets,' and it is probable that the world will never really awaken to the full significance of the work until its results are accomplished, and millions of people inhabit the wilderness in which it is now going on.

"The building of the two hundred and twenty towns I have mentioned above is actual, and not visionary. In other words, these towns are not to be plotted and left to vegetate for a decade or so without enterprise. This is not Canadian Government policy, or Canadian railway policy, and in the Dominion they both work hand in hand.

"Five years from now many of these places will have from three to five elevators. And within these five years, according to the estimates I have secured from the best of Government and railway authorities, the two hundred and twenty towns born within the next year will each possess from two hundred to five thousand people. These are the 'plans' of the powers that be. And they will not fall short if money, enterprise and determination count for anything in this building of an empire."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Two weeks' work till election day.

The Conservatives expect to win in Colchester, N. S., with tomato "catch-up."

Editor MacDonald of the Globe is a peacemaker. He has poured "oil" on the troubled waters of Mr. Foster's spirit.

Every day British journals hold up Canada's Ross rifle as a splendid arm of precision, and superior to the service rifle, the Lee-Enfield.

We have a picture of the Fowlers and Rogers, the Roblins and Campbells standing around with their little pails, if ever Mr. Foster gets a chance to "turn on the tap."

There are 221 seats in the Dominion Parliament. Of these 216 will be filled on Oct. 26th. In five constituencies, the Yukon, Prince Albert and three British Columbia ridings, the elections will be held later.

The Toronto World is not helping Mr. Borden much in this campaign. To-day's World's editorial page hasn't a single line of reference to Dominion politics. Mr. Borden's public ownership platform does not "enthuse" Mr. Maclean.

The Toronto Telegram in its report of the Saturday night Conservative meetings, calls Messrs. Bradburn and Kendry, the "brains of the campaign." Where do Mr. Burnham, candidate, and Mr. R M Waddell, secretary, come in?

The Free Press in concluding a report of a Conservative campaign meeting in Winnipeg says: "With preparation flowing down his face Mr. Roblin described, in the most approved Roblinesque, the members of the Government as the most degraded and corrupt mortals upon whom the sun had ever shone. In any other country in Great Britain, in any State of the Union, they would be speedily placed in jail." Since he tattued tail on Ontario, Mr. Roblin has found his voice and his courage. Those who heard him in Peterborough will recognize the picture the Free Press presents.

(Applause). He (Mr. Stratton) had put his money into industries that gave employment to industry, and whose earnings went to make a market for the people of South Monaghan, and it was to this kind of enterprise, to which the policy of the Government during the past twelve years had opened up the way to successful prosecution, that had brought benefit to the farmers of the country, so that as they knew, the farm that ten or twelve years ago was valued at $50 or $60 an acre, would to-day command $100 an acre. The leading active citizens of the City of Peterborough, he said, almost without excetpion, were for Mr. Stratton, and even in that city he believed Mr. Stratton would be given a handsome majority. He asked them to consider the difference between the candidates, the one a man of experience, of ability, of tried and proved worth; the other, Mr. Burnham, who had never mingled with the people and knew nothing of their needs, and who would be like a child on coming into Parliament. He had not the ability; he had no knowledge of our needs, and he would have no power or influence to help us if he were elected. Hon. Mr. Stratton was a man who when he went out after some advantage for his constituents would fight for it until he got it, and that was the kind of a man who could give them profitable service in the House of Commons. He had not called in the big guns of his party to help him; he was fighting his battle alone, among his friends and neighbours, relying on their knowledge of him; on the efforts he had made in the past to serve them faithfully, and on their confidence in his ability to serve them worthily and to their best advantage. (Applause). He asked them to join in the work of making Mr. Stratton's election sure by a decisive majority, and was sure that they would do so, and that they would never regret it. (Applause).

Mr. W. H. Meldrum.

Mr. Meldrum was glad to see by the faces before him that prosperity had not departed from South Monaghan. He was pleased to be able to say a few words in favour of their candidate, Hon. J. R. Stratton. Mr. Stratton's record as their representative at Toronto had been that of a painstaking, careful, industrious and capable man, and he was satisfied that with his more matured ability, and his widened experience, he would prove, when sent to Ottawa, as he would be (cheers), equally capable, efficient and energetic in his work on their behalf, in that larger office of usefulness. There was, he said no question of greater importance to the farmer and the manufacturer, whose interests were in a sense identical, being dependent upon one another, than that of the transportation facilities by which commercial communication was created and maintained. One of the first things that appealed to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, with his broad mind and keen appreciation of conditions, was the necessity of improving these lines of communication, and he set about improving the St. Lawrence channels so that the great vessels by which the produce of the country was transported to Liverpool could find safe and unimpeded access to Montreal. So bad had been the conditions existing in 1896, that insurance was even refused on these valuable cargoes. To-day the improvements that had been effected had reduced insurance rates by half, and ocean steamships of the largest tonnage were taking our products from Montreal, and bringing in the merchandise we needed from the Old Country. To-day Buffalo and New York shipping interests were alarmed at the commanding position which Montreal was achieving through the improvement of the water routes, the abolition of canal tolls, and an intelligent administration, that had effected progress so that in all months Montreal received more grain than all the Atlantic ports put together. (Applause). And they had improved facilities at the great inland ports such as Fort Arthur and Fort William, the effect of which was to give the most expeditious and the cheapest means of transporting to the East the grain crops of the Great West, and of affording adequate means for the distribution of the products of our factories. Of course, all this cost money —you can't have great public works without spending something—and now the Opposition were criticising the expenditure. But if they had spent eight or nine millions in creating the means of progress, the money was coming back to them a hundred fold, in the results that were aimed at, and he had no doubt that as the result of this wise and liberal policy the day was coming when Montreal would be the greatest seaport on the American Continent. (Applause). He (Mr. Meldrum) had not always been on the Liberal side, but he supported the Government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier because he believed that its policy was best for the interests of the country, and he supported Mr. Stratton because he was the best qualified, the most experienced, and the most capable man before them, and best equipped to render service to the county as its representative. (Applause). He spoke of the Trent Valley Canal, which when built, and they now had the assurance of its completion within a short time, would reduce the cost of coal by $1.00 to $1.25 per ton. Was not that something to appeal to them, whose resources of wood for fuel were fast disappearing? That project also would cheapen the cost of getting their grain to market, and so add that saving to the profit of the farmer on that project, and would give them wider markets and better prices. The Government, in carrying out these great enterprises to facilitate and cheapen transportation, to extend markets, and to increase the profits of agriculture and commerce, aimed to make Canada a great country, and he felt that we should take pride in, and give support to the work of betterment of conditions and upbuilding of our country, which Sir Wilfrid Laurier was carrying on. And if $121,000,000 had been expended in the means that were necessary to accomplish this object, the money was well and prudently spent, and would come back to the people a hundred fold. (Applause). Even Mr. Borden is compelled to admit that if he were in power he would complete the Grand Trunk Pacific undertaking—that it is a necessity to the welfare and progress of the country. He was satisfied that it would not be ten years before it would be found that he would have to build yet another transcontinental railway to carry the produce of the new country that was being developed, to the markets of the world. Our national growth would follow the course of that of the United States, which had been the wonder of the world. But now their resources for expansion were exhausted, and the stage of great national progress would be transferred to Canada. We have here to be developed greater national resources, as was admitted, than any country in the world except Russia, and it was only for them and the people of this country to give their support to Sir Wilfrid Laurier in his efforts to advance the cause of progress, to ensure for Canada the realization of the great destiny that we believed to be in store for her. (Cheers). Mr. Meldrum went on to show the liberal expenditure the Government had made for the benefit of agriculture, $5,500,000 having been expended during his administration directly for the promotion of that interest. He recognized in the farmer the true backbone of the country's progress. The farmer brought from out the soil what God had placed there for him to profit by, and every dollar that was obtained for grain, or for the increase of stock, was so much created wealth, that went not only for their own needs and comfort, but furnished a maintenance for the factories in the towns and cities. These again by the needs of the labour employed, gave a market for the farmer's products, and, so their interests were bound up together and identical, and the city and the country should stand together and unite in support of the policy of progress and development that was being carried on for their benefit by the Government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. (Applause). The subsidies that were allotted to the provinces had been increased under the present Government, by means of the prosperity created under their policy from $4,000,000, to over $9,000,000, the largest share of which came to the province of Ontario. And this money which came from revenue derived from the customs was given back to the people, and by so much reduced the burden of their taxes, and helped them to support their institutions. Did not this show regard for the people on the part of the Government? Just before an election we were always accustomed to hear that the country was going to the dogs, that the Government was throwing away the money of the people, and they recognized that this was just a campaign cry. The progress of the country had demanded large expenditures; they were necessary to development, but the country had received substantial value for this expenditure to a greater extent and more directly than at any time before in its history. The Government had lived within the country's income, and had converted an experience of Conservative annual deficits to a succession of Liberal surpluses, and that was surely an evidence of careful and prudent and economical management. (Applause). We were told in Opposition newspapers of the universal prevalence of graft. It was something very easy to allege, but hard to prove. They had not seen much evidence of graft around this County of Peterborough had they? And the probability was that it was in the same way not to be found elsewhere, and that the whole cry was a desperate resort of politicians, hungry to get into office. They had been told that their timber resources were being squandered upon party favourites. Not a square acre of timber land had been alienated except after advertisement under regulations created by the Conservative Government, and for money received. But it was true that the Conservative Government, in 1896, had given away to its friends in Parliament 10,398 square miles of the finest timber lands of the country, and what did they get for it? Not one cent. These were facts that could not be contradicted. But Sir Wilfrid Laurier had provided that purchasers of any timber land must within one year put in mills and cut lumber for the accommodation of the settler. And so far from this national resource being exhausted, there still remained 126,000,000 square miles of forest, enough to supply the needs of the country for 150 years. He sketched the progress of the post office department, and the wonderful increase in the sale abroad of ham and bacon; eggs, cheese, butter and grain, which had brought vast wealth into the country to enhance our prosperity—and asked if they thought this was a time to make a change? No, they should vote to continue this policy that had done so much for them, and should send to Ottawa Hon. Mr. Stratton, who had in the past done so much for them; who knew their wants; who had all his life gone in and out among them, glad always to meet any of them, and to help them if he could, and who had identified his efforts and his means with every project that was for the welfare of Peterborough. (Applause). His opponent had never manifested interest or care, or invested a dollar of his means in any enterprise that created business and made employment in Peterborough, and he had no doubt that on Oct. 26, they would see that duty and interest combined to compel them to give their votes to the man who had large interests among them; whose interests were their interests; of whom in any situation they would never be ashamed, and who would capably and creditably represent them in Parliament—Hon. J. R. Stratton. (Loud applause).

Hon. J. R. Stratton.

Hon. Mr. Stratton was given a greeting of hearty applause. He expressed the pleasure it gave him to see so large a gathering of the electors on this occasion. Looking back over the twenty years during which he had been familiar with them, he could not recall a better meeting than they had to-night, and he took that as an indication of their interest in the direction of public affairs, and the administration of the public interests, which were in reality their own interests. When this general election had been called he had been really considering the representation of East Peterborough, but upon Mr. Hall's refusal from business reasons again to become a candidate, he had been tendered an unanimous nomination by their convention, and that was why he was before them asking their support, believing that the confidence that he had received before from them, he would again receive in this election. (Cheers.) He believed that he could say, without boasting, and truthfully, that no man had ever given to the interests of a county a more faithful, or a more honest, or a more successful service, than he had given to West Peterborough in the Local Legislature, and in the Local Government. And if he were now elected, as he no doubt would be, he could promise them the same faithful representation at Ottawa as he had given them at Toronto. (Applause.) Mr. Burnham had addressed them here last week, as he had a right to do, in his own behalf, and he had with him on that occasion a defeated candidate, Mr. Kendry, who, he believed, had given him (Mr. Stratton) credit for his defeat in West Peterborough. It was not he, but the electors of West Peterborough, who had defeated Mr. Kendry. Mr. Burnham had with him also on that occasion another defeated candidate, Col. Miller, whom he (Mr. Stratton) had defeated in West Peterborough. And there would be another defeated candidate included in the bunch in the person of Mr. J. Hampden Burnham himself, when the electors of this riding exercise their privilege of making their choice on October 26th. (Laughter and cheers.) Mr. Burnham had told them that we had a Government of grafters. But what proof had he offered them for such a statement? None whatever. Nor had one single member of the Government been charged with any act of graft by their opponents, and Mr. Borden had sat year after year in the House of Commons without formulating any charge of graft whatever, because no charge could be truthfully made. (Applause.) Now, when we had made charges against the Conservative administration, we had advanced the proof, incontrovertible proof, that could not be refuted. Take the McGreevy-Langevin scandal, where the contractors had made $913,975 profit on a $2,184,000 contract, involving a loss to the country of $700,000, and on account of which Mr. McGreevy was landed in prison. Take the Curran bridge graft of $270,000; the Levis graving dock, where the contractors paid $25,000 to the Tory corruption fund; the Crosswall contract with another campaign contribution of $25,000; the Esquimalt dock scandal, which added to the Tory campaign fund $27,000, and the Gallops Canal scandal, where the estimates of the work were $300,000, and the actual expenditure $900,000. In all these matters, when we made charges of fraud and corruption, we showed you the facts. Now, Mr. Burnham in support of his charge, gave no facts whatever. (Applause.) Mr. Burnham had claimed in his speech that "Canada was in the hands of the money lenders." Now what did he mean by that? This country required money to carry on its public and private enterprises. They had in six months of this present year, $145,000,000 of foreign gold brought in here for expenditure upon the municipal and industrial enterprises that were being carried on in addition to what was brought in by the banks. Our people in this country did not have the means and were not disposed to invest in this kind of security, but it pleased the English and French capitalists to loan money for use in these enterprises, and our people were very pleased to have their confidence and the use of their money. It was simply idiotic for Mr. Burnham to come here and present such an utterance to a gathering of intelligent men. Again, Mr. Burnham told them —to quote his (Mr. Burnham's) own words, and those who heard him would know whether he was misrepresenting him or not—"Canada has borrowed so much it cannot borrow more." Is the man who talks such nonsense fit to be the director of a wheelbarrow? He had said in his paper, the Review:

"The extraordinary increase in national expenditure was the theme of general disapproval in Great Britain, where our last Dominion loan was only half subscribed, while an Irish loan of large proportions was subscribed seventy-nine times over."

Now, this was an absolutely straight falsehood. There was no truth in it whatever. And what are you to think of a public man who will go about in this way decrying the credit of the country. They on the other side were prating about "lofty political morality" and "political honesty." What was political honesty? To him (the speaker) it meant telling the truth. The truth in this matter is presented by an independent paper, Toronto Saturday Night, which stated the facts in regard to this loan, stated as follows:

"The Dominion Government last week floated a loan in London of £5,000,000, bearing 3½ per cent. at par. This loan, like the July issue of similar amount, but bearing 3% per cent., is partly for the conversion of 4 per cent. borrowings, there being £2,250,000 of such maturing in November. The present low rate indicates that something was gained by having recourse to short term notes rather than to ordinary long-term issues during months of extreme monetary stringency. Russia also obtained a loan last week. It was floated in Paris, and the terms were IN STRIKING CONTRAST to those of the Canadian loan. The Russian loan bears 4½ per cent., and was floated at 91, as compared with ours of 3½ per cent. at 100. An American financial journal, in commenting on these issues, says: 'The higher rate and lower price of the Russian issue compared with the lower rate and the higher price of the Canadian issue, indicate not only the price which has to be paid for an overworked credit in the case of Russia, but also measures the premium which a developing country of a comparatively small public debt like Canada enjoys in the money markets of the world."

And yet we find Conservative politicians deliberately going about trying to deceive the people and decry the credit of the country by stating conditions that did not, and do not, prevail in Canada. (Cheers.) They had been told by Mr. Burnham, concerning the building of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway: "The Government allows the contractors to go anywhere they please for material." Now, the contractors are required to build the line along the route designated by the surveyors for them. The material for the roadbed was taken from the line traversed as a matter of course. The ties were furnished from the forests of the west, right here in our own country, and not a single tie was being brought in from outside over the borders. The steel rails that were being laid were manufactured at the Sault and in Nova Scotia. There was not a rail, not a plate, not a bolt, not a switch nor anything else, entering into the construction of the road, that had been or would be supplied from the United States. The locks on the cars and buildings were made in Hamilton or Peterborough, and the nails in Montreal. And it was a condition that the Government had included in all the contracts that all the material to be used should be "Made in Canada." (Applause.) Mr. Burnham had told them "The C. P. R. was inexcusable as a private enterprise." The Canadian Pacific Railway had been a wonderful factor in the progress of Canada. It was recognized as the greatest railway organization in the world to-day, and the man who characterized it as "inexcusable" insulted the intelligence of the community he was addressing. When that railway was built the Liberals did not dispute its advantages, but they protested against the terms upon which it was constructed. The Conservative Government had given the railway lands that, if put on the market to-day, would pay off every debt and obligation that rested on the company. We contended that the Government should have taken into consideration the future value of these lands, and had the grant been only half what it was, they could still pay their every obligation out of the proceeds. He was not finding any fault with the C. P. R. He merely wished to point out how much better a bargain the country had made in the Grand Trunk Pacific enterprise. It had been the main factor in our progress, and if it had not provided the means for the opening up of the great west, our boys and girls would still be driven away to seek employment in the United States, as they were formerly. Mr. Burnham had said:

"Upon the building of the C. P. R., farms went down immediately, and the demand lessened. Farms dropped as much as 50 per cent. You see young men going away from this part of the country. The Government is encouraging extensive farming by sending all the bone and sinew of this part of the country to the west, while our farms go down."

What rot! Look at the condition of our farms to-day, how they had advanced in value, not only at home here, but among the boys who had gone out west to take advantage of the openings there. There was not a farm in South Monaghan to-day, as they well knew, that had not increased by 40 per cent. in value, since 1896. They remembered the conditions then, when they could not raise money for their needs, and things were going to decay. Now the houses had been repaired, new barns built, the mortgages had vanished, and few indeed of them had not a balance in the bank. And it was only by the trade policy of the Government, by its extension of means of communication, and by the opening up of the Great West that this result had been attained. (Applause.

Mr. Burnham asked them: "What is the necessity in a country like Canada of you Eastern people developing Western Canada?" Almost any of their children could answer that question. they had to-day, for instance, 120,000 more farms in the west than there were four years ago, and what was the result? The crops they were producing were, as Mr. Thornton had told them, going to the English markets at the rate of 100,000 bushels of wheat a day, and the crop would this year reach 195,000,000 bushels. Estimate this at $1.00 a bushel, or even say $100.000 as the amount of the returns from the sale of this product. What do these western farmers do with it? They buy clothing, and shoes, and everything else that enters into their requirements from the manufacturers of this province, and right here in Peterborough, which build up in our Ontario cities and towns local markets, through their employment of industry, for the benefit of the farmer here. And so the farmer in the west was helping the welfare of the farmer in the east. He had no doubt that when the Grand Trunk Pacific was completed, and the west had entered fully upon the advanced stage of progress that was before it, Alberta and Saskatchewan, and Manitoba, and new provinces soon to be created, would become the granary of the world, and that as a result, Ontario instead of being only a small province, would become the Pennsylvania of this Dominion of Canada. (Applause). Mr. Burnham had further said:

"There ought to be Government in this country for everyone to live free of taxation. There is plenty to provide for ourselves just the things we need. The day will come when the Government will see to it that the roads are all built and taken care of by the Government, that everything for the general public service will be taken care of by the Government, for in Heaven's name, what is the Government for?"

That would be a happy day! (Laughter). It would be one of the most delightful days we had ever seen, when this Utopian dream was realised. Perhaps then the Government would pay the butcher's bill and the baker's bill also. (Laughter). But there did Mr. Burnham contemplate that the Government was going to get the money to run public business when all the sources of revenue are abolished? Money doesn't come into any sort of spontaneous existence. It does not grow, but it comes primarily from the farm, which was the best and safest mine this county knew. The silver or ore lode must become exhausted, but a good farm well tilled and prudently managed was a mine that would never give out. They might think that when speakers came out from the city communities and extolled the farmer as the backbone of the country, it was flattery, and for effect. But it was not so. It was because that fact was realized by those who appreciate the true value of the elements that form our national life and industry. The first concern of the banker was about the crop; he was hoping equally with the farmer that the harvest might be ripened without injury, for he knew that if there was a good crop, the farmers would have money to deposit, to keep the business of the country in motion, and that a bad crop spelled hard times. Mr. Burnham had further said to them: "I do not say that all the rascals are "on the Liberal side. We know that "we have got a lot of them." He (Mr. Stratton) objected emphatically to Mr. Burnham speaking on behalf of the Liberal party, but when he spoke for his own party he was willing to concede that he knew what he was talking about. (Cheers). And what was up to the people of Canada, and the voters of South Monaghan was, to keep the rascals out. We have had them in before, and we don't want any more of them. Mr. Burnham had discussed the availability of the material at Mr. Borden's disposal for the formation of a cabinet, and he mentioned Whitney, Hazen and McBride. Well, Mr. Whitney had secured office in the pledge of greater economy, and he had increased the annual expenditure of Ontario by $4,000,000. Mr. McBride had put an additional burden on the back of British Columbia of $1,000,000, and Mr. Hazen had saddled the people of New Brunswick already to a considerable extent, and this was the qualifications on which they were recommended to the people in this election. Mr. Whitney had told the people of Ontario that if he could only get at the books in Ontario, if he could only turn on the light, he would show a terrible corruption and extravagance on part of the Ross administration. Well, he had the books a long time, he had procured an expert accountant from Michigan, who worked on them for two years, and he had not been able to place his finger upon a single wrong transaction. (Cheers). If he had been able to discover any evidence of crookedness, did they think he would not long ago have put it forth? As for the department over which he had presided he defied them to put a finger upon evidence of the misdirection of the fraction of a cent. (Applause). He (Mr. Stratton) had been persecuted with vindictiveness by a few Conservatives of the City of Peterborough, but he defied them to show a single wrong transaction in the conduct of the office he had filled in the Government, or in any other relation of business. They had had Mr. Hanna here, who knew every secret of his department, and they had the man from Manitoulin here, in support of Mr. Burnham. Did they offer to the electors of Peterborough any charge against him (Mr. Stratton)? No. Because it can't be done. And he would say, right here, that during his whole career in the Legislature, and his four years in the Government, he had never handled so much as a five-cent piece of the money of the Province of Ontario, beyond his sessional indemnity of $600, and his allowance as a minister. The head of a department merely directs its affairs; the money is actually handled by his deputies and subordinates. Mr. Borden had made the statement that grafting was being carried on under the Government at the rate of $10,000,000 a year. But they would note that he had sat for ten years in Parliament, with all the privileges of challenge and enquiry, and had never lifted his voice to make any such charge. If what he now charged were true, if he even believed it to be true—and he knows it is not, —what kind of service was he rendering to his party and to his constituency, in refraining from bringing his charges before Parliament? They would see that it was simply a baseless and absurd campaign charge. (Applause). Mr. Burnham expressed at a particular grievance that some of our young men were going to the Far West. They knew that as families expanded here, the young men had to find new homes; there was no room for them where they were, and they were glad and he was glad to know that these young men had such opportunities presented to them as they had in our west; that they did not have to seek, as they did under Mr. Burnham's friends, homes in a foreign land; that they were prospering in their new homes, and taking their part in the production of the wealth that, as he had explained before, came in large measure to Peterborough and other manufacturing towns, and so ultimately back to the farms which they had left. Now, Mr. Kendry had told them he was opposed to the Government because their woollen goods tariff did not suit him. He wanted a duty that would increase the cost of the farmer's suit of clothes by $2.00 to $4.00. He and his friends had been told by Sir Wilfrid Laurier that this would not do; that if they wanted to keep the Canadian trade they must make the kind of goods the Canadian farmer wanted, and if they did not do so, the Government would take no action to impose a burden on the consumer. They had seen Mr. Kendry among them, and he had not seemed to be lacking in prosperity, and they knew that his Auburn Mills had been previously, while he was complaining of the tariff, working night and day, so that it was not likely that any suffering would result from the Government's cruel refusal to increase the taxes of the farmer for his benefit. (Applause.) Mr. Stratton sketched the development of manufacturing industry in Peterborough and pointed out that the improvement in local values and the splendid markets they enjoyed, were mainly the result of the operation of these enterprises, and the large field which they created for the employment of labour.

Mr. Kendry at the meeting of Mr. Burnham had discussed the matter of the Bensfort bridge, accusing him (Mr. Stratton) of taking credit for that structure, and claiming that such credit was due to others. Well, the facts, as the gentlemen before him well knew, were these: The people of South Monaghan interested in the bridge, were the leading and original movers in the matter. They came to him (Mr. Stratton) for advice, and he asked them to see what they could raise privately and from the townships. Then the Legislature met and the province gave a grant of $2,500, conditional upon the Dominion giving a like amount. When the estimates for the Dominion came down they contained this like amount. The bridge and approaches cost more than contemplated and the committee came to Peterborough and that city gave them $750. Individual subscriptions were also secured from Peterborough citizens, and he was one of the personal contributors. These are all the facts. Mr. Riddell of South Monaghan and his committee deserved the greatest credit, and I think that you will give me credit for standing loyally behind them in their efforts, and in contributing in some degree to the measure of success achieved. All that I claimed in my address was that the bridge was one of the public benefits that the county. Regarding the claims of parties for credit for public benefits, he would ask them: Was it not the money of the late Robert Nicholls that gave Peterborough the Nicholls' Hospital, with all its endowment? Was it not the money of the late Robert Nicholls that gave Peterborough the Young Men's Christian Association building and grounds? Was it not the money of George A. Cox that was instrumental in giving to Peterborough the Young Women's Christian Association rooms? Was it not the money of William Hall that established a fund for the poor of Peterborough? Was it not Liberal money that gave us Jackson Park, Inverlea Park, and Nicholls Park? Was it not Mr. Albert Dixon who gave Dixon Park to Peterborough? Was it not the money of Liberals who gave to every Sunday school in Peterborough a library? Was it not Liberal money that gave to each fraternal and benevolent society in Peterborough a liberal grant? And can you point to a single thing that has been done for the social or benevolent interests of the people of Peterborough, or can you show any evidence on the part of the Conservative moneyed men of Peterborough in any way, shape or manner, to demonstrate, in the least degree, a sympathetic interest, or a helpful disposition towards the benevolent or the social and moral enterprises of the city? You know you cannot. (Loud applause.)

Mr. Stratton went on at considerable length to discuss the results that were to ensue, and the great development that would be created, by means of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, and the Trent Valley Canal, which would give Peterborough the same advantages in water power and in facilities for the distribution of trade, as Niagara Falls, Hamilton and Brantford now enjoyed, if they had a representative in Parliament to see that their interests in connection were forced upon the attention of the Government, with influence and with the persistence that would ensure attention and action. He dwelt upon what the Government had done in the creation of cold storage transportage by rail and water, that gave increased values to the farmers' products, and reviewed the wonderful advance in the postal service, the increased service, the cheapening of rates, and the transforming of annual deficits into annual surpluses, and now the great boon of a free rural mail delivery. He concluded with an appeal to South Monaghan to come to the front in suport of good government at Ottawa, under the leadership of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and of himself as the representative whom their interests called for in making their choice on October 26th. He believed that he would be elected by a large majority and that South Monaghan would do its duty as of old in effecting this result. (Loud cheers.)

A vote of thanks was tendered to the chairman and the meeting closed with rousing cheers for Hon. Mr. Stratton, and the usual loyal recognition of His Majesty the King.

Suspect Poisoning.

Quebec, Oct. 13.—The town of Amqui, Rimouski county, was thrown into a state of considerable excitement last week by the exhumation of the body of Madame Zephirin Guimont of that place, following rumors to the effect that the woman had been poisoned. An autopsy is being held.

Wholesale Burglaries.

COLD BROUGHT ON KIDNEY DISEASE

Brantford Lady Suffered Till Cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. A. H. Thomson had Heart Disease, Lumbago and Rheumatism, and Tells How she was Restored to Health.

Brantford, Ont. Oct. 12.—(Special).—How Colds, La Grippe and other minor ills settle on the kidneys and develop Rheumatism, Heart Disease, Bright's Disease and other terribly dangerous ailments; and how any and all of them are cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills is fully shown in the case of Mrs. A. H. Thomson, whose home is at 48 Albion street, this city.

Mrs. Thomson was, some years ago, taken with Cold and La Grippe and Straining, which affected her Kidneys, and the result was Backache, Lumbago, Rheumatism and Heart Disease, which caused both her and her friends grave anxiety.

She had suffered some years when she heard of cures effected by Dodd's Kidney Pills and bought a box, which she used with such splendid results that she continued to take them till she was cured. Since then she has used Dodd's Kidney Pills in her own family and recommended them widely to her friends, all of whom have warm words of praise for the standard Canadian Kidney remedy, Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Heart Disease, Rheumatism, Lumbago and Bright's Disease are all Kidney Diseases, or are caused by diseased Kidneys. You can't have any of them if you keep your Kidneys sound and your blood pure. Dodd's Kidney Pills make the Kidneys sound. Sound Kidneys strain all the impurities out of the blood.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETY OF KNOX CHURCH

A Splendid Meeting Held Last Night—Mr. Roy Laing in Charge

The Knox Church Young People's Society met last evening, and after the devotional exercises were concluded a duet was sung, by Mrs. Patten and Mrs. Parker entitled "My Mother's Prayer." Mr. Roy Laing was in charge of the meeting. The subject taken up by him and then by Rev. Mr. Keith was "Christ, a Man of Sorrows." It was not the idea for Christians to wear a long face all the time, but to enjoy the pleasures of life which had been given us. Christ was sorrowful because of the sin of the world. So we, if trial and sorrow come, are to bear our sorrows with a good and cheerful heart, and not be carried away by them. The Saviour ever has His watchful eye upon His children. Mr. Davenport sang the hymn "When the Roll Is Called Up Yonder I'll Be There." A hymn with the closing ode brought a profitable meeting to a close. Next Monday evening, Oct. 19, will be of a social nature. It was very encouraging to the officers to see such a large number of young men present. They are expecting good things this season. —Com.

WEDDING BELLS

SULLIVAN—HICKEY

A pretty wedding was celebrated this morning at St. Martin's Church, Ennismore, when Miss Gertrude Hickey, daughter of Mr. Martin Hickey, was united in marriage to Mr. Leo Sullivan, son of the late Mr. Andrew Sullivan. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, and was witnessed by many relatives and friends. Miss Josephine Hennessey assisted the bride and Mr. Cadogan was best man. Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan are both of Emily, where they are well known and have a host of friends.

WOOD DISAPPEARED FROM GEORGE STREET BARRICADE DURING THE NIGHT

Some one carried off the planking which the waterworks men had used in barracading a trench on George street, above Argyle. An opening in the street had this temporary fence around it to prevent vehicles from driving into it, but the planks disappeared in the night as quietly and unnoticed as the stars which are gone with the first streaks of gray above the eastern horizon.

A PECULIAR WHITE MAGNETIC DISTURBANCE HAS BEEN OBSERVED

A peculiar phenomenon was observed last night in the dome of the heavens which attracted the notice of several of the local astronomers. It was first noticed by a Peterborough gentleman who called the attention of Dr. Marah to it. It was a long arch of white that stretched across the sky from the northwest to the southeast, due to magnetic influences and not a cloud, as many would at first think.

COMING OF SHEFFIELD CHOIR

An Important Era For Music Advancement in Canada

Musically, the coming of the Sheffield Choir to Canada will make musicians on this side of the Atlantic acquainted with a body of singers acknowledged by the greatest living conductors — Richter, Nikisch and Weingartner—to be the finest in the world. The programmes they will render during their visit are most comprehensive ones, and will include the following works; Bach's Motets, Sing Ye and Praise Ye the Lord; Eaton Faning's part song, "Moonlight," glee (W. Jackson), "Sisters of the Sea," part song, "Footsteps of Angels," Holbrook; madrigals, "I'm going to My Little Bed" (Edwards), and "You Stole My Love," (McFarren), "Awake, Awake" (Rantock), part song; "Shepherd's Lament," part song; Smart, Calcott's "O, Snatch Me Quick," (glee); "The Dance," from Sir Edward Elgar's suite, "The Bavarian Highlands," folk songs, "Berkshire Tragedy" and "King Arthur Had Two Sons" (Brighton); Sullivan's "O Gladsome Light," and others.

Canadian composers will be represented by the following compositions: "An Indian Lullaby," Mr. Vogt, conductor of the Mendelssohn Choir of Toronto; "Coronation Ode," Dr. Ham, and Choral Ballad, "The Souls of Dee," Dr. Harriss.

The Sheffield Chorus bring with them twelve principals—Miss Emily Breare, Miss Emily Coward, daughter of the conductor, Dr. Coward; Miss Clara North and Miss Kathleen Frankish, soprani; Miss Gertrude Lonsdale and Miss Ada Burton, contralti; Mr. Henry Brearley and Mr. Arthur Burrows, tenors, and Mr. Robert Charlesworth and Mr. J. W. Phillips, as organists. These artists rank high in English musical life.

Music and Drama

OUT IN IDAHO

Coming to the Grand Opera House on Saturday, Oct. 17, matinee and night, is "Out in Idaho," a comedy melo-drama full of sunshine and tears, bubbling over with laughter, sparkling with witticisms and blended with love and pathos. It tells of the dangers and darings met by those men of the plains in the days when Idaho knew no laws save, "shoot first and shoot to kill." Mr. Chamberlain as Jim Dexter, is a typical cowboy and is supported by a cast of twenty people each one an artist. He had considerable difficulty in securing the services of the best actors in this line of attraction and made up his mind he would not open the attraction until he could employ the best artists obtainable; he eventually did so by the extensive use of the telephone and telegraph and has to-day one of the best aggregations ever presented for the approval of theatre goers.

INTERESTING LECTURE BY BRIGADIER ROBERTS

Brigadier Roberts terminated his course of revival services at the Salvation Army Barracks last night by a lecture entitled, "A Month's Experience in a Prison Cell," it being a few pages from one of the most momentous times of his career. There was a large attendance and the meeting was one of the best that the local corps has ever had. The wide experience that the Brigadier has gained in his long years before the public as an army officer, is of great service to him in style and finished address. He wore the striped suit that he had on during his month's incarceration in the prison at Torquay, and had a model of the cell. The lecture was one of the most novel that has ever been seen on the platforms of the local barracks, and will long be remembered by the large number who attended.

Brigadier Roberts said good-bye to the people of the city, after the service and left this morning for Toronto to attend the congress which is being held all this week at the Albert Street Temple. To an Examiner reporter he stated that he was charmed with this country, as far as he had seen it, and predicted a bright future for it. He was pleased with Peterborough and considered that it was a very busy place.

The results of the revival have been altogether successful and the local officers are well satisfied. Staff Captain Goodwin and Captain Maisey left this afternoon to attend the Army Congress. They will not be home until a week from to-morrow. The meetings here will be continued the same as usual.

Newbro's Herpicide Destroys the Dandruff Germ and Prevents Baldness.

Quinine and rum and a whole lot of other things are pleasant to rub on the scalp after washing it free of dandruff, but not one preparation of the general run cures dandruff and falling hair. It is necessary to kill that germ to be permanently cured of dandruff, and to stop falling hair. Newbro's Herpicide will positively destroy that germ, so that there can be no more dandruff and so that the hair will grow luxuriantly. "Destroy the cause, you will remove the effect." HORSE RECEIVES INJURY IN THE SAME PLACE, AND BY SAME ACCIDENT

In running away last summer, a horse now in the possession of Mr. Henry Faux, East City, received rather severe injuries, which were again renewed by another dash on Saturday. In some manner it got under way for a fast run and upset the waggon to which it was attached. The second injuries are similar to those sustained in the affair during the summer.

MEETING TO FORM SOUTH AFRICA ASSOCIATION

Ottawa, Oct. 13.—Special. — Men who served in the South African War from all Provinces of the Dominion, from British Columbia to Prince Edward Island were here yesterday in person or by proxy to form a Dominion South African Association for the purpose of conserving the rights and looking generally after the interests of the South Africans in Canada.

The representatives meet at the Board of Trade Building this afternoon and lay the foundations of the Dominion Association. One of the first objects of the Association at the present is to deal with the privileges of the South African volunteers, under the Volunteers' Bounty Act of 1908. There are several clauses of the Act which those entitled to the bounty consider rather arduous, and an effort will be made to arrange an interview with Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who is Acting Minister of the Interior, with a view to modifying the conditions under which the grants can be taken out.

It is possible that the first batch of warrants for the bounty will be issued by the Department of the Interior next week.

The Toronto South African Association is represented at the conference here to-day by R R Holt and J W Tibbs.

A HARD YEAR FOR SUFFERERS

An Authority Gives Advice to Prevent Catarrh of all Kinds

A SIMPLE HOME RECIPE

Here is a prescription which should be valued by all who are subject to rheumatism, kidney and bladder troubles and especially catarrh. While the latter is considered by most sufferers an incurable disease, there are few men or women who will fail to experience great relief from the following simple home prescription, and if taken in time it should prevent an attack of catarrh during the entire season.

Anyone can mix the following: Fluid Extract Dandelion one-half ounce, Compound Kargon one ounce, Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla three ounces. Shake well in a bottle and use in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime. Get these ingredients from any pharmacists whom you know handles only pure drugs.

This prescription acts directly upon the eliminative tissues of the kidneys to make them filter and strain from the blood the poisons that produce all forms of catarrhal affections. Relief is often felt even after the first few doses, and it is seldom that the sufferer ever experiences a return attack within the year.

This prescription makes a splendid remedy for all forms of blood disorders and such symptoms as lame back, bladder weaknesses and rheumatism pains are entirely dispelled.

As this valuable though simple recipe comes from a thoroughly reliable source it should be heeded by every reader who suffers from catarrh.

We Disclose the New Skirt Styles...

The Leading Fashion Books tell you that Skirts will be a trifle longer this season than during the past few seasons — longer and more ample. You also get from the same source that an indication of "Directoire" in closed panel effects will be fashionable, vying with the gored and circular styles in popularity.

Your viewing of our carefully chosen great assemblages of New Fall Skirts will disclose the fact that our Skirt Styles are absolutely authentic — judged by authoritative fashion book style notes.

Nowhere will you find such dashing expressions of the Fall Skirt ideas, either as to fashion or fabric; and no tailoring could be better, nor skirts more perfectly proportioned, better fitting or becoming.

Come!

The viewing will be enjoyable, the low prices surprising.

Piling Up Reward For "Mr. E."

ANOTHER $105.00

For The Capture of The Mysterious, Smooth Faced Individual

The grand chase after the Mysterious One of the Examiner is creating more excitement and fun than has happened in Peterborough in many a day.

While no one has succeeded to-day in landing the Mysterious "Mr. E.," his capture may be expected at any time. Many laughable incidents have already occurred through people tackling the wrong man. A lady who accosted the Mysterious One, said, "Are you 'Mr. E.'? He had to say, 'No, lady, I wish I was," because she did not address him right. She should have given him the proper salutation: "You are the Mysterious 'Mr. E.' of the Peterborough Examiner," and produced a copy of the latest edition of The Daily Examiner—and then he is bound to admit his identity.

To-day the following additional rewards have been sent in to the Examiner office for the capture of the Mysterious "Mr. E.," piling up the total amount to the handsome sum of $313:

One hundred dollars is offered by Mr. G. L. Stevens, 631 George street, local agent for the McLaughlin-Buck Automobiles, to the person who properly identifies the Mysterious "Mr. E.," on condition that the party buys an auto any time between now and Christmas.

Five dollars is offered by the Yeates Bros. of the Peterborough Shoe Shine Parlours, if the person who properly identifies the Mysterious "Mr. E." has had a shine at their store the same day.

QUESTION OF PURCHASING A CHEMICAL ENGINE

The question of purchasing a chemical engine for the fire department is by no means new. As far back as 1893 the Council was discussing this problem, and the citizens wrote letters urging that the proposal be carried out. The Fire Underwriters' Association several years previous had written the Council stating that they would put the city in class "A" if the apparatus were procured. The engine was to cost $2500, and, as now, it was pointed out that the city would be saving money by making the purchase. One writer concluded his letter by the following sentence: "I shall be very much surprised if they fail to do this, and show that a wise foresight and business judgment can surmount petty and frivolous objections."

The years passed, and now, after a decade and a half, the purchase is again being advocated.

REASONS WHY

We can save you money on lenses.

1st—Those buying finished lenses in small quantities from the States are compelled to pay the highest price, also a duty of 30 per cent. If they meet our price they do so by the misrepresentation of quality.

2nd—We buy lenses in the rough in large quantities for cash.

3rd — Our lens grinding plant is second to none on the continent. The result being a perfectly finished lens.

4th—Our policy — Honest goods at honest prices—satisfaction to all or money refunded.

The Hamilton Herald Road Race Takes Place Thanksgiving Day; Many Entries Are Coming In

America's greatest distance event, the Herald road race, will be held as usual on Thanksgiving Day, and the event is already creating excitement in athletic circles, not only in Hamilton, but throughout the continent. Each day now the Herald receives letters from all parts of Canada and the United States asking for particulars about the event which produced such champions as Sherring, Caffery and Longboat.

The Herald road race was instituted in 1894, three years before the Boston Marathon was first run, which proves that the Herald Printing Company set an example which every other city of any size has followed. Distance running was unknown in Toronto until Sherring won the Marathon at Greece, and the Queen City could not to-day be boasting over the feats of the great Tom Longboat had it not been for the Herald.

Times and conditions have changed wonderfully since the first Herald race was run. It all started from a friendly walk around the bay in which some of the members of the Herald Printing Company took part. The idea of a race started then, and it was decided to hold the first on Christmas Day, 1894. A light snow fell the night before, and the 10-mile journey was run through the slush. The winner turned up in W. R. Marshall, who is now captain of the Hamilton Cricket Club, and who has always been recognized as a first-class athlete.

Mr. Marshall covered the distance in two hours and fourteen minutes, and his performance was considered wonderful. The next year the race was run on Labour Day, Christmas Day being too cold, and the weather at that time of year too uncertain. Woods won in 1895, lowering the record by four minutes, but the Herald people decided that Labour Day was too warm for such a race, and in 1896 they decided to hold it on Thanksgiving Day. That day proved to be ideal from every point of view, and the race has been an annual fixture ever since.

The first man to run the distance under two hours was Jack Caffery in 1898, although the year before Charlie Bates ran it in a minute and a half over two hours. Caffery's time in 1898 was 1.54.05, and the next year Sherring won for the first time and lowered Caffery's time by a very small margin. Caffery came back in 1900 and set a mark of 1.51.52, which was never equalled until 1904, when Sammy Mellor made the record which stands to-day, one hour, 48 minutes and 43 seconds. Since Mellor made his record both Longboat and Coley have come very close to it, and it is expected that with the field that will start this year, the Yankee runner's record will be lowered.

All the men who are at present in the distance running limelight have signified their intention of starting in the event. The mighty Longboat, who won the race two years ago when he first became known to the world, considers that he will have easy picking in this year's race, but with Tom Coley, Fred Simpson, Eddie Cotter, Harry Lawson, Will Wood, Claude Pierce and other men who have shown up well during the past year in the races, Tommy Longboat will not have such an easy time as he expects.

The race will be under the sanction of the C.A.A.U., and will be held over the famous course around Hamilton Bay. The race will start from the Herald Office at 9 o'clock on Thanksgiving Day morning, and from present indications there will be a record list of entries. Last year 42 entries were received, and 27 men responded to the pistol shot. It was the biggest list of entries ever received, but this year will doubtless see more entries than ever, as the race is more famous than ever.

The distance of the race is 10 miles, 168 yards and the chart of the government engineer, who surveyed it can be seen at the Herald Office at any time. The record of the race since it was first run is as follows:

Entries For Otonabee A.C.'s Big Meet Now Nearly Reaches The Century Mark And More Coming

The entries for the Athletic Meet under the auspices of the Otonabee A. C. in the Brock street rink tomorrow night already total 95, which gives some idea of the great night's sport that is to be expected. One of the surprises of the meet was the the entry last night of Fred McGrath, the well-known local sprinter, who will receive a glad welcome from the sporting fraternity. Fred will run under the colours of the new Chieftain A.C. which organization, by the way, promises to make things decidedly interesting to-morrow night. With McGrath, "Bill" Mulburn, Charlie Walsh and Frank Heffernan on their relay team, the Chieftain quartette will take a lot of beating in the mile team race which is creating a lot of interest.

The Y.M.C.A, Chieftains and Otonabee all have big representations in the entry list and a big fight for the honours in the different events may be depended upon. There will be a big crowd present without a doubt, the announcement that the Mysterious Mr. "E" of the Examiner, will be among the spectators having added to the interest. The pursuit of "Mr. E." will give the crowd something to do in the intervals, although there will be no dull moments as the programme is crammed full of interesting events.

One of the three Indian runners, Smoke, Howard and Cheeaway, are picked by a good many to win the five mile race, but the local wise ones will not want to overlook the Y. M.C.A. entries in this event.

Following is the programme:
50 yards, junior.

BOUQUETS FOR BEN SIMPSON; BEST HALF BACK IN CANADA

A Montreal despatch says: The fast work of the wings and the fine kicking of Simpson were the chief factors in Tigers' victory. Johnston, Lyons and Marriott kept harrassing the Montreal backs as Simpson drove the ball down the field netting Hamilton big gains. Simpson was the whole Hamilton back division. He did all the kicking, and when he found the weak spots in the opposing back field he kept booting the ball toward the Montreal line. He made few errors, none of them serious, and recovered frequently on mistakes by the others. The other Tiger backs did not show much. Moore was off colour and showed practically nothing. Biggs at fullback was the next best to Simpson.

The Hamilton Times has the following: Ben Simpson that hard, stern man with the high forehead as Montreal papers called him, was the candy kid. Ben punts equally well with his left foot as with his right, and Saturday he played a wonderful game. His unerring catches and returns were the cause of many groans of despair from Montreal fans, and the frog-eaters were madly shouting to their team to keep the ball away from Simpson. "Kill him" was another piece of gratuitous advice, and Ramer and Percy Roberts and several others tried it to their sorrow. Ben received a few, but when he was busy with the ball the Hamilton huskies united in making cases for local M.D's.

The Hamilton Herald says: As to Ben Simpson, if there is anything better in the line of an all-round half-back in the country it is on some team that has never stacked up against the Tigers. Such a thing as a corner too tight for him to kick in has not yet been discovered by any football team. Almost always he does the very best thing, and if he does happen to make a slip he does not lose his head but does the thing that is next to best. His work Saturday was gilt edge. That he outshone his mates on the back division was apparent to everyone.

"Don't kick to that Simpson," the crowd in the grandstand would yell to the Montreal halves.

Once Ben did fumble near his own goal line, and the Montreal wings were upon him by the time he recovered the ball. The crowd screamed in delight but as the wings dashed at him from the right, Ben, the only cool and unconcerned person on the grounds, kicked with his left foot, and made a good job of it, too.

T.A.S. Athletic Club's Team Will Play The T.A.A.C. Team Saturday

The T.A.S. Athletic Club seniors will journey to Toronto on Saturday of this week when they will clash with the T.A.A.C. seniors in an exhibition game at Rosedale grounds. The T.A. A.C. who are anxious to play off for the Toronto honours and the Dominion championship, wish to keep in shape and therefore asked the locals to give them a game on Saturday. The T.A.S. management decided last night to accept the offer and will send the strongest team possible to Toronto on Saturday. Most of last year's senior O.R.F.U. champions are out with the T.A.S. this year and the boys are confident of making a good showing against the new Toronto senior team. It is important that the practises this week should be largely attended.

BOWLING CAPTAINS MEET TO MAKE THE NECESSARY PLANS

A meeting of the captains of teams, which have entered for the ten pin tournament was held last night at the P.B.C. alleys and it was decided to inaugurate the tourney on Friday night, when four five-man teams will meet on alleys 3, 4, 5 and 6. The entry list still remains at ten teams, and these will probably be split up in two sections, two teams from each to play off each evening, the winners of the respective sections to play off in the finals, which will probably not be reached until the latter part of next week.

The draw will be made on Thursday evening, when entries for the team events will close. The doubles and singles will not be started until the early part of next week, and whenever possible games in those series will be played in the afternoons.

A committee to take charge of the entire tournament will be chosen on Thursday night.

Clair Gutterson has a ball with a curve on it that would make the great Christy Matthewson turn green with envy.

The Dominion Bank bowlers are going around with a chip on their shoulders, and so far none of their fellow bankers have offered to knock it off.

Lyman Root of the Queen City team To ronto, was a visitor at the Peterborough Bowling Academy yesterday. Lyman is one of the best in Toronto and in his workout yesterday demonstrated the fact that he has not gone back any since the last league season.

Some of the bowlers are talking of adopting the new American ball with three holes in it. Geo. Cairns has gone them one better and claims that he will have five holes in his so that he may be enabled to use both hands.

Rolly Glover has adopted the sneak style of bowling. He creeps up and hits the pins when they're not looking.

A purse of a Mineralite ball is offered for the name of the trundler who is responsible for this horrible thing:
A clever young bowler named Fitz,
On the alleys had several bad splits,
And when the count came,
He was put out of the game,
And now he bowls up on good Schlitz.

The form chart picks the General Electric team as the good things in the coming tournament.

"Back to the mines" remarked Hemstead to the pin boys last evening, "There'll be no strike to-night."

A bowler whose name is Jim Clarke,
Got into the game for a lark,
He found with surprise,
'Twas such good exercise,
He's at it from daylight till dark.

ATHLETIC CLUB ORGANIZED LAST NIGHT

A meeting was held last night in the parlours of the Park Street Baptist Church for the purpose of organizing an athletic club. A large number of young men responded, and the outlook is very bright for the future of the club, a number of fine athletes having signified their intention of casting in their lot with the new enterprise. The chair was taken by Rev. W C Biddiford, who explained to the boys the purpose of the organization. After some discussion, the name of the club was decided upon and is called the South City Amateur Athletic Association. The fees for the present will be 25 cents to join and 10 cents per month, and every young man who wishes may join. It is the intention of the trustees of the Park Street Baptist Church to give over the old church building to the young men for athletic pursuits just so soon as it is vacated. At present the club will meet every Tuesday and Friday evening from 7.30 to 10 o'clock. The colours of the club will be blue and white.

The following patrons and officers were chosen:

Patrons—Mayor Rush, Hon. J. R. Stratton, Messrs. N. Eastwood and W. E. Wasson.
Hon. Pres.—Rev. W. C. Riddiford.
President—Stanley Gillespie.
Vice-Pres.—Chas. Barrie.
Sec.-Treas.—Herbert Reid.
Manager—Mr. A. Oliver.

All are invited to unite with the club, and all will find a welcome irrespective of race, colour or creed. This club is not for a clique or a class, but for the mass.

CHICAGO IS THE BETTER TEAM

Peterboro Man Saw The First Game in World's Series At Detroit

Mr. Fred Davidson, city, has returned from Detroit where on Saturday he saw the first game in the World's Championship series between the Detroit Tigers and the Chicago Cubs, won by the latter by a score of 10 runs to 6. The game was a good exhibition, exciting all the way and the Cubs, according to Mr. Davidson, are the better team, playing inside ball all the way, while the Detroit infield seemed erratic. Detroit is baseball crazy but the crowd at the game was not as large as the reports would indicate. The newspapers kept many away by enlarging on the crowds, with the result that many fans remained at home believing they would be unable to get in.

Do Your Eyes Trouble You?

I will tell you after an examination whether your eyes are serving you as they ought or not. I will tell you whether you need assistance or not, and if they "do", my record during the past four years in this city is proof of my ability to benefit you. Why hesitate when so much is at stake—when the results can only be benefit, if such is possible.

Hundreds of people in this city can speak from practical experience of benefits received at my hands. I give "every" client my best services because I know that my good name depends upon so doing. All work guaranteed.

Neccesity Of Home For Aged Men Is Again Emphasized

Referred To at Annual Meeting of The Peterborough Protestant Home Board of Management Various Reports Received

NO IMPORTANT VENTURES

The annual meeting of the Board of Management of the Peterborough Protestant Home was held yesterday afternoon when the usual business was transacted, the reports of the officers being received, and the arrangements for the coming year planned. There were present Mrs. W. Roger, Mrs. Birdsall, Miss Nicholls, Miss Robinson, Mrs. R. S. Davidson, Mrs. R. F. McWilliams, Miss Brown, Mrs. Ritchie, Mrs. Ferguson, Mrs. S. Denson, Mrs. Neil, Rev. H J Keith and Rev. E A Pearson.

The Secretary's Report

The report of the secretary was read by Mrs. R. F. McWilliams, who gave a thorough resume of what had been done, as well as dealing with questions of utmost importance to the welfare of the Home. The report was as follows:

At the time of presenting the annual report of last year it was hoped that when the time of another report should come around the Board of Management would be able to announce that this Home had been relieved by the civic authorities of the care of indigent old men, and would be prepared to undertake the care of the aged Protestant women of this city. This hope has not been realized. The Council of last year requested your Board not to admit any more men to the Home. For a year that request was carefully followed. But as it now appears that the city is no nearer the possession of a House of Refuge for old men, and as a part of the Home is necessarily devoted to male inmates as long as there remain any in the Home, your Board has decided to fill these rooms again as proper demand for them arises. There are now four men in the house, and thirteen women, this last number almost filling the available accommodation for women.

In the main the year has been an uneventful one. There have been the usual changes in our register of inmates. Three have died, one your Board was regretfully compelled to send to Mimico, and three have found other homes. We have, during the course of the year, admitted seven new inmates.

In the work of making the home life of the inmates happy, the Board has received much valuable aid, for which sincere thanks are due. But your Board cannot but regret that in the matter of the maintenance and possible extension of the work, practically no public support or interest has been forthcoming.

Gratitude Expressed

Thanks are specially due to the Doctors of the city who have generously given their services to the inmates, to the Salvation Army who have held a weekly service in the Home all through the year, to Mrs. Charles and Miss Archer who, as representatives of the King's Daughters, have come each week to hold a song service, always keenly enjoyed by the inmates; to the representatives of the various churches who have held the Sunday afternoon services, and to a large number of friends who, by their visits and gifts, have testified to their interest in the institution.

Special mention should be made of the newspapers, which have not only published promptly all items of interest in connection with the Home, but which most generously donate a copy of their daily issue to the Home.

Finally, your Board feel unable to close this report of their work without specially mentioning the unselfish service rendered the inmates by the Matron, Miss Fraser. There has been much sickness in the Home this year, and many trying occasions, many of them much prolonged. At all times Miss Fraser has been untiring in her work, no matter how heavy the burden, and the happiness and well being of the inmates is in no small measure due to her unremitting efforts.

Peterborough, Oct. 13, 1908.

MARGARET S. M'WILLIAMS, Secretary.

The report was adopted after a discussion of some of the most important points referred to.

S. G. ROBINSON, Treasurer.

Audited Oct. 5, 1908, Jas. A. Hall, auditor.

Election of Officers

The next business was the election of officers, resulting as follows:

President—Mrs. W. Roger.
1st Vice-President—Mrs. Birdsall.
2nd Vice-President—Miss Nicholls.
Treasurer—Miss Robinson.
Assistant Treasurer — Mrs. R. S. Davidson.
Secretary—Mrs. R. F. McWilliams.
Assistant Secretary—Miss Brown.
Visitors—Mrs. Ritchie and Mrs. Ferguson.

General Discussion

Although no important steps were taken for future work it was the unanimous opinion of the Board that the city should make some provision for the aged men of the city, who are dependent on charity. Mrs. Roger remarked that it had been thought that arrangements could have been made with the House of Refuge to take the men, and the city had offered to pay for them. However, it had been felt by the officials of that institution that the men from the county would tax the accommodation to almost the limit. Rev. Mr. Keith stated that the work should be undertaken by some one, as it was a pity to hear of men being sent to gaol when their only crime was inability to support themselves.

The home will receive a few more men as that is all they can accommodate. Mrs. Roger said there would likely be requests for admission when the cold weather arrived. Mrs. Davidson remarked that it was not probable that the city would take any steps this year and the home was meeting present requirements.

No other business demanding attention the meeting was adjourned, after which an inspection was made of the building.

THE PETERBOROUGH CAMPAIGN AS VIEWED BY AN OUTSIDER

From the Lindsay Post of Oct. 12.

A representative of The Post was in Peterborough on Saturday, and reported that the political fight there is a warm one. In West Peterborough Hon. J. R. Stratton is putting up a grand fight. The Liberals are splendidly organised and are enthusiastically working for their candidate.

Mr. Stratton is surrounded by a splendid galaxy of local speakers and is conducting a clean campaign. He is receiving the support of many of the leading Conservatives, who realise that he is a man with large interests in the city, and who will look after the interests of the constituency at Ottawa.

The Conservatives, on the other hand, are conducting a campaign of slander and abuse, which has disgusted many prominent Conservatives, and which is proving a boomerang. Gamey's appearance there on Saturday proved a "frost." He did not attack Mr. Stratton, much to the chagrin of those who heard him. It is said that the presence of the member from Manitoulin made many votes for Mr. Stratton, who, it is expected, will carry the riding by a majority of 700 or 1,000 votes.

MONSTER NEW STEEL ELEVATOR AT PORT COLBORNE, ONT., IS A WONDERFUL PIECE OF WORK

Mr. W. J. Metheral, son of Mr. Jos. Metheral, Aylmer street, who has been employed in the construction of the new steel elevator at Port Colborne, Ont., sends the Examiner an interesting description of the immense structure. Mr. A. J. McIntyre, who had charge of the construction of the new dam and power house of the Quaker Oats Company here, was in charge of the Port Colborne work.

The elevator is built entirely of concrete and steel and will, when completed, be the most modernly equipped elevator on the continent. The automatic scales consist of nine sets, or eighteen scales, each of which will fill, with the weight of 5000 pounds, dump and be ready again in thirty seconds. They are the largest scales of the kind in the world. The Port Colborne Times says of the test:—

There was a quiet excitement among the hundreds of workmen as everything was being got ready for the turning over of the machinery. The electrical current was turned on and every machine started off without a hitch. Mr. J. A. Jamieson, the "daddy" of this elevator, who is the architect as well as the inventor of many of the appliances and experiments that were to be tried and tested for the first time, was anxious that everything should start off without a hitch, and desired to keep the large crowd back from the boat and elevator, but curiosity was too strong and soon the large boat was black with people, but, notwithstanding this delay, the first leg was sunk deep into the grain in No. 1 hatch within nineteen minutes after the vessel tied up at the dock, and Mr. Jamieson manipulated the pulleys that put the fine new elevator in operation for the first time. Far beyond the most sanguine expectations of Mr. Jamieson or the men in charge of the different departments, every particle of machinery as it was set in operation, although all new and many devices worked out by Mr. Jamieson, operated with the ease and precision of clockwork.

After the first leg was working a second leg was got ready, and with the same success was lowered into the grain in hatch No. 3, and the two legs continued up to 6 o'clock, when the men stopped for supper, after which the machinery was again put in operation. Of course, this is only a test, not the official opening (which will take place later), and no part of the machinery was taxed to its full capacity.

The elevator has four of those legs which, working their full capacity, will take out 20,000 bushels of grain per hour each, making the Port Colborne elevator the fastest and most up-to-date on the Great Lakes, and for that matter, in the world.

Another most important part of the equipment are the electrical shovels. These do away with the scoopers to a certain extent. In watching them work one would think they were almost human. Each shovel is operated by a man who carries in his hand practically two electric switches, and are used almost until the hold has to be swept, when scoopers are put to work. The captain of the Prince, when he saw them in operation, said they were the most complete shovel he ever saw in operation and he has seen a good many. The shovels at other elevators are not as safe, and when the steam power is thrown on the shovel will jump up in the air if not properly handled. Capt. Parsons tried these shovels by placing them in several positions, but owing to an interlocking system it is impossible to upset them.

Then there is the loading of the grain into the canal-sized vessels. This part of the machinery was not set in operation until the following day, and here again everything worked to perfection, and it is simply marvellous to see the wheat issue from the spout on to a three or four-foot endless belt or carrier which carries it away to the loading spouts at a tremendous pace. The grain passes through an iron tubing which is lowered into a hatch of the vessel and is so curved at the spout that with the force the grain comes down throws it several yards, and can be turned in any direction easily, thereby doing away with scoopers to trim the vessel. There are four of these spouts, all of which can be operated at one time in loading a vessel. The canal vessels that were waiting to be loaded were the steamers Bothnia and Windsor, and the barges Selkirk, Winnipeg, Dunmore, Melrose, and Augustus. The Bothnia took 85,000 bush., Selkirk 45,000, Windsor 62,000, Dunmore 37,000 bush., all of which have left for Montreal.

Peter Lyall & Son, Montreal, are the contractors, and to them also is due great credit in placing such an able man as Mr. A J McIntyre in charge of the work, who unfortunately through an accident was unable to supervise the completion of the work, which, however, was very efficiently looked after by the engineer in charge, Mr. Dawson.

Enters British Cabinet.

London, Oct. 14.—Lord Fitzmaurice, Parliamentary Secretary of the Foreign Office, has been given a seat in the Cabinet as Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, vice Viscount Wolverhampton of Wolverhampton, who probably will be appointed Lord President of the Council, vice the Earl of Crewe, or Lord Privy Seal, in succession to the Marquis of Ripon, who resigned last week on account of advanced age. Lord Fitzmaurice will continue to represent the Foreign Office in the House of Lords.

A Daring Burglar.

New York, Oct. 14.—Representing himself to be a real estate agent, a well-dressed young man gained access to the home of Summerfield McLean, a wealthy Brooklyn publisher, yesterday, and while Miss Beatrice Masten, a younger sister of Mrs. McLean, was showing the man over the premises he overpowered her, bound her arms and legs with wire, tied a gag over her mouth and got away with about $1,000 worth of jewelry and valuables.

WAR IS IMPROBABLE.

Servian Trouble Is Passing Over and Peace Is Expected.

Paris, Oct. 14.—The danger of a declaration of war from Servia is considered over for the present, and advices received yesterday from official sources indicate that the danger point in the Balkans has shifted back to Bulgaria. While the report that Bulgaria has delivered an ultimatum to Turkey, regarding the recognition of her independence, inside of three days is denied, there is reason to believe that Bulgaria is determined to make a move if Turkey and the powers persist in their refusal to accept her independence as an accomplished fact. It is believed here that if the Bulgarian army crosses the Turkish frontier Great Britain will land troops for the protection of Constantinople.

Robbed; Suicides.

New York, Oct. 14.—Back in the ghostly dimness of the big oven room of a bakery he was to open yesterday at 27 First avenue, as a part of the east side shop, where he had baked Jewish cakes for twelve years, David L. Marcus, 54 years of age, was found early yesterday, a rubber tube from a gas jet in his mouth, dead. At his side, in his ancient Hebrew script, was a note, "there were three masked men who robbed me of $300. They took it from my pockets. There were six of them in all; they were Italians. Marcus."

Ferry-boats Collide in Fog.

Detroit, Oct. 14.—Several girls were slightly injured by flying glass from broken windows, and 100 more had a narrow escape from death, when the ferry steamer Ariel, running between Walkerville, Ont., and Detroit, collided in a fog yesterday with a small freighter. There were about 100 girl employes of local factories aboard the ferry.

Burglars Used Hand-Car.

Halifax, Oct. 14.—About midnight Monday night the D.A.R. station at Berwick was broken into, the safe carried out and placed on a hand-car, and taken down the track about a mile, where it was blown open and the contents taken.

Three men were seen loitering around the station early in the evening.

This woman says she was saved from an operation by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Frank Emsley, Lindsay, Ontario, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"When I wrote to you some time ago, I was a very sick woman suffering from female troubles. I had inflammation of the feminine organs and could not stand or walk any distance. At last I was confined to my bed and the doctor said I would have to go through an operation, but this I refused to do.

"A friend advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After using three bottles of it, I feel like a new woman.

"I most heartily recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all women who suffer with female troubles."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

"BLIND PIG" METHODS

MANY A CLEVER TRICK IS USED TO CHEAT INSPECTORS.

Law Breaking Liquor Dealers Have to Play Double Game—Most Popular Method is "Hip Pocket" System—Panel Trick Too is Well Known to Frequenters of Dives—Grocery Store Conceals Whisky.

Now that an apparent death-blow has been dealt to the illegal liquor traffic at Cobalt, Ont., it is interesting to reflect on the methods employed by numerous "traders" in importing their stuff by the wholesale, and getting rid of it by the glass. It must be remembered that Cobalt, being under prohibition, and, as a consequence, under the watchful eye of the police and license officials, the liquor dealer has a two-fold job, that of selling the red-eye and that of playing hide-and-seek with the authorities. Needless to say, the latter was a thousandfold more difficult than the former.

The "hip-pocket" game is an old one, and known to nearly all frequenters. This usually requires the bo s "pigger" to have an assistant, who stands at the door with a bottle in his hip-pocket, thus performing the duel duty of wine clerk and guard. A couple of thirsty birds come along, and, if familiar with the place, they give him a sign. If he of the outer roost sees that the coast is clear, there is a responsive sign. The visitors are ushered into an ante-room, out comes the bottle, and the drinks are served. On busy nights and special occasions, when it is whispered that the police are around, an extra guard and sometimes two are put at the door to give, if necessary, the danger signal.

The caterer on such gala occasions remains inside and looks after his parched customers.

The mysterious panel is another invention to which the liquor law has given birth. A man sets up in business, and, apparently from his fixtures and the display in his front window, his place of exchange is a grocery store, but the tell-tale mark of suspicion is that most of his wares are in the window. He stands behind his counter, and in come men whom he knows, and who give him the "high-ball." If there is in that particular crowd one whom he does not know, or any place in the establishment a "suspicious" party, a slight shake of the head means that all is off till the danger is removed. After that he turns to the wall, and —presto!—places his hand on a knob, which is painted like the remainder of the wainscoting and flush with it in order to be the more deceptive. This knob is turned, and down falls a lid exposing a "cubby-hole" secreting, as a rule, from four to a dozen bottles. Inspector Blackwell is not a wizard. He is only a man, and our wiley "grocer" knows it.

A growth of the "cubby-hole" and at the same time a comfortable improvement is the minute elevator shaft or blank chimney space inside the wall to the second storey, where the boss has a confederate in charge of every consignment. He stands in his accustomed place and gives a certain number of raps—indicating the brand of beverage desired—when it is immediately let down on a small elevator. One well-known boozologist declared that there were at least a dozen of these in the town. It might be mentioned that, if there is one stranger in a gang of visitors, a formal introduction to the proprietor will put that "worthy" at his ease.

A novel method was introduced some time ago here by a man who is said to have done time in other parts for illegal booze-trafficking. To this fellow belongs the credit for inventing the hollow cane with an inviting mouth-piece at the end of the handle. Several of these were kept hidden by him and constantly filled and presented to the knowing ones as they arrived.

To a woman who kept a restaurant here is accredited the most original method of all, which, nevertheless, possesses a certain kind of risk not so predominant in the others. Her bottles were stored upstairs in her back garret—each one closeted in the leg of an old rusty stove-pipe, the top of which was veiled with cob-web mesh. The story goes that she had three brands. The old and heavy cob-webs denoted the stove-pipe wherein was housed the best, while the lighter meshes denoted an inferior grade. This woman always held the argument that if ever the place was raided it would be only one chance in a million that the stove-pipes as they stood, in all their innocence in one corner of the attic, would be removed, as the cob webs would throw the officers off the scent.

The initial artifice employed in importing the stuff was perhaps common for the most part to all dealers. It usually came in lots under the label of another article such as soap, cheese, pickles, and one fellow is said to have imported several dozens of cases in a piano box.

CANNING OF SALMON.

The Methods Used In the Big Coast Fish Canning Industry.

The Alaska Packers' Association has issued an interesting work on salmon, which will go a long way toward explaining to the uninitiated the process and methods employed in the great industry on the coast.

One of the most interesting chapters is that which explains the method of preparing salmon for market. For the information of thousands who are not aware of the process, the following is reprinted:

Salmon for canning purposes are not caught by hook and line, but in gill nets, seines or traps, and are immediately after catching brought to the canneries in boats, scows or steamers. From these vessels the salmon are raised by elevators to the fish dock, and given a thorough external washing.

In modern canneries they are then butchered and cleaned by machinery, and after being critically examined pass into brine tanks for final cleansing.

Next they pass into dripping tanks, where all the water is thoroughly drained off. From them the fish, by endless chain carriers, are conveyed to the cutting machines, where a number of rapidly-revolving circular knives divide the salmon into pieces the length of a can.

For pound or half-pound flat or oval cans, the salmon is then packed by hand, as no practical machine for filling these cans has yet been devised.

Over 80 per cent. of all salmon is packed by machines in the highly-preferred tall cans.

For tall cans the salmon are fed from large hoppers, which are attached to the cutting machines, into the filling machines, the empty cans being conveyed to the fillers by chutes from the upper floors. The salmon, first being cut into cylindrical pieces, is by gentle pressure of a piston placed in the tall cans in a nicer and more appetizing way than could be done by hand.

In addition to one pound of fresh salmon, each tall can contains one-quarter of an ounce of table salt, which is put into the can before filling.

From the filling machines the cans are transferred to tables, where they are thoroughly inspected, weighed and any deficiency supplied.

GREY HAT COMING IN.

Prince's Headgear Causes Flurry Among Fashionable Dressers.

Tall hats of a grey hue, grey toppers, drab shells, or, if there be any other name by which the Prince of Wales' headgear, as shown at Quebec, can be designated, let it be known that the article is reviving in popularity in England; that Philadelphia has caught on, slow as her reputation is, and that Toronto experts admit that there is a fashionable spasm in this direction. But it is only a spasm, and even the experts won't admit that it is not a misguided one.

There used to be a decided fashion in tall grey hats, but they have been very little in demand for seven years or more. They are always kept in stock in the best hat stores, but the demand has almost died out.

"I should judge by the English newspapers that they are coming in again. It was the most becoming hat for elderly men ever brought out. Sir John always wore one, you know. There's only one Sir John in Canada," he explained.

"It was a fashionable hat on the New York Stock Exchange eight or ten years ago, and it was almost necessary to wear one there, after Aug. 15, when the fall goods came in. Any other sort of hat was liable to be knocked off.

"It is used as an ordinary business hat. I never could understand why a high hat is cooler than a low one, but it is. All good hatters carry the grey toppers in stock."

This authority did not think there was any rule about wearing a grey top hat, but was surprised to hear that the Prince of Wales wore his when going to church in the morning at Quebec.

WAS VICTIM OF OPIUM.

Chinamen Sold Into Slavery For the Drug—Commended Anti-Opium Law.

When the anti-opium law was passed by the Dominion Government the better class Chinamen of Montreal passed a resolution commending the action of the House.

A dramatic and significant point about this resolution is that it was moved by a Chinaman whose father had been sold into slavery at an early age by his father in order to procure himself the drug to which he was a helpless victim.

The Christian Chinamen in this country have almost without exception suffered from the opium habit through the person of some relative, friend or employe who has fallen a victim to it.

The executive of the Chinese Mission has also passed a resolution, of which a copy is being forwarded to the Dominion Government. They declare that, "having respect to the all but universal denunciation of indulgence in opium, even by its habitues, and aware of the extent of this and consequent evils in Canada, and Montreal particularly, we, the executive of the Montreal Chinese Mission would, with great gratitude to God, acknowledge the passing of the bill by the Ottawa Government prohibiting the importation, manufacture and sale of opium in Canada, except by duly licensed druggists, upon the presentation of a physician's prescription; and while cordially commending such long-sought action, would respectfully urge the prompt enforcement of the act, to the great good of many and the removal of a stigma from the fair fame of our Dominion.

"And would further earnestly urge upon our local authorities early action in the prosecution of so laudable a measure; meantime pledging on our part every possible aid and encouragement in its behalf."

Christian Chinamen of this city state that there is already a marked falling off in the consumption of the drug by their fellow-countrymen here due to the sudden increase in the price demanded by the illicit opium dealers, who see one way of replenishing the stocks they now have in store when they are gone.

The closing of the British Columbia factories is expected to have effect all over the Western States and even as far east as New York for the smuggled product of these establishments was a mainstay of the lower class of "dope joint" throughout the United States.

The Original Merman.

Riverdale Park, Toronto, is now the proud possessor of a clever fake, or of the greatest curiosity the world has ever seen. Superintendent Fred Goode is a little in doubt and is seeking an expert opinion.

Found in a cave in South America, petrified for ages, and now presented to the City of Toronto, is the original merman, whose existence has always received the credence of many, but who, if he did exist, will upset all the accepted theories of gradual evolution from the reptile to mankind.

That beings did exist, part man and part fish, was believed implicity by the ancients. The mermaid of antiquity was built up from this belief by poets and painters, and many fables clung about this mysterious creature of the sea. Even to-day the sea serpent is sighted, and the old belief in one form or another has survived the past.

The fossil at Riverdale Park is disappointingly small, not more than two feet in length. The head is the head of a small monkey, the face being almost human, and the tufts of hair resembling the tawny down of the monkey tribe. The arms are long, rather fibrous than bony, and the claws or fingers are web-shaped. The body is reptilian, but the tail ends in a fish. The monster—for so he must be called in spite of his diminutive dimensions—must have been amphibious. His expression is one of senile cunning, and the conviction is forced upon the observer that he must have been a short cut in the road of evolution.

The specimen at Riverdale Park will no doubt create a lively dispute in the world of science, and he has already awakened no little popular interest and curiosity.

Tramp Steamers.

One of the strongest evidences of the increased volume of the export business from the St. Lawrence is to be seen in the number of tramp steamers chartered for cargoes from Montreal to different parts of the world. During recent years this class of visitor has been rather rare, and it was only on odd occasions that they carried a full load, the ordinary liners sufficing to handle everything that came their way.

Conditions this summer are materially changed. Already several tramps have been at Montreal and gone laden with grain. One day two arrived together, and are preparing to take on full loads of wheat, amounting to some 27,000 quarters, or 2,000,000 bushels each. One, the Norwegian steamer Herm, which loaded for Mediterranean ports, and the other a Danish steamer, Nordfarer, to load for Russia.

'Phoning From Trains.

As a result of the visit of Wm. F. Mayer of the American Car Telephone Company to Toronto recently it may not be long before passengers on Canadian trains running at full speed will be able to speak to anyone on the established telephone systems.

The chief despatcher will soon be able to telephone from his office right into the engine cab of a running train. The tests have proved successful, and the invention may be regarded as one of the marvelous facts of the century.

Pleasanter to Beat.

"Let's walk. Maybe we can beat the train."

"No; let's crawl under the seat. Maybe we can beat the railroad."

I OWE MY CURE TO ZAM-BUK

HAD PILES FOR 13 YEARS!

PAIN SO BAD AT TIMES HE FAINTED

One of the best points about Zam-Buk is that it cures chronic cases of piles as well as those of more recent standing. Captain A. W. Strachan, R.E., of St. Catharines, (Ont.), a man who has served his country in India, China, Japan and Egypt, says:

"Nobody has suffered greater agonies than I have through piles. For near 13 years this terrible scourge afflicted me and at times the pain was almost too much for me to bear—especially while enduring the heat and fatigue of foreign duty.

"I think I tried almost every remedy known in India, China, Japan and Egypt. While in India I was in the hospital for three weeks with bleeding piles, and thought I would be compelled to give up the Service.

"I have had to fall out when on the march as I could not endure the pain any longer. Once I was picked up on the field for dead—the pain from the piles was so great that I had fainted.

"An Army officer told me about Zam-Buk having cured a friend of his, so I decided to give it a trial. From the first annointing with this great herbal balm, I was relieved, but even after using one box I hardly dared to hope it would cure me permanently. I had got so much relief from it, however, that I decided to persevere, and by the time I had used several boxes, to my great joy I was completely cured.

"Zam-Buk is worth its weight in gold. It has cured me and given me now over six months of perfect ease—something which I have not had for thirteen long years! I trust this statement of mine will lead other sufferers to try Zam-Buk and prove its great healing virtue."

What Zam-Buk is, and What it Cures

Zam-Buk is composed of the essence and extracts of healing herbs. It contains no animal fat or mineral poison. It never goes rancid like other ointments, never stains, never clogs the pores of the skin. It heals cold sores, eczema, chapped hands, ulcers, badly poisoned wounds, scalp sores, open sores due to blood poisoning, itch. It heals lacerations, bruises and all skin eruptions and diseases. All druggists and stores sell at 50c a box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

HOME BURNS; CHILD FLEES.

Incendiary Fire In New Brunswick Village Is Mystery.

St. John, N.B., Oct. 13.—Beersville is the scene of a mysterious affair.

On Sunday afternoon last the dwelling house and barn of Adam Robertson were burned to the ground. Mr. and Mrs. Robertson had gone to church, leaving at home their three children, the eldest a girl aged 13.

Shortly after the parents were gone some neighbors noticed smoke issuing from the premises, and went to investigate. On arriving they found the building in flames and the children outside, the oldest girl in a hysterical condition. She was able to explain that a man had come in and set fire to the place. Shortly afterwards she disappeared and could not be found until Tuesday evening, when, after continuous search, she was found in the woods. When she saw the searchers she started to run, but was caught and taken home. The girl was in a terrible condition, both mentally and physically, after having been exposed to the cold and wet for two days and two nights without food and only thinly clad.

It was found on examination that nearly everything in the house had been saturated with kerosene. Mr. Robertson lost nearly all he possessed except the two horses he had with him.

DEBS ROAST ROOSEVELT.

Calls Him the Don Quixote of American Politics.

Philadelphia, Oct. 13.—Eugene V. Debs, Socialist candidate for President, addressed two meetings on Sunday. Thousands of workingmen heard him. Mr. Debs denounced the present form of Government, the social system and the Democratic and Republican parties. Among other things, he said:

"We are on the verge of the greatest organic change in all history. First, we abolished kings and then slavery, and now we are to abolish the capitalists and save the workingmen from the horrible system. Let us hope that the third step will come in peace—but come it will."

Paying his respects to President Roosevelt, he said: "Roosevelt is the Don Quixote of American politics. He wears a rough rider hat and enjoys looking ferocious. If he ever did anything besides shoot a Spaniard in the back I have not heard of it. He has reduced the office of President of the United States to the level of the ward heeling politician."

"With the Republicans it is 'Wall street and Taft,'" declared the speaker, "and with the Democrats it is 'Tammany and graft.'"

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

George Booth, an old T., G. & B. engineer, died at Orangeville.

Frank Morgan, aged 35, was killed by touching a live wire at Glace Bay.

Mrs. George Colier, wife of a rancher of Occidental, Cal., was drowned in a vat of wine.

Anthracite mine workers in session at Scranton, Pa., will call for an eight-hour day.

Mrs. Nord Alexis, wife of the aged President of Hayti, is dead, and will be given a national funeral.

The grand jury has again criticized the management of the Grey County House of Refuge at Markdale.

Elder H. R. Heise of the Tunker denomination has attended another love-feast at Fordwich, Huron County.

William Bennington shot and killed his wife while she was on her way to church at Delta, Pa., and then committed suicide.

The international missionary conference of the Churches of Christ at New Orleans reports that twenty-four missionaries were sent out this year.

Jim and Frank Davis, negroes, charged with having shot and probably fatally wounded a railway conductor, were taken from jail at Lula, Miss., and hanged.

Mariel Dubois, professor of colonial geography at the University of Paris, will lecture in Montreal and Quebec on the subject of "Colonization," on which he is an expert.

True Bills in North Bay.

North Bay, Oct. 13.—The grand jury to-day found true bills against T. J. Wright, James Quinn and Michael Morris, charged with the murder of R. Frith Young by stabbing, at Iroquois Falls, May 30.

A true bill was also found against Alex. Stevens for criminally assaulting an immigrant girl under fourteen years of age on a train.

Garfield's Avenger Kills Man.

Washington, Oct. 13.—William Jones, who attempted to avenge the death of ex-President Garfield by shooting at his assassin, Guiteau, on Sunday night killed John A. McPherson, a discharge member of the marine corps with a shotgun on a farm near Brookland, on the outskirts of Washington. Jones is in custody. The two men had been drinking.

Socialists For Peace.

Brussels, Oct. 13.—The annual Socialist Congress adopted a resolution on Saturday in favor of the application of the peace program, outlined in August, 1907, by the same body at Stuttgart, in event of the present Balkan crisis resulting in war.

EMERGENCY DANGER

When a Hasak Celestial Cold-Fighter on the Breathing Organs a Life Is Threatened

There are times when a Hyomei outfit is worth a life and having it at hand will save a life, as extra precaution can be suggested than calling at Wm. Madill's drug store and getting a supply for use in following cases.

When a child shows the first sign of croup a breath of Hyomei through the inhaler will check the trouble permanently.

When through catching cold you seem to be choking up, difficulty to breathe, pain or soreness over the lungs and other symptoms of pneumonia, the instant relief from Hyomei air is marvellous.

It penetrates quickly to the inner recesses of the bronchial tubes and lungs where no liquid or moist medicine can reach.

When an asthmatic condition presents unusual wheezing and oppressed breathing, Hyomei will bring rest, complete outfit $1.00.

For Sale by Wm. Madill, corner of George and Hunter Street.

POLICE STOP HAZING.

Toronto Veterinaries Wax Riotous In Opening Ceremonies.

Toronto, Oct. 13.—There was trouble galore at the opening of the Veterinary College on Temperance street yesterday afternoon. It spread to more than the freshmen, who were being hazed, and passers-by were dragged into the building and generally maltreated.

Bernard Kilby, 384 Victoria street, was yanked inside and severely buffeted, losing a coat-sleeve in the melee. Charles Pillar, 531 West Queen street, was also roughly used, as was another man of about 60 years of age. Several boys were similarly abused. Policeman Charles Bell was struck in the face by a stone thrown by a hoodlum on the outside.

Once, drawing his baton, he plunged into the crowd to rescue one imperilled civilian. A riot call brought a squad of police, and the students hiked to the assembly-room, where the formal opening proceedings were under way.

The methods of treatment were by no means catch-as-catch-can, even if the selection of victims was. The subject was hoisted in the sling used for the treatment of horses. He was raced around the horse-ring and also, after being laid over a saw-horse, was spanked, not as mother used to do it, but with pieces of harness and lengths of rubber hose.

But the life went out of the fun when ten policemen appeared upon the scene, and the hazers were even compelled to forego the treatment of a few of the late-coming freshies whom the police refused to allow to be offered as living sacrifices.

Hundreds at Trial.

Calgary, Alta., Oct. 13.—The hearing of the McGillicaddy criminal libel charge came up yesterday morning, and was again adjourned until Friday. P. J. Nolan, for "Eye-Opener" Edwards, said he was ready to proceed, but counsel for the defendant asked for the adjournment, which Justices E. E. Taylor and Col. Walker granted.

Seven witnesses have been summoned, comprising the office staff of The News.

The court-room was packed, and hundreds were unable to get in.

Capt. Scott Drowns.

Kingston, Oct. 13.—Capt. J. H. Scott, formerly owner of the steamer Persia, was found drowned at seven o'clock yesterday morning near Swift's wharf. He had put his baggage aboard the steamer Rideau King the night before, intending to go to Ottawa.

Coroner Mundell stated that the captain had evidently taken a dizzy spell and tumbled into the slip.

He was about 70 years of age and was one of the best-known captains on the great lakes.

A Fifty-Million Guarantee.

London, Oct. 13.—The Standard understands that as a result of the prolonged negotiations between the Colonial Office and the chartered South Africa Co., the Government has consented to guarantee it either a loan of $50,000,000 or interest on Rhodesian Railway debentures to a similar amount with the object of assisting in the development of the company's territories and railways.

Killed by Spile-Driver.

Wiarton, Oct. 13.—Alex. Day of this town was killed here yesterday afternoon. He was working at a spile-driver when he stepped between the leader and the full weight of the hammer, 2,200 pounds, came down on his head, killing him instantly.

He was married about two months ago.

Balloon Endurance Contest.

Berlin, Oct. 13.—Forty balloons got away yesterday afternoon without incident in an endurance contest. There was one British entrance, the remainder being German.

The balloons streamed in a long line northwards. The pilots have agreed to descend if the North Sea is sighted.

Demands Explanation.

Lisbon, Oct. 13.—Upon the representation of Charles Page Bryan, the United States Minister to Portugal, the Minister of War has telegraphed to the Government of Angola, Portuguese West Africa, a demand for an explanation of the recent expulsion of an American missionary.

Dreyfus Hits Back.

Paris, Oct. 13.—Major Dreyfus has forced The Patrie, under threat of prosecution, to print his answers to the charges which The Patrie and other French papers have made against him in a campaign which they have been carrying on in connection with the decision of the court of cessation.

TESTED VEGETABLES.

Good Varieties of Sweet Corn, Lettuce and Other Truck.

Of sweet corn, the great pest American palate tickler, there are innumerable varieties. Some hardly deserve the name of "sweet," but a few are as sugary as the glorious "pure food law" has again made maple sirup. There are two extremely early varieties, Peep o' Day and the excellent It. Golden Bantam is the earliest, smallest, ugliest, yellowest and by far the sweetest of all sweet corn. It is a dwarf, stood hard frost in 1907, which utterly discouraged Peep o' Day, and calmly produced great numbers of ears and nubbins galore, which were invariably selected when deliberately served among superb ears of Country Gentleman and Evergreen. The verdict is unanimously in favor of Golden Bantam against the field by all who have had it served to them. Adams is a misnamed field corn, sold freely, however, as early sweet corn. First of All and Cory are close seconds. Howling Mob some seem to find pleasing, and others enjoy Crosby. Cosmopolitan and Metropolitan are improvements on Early Crosby. Country Gentleman is sweet and a great favorite with many, but too gummy in consistency for our personal tastes. Evergreen is late, but sweet; big, but tender, and a fitting but overgrown companion for Golden Bantam. Between these two there are the Shoe Peg, Ne Plus Ultra and Black Mexican, the latter not pretty, but sweet and good.

Excellent Cucumbers.

For slicing there are practically but two varieties, both, however, excellent, English Long Green and White Spine, with but a trifle difference in flavor, though a marked difference in appearance.

Eggplant.

There is little to choose between New York Improved and Black Beauty. The latter is a trifle earlier and deeper in color.

Fine Lettuce.

Of twenty-three varieties of lettuce tested we found that, contrary to hearsay and statements, every variety headed splendidly. We further found that the big well known sellers were not at all prominent in appearance, delicacy or flavor. There are two varieties that stand out without rivals. Golden Queen is early, golden green, tender and delicious, firm and crisp. An unnamed variety last year, now called Wayahead, is a mammoth fellow, growing with us nineteen and one-half inches in diameter and eight to ten inches through. The head is a peculiar crumpled leaf of rich green color, few waste leaves and most delicate and tender. Of curly heads Simpson is much the finest. Cos or Romaine, the English favorite, is thick and crisp. The variety to suit the average American palate is Express.—Hal B. Fullerton, Long Island, New York.

Woods For Implements.

In wheat and corn drills and similar implements ash, maple or oak is generally used for framework. Cottonwood, gum, poplar, Douglas fir, spruce and western pine are used for panel work. Ash, rock elm and oak are used for spokes and rims in combination with a metal hub. For implement poles long leaf pine and Douglas fir have given most satisfaction. Throughout the vehicle and implement industries there is a marked and increasing tendency to use western coniferous woods.

The White Pine in Vermont.

The best kind of tree for general forest planting in Vermont is the white pine. Other conifers worthy of trial are Scotch pine, red pine, Norway spruce, European larch. The locust is of promise as a grower of posts.

Roberts' Memory.

A striking instance of the interest Lord Roberts always takes in the men that have worked for him or under him was given during his stay in Montreal. The day he was confined to the house through illness he received a letter from an electrician who was in Montreal, who had formerly worked in one of his houses. He was out of work, and asked Lord Roberts if he could help him. "Bobs" immediately gave the letter to one of his secretaries, and asked him to bring it down to the host and mention that it would be a personal favor if he would see that the man secured employment.

The host sent back word to "Bobs" that he could count on it, and the man was asked to call at the office of the Montreal gentleman. This he did, and employment was secured for him at his own trade. Afterwards enquiry elicited the information that Lord Roberts always attended to such requests himself.

Tips Are Scarce.

At the resorts along the St. Lawrence river, there is a loud-voiced protest from the waiters and waitresses, who say that they are not making their salt this summer from the expected tips. They declare that, try as they can in giving the best of service, the people simply won't give up the quarter or fifty-cent piece, either failing to tip entirely or giving a nickel or a dime at the most. Negro waiters are employed at Alexandria Bay. White girls are employed at the Frontenac, Columbian and other places.

Cattle Undergrade.

The live stock trades report states that some increase is noticeable in the supply of live stock from Canada, but the quality is deficient as a rule. The shortage compared to 1907 in supply from Montreal since May amounts to 13,000.

"I Am Glad To Write My Endorsement Of The Great Remedy Pe-ru-na. I Do So Most Heartily."
Julia Marlowe.

ANY remedy that benefits digestion strengthens the nerves.

The nerve centers require nutrition. If the digestion is impaired, the nerve centers become anemic, and indigestion is the result.

Peruna is not a nervine nor a stimulant. It benefits the nerves by benefitting digestion.

Peruna frees the stomach of catarrhal congestions and normal digestion is the result.

In other words, Peruna goes to the bottom of the whole difficulty, when the disagreeable symptoms disappear.

Mrs. J. C. Jamison, 61 Marchant street, Watsonville, Cal., writes:

"I was troubled with my stomach for six years. I tried many kinds of medicine, also was treated by three doctors.

"They said that I had nervous dyspepsia. I was put on a liquid diet for three months.

"I improved under the treatment, but as soon as I stopped taking the medicine, I got bad again.

"I took the medicine for two years, then I got sick again and gave up all hopes of getting cured.

"I saw a testimonial of a man whose case was similar to mine being cured by Peruna, so I thought I would give it a trial.

"I procured a bottle at once and commenced taking it. I have taken several bottles and am entirely cured.

"I have gained in strength and feel like a different person. I believe Peruna is all that is claimed for it."

Nervines, such as coal tar preparations, are doing a great deal of harm. Sleep medicines and headache powders are all alike,—heart depressants, and should not be used. The nerves would be all right, if the digestion were good. Peruna corrects the digestion.

LIBERAL LABOUR LEGISLATION RECEIVES ATTENTION IN MR. STRATTON'S THIRD ADDRESS TO PETERBOROUGH ELECTORS

To the Electors of West Peterborough,—

In my addresses previously issued, I aimed to specify what had been accomplished by the Liberal Governments of Ontario and the Dominion in promoting the local interests of this riding, and what had been done to promote the progress and prosperity of Canada as a whole.

The records of the Liberal Governments in these two respects are closely connected with, and have a large bearing upon what the Government has done for the promotion of an interest which lies at the foundation of national development and progress—an interest which cannot be helped or injured, as a whole, without benefitting or impairing the general national condition—I refer to the interests of Labour.

The Liberal Government of the Dominion has, ever since it assumed the responsibility of administration, showed an earnest and practical interest in the cause of Labour.

This interest has been exhibited in both specific acts of legislation and administration, and by its general policy; the two combined having the effect of creating conditions eminently favourable to the welfare of the working man.

The Liberal Government has, while recognizing the rights of all classes of the community, done much in a direct way to benefit Labour without undue assumption of protection or patronage, feeling that the working classes as a body asked no favours above any other section of the community—that all they sought was fair play, and concession of their rights as citizens, and a due share of consideration in the legislative and administrative functions which Parliament and the Government are empowered to exercise.

Before referring to the direct acts and provisions in the interests of Labour, I might point out that the general administrative policy of the Liberal Government, while promoting the general welfare, has incidentally benefitted the wage earner.

The tariff adjustment made by the Liberal Government, by cheapening the raw material used in industrial operations, by removal or reduction of duties, directly benefitted the manufacturing industries of the country, and, through them, the working population. The interests of Capital and Labour, rightly adjusted, are so bound up together that what helps or hurts one helps or hurts the other.

When manufacturing industries are prosperous and busy, Labour is well employed at good wages; and under the Liberal policy of improving the condition of industry, the growth has, as everybody knows, been astonishing.

In 1896, the exports of Canadian manufactures amounted to only nine millions of dollars; the first full year of Liberal Government they increased a million and a half, and every year since there has been an increase of from two to three millions till last year, when there was a sharp advance of five and a half millions to a grand total of exported manufactures of $28,507,124, three times the figures of twelve years previous.

The capital invested in Canadian manufacturing establishments increased from 446 millions in 1900 to 833 millions in 1905—the latest census figures.

In the same period the wages paid to labour in manufacturing establishments, increased from 113 millions in 1900 to 162 millions in 1905, an increase of ten million dollars a year.

In the benefits of this great growth of manufacturing industry, Labour and its interests had its share.

In their tariff adjustment the Liberal Government, by lessening or removing tariff obstacles to the provision of supplies and machinery required by the miner and the farmer, stimulated these industries into greater activity, with the result of larger and more profitable and productive operations—an increased output swelling the traffic of shipping and railways; and in every step of these advances Labour had its share of activity and reward.

So the vigorous immigration policy of the Liberal Government, which has increased the population of the West to over a million, has increased our home market, and created new and enlarged demands upon the eastern manufacturer, with, of course, increased demands for the assistance of labour.

Every man who toils knows that in the past twelve years, the conditions of the labouring man and artizan has been splendid—employment plentiful and wages high.

Not only has the prosperity that has attended the application of the general policy of the Liberal Government conduced to the bettering of the condition of the wage-earner in pocket and property, but the specific Labour legislation of the Liberal Government has safeguarded his rights, protected his person, and promoted his health.

A brief reference to the specific provisions made in the interests of our working people, will show that the Liberal Government's policy in this regard has been of the most energetic, progressive and liberal character; and will also sustain the claim that practically all the legislation enacted—with the single exception of "Labour Day"—has been passed and applied by a Liberal Government of the Dominion within the past twelve years.

Prior to the elections of 1896, the Conservative Government appointed a commissioner to investigate the existence of an alleged sweating system. He reported that there was no such system.

When the Liberal Government came into power it looked into the matter and found that an odious sweating system, ten years old, existed in connection with government contracts for Mounted Police clothing, etc.—men, women and children forced to work long hours in foul, stuffy rooms, at starvation wages. Regulations to put a stop to this white slavery were adopted by the Liberal Government, and have since been carried out with successful results.

This condition of things led to the Liberal Government's fair wage policy, applied to all Government works. It required that every Government contractor must give a fair day's wage for a fair day's work—he must pay the "going" wages in the district where the work is being done.

In contracts for uniforms of soldiers, mounted police, and letter carriers and other uniformed officials, it is provided that work must be done under sanitary conditions, that current wages shall be paid for work done, in proper hours of labour, and a fair wage officer was appointed to see that these conditions are complied with.

In scores of cases where contractors have defaulted in payment, the Government has paid the workmen, thus saving them from loss, and deducted the amount from what was due the contractor.

In 1900 the Liberal Government did what the Conservatives had merely talked about for years—especially before the elections of 1889, 1891 and 1896—established the Department of Labour, directly identified with the interests of working men and working women, the greatest single factor in the building up of the Dominion of Canada.

In addition to all the benefits accruing to Labour through the working of this department, the greatest compliment ever paid to Labour consisted in erecting this Department into an independent Department under an independent Minister of Labour, as we have Ministers of Finance, of Railways, Trade and Commerce, the Premier Minister of Canada declaring that the Department has enough work, and is important enough to require, and have, the whole time, energy and attention of a Minister of the Crown.

The splendid record of the Department of Labour for the past eight years, is a foretaste of what will be accomplished under the added dignity and efficiency represented by a responsible Minister, and under a continuance of Liberal administration.

Under the Conciliation Act of 1900, for the settlement of Labour and Capital disputes, within only four or five years many threatened strikes, some of them of ominous character—like that of the Valleyfield cotton mills—were settled through the Act, and disastrous idleness prevented in the case of 15,000 or 20,000 employees. The saving in capital and wages amounted to thousands of dollars.

An expansion of this legislation was the Act known as the Lemieux Act, to aid in the prevention of strikes and lock outs in all industries connected with public utilities, which makes compulsory an investigation before a strike or lock out can be legally declared.

This extremely beneficial act together with the Conciliation Act of 1900, has been instrumental in saving, to both employers and employees, hundreds of thousands, if not millions, of dollars, in lost business and wages, and in saving immense sums of money, and great inconvenience to the public dependent upon the regular operation of public utilities.

Up till August of this year, the Lemieux Act has been invoked in over forty cases affecting 40,000 employees, and millions of capital, and in only two cases have strikes followed investigations. The Dominion Trades and Labour Congress held in Winnipeg in September last year, voted 59 to 22 in favour of bringing all trades under the Act.

The Railway Labour Disputes Act of 1903, provides for an inquiry under oath into the causes of disputes between railway companies and employees. The result is that railway strikes and the public inconvenience attendant upon tie-ups of large systems are rare, though conciliatory legislation to prevent all strikes, seems to be hardly possible.

The Liberal Government was the first in Canada to pass—in 1897—a law prohibiting the importation of Alien Labour under contract. By appeal to the Privy Council, the Department has proved the Act constitutional; and it has been the means of protecting Canadian Labour from alien competition. In the recent strike of the C. P. R. employees, but for this Act the strike-breakers would have had easy work—the railway shops would have been flooded with idle mechanics from the United States.

In 1905, the Liberal Government procured the passing of an Act making it a criminal offence for any one to induce workingmen to come to Canada on false pretences, and create formidable competition to home labour.

The danger of the invasion of Canada, by the cheap labour of the hordes of Oriental countries, to the detriment of white labour enlisted the interest and intervention of the Liberal Government. The head tax of $100 to exclude Chinese imposed in 1900, was advanced to the prohibitive figure of $500 per head, and additional measures of exclusion were adopted.

Hon. Mr. Lemieux, Minister of Labour, was sent to Japan, and made arrangements for a limitation of Japanese labour satisfactory to Canada, and Mr. Mackenzie King arranged with the British Government for practical cessation of immigration from India of cheap labour.

Acting on the report of a commission which investigated the terrible condition of workmen in railway construction camps on the Crow's Nest Pass Railway, the Liberal Government in 1898, procured legislation permitting the Government to make regulations, providing for the proper housing of workmen in railway construction camps, sanitary conditions, proper medical attendance, and hospitals for contagious diseases, and anything necessary for the comfort and well-being of the men.

Among the legislation enacted by the Liberal Government for the protection of the life and limb of workingmen, in response to the wishes of labour organizations, is an amendment to the Railway Act, requiring all trains to be equipped with appliances, such as automatic car couplers, outside car ladders, hand-grips, etc., so as to minimize the danger of accident, which according to statistics gathered by the Labour Department, amounts to 1000 deaths a year, and three times that number affected with disabling injuries.

A special officer was also appointed in connection with the Railway Commission to inquire into and report the causes of accidents on railways, and the best means for their prevention.

Further evidence of the solicitude of the Liberal Government for the interests of railway employees, is found in the fact that last session the Minister of Railways and Canals had rescinded the clause of the Railway Act, making railway men liable for prosecution for any accident that might be laid at their door, when under nervous strain of such a responsibility and fatigue from long hours without sleep.

The abolition of the sweating system by the Liberal Government, protected women and children, and the investigation made into the excessive hours of telephone girls in Toronto in 1907, brought shorter hours; and inquiry last summer into conditions in regard to the employment of children in cotton factories, will lead to legislation in keeping with the unremitting efforts of the Liberal Government, to protect the wage earner.

Such are the salient points of the record of the Liberal Government in the matter of Labour Legislation and Administration, and no elector, who has at heart the interests of this city and this country, bound up, as they are inseparably, with the interests of Labour in all its departments, can hesitate as to a choice between the government he should support upon this, as upon general questions.

There is no opportunity for comparison of records, for as far as I can recall, there was not a single act of legislation, passed by the Conservative Government in 18 years, in the interests of the Labour element of our population, except the Act setting apart Labour Day as a statutory holiday.

Contrast that with the splendid record of achievement of twelve years I have the honour of outlining above, and no one will doubt the far-reaching and effective nature of the Liberal policy of practical dealing with the interests of Canadian Labour.

I need only add that I am in hearty sympathy with that policy, and if you honour me with election, I shall use my best efforts to assist in promoting the work in this regard of a Government which has done as much in the way of effective legislation and administration in the cause of Labour as in the progressive and prosperity-producing administration of the general interests of all classes of the people of this great Dominion.

Personally, I may claim that I have not been wanting in interest in the welfare of Labour in Peterborough, and elsewhere. As a supporter and member of the Liberal Government of Ontario, which has placed so splendid a mass of legislation in the interests of Labour, on the statute books of the province, I have had my share in doing what has been done; and I have, to the best of my ability, endeavoured, on the more practical and material side, to bring both Labour and Capital into mutually profitable relations, and to contribute, in an humble way, to the material upbuilding of all the substantial interests of Peterborough.

If the electors think that I will be able, as their representative, to give them effective and energetic service, with, as I have striven to do in the past, no discrimination as to class, creed, or political persuasion, I invite, and expect, their support to secure my election as representative of West Peterborough in the Dominion Parliament.

I have the honour to be, gentlemen,

Your obedient servant,

J. R. Stratton

NO SCANDAL ABOUT THE DEAD

C. N. P. Transaction Was Fine Business Move Says Paterson.

SETTLERS PAY THEIR WAY

Minister of Customs In Big Rally at Collingwood Says British Columbia Government Gave Lands to C.N.P. Railway and It Was a Good Transaction—U.S. Immigrants Brought Nine Millions.

Collingwood, Ont., Oct. 14.—With characteristic enterprise the citizens of Collingwood last night seized upon the visit of Hon. William Paterson, Minister of Customs, to impress upon that distinguished gentleman what was required to build up here a great ship building, ship repairing and marine entry port. The opera house was well filled.

"Men take more interest in things when they are alive than when they are dead," said he in justifying the improvement of the waterways.

"I call the Crow's Nest Pass transaction one of the best ever accomplished, and I don't call it a scandal. The Government never gave away an acre of coal lands. It had none to give. Sir James Whitney looks after them. The crown lands of British Columbia belong to that province and they gave coal lands as a bonus for the building of a much-needed railroad for which they had granted a charter. Now that section of country is the scene of happy homes and thriving towns and villages."

The settlers from the United States, he said, had brought into this country last year, duty free, nine million dollars' worth of settlers' effects.

These settlers had also brought in dutiable supplies valued at ten million dollars. One million dollars was paid for new immigration. Thus, summarized the Minister, Canada got the immigrants and was still one million dollars to the good.

Leighton G. McCarthy, ex-M.P., also spoke.

Bishops Prohibited.

Paris, Oct. 14.—According to The Figaro the Bishops of France have received a circular from Cardinal Merry del Val, the papal secretary of state, absolutely forbidding them, in the future, to attend the lectures of the state faculties.

YOU CAN'T AFFORD TO FEEL "DOPEY"

—to have headaches—an easily-tired body—a stuffy-feeling brain—even for part of the time. There are too many keen alert men and women, always at their best, to give much chance of success to one thus handicapped.

These things are the direct results of a sluggish liver—constipated bowels—dry skin — overworked kidneys — in short, of a body whose sewers are clogged.

Nothing opens up these outlets of the waste, and clears the system of poison so gently, yet so effectively, as "Fruit-a-tives." "Fruit-a-tives" are the juices of oranges, apples, figs and prunes combined—by a process that greatly increases their medicinal value—with valuable tonics and internal antiseptics, and made into tablets.

Take one or two "Fruit-a-tives" every night, eat plenty of ripe fruit, and see how quickly your brain clears and headaches leave you. 50c a box—6 for $2.50. Trial size 25c. Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

VACATION.

This is the glad vacation time,
When dainty Doris rests.
She's staying at a beach hotel
With some six hundred guests.
She golfs and swims and drives and walks
All day without a stop,
And every night she flirts till twelve
Or dances at a hop.

She's having just a quiet time
To rest her tired brain.
Her work all through the college year
You know, was such a strain!
But now she's resting—gaining strength
As all girls ought to do.
She's up each day at eight o'clock
And gets to sleep at two.

How blessed is vacation, when
Your brain is tired out,
To rest your nerves and give you calm
And make you strong and stout!
And Doris will return refreshed,
Her brown eyes bright and clear,
To look ahead to peaceful days
Of rest another year.

Clothes and the Man.

A gentleman met his medical adviser on Forty-second street the other day and passed a friendly greeting.

"Well, and how are you?" asked the doctor.

"Quite passable, thanks," sniff the other, "but I notice that when I bend my body forward, stretch out my arms horizontally and impart to them a circular motion I always feel such a pain in my left shoulder."

"But what need is there for you to perform such ridiculous antics?" inquired the physician.

"Do you know any other way, doctor, of getting on your topcoat?" replied the patient.—Harper's Weekly.

What's in a Word?

Two men were discussing the trouble in India, and each had a deal to say about his notion of Hindoo character.

Facts in the Case.

"So," jeered the friend as he watched the wreck before him, "you boasted nothing could happen to unseat you."

"Yes," faintly returned the fallen rider, floundering under his kicking steed, "this is, indeed, a horse on me."—Baltimore American.

Ostend—Ma, what is a cyclone cellar?

Ma—A cyclone cellar, my dear, is our basement after your father has mistaken the poor old tomcat for a burglar and chased him around with a broom and a clothes prop.—Chicago News.

Silver Wire Saves Leg.

New York, Oct. 13.—After three delicate surgical operations, the first two of which failed to give satisfactory results, physicians in Harlem Hospital have succeeded in saving the right leg of Roswell Corcoran, 11 years old, by fastening broken bones together with a silver wire. This is the third successful operation of the kind performed in the institution within the last few months.

FAVORITE FRUITS.

Don't neglect the grapevines. Give them a good spraying with bordeaux mixture as soon as the first leaves have expanded. If there has been no preliminary treatment of the dormant wood, be careful to make this spraying thorough.

Two New Strawberries.

Bisa is a good late strawberry, producing medium to large fruit of firm flesh and fine flavor. It is light crimson in color.

Virginia is another new berry of acceptable quality, with moderately firm pink or red flesh. The first fruits are unusually smooth and uniform and of medium or above medium size. This variety is astonishingly prolific.

Care of Currants.

Keep currant bushes free from grass and weeds. Apply the proper remedies for the currant worm at the first sign of its presence. Trim out a portion of the new canes if overabundant. Remember that currants, if well taken care of, always give a sure crop and satisfactory results generally, but are an eyesore and annoyance right along if neglected. The occasional use of tobacco dust or white hellebore thrown over the dew wet bushes will leave no chance for the worms.

The Gooseberry.

As soon as the leaves are well started on gooseberry bushes cut out all the nonstarting or sickly looking canes and burn them. In this way you may destroy many borers, to the benefit of your plantation. Gooseberries are especially subject to attacks of the currant worm. When branches are more than three years of age they should be removed to make way for younger wood. It is advisable to cut out all branches which touch the ground, as there will then be a better circulation of air, and the fruit will be kept off the ground. Gooseberries will often begin to bear the second year after planting.

The Dot.

"Has that titled son-in-law of yours any business sense?"

"Yes," answered Mr. Dustinstax. "I must say I admire his foresight and sagacity. He absolutely refused to take any chances on my regarding him as a poor relation."—Washington Star.

A Light Repast.

Alligator—Great reptiles! I've gone and swallowed a cork leg, and now I can't sink to the bottom!—Minneapolis Journal.

Plenty of Kicks Coming.

A wise man once said to his son,
"Whenever you think of a pun
Go out in the yard
And kick yourself hard,
And let me begin when you're done."
—Cornell Widow.

A Lost Illusion.

Mr. Baker—I want to tell you, my love, that the horrid story we heard about Mrs. Brown is not true.

Mrs. Baker—Oh, dear! What made you tell me? Now I'll have nothing to talk about at the card club.—Brooklyn Life.

His Feat.

News item: A carpenter in a boarding house last week sawed three weeks' board.—Judge.

Lest You Forget.

When you cross the waters blue
Take this loyal thought with you:
Though you journey far and wide,
Don't forgyt your civic pride.
—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Bee Like.

Bacon—That man reminds me of a bee.

Egbert—So busy?

"No; because every time he unloads anything on a fellow the fellow gets stung!"—Yonkers Statesman.

True to His Art.

Askitt—Who is that crusty old chap?

Noitt—That's Bunns, the baker.—Smart Set.

Jest Singin'.

"And have you music at the church?"
I asked the rural squire.
"Waal, no," said he: "can't say we have;
Jest singin' by the choir."

Call of the Wild.

She—Did you ever hear the call of the wild?

He—I just guess I did! I wrote a piece once, and I heard the audience calling for the author.—Yonkers Statesman.

At the Quick Lunch.

Bill—You say he's old fashioned?

Jill—Well I should say so! Why, he chews his food!—Yonkers Statesman.

Grateful Affection.

"I love my country passing well!"
The officeholder cried, with glee.
"I ought to love it, truth to tell,
Since it has been so good to me!"
—Washington Star.

Sizing It Up.

"Is it fair," remarked the observer of events and things, "to judge an iceman's conscience by the size of the piece of ice you find on your doorstep?"—Yonkers Statesman.

Changed.

As man and wife poor Peck and she
Their married life began.
But that was months ago, you see;
Now they are wife and man.
—Denver News-Times.

The Occasion For It.

"He says he never prayed in all his life."

"What a monotonous existence! Apparently he has never been in a tight place."—Catholic Standard and Times.

A Striking Resemblance.

"Why does old Richman call his auto after his son-in-law, the Duke?"

"Because its first cost was the smallest item."—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Close Beginning.

Miserly Bridegroom (as the carriage moves off)—Hey, there, save that rice! —New York Life.

Mr. Microbe.

When Mr. Microbe comes along
He doesn't whir nor buss;
He doesn't even sing a song,
As Br'er Mosquito does.
He lights upon your hands or lips
In silence most profound
And rests a bit before he skips
Inquiringly around.

But, ah, dear child, beware of him,
For if your hands are soiled
And if your clothes are not brushed trim
And if your milk's not boiled
He'll bite you with whole rows of teeth—
He always keeps them sharp—
And then you'll wear a golden wreath
And strum a golden harp.
—New York American.

Dangerous Youngster.

"You'd better be kind o' careful how you talk to me," said Tommy, doubling his small fists and glaring at the other boy. "I've got the artistic temperment, and I've got it bad!"—Chicago Tribune.

Gas at Innerkip.

A great flow of natural gas has been struck at Innerkip, and in a few months, the company exploiting the find say, they will be supplying Woodstock, Ingersoll, London and other places to an unlimited extent. At a depth of a thousand feet the flow was struck. Five boring outfits will be put at work at once. The company holds leases on five thousand acres of land in the neighborhood.

Ladies After Gold.

News from Prince Albert continues to report almost daily the departure of fresh parties for the Lake Larouge gold and copper fields. One of the latest departures is that of the first ladies to go north in quest of gold—Mrs. Rise McArthur and her niece, Miss Nellie Lightbody. Mr. McArthur is a lady of 36, and her niece, who is 18, was employed in the local telephone office.

A Slow Service.

The Host—Too bad that fisherman hasn't two hooks. It's so disagreeable to wait so long between courses.

ARE ANSWERING CHARGE OF MURDER

Three Laborers Put on Trial For Murder in G.T.P. Camp.

THREW KNIFE IN RIVER

Prisoner Quinn on Stand Says Wright Went to River and Washed His Hands and Threw Something In the River — Begged Wright to Fight It Out With Fists— Court-Room Is Crowded.

North Bay, Oct. 14.—The trial of Thomas Wright, James Quinn and Michael Morris, for the murder of Frits L. Young at Iroquois Falls, on the G.T.P. construction, May 30, is creating intense interest, the courthouse being crowded. The case for the prosecution was closed by Prosecutor Groswicke early yesterday afternoon, and T. W. McGarry, attorney for Quinn, who swore that Wright displayed a knife and threatened to use it on Young if the latter did not leave him alone. This happened at the camp fire before the tragedy and after Young and Wright had quarreled in the dining tent. Witness begged Wright not to use the knife, but to fight it out with fists. Wright returned to the dining tent and the fight ensued. Morris ran into the tent, followed by witness and both attacked Young, while Wright stepped back and then rushed forward, striking Young in the abdomen.

Interference by Jack Milligan caused a cessation of the battle, which was to be renewed outside, but at the door Young said, "I'm knifed," and lifting his shirt, revealed a bad gash in the abdomen, from which the intestines protruded.

Witness then left the tent and saw Wright go to the river, throw something in and wash his hands. Wright then told witness that "none of them took notice to me giving it to him."

Quinn declared Wright was half drunk when the tragedy occurred. Next day Wright tried to induce Quinn and Morris to get out of the country, but they refused. During their incarceration in jail Quinn swore that Wright had asked him and Morris to stand by him and make one fight, treating them with ham and eggs secured from outside.

Eye-witnesses of the tragedy saw no weapon used, but Patrick Lynch, cook at the camp, swore that Wright struck Young in the abdomen, making a peculiar motion unlike a blow.

Wright's counsel, G. T. Bull, endeavored to introduce as evidence the murdered man's conversation with Cook Milligan on the trip to McDougall's Chutes after the tragedy, a dying declaration in which it is alleged the murdered man accused Quinn of stabbing him. This evidence was excluded, as it could not be proved that Young realized he was dying.

Prosecutor Groswicke pointed out to the jury the peculiar part of the case in that Quinn's evidence at the inquest made no mention of any admissions by Wright or having seen him throw anything into the river, followed by hand-washing.

Constable George Kielty of Matheson, however, testified that Quinn told him of Wright's threats when the prisoners were at Matheson after the inquest. All three were handcuffed to bedposts in the same room at the Hotel Abitibbi.

Justice Britton charged the jury this morning.

Drop Political Appointees.

Ottawa, Oct. 14.—The report of the board of conciliation which dealt with the difficulties between the I.C.R. and its freight clerks has been accepted by the I.C.R. management. The report recommended a rearrangement of the staff and the dropping of a number of clerks who were appointed through political influence.

ADMITS COUNTERFEITING.

Thomas N. Crozier Makes Confession at Oakville.

Oakville, Oct. 14.—Thomas N. Crozier of Toronto, charged with uttering counterfeit bills, has made a confession.

Further evidence bearing both on his case and that of his son, Milton Crozier, who is charged with him, had been found, and both were yesterday remanded a week, when they appeared here before Magistrate Shields. They will come up at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon next at Milton. The pair were photographed here before appearing in court.

In his confession, the older man told Inspector Parkinson of the Dominion Secret Service and Chief Mo-

THOMAS N. CROZIER.

Creary of Oakville that he had passed the bills in Oakville and had also passed others in Toronto and Buffalo.

He still, however, denies that he passed the two Farmers' Bank tens at the Toronto exhibition. In his confession he made yet other disclosures which the police refuse to make public.

It has come to light that a man known as "Scotty," confined in the Milton jail as a vagrant on the day when the Crosiers were taken there after their first appearance in court, found a note scribbled on a sheet of paper obviously meant for the son. In this Crosier senior instructs him to say that he was given the bills at Guelph, and did not know that they were bogus.

Murdered In Chicago.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—The body of a man with a fractured skull, apparently murdered and thrown into the drainage canal, was found floating at Lemont, Ill., Monday by the police. A Chicago bank deposit book and a memorandum book, both bearing the name of Cornelius Brussard, Preston, Canada, were found in the pockets. The man was apparently 23 years of age.

Preston, Oct. 14.—Chief Levan yesterday informed the Chicago police that Brussard was employed with the Canadian Office and School Furniture Co. until last May. He has a married sister in Paterson, N.J. He came from the old country.

Town Half Burned.

Stettler, Alta., Oct. 14.—Fully one-half of the business portion of the town was burned yesterday morning and Leslie Mellers lost his life.

Fire broke out in Beck's bowling alley and had made great headway before discovered.

Leslie Miller, who slept over Riggs & Whyte's store, was suffocated in bed. The body will be sent to Grand Valley, Ont., by the Oddfellows.

Taft Train In Accident.

Sterling, Ohio, Oct. 14.—The first casualty to the Taft special in all its travels occurred at 10.30 yesterday morning as the train pulled into a siding at this place. The front truck of the Presidential candidate's car and the rear truck of a Pullman just ahead of it left the tracks.

The cause of the accident was ascribed to the spreading of the rails.

Balloon Lost at Sea.

Berlin, Oct. 14.—A wireless message received yesterday from Arnold, the conductor of the St. Louis balloon in the Gordon-Bennett race, says "Lost everything in the North Sea last night."

The balloonists were picked up by a fishing schooner. The balloon left Berlin on Sunday. Several others have landed close to the sea.

1,000 Farms For Sale.

Toronto, Oct. 14.—A list of 1,000 farms for sale in Ontario is being prepared by the Bureau of Immigration. It is for use in Great Britain, where it will be circulated among the class of small tenant farmers and renters who desire to emigrate and own their own land. It is believed that many valuable settlers will be obtained by this means.

Sent Up For Trial.

Montreal, Oct. 14.—Michele Cahori, the Italian lad who in a drunken frenzy on Sunday night killed his father and mother, was yesterday sent up for trial, being held criminally responsible.

The murderer claims to be only 15 years of age, and asserts that he was so drunk he scarcely knew what he was doing.

Rails Committed.

Cobourg, Oct. 14.—Richard L. Ralls, the postmaster at Fennella, in the township of Haldimand, who was arrested last week for neglecting to deliver letters, was brought before Magistrate Henty F. Holland yesterday morning. He was committed for trial in the December sessions.

First Prize For G.T.R.

Toronto, Oct. 14.—A cable was received yesterday announcing that the Grand Trunk Railway had been awarded the grand prize for their building and exhibit at the Franco-British Exhibition.

This is the highest award that can be given.

Porter Sues Millionaire.

New York, Oct. 14.—A negro porter is suing Millionaire Brady for $20,000 for false arrest in Montreal.

The Montreal police chief declares that Brady signed the theft charge.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

An earthquake has been recorded in Utah.

The U. S. National Suffrage Association is in session in Buffalo.

The inquest into the recent wreck at Brantford has been postponed to Oct. 2.

The Canadian Club of Boston banquetted Ambassador Bryce, with 1,500 present.

The Midland Prince punctured the forward compartment in the Nesbish Channel on Monday.

Bruce Wilson, Y.M.C.A. secretary at Brantford, has accepted a similar position at New Rochelle, N.Y.

Lyman C. Mann of Chicago, accused of murdering Mrs. F. G. Thompson, is released on $25,000 bonds.

Commander Spain, Dominion wreck commissioner, has left for Winnipeg to deliver judgment in the disaster to the steamer Pioneer.

Foster George has been arrested in St. Louis and $25,000 in stolen jewelry recovered. He was betrayed by a woman to whom he refused money.

Two of the principals (man and woman) accused in the "white slave" cases at Chicago have jumped their bail of $25,000 and escaped to France. There are thirty indictments against them.

The Servians in the now under arms, including the reserves recently called out, reach a total of 120,000 men. They will be kept to the colors for another month, pending a settlement of the situation.

Found In Red River.

Winnipeg, Oct. 14.—The body of Emile G. Smith, civil engineer of Ottawa, was found in the Red river here yesterday morning, and it is presumed he committed suicide. He had been engaged on the G.T.P. construction work near Vermilion Bay, but had been confined in the hospital for a time last summer, leaving there against the orders of his physician. He had also been in the city for the greater part of August, but little or nothing is known of his recent movements. The body was still warm when found.

Aims to Be High Flyer.

Paris, Oct. 14.—Wilbur Wright, the aviator, has told Lezare Weiller, head of the syndicate that has purchased the French rights to the Wright Bros. machine that he will attempt some flights for height. There is no reason, he is reported to have said, why he should not go up to a height of 3,000 feet.

Twenty-Two Koreans Killed.

Seoul, Oct. 14.—It has just been learned that twenty-two members of the "Ilchinhol," an organization of Koreans favorable to Japan, were killed by Japanese gendarmes at Chiodo a few days ago. It is said the victims were mistaken for a band of insurgents.

Double Murder.

Oswego, N.Y., Oct. 14.—When Chas. Ward, surprised at getting no response to his rapping at the house of his neighbors, John and Peter Bohlt, 50 years of age, at Ingalls Crossing, this county, broke in the door yesterday morning and entered, his investigations disclosed the fact that the two brothers were dead on the floor of the kitchen, both with several bullet wounds in their bodies and their heads battered in with an axe. Burglary was the motive, and tramps are suspected.

Commissioners at Convention.

Toronto, Oct. 14.—Chairman Leitch, vice-chairman Ingram and H. M. Rittson, members, and Secretary Small of the Ontario Railway Board, are attending the street railway convention at Atlantic City. They will visit Pittsburg subsequently for the test of street car fenders to be made there.

Found Guilty.

Toronto, Oct. 14.—Walter Dixon was found guilty of the theft of $475 from Bert McInnis in the sessions yesterday morning.

George Ware was also found guilty of indecent assault on Margaret Catherine Gains, a colored idiot girl.

Fatal Fire at Niagara Falls.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Oct. 14.—Ten Italians escaped from a burning building, once used for a roller rink, which was burned Monday night.

Felix Cretelle, a youth who went into the building after some property, lost his life. Loss, $3,500.

Quake Recorded.

Ottawa, Oct. 14.—The seismograph at the Dominion Observatory recorded a severe earthquake shock just after midnight and lasting 2 1-2 hours. The seat of the shock is estimated to be 2,300 miles away.

Laurier Speaks at La Prairie.

Montreal, Oct. 14.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier addressed a large meeting at La Prairie yesterday, while Hon. Sydney Fisher spoke at Westmouth. Both Ministers were received with enthusiasm.

The ladies of Peterboro will be pleased to hear that an up-to-date Hair Parlour will be opened at No. 408 1-2 George St., over the Crystal Theatre. AN IMMENSE AMOUNT OF TOWING BEING CARRIED ON ON THE UPPER LAKES DURING THE AUTUMN SEASON

Steamer Majestic Holds Record for September---Brought Down 575 Cords of Wood Besides Stone---Freight For Apsley Merchants and Telephone Supplies Among the Up-Cargoes

Towing on the lakes in the north of Peterborough County is becoming an industry of much importance. The steamer Majestic is in the midst of a busy season just now. She is towing down lumber at the present time from Gilchrist Bay from the Lynch & Ryan lumber mill.

The Majestic holds the freight record for September. During that month 575 cords of wood and two scow loads of stone passed through the Young's Point lock. In addition to this she ran several passenger trips. Altogether she has 350,000 feet of lumber yet to bring to Lakefield from Gilchrist Bay. About 120,000 feet have already been landed at the dock there. Most of the lumber is for the Massey-Harris Company. Two loads of stone from the Brodie quarry also will be brought down. The wood belonged to Hicks & Company and was obtained at South Bay, Mount Julian and Deer Bay.

The Stoney Lake ran a freight trip to-day up the lake, calling at Mount Julian, McCracken's Landing and Burleigh Falls. She carried about 17 tons, including freight for Apsley merchants and material for the new independent telephone system between Apsley and Mount Julian. Other boats are also busily engaged in towing and it will be some weeks yet before the season is brought to a close.

Four Local Boys Charged With Stealing Apples Appear In Court

Four boys appeared before Magistrate Dumble at police court this morning on a charge of stealing apples from the orchard of Mrs. Davidson, Dalhousie street. P. C. Newhall testified that he had seen three of the boys in the orchard and another lying on the grass outside at 9.30 o'clock on Thursday night of last week. He had chased the boys and the latter had thrown apples from their pockets as they ran along. One boy whom he caught was eating an apple.

The boys denied that they had taken any apples although three of them admitted that they had been in the orchard. They were unable to find any apples on the tree and therefore did not throw any away.

The Magistrate reserved judgment in the case until to-morrow morning.

Chief Howard's Waggon Is Strong Athough It Is Of A Light Build

Chief Howard's light waggon which is being built at Fitzgerald's carriage works, Brock street, will meet with all the requirements when turned out. Strength is the quality that is aimed at, and from the wheels up it will be constructed to withstand strains. The seat is 42 inches wide, capable of accommodating three men. There is sufficient room at the back for a chemical engine and small articles of that kind. It will be some time yet before it is completed.

Excitement In Hamilton Over The Big Wrestling Match On Saturday

The great question in athletic circles just now is, Who is the unknown Conkle is going to put up against Hurtubise?

The local grappler says that it is a find of his own, and says that it is not any of the men who have a habit of travelling around the country and having a different name every city they strike. He offers to bet that Hurtubise will be beaten and he made a substantial bet with Chris. Graham, of Peterborough, yesterday. Hurtubise is well known among the football fraternity and it has been decided to hold the match next Saturday night so as to allow all the Rugby magnates who will be here for the big game a chance to see the match. The pair will meet in the Armoury rink, and an effort is being made to have Twynham and Smith settle their trouble as a preliminary.—Hamilton Herald.

MORDECAI BROWN GIVES SOME ADVICE TO YOUNG PITCHERS

"Feint the batsman into expecting a certain ball, then give him something else," is the simple explanation offered by Mordecai Brown, the Chicago Cubs' great pitcher, for his success in the pitcher's box. That is his advice to youngsters breaking into the game who aspire to be successful twirlers.

"Almost every young pitcher that breaks into the big leagues," says Brown, "possesses everything in the way of speed, curves, change of pace and other styles of delivery that the old-timers have, but the man with the greatest speed and the best breaking curves often gets an awful thumping. These are invaluable assets, of course, but the whole plan must be to outguess the opposing batter. If you do, he hasn't a chance; if you don't, then you have not.

"One day I struck out one of the best batsmen in the club. He told his manager he fanned on a curve that didn't break.

"There was a degree of truth in that remark. Every slab artist must know his opposing batsmen. They differ greatly, and to cross them is the whole purpose in life of a pitcher. So vary the degree of your curves. That is what I did to that batter who struck out on a curve ball that didn't break. I shot him one of those big benders, and a little later handed him another curve, only this time the break was very small. He looked for a wide curve and it wasn't there, so he missed it.

"I don't know when I have ever enjoyed striking out a man more than I did Ty Cobb in that last game in Detroit last fall. I got him twice in that game, in the fourth and in the ninth. It was the first time I fanned him that gave me the greatest pleasure. Sam Crawford had opened the fourth with a two-base hit. Then came Cobb and everyone looked for the great Ty to do something.

"The first ball I pitched was a fast curve with a sharp hook, close in to him. Ty tried to hook it, but missed. Back I came with another right in the same place; short, sharp and fast. Ty wasn't looking for just the same thing, and had to hustle to even swing on it. He hooked again and missed just as far. That nettled the champion batsman; two strikes and no balls, and both swung at.

"I waited a few seconds looking at him and let him stand there watching. Then I shot a straight, fast one right at him, neck high. Cobb had to duck it, but the ball was straight over the plate and only breast high when he was standing up naturally. He knew it and swung desperately, missing the ball more than either of the others, than he walked to the bench, took his drink of water, and sat down.

A Former Local Clergyman Begins Pastorate In Chicago

Rev. J. J. Rae, former pastor of Charlotte street Methodist church, was installed last night as pastor of the Eighth Presbyterian church, corner of Washington Boulevard and Robey street, Chicago. The ceremony was begun at eight o'clock and a large congregation was present to welcome their new pastor. The church is a handsome structure of cut stone and is one of the largest in Chicago. Rev. Mr. Rae has many friends in Peterborough who will be pleased to learn of his success.

THE "MYSTERIOUS MR. E." STILL AT LARGE; VISITED THE ROLLER RINK AND CALLED ON LOCAL RESIDENTS; IS AS YET UNDETECTED

He Fooled the Many Sleuths Who Gathered at the Rink---Chase is However, Getting Warm and "Mr. E." Anticipates Trouble

AT ATHLETIC MEET TO-NIGHT

Examiner Office, 7.30 p.m.
Oct. 12th, 1908.

"I hereby swear upon my solemn oath not to reveal my identity to any person or persons or impart any information whatever that might permit any person or persons to claim the whole or any part of the reward offered for my capture.

(Signed) R. C. E.

Witnessed—
C. E. GRAHAM,
JOHN MOLONEY,
GEO. LENTON,
R. M. GLOVER,
G. A. GILLESPIE.

The great chase after the Mysterious "Mr. E." is creating more fun and excitement than anything that ever happened before in Peterborough. While no one has succeeded in landing him as yet, still his capture at any moment is expected. Never before in his experience has he had such a hard time in evading detection. Many laughable incidents have occurred through people tracking the wrong man. However, when a mistake is made all concerned take it in good part, so you need have no fear in giving the salutation to any smooth-faced man, who, in your estimation, is the mysterious one, but be sure and say right and don't forget to carry the Examiner with you always.

Mr. E's Movements

We have received Mr. E's letter, as follows:

Dear People of Peterborough — Well, Tuesday came and went and I am free. I had a fairly easy time of it during the day. I intended it being so for the first day, but I certainly worked at a high pitch last night. I arose yesterday morning at 9.45, and after placing myself on the outside of two sandwiches and a cup of coffee in a restaurant on George street, I proceeded to stroll around the city and get a line on the people. I was anxious to see the interest displayed, and just exactly what I had to prepare myself for. After promenading the main streets I sat in the rotunda of the Oriental House for fully ten minutes. I sat and read the account of the chase in the Examiner. I then made my way to the post office, purchased a stamp and posted a letter. I then proceeded to find out the conditions in the residential district, and was surprised to find the people almost as keen in this quarter. I saw not less than forty-three different ones accosted, but, of course, they were the wrong men.

I always devote my first day, as I have said, in summing things up as I go, and I was a little surprised that it had been arranged that I should visit the rink at night. I had taken no chances during the day. Well, according to instructions, I took up my position in a certain spot in the vicinity of the rink at 7.30 and remained there for nearly ninety minutes, waiting for a signal. My manager came and went. I began to wonder what the game was. I saw them at last, however, clearing the young folks who were hanging around the yard up to the street. I then knew that they were working or intending to work the No. 3 move, and two minutes later my notions were confirmed. I received No. 3 signal.

How it was Done

'Twas done this way. Mr. O'Connor was on guard. I followed exactly behind Mr. Green, entered the lobby and waited there. He walked to the centre of the floor and asked to have the people assembled at the south end of the rink. They, of course, now had their backs to me. Mr. Green proceeded to make an announcement about the visit I was going to make very shortly — and shortly it was—and also referred to my visit on Thursday evening next. Of course you see the idea of me. I stood in the rink for exactly ninety seconds, according to my chronometer. Needless to remark I made myself scarce in good time, and furthermore I was half stiff with cold. As I have said I was looking around during the day.

Looking for Mr. Bradley

I now made my way north and met my managers at the appointed spot. They had walked some time, as they had driven in the McLaughlin-Buick at a good clip. I had walked. I received further instructions and proceeded along Bethune street. I rang the bell at 643 Bethune street, I think it was. It was dark. It seemed a shame to bring the nice old lady to the front door, but yet I was giving her a splendid chance to capture "Mr. E." She would not open the door at first and talked to me through the glass. Finally she opened it and I asked her if Mr. Bradley lived there. "No," said she. "This is Hebron." "Can you tell me where he lives?" said I. The old lady turned to someone on the inside, whom I could not see. "Maud, do you know where Mr. Bradley lives?" "He lives up at the north end of the street," said Maud. I thanked the lady very kindly and left.

I then walked along Rubidge. I knocked at 470 and a smooth-faced

"Mr. Stratton is Their Choice"

From the Lindsay Daily Free Press of October 13.

"Our neighbours in Peterborough county seem in a fair way to be in the next Parliament represented by a real live member, whose voice will be heard on the floor of the Commons and whose influence will be felt in the direction of legislation and in a vigorous advocacy of the interests of not only West Peterborough, but the whole Midland district. Mr. Stratton belongs to the order of men who do things. He has courage and capacity and a resolute and tenacious determination in the promotion of measures and enterprises that command his confidence and appeal to his judgment. He will be no "bump on a log" in the House of Commons, but a real representative of his district, as well as of his particular county.

"We speak of Mr. Stratton so positively as a future member, because the information to hand, coming to us from impartial sources, seems to indicate that beyond doubt or question the people of West Peterborough have determined to again avail themselves of Mr. Stratton's services. We think they have reached this conclusion wisely, and decidedly to their own manifest advantage, and that this will be more and more emphatically demonstrated as they have experience of the nature and value of Mr. Stratton's activities on the floor of Parliament."

SIXTY DEER SEEN

Came Singly and in Groups To Spring Near Gull Lake Where a Farmer Was Picking Cranberries Out of Their Sight

SEASON PROMISES WELL FOR DEER HUNTERS

While picking cranberries back near Gull Lake a young man named Cochrane counted sixty deer that came singly and in groups to drink at a spring in that neighbourhood. Mr. W. A. Stabler, who has recently been in that locality buying hogs, states that a large number of deer will be found in the north of the county when the season opens. Mr. Stabler says that, according to the accounts from the farmers, this will be one of the best seasons for deer that has been enjoyed in years. At this spring Mr. Cochrane counted three score deer, and the ground is worn bare by their hoofs, presenting the appearance of a barnyard. While there were quite a number of what appeared to be yearlings, there were also a number of bucks that carried a fine spread of antlers.

C.P.R. STRIKERS AT HAVELOCK REPORTED ALL AT WORK AGAIN

Reports from Havelock state that the C. P. R. strikers are all back to work and that those who were doing the "scabbing" have been relegated. On the whole the strike at the East Peterborough C. P. R. centre has been featured by no demonstrations, the men keeping within the pale of the law and order. The strike-breakers are now thrown on their uppers and will likely have to return to their former work, wherever it was.

BAPTIST MINISTER SAYS THINGS ABOUT THE WOMEN AND HATS

New York, Oct. 14.—"If there is any woman in the church who refuses to take off her hat, she can go home," announced Rev. Dr. Myers, pastor of Baptist Tabernacle, on Sunday night. "I would rather preach to vacant pews than to vacant minds. You could put 10,000 such words in a grain of mustard seed." These caustic comments were effective in displacing all the millinery except from a few highly favored ladies.

SAW THREE OTTERS

Capt. Chas. Gray Observes Them at South Bay, Stony Lake---Is A Rarity in the Animal Kingdom of Peterborough County

ARE LIVING IN SWALE NEAR HEAD OF LAKE

Otters are recognized to be one of the scarcest animals that are on the the shores and swales of the northern lakes in Peterborough county. But since the Government protection given these animals, they have been making their appearance recently, but, of course, are not very plentiful.

Capt. Chas. Gray of the steam tug Ajax, which brings down large quantities of wood for Mr. J E A Fitzgerald, reports that he saw three of this variety of fur-bearing animals at South Bay, Stony Lake, last week. They are living in a swale in the bay, apart from human habitations, and are thus given protection by nature, which, in view of their scarcity, they deserve.

C. meet to-night, are asked to meet at the Examiner office at 7.15 o'clock sharp for the purpose of obtaining their complimentary admission tickets. Every man on the following list is expected to be on hand:—Harry Munro, Captain; Walter Perks, Geo. Minorgan, R Howden, Geo Hogan, Roy Hutchinson, Frank Hetherman, Fred McGrath, W Milburn, C Walsh, W Fortye, R Burritt, J English, J Hughes and Lorne Fitzgerald.

LINDSAY ADOPTS THE WATER COMMISSIONERS' SPLENDID BY-LAW

The splendid bylaw passed by the Water Commissioners of Peterborough and sanctioned by the ratepayers of Peterborough at the last municipal election was adopted by the Water Commissioners yesterday afternoon and will be voted upon by the ratepayers of Lindsay at the municipal elections next January.—Lindsay Free Press.

A FIFTEEN YEAR OLD BOY WAS SUCCESSFUL IN KILLING TWO BEARS IN THE CHANDOS WOODS

Carrying Gun to Field of Marsh Hay When a She-Bear and Cubs Crossed His Path---His Companion Near By Ne Fatally Wounded Another

HE SHOWED RARE COURAGE IN FACING THE BEAR AS IT CAME TOWARDS HIM

Examiner Special

Chandos, Oct. 14.— Rare courage and unshaken nerve in hunting bears was shown yesterday and on Monday by the fifteen year old son of Mr. Willie Johnson when on each day he shot an old one, losing no time in despatching his game in each case.

On Monday the father and his two sons, one 17 years and the other 15 years of age, were on their way to a field to stack marsh hay. The younger boy was carrying a gun and in advance of his brother and father. He was suddenly surprised by scenes, a short distance ahead of him, an old she bear with two cubs. Feeling out the former he fired as, noticing him, it approached. The boy's nerve did not fail him for his bullet went true to the mark, fatally wounding the bear which was quickly put out of misery. The father and brother killed the two cubs.

Bagged Another

The youthful Johnson and a companion, Willie Kilbourne, left home yesterday to look for sport in the woods, but after a long tramp their efforts brought them nothing. They finally sat down on a log to rest and while absorbed in conversation they heard a rustling in the bush close at hand. Carefully watching for a chance they saw what was their astonishment to see three bears, only one of which was a cub. They picked out the older pair and were successful in securing vital spots. The cub escaped. These are only two instances to show that bears are unusually plentiful this fall.

Mr. Geo. Hatton's Private Fire Fighting Apparatus Examined

The private fire fighting equipment with which Mr. Geo. Hatton has equipped his residence, was inspected this afternoon by the members of the local fire brigade. A stand pipe extends from the first to the top floor with about fifty feet of hose on each. This method is employed in some of the local schools. Chief Howard took the Examiner out in refuge of same. His idea was that it was desirable to have the firemen acquainted with the equipment in order that they would know what to do in case of fire.

The action met with Mr. Hatton's pleasure.

SLEUTHS GET AFTER "MR. E'S" MANAGER; CHASE A MERRY ONE

If the Mysterious "Mr. E." is not having a merry chase in Peterborough, his managers, Messrs. L. H. O'Connor and Geo. Felix Green certainly are. This afternoon they happened to drop into T. Barrie & Co.'s store and were at once spotted by the bunch of amateur Sherlock Holmes who were studying the photographs of the elusive stranger displayed in the windows of that establishment. Both men were challenged several times, and when they separated, one going to the P.H.C. alleys and the other into several stores they were each followed by a crowd of sleuths.

THE ANNUAL MEETING HELD

King's Daughters of St. John's Church Elect Officers

The annual meeting of the King's Daughters of St. John's Church was held Oct. 5 when the following officers were elected for this year:—

Leader—Mrs. H. Ritchie.
Treasurer—Miss Hughes.
Secretary—Miss Burnham.

Regret was expressed at the resignation of the former leader, Miss Halliday, who has done faithful work in that position since the circle was organized, and also Miss Hugel, who has most efficiently fulfilled the office of treasurer for some time.

HE LECTURES ON INDIA TO-NIGHT

Rev. H. J. Keith at Centreville Presbyterian Church.

Rev. H. J. Keith left this afternoon for Centreville, where he will give a lecture this evening on "India," dealing with the missionary work and its present condition. It will be an illustrated lecture, given in the Centreville Presbyterian Church.

WEDDING BELLS

TANNER—CHILTON

A quiet wedding was solemnized at St. John's Church this afternoon at 3.30 o'clock, when Miss Mary Chilton, niece of Mrs. Chas. Simmons, Thomas street, was united in marriage to Mr. Phillip Tanner, son of the late Mr. Jas. Tanner, of Chandos. Rev. Canon Davidson performed the ceremony, which was witnessed by the immediate friends of both parties. The bride was attended by Miss Thurgan Simmons, and Mr. Victor Tanner, brother of the groom, was best man. A dainty luncheon was served afterwards at the home of Mrs. Simmons, 272 Thomas street. Many handsome presents were received, among them being a carving set from the Girls' Guild of St. John's Church, of which the bride was a member.

The latter wore a travelling suit of blue English broadcloth with hat to match. Miss Simmons was attired in a suit of brown panama cloth and also had a hat to match.

Mr. and Mrs. Tanner will reside in Chandos.

THE I.A.S. RUGBY SQUAD OUT TO-MORROW NIGHT

There will be no practise of the T. A. S. Athletic Club Rugby squads to-night, owing to the Otonabee Club's meet at the rink. The management, however, request a full turnout of both senior and junior teams on Thursday night.

THE LIBERAL GOVERNMENT AND AGRICULTURE.

The record of the Liberal Government of the Dominion has been a record of great activity in the interests of Agriculture. A series of splendid acts in the interests of farmers has been contributed to a series of splendid results by the farmers of Canada, and in a prosperity the past ten or twelve years beyond compare.

Three principal factors have produced these conditions. First, a recognition on the part of the Government as a whole, of Agriculture as the very base and foundation of national prosperity; because the interests of Agriculture have been in the hands of a Minister skilled in the highest science of farming, and as a successful farmer himself, interested and "wise to" the interests of the farmers of Canada.

Hon. Sidney Fisher, Minister of Agriculture in the Liberal Government since 1896, is a practical farmer, has made a special study of the science of farming, from the soil to the market, and has brought to bear upon the discharge of his ministerial duties a remarkable store of knowledge, courage, ambition and enterprise. These facts explain the prosperity and improved condition of farming under the Liberal Government as contrasted with opposite conditions under Conservative rule, when the Department of Agriculture was presided over respectively by a brewer and a lawyer. Do men gather grapes of thorns or figs of thistles?

There are two aspects of the Liberal Government's administrative aid to advance farming; general and specific. The general acts of administration that have contributed to the prosperity of the farming community are those which have contributed to a flowing tide of prosperity, boomed manufactures and created an unprecedented demand for all kinds of farm products. The improvement of transportation facilities representing an expenditure of more than 120 millions of dollars in twelve years, has cheapened freight rates and facilitated the carrying of farm products to the market, and the saving has gone into the pockets of the farmers. The Railway Commission, concerned in the regulation of freight rates and improvement of facilities, has done its share. The readjustment of the tariff so as to be less burdensome on the farmer has also been an important factor.

These general aids have altogether contributed to creating more favourable conditions for the farmer. To these are to be added the fact that the Government has tremendously developed the West, thrown in a million of population, and created demands for eastern manufactures, stimulated manufacturing, improved the conditions of workingmen, and thereby improved the local markets for all kinds of farm produce. The increased subsidies to the Provinces —by $151,828 in 1903, and in 1907 by $9,291,602—by increasing the revenue of the Provinces, helped the farmer by assuring better agricultural administration.

Besides, there are numerous specific acts of benefit, to the principal of which reference can be made:

Among the first acts of Hon. Mr. Fisher upon assuming office was the abolition of the United States quarantine against Canadian stock, practically prohibiting the export of Canadian cattle across the line. The Conservatives deplored this but did nothing. Mr. Fisher, the Liberal Minister deplored it too, but he did more; he removed it. He went to Washington and in a week this trade obstruction was swept away. At once the export of Canadian cattle to the United States increased with a rush. In the whole year ending June, 1896, the exports of cattle only reached a value of $8,870. The first year after the Liberal Government removed the embargo, the value of exports increased to $1,239,448. The Conservative price per head of stock was $5.39 in 1896, and the Liberal price per head was $14 and thus profitable trade has been growing ever since, meaning millions of more dollars in the pockets of farmers and stock breeders.

The Liberal Minister of Agriculture instituted a complete system of cold storage transportation for our perishable products and it is admitted to-day to be the best in the world. Before that time Canadian butter, cheese, fruits and meats were carelessly handled by the shipping companies, without government supervision and proper accommodation on ships to prevent injury to them. Now all that is changed.

In addition to cold storage refrigeration transportation, Mr. Fisher provided for a complete supervision and inspection of handling and transport of Canadian farm products from the farm or point of production to British markets in their original prime condition of quality and the increased reputation of Canadian goods so treated has resulted in better prices and better returns to the farmer.

As a result of these and other things the export of Canadian Agricultural products increased from a total of $254,751,654 for the last five years of Conservative rule to $644,418,297 in the five year of Liberal rule—from 1901 to 1906, or a gain of over 280 millions of dollars.

In the three chief articles, more especially affected by cold storage transportation — butter, cheese and bacon—the increases have been simply stupendous. In the last five years of Conservative rule the exports of these three products, amounted to $69,127,276. In the five Liberal years, from 1901 to 1906, they had increased to a total of $210,467,351, or an increase of $121,340,175, or an increase itself two-thirds greater than the total exports of the last five Conservative years.

These cover the main items of farming importance but amongst the supplementary measures to conduce to their greater advantage—among Mr. Fisher's achievements—may be mentioned the following:

A Live Stock Commission was appointed to deal with live stock production and management.

The Veterinary Department was completely re-organized and brought up to a high state of efficiency. A new meat inspection law rigidly enforced has ensured British and foreign markets for us where the inspection is very strict.

Hog cholera was stamped out in Western Ontario.

Auction sales of pure bred stock were inaugurated.

Butter-making in creameries had under Conservatives been a failure in the Northwest Territories. Disused creameries there were taken over by the Liberal Government and by the Department on a system by which, after a few years, they became self-sustaining and were returned to private enterprise. Now, the Province of Alberta has one of the best established butter-making industries on the Continent, and it has completely proved that this very important branch of agriculture is a splendid success, whereas, under the former Government, it was conspicuous only by its failure. The result is an additional attraction to the incoming settlers, and an undoubted proof of the varied opportunities for successful farming in that great province. In a minor degree, in some localities of Saskatchewan, the same thing was accomplished.

A Fruits Marks Act has resulted in our getting the start of the United States in the British markets for fruit. United States Consuls in Great Britain have become alarmed over it and have warned their people that they must follow our example or lose the trade to the Canadian producer.

The efficiency and practical usefulness of the Experimental Farms have been greatly enlarged.

Special attention was directed to our great Cheese trade, and a revolution in the curing of cheese has been brought about by experiments conducted by the Department in cool curing, with the result that higher prices have been secured in Great Britain for our cheese so cured, and an extensive crusade has been conducted in improving the milking qualities of stock, with the inevitable increase of profit to the farmer.

A Seed Branch was added to the Department to promote the use of pure seeds.

Tobacco growing and curing have been developed.

The poultry trade has been greatly stimulated by improving the methods of fattening poultry and packing it for market, and also by improving the methods of transporting eggs.

No thinking farmer will fail to recognise that the Liberal Government has been faithful to its trust and skillful and successful in its administration. In connection with agriculture the Liberals spent in the last twelve years, $5,441,607, as compared with $1,453,274 during the last 12 years of Conservative rule. There has never been a word of serious criticism of this increased expenditure in the interests of the farmers. While other necessary expenditures have been larger, none have been more productive of good results, or more conducive to the advancement of the interests of the most important element of our national fabric.

THE LIBERAL GOVERNMENT IN ITS ADMINISTRATION OF THE AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS CERTAINLY DESERVES FROM THE FARMERS A RENEWAL OF ITS TRUST.

POLL A VOTE FOR STRATTON.

ANOTHER SLANDER SLAUGHTERED.

The Conservative campaign is essentially a campaign of slander. At St. John, New Brunswick, Premier Hazen who was platforming with Mr. Borden, read an affidavit off a contractor to the effect that Hon. Wm. Pugsley when Minister of Public Works, demanded and received a "rake-off" of $2,000, on a dredging contract. Conservative journals featured this charge on their front pages in flaming headlines.

It is utterly false. The man who made the affidavit said that he made a mistake in the date and the transaction referred to, took place two years before Mr. Pugsley became Minister of Public Works.

In 1905 Mr. Pugsley was solicitor for the contractor who, according to Mr. Hazen, made the charge of accepting a rake-off, and the payment of $2,000 made was in settlement of an over due claim for legal services of along continuance. The devilish ingenuity of mixing up truth and falsehood is evident. The contractor paid the money to Mr. Pugsley, but not as Minister of Public Works, nor was it for a "rake-off" but in payment of professional services of Mr. Pugsley in his private capacity. Mayes the contractor wrote a letter, publicly read in St. John, stating that the date 1907 was a typographical error for 1905. Thus is shattered this election slander, that a Minister of the Crown accepted a rake-off of $2,000.

This is a sample of end-of-the-campaign-methods of the Conservative party which has abandoned argument and put its whole trust in slander. The elector should regard such sensational scandals with caution and distrust.

AMES' AWFUL AUDACITY.

The Robbins' irrigation scheme has been denounced by the Conservatives as a grave scandal. An agreement was made with the company to purchase 380,000 of land at $1 per acre, but not an acre could be had until the company irrigated one-quarter of the area at an expense of $1,000,000. Without irrigation the land was useless, but after it had been made productive the company was to secure 380,000 acres more, made valuable by the expenditure of their own money, at $1 per acre.

This was one of the dreadful scandals Mr. Ames undertook to expose, but when in Medicine Hat he suddenly remembered that he had another engagement and left without making any reference to this subject. Hon. Mr. Oliver has just given evidence of Ames' audacity by showing that the scheme which is denounced in the east is approved in the west, that the Conservatives in the east regard it as a scandal while the party and party candidates in the west praise it.

Now the Winnipeg Free Press prints memorials from the Board of Trade, city council and agricultural society of Medicine Hat to the Minister of the Interior, all of them, on public grounds, advocating the granting of further concessions to the Robbins Company, and these documents are signed by the leading Conservatives of the city.

Mr. Ames had better cut this alleged scandal, which has as much foundation when and where the facts are known, as the other scandals which compose the principal argumentation ammunition of the Conservative campaigners, out of his pie-pan.

"THERE IS A REASON".

Between 1881 and 1891 the population of the Canadian West increased by 119,300. Between 1901 and 1906 the population of the Canadian West increased by 389,151. In the Liberal five years the increase was three and a half times as great as in the Conservative ten years.

In the three years 1894, 1895 and 1896 the immigration to Canada was 56,454. In the three years 1904, 1905 and 1906 the immigration to Canada was 466,660, eight times as great as in the former period.

"There is a reason." Among the acts of the Administration were these: (1) reserving the land for actual settlers; 2, encouraging the immigration of a class of people likely to make successful settlers; 3, making widely known the vast advantages offered by the great areas of fertile soil available for immediate cultivation.

Under the Conservative Administration for the eighteen years ending in 1896, there had been handed over to railway corporations 56,087,072 acres of this great heritage. Under the Liberal Government not an acre has been appropriated in this way.

During the eighteen years ending 1896 the Government land taken up by actual settlers was 9,952,840 acres, and in the succeeding twelve years, the land taken up in the same way amounted to 35,501,600 acres.—Toronto Star.

NEW HEADQUARTERS.

Fielding's "eternal fitness of things" is illustrated by the new location of the Conservative candidate's central committee rooms—the premises indicated by the sign over the door "(1c.) Automatic Vaudeville (1c.)"—suggestive of the value of the political wares dished out at the new establishment.

The Examiner was perhaps a little premature in announcing that the great Kendry-Bradburn-Hanna-Gamey-Burnham-minstrel troupe had disbanded—it seems to have been re-organized on a local basis with headquarters at the new committee rooms. The admission is announced as "free" but the "gold-bricking" takes place, it is assumed, inside. The Conservative machine has always been an intangible, it real entity—for ways that are dark and tricks that are vain, the Conservative machine is peerless; but here we have it endowed with a local habitation, and it is a penny-in-the-slot machine at last. It is quite in keeping with the picayune, peanut character of the campaign in the Conservative candidate's interests. He that runs may read.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

"Please turn on the tap" — is the cry of the purity party workers.

The Conservative slogan is "better men; better times." Where are the "better men"? — we all know the times we had under Conservative rule.

Local Conservatives boast; local Liberals work — work wins; brag fails.

Will the agricultural implement industries be safe in the hands of a party which proposes to reduce the import duty to 10 per cent.?

The Conservative yarn is in circulation that the boxes for rural mail delivery are being made in the United States. Of course, there's no truth in it. The Review may go to the yellow reptile press for support of the unpatriotic crusade against Canadian development, but the Liberal Government's motto is "Canada for Canadians." That's one reason why the Canadian militia are being armed with the Ross rifle, "made in Canada," and the best service arm made.

Rousing Stratton Meeting At Centreville, South Monaghan

Largest Gathering of South Monaghan Electors Held for Years---Able Speech by the Retiring Member, R. R. Hall---Hon. Mr. Stratton in Vigorous Speech Refutes His Critics

A meeting of South Monaghan electors at Centreville on Monday evening, called together by friends of Hon. J. R. Stratton of that district, despite the fact that owing to a misunderstanding as to the date many who would otherwise have been present were at a church tea at Bailieborough, was the largest and most successful meeting that has been held in that section of South Monaghan for many years. The beautiful and spacious Sunday School hall, which is in itself not only an evidence of the prosperity of the people of Monaghan, but also of their intelligence and their regard for what concerns the higher citizenship, was filled with as fine an example of Canadian citizenship as could be found throughout the length and breadth of this Dominion, and the concern of the people in the issues of the campaign, and their warm friendly regard for Hon. Mr. Stratton, were given an additional proof by the presence of a goodly attendance of the ladies of the neighbourhood in the gallery of the hall. No candidate for parliamentary honours in the province could hope to meet a more intelligent assemblage of Canadian electors—men who were not uninformed on the questions of the day, and who had a keen appreciation of how their interests were affected by the policies of those who govern us—and the friends of Hon. Mr. Stratton were greatly gratified at the unmistakable determination of these voters to do their part in endorsing the administration of Sir Wilfrid Laurer, and sending to Ottawa Hon. J. R. Stratton.

The meeting was organized by the election of Mr. J. C. Campbell to the chair. Mr. Campbell preceded calling the meeting to order by expressing the pleasure he and all his neighbours felt in welcoming amongst them the two gentlemen who were to address them, who had spent half a life-time in the service of the public. They were especially glad to meet Hon. Mr. Stratton, who was to be their representative in the House of Commons (applause), and Mr. Hall, who had represented them well. They knew that Mr. Stratton had always given evidence of a warm feeling for the people of South Monaghan, and even for personal reasons, he would receive their hearty support. He then called upon their retiring member,

Mr. R. R. Hall.

Mr. Hall, the retiring member for West Peterborough, thanked them most cordially for the hearty support which the electors of South Monaghan had accorded to him in the past, and said that nothing but circumstances in a business way, over which he had no control, had prevented him from coming before them again for their approval and their support. However, they had as a candidate a gentleman who commanded their support because of his former service to their interests, and he was glad to see that the old-time friends of Mr. Stratton were rallying around that gentleman as of yore, and he (the speaker) felt perfectly satisfied that as sure as the sun would go down on South Monaghan on October 26, Hon. J. R. Stratton would be their next representative in the House of Commons. (Great applause). Now, in reviewing the considerations upon which their judgment should be formed, upon the appeal of the Government for endorsement, in order to properly grasp the situation, they must look back to the conditions which had prevailed among them twelve years ago, and that by the comparison with the conditions which they were enjoying to-day, they might have a proper appreciation of what the government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier had accomplished for them. They knew well that about the farms forced to sale under mortgages had to be sold at a sacrifice, and even at that it was difficult to find purchasers, and there was an extent of chattel mortgages that was appalling and that it was distressing to look back to. In his practice as a lawyer he had reason to be familiar with these unfortunate conditions, which were familiar to their recollection. Now, there must have been a cause for all this and that cause could be traced to the doors of the Conservative party, which had been in power when for over eighteen years, and to those hands the business interests of the country were entrusted. If they had any business policy to direct the administration of affairs to the benefit of the people, if their so-called "National Policy," could by any means have been made of advantage to the people, the results which they had promised had never materialized under their administration, and the era of disaster and depression which they could recall was the result. Now, what was the condition of the country to-day? As the result of a wise and an intelligent policy, that applied to the tariff and to all the methods of government a common sense realization of what the welfare of the people called for, business had been revived. Confidence restored, and an era of prosperity of which they were now in the enjoyment, had resulted, and with the continuance in office of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his able colleagues, had come to stay. (Applause). To appreciate what had been accomplished for their benefit, they had only to look back to matters that should be still fresh in their recollection. When Mr. Laurier assumed the responsibility of office, he realised that some radical change would have to be effected, to relieve the country from the evils which hindered its progress, and he set about to effect it. He modified the tariff regulations and adopted them to the needs of the country, arranging duties so that raw material for the use of manufacturing industry could be brought in cheaply, and so that our people could buy at lower rates those things which we did not produce, and which were brought in from Great Britain. And to keep the trade among our own people, he arranged a preferential tariff under which goods from the Mother Country could be brought in for our use under a duty 33⅓ per cent. less than imposed on the goods of the United States. He quoted figures from the public records showing how advantageously this policy of the Government had operated for the people, by means of a decreased scale of taxation that produced a greater revenue. During the eighteen years of Conservative rule, preceding 1896, the public debt of the nation had been increased by $118,000,000. During the twelve years since 1896, in spite of the enormous advance in public enterprise, of the great public works that had been undertaken and carried into effect, the debt of the country had been increased by only $19,000,000. And while prosperity had increased all along the line, the public debt had been decreased from $80.82 per head of the population, to only $40.50 per head. They had been foolishly told that this country was in the hands of the moneylenders, but that was not so. The fact was that so greatly had the credit of the country been increased, and so thoroughly founded was the confidence that had been created by the methods and management of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Government, that the people of Great Britain were falling over one another to buy our bonds, and only the other day a loan of $5,000,000 had been placed at 3½ per cent. and disposed of above par. And in the face of this the people of this county, happy and prosperous as they were, were asked by the Conservative candidate to go back to the old conditions under which they had suffered. And they were told by him that our national credit had been ruined, that we were "in the hands of the moneylenders," in the face of facts of common knowledge that proved the falseness and the foolishness of the claims by which he sought to decry our credit. Was such a man fit to fill a public position of any kind, much less that of representative of the intelligent electors of West Peterborough? Is he not irresponsible? Reverting to the practical achievements of the Liberal Government for the benefit of the country, he pointed to the record of the post office department, where an annual deficit of $750,000 had been transformed into an annual surplus that this year would reach a million. And in effecting this showing the Government had been able to reduce postage rates from 3 cents to 2 cents; from 5 cents to Great Britain to 2 cents, and on local letters from 2 cents to 1 cent. When this was proposed Sir Charles Tupper had said it was impossible and impracticable and would cost the country $1,000,000 a year. But the Government had gone ahead and had demonstrated the wisdom of applying business sense to the administration of this department, and shown that a vastly better service, producing a larger revenue, was to be procured by lessening the charge of the service to the people. (Applause). And they had been given more frequent mails, new post offices, and improved facilities, and now they were having introduced a free rural delivery system for the benefit of the farming community. They would recall how in 1896 our young people, seeking greater opportunities, that were not open to them at home, went in large numbers to Michigan, Iowa, and other Western States of the neighbouring country, and many of their friends, had gone from West Peterborough on this account. The population of Canada, instead of increasing was at a standstill. Now, Sir Wilfrid Laurier recognized that there must be a cause for this state of affairs. Our people were faithful to our country and our institutions and they were only driven abroad by compelling reasons. He had found the cause in the unprogressiveness of the public policy that had been pursued, and he had set about to apply a remedy with the result that since 1896 some 1,000,000 settlers had gone in to settle up the Great West, and had found prosperity there under our own flag. This change had been accomplished by the extension of transportation facilities, and the creating of profitable markets for the people who went out to develop our western resources. (Applause). Again, the Government had observed that Australian mutton was transported many thousands of miles, through the tropical seas, and landed in Great Britain in prime condition, commanding the highest prices, while the Canadian product could not be placed in the English market in condition to find purchasers. This neglect of attention to our interests had been suffered to go on because the Conservative ministers were quarrelling among themselves, and Mr. Foster and Mr. Maggart were too busy sharpening knives for the throat of their leader, Sir Maskenzie Bowell, to find time to attend to the concerns of the people of Canada. But Hon. Sidney Fisher, the Liberal Minister of Agriculture, who was a farmer himself, recognized the cause of the drawback under which we were suffering, and by the provision of cold storage warehouses at Montreal, St. John, Halifax, at Port Arthur and Fort William, and the use of refrigerator cars on the railways and cold air chambers on the steamships, brought into operation under pressure from the Government, we now had our butter, eggs, meats, cheese, fruits and all perishable articles landed at the English markets in the finest condition, and by the superiority of their merits and quality, our products from the farm to-day commanded the highest values in the world. Under the old condition, our butter which had the highest flavour and taste of any such product made anywhere, by want of proper care and by contact with miscellaneous freight which was injurious to it, when it got to England, was found to be unsalable, but today under the new conditions it stands at the head of the demand in the English market, and as the result, we have in the past twelve years sent no less than $126,156,311 worth of butter abroad, while in the eighteen preceding years, only $16,-867,920 in value was exported. And from the same cause Canadian cheese, formerly a drug on the old-country market, was to-day recognized as setting the highest standard of value, and was in such favour that our exports of it of eighteen years preceding 1896 of $127,611,493, was increased in the past twelve years to the great sum of $247,780,328. Of this product the farmers of Canada to-day supply 75 per cent. of the foreign imports into Great Britain, and we exported six times as much cheese as the United States and five times as much as Holland. This result had been directly accomplished by the exercise of intelligent judgment and looking after the interests of the people by the present Government. (Applause). Taking up the question of railways in the management of which, as affecting their means of reaching markets, and its cost, the people were vitally concerned, Mr. Hall pointed out that in 1896 the railways were masters of the situation; they were a law unto themselves, being under no public control or supervision. The Government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier had recognized the interest which the public had in railway administration, and the obligations under which it was proper to hold the railways, which owed their charters to Parliament. They had appointed a railway commission which had been invested with power to regulate passenger rates and freight rates, to prevent excessive charges for transportation and discrimination in favour of localities by the railway authorities, in the interests of the people, and this control was about to be extended to telegraph and telephone companies. (Applause). In the settlement of the Great West, the Government had found themselves confronted by a difficulty created by the arrangement of their predecessors with the C. P. R. and other railways, under which 56,000,000 acres of land had been granted to these enterprises. These companies had also been given the privilege of selecting their lands, of picking out the choice tracts, and as the result settlers would not go into that country, and this was one reason for the slow progress of settlement there under Conservative rule. But Sir Wilfrid Laurier had compelled these companies to go on and make their selection of lands, so that the intending settler could be enabled to exercise his own choice to his best advantage, and the result was that while in eighteen years the Conservative Government had only succeeded in getting settlers on 9,000,000 acres, under Liberal rule settlement had been effected on 25,000,000 of acres in Western Canada. Sir Wilfrid Laurier had found too, that lands had been granted to railways to encourage colonization, and the railways had not been built. He promptly remedied that, and to-day they had 6,000 miles of internal railway construction in that country. And it was to be borne in mind that while fifty-six million acres of public lands had been given by their predecessors to railways, the present Government, in securing this great railway development to open up the markets accessible to the settlers, had not given away one single acre of the public domain. (Applause). The result of this policy was that the railways had been followed by the people, and the development of the country had rapidly advanced, a million of people having gone in there to settle in the past twelve years, from the Western and Southern States, from the eastern provinces, and many from the British Isles. The result of this growth and development was exhibited in the extraordinary impetus given to the general business of the country, and to manufactures in the Eastern provinces. He quoted from the public records to show the wonderful progress that had been accomplished. No matter which avenue of progress you may regard you will find trade developed, manufactures expanded, population increased and prosperity enlarged, directly traceable to the policy of the Government. As to all this cry of graft, it was all just a campaign cry, to draw away the attention of the voters from the real practical issues upon which they should decide this election. In all the contests in this riding, in the twenty years during which Hon. Mr. Stratton had been before them, they had never witnessed such desperate attempts to malign that gentleman as had been resorted to in this campaign. They had made an outcry against him on account of a transaction in the Home Life Insurance Company, which affected the shareholders of that company alone. These stockholders not only knew that Mr. Stratton was blameless of any wrong, but they had testified to their appreciation of his ability, his character, and his integrity, by electing and re-electing him to the presidency of their business. And the directors who had so honoured Mr. Stratton with their confidence were Conservatives, who were fully aware of all the charges that the malice of Mr. Burnham had directed against Hon. Mr. Stratton. (Cheers). How was it with Mr. Foster, one of Mr. Burnham's chief leaders? On account of his action in using the business of the Union Trust Company he was down and out, and he had also been divorced from connection with the handling of the trust funds of the widows and orphans of the Foresters. But Mr. Stratton was still president of the Home Life. (Applause). Mr. Burnham had sought to throw a lot of dust in their eyes, but he would not deceive the intelligent electors of West Peterborough. (Applause). He would ask them in the exercise of their franchise to judge the Government of Sir Wilfred Laurier upon its merits, and to judge J. R. Stratton as they knew him. And he was sure that on the 26th of October that gentleman would be returned as their member in the House of Commons by a good big majority. (Great applause).

Hon. J. R. Stratton.

Mr. Stratton, who was then called upon, and greeted by a vociferous demonstration of applause, expressed the pleasure it gave him to see so large a gathering of the electors of South Monaghan assembled to justify their interest in the election. He was glad to say the large attendance of ladies, too, for he knew the advantage of their sympathy and support in an election. The ladies of Peterborough were with him to-day, as they had always been, and although they had no votes, he knew the value of their influence, and appreciated their sympathy. This was one of the largest meetings he had ever witnessed in South Monaghan, and perhaps it was because they were so near his old home in the Village of Millbrook. He had been born in their adjoining township and supposed he might be considered as one of the "Cavan Blazers." (Laughter). The people of South Monaghan as well as the majority of the voters of the riding had always stood by him, and he believed he could safely say that they had never found cause for regret, and they never would. (Cheers). They had every opportunity to know him well, during the whole course of his life, and they knew that he had not been born, like his opponent, Mr. Burnham, with a silver spoon in his mouth. He had to work, and he did not think he was any the worse for that. Mr. Burnham had never done anything, and probably he did not know how. He might be all right as a social feature at a picnic, but if he had wood to saw he would not hire Mr. Burnham. (Laughter and applause). He (Mr. Stratton) thought he could fairly contend that his experience in public life and his success in private life were of such a character as to qualify him to represent the people of West Peterborough in Parliament with credit and to their advantage. He recalled the early struggle which he had had to go through in reaching the degree of success he had attained in business. He regretted to have to advert to personal matters, but was compelled to give his attention to some of the slanders that were being made use of in the interest of his opponent. He recounted the circumstances of the Home Life transactions that had been so distorted and misrepresented, and after giving evidence of the confidence which the Conservative shareholders and directors of that company had continued to repose in him, said the fact that he was still the president of that company ought to be a sufficient answer to his detractors. (Applause). And he referred to other important moneyed institutions by which he had honoured with signal marks of confidence. He did not know why it was, but when he (Mr. Stratton) was up for an election in this county, a few irreconcilables broke the reservation, put on a redder war paint, and resorted to the most extreme means to accomplish his defeat. But this he could say, and truly say, that no man, however vindictive his animosity, in this county or elsewhere, could put a finger upon a single dishonest or improper act of which he had been guilty, in his public life or his private business, and he would tell Mr. Burnham that he had woke up the wrong man in making unfounded personal attacks upon him. (Loud cheers). He had first ran for the Legislature in 1890, and had been elected. He had contested six elections in this riding and on every occasion the voters had voiced their continued confidence in him by returning him by large and increasing majorities. And he believed that in the present election they would do it again. (Great applause). And why not? He had never asked any individual to vote for him for no other reason than that he was a Liberal, or any Conservative for a vote on political ground, but he asked them to vote for J. R. Stratton, on his record as a man who worked in his public capacity solely for the best interests of the City and County of Peterborough. He thought it would be a good thing if there were more independence of action among the voters—if a man would not vote Conservative or Liberal simply because his father before him had voted so, or by reason of the accidents of his association. In many localities the parties thus divided were pretty nearly equally balanced, and the decision of results was placed on the hands of a few loose fish, without conviction or principle. It would be of greater benefit if the fitness of the man before them, his experience, his influence, and his capability of being useful to their interests were given larger attention. (Applause). Mr. Kendry in his speech at Bensfort had attacked him (Mr. Stratton) alleging that he was endeavoring to absorb all the credit for securing the Benefort bridge. Now the facts in the case were that Mr. Riddell and a committee of his neighbours had come to him, he being, then their representative, for advice as to how to proceed to get the bridge built. He advised them to go home and see what they could raise, and they had got a grant from the township and raised some funds by private subscription. He had then promised them to secure a grant from the Legislature of $8,000, which was granted, upon the condition that the Dominion Government give a like amount, and by the influence of this condition Mr. Stevenson was enabled to secure the grant from the Dominion. But the abutments and approaches cost more than had been estimated and more money was needed, and they secured a grant of $750 from the City of Peterborough, which was supplemented by a private subscription by citizens, to which he himself had contributed. That was the whole matter, and Mr. Riddell and his neighbours were entitled to the credit. He had done what he could for them, and had not claimed any credit beyond enumerating this work as one of the things that had been accomplished for the welfare of the county, while he was their representative. While he had merely co-operated in this work, there were many public works in the county, in addition to the improvements he had caused to be made in the public highways, for which he was entitled to credit on his personal account, such as the bridge that brought the people of Harvey into close communication with the City of Peterborough, and many other substantial permanent improvements along the river. He alluded to the history of the Trent Valley Canal, and said that in all the years during which this important project had been under consideration by Conservative administrations as a sort of periodical sop to be thrown to voters along its route, there had only been expended on it about $900,000. To-day the work was so far advanced that almost the last contracts had been let, four millions dollars had been expended by the present Government, and they had assurance that the canal would be completed within two or three years at the outside, and he was sure that when the people saw the traffic that would be carried past their doors by this enterprise, and when they realized what it would accomplish for them in the cheapening of the cost of coal, and of raw material for the factories of Peterborough, and in the increase it would give to the price of grain, by cheapening the cost of carriage, they would be well convinced of the wisdom of the Government in taking steps to have that work promptly completed. (Applause). As they knew, they had at Hamilton, at Thorold, at Niagara Falls, and at Brantford, manufacturing centres which were the competitors of Peterborough in manufacturing progress. These places by the superiority of their water-power and transportation facilities had a present advantage over Peterborough, but when the Trent Valley Canal was completed this city would be put upon an equality with them in these respects, and with the activity and "go-aheaditiveness" of Peterborough enterprise they would make these new conditions of great advantage to their city and county. (Applause.) They knew that if to-day their farms had increased in value 40 per cent. over 1896, and they had reached local prosperity through the markets that had been created up by the policy of the Government in enlarging and perfecting the transportation resources of the country, by their work on the Welland Canal, on the St. Lawrence and elsewhere, the Government was entitled to credit. Before 1896 we were left to depend upon the United States market, but to-day our people were turning to the market of Great Britain, to which our trade had been diverted, and that is the market we want. (Applause.) Now, Mr. Burnham had been endeavouring to affix blame to the Government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier on account of the embargo against American cattle in Great Britain, and he showed that he knew just about as much about this question as he does about any other public issue. Now, as a matter of fact, this embargo had been put in force by the British Government in November, 1892, some years before the present administration came into office. The present Government had been engaged in the effort to have this embargo removed. The British authorities were slow to act, but he believed that through the personal influence and the popularity of Sir Wilfrid Laurier in Great Britain, which they had seen so conspicuously demonstrated, this would be achieved. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, by his genius and his great attainments, had been accorded a degree of consideration never before extended by the British public to any representative of the dependencies. In spite of his lofty ambition and great achievements for his country there were still a few narrow men who would decry him for the accident of race. But Canadian intelligence and sense of justice would rise superior to any such attempt to curtail his influence by refusing due acknowledgment to his great ability and worth, and his greater services to Canada. It would be to the personal influence of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in large measure, that we would owe the removal of the cattle embargo now looked for, and which would add to the value of feeding stock from $5 to $7 a head (Applause.) Mr. Kendry was opposing the Government as he claimed, or account of the tariff on wool. He wanted the Government to impose a duty that would put an additional cost of $3 to $4 upon every man in that room in the purchase of a suit of clothes. They did not want that, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier had refused to put this tax upon them to benefit a few woollen manufacturers who were doing pretty well as it was. (Cheers.) They knew Mr. Kendry; he did not look and he did not live as if he were suffering from want of prosperity. When the tariff was last being revised he had made no protest against the tariff schedule on woollens.

Mr. Hall—He did not. I sent him word, but he raised no objection.

Mr. Stratton continued, recounting in detail the progress which manufacturing enterprise in Peterborough had made since 1896, under the stimulating influence of an intelligent, common-sense tariff policy that cheapened the cost of production, and the opening up of transportation which had given them markets, and provided the means of distribution. He needn't recount how things were before 1896. Why, he could recall that bricks were laid in Peterborough for $2 a thousand, but you couldn't get work done to-day for that. The people did not want to go back to those old conditions of stagnation, and they were not going to turn down the government nor condemn the policy that had raised them out of a ruinous condition and had given them such unexampled prosperity, and so great a degree of progress. They would vote for the administration of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and for himself, on October 26, and they need not have any doubt that he would be elected by a large majority, and that even in the city of Peterborough he would have a good majority. (Loud applause.) He believed that his past record in their service in the Legislature, and the Government, was such as to invite the support and approval of every candid and fair-minded man, irrespective of politics, and he could only pledge himself to renewed exertions in their behalf, and vigilant and faithful exercise of all the influence and ability he possessed to promote the welfare of the West Riding of Peterborough, and every citizen in it. (Prolonged cheers.)

A vote of thanks was given to the chairman, who, in returning thanks, expressed his confidence in Mr. Stratton's triumphant return at the polls on October 26.

Three cheers for the ladies, three stentorian bursts of enthusiasm for Hon. Mr. Stratton, three cheers for the retiring member, Mr. Hall, and three more for the King, closed a most important and successful meeting.

WEIGHTS IN DISEASE.

Typhoid, if You Call Typhoid, Gives You a New Stomach.

GOOD EVEN IN RHEUMATISM.

That Painful Affliction Keeps Other Miseries Out of the System and Is a Promoter of Long Life—Blessings of Colds and Smallpox.

To be struck down by disease seems a most undesirable thing, yet there are many living to-day in the fullest enjoyment of very excellent health who but, for an attack of some disease would have lived a life of almost perfect misery.

These people were, first of all, victims of indigestion in its worst form, and only those who have experienced it know what true indigestion is. Struck down by typhoid fever, they came through the trying ordeal cured of indigestion, for one outstanding characteristic of typhoid is that if you pass through an attack safely it gives you a new stomach. In fact, after an attack of typhoid the victim is usually left with a stomach like an infant.

That is the grand chance offered to one who has suffered. It may be, for long years from acute indigestion. If only he takes care, after an attack of typhoid, he need never know indigestion again.

Be it remembered that any one troubled with severe indigestion is not advised to go hunting around for typhoid fever. That might prove to be a disastrous course to follow.

A chronic cold is just one of those things which none of us want, yet even a chronic cold has its good points, more especially if you happen to be up in years—a bit—not too old, of course. People who are up in years and who suffer from chronic bronchitis seem to get remarkably well. It keeps the blood in good circulation, for, of course, the victims have to cough, and that gives the heart a jerk and sends the blood coursing nicely through the veins and arteries.

If the cold be not too acute, old people derive considerable benefit. An acute attack, on the other hand, may cut off an old person in a day or two. It is the chronic type only which yields benefit.

Smallpox is a dreaded scourge, so much so that if it be reported that a case exists in a neighborhood a thrill passes through the whole community.

Yet those who suffer from smallpox and recover usually live to a green old age. It seems to renew life in some mysterious way by thoroughly purifying the blood.

If, however, you desire to attain to a ripe old age, you cannot get on at all without rheumatism. Consider the hosts of old folks you encounter hobbling about, grumbling all the day about their bones and joints. In all probability these old people would have been in their graves years before but for this very rheumatism.

The reason is that if rheumatism is in the system it keeps other ills out. It makes a grand fighting force and keeps most other enemies of the human frame at bay, especially those of the germ type.

Very naturally if you have such a grand friend at hand you have to pay something for aid rendered, but the pain of rheumatism, if shockingly severe at times, is not deadly, and that is why one gets so little sympathy when suffering from rheumatism.

But the plain fact is that a slight malady always benefits you, even if indirectly. As an example of that, say a very bad spell of weather comes along, cold and wet, and you contract a slight chill.

What do you propose to do? Why, to take the greatest care of yourself and make as certain as possible that your cold gets no chance of developing into anything worse. Now, did that very slight cold not make its appearance and cause you to be extremely careful of what you did there is no saying what might happen to you any day during a spell of evil cold weather. You might have exposed yourself so much that a severe chill would have seized you, followed by inflammation of the lungs.

Accordingly a slight cold may easily save you from many worse ills.

In this way minor afflictions act as warnings that worse things are coming along, but unfortunately many persons quite neglect these warnings. A man, for example, has indigestion a week or less constantly, yet pays little heed, always expecting that it will disappear one day. Now, if he had just paid attention to the matter at the beginning—heeded the warning, in short—he might not have been let in for a severe liver attack later on.

Every pain, every ache, every headache—all these are warnings that something else is on the way and will be along shortly.

An Idea of Business.

"Does your titled son-in-law know anything about business?"

"Well," answered Mr. Cumrox doubtfully, "he has had a lot of experience with promissory notes, and he knows how to get a check raised."

TURKISH ARMY OFFICERS.

They Are Neither Loved Nor Respected by Their Men.

Your editor has been told by one who knows Turkish army officer types at constantinople and whom we met a few days ago upon his horse manifesting a dislike of locomotion. He has no affection or understanding for the lower class. The superior officers have no homes of their own, and, being generally bad riders and without military qualities which would make them in the estimation of their men, they are neither loved nor respected by them. Military officers live, entirely to themselves, such things as institutions in the countries of Europe being unknown, and the only occasions upon which officers meet together at dinner on the days of assembly, when they are called together for the sultan's birthday or accession celebrations.

The pay of the lower ranks is so small as that of the superior officers is high. The young cavalry officer who makes a good impression on his entry into the service soon falls to pieces through want of occupation either of mind or body. The greater part of the morning and evening he sits over his coffee and cards or dominoes. There are but few newspapers, and those that do exist are so severely censored by the government that they contain little but weather statistics, gazettes and announcements of the bestowal of decorations.

What the Turkish officer really thoroughly enjoys is a gramophone. Instruments playing the waltzes and reproducing the music hall songs of all the cities of Europe are in the greatest possible request, chiefly because they make music without any personal trouble.

A PRECARIOUS EXISTENCE.

Mental Tribulations of the Superstitious Woman.

The superstitious woman started to go downtown, but found that she had forgotten something. It was hard work to get her to go back for it, but when she did sat down for a few minutes to "take the curse off" before going out again. On the sidewalk she passed a cross eyed man and had hard work to keep from spitting three times over her left shoulder. The first car that came along was No. 13. She let it go by, and waited eight minutes for another. On the way downtown she encountered to a friend that she "had been in excellent health lately." Instantly she was obliged to loose her glove and rub her bare palm on the wood of the bench before her. As she and her friend were walking on Twenty-third street some thoughtless person darted between them. The superstitious woman was much disturbed and worried over the thought of a coming separation.

That night her husband upset the saltcellar. She insisted on his taking a pinch of the salt and throwing it over his shoulder. When she discovered for the night she discovered that she had been wearing one stocking wrong side out all day. It was the sign of good luck, and it allowed her to go to bed happy. But some time in the night a dog howled dismally under her window. From that moment she has been looking for a calamity. Nothing will make her believe that there will not soon be a death in her immediate family.

The Lightweight Champion.

Simpkins—You say that little man was formerly the lightweight champion? Timkins—Yes. Simkins—How did he lose the title? Timkins—Oh, he didn't lose it. He merely sold his grocery and retired.—Chicago News.

INDIGESTION IS VERY EASILY CURED

Five Minutes After Taking Some Diapepsin all Distress Will Go

If there is often some one in your family who suffers an attack of indigestion or some form of stomach trouble, why don't you keep a case of Diapepsin in the house handy?

This harmless blessing will digest anything you can eat without the slightest discomfort, and regulate a sour stomach five minutes after.

Tell your pharmacist to let you read the formula plainly printed on these 50-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will readily see why they cure Indigestion, Sour Stomach, Heartburn and prevent at once such miseries as Belching of Gas, Eructations of sour undigested food, Nausea, Headaches, Dizziness, Constipation and other Stomach disorders.

Some folks have tried so long to find relief from Indigestion with the common everyday cures advertised that they have about made up their minds that they have something else wrong, or believe theirs is a case of Nervousness, Gastritis, Catarrh of the Stomach or Cancer.

This is a serious mistake. Your real trouble is, what you eat does not digest; instead, it ferments and sours, turns to acid, Gas and Stomach poison, which will putrefy in the entire digestive tract and intestines, and, besides, poison the breath with nauseous odors.

A hearty appetite, with thorough digestion, and without the slightest discomfort or misery of the Stomach, is waiting for you as soon as you decide to try Pape's Diapepsin.

One candy-like (Triangule, taken after eating, will promptly digest all your food, the same as a strong, healthy stomach would do it.

MR. TREW'S EXPERIENCE WITH POULTRY

Lindsay Man Says The Quality is Rapidly Improving.

Mr. D. C. Trew, the well known poultry expert, arrived home last evening from Markham, where he judged the poultry last week at their fair. During the past three weeks Mr. Trew has judged the poultry at Lindsay, Peterborough, Millbrook, Uxbridge, Bracebridge and Elmvale and says that the poultry has improved twenty-five per cent. during the past couple of years.—Lindsay Warder.

OBITUARY

JAMES WEIR

Miss Weir, of the Collegiate Institute staff, received the sad news last night of the death of her father, James Weir, who passed away at his home in Forest yesterday. He was 85 years old. Miss Weir, who will have the sincere sympathy of a host of friends here, left this morning on the early train to attend the funeral.

MR. DAVID HART

Lindsay, Oct. 13.—The death occurred this morning at five o'clock of Mr. David Hart, lot 17, con. 13, Manvers, after an illness for the past year with heart trouble. The late Mr. Hart was a well known and highly respected citizen of Manvers, having lived there all his life. He was 58 years of age, and leaves to mourn his loss, his beloved wife, Mrs. Sarah Ann Hart and four brothers, Job, in Peterborough; Herman, in Lindsay; Joseph, Muskoka; and Turvis, in the West. The funeral will be held on Thursday at two o'clock and proceed to the Riverside Cemetery for interment.

MICHAEL DUNN

Michael Dunn, aged 71 years, died at the House of Providence early last night. Deceased had been an inmate of that institution for a number of years, and during that time has been suffering from consumption. He was able to be around until yesterday afternoon, when he became ill and went to bed. He sank rapidly until he passed away.

The funeral will be held Thursday and interment will take place in the Roman Catholic cemetery.

ANNUAL DISTRICT MEETING HELD AT BRIDGENORTH YESTERDAY; THE ATTENDANCE WAS LARGE

The annual district meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist churches for Peterborough district was held yesterday in the Methodist church at Bridgenorth and proved a most interesting and profitable event. The churches of the district were well represented, four 'bus loads going from Peterborough, one from Lakefield and one from Warsaw, while other churches had delegates present.

The morning session was opened with devotional exercises led by Mrs. (Rev.) J. Bedford of Lakefield and Mrs. (Rev.) E. A. Pearson of Peterborough. The principal business in the morning was the receiving of reports from the auxiliaries and mission bands in the district, after which there was a memorial service led by Mrs. J. Speer.

At the afternoon session the opening exercises and testimonial meeting were led by Mrs. (Rev.) A. R. Campbell and Mrs. J. Carlisle. Mrs. Lightfoot gave a reading and Mrs. J. Kendry of George street Methodist church of Peterborough gave an address on "Echoes from the Board Meeting." Mrs. (Rev.) W G Henderson gave a map talk on "Japanese Homes," after which there was a mission band conference led by Mrs. Jas. Kendry, and the question drawer conducted by Mrs. A R Campbell.

In the evening the chair was occupied by Rev. S. Cruikshanks, who gave an address of welcome which was replied to by Mrs. J. K. Moore. A selection by the Bridgenorth choir was much enjoyed. Mrs. Kilgour gave the organizer's report, and the members of the George street auxiliary illustrated the right and the wrong way of conducting the "Watch Tower." Rev. W G Henderson of Charlotte street church gave an address and a selection by the choir brought the programme to a close.

The delegates were most hospitably entertained by the Bridgenorth ladies.

The Arc Light To Be Removed From Sherbrooke Street

Incandescent Lamps To Take Its Place—Meeting of the Fire, Water and Light Committee

HEATING CONTRACT IS LET

The question of the removal of the light in front of Dr. Gray's residence was the chief topic before the meeting of the Fire, Water and Light Committee last night. The members present were: Ald. Johnston, chairman; Ald. McIntyre, Butler and Mayor Rush. Only two or three urgent matters were disposed of and the others, such as wiring inspection, etc., will be taken up later.

The first thing taken up was the removal of the arc lamp from in front of Dr. Gray's residence. It will be remembered that Dr. Gray at the Committee of the Whole Council the other night protested strongly against the light being interfered with. There will be a 32 candle power incandescent lamp placed in front of his place, which it is thought will be satisfactory.

Moved by Ald. McIntyre and Mayor Rush that the arc lamp in front of Dr. Gray's be moved to the corner of Aylmer street, and that it be put out on an arm, and that the chairman be authorized to place two or more incandescent lamps on Sherbrooke between Aylmer and George streets.—Carried.

Moved by Mayor Rush and Ald. McIntyre that two additional incandescent lamps be placed on Weller street.—Carried.

Heating Contract

Tenders were received and opened for the installation of additional heating to be placed in the new fire hall.

McGregor & Reid	$ 90
Durance	107
Adam Hall	110
Adamson & Dobbin	98

It is necessary to get the heating into the firemen's sleeping apartments as soon as possible, and it was moved by Ald. Butler and Mayor Rush that McGregor & Reid be given the contract, as their tender was the lowest.

Separation Is Being Urged By The Senate Of Queen's

Reaffirms Resolutions to the Trustees — Changes Necessary to Preserve Present Standing

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE

Kingston, Oct. 14.—Special. — The Senate of Queen's University has practically reaffirmed its resolution in favour of separation from the Presbyterian Church. It has just adopted the following resolution:

The Senate begs to memorialise the trustees to consider if it may not be desirable to renew the application to the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church for certain changes in the constitution of Queen's University.

The Senate begs leave to remark in connection with the application made to the General Assembly:

The Committee's Report

That the influential and impartial committee of the General Assembly which reported on the subject declared that "after mature deliberation the committee were unanimously of opinion that conditions had arisen in Queen's University which justified the Senate in bringing the question of an alteration in the status of the university before the trustees, and through them before the Assembly," also that "the question of the character of that relation (between the church and the university) should be determined by the trustees of the university as the body ultimately responsible for its welfare and financial support;" also with reference to the continued prosecution of the endowment scheme, their hope that "whether a change be made in the relation of the university to the Church or not, a movement of such importance to the welfare of the university will be brought to an early and successful close."

The Senate, for its own part, desires to reaffirm its conviction that the changes proposed are positively necessary to meet altered conditions, not only if the progress of Queen's is to be continued, but even if its present reputation and standing are to be maintained.

Little Time to Consider

The Senate is reluctant to regard the decision of the General Assembly in June last as final, for the following amongst other reasons:

(1) That there was little time to bring the details of the question fully before the Assembly.

(2) That by a formal defect in the resolution transmitted to the Assembly some more important documents were not properly laid before it.

(3) The consequence was that the number voting on the question was small and the majority very narrow, the large number of those present who did not vote indicating indecision and the want of material upon which to form a judgment.

Solution Of Ropy Milk Problem; Prof. D. H. Jones Gives Advice

D. H. Jones, lecturer in bacteriology, presented the following address at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, on ropy milk:—

During the past few weeks we have had brought to us for investigation several bad cases of ropy milk. Each case was presented by a farmer whose farm was situated near a city in which he peddled the milk of from twenty-five to thirty cattle, each having a good business and each rapidly losing his customers because the milk, if kept a few hours, would become viscid, slimy, or ropy, apparently altogether unfit for use, and disgusting to handle. This condition of their milk brought about a serious financial loss to these farmers, a loss which was increasing from day to day, and after trying their utmost to solve the problem, they would almost despair of finding a remedy, when they brought the matter before the college authorities to see if we could do anything for them. We were able in each instance to find the cause and to suggest a simple remedy which, if put into practice, would entirely do away with the mischief.

Although it is possible for this condition of milk to occur at any time of the year, this is the season when it is perhaps most prevalent; and so, thinking that probably other farmers or handlers of milk may be so troubled, and entirely in the dark as to the cause and control of such an unsatisfactory state of things, we take the liberty of sending to the press a few lines on the subject.

Although it is possible for cattle suffering from inflamed udders or garget to produce slimy milk, we proved conclusively in each case investigated that it was not any disease in any of the cattle that was the cause of the ropy milk. In fact, this kind of ropy milk is not caused by a disease-producing germ, but by one that lives in water and is not at all dangerous from a health standpoint, either for animals or man. So that this kind of ropy milk is not caused by a diseased condition of the cow, nor will it cause any disease in man, but owing to a disgusting appearance, the slimy, ropy stuff is thrown away by the housekeeper, and the milkman who supplies it is told that his milk is not wanted any more.

The germ that causes the trouble is known to bacteriologists as bacillus lactis viscosus, that is, the germ that makes milk viscid. It lives indefinitely and multiplies in water containing organic matter. Some districts are troubled with it and others are not. We may liken it to a bad weed which may be prevalent on one farm or throughout a whole neighbourhood, and other districts may not be troubled with it at all until it spreads from them to the infected areas in one or more of the many ways that everybody knows weeds spread. The germ, though small—it has to be magnified a thousand times before it can be seen—has a comparatively thick, gelatinous covering when it grows in milk; and as one germ dropped into milk will increase into millions of its kind in twenty-four hours, we can easily see how the milk becomes sticky or ropy; it is simply because millions of these germs with their sticky, slimy coverings have developed in the milk until the milk is practically nothing but a mass of them.

At the farms at which investigations were carried on, the cattle, on inspection, appeared to be all right, and samples of their milk tested were proven to be free from the trouble. Samples of water from the wells, cisterns and cooling vats proved these to be the source of the trouble in every instance.

THE MYSTERIOUS MR. E. STILL AT LARGE; MAKES A VISIT TO ROLLER RINK

gentleman popped his head around the door. I asked him if Mr. Bradley was living there. He told me "No, this is McNeilly's," and asked me what street I was looking for. "George street," said I. "Oh, you are two streets too high. This is Rutridge." I thanked him and left. I walked along another street and noticed a woman attending to a bon fire. I asked her the name of the street. She told me it was Reid street. I then approached 411 and rang the bell. A short, stout lady wearing spectacles, answered the door. "Does Dr. Scott live here?"

"Who?"

"Dr. Scott."

"Dr. Scott don't live here," said she. "Are you looking for Dr. Scott?"

"Why yes," said I.

"Which way did you come?" said she.

"Straight up here," said I.

"Oh, then you have passed Dr. Scott's. He lives on the corner of Hunter and Stewart."

I thanked the lady very kindly and left.

Whenever you answer the doorbell in future take my advice and carry the latest edition of the Examiner with you. It may be "Mr. E." Who knows. I see I am to visit the Otonabee A. C. meet to-night. Well, I think I shall be able to squeeze in there alright, for I am fond of crowds.

Well, until to-morrow, good-bye.

Yours,

R. C. S. "Mr. E."

Don't fail to study my pictures in Harrie's window—the only place in the city on exhibition.

I am a staunch Liberal, and consequently will attend the meeting in the opera house to-morrow night, if I am still uncaptured, and will attend the roller rink during the evening.

IMPORTANT TO LADIES

It is not often an opportunity occurs at your door to see the latest Parisian and New York styles in Hair Goods, yet such is the case, as Prof. Dorenwend of Toronto is visiting in this town, and invites your inspection of these goods at his private apartments reserved at the hotel.

These Hair Goods styles, when properly adjusted protect and ornament the head, soften and beautify the expression of the face, and consequently tone up an aged appearance. Be sure and see them at the Oriental Hotel on Friday, October 16th.

THOUSANDS OF WOMEN IN RIOT

Unemployed Help Women in Demonstration in London.

100,000 JOIN IN THE FIGHT

Huge London Crowd Assists Vote-Seeking Women to Storm British House of Commons and Force of 5,000 Soldiers and Police is Required to Repel Besiegers—One Woman Gains the Floor.

London, Oct. 14.—The unemployed of London, acting together with the women suffragists, are practically compelling Parliament to hold its meetings in a state of siege. Early yesterday afternoon several hundred shabbily-dressed representatives of the workless gathered at Westminster and brought with them a large crowd of the curious. Squads of police, mounted and on foot, endeavored to disperse the demonstrants, but they were only driven down one street to reappear up another.

The climax of the suffragette campaign was reached last night when an enormous mob hammed in Parliament and stopped the traffic in all streets leading to Westminster. For more than three hours the crowds scuffled good-naturedly with the police, interfered with theatre-goers, broke windows and disorganized things generally in the centre of London.

The heroine of the day was Mrs. Travers Symons, formerly secretary to James Keir Hardie, the Socialist and Independent member of Parliament, who reached the door of the House of Commons by strategy. The House was solemnly debating a bill to prevent children from cigarette smoking, when the woman dashed past the doorkeeper to a position in front of the Speaker's chair and shouted shrilly: "Leave off discussing children and talk about the women."

Three officials seized Mrs. Symons and carried her out bodily. She was led to the outer door and dismissed. As a result of the coup an order was issued that hereafter women should not be admitted to the building on any pretext whatever, and in the future the historic grille will not screen feminine spectators.

The appeal issued by the suffragettes a few days ago for 50,000 persons to help them "rush" Parliament at 7.30 o'clock last evening was the most successful stroke yet. Not less than twice that number responded to the call, and nine-tenths of these were young people, who came to see the fun. There were also a few hundred of the unemployed and their sympathizers.

Parliament was in a state of siege. A close triple line of police was drawn around the three sides of the square in front of the building. The yard between the gates swarmed with police and 200 guarded the terrace in the rear against assault by water, which the women twice attempted.

A small force of police boats also patrolled the Thames approaches.

All the mounted police in London and suburbs had been mobilized at this centre and loads of hay were unstacked in the streets for the horses. The whole police force, together with cavalry, infantry and marines, numbering more than 5,000, was kept busy in restraining the pushing, struggling masses, and especially about Trafalgar square, where the Nelson monument looked down upon dense crowds in all directions, with busses, motor cars and cabs, mostly filled with sightseers, trying to thread their way through.

The police kept the streets adjoining the House of Commons clear; elsewhere they endeavored to the best of their ability to keep the people moving. The crowd cheered, sang songs and hooted, giving voice to all the sarcastic remarks that a London crowd is capable of. These were aimed in a semi-good-natured manner at the suffragettes, who, distinguished by their sashes, swarmed everywhere, distributing tracts.

A delegation of thirteen suffragettes which approached the police cordon and was formally refused admission to Parliament, attempted a football rush, but the police repulsed the women with the least possible roughness. Two bodies of the unemployed, however, which approached the line were driven off, with little saving grace, one across Westminster bridge and the other to St. James' Park.

The police were pelted with vegetables and some with stones in a few minor skirmishes that occurred, but nobody was seriously hurt.

Twenty-four suffragettes and 12 of the unemployed were placed under arrest. Many persons fainted in the crush; a few were trampled upon and taken to the hospitals.

Mrs. Pankhurst, Miss Christabel Pankhurst and Mrs. Lawrence were summoned to court Monday for inciting a breach of the peace. Yesterday morning they coolly refused to obey the summons, but agreed to surrender themselves at Police Court in the evening, which they did, spending the night in the Bow street station.

The suffragettes and unemployed have kept practically the whole police force on duty continuously for forty-three hours.

A Grain Blockade.

Moosejaw, Oct. 14.—There is a serious car shortage in Moosejaw at the present time. Every elevator in town is full and farmers without loads of wheat are being turned away. Only three cars a day are being furnished by the C.P.R. Reports from country points tell a similar story. Farmers have large quantities of wheat still in fields, and the supply of cars is extremely limited.

Wants Bigger Navy.

Boston, Aug. 14.—Declaring that Japan was ready to make insulting demands of the United States did she dare, and that the only way to guard against such was to increase the navy, U. S. Senator Henry Cabot Lodge launched into a stirring and vigorous plea for a bigger and better navy at a Republican ratification meeting in Tremont Temple.

Typhoid at Regina Barracks.

Regina, Sask., Oct. 14.—An epidemic of typhoid fever has broken out at the police barracks here, and thirteen cases are now being treated in the Military Hospital. Only two nurses are available for all these patients.

Everything Is Ready For Meet; Over 100 Entries Are At Hand; The Band And "Mr. E." There

There promises to be a big crowd at the Brock street rink to-night for the Athletic Meet under the auspices of the Otonabee A. C., which organization is to be congratulated upon its enterprise in providing such a grand programme. With the 57th Band and the Mysterious "Mr. E." as added attractions and with large fields in every event "it looks like a big night to-night." Four teams are now in for the mile relay race which will be one of the big features and the Y.M.C.A. Harriers, T. A. S. Athletic Club, Otonabee Athletic Club and the Chieftain Athletic Club will battle for the honours.

"Mr. E." will be on hand and no doubt the slewths will give him an anxious period during the intervals.

Following is the programme:

60 yards, junior.
50 yards, senior.
One mile relay race.

Great Scores Are Being Run Up By The Local Cracks

Some of the best scores of the season have been hung up in practice at the P.B.C. alleys this week, and if Cairns, Parnell, Baker, Hoolihan, Lawless and a few others maintain their present gait some records are sure to go by the boards during the coming tournament.

Cairns' work was the feature last night, the captain of the Examiner team piling up an average of 200 for four consecutive games. Two or three other members exceeded the 200 mark for three games, while high single scores were made by Parnell and Hoolihan, both of whom will bear watching during the tournament, which starts on Friday night.

"If the Prince could only see me now," chuckled Jim Hoolihan last night as he made three lucky strikes.

Geo. Cairns indignantly denies the report that he is buying a ball with five holes in it. He has developed a new "bounce" ball that is said to be a hummer.

Rolly Glover has been requested by the committee to cut out the hook ball during the coming tournament.

"I'll guarantee to make a 300 score if they'll only set the pins up in the gutter," gurgled Sam Baker, as he sadly watched a ball roll into the ditch.

"There's nothing like threshing operations to put a man in shape for this game," Frank Lawless was heard to remark as he made his fourth successive strike. Then he ran into a 7-10 split, and now he has quit farming.

Jim Hoolihan and Sam Sharpe offer to roll any two men in or out of Peterborough whose combined ages exceed the 100 mark.

It's up to some George street merchant to challenge Jack Cocks for the championship of the street.

Joe Pollard was seen heading toward the station last night and it is rumoured that he has gone to Omemee to hunt up a few new rollers for his General Electric team.

Pete Lang is out with a challenge to bowl any man in Peterborough if he is allowed to roll with the alley brush.

Lew McCarroll has put his team on a straight diet in preparation for the tournament. Wild rice and nuts form the staple articles prescribed.

Chief Adams has several lucrative offers to roll with other teams in the tournament, but has declined them all and will stick with Lillies Big Five.

Says the Toronto Star's alley poet:

Farewell, farewell, sweet Arabelle,
You'll have to stay at home,
While round about the alleys
In ecstacy I roam.

The bowling season's on again,
I've got to know the score;
I love you, dearest Arabelle,
But I love the alleys more

AMATEUR WRESTLING CHAMPIONSHIP

May be Decided in Peterborough at the Y.M.C.A.

It is possible that Peterborough will be honoured by having the C.A.A.U. amateur wrestling championship tournament held here this spring. If so it will be conducted under the auspices of the Y.M.C.A. Mr. W. Collings, the energetic physical director of the local institution, is doing all in his power to have it brought here, and should receive the unqualified encouragement and support of the Board of Directors. The Board meets to-night and, at the meeting the matter will come up for consideration.

From an athletic standpoint the tourney is a most important one and would beyond a doubt, prove quite profitable in a financial way. Besides it would bespeak much for the enterprise of the physical department of the Peterborough Y.M.C.A.

ENLISTING YANKEE YELLOWNESS UNPATRIOTIC AND TRAITOROUS

Review's Eager Quotation of Yankee Yellow Journal Slanders Vigorously Condemned—Conservative Candidate's Tactical Mistake Will Cost Him Votes

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—There are three facts about which you, the Liberal and Conservative candidates and the Review, will all agree, and these are, that I have always been a Liberal, that heretofore I have been a very active Liberal and that in the present contest I have not taken any part whatever. In fact, being a subscriber, I have recently been a constant reader of the Review—and I dare say I have been counted as among the old Liberals who were going to vote against the Liberal candidate at this time. Be that as it may, any doubt as to my course was entirely eliminated by "An American View of the G.T.P." published with a double leaded header in the Review last night.

I will not state that the article was prepared by some cheap politicians here and sent over there for publication, but I will state that I do not believe there is an editor of any "influential American journal" who is such a blooming ass as to write such utter Tommy Rot and Twaddle as that article is and expect it to be taken seriously by Canadians. Is it a fact that the great Conservative party has so far departed from the fair and become so unpatriotic as to employ the Yankees to assist them to power?

Does not every person know, who knows anything about our country, that the great need of Canada is transportation? That our fertile plains of the West are useless unless we can provide a means of bringing their produce to the market? Whatever excuse there might be in being pessimistic about the C.P.R. in our then ignorance of our heritage, there is none whatever for such a course against the G.T.P., unless it be that the Conservative party believes the end justifies the means—even though that means may lay them open to the charge of being not only disloyal, but even traitors to our country.

I can't swallow that Yankee-Tommy-Twaddle, its too unpatriotic for me and although I had not intended to take an active part in this election, in fact, had not fully decided how I'd vote, I want to say that if I am at any use to the Liberal candidate at this time, all he has to do command me, (and I enclose my card.) I will certainly be very much surprised if that "Yankee view" does not cost Mr. Burnham many votes.

Thanking you for space,

Yours truly,
CANADIAN.

Peterborough, Oct. 14, 1908.

Toronto Live Stock.

TORONTO, Oct. 13.—Receipts of live stock at the City Market, as reported by the railways, were 108 carloads, composed of 1251 cattle, 1121 hogs, 3155 sheep and lambs and 163 calves.

Exporters.

There were none reported, excepting a few that might be picked out of the loads of butchers. Export steers of good quality are worth about $5; bulls, $3.50 to $4, and real choice quality bulls would bring $4.25, or perhaps a trifle more.

Butchers.

Good to choice quality butchers were quoted as selling at from $4.25 to $4.70; medium, $3.70 to $4; cows, $2.50 to $4; choppers and bulls, $1 to $3.25 per cwt.

Feeders and Stockers.

Few good quality feeders or stockers were on sale. H. & W. Murby report a fair demand for the best, but the common are slow of sale. Messrs. Murby bought 150, ranging in weight from 900 to 1050 lbs., and quote feeders at $3.40 to $3.75 for good, and $2.75 to $3.25 for medium; common stockers, $2.25 to $2.50 per cwt.

Milkers and Springers.

There was, as usual, a fair delivery of milkers and springers, amongst which were some of good to choice quality, which sold at $50 to $65, and one at $66. The demand from Montreal is the chief factor in keeping prices where they are. The average price was around $50.

Veal Calves.

Receipts light, with prices steady, at $3 to $6.50 for the bulk, with a very few new, milk-fed calves at $7 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Over 3000 sheep and lambs were on sale, which caused prices to go lower, especially for lambs. Export ewes sold at $3.25 to $3.50; rams, $2.50 to $3.75; lambs, $4 to $4.70 per cwt.

Hogs.

Mr. Harris quoted prices lower, as follows: Selects, fed and watered, $6.25, and lights at $6 per cwt.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, Oct. 13.—Cattle—Receipts, 200 head; slow and steady; prime steers, $5.75 to $6.25.

Veals—Receipts, 250 head; active and 25c lower, $3 to $9.

Hogs—Receipts, 12,000 head; slow; heavy steady; others 10c to 15c lower; mixed, $6.40 to $6.45; yorkers, $6.40 to $6.45; pigs, $6.40 to $6.45; roughs, $5 to $5.50; stags, one-third off; dairies and grassers, $6.25.

New York Live Stock.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Beeves—Receipts, 671; feeling steady. Liverpool and London cattle and beef markets unchanged. Exports to-day, none.

Calves—Receipts, 627. Nothing; veals about steady; grassers easier; veals, $7 to $9.50; culls, $4.50; grassers, $5.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 3000; market steady; sheep, $3.25 to $4; culls, $2; lambs, $4.25 to $5.75; culls, $3.50 to $4.

Hogs—Receipts, 7400; feeling steady.

Chicago Live Stock.

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—Cattle—Receipts estimated at about 3000; market steady; steers, $4.40 to $7.75; cows, $3.25 to $5.25; heifers, $3 to $4.25; bulls, $3.50 to $4.50; calves, $3.50 to $6.50; stockers and feeders, $3.40 to $4.65.

Hogs—Receipts estimated at about 35,000; market 10c to 15c lower; choice heavy shipping, $6.35 to $6.45; butchers, $6 to $6.35; light mixed, $6.35 to $6.45; choice light, $6.30 to $6.40; packing, $5.70 to $6.30; pigs, $3.50 to $6.30; bulk of sales, $5.70 to $6.25.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts estimated at about 12,000; market steady; sheep, $4.25 to $4.75; lambs, $4.75 to $5.85; yearlings, $5.25 to $5.

Cheese Markets.

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 12.—At a meeting of the cheese board held here to-day, 700 boxes offered; 215 sold at 12c, balance at 11 5-16c. Board adjourned for two weeks.

Convent Opened.

Wallaceburg, Ont., Oct. 14.—The ceremony in connection with the formal opening of the Ursuline Convent was celebrated here yesterday by His Grace, Archbishop McEvoy, D.D., of Toronto.

Mr. E. Is Still At Large

The Mysterious one as he personally tells on the front page of this issue had a comparatively easy time yesterday but may be captured any minute.

The Mysterious "Mr. E."

Of The Peterborough Examiner

Had no difficulty in making his entry into the Roller Rink last night, but believes he will take one of the most daring chances of his career when he

Will Visit The Otonabee A. C. Meet at Brock Street Rink To-Night

Come everbody, join in the fun, attend the Athletic Meet to-night, comply with the conditions of the contest, study his photos in Thos. Barrie's windows and you will stand a splendid chance of being the lucky captor.

CONDITIONS OF THE CONTEST

The Mysterious "Mr. E." commenced operations in this city at Midnight on Monday, October 12th, 1908 and defies any person to catch him before 8 p. m. on Saturday, October 17th 1908. Should you meet a smooth faced man in any section of Peterborough during the time of the contest who you think is The Mysterious "Mr. E." put your hand on his right shoulder and say:—

"You are the Mysterious "Mr. E" of The Peterborough Examiner"

If he is the right man he will immediately accompany you to the Examiner Office where one of the following prizes will be paid you.

1. If you have the latest edition of the Examiner on your person at the time of the capture you get.....$25.00

2. If you have the latest edition and have subscribed for 3 months, between October 12 and 17th inclusive.....$20.00

3. If you have the latest edition and have subscribed for 6 months, between October 12 and 17th inclusive.....$40.00

4. If you have the latest edition and have subscribed for 1 year between October 12 and 17th inclusive.....$250.00 IN GOLD

The Mysterious "Mr. E." must absolutely be captured by someone

$313 IN GOLD

Is the grand total prize money now offered for his capture. Just think of that handsome sum for somebody who keeps his eyes open.

Remember the perplexing one wears no facial disguise, paint, wigs, powder, but depends on his 30 Different Costumes to evade detection. He acts under the personal direction of L. Hayden O'Connor and George Felix Green. Watch out for "Mr. E." McLaughlin-Buck Car.

Did You Notice Him?

ADDITIONAL REWARDS

Mr. G. L. Stevens offers the sum of $100.00 in Gold if "Mr. E's" captor has placed an order with him before the capture for any style of New McLaughlin-Buck Automobile, to be delivered between now and the first of January.

Yeotes Bros., offer $5.00 if the person who captures "Mr. E" has had his shoes shined the same day, at the Peterboro' Shoe Shine Parlour.
